Lie Tests Given In Housing Fires

Lie detector tests were given to some members of an SIU sorority and fraternity yesterday as a result of recent fires at Small Group Housing, according to Security Officer Thomas Leffler.

A fire at Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority house, 109 Small Group Housing, early Saturday morning destroyed drapery in an unoccupied room. Albin J. Yokie, SIU housing coordinator, said damage was slight. The Carbondale Fire Department extinguished the fire.

Just three weeks ago, two fires occurred almost simultaneously at two locations in the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity house. One fire was upstairs and the other was in a downstairs dining room. Drapes were also destroyed by those fires and damage was not extensive.

Visiting Britain Says:

U.S. Far Behind In Solving Problem Of Managed News

By Richard LaSusa

While the critical and heated controversy over the federal government's so-called management of the news rages on the American news front, the controversial problem has all but passed from the scene in Western Europe, particularly in Great Britain.

The American press has recently discovered that it has left itself wide open to news manipulation and distortion by the federal government and finds itself far behind many European nations in solving this problem.

Herbert Davies, former British newspaper executive and now visiting professor of journalism at SIU, points out that the chance of similar government attempts to manipulate or falsify the news in Great Britain would be almost nil.

"The manipulation and falsification of the news in the United Kingdom would be almost impossible," said Davies, "simply because the British government and news media have developed an extremely sound system to prevent such a thing."

First of all, explained Davies, unauthorized government news "leaks," the dangerous beginning of controversial stories, have been kept to a minimum, primarily by the government officials themselves.

The British journalist explained that a majority of government officials will refuse to disclose certain information to reporters or refuse to answer their questions on the grounds that the release of the information would not be in the public interest.

"British government officials, regardless of the position they hold, are extremely wary of releasing or 'leaking' unauthorized information to the press," said Davies, "because they fear the consequence of having to face a terribly angry House of Commons if secret or unauthorized information has been made public.

"A definite majority of department officials and members of Parliament strongly adhere to this unwritten rule of noncommittal," emphasized Davies.

The soft-spoken journalist went on to say that, when a controversial issue arises, every point of view in that controversy is canvassed by the government before any information is officially released for print or broadcast.

Davies feels that this practice is not news management but is a government safeguard working in the public interest.

"The greatest possible safeguard against distortion and falsification of the news," said Davies, "is a thorough investigation of the facts and their presentation in an open debate, especially before Parliament."

Davies strongly feels that such investigation and debate should be carried in Parliament and not in the newspapers, as is the practice of the American press.

Davies pointed to another safeguard against distorted and falsified news in Great Britain.

This second safeguard is an official news committee made up of a number of British government officials and selected members of the British press, radio and television mediums. The job of this committee is to probe into government reasons for withholding information on a certain subject or their reason for refusing to allow the media to make public the information they already possess.

"This committee," says Davies, "carefully investigates the matter and carefully quizzes the government department involved."

Davies To Lecture On British Press

Herbert Davies, former British newspaper executive and now visiting professor of journalism at SIU will deliver a lecture on "The British Press: The Government and Local Government" tonight at 8 p.m. in the Home Economics Family Living Area.

This is the second in a series of four lectures on the British Press sponsored by the Department of Journalism and the undergraduate chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

Navy's 7th Fleet In Precautionary Moves, As Crisis Threatens Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON

Defense authorities said yesterday some additional units of the U.S. 7th Fleet would be sent into the Gulf of Siam as a purely precautionary move. The move came as fear grows that Laos would erupt in a civil war between Pathet Lao and the rightists. High U.S. authorities said there is a possibility U.S. troops might return to Thailand. They spoke as President Kennedy met with the National Security Council to discuss Laos. Thailand neighbors Laos.

In Laos, the pro-Communist Pathet Lao said Monday that rightist troops had joined neutralists on the strategic Plaine des Jarres, scene of an uneasy truce. Both neutralists and rightists denied the charge. About 24,000 troops of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization are due for maneuvers in Thailand in mid-June but the chief of staff of the Thai supreme command, Air Marshal Dawee Chullasab, reported U.S. forces are due in Thailand before then.

CHARLESTON, III.

The State Teachers College Board of Illinois said Monday it favors enactment of legislation which would make possible a statewide television network for production of instructional material.

Noble J. Puffer of Chicago, vice chairman of the board, said Illinois is lagging behind other states in educational television.

