Senate unanimously approves O'Connor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, ending an all-male tradition nearly two centuries old, unanimously confirmed Sandra Day O'Connor as its associate justice of the Supreme Court on Monday.

Mrs. O'Connor, a 51-year-old Arizona state appeals judge, will be sworn in Friday as the 102nd associate justice in the 191-year history of the court, in time to join the court for the opening of its 1981-82 term on October 5.

"Today is truly a historic occasion," said Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, leading off a series of 22 speeches in warm praise of President Reagan's first high court nominee.

As the vote neared, a small knot of conservatives who had questioned Mrs. O'Connor's views on abortions fell into line behind her nomination.

Jesse Helms, R-N.C., leader of the most conservative bloc of Senate Republicans, voted for Mrs. O'Connor, saying although she wouldn't say so publicly, he believes she opposes the 1973 high court decision legalizing most abortions.

A graduate of Stanford University Law School, she worked as a state prosecutor in Arizona before serving terms in both houses of the state legislature.

A former majority leader of the Arizona Senate, Mrs. O'Connor served as a state trial court judge and was later named by Gov. Bruce Babbitt to the Arizona Court of Appeals.

Nothing Reagan has done in his eight months as president has won such broad support and acclaim from so many sides of the political spectrum on Capitol Hill.

Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation represents a major political victory amid growing opposition to the president's economic, diplomatic and military programs.

In three days of testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Mrs. O'Connor said she finds abortion personally offensive, but declined to give her constitutional view of whether a woman has a legal right to end a pregnancy.

Abortion was the only issue on which any opposition developed surrounding Reagan's choice to replace retiring Potter Stewart on the high court.

Only a few senators were on the floor Monday during four hours of debate set aside for the nomination, and there was effusive praise from liberals and conservatives of both parties.

SIU needs to utilize television, Shaw says

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

The television show, "Mission in Partnership: The SIU System," is an attempt by SIU to make people more aware of what the school system has to offer, Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said Monday.

The 30-minute show was broadcast Thursday night on public television stations Channel 8 in Carbondale and Channel 16 in Olney and rebroadcast Sunday night on WSIL-TV, Channel 3 in Harrisburg.

Shaw said the program was "an attempt to begin taking seriously the changes that are occurring in the electronic media," and using those changes to show how the SIU system is dealing with four problems that face the nation and Southern Illinois.

The program dealt with the problems of changes in the makeup of the U.S. population, inflation, the quality of life and dwindling productivity.

By using the public broadcasting stations, which are carried by "15 or 20 cable stations," Shaw said, the broadcast enabled people outside the area to see the show.

Gus Bode

Gus says Laverne and Shirley don't have anything to worry about yet.

There's a real need to communicate what SIU is doing, Shaw said, and "for a large number of people, cable TV is the medium they prefer."

The University is not changing its public relations approach of emphasizing teaching, research and service, even though service is being emphasized more, Shaw said.

"The new twist is using the electronic media, which we need to learn a great deal more about, especially in cable TV," Shaw said.

Sending tapes of the show to other cable stations in the state "is being thought about," Shaw said. "Basically we have given any station the opportunity to use it, and Channel 3 elected to use it."

The show, which is narrated by Shaw, explains how the various SIU campuses are doing research, including developing drought-resistant soybeans, aimed at Southern Illinois crops. Research on increasing efficiency in the utilization of coal and solar energy was also emphasized.

"Naturally there's no question that research money is being cut back," Shaw said, "but more importantly, basic research lies at the heart of our dealing with those four problems. The pitch is to attempt to explain how important basic research is to our country."

Shaw also emphasized the importance of higher education in cooperating with big business, government and labor.

Shaw said he hasn't received a lot of response to the show yet, "but I think it's a little too early to tell."

Year for Action funds granted; thirty students to keep jobs

By David Murphy
and Mike Anthony
Staff Writers

Federal funding for the University Year for Action has been guaranteed for a fifth and final year, ending the threatened elimination of 30 student jobs sponsored by the program, according to Samuel Goldman, dean of the College of Human Resources.

Officials of other local human service agencies which had funding requests denied will meet Tuesday in Chicago with ACTION officials to seek restoration of the funding.

Funding for the UYA program was unexpectedly denied by VISTA this year because of program inadequacies, Goldman said. He received a letter three weeks ago, notifying him of the action.

The letter questioned the attainability of UYA's objectives, its timeliness for achieving results and whether it was really addressing the kinds of poverty problems VISTA is interested in.

Goldman flew to Washington to meet with James Burnley, director of VISTA. Burnley reconsidered SIU-C's request.

"We rewrote our goals and plans, explaining how our programs would impact the agencies and people involved," Goldman said. "Burnley informed me in a phone conversation Friday that we will receive the originally requested amount of $78,000 to support 30 student interns."

The UYA program began in 1977 to allow students to learn by living and working in the community. Students in the program work at the Carbondale Senior Citizen's Center, the Jackson County Youth Services Bureau and 18 other local human service agencies.

This will be the last year the program will receive federal funding, Goldman said. The program will be funded solely by the University in the future.

"This is the year we're concluding planning for the program, and it will be funded as a continuing program after this," Goldman said.

Representatives of other VISTA programs which had funding requests denied will be in Chicago Tuesday to urge regional ACTION officials to reconsider the denials. ACTION is VISTA's parent program.

The decision to deny funding for up to 17 positions was made in late August by Michael Doyle, Regional Director of ACTION. Affected organizations are the Attucks Community Board, the Makanda Community Development Council, the Shawnee Solar Project, the United Front and the Southern Illinois Peoples Development Cooperative Corporation.

Jim Hanson, president of SIPDC, has charged that the decision to deny funding is a politically motivated attempt to deprive low income people of participation in community affairs.

Reagan, Duarte discuss El Salvadoran tensions

WASHINGTON (AP) — El Salvador's President Jose Napoleon Duarte briefed President Reagan on Monday about the ongoing strife in the Caribbean nation, claiming little or no hope for a negotiated peace between his regime and rebel forces.

But a high U.S. official, specifically citing the initiative by Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, said the United States would support an effort by "any friendly force" in Latin America to mediate the strife in El Salvador.

Reagan and Duarte, accompanied by aides, conferred for 20 minutes in the Oval Office. Duarte also met privately with Vice President George Bush.

Duarte insisted he did not ask Reagan for additional military and financial aid, but the senior

American official, who asked not to be named, said the Salvadoran president noted, "We do have economic and military problems."

Mexico and France have jointly called for negotiations between the El Salvador government and leftist insurgents. As recently as last week, U.S. officials declared they "didn't consider this to be helpful."

But Lopez Portillo and Reagan reportedly narrowed their policy differences over El Salvador during their meeting late last week in Grand Rapids, Mich.

And he said that in the Reagan-Duarte meeting, "There was some discussion of the potential role of President Lopez Portillo and others in the region."

Haig blasts Soviets, announces new foreign economic policy

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. Monday told the United Nations that the Soviet Union and Vietnam are threatening all sovereign nations and the U.N. itself by their intervention in Afghanistan and Cambodia.

Haig also unveiled a new Reagan administration strategy for promoting economic development of poor nations—a plan that puts greater emphasis on private investment and less on government aid.

With Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in the audience, Haig had harsh words for the Soviet Union—which could set the stage for a confrontation when he meets with the Soviet leader here Wednesday.

"One of the great dangers to the U.N. charter today and to development itself is the willful violation of the national integrity of both Afghanistan and Cambodia by the Soviet Union and Vietnam," Haig said in his first speech to the General Assembly. "Their behavior challenges the basic rights of all sovereign states."

He said he hoped the day would never come when the world accepts the idea that "might makes right."

Gromyko and Soviet Ambassador to the United States Anatoly Dobrynin sat quietly throughout Haig's speech. Gromyko will deliver his own address to the General Assembly on Tuesday.

Haig's words were received with polite but unenthusiastic applause.

Haig's meetings with Gromyko on Wednesday and again next Monday will mark the highest level of contact yet between the Reagan administration and the Soviet leadership.

The purpose is to plan formal negotiations aimed at restraining deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe, although Haig said he will raise other issues, including Afghanistan, Cambodia and Poland. He said Sunday he will tell Gromyko that the Soviets must not intervene militarily in Poland if they want improved relations with the United States.

Soviet troops that entered Afghanistan to join the government's fight against Moslem rebels remain there almost two years later despite an international outcry. Soviet-backed Vietnamese remain in Cambodia where they ousted the previous communist government and installed a new one.

Haig also discussed the new Reagan plan to aid poor nations. "A strategy for growth that depends on a massive increase in the transfer of resources from developed to developing countries is simply unrealistic," Haig said.

"We do believe that our collective responsibilities for the future allow no more time to be lost in sterile debates and unrealistic demands," he added. "The time has come for a reasoned dialogue with promise for the future."

Soviets, Solidarity trade accusations

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Solidarity union locals, responding to the Kremlin's furious accusations of anti-Sovietism, countered Monday with angry charges of Soviet intervention in Poland.

The independent union summoned its top leaders to Gdansk for a strategy session Tuesday, where union chief Lech Walesa was expected to preside over the drafting of an official response to the Soviet warning.

The Soviet news agency Tass lashed out again Monday, accusing the local chapters of creating "acute conflict situations aimed at overthrowing the existing system," according to a dispatch from Warsaw.

It said Solidarity was preparing to seize power on the assumption that "the authorities cannot offer serious resistance."

