HEAT WAVES—Veronica Boone (left), a freshman in pre-med and Ronnie Commings, a senior in computer science, found the campus lake an ideal place to escape the heat Tuesday. Temperatures reached a record-high of 92 degrees, beating the old record of 90 set in 1965. Cooler temperatures are expected Wednesday with the high reaching 75 to 85 degrees.

City may stop granting late bar hours

By Mary Ann McNulty
Staff Writer

This weekend may be the last time Carbondale bars will be allowed extended closing hours if some City Council members have their way.

The Council voted 3-2 Monday night to extend bar hours until 6 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday for Kappa Kappa.

However, the Council will discuss refusing to grant future requests at the informal council meeting May 12.

Councilman Archie Jones moved to deny the Kappa Kappa Council's request to extend the closing hours, and Councilman Charles Watkins seconded the proposal. The motion was defeated 3-2.

"I see no reason for allowing this or any organization to go until 6 a.m. I am not against the Kappas. I don't want to extend (the privilege) to any organization," Jones said.

Watkins agreed, saying he would not support this request and would not support any other such request.

Mayor Hans Fischer said, "It might be assumed to be arbitrary and capricious to deny this. We should probably, at this time, think of adopting a policy of not allowing any extensions."

The mayor said it would be best to approve this particular request, "in fairness to the people in the community who have expected this."

Councilwoman Helen

Westberg said if a group's request was granted in the past, it would be unfair to tell members one week before the event that the hour extension would not be granted this year.

"We have to let people know what the decision is (on extended hours) so that they know in advance," Westberg said.

Police Chief Ed Hogan originally said he opposed any such request because he thought that council members said in previous discussions that granting the extensions would be discontinued.

"Someplace along the line, some type of consistency must be met. I think that perhaps now is the time to have that consistency," Hogan said.

Hogan agreed denying the Kappas would probably be considered an arbitrary decision. He said that according to his information, attendance at the Kappa Kappa has been on the decline, and if 2,500 visitors are in the city this weekend, it will be a large crowd.

When the council granted bar hour extensions for Halloween, an ordinance was adopted to allow that privilege.

Bush makes election comeback in Pennsylvania GOP primary PHILADELPHIA (AP)—George Bush put new life into his Republican presidential campaign Tuesday, defeating GOP front-runner Ronald Reagan in the Pennsylvania primary election.

NBC News said its projection showed that Bush would win the Republican primary gaining the comeback he sought.

Sen Edward Kennedy gained a lead over President Carter Tuesday night. Democratic returns from 92 of the 9,571 precincts showed Kennedy ahead with 6,123 votes, for 52 percent. Carter had 4,894, or 41 percent.

for 52 percent. Carter had 4,894, or 41 percent.

In the Republican race, Bush had 3,013 votes, for 51 percent. Reagan had 2,884 votes, for 48 percent.

Bush and Kennedy, bent on twin rallies against the faraway party frontrunners, campaigned into primary election day. Both men considered the primary pivotal to their underdog campaigns, and they worked tirelessly here in recent weeks. But both said they would go on whatever the result.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll of voters indicated that Bush was doing very well throughout the state in his duel with Reagan, with Kennedy and Carter locked in a tight race. The poll consists of interviews with 4,000 persons as they left polling places.

Allies to pull diplomats from Iran

By The Associated Press
America's European allies on Tuesday ordered immediate reduction in their diplomatic staffs in Iran and said they would impose economic sanctions unless "decisive progress" is made by mid-May toward freeing the American hostages in Tehran.

Iran, in turn, threatened to stop oil exports to countries that join the U.S. sanctions and took steps to move closer to the Soviet bloc.

The European allies also ordered an arms embargo against Iran immediately. They said they would send their ambassadors back to Tehran to urge the Iranian government to free the 53 hostages held since Nov. 4.

House OKs draft registration funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives gave its approval Tuesday to President Carter's plan to register millions of young men for the draft this summer.

The House passed a measure to supply $13.3 million to revitalize the dormant Selective Service System and clear the way for registration of some 4 million young men age 19 and 20, born in 1960 and 1961.

House approval of the draft registration proposal came on a preliminary vote of 218-188 after House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill had predicted the measure would pass. The final vote, taken after consideration of several amendments, was 219-180, closer than White House officials had expected.

Although the House approved the registration plan, it would take further congressional action to institute an actual draft.

The Senate has not scheduled action on the proposal, but Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., has vowed to try to filibuster it to death.

Rep. Paul Simon of the 24th legislative district voted in favor of the funding.

Council criticizes bar survey

By Mary Ann McNulty
Staff Writer

City Council members think there ARE more things to do in Carbondale than drink.

At the Liquor Control Commission meeting Monday night, council members criticized a survey which concluded that Carbondale has more bars per capita than nine other Illinois cities. One council member said the survey "didn't seem fair."