Twenty-one Americans, most of them sentenced to Cuban prisons on counter-revolutionary charges, were freed yesterday by Prime Minister Fidel Castro. They flew to Florida in a Red Cross-chartered plane.

The United States said Monday the nuclear test ban talks have reached an impasse because the Soviet Union refuses to engage in meaningful negotiations.

LOUISVILLE, ILL.

A Louisville lawyer termed John R. Harrell's disappearance a publicity stunt and offered to donate $5,000 to community improvement groups if the religious zealot stays away seven years.

Att. James F. McCollum, an oil producer, said it is worth $5,000 to see the end of publicity Harrell's church has given the community. Harrell and seven members of his family vanished March 31, three years after he founded an anti-communist church movement here.

SPRINGFIELD, III.

Illinois legislator, deadlocked in a bitter controversy over an emergency public aid appropriation, reached the point of no return today in an attempt to resolve party differences over aid ceilings.

Unless a $47.1 million appropriation is passed, the Illinois Public Aid Commission won't have sufficient funds to send out May checks to but a tiny fraction of the estimated 440,000 persons on public aid rolls.

The Student Council, Thursday night, voted to turn over the investigation of Athletic Department policy and practices to the Council on Intercollegiate Athletics. The ICAC is the athletic policy-making body at SIU.

The Student Council has gone about as far as it can legally go. The ICAC now has the prerogative to drop the case, conduct its own investigation or ask the Student Council to forward its information.

The Council's investigation has not been handled well. Public accusations were made before proof was in hand, and as a result the issue has come to be a personal battle between Athletic Director Donald Boydston and Bill Fenwick, student president. The mistakes made in the past two months should serve as a valuable lesson in future situations.

This is not to say that the council was wrong in investigating the complaints made by athletes. If even a few athletes have legitimate complaints, they deserve a hearing.

The athletic controversy is now in the hands of the Council on Intercollegiate Athletics. We feel assured that a closer look at athletics at Southern will be taken and that justice to the athletes, the Athletic Department and the Student Council will be done.

A Plan Toward Better Advisement

Third In A Series

Ostensibly academic advisement is aimed at answering the student's questions and planning a suitable curriculum so that he may successfully complete his college study. But it is not unusual to find a student leaving the Advisement Center more baffled than when he entered.

Approximately 58 per cent of the student body, including those enrolled in the colleges of business, liberal arts and sciences, education, and in the General Studies program, do not retain the same advisor term after term, but are generally counseled by a different person each time advisement occurs.

Problems resulting from this situation are evident. Records of the student's courses, credits, and requirements are often inaccurate, and the advisor many times is insensitive to the individual problems of the student.

Frequently an English major will be advised by someone with a background only in business, or perhaps, economics. Art students find themselves being advised by counselors holding degrees in education, mathematics, or speech. To prevent errors in course planning by advisors not versed in the student's major field, many departments require the department head to approve the student's class schedule. But this means more lines, more waiting, and more time spent for the student.

The basic problem is that too few advisors are allowed too little time to help too many students, and once advisement is finally achieved, it may still be inaccurate to the needs of the individual.

We need more advisors, and/or, a better advisement system.

At Oklahoma State University all academic advisement is done through individual departments. The student is given materials with which to plan his own course of study, and then submits his class plan for the next term to his department head and to a chairman of general education, to assure completion of university requirements. Upon receiving a signature of approval from these persons, the student is free to process his courses through sectioning. This plan eliminates the endless waiting, the congested lines, and the uncertainty of a constant change in advisors.

Current proposals at SIU entail moving the general studies portion of advisement to a location apart from the present advisement center. Under this plan all freshman and sophomore students, as well as transfers and others enrolled in general studies, would be advised separately from upperclassmen.

When this plan comes into effect, it would appear simple to put upperclass advisement on a departmental basis. Students should be provided with bulletins of course study and instructions for keeping their own credit records also to further facilitate the job of the advisor.

Under a plan of this nature, advisement could be carried out much more quickly and accurately. The student might face advisement with less of a feeling of ordeal, and more of a feeling of confidence.

Constitutional Changes Will Be Few— If Any

By Sen. Paul Simon

To change the constitution of our state requires a vote of approval by the people, and a two-thirds vote by the legislature—and as of this writing it does not appear probable that any major change will be on the ballot.