Workers at a paper factory in Niedomice issued a sharp response on Monday to the Kremlin attack.

"Setting a sovereign government against a sovereign nation is a clear interference in the affairs of our country. Saying and writing the truth, showing it in the theaters and cinemas is what the Communist Party Central Committee and the Soviet Union's government call anti-Sovietism."

"Solidarity won't let anyone scare it anymore," Solidarity hospital workers in Tarnow said. "Is this the threat of intervention of our ally in Poland's internal affairs?" the workers' statement asked.

Eastern Bloc attacks and criticism by Poland's ruling Communist Party have grown steadily harsher in tone since Sept. 8 when Solidarity adopted a resolution at its congress encouraging the formation of free trade unions in other bloc countries.

News Roundup

Nuclear plant gets federal approval

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Operators of the Diablo Canyon atomic power plant got a federal go-ahead to begin testing Monday, as protests aimed at keeping workers from reaching the facility stretched into a second week and arrests mounted to 1,310.

In Washington, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission spent less than 15 minutes on discussion before voting 5-0 to grant a low-power operating permit to the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

PG&E began checking its fuel and equipment and said it might be days before loading could begin. "We will start the process immediately," said PG&E spokesman Dick Davin.

Benefits recommended for hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential commission recommended Monday that the Americans held hostage in Iran be paid $12.50 for each day of the 44-day ordeal.

If approved by Congress, the proposed tax-free benefit would total about $5,500 for each of 51 hostages who were released last January. Hostages freed earlier also would receive $12.50 per day of captivity. The benefits are in addition to regular salaries.

The nine-member panel also suggested that the government pay for treatment, without time limit, of any emotional or physical problems the hostages may be suffering from as a result of their confinement.

Transport plane crash kills 7

INDIAN SPRINGS AIR FIELD, Nev. (AP) — An Air Force C-130 transport plane carrying Army troops on a nighttime training mission crash-landed and burned early Monday as it approached a darkened desert air strip, killing seven soldiers and hospitalizing 20 others.

The four engine turbo-prop was carrying 68 people, including nine crew members, when it hit the desert floor and skidded before bursting into flames about three-quarters of a mile short of the runway at Indian Springs at 12:20 a.m.

"The sky was aglow, the plane was totally engulfed in flames," said Jessica Hilt, 25, a helicopter rescue nurse who flew to the scene. "There were a lot of men with arm and leg fractures. It was miraculous that there were no more serious injuries."

Student Senate to discuss view on Athletics Fee referendum

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

The Student Senate Wednesday night will discuss its position on the upcoming athletics fee referendum.

While the senate is expected to take no official stance, USO President Todd Rogers said he will present information obtained from USO meetings with the Graduate Student Council and Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne.

"The main thing we will be looking at will be the combination of factors in what we expect of the future of the athletics program and what the student support for that program will be," Rogers said.

On the referendum, students will be asked if they want to retain a $30 athletics fee or lower it to $20, cutting the athletics budget by $400,000.

If the fee is reduced, the football program may be dropped, Rogers said.

The senate will consider their perceptions and their future expectations of the new administrative leaders in the athletics program, Rogers said. The senate will also consider how much the students should support the athletics program; with fees, athletics fees at other state universities and the amount of student input in the athletics program, Rogers said.

SIU-C President Albert Somit said he will not let student input

"supercede" his judgment, Rogers said. However, Somit said he will use the results of the Oct. 14 advisory referendum in making his recommendation to the Board of Trustees, which makes the final decision on all fee changes at SIU-C.

The board voted for a one-year, temporary, $10 increase in the fee in December of 1979, to avoid a deficit in the athletics budget. Last April the board voted to keep the fee at $30 for another year.

At the meeting the USO will also officially establish the Minority Affairs Commission to listen to concerns of international, handicapped and black students, according to USO Chief of Staff Jerry Cook.

Water district denied injunction against city

By Bob Bondurant
Staff Writer

A request by the Murdale Water District for a preliminary injunction halting hookups by the City of Carbondale to Murdale consumers was denied Monday by a Jackson County Circuit Court judge.

Judge Bill Green refused to dismiss the complaint filed by William Ridgeway and Herbert McMeen, the attorneys representing Murdale, and ordered Carbondale to answer the complaint for a permanent injunction within 21 days.

Green ruled that the condition of the dispute between Murdale and Carbondale "did not warrant the emergency order of the court intervening," McMeen said. The preliminary injunction's function is to provide an "extraordinary type of relief," he added.

"Murdale continues to feel that this is an emergency situation," McMeen said. But, "the court has spoken."

There have been seven hookups—six in the past week—made by Carbondale since late August, when Styrest Nursing Home became the first building on Tower Road to begin receiving Carbondale water.

Twenty-six homeowners on Tower Road agreed to change their water service from Murdale to Carbondale last month, in an effort to bring the dispute between Carbondale and the water district to the courts.

The dispute centers on how much Carbondale should pay Murdale for water district property that is within land that has been annexed to the city.

Student Center parking lot to expand

By Douglas Hamm
Staff Writer

A 94-space addition to the Student Center's metered parking lot will open Tuesday, according to Marilyn Hogan, campus parking manager.

The new addition is south of the present lot next to the Travel Service garage. Its opening will increase the number of metered parking spaces from 218 to 312.

Hogan said the Key Control office finished installing meters in the lot on Monday. The parking rates will remain the same—25 cents per hour—and all students, faculty and staff must have a decal to park there.

Hogan said the new addition is needed because whenever there is a conference or a meeting at the Student Center, the parking is inadequate. She said the new parking lot may "occasionally" be closed if a specific conference can guarantee filling the first lot.

Hogan also said the Parking Division began ticketing illegally parked bicycles on Monday. A $3 fine will be imposed on all bicycles not parked in racks and any bicycle without a registered decal will be confiscated, she said. Proof of ownership is necessary to regain a confiscated bicycle.

Hogan said the bicycle racks at the east end of the Student Center and at the northeast side of Lawson Hall are never full and can be used to avoid a bicycle ticket.

Garage door openers called dangerous

EVANSTON (AP)—A pediatrician says automatic devices that close garage doors can be extremely dangerous and already have been responsible for the deaths of two children.

Dr. Leon Satran, a pediatrician at the University of Minnesota, detailed the fatalities in the current issue of the journal Pediatrics.

In one case, he said a 6-year-old girl was playing with friends in a garage. The children tried to leave as the door was closing after a car drove away, apparently playing a game. The girl was trapped under the door and died of asphyxiation.

In the second incident, a 3-year-old boy was trapped under the door and pronounced dead at a hospital.

Although it was not known who activated the controls of the door, the boy's mother often scolded him for playing with the controls, the journal reported.

Opinion & Commentary

A chance to sound off on athletics questions

Ever get the feeling the University administrators aren't listening to you, the student?

They'll be listening Wednesday. Students, along with faculty, staff and interested members of the public, are invited to a hearing on SIU-C athletics to be held from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. in Ballroom C of the Student Center.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs and chief administrator for athletics, will chair the meeting along with acting Men's Athletics Director Lew Hartzog and Women's Athletic Director Charlotte West. They will hear opinions on such controversial subjects as whether to keep the athletics fee at $30 a semester and whether the men's and women's athletics program should be combined.

More concrete evidence of how students feel about the fee will probably be provided by an advisory referendum to be held Oct. 14. President Albert Somit has already indicated that he will note the outcome of that vote, although he will not let it interfere with his own judgment about the fee.

The administration has already received some input on athletics problems from a campus-wide study group. That committee's report, released last December, recommended a referendum to see if students want to keep the fee at $30 or scale it back to $20.

If the higher fee is abolished, the report said, options administrators could take include replacing football with soccer or dropping football to the 1AA level and eliminating a combination of such sports as men's baseball, golf, tennis and wrestling, and women's badminton, golf, softball and volleyball.

But the hearing tomorrow won't amount to an old sweat sock to the administrators if nobody shows up. If only 10 people are there to present their opinions, the administrators may feel there isn't enough interest in the subject among students and that they may do as they please on these issues.

Letters

WSIU management responds

During the past weeks questions have been raised concerning programming changes adopted for the fall schedule of WSIU-FM, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale's Public Radio Station.

These changes—undertaken in a continuing effort to upgrade the overall program quality and sound of WSIU-FM—have met both considerable favor and disfavor with our listening audience.

Because of the volume of responses and our small staff, it has been impossible to answer all questions, or to provide a personal response to all inquiries. We have read all letters with interest and concern, and have acknowledged all inquiries. It is gratifying to know that we have such a loyal and committed audience.

The opinions of all our listeners are important to those of us associated with WSIU-FM and those opinions play an important part in the ongoing programming decisions we make. Unfortunately, we are unable to please all of our listeners all of the time. No station—public or commercial—can do that.

There has been a positive response to our efforts to provide more continuity and overall program quality. These responses have centered mostly around our excellent locally produced "classical" music programs, as well as the nostalgic selections such as music of the '30s, '40s, '50s, "Morning Edition," and "All Things Considered."

Much of the negative response we have received has centered on the decision to move the program "Black Impressions" from its previous time slot to one we consider more desirable and the elimination of the program "Prairie Home Companion."

The new time slot for "Black Impressions" falls largely in prime broadcast time, which means that more people will have the opportunity to listen to this program. Reducing the show's length is a move dictated mainly by financial concern. WSIU-FM can no longer afford to remain on the air 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

However, what "Black Impressions" has lost in quantity it is regaining in production quality, an objective that WSIU-FM is striving for in all of its programming.