Jack McKillip, associate professor of psychology, conducted the survey for the Alcohol Education Project. The survey compared the number of liquor licenses per 1,000 adults in Anna, Bloomington, Carbondale, Champaign, Chicago, DeKalb, Marion, Normal, Murphysboro and Peoria. The survey found Carbondale had more liquor establishments per person than the other cities.

Councilwoman Helen Westberg said, "The communities are different, and you can't just deal with the statistics. You have to take into consideration other factors."

Westberg pointed out that the population computed in the survey was of people 21 years of age and older. However, Carbondale has a particularly large number of students aged 18 to 21, she said.

Westberg suggested more recreation alternatives be developed in the city, especially for teens, aged 14-19. However, Mayor Hans Fischer disagreed, and said, "If someone comes down here and says that the only thing to do here is drink, when we're in the recreational center of Southern Illinois," then he is under a completely false impression.

Councilman Charles Watkins noted that Carbondale is not only the retail trade center of a large region in Southern Illinois, but it is also the entertainment center.

"If we took the number of restaurants, movie theaters, etc. into consideration, I think you would get some interesting results," Watkins said.

Westberg said the unfortunate point is that spectacular events in Carbondale are picked up nationally and amplified.

Bill to aid Agriculture School filed

By Conrad Stuntz
Staff Writer

Representative Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, has filed a bill in the General Assembly that would give the SIU-C School of Agriculture $1,024,800 to replace outdated food production and research facilities.

The bill will be reviewed by House Appropriations Committee I Wednesday.

According to Gilbert Kroening, dean of the School of Agriculture, the bill will release funds to build new animal shelters and meat production and finishing facilities.

"Most of our facilities came to us in the '50s when the agriculture department obtained school status," Kroening said. "But now, some of our facilities out there have exceeded their life expectancy."

has already excluded the money for the improvements from his higher education capital developments recommendations for the fiscal year 1981 budget.

However, Thompson's recommendations include more than $4 million to purchase equipment for the University of Illinois' veterinary medicine basic sciences building and its swine research center, and $67,000 for an agriculture laboratory at Illinois State University.

Keith Sanders, SIU-C governmental relations officer, said this is "absolutely unfair. We have a fine school of agriculture. Our Food For Century III projects are just as worthy as the University of Illinois'."

Food For Century III is a program the University of Illinois started in 1976 in conjunction with SIU and other Illinois universities to provide funding for research and teaching facilities. The facilities are supposed to enable the schools to meet world food production needs.

SIU-C has received $2.9 million under the Food For Century III label for the remodeling of Muckelroy auditorium, the addition of air conditioning and other improvements to the Agriculture building, and the construction of a new feed mill for SIU-C Farms, Kroening said.

"That's not quite half way through," he added. "We'll take another three or four years of funding" to modernize SIU-C's agriculture facilities.

"I think they should fund us adequately so that we can operate at an optimum level," Kroening said.

CAMPUS SHOPPING CENTER CARBONDALE

Second finalist to visit campus for interviews

By Paula Donner Walter
Staff Writer

T. Alexander Pond, one of the five candidates for the SIU-C presidency, will be on campus Wednesday for public and private interviews. He is the second candidate to visit the campus.

Pond, executive vice president of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, will hold public question-answer sessions at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

He will also meet with Chancellor Kenneth Shaw, members of the Presidential Search Committee, constituency heads and other administrators. He will visit the medical school campus in Springfield on Thursday.

"The University (SIU) is a vital and attractive place. It's one of those places one watches when you are working at a new campus like I am," Pond said in a recent telephone interview.

The 55-year-old native of Los Angeles has served as acting president of SUNY-Stony Brook three times during the past decade. He is a professor of physics, and he served as chairman of that department for six years.

He received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in physics from Princeton University.

As executive vice president, Pond is responsible for the Computing Center, allocation of the university's resources, institutional planning, the Office of Management Systems and the Affirmative Action program.

Bond OK needed for plaza go-ahead

By Mary Harmon
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council has told a Missouri realty company that it needs to set guidelines before it can issue revenue bonds to help finance a discount store complex in southwest Carbondale.

The council also indicated it would not act until the property on which the $4 million complex would be constructed is annexed into the city.

Jim Murtha, representing the Leo Eisenberg Co. of St. Louis, asked the council at its meeting Monday night for a letter of intent to issue revenue bonds to help finance construction of a K-Mart, Super X drugstore and Kroger grocery store near the Ramada Inn.

City Manager Carroll Fry said that while the property had been rezoned for commercial development, it had not been the council's intent to issue revenue bonds outside the city's corporate limits. He suggested that no action be taken until the revenue bond criteria had been established as well.

Dan Kimmel, a local attorney and owner of the property, said he will seek annexation soon.

Murtha, who helped develop businesses in Murphysboro, Sparta and Taylorville, said his company was originally trying to meet a fall completion deadline.

"Had the money market not taken the turn it has, we would probably be under construction now," he said. "But, it is financially impossible to go ahead through conventional financing."