There may be one or two amendments of a somewhat minor nature, but a major amendment to the revenue article—which is the most talked-about change—will not take place unless there is a sudden shift of thinking in Springfield.

It is possible some minor changes in the revenue article will be approved by the legislature, but even this does not seem likely.

The change which appears to have the best chance to get on the ballot is one to permit sheriffs and treasurers to succeed themselves. There are proposals in both the House and Senate on this, the Senate version permitting counties to establish a civil service system for the employees in these two offices.

Some proposed changes which are not "major" to state government, but would provide some relief to various taxpayer groups include: a proposal to take the sales tax off of food; and a proposal to exempt property for those over 65 years of age, up to $5,000.

One of the more drastic constitutional changes proposed—one which I could not support—calls for the denial of the right to vote to anyone receiving public assistance.

One of the best proposals is one which has the least chance of passage; a move to reduce the number of legislators in each house.

The present large number of legislators in each house does not give the people better representation, but worse. When the numbers become so large—177 in the House, for example—that genuine debate is rare, then a change is desirable. But it is impossible to achieve.

Recently I heard Senator T. Mac Downing of Macomb give as moving a speech as I have heard since I have been in the legislature. One of the reasons I was moved by this Senate speech as I never was by a House speech probably is that during the four terms in the House there were so many members and so much confusion that it was difficult to get into the spirit of debate in the same way you can in the Senate, with its smaller numbers.

But the move for fewer members realistically has no chance of passage, for legislators would be voting themselves out of office—and that isn't likely to happen!

An amendment which has an outside chance of passage is one for an appointive state superintendent of public instruction. Both the Kerner administration and the School Problems Commission have presented such proposals.

The amendment which the governor is most interested in is for a new revenue article, one that would permit greater flexibility in establishing tax laws in the state. Everyone agrees that it should be done—but there is too much disagreement as to how to do it.

A move for a constitutional convention, to redraft the whole state constitution, has absolutely no chance, desirable as it may be.

Changes in the state constitution will come slowly.

Letter To The Editor:

Greater Depth In Various Disciplines Is Goal Visualized By These Writers

It would be regrettable if some of the statements of Professor Coleman at the recent Freshman Convocation were not given wider dissemination. Professor Coleman's talk was titled: "On Being Superficial." We acknowledge his competence in this subject area and quote a few of his generalities:

"...the knowledge of psychology you can acquire in one year of study can make you a better husband, a more kindly and companionable parent...there is not another area of knowledge in which so much prejudice and ignorance persist at the present time, and a relatively small amount of reading and study in this area will enable you to zero in on most of these misconceptions."

"I dislike to say anything about economics because here confusion reigns supreme and unchallenged. Economists do not understand the simplest motivations of people, they do not comprehend what economic principles are operating in a given place at a given time, and I am sure they do not understand each other, for they never agree. Most of them, perhaps all, have a complete misunderstanding of the basic principles of general semantics. They can talk for hours or write hundreds of pages without stooping to define elusive, difficult terms."

"A superficial knowledge of physics might give an informed electorate enough sense to save the world from disaster, and I do not take kindly the high and mighty attitudes of the professors of physics who refuse to talk to us until we dedicate ourselves to expertise in their field."

"A long time ago I played a good game of pool and was just on the verge of learning to play pool too well when I gave up the game altogether."

A broad education is desirable. However, we deplore a superficiality which leads to these remarks. Freshman students should be encouraged to study the various disciplines in greater depth than that evidenced by Professor Coleman. At the very least the students will be able to relate the content and relevance of these subject areas to contemporary problems from knowledge rather than ignorance.

PACHITO CASTILLO RESTS AFTER A FALL

Netmen Push Winning Streak To 11

By defeating one of the nation's best tennis teams, Lamar Tech, Southern's netmen boosted its season record to an 11-0, as they turned back the Cardinals twice last weekend by scores of 7-2 at Carbondale.

Tech coach Bill Tipton, who is in his initial year of coaching tennis, has had his troubles this year trying to keep a three year 65 game win streak on the line.

Tipton, who doubles as the epd coach on Tech's football team, lost his number one and two singles men this year and his number four singles man, Tim Heckler, is in the hospital.

Consequently, the Tech streak was stopped last week by Corpus Christi of Texas at 65. But the Salukis handed the Cardinals their second and third losses in 70 outings.