The elimination of "Prairie Home Companion" in our schedule, stemmed primarily from considerations about continuity and program flow. Its time slot on Saturdays has been filled by "All Things Considered," an exceptional news and information magazine-type show that now airs at 5:00 p.m. seven days a week, instead of six, as before; and "The Essence of Jazz," which kicks off a full evening of jazz programming.

The absence of "Prairie Home Companion" has caused concern with a number of our listeners. Restoration of this program is being considered in our regular ongoing evaluation of WSIU-FM's programming. So will other changes that might better serve our listening audience. Given its resources, WSIU-FM is committed to serving as many listeners as possible, while maintaining the quality and integrity of its broadcast product.

Listener feedback is very important in our effort to evaluate WSIU-FM's success in achieving its goal—serving the Southern Illinois community with quality alternative programming.

The stations of the SIU-C Broadcasting Service are committed to serving the listening and viewing public. Public response to our programming efforts is encouraged and appreciated. This response is the barometer by which we measure our success or failure, and it is the lifeblood of Public Broadcasting. Jim Moore, Director of SIU-C Broadcasting Service; General Manager, WSIU-FM-TV, WUSI-TV.

Democrats can sit back and wait for a judgment on Reaganomics

PERHAPS President Reagan should not be expected to offer a balanced assessment of his achievements so far. He certainly didn't when, in an interview with Fortune magazine, he was asked whether his administration might be "just a four-year blip off the long-term national direction." He responded:

"No, I feel that we did just about a 180 degree turn in the course of government, and I'd like to feel that it reflects what the people out there are thinking."

Leave aside the question of in what sense it can ever be said that the people "out there" are thinking about the course of government. But it should be said that Reagan's statement, like other persons' hyperbole about a "Reagan revolution," is notably unhistorical.

NOTHING Reagan has done or aspires to do is comparable to what Franklin Roosevelt did in the mid-1930s. FDR altered, fundamentally and irrevocably, the relationship between the citizen and the central government. That government assumed responsibility for the nation's economic health—the aggregate economic output—and for a minimum material well-being of the individual.

If Reagan wants to repeal those federal responsibilities (a repeal that would constitute a real revolution), he has not said so. And he had better not. If Carter had succeeded in portraying Reagan as bent on repealing the New Deal and dismantling the welfare state, Carter might have carried 44 states.

George F. Will

REAGAN'S most "revolutionary" measure is said to be the cut in personal income taxes. But that cut is primarily a measure to enable people to run in place, a measure to counter the silent, unlegislated tax increases imposed by inflation.

Analysis of the 1980 election results does not reveal a call for a 180 degree turn. Reagan's 10 percentage-point margin of victory over his Democratic opponent was impressive, but it was only the ninth biggest margin in the 21 elections in this century. It was smaller than three Democratic victories (1932, 1936, 1964) and five Republican victories (1920, 1924, 1928, 1956, 1972). And Reagan's electoral margin should be seen primarily as Carter's electoral deficit.

REAGAN HAS so improved the nation's mood that it is hard to recall how sour was the mood about Carter. In January 1960, Eisenhower's job-approval rating was 57 percent. Ford's was 45 percent in the summer of 1976. Truman's was 32 percent in June 1952. But Carter's record-smashing collapse put him at 21 percent in June 1980.

In a Yankelovich poll in January 1981, 63 percent said that the primary reason for Reagan's victory was dismay about Carter. Only 24 percent called it a mandate for conservatism.

WILLIAM Schneider of the Hoover Institution at Stanford, writing in a volume published by American Enterprise Institute, says the electorate was not "convinced" about conservatism, but was tolerant about it, willing to give it a chance. Schneider says every election offers a "plebiscitary choice" a chance to say how the government is being run; and an "ideological choice" a chance to say which candidate or party comes closest to one's ideological beliefs. Carter's campaign strategy was to emphasize the ideological choice. Reagan struggled successfully to make the election turn on the plebiscitary choice.

That is, Reagan won because he kept the election from being a referendum on conservative ideology.

IT IS NOT true that Republicans won because they have "ideas," or the Democrats desperately need to originate some ideas. Certainly, they need Jacksonism—part Andrew, part Scoop; balanced-budget liberalism, laced with nationalism. But what they most need are Republican mistakes.

Mistakes by those in power make an opposition party seem intellectual. Democratic mistakes made the GOP seem intellectual, so it can happen to absolutely any party. Thus the Democratic Party can sit back and wait to see how sturdy is the basket of economic theories into which Republicans have put all their eggs. —(C) 1981, The Washington Post Company

Water system conflicts could have been avoided

By Bob Rondurant
Staff Writer

The present conflict between the city of Carbondale and the Murdale Water District is one that could have been and should have been avoided. It seems to be very complex, but in reality it is very simple.

Murdale serves about 500 buildings that have over the course of time, been annexed to the city of Carbondale. Carbondale had the legal right to service those buildings, but Murdale has the right to be compensated for the loss of its property.

The problem boils down to how much Carbondale should pay for the Murdale water system. The estimates vary greatly, with Murdale naturally attaching the greater value to its property.

Negotiations have dragged on over six years. Finally in May, after Murdale backed out of an agreement made a month previously, Carbondale decided to start some sort of action to bring the dispute into the courts. From that moment on, the chain of events became increasingly predictable, as each side played its hand. The whole matter is ending up in the courts.

The request for an injunction which has been filed by attorney William Ridgeway in behalf of Murdale, to stop the latest string of connections by Carbondale of 26 Tower Road residents who agreed last month to change their water service to Carbondale, is putting some of the finishing touches to a grand chess game.

The only problem with the process is that it is much more time consuming than necessary. Both sides have thrown their temper tantrums, which have cost time and caused aggravation to a number of people and unnecessary confusion and anxiety to the Tower Road 26.

If Carbondale was so clear in its purpose of bringing the matter to a decision, why was it necessary to go through the involved maneuvers of the past month and a half? Is it too unreasonable to suppose that the two sides could have saved frayed tempers by getting together and agreeing to go to court?

The conflicts which needed to be resolved in the first place can now be met, if the two sides involved will quit quibbling over who drew which line and crossed over, and establish the cost to be paid, a figure that should have been established a long time ago.

If the two sides could have agreed to an arbitrator of some sort, even some of the court costs might have been avoided, but for some reason, it has been impossible to even settle on a way to figure out how much the equipment is worth.

University acted properly in handling Iranian fracas

By David Murphy
Staff Writer

It seems that the citizens of Iran have a hard time keeping their political differences to themselves, or confining those differences to the boundaries of their own country.

First, as all the world knows, they seized our Tehran embassy and held 52 Americans hostage 44 days. During most of that time, the Iranians alternately insulted America and then insulted each other as they tried to decide who would rule their country.

Now, as the name calling in Iran goes on, they have exported their differences to all parts of the globe, including the SIU-C Student Center. Recently, 30 to 40 Iranian students, belonging to at least three different organizations, engaged in a melee in the Kaskaskia Room of the Student Center. Chairs were overturned, posters were torn from the walls, and seven persons were injured, though none seriously, according to SIU police. University officials have shown admirable restraint in dealing with the fight, as they continue to search for the proper response to it.

The question of exactly what kind of disciplinary action will be taken remains unanswered. Administration officials, including Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, and Nancy Harris, director of student development, have indicated that charges will probably not be filed, pending further meetings with the students involved. That, combined with a stern warning to the combatants, appears to be the best course of action.

Swinburne has already met with faculty advisers of the groups involved. They plan to send letters to the members of the groups, emphasizing freedom of expression and intellectual tolerance. Harris has said she plans to meet with the students involved to determine exactly what happened and to determine if charges should be filed by the University.

The fight occurred at a Moslem meeting which was open to the public, according to SIU police. When students supporting the Ayatollah Khomeini refused to allow anti-Khomeini students to speak, tempers flared and the fight erupted, police said. The pro-Khomeini students refused to press charges, however, and no arrests were made.

There is some confusion about what groups were involved, according to Harris, but she said they included members of the Moslem Student Society, the Iranian-Moslem Association and the Iranian Student Association.

The University faces a dilemma in deciding whether to take harsh disciplinary action. It could be argued that those involved in the fight deserve more than a mere verbal reprimand. Engaging in fist fights on University property is a violation of the student code and could carry penalties up to and including temporary or indefinite suspension from classes.

There is also no doubt that violent resolution of differences of opinion is not the kind of behavior which the University hopes to cultivate in its students. The whole point of the University environment is to encourage reasoned discussion. It is a place for tolerance. It is, or should be, a place to find peaceful solutions.

Perhaps because of this, University officials seem to recognize that a harsh reaction is uncalled for. Those students involved in the fight were undoubtedly caught up in the heat of argument involving deeply held convictions. Their behavior, while immature, caused no lasting damage. If the college Republicans and Democrats had engaged in similar behavior it would have been embarrassing, but probably would be treated in the same way.

"We're not a police force, and we can't follow the Iranians around," Swinburne said, "but we can impress on them that the University isn't a place for them if they are not going to respect the strong ideals of others."

The University will best fill its role as a place to foster scholastic ideals if it lives up to those words.

Letters

More on Iranian fracas

I was somewhat disturbed when I read the Sept. 8 Daily Egyptian only to discover that attending a meeting in the Student Center can be as dangerous as stepping into a boxing ring.

I am referring to the violent disruption of the Iranian-Moslem Student Association's meeting, during which a group of anti-Khomeini students attacked Khomeini supporters.

Is it the policy of the SIU police to allow seven people to be injured (all of whom were Khomeini supporters) on University property while failing to take disciplinary action against the attacking group?

The reason given by the attacking group for its behavior can hardly be taken seriously. According to SIU police (who arrived after the confrontation and whose only source of information was one of the attackers), the fight began because the anti-Khomeini group was not allowed to speak at the meeting. If this accusation is true, the attackers could easily have sponsored a public meeting to express their sentiments instead of injuring seven people.

Further justification for the attack was given by Mr. Ghanbar-Najad, who claims the two groups have had problems because notices put up by the attacking group have been torn down by pro-Khomeini students. This is a flimsy excuse for such an attack.

His second reason concerns the claim that pro-Khomeini students are paid by the Iranian government to spy on anti-Khomeini students, a charge he fails to back up with evidence. In fact, the same accusation has been leveled at anti-Khomeini students—that is, that anti-Khomeini forces who have fled to the U.S. from Iran are spying on Khomeini supporters.

In addition to spying, there have been reports that anti-Khomeini forces have seriously injured people currently living in the U.S. who support the Iranian government.

Finally, I find it difficult to sympathize with someone who accuses the Iranian government of stifling political dissent while he himself took part in injuring seven people.

This incident is reminiscent of the fall semester of 1979 when Iranian students were surrounded by American students in the Student Center and forced to stay there against their will. If the Iranian situation is going to continue to be a political issue, SIU administrators and the Student Center director had better take steps to insure that students can exercise their right to free speech without being subjected to beatings and other forms of harassment. —Cecelia Murphy, Coalition of Progressive Social Scientists.

Hall of Fame program well done

Two weekends ago a program was held for the members of our University Hall of Fame.

In my judgment the whole program was very well done professionally and was a credit to our University and those administrators involved with the planning. In particular, I want to congratulate Greg Starrick for his efforts and, certainly congratulations should include Fred Huff, assistant athletics director; Rip Stokes, University photographer; and our University Graphics people.

I think the cover of the game program was a profound example of their ingenuity and their professionalism. All of you did a fine job and we thank you for it. —Bill O'Brien, Chairman, Recreation Department.

Stop griping about Shaw decision

By Chris Felker
News Editor

People should stop sniping at SIU Chancellor Kenneth Shaw and griping about the allowance for housing which will be paid him as part of his salary.

The SIU Board of Trustees was perfectly within its rights and quite fair when it voted to incorporate Shaw's housing allowance into his pay. To be sure, there are arguments of merit on both sides of this issue. But those on the chancellor's and the board's side are the more truthful and fair—at least more so than the arguments for the General Assembly's decision to remove the allowance from SIU appropriations and for fiscal restraint, which is urged sometimes more through gut reaction than reason when considering the high salaries of administrators.

When the SIU chancellorship was established in February 1979 in an administrative overhaul of the sister universities at Carbondale and Edwardsville, the Board of Trustees included provisions for entertainment, housing and transportation allowances as well as a salary of $65,000 for the new administrator. So this payment of extra money for housing is nothing new.

Chief executives of other university systems around the state are similarly treated. For example, the president of the University of Illinois System (including the Champaign-Urbana and Chicago Circle campuses and the Medical Center) was paid $7,500 last year and was provided a house, tax- and payment-free.

Shaw was provided a house when he was president of SIU-E. When he stepped up to chancellor of the SIU System, how could he have been denied either a house or a housing allowance? How can he be denied now?

Although it may be inconsistent to be paying chancellors or executive directors of university systems more than the governor of this state, the fact remains that that's the situation. If we change it here at SIU, most likely we'd be looking for a new chancellor before long.

The chancellor of a university system probably doesn't have the scope of responsibilities or go through as much stress as the governor. But the SIU chancellor has a huge job. And if Senator Ken Bugbee says he's been "a tremendous stabilizing influence within the SIU System," that's a pretty good recommendation.

The job description accompanying Shaw's job lists several pages. Shaw is the primary link between the two SIU presidents and the Board of Trustees. He is the primary contact between the board and the governor, General Assembly, Illinois Board of Higher Education and other educational agencies. The chancellor is responsible to the board for everything that goes on at both campuses, including policies, academic programs, financial matters, personnel, facilities and budgeting.

Of course, Shaw has a staff to help him in these tasks.

However, in short, Shaw deserves a housing allowance at the very least.

Now, what are the arguments on the other side?

The Daily Egyptian editorial last Tuesday said the most important negative point about the board's action was that taxpayers and students will receive "no lasting benefit whatsoever from it." Nonsense. If the housing allowance keeps Shaw here and he contributes to the SIU System's well-being, then there is a benefit that will last.

It must be conceded that the housing allowance is buying a home for Shaw and not one that may be used by subsequent chancellors. Therein lies the only flaw in the board's benevolence. If Shaw is chancellor for the next decade, that's $120,000, which, at least now, could build a nice home. In this, the housing allowance is assuredly short-sighted.

Well, then, the General Assembly should be asked to build a home for the chancellor. Or, maybe, we should call up W. Clement Stone and solicit another donation like the one that built the University House for SIU.

But in any case, the board's decision was not a slap in the General Assembly's face. Legislators know what is necessary to retain a good public servant. The board's action was not "blatant evidence of bad faith." It was simply fair, and, according to a source close to Shaw, was researched thoroughly. Comparing Shaw's salary and benefits to those of other system chancellors in Illinois.

As for operating the SIU System in a "leaner and leaner manner," this relatively small amount of money—$12,000—is insignificant in a budget as large as the SIU System has.

Seeger's new album grinds to dead stop

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

Bob Seeger and the Silver Bullet Band have a new double-live album out called "Nine Tonight!"

"Why?" and "So what?" are the first two questions that come to mind after hearing this album compiled from eight different dates in June and October of 1980 at Cobo Hall in Detroit and the Boston Garden in Boston.

Why did Seeger record another live album? Especially after he released the fantastic "Live Bullet" album in April 1976, which was cut from two 14,000-seat sellout concerts at Cobo Hall in 1975.

At that time, Seeger was hesitant about releasing a live album, saying, "I didn't want to release a live album because I thought it was getting to be a camp thing."

Well, the answer as to why he released another live album is simple. Seeger is starting to play it safe. With the release of his last studio album, "Against the Wind" and this album, Seeger has proved that he hasn't broken any new ground musically since "Stranger in Town."

Of the 16 cuts on this album, compiled from "Night Moves," "Stranger in Town," "Against the Wind" and some previous albums, only six are exceptional. The rest are characterized by lackluster and uninspired performances.

The Silver Bullet Band's performances, featuring Drew Abbott on lead guitar, Chris Campbell on bass, Alto Reed on alto and tenor saxophones, David Teegarden on drums and ex-Grand Funk Railroad keyboardist Craig Frost on piano, organ and clavinet, range from superb to unenthusiastic.

Seeger and the band shine in "Feel Like a Number," in which Seeger gives a fiery, impassioned vocal and the band is driven by the piano work of

Review

Frost.

Both "Betty Lou's Gettin' Out Tonight" and "Nine Tonight" are fantastic, with Reed playing both alto and tenor sax at the same time, and Abbott whistling guitar leads over thundering bass and drums. Both songs are an excellent live showcase for the band's talents.

"Old Time Rock and Roll" and "We've Got Tonight" are done better than in the studio, and Seeger carries these songs to new heights of frenzied emotion.

The real "rocker" of the album is "Let It Rock" by E. Anderson. This is a refreshing change of pace—it's easy to get caught up in Seeger's rousing rendition, especially when he throws in a few verses of Chuck Berry's "Little Queenie" and urges the audience to sing along because "we're recording tonight ... 24 tracks."

Other songs, such as "The Fire Down Below," "Fire Lake," "Hollywood Nights" and "Rock and Roll Never Forgets," Seeger classics expected to be great live, just aren't. It appears that Seeger is going through the motions, and nothing distinguishes the cuts from the studio versions which are in fact much more alive and packed with feeling.

"Mainstreet," another Seeger classic, is saved from being boring by Abbott's guitar work, and both "You'll Accompany Me" and "Trying to Live My Life Without You" are alright, but not outstanding.

Chance stint sells crowd short

By Joe Walter
Entertainment Editor

"Stop that clapping, let us play." It seemed as if James Chance wanted to be in total control of the rhythm Friday night in Student Center Ballroom D. Unfortunately, he could have done a better job.

After David and the Happenings went through an especially energetic set lasting almost two hours, James Chance and the Contortions performed to a polite reception from an audience which seemed to clap on cue.

One reason for the lukewarm response was the time it took Chance to warm up on sax and keyboards and his seemingly bummed-out attitude, which became painfully obvious as the performance went on. Another reason was the woefully short 45-minute set.

However, the rest of the

Review

musicians performed very well. Jerry Antonios did a fine job of playing funky guitar, which he sometimes caused to scream with a sound that resembled a tenor sax. He also did some admirable mandolin-like picking and plucking. Chris Cunningham's good rhythm guitar work backed Antonios. The bass of Colin Wade was rhythmic and impressively soulful, and the drums of Ralph Rolle drove a capable dance beat into the crowd.