Lamar Tech only played 5 men and gave up two points to SIU before the matches even started. But the Salukis didn't need the charity points, as coach Dick LeFevre's players streaked to their 11th straight win.

Captain Pachito Castillo and Lance Lumsden were the only Salukis to lose singles matches, as Bob and Roy Sprengelmeyer, Wilson Burge and George Domenech kept their season slates clean.

Castillo lost both weekend matches to the Card's Alfonso Ochoa, Mexican star, and Southern's number one singles ace Lumsden dropped Friday afternoon's match to John Maloney. But the Jamaican came back strong in the next days' competition to defeat the Tech number one man in two straight sets, 6-4, 6-2.

The Salukis travel to Kansas City next Friday and Saturday to compete in the Missouri Quadrangular against Kansas, Oklahoma State and Wichita. SIU's next home match will be May 21 against Washington of St. Louis with the much disputed woman tennis player, Carol Hanks.

Friday's results:

Maloney over Lumsden, 6-1, 6-2.

Ochoa defeated Castillo, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

R. Sprengelmeyer beat Francis Rawstorne, 6-0, 6-4.

B. Sprengelmeyer defeated Jerry Johnson, 6-2, 6-0.

Burge over Mike Hilley, 6-0, 6-1.

Lumsden-Burge defeated Maloney-Johnson, 7-5, 8-6.

Domenech-B. Sprengelmeyer won by default.

Saturday's results:

Ochoa over Castillo, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1.

R. Sprengelmeyer beat Rawstorne, 9-7, 3-6, 6-4.

B. Sprengelmeyer defeated Johnson, 6-0, 6-1.

Domenech over Hilley, 6-2, 6-1.

Burge won by default. Ochoa-Maloney beat Castillo-R. Sprengelmeyer, 6-1, 6-0.

Lumsden-Burge over Johnson-Sprengelmeyer, 7-5, 6-3.

Final Score, 1-0:

Baseball Squad Loses Third Game In A Row

"You can't win games unless you score," Glenn Martin sadly commented following SIU's 1-0 baseball loss to Arkansas State Saturday in a single game.

The scheduled double header was called off by mutual agreement. Arkansas State asked that a single game be played and SIU agreed.

The loss was Southern's third straight and fourth in the last five games. The Salukis record now stands at 5-4 and Arkansas State's record is 4-11.

Ed Walter lost his first game in three starts Saturday despite pitching a three-hitter. His record now stands at 1-1 for the season.

The 18-year-old freshman right-hander from Mt. Carmel had a no-hitter for five and two-thirds innings. George Glenn broke up the no-hit bid with a 3-2 two-out single to centerfield.

"I took a little something off my fast ball in an attempt to get the ball over," a disgruntled Walter said later.

Glenn stole second and then came home to score when Dave Leonard dropped Jim Dawson's fly ball which would have ended the inning.

SIU threatened in the first inning with runners on second and third with two men out. Jerry Qualls struck out to end the threat. The next three times at bat he singled safely.

In the sixth and seventh innings the Salukis had men on first and second but failed to score. In the ninth SIU had a base runner on second with only one out. But the next two hitters struck out to end the game.

Walter struck out six Ar-

kansas hitters while walking only two. Both walks came in the fourth inning.

Jerry Hudgins, 6 foot 7 inch pitcher, struck out five Salukis and walked two.

SIU's next game is Saturday when a group of alumni return for a single game.

Mike Pratte, SIU catcher, singled twice in four plate appearances. Gib Snyder and John Stebel also hit safely for SIU.

Distance Medley Teams Wins Kansas Relays Without Dupree

SIU's varsity distance medley team retained its title and the freshman mile relay quartet won the mile relay Saturday at the Kansas Relays.

SIU set three new school records at the meet which attracted track teams from Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Lincoln University, Baylor, Colorado, Wichita, Drake, North Texas State and Iowa.

The Salukis varsity distance medley team won the event without the services of Jim Dupree who recently was ruled ineligible for competition.

The Saluki quartet of Brian Turner, Bill Cornell, Jack Peters and Ed Houston won the event in the time of 9:52. It bettered SIU's 9:53.6 winning last year.

The SIU freshman mile relay team won the event with a 3:17.2 which bettered the existing Kansas Relays record. But the Salukis will not be credited with the record since Drake ran a qualifying time of 3:17.1.