Chance did improve as the show progressed, and sloppy keyboard and initially monotonous saxophone playing became sharper near the end of the set, with frenzied, piercing notes. Throughout the show, however, his vocals seemed less than spirited, especially when he sang James Brown's "King Heroin."

The performance of Contortions' back-up vocalist Marilyn Monroe was plagued by the bad sound of the Student Center's equipment, which made her voice less than barely audible. Near the end of the set, however, her voice peeped through.

The sad irony of the night was that when Chance seemed to be getting good and hot and the crowd started to respond, he quit the set. It seems as if 45 minutes, especially from a musician who is not that well-known on this campus, is not enough, especially when a good-sized crowd assembles to lend an ear after paying four bucks a head. One would think the audience is entitled to a better break for the money.

James Chance should have given a deserving crowd a much better performance.

Dr. Lawrence Frisch, the new director of SIU-C's Health Service medical staff, sits in his office. Frisch said he has no plans for changes in the service's operation.

Frisch has goals, not changes in mind for Health Service

By Jennifer Polk
Staff Writer

See related story on Page 12

Whenever there is a change in command at an institution, people tend to expect massive changes in the methods of operation.

But Dr. Lawrence Frisch, new director of the Student Health Service's medical staff, doesn't see the need for many changes.

"I don't really have changes in mind," said Frisch, who became the director on June 15. "I have goals. One of the things about being new on the job is that you have to be very circumspect in how you deal with changes."

Frisch said he feels the health service has two aspects of excellence — the doctors and the quality of care.

"Health services at universities traditionally have a bad reputation with the students," said Frisch. "In many ways I think SIU-C's is one of the best in the country. I'm very impressed with the excellence of health care provision and the potential that the SIU service has."

One of Frisch's primary goals is to develop programs that utilize the health care programs of the health service and the Student Wellness Resource Center to provide a "whole person" kind of health care.

"We have a strong wellness center here," said Frisch. "It's been operating independently, and I'd like to merge some of their efforts with those of the health service. Over the next year or so I want to develop programs to promote total health care."

Frisch wants the programs to identify target groups within the student population. He intends to start more comprehensive programs for women and severely handicapped students, as well as adding programs for students with diabetes, back problems and acne problems. Frisch said priorities will be set and he would like to have three programs established by the end of the first year.

One of the first issues Frisch faced as director of the medical staff was the threat to the health service's gonorrhea screening program. Because of budget cuts, the number of smear plates SIU receives was slashed from 776 to 200, a reduction of 74 percent.

Gonorrhea may not produce symptoms in the female, Frisch said, but may lead to a condition called pelvic inflammatory disease. The disease causes an inflammation of the Fallopian tubes and may cause them to cease functioning.

The medical staff met and decided the program was worthwhile and expressed absolute support for it. The Illinois Department of Public Health was contacted and a chief epidemiologist was sent to SIU to see if the program should be continued or abandoned.

"There is no final report yet," said Frisch. "But we found that we were picking up a significant number of cases through our screening program. The conclusion was that we should continue the service, but there were some improvements we could make."

The health service is developing a more comprehensive program for students with sexually transmitted diseases. The new program will involve screening, record-keeping and, in conjunction with the Student Wellness Resource Center, an educational and follow-up program.

Frisch is a graduate of Harvard Medical School with a specialization in pediatrics. He was an assistant professor in charge of resident training and ambulatory care at the University of Hawaii Medical School from 1977 until June 15 of this year. While in Hawaii, he served as medical director of Children's Protective Service for the state and as a consultant for the Hawaii State Board of Education on learning disabilities. He thinks pediatrics will help in the administration of a college health service.

"When pediatrics emerged as a specialty in the early part of the century, the diseases that affected children were quite different than those that affected adults," said Frisch. "Now it's more of a specialization in all of the developmental processes of the human being. I feel the college years are important in the development of a person and these years have been neglected. They kind of fall through the cracks of other specializations."

Early pledges of $34,500 give United Way running start

By Pam Petrow
Staff Writer

The Carbondale United Way fund-raising campaign got off to a $34,500 start Friday morning after division coordinators for the campaign announced early pledge totals at a kickoff breakfast at the Student Center.

The pre-campaign total brought the organization one-third of the way to its $107,000 goal for 1981, according to Marian H. Davis, SIU-C coordinator for the United Way. The campaign officially started when a football was kicked off at McAndrew Stadium after the breakfast, but several individuals and businesses had already pledged money to the organization, she said.

The organization raises several thousand dollars each year and allocates the money to agencies that demonstrate a need for the funds. After receiving petitions for funding from 23 agencies, the Carbondale United Way board of directors voted to allocate 1982 funds to 18 organizations.

Don Yost, Carbondale United Way chairman, was master of ceremonies at the breakfast and introduced Hans Fischer, mayor of Carbondale; Albert Somit, SIU-C president; Patrick Burley, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Don Strom, Carbondale community chairman for the United Way; and John H. Baker, vice-chairman for the United Way campaign. Rev. James Beatty, of the Epiphany Lutheran Church, gave the invocation. The Carbondale campaign has several different divisions. Division reports included Davis for SIU-C, Rick White and Helen Lesaman for retail, Fran Child and Barbara Ackerman for public employees, Randy and Gayla Forby for financial groups, Ron Steele for industrial-contractors, Eugene D. Jones for professional groups, Frank Adams for retirees, Barbara Millette for Carbondale Memorial Hospital, Tom Allen for insurance, George Edwards for Grade School District 95, Charles L. Warrnen for High School District 165, and Roger Klam for real estate.

SIU-C led the pledges with $10,240. Somit accepted an award presented to the University for its outstanding service to the people of the community and its assistance in the United Way fund-raising drives.

The University's goal is $40,000," Davis said. "We usually make up one-third of Carbondale's fund-raising total."

After the breakfast, everyone moved to McAndrew Stadium for a kickoff ceremony. The Carbondale High School band played as Fischer, Somit, Burley, Strom, Baker, and Lewis Hartzog, SIU-C's acting athletic director, each said a few words while holding a football, then passed the ball on to the next person.

Somit got a chuckle from the crowd when he said, "We will not fumble this campaign."

The ball was finally handed to Ray Dempsey, Sahki football coach, who held the ball for Marty Briggs, a senior on Carbondale High School's football team, to kick it through the goal posts.

ALLERGIES CHANGE LIFESTYLE

BY DR. ROY S. WHITE
Doctor of Chiropractic

"I'd love to go for a drive in the country, but I'm allergic to (Dust, pollen, reseed, etc.)" How many times have you said that? Have you ever wondered why one person can breathe pollen, eat wheat, sleep on a feather pillow or wear a wool sweater with no ill effects and another person cannot?

The reason is that the body defense system of the person with allergies is mistakenly identifying the harmless materials as an enemy invader and doing everything it can to fight, what it believes to be, an attack.

This defense system is most important to us because it helps keep us well, but when it "goes haywire" it can make us miserable.

Can we correct the defense system malfunction by isolating the offending material and avoiding it? Sometimes, but that is certainly letting the tail wag the dog. Can we correct it by changing our body's chemical balance with drugs? Sometimes, but what about the side effects and the cost of identifying the offending matter? Can we correct it by having the defense system work properly and having the body function as intended?

That's the Chiropractic goal! No drugs; no avoiding the offending matter; just restoration of correct function.

If you are suffering from allergies, contact a Chiropractor to see if you can have your body work "right" again.

Input requested on grad date

SIU-C President Albert Somit has requested input from the seven University constituency groups about moving the August commencement ceremony to December, Thomas Busch, assistant to the president, said Monday.

The change, if made, would take effect in December, 1982. Currently, SIU-C holds two commencement ceremonies in May and one in August, Busch said. If the change from August to December is made, the University would probably combine the two May ceremonies into one, he said. Eliminating one of the May ceremonies would save the University money, Busch said.

He added that comments from the constituency groups should be returned within 30 days.

Besides wanting to reduce the number of ceremonies, Busch said another reason for the change would be that speakers are harder to get in August than in December.

Busch said a December commencement might also serve a larger population. He said that the University would anticipate more graduates in December than in August, so there would probably be more participation in a December ceremony.

SPRINGFIELD — Talks between the political parties over remapping Illinois House and Senate districts have been snarled and the issue may be dumped in the lap of former Democratic Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro, the chairman of the redistricting commission said Monday.

"I think he (Shapiro) realizes now that he is the one to really break the tie," Sen. James H. Donnewald, D-Breesee, told a Statehouse news conference.

"We're so far apart between the two parties as I see it we may as well go to what the constitution said — the tie-breaker," Donnewald added. In addition to differences between Democrats and Republicans, House and Senate Democrats have been unable to agree on a new map, he said.

Donnewald said Shapiro, chosen in August as the ninth and tie-breaking member of the redistricting panel, has asked for all proposed maps to be submitted to him by Wednesday evening.

Shapiro wants to study the maps "in seclusion" at his Kankakee home, according to Donnewald. The senator said Shapiro may decide to endorse one of the maps or draw his own.

Either way, Donnewald said he wants the commission to take a vote on a new map by the panel's Oct. 5 deadline for submitting a plan to the secretary of state. If the panel cannot okay a map, the issue will go to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Every decade, the state must redraw political boundaries to reflect population shifts recorded by the census. The way those maps are drawn can determine which party will be dominant in a given district — and which party will control the General Assembly.

The Legislature failed to overcome political differences and approve a map by its June 30 constitutional deadline, so the issue was turned over to the bipartisan redistricting commission.

But the panel's four Democrats and four Republicans could not resolve the issue by an Aug. 10 deadline, so the Supreme Court nominated Shapiro and former GOP Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie as candidates for the tie-breaker slot.

Their names were placed in a stoppage hat once worn by Abraham Lincoln, and Secretary of State James Edgar drew Shapiro's name.

Foreign study deadlines near

Deadlines are approaching to apply for grants to finance overseas graduate study for the 1982-83 school year, according to Thomas Saville, foreign student advisor.

Language and proposal preparation is needed before students apply for these grants, so juniors and seniors should start planning now if they want to do their graduate study abroad, Saville said.

Graduate students who wish to be considered for a Fulbright grant must submit their applications to the campus screening committee in the Office of International Education by Oct. 1. Saville said. The Institute of International Education provides full and travel grants for advanced graduate students engaged in Ph.D. research in 53 countries.

The application deadline for Marshall scholarships is Oct. 22. Graduate students 25 years old or younger who want to study in England should apply for this scholarship, Saville said.

Rhodes scholarships for advanced undergraduate or graduate students have an application deadline of Oct. 31. Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 24 and must be U.S. citizens.

Nov. 1 is the application deadline for American-Scandinavian Foundation awards for graduate students, George C. Marshall Memorial Fellowships for both undergraduate and graduate students and German Academic Exchange Service awards for graduate students. The application deadline for German Marshall research fellowships is Nov. 30.

Deadline set for registration for National Teachers Exam

Students planning to take any of the National Teacher Examinations this semester must register by Oct. 12 either with SIU Testing Services in Woody Hall, Room 204 or by contacting National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. 08541.

Accident fatal for 29-year-old woman

A Jackson County woman was killed at 12:20 a.m. Monday when her car ran off the road and overturned on Illinois 4 in Campbell Hill, according to Illinois State Police.

Judy Huseman, 29, of Campbell Hill was pronounced dead at St. Joseph Memorial Hospital in Murphysboro. Arrangements are pending at the Wilson Funeral Home in Ava.

Decision upheld in license revocation for obscenity

SANDOVAL (AP) — The Illinois Liquor Control Commission has upheld the revocation of the liquor license of a Marion County nightclub by the county board following a September 1980 incident in which a dancer allegedly exposed herself to a deputy sheriff.

The liquor commission, after reviewing testimony of the incident in June, also upheld the county's denial of a request for a new license for PT's, the nightclub located near Sandoval on U.S. 51.

PT's lawyer, Glenn Stanko of Champaign, said Monday he plans to appeal the decision.

Health staff director Frisch: Child, spouse abuse widespread

By Jennifer Polk
Staff Writer

Most people don't consider child abuse and family violence to be problems that a university and its students have to face.

Dr. Lawrence Frisch, director of the medical staff of the Health Service, feels these problems exist among the student community and the University should look at them and deal with them to make life better for the students.

"These problems aren't unique to SIU," said Frisch. "We don't look after children at the Health Service, but we see a surprising amount of spouse abuse among our married students and we get a lot of women that have been beaten by their boyfriends."

Frisch was medical director of the Hawaii state Child Protection Service before coming to SIU June 15. He became familiar with child abuse and family violence before that while in family practice and says "you can't be in family practice without seeing some cases of it."

In one instance, a woman brought in her daughter with a fractured skull and told him the girl had fallen off a swing. Later, the woman came in badly beaten. In the course of a conversation, Frisch discovered that her husband had beaten her and had caused the earlier injury to their daughter. That case has stayed in Frisch's mind.

"I learned that in almost any case of trauma involving a child, one has to question whether the injury was inflicted or not," he said. "I also learned that child abuse almost invariably occurs in cases where there is also family violence and where the mother is injured as well."

Frisch said that child abuse is most often caused by mothers. In dealing with mothers who had abused their children, he said he was struck by the number of women who were also victims of abuse.

"We so often misunderstand child abuse," he said. "I was surprised, in talking with these women, how many of them were physically, emotionally and sexually abused by parents, husbands or brothers. I think cases of spouse abuse and rape are closely related. In each instance, the woman becomes the appropriate object of a man's hostility. The worst part of the abuse is the climate of fear and violence. The American family is a very violent place."

He also sees a connection between family violence and folk music. Although he is a classically trained musician, Frisch has done research into the lyrics of traditional folk songs. One thing he discovered was that the lyrics of these songs were filled with accounts of child abuse and family violence.

"There's a very large number of folk songs that deal with these issues," he said. "I'm talking about songs that are 50 to 100 years old. These songs tell about common human happenings—the significant basic truths of people's problems."

While he was director of the Child Protection Service in Hawaii, Frisch collected the lyrics to some of these types of songs and, with some friends, performed them at the Hawaii State Conference on Child Abuse. He said the audience found them "compelling."

Frisch has carried his concern into his work at SIU. Abuse of women and how to prevent it are major considerations of the women's health programs that Frisch would like to establish at the Health Service.

"We have the nucleus of the program already," he said.

But he feels the solution doesn't stop with health care programs.

"Child abuse is born of stress and frustration and the feeling that the child is a burden," he said. "A primary need mothers have is for easily accessible and affordable child care to relieve them of some of the pressure they feel. It's an important issue. SIU has three facilities for children. Is that enough? We have to look at that."

Frisch is also concerned about the "locked-out child"—children that come home from school or play and find no one there.

"We have to decide if this is something the University should be concerned about," he said. "Should a 7-year-old in Evergreen Park come home to an empty house? How can you blame the parents? It's hard to go to school, study, work and have a family. The pressures are enormous."

These should be campus-wide issues, Frisch said, and a concern of the Health Service.

"It's in our stated purpose," he said. "It's the reason we exist—to have a long-range influence on the level of health of our graduates, their children and the people they will influence."

Simon: Hospital money 3-1 favorite

by Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

The Marion Veterans Administration Hospital will probably receive $17.2 million for an expansion of outpatient care facilities and a new nursing care unit, according to U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th District.

"I'd say the odds right now are about three to one," Simon told about 500 people at a public meeting Friday in Marion. "I can't stand here and absolutely guarantee it."

Simon also gave support to the National Youth Service Act, a bill he co-sponsored but which was defeated in the House, that would require males to serve one year in either the military or in some form of social service. He said such a program probably will be implemented in five years.

"I believe we eventually have to go back to a mandatory service system," he said, eliciting a round of applause from the audience of mostly veterans.

Simon was joined at the meeting by House Veterans Affairs Committee Chairman Sonny Montgomery, D-Miss., and Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., founder of Vietnam Veterans in Congress.

According to Simon, the Office of Management and Budget has recommended a presidential veto of the bill which includes the appropriation for the Marion expansion in order to reduce the $24.5 billion VA budget. The Senate is waiting for presidential recommendations on budget cuts before acting on the bill, according to a Simon spokesman.

the hospital would probably be approved, adding that if any new cuts are made in the VA budget, medical benefits, compensation and pension programs would not be affected.

Montgomery and Simon both said the most important issue yet to be faced by the government is the draft.

"The readiness of our forces, the difficulty in attracting and retaining skilled enlisted men and the question of fairness all point to the return of some form of limited Selected Service," Simon said, adding that he hopes the all-volunteer military "works."

Montgomery said there is now legislation for a veterans benefit bill, the Veterans' Education Assistance Act, that would grant veterans one year of education for every year of active military service.

"It's the last effort to make the all-volunteer system work," Montgomery said.

Society puts ex-cons' lives back together

By Sheila Allee
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Richard Williams, 57, had no family, no home and no job when he got out of prison last year after serving two years for forgery.

But he did have the Alston Wilkes Society, the largest volunteer prisoner aid group of its kind in the United States.

Society workers found Williams a place to stay at an Alston Wilkes halfway house, and he found a job installing commercial refrigeration systems.

"I probably would not have gotten out without them," Williams said of the society.

The state parole board requires an inmate to have a job and a place to live before he or she can be released.

"If it hadn't been for Alston Wilkes, I wouldn't have had a place to go," he said. "They helped me put my life back together."

Putting lives back together is Alston Wilkes' goal, and society members have been doing it for 19 years.

The service organization was founded in 1962 by the Rev. Alston Wilkes, a Methodist minister who ran a mission for transients. Wilkes spent his Sundays at the state penitentiary, now known as Central Correctional Institution.

One Sunday, he told the prisoners he would take requests for anything he could do for them on the outside before their next meeting. The men stood in line waiting to pour out their problems.

Some had lost touch with their families, some had wives and children and no money to care for them, some had no one to visit them—no one to care.

Wilkes realized the convicts' real problems would begin when they were released. They would need jobs, and they would need homes.

The minister also knew he could not meet their needs alone. He enlisted the aid of several other ministers and citizens and in 1962 formed the South Carolina Therapeutic Association.

A year later, before the association really got off the ground, Wilkes died of cancer. The other members renamed their group the Alston Wilkes Society.

In November 1965, members began looking for a full-time director. They decided on Parker Evatt, who was active in Methodist church-related social projects. He turned them down.

Evatt, now a Republican state representative, told the society he was happy in his work as an engineer with the highway department and didn't want to change careers. But then he had an experience that changed his mind.

Evatt and another Methodist layman were tapped to check on a family who lived near the church and were reported starving to death. They found a German woman with three children and a half quart of milk in the refrigerator.

"Her husband was an American who was in prison," Evatt said. "We paid her rent, found them some clothes and bought them some groceries."