Jerry Fendrich ran a :49.1,

Bill Lindsey a :49.9, Bob Wheelwright :49.7 and Gary Carr a :48.5 quarter-mile legs on the winning Saluki mile relay team.

SIU's varsity 440, 880 and sprint medley teams all set new school records. Houston, Bob Green, Jim Stewart and Al Pulliam were members of the Saluki 440 and 880 relay teams which took fifth places while setting the new records.

The varsity sprint medley team of Houston, Cornell, Stewart and Pulliam took third place with a time of 3:23.4 for the other school record.

SIU's times for the 440 and 880 relays were :41.5 seconds and 1:27.5 respectively.

SIU's freshman sprint medley quartet finished third behind North Texas State and Drake.

George Woods placed fourth in the shot put with a toss of 54 feet 10 inches. Bob Green placed fifth in the 120-yard high hurdles after hitting the first hurdle which slowed him down.

Six Softball Games Scheduled Today

Here is the SIU men's intramural softball schedule for today. Games at Thompson Point will start at 4:15 p.m. and games at Chautauqua will start at 5 o'clock.

Thompson Point -- Field 1 -- Saluki Hall vs. C.O.M.; Field Two -- Fanatics vs. Altkies; Field 3 -- Devils vs. Ag Co-op.

Chautauqua -- Field 1 -- Feelers vs. Warriors; Field 2 -- Second shots vs. Ball Beaters; Field 3 -- Illinois Avenue Residence Hall vs. Bailey Tigers.

Mrs. Martin Chaperons Arkansas Baseball Trip

Mrs. Elise Martin, wife of SIU baseball coach Glenn Martin, chaperoned the baseball team on its trip to Jonesboro, Ark., this weekend.

Mrs. Martin has been following the Saluki baseball fortunes ever since her husband revived the sport here in 1947. She is at every home game and usually makes one trip away from home.

"I just love baseball," she commented on the bus ride while looking up from a copy of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch sports pages.

How Ford economy won for Tiny Lund at Daytona

The Daytona 500 is one of America's toughest stock car events. It measures the toughness, stability, overall performance and economy characteristics of the cars that take up its challenge—in a way that compresses years of driving punishment into 500 blazing miles. This year mechanical failures claimed over 50 per cent of the cars that entered. That's why Tiny Lund's victory in a Ford (with four other Fords right behind him) is a remarkable testimony to sheer engineering excellence.

Lund attributed his victory in part to the "missing pit stop." He made one less pit stop for fuel than his competition—proving that Ford economy can pay off in some fairly unlikely situations!

Economy and the winner of the Daytona 500 might sound like odd bedfellows at first. Yet economy is basic in every car we make . . . yes, even the Thunderbird is an economy car in its own way. Here's what we mean . . .

Economy is the measure of service and satisfaction the customer receives in relation to the price he pays for it. It does not mean, however, austerity . . . you have taught us this. Americans want—and we try hard to give them—cars that are comfortable to ride in, fun to drive, and powerful enough to get out of their own way. Not many Americans want to settle for basic transportation. You see this in our sales figures—more than half of our 1963 sales are coming from the top of each model line. We're selling convertibles, hardtops, the jazzy cars . . . the bucket-seat, high-performance, luxury editions are going like hot cakes.

Yet for all the fun that people are demanding in their cars, they still are very conscious of the element of thrift—of avoiding unnecessary expense. This is the kind of economy we build into every car from the compact Falcon to the luxurious Thunderbird.

There's a special economy, for instance, in Ford's freedom from service. Every car and virtually every wagon can travel 36,000 miles before it needs a major chassis lubrication. Other routine service has been reduced, too—because these Fords are simply built better—and of better materials—than ever before.

In its own elegant way, even the Thunderbird gives you economy. It will travel 100,000 miles or 3 years before you have to lubricate the chassis. Thunderbirds have a way of becoming classics—as a look at their remarkably high resale value will quickly tell you. This, too, is economy.

Once, long ago—before the arrival of the Income Tax—a wealthy lady was asked to comment on the solid gold plumbing of her latest villa at Newport. "So thrifty, my dear," said the dowager . . . "it will never, ever rust."

Economy then, is many things to many people. Whatever economy means to you, you're pretty sure to find it in a Ford.

America's liveliest, most care-free cars!