Evatt arranged to have the woman and the children sent back to her native Germany where her mother could care for the youngsters and the woman could get a job.

Evatt said he accepted the directorship of the society shortly afterwards.

He opened his first office in the prison's pre-release center. Today the society leases an entire building, employs 55 people, has 6,000 members in 36 states and operates on a $1 million annual budget. It is funded by donations, the United Way, federal grants and state and federal contracts.

Evatt said a key Alston Wilkes goal is to publicize the need for changes in the prison system. He said state agencies that deal with offenders—police, prisons, pardon and parole officers and judges—don't work together.

"We have every law on the books to have the best corrections system," Evatt said. "Judges are going to have to be more creative in their sentencing. Some judges don't believe in restitution. They think you should just lock them up and throw away the key."

"I'm not talking about violent, dangerous people," he said. "They should be locked up. But 8,000 people don't belong in prison—not in a state this size. We lead the world." South Carolina has the world's highest per capita incarceration rate.

Society volunteers help inmates' families by finding spouses jobs, shelter and transportation to prison for visits.

"We try to keep family unity," Evatt said. "I think that's important, that they can come home to a family that's in good shape."

Correction Commissioner William Leeke agreed. "There is no doubt in my mind many would be repeat offenders without the Alston Wilkes Society," Leeke said. "They fill a real void. There is only so much we can do and tax money is getting harder to get. I can't say enough about them."

The Alston Wilkes Society works from the premise that every person has some good in him. "One of the things I hope happens is they realize everybody's not down on them," Evatt said. "It changes the attitude of a man in prison to know someone cares."

was second for the Salukis with a 231. He was followed by junior Robbie Hammond at 234, sophomore Tom Jones at 236, and junior Jan Jansco, who shot a 230.

"Schafer shot really well Friday, but couldn't get anything going Saturday. I expected Jan to shoot better than he did. His putting was fine, but he couldn't get his game going," Reburn said.

Reburn said Jones had trouble with his irons all during the tournament. "I think both Tom and Robbie got tired after the first day, when we played two rounds. Your game will suffer if you are struggling with your shots when your are tired," Reburn said.

Reburn said the most difficult part of the course was not the "tight" tree-lined fairways, but the greens.

"They used Bermuda grass on and near the greens. The ball doesn't bounce as well as it does on other types of grass, forcing you to chip into the air to reach the green. All the teams had problems with the greens, which were also pretty small," Reburn said.

He said the many sand traps didn't affect the team, but warned that if you hit the ball over the green into the traps, you simply "don't come back."

The weather wasn't a factor, despite the 44-degree temperature when the Salukis teed off.

"It didn't hurt our play, but it was surprising, since we're used to playing in the 90s," Reburn said.

The Salukis' next tournament will be this weekend at Southern Mississippi.

Water polo team loses 3 at Indiana

The SIU-C water polo team defeated Ohio State, 18-16, Friday, but it was the only victory the Salukis could manage in four games at an invitational meet at Indiana University last weekend.

The Salukis lost to Indiana, 21-10, and 15-11 to Principia. The Salukis also dropped a match to the Missouri-Rolla, but game scores and statistics were not available.

Senior Tim Plantz scored nine goals in the first three games and senior Mark Pollard and freshman Dave Kiobasa, scored six goals each.

Fast course cuts women harrier times

By Steve Metach
Staff Writer

Running on what Coach Claudia Blackman called a "fast course," the women's cross country team finished sixth out of 13 teams at the Illinois State Invitational in Bloomington Saturday. Missouri-Columbia won the meet with a 38. The Salukis had 167 points.

SIU-C was once again led by senior Patty Plymire-Houseworth, who finished ninth at 18:07. Senior Nola Putman finished 31st at 18:59. Junior Dyane Donley, finished 33rd, three seconds behind Putman. Plymire-Houseworth's time is the second best in SIU-C history. Putman's is fourth, and Donley's is seventh.

Junior Rosa Mitchell and freshmen Theresa Kent, Odette James, Pat Eletto, and Laura Falci also ran their way into the Saluki record book. Kent's 19:38, Mitchell's 19:40, James' 20:04, Eletto's 20:06 and Falci's 20:19 are among the top fifteen times in SIU-C history.

Senior Cindy Bukauskus finished at 23:15, which was two minutes faster than Bukauskus' last meet. Blackman was pleased with Bukauskus' performance, since she is coming back from leg surgery earlier this year.

Blackman said that the finish of teams in a large meet can be deceiving.

"How well you do depends on how well the opposition does," she said. "If one team takes several low positions, your score will be higher."

"I think the team liked the course," Blackman said. "It was challenging, but very fast. Running in cooler weather also helped the team's times."

"I think they felt relaxed at the meet. They kept their minds off everything but their game, which is why they did so well," she said.

Blackman said the meet was at a faster pace than other meets this season and that the Salukis were up to the challenge. She said the team ran together longer than it had in earlier meets.

"This was a good meet for us. It gave us a chance to look at our competition from other Illinois schools," she said.

The Salukis finished ahead of Illinois State, Western Illinois, Eastern Illinois, Northwestern, Bradley, and Northern Illinois.

The only state school they have yet to face is Illinois, whom they will meet in the IALAW State Championship at Normal in October.

"The Illini have always been good enough to place second. I've heard they've put together a good, strong team," Blackman said.

The Saluki's next meet is the TFA—USA Cross Country Championship at Kenosha, Wis. Saturday. Blackman said the course is "pretty hilly and rough."

Cards beat Cubs, 2-0

CHICAGO (AP)—Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter combined on a three-hitter and Darrell Porter and Keith Hernandez knocked in the game's only runs with sacrifice flies, leading the Cards to a 2-0 win over the Cubs Monday.

The win stopped a three-game Cardinal losing streak.

Andujar, 7-4, struck out three and walked one and was forced from the game when he strained his right hamstring while batting in the ninth. Sutter came in to pitch a perfect final inning and picked up his 23rd save.

The Cubs have gone the last 23 innings without scoring and have managed just six hits in their last two games.

The game was scoreless until the sixth when Garry Templeton smashed a line drive to right-center and stretched it to a triple as the ball rolled to the wall.

George Hendrick then took an intentional walk and Porter hit his sacrifice fly off Ken Kravec, whose record dove to 1-5.

In the seventh, Willie Hernandez came on in relief of Kravec and walked Tito Landrum to start the inning. Landrum took second on an error by shortstop Ivan DeJesus and Templeton singled, sending Landrum to third. Landrum scored on Hernandez's sacrifice fly.

The Cubs' only hits came in the second when catcher Jody Davis lined a single to center, the fourth when DeJesus skinned a grounder to third, and in the seventh when Leon Durham lined a single to right.

Football coaches name Saturday's stars

By Rod Farrow
Staff Writer

The Saluki football coaches named John Harper, Tony Bleyer, Darren Davis and Walter Poole the outstanding Salukis of Saturday's 17-14 loss to Tennessee State.

Harper, an end, won the coaches' weekly defensive lineman award by making five unassisted and six assisted tackles. He also recovered a fumble on the TSU 25-yard line to set up a third-quarter Saluki touchdown.

Linebacker Bleyer won the defensive back award with eight solo tackles and eight assists. Linebackers can receive either lineman or secondary awards, Coach Rey Dempsey said.

Center Darren Davis won the offensive lineman award, achieving a 75 percent blocking efficiency rating. Coaches grade linemen and assign efficiency ratings from game films.

"Darren had an exceptionally good game," Dempsey said. "On one screen pass play he actually blocked out two men."

Tailback Poole won the offensive back award by gaining 63 yards in 15 carries and catching four passes for 43 yards.

"Besides his strong running,

Walter made some good blocks when Derrick Taylor ran the ball, especially on Derrick's screen passes," Dempsey said. "Walter's a good blocker for a back. Occasionally he'll let up when he's tired, but he'll attack you with his blocking."

Poole's blocking apparently put him ahead of Taylor for the award. Taylor gained 61 yards on 12 carries and caught four passes for 46 yards before he injured his right shoulder late in the game.

"It's a separation," Dempsey said of the injury. "A doctor will look at it in 7 to 10 days. He's out for at least two weeks. We're just happy the shoulder doesn't need an operation."

The Salukis will have to go to Tulsa next Saturday without Taylor's services.

"Losing him really hurts," Dempsey said. "We'll have to look at some of our offensive series and maybe drop some plays. You can't run a play if you don't have personnel quick enough to carry it out."

Dempsey said sophomores Corky Field and Rich Blackmon will compete in practice for Taylor's spot. Taylor replaced Field as the starting fullback after the season opener at McNeese State.

Taylor will join offensive guard Chester Cropp and linebacker Granville Butler on the disabled list. Both Cropp and Butler injured a knee in last week's Wichita State game, missed the TSU game, and will be out at least two more weeks.

Women golfers' coach unhappy with 2nd place

By Bob Morand
Staff Writer

Although the Salukis grabbed second place in the Lady Sycamore Invitational golf tournament in Terra Haute this weekend, Coach Mary Beth McGirr feels her team could have wound up with better scores.

"I'm a little disappointed with the results this weekend," McGirr said. "It's not that we shot badly, but the competition wasn't very strong so I thought we would have done a bit better."

SIU-C's team total was 677, 27 strokes off of Western Kentucky's winning total of 650. Western Kentucky senior Susan Mercke won the individual title with scores in the two-round tourney of 81 and 79.

The Salukia, however, did have their bright spots, McGirr said.

Sophomore Lisa Rotman-Bremer took fifth place with scores of 84 in both rounds, and teammate, sophomore Sue Arbogast, shot an 84 and an 85 to place eighth. Sophomore Barb Anderson finished 10th with scores of 82 and 88.

Despite SIU-C's bright spots, McGirr believes the team's play wasn't as productive as she had hoped.

"I know each player could have knocked off two to three strokes off of her score, but the weather was a big factor, too," McGirr said.

According to McGirr, rain soaked the Terra Haute area a week before the tournament, which made course play very slow. On Friday, Anderson lost two balls in the middle of the fairway, McGirr said, adding that Anderson's balls buried themselves in the wet fairway.

"The course was in good shape, but the wetness from the previous week and the wind over the weekend played a big factor in everybody's game," she said.

The wind was especially bad on Saturday and a lot of shots ended up in the course's treacherous sand traps, McGirr said.

As McGirr had expected, 18-hole scores below 80 were hard to come by. Only three golfers, all from Western Kentucky, shot below that mark. But team scores are the ones that count, and although she is pleased with the team's second place finish, McGirr feels that the team's overall scores can be improved.

"I don't want to sound negative about our second place finish," McGirr said. "But I would have rather finished in tenth place with a better team score."

Minnesota griddler honored

CHICAGO (AP)—Linebacker Jim Fahnhorst of Minnesota has been selected Midwest Player of the Week by The Associated Press for his contributions in Saturday's 13-13 victory over Purdue.

Fahnhorst, a 6-4, 224-pound senior from St. Cloud, Minn., had six solo tackles including two for losses totalling 11 yards, assisted on four others and recovered a fumble late in a first half which led to Minnesota's winning touchdown. He also knocked down a pass.

Others nominated for the award included Michigan defensive back Keith Bostic, Ohio State linebacker Anthony Griggs, Wisconsin noseguard Tim Krumrie and Illinois linebacker Jack Squirek.

Golfer shoots under par, Salukis tie for fifth place

By Steve Metsch
Staff Writer

Shooting par in a golf tournament is hard.

Shooting one under under par is even harder.

Freshman Mark Young shot a 73-71-71 to finish with a one-under-par 215 to lead the men's golf team to a fifth-place tie with Murray State in the Friday State tournament held Friday and Saturday.

The Salukis shot a 908 in the 54-hole tourney. Western Kentucky defeated Memphis in a one-hole playoff for first place. The two teams were tied at 890 after three rounds. Missouri-Columbia captured third with an 894 and Eastern Kentucky was fourth at 896. University of Tennessee-Chatanooga, Middle Tennessee, Indiana, Austin-Peay and Evansville followed the Salukis.

Freshman Mark Young finished second with a 215. He shot a 73-71-71 for his one stroke under par round. Coach Jim Reburn was pleased with Young's performance.

"For a freshman to finish second in his second tournament is quite an accomplishment," Reburn said. "I think Mark will finish first before the season is over. Mark was our only golfer who didn't shoot a bad round."

Blackout disrupts net match, brightens lady Saluki outcome

By Keith Mascitti
Student Writer

Most people think of a power failure in a negative way. Women's tennis Coach Judy Auld doesn't. A power failure may have been a factor in the Salukis win over favored Missouri.

The Salukis were ahead of Mizzou by a 4-3 score, when the Friday match had to be postponed until Saturday morning because the lights at the University Courts went out due to a power failure. SIU-C went on to win the match by a 5-4 score.

"We came out of singles play tied at three apiece," Auld said. "We won one of the doubles matches and only needed to win one of the remaining two. I think it put more pressure on Missouri to come out the next day and have to win two."

Auld's strategy going into the matches was to win at least three of six singles matches before going into doubles play to give her team a psychological edge. The strategy worked. In all three matches the Salukis had won at least three singles contests, and went on to win the doubles matches.

The Salukis won all three of its weekend matches by defeating Illinois State and Memphis State by 6-3 scores. The Salukis' winning streak now stands at six. The team hasn't lost since it played SIU-E in the opening match of the season.

The weekend wins were a total turnaround from last season, when the Salukis were shut out in five matches by the same teams.

According to Auld, this was the stiffest competition of the year. "This was the toughest competition we have had to face in dual-competition this fall," Auld said. "The opening win against Missouri really helped us. These three teams beat us last year."

Auld said that she is a little surprised by her team's early success and in terms of projected wins, her team is ahead of schedule. Auld attributes the team's success to the freshmen players loosening up, doubles play coming around, and progressing more each weekend. Auld also stressed that the team is winning on all levels of play.

Freshman Alessandra Molinari is undefeated in singles competition in the No. 3 spot despite playing with a nagging ankle injury.

"The ankle still hurts," Molinari said. "It's being treated like a sprain, but we really don't know what it is. If it doesn't get better it will have to be X-rayed again."

Second-seeded freshman Heidi Eastman won three more singles matches and improved her record to 6-1. Top-seeded junior Lisa Warren struggled and lost two of three matches. Warren lost her opening match to Missouri's Helen Wilson in straight sets, by scores of 6-7 and 0-6. Warren defeated ISU's Susie Uranich in two sets by scores of 7-6 and 6-4.

Illinois State outruns harriers

By Doug Applebaugh
Staff Writer

If the SIU-C vs. Illinois State men's cross country meet was any indication of how the Salukis will fare against the Redbirds at the Missouri Valley Conference championships in October, there is plenty of room for improvement.

And Coach Lew Hartzog is the first to admit it.

"The kids ran very poorly and there's no need to make excuses," said Hartzog. "They're not physically or mentally ready to run. You have to be both. Illinois State came to crush us, and they did."

The Salukis, now 0-2, dropped their home opener to the Redbirds 21-40 Friday at Midland Hills Country Club.

A week ago, the Salukis lost to Illinois by the same 21-40 score. At Champaign, several of Hartzog's runners complained of feeling ill during the race, causing them to break stride and give up ground. Hartzog has strong feelings about the how the athletes should take care of their health.

"I've always felt that most health problems stem from negligence on the part of the athlete," he said. "Ninety-nine percent of the time, an athlete who trains well and takes care of himself will not catch a cold or anything like that. But if he is negligent, which means staying out too late or not eating correctly, he makes himself susceptible to catching a cold."

He said that his team will have to improve mentally before it can show physical improvement.

"The next time we meet Illinois State will be at the Illinois Intercollegiate," said Hartzog. "By that time, I hope that the kids will have improved mentally, as well as physically."

Junior Mike Keane finished second Friday to Illinois State's Jeff Hill, in what would have been a photo-finish in horse racing. Hill edged Keane with his 25:39. Keane, who placed first at Illinois a week ago, was clocked at 25:42.

"Keane ran well again," said Hartzog. "Hill just beat him. That's that. I can't really be upset with the way he ran."

Hill, a junior, had a poor freshman year and never really showed potential last year, said Hartzog. "But he's come back a new person this year."

Illinois State's arsenal also included senior Herman Sahnevah and sophomores Mike Baker and Mike Bailey, who placed third, four and fifth respectively.

Senior Captain Karsten Schultz was sixth, crossing the finish line at 25:34. Junior Mike Choffin was eighth and sophomore Tom Breen finished ninth.

Although the times at Midland Hills, which ranged from 25:39 to 27:15, were considerably slower than those recorded at Illinois, "the times were good for Midland Hills," said Hartzog.

Korean Junior spiker team impresses SIU players, fans

By Michelle Schwent
Sports Editor

Despite losing the volleyball exhibition match to the Korean squad, the experience was not a losing proposition for the Salukis.

The Korean Junior National team, the reigning world champions, thumped the Salukis 15-3, 15-2, 15-9 at the Arena Saturday night. The crowd of about 1,500 was told by the announcer before the match that any point the Salukis scored should be considered a major accomplishment.

Lee Yim, assistant coach of the Korean team, said he thought SIU-C was the strongest team his squad had played on the 11-stop tour so far.

The Salukis were impressed with the Koreans and pleased with their own play. "They were consistent," said junior middle blocker Sonya Locke. "They only hit one ball in the net. They missed more serves than I thought they would though."

"I liked the fact that we showed our emotions," Locke said. "They didn't show any emotion. I guess they're just used to beating people."

Junior middle blocker Bonnie Norrenberns provided some key blocks for the Salukis and was a bit surprised when the ball didn't rocket back over the net at her.

"The first one was a shock," she said. "When we scored our first point, the place went wild. Toward the end of the third game, we got the hang of it. We knew their attack would be quick, but you can't imagine it unless you see it." Sophomore outside hitter Mary Maxwell was impressed by all the fanfare of the event.

"It was fun," Maxwell said. "I was a little bit nervous at first. I was impressed by how professional it was with all the protocol. It was fantastic."

"What was really exciting was we could really run something at 'em in that third game," she said. "When Bonnie started blocking the Koreans started making mistakes too."

The crowd groaned when the Koreans powered spikes over the net, but Maxwell said they weren't extremely hard.

"They were pretty hard hits, but not as hard as I thought they would be," she said. "They were about as hard as Sonya hits and we're used that."

"The speed of the ball wasn't that fast but they had three people faking," she added. "That was the most difficult part—figuring out who was going to hit."

One of the Korean players indicated to Norrenberns just how well the Salukis played. "They don't know much English," Norrenberns said.

"But when we were walking out after the match, the girl I was walking with said to me 'That was a very good match.'"