Steven Scheinberg, bond

underwriter for the Eisenberg Co., said that the time lapse may hurt the project.

"The city should be commended for its intelligent planning, but I wonder whether the city can establish the criteria and decide on this issue the same night," said Scheinberg, who is also the underwriter for the city's proposed convention center.

"I think they should have used this project as the criteria for future projects.

"Instead of the council's taking the opportunity to insulate itself from the economy, the city may now become a casualty of it," he said.

Scheinberg said the discount complex would create about 200 low- and moderate-income jobs, 175 of which would be full-time. The complex would add an estimated $4.5 annually to the Carbondale economy.

Policy for revenue bonds issued by the city includes no liability to the city. The city's primary role is to lend its name.

At its meeting last week, the council endorsed the concept of using revenue bonds to help finance commercial development.

Be your pardon

A news story in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian about Carbondale's operating budget incorrectly reported that the city's lake, recreation and forestry department will receive a budget of $4.9 million. The department will receive $139,957. The city's general fund amounts to $4.9 million.

Something special for secretaries

Nick Sortal

Being a respectful kind of guy (at times), I tried to take it upon myself early this week to do something special for all the secretaries I ever run into as a student or as a reporter. I mean after all, this IS secretaries' week, and we should do a little something for those who work so hard.

I should have known what to expect when I began my odyssey by telephoning the secretary at one of those women's groups (I forgot which one).

"You secretaries really have it rough. You have to type up letters, answer the phone and put up with the boss chasing you—all at the same time," I started.

For some reason, she hung up on me. I guess she had to finish a letter.

Next, I decided to call up a secretary for one of the administrators in Anthony Hall. Generally they're all very nice, yet protective of their bosses.

"You secretaries really have it rough," I began again. "You have to type..."

A voice at the other end interrupted: "Don't worry, the tape recorder's not on. What do you want?"

Zero-for-two.

I remembered the name of a secretary who was very active in the Civil Service Bargaining Organization. Now if anyone would appreciate being honored for her work, it would be her.

"You secretaries really have it rough," I began for the third time. And for the third time I didn't finish.

She interrupted, saying, "What kind of secretary do you mean? A secretary steno IV or a secretary steno V? Certain ones get paid more than others."

I admitted to not knowing the difference.

Oh well, o-for-three.

Maybe a phone technique wasn't the best way to honor secretaries.

So I tried the in-person approach...

I went to the front of the newspaper office, where many a time I have rushed in quickly to get change for a dollar, transit tickets, etc.

For effect, I went up to one of the older secretaries, gave her a nephew-like pat on the back, and a peck on the cheek.

She slapped my face. Secretaries' week. Who needs it?

Letters

Congratulations, Little Egypt

Let us take this opportunity to congratulate the publishers and editors of Little Egypt. Putting together a publication of student writings can be at times a very frustrating but in the end when the work is complete it is a very rewarding experience.

The experience gained by writers from this type of publication is priceless. It gives them an opportunity to display their work to the world.

However, let me remind you of another regularly appearing student magazine, the Solar Wind. Solar Wind is the official publication of the Science Fiction Society at SIU. It contains short stories, art, book reviews and science fiction works.

Science fiction has in recent years become a very popular field with movies like "Star Wars," "Star Trek—The Motion Pictures," and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind." Long time fans such as Isaac Asimov, Harlan Ellison, and Robert Heinlein are in great demand. New authors such as Vern Riffe and Stephen A. Donaldson are also making a name for themselves.

Those who wish to have first hand experience in the field of work can do so through "Solar Wind." The magazine is read by others in the science fiction field as well as the general public.

If you wish to have your work included in the next issue of "Solar Wind," there are two routes. You can either drop by the Science Fiction Society meetings on Monday nights in Ballroom D, third floor of the Student Center, or drop off your work in the Society's mailbox in the office of Student Development.—Garry Wücoz, Junior, Radio Television

Let the buyer beware

Elaine Baly and Michael Frenchman (April 16 DE) didn't stretch the truth—they warped it, tortured it, and most of all, they ignored it.

The University community was invited to a presentation on "The U.S.-Iran Conflict: A Close-up Look." What they got was a propaganda exercise, replete with unsupported assertions, anti-american catch phrase rhetoric and the kind of Joseph Goebbels (Hitler's Propaganda Minister for those too young to recognize the name) "big-lie" that positively delighted the predominantly Iranian audience.

The whole show was unworthy of support of a University community dedicated to the scholarly pursuit of truth, even if we have to tolerate it in the name of freedom. If this presentation is an example of the kind of farce that the "Coalition of Progressive Social Scientists" is going to offer our community of scholars, then caveat emptor.—Harold G. Richard, Director, Institutional Research and Studies

Abortion display appreciated

This letter is in response to those who opposed the abortion display in the Student Center.

You say forgiveness is the proper response to those who experience the tragedy of abortion. The problem as I see it is that most people don't see abortion as a moral wrong that needs forgiveness, but either as an unfortunate mistake or else a great emotional inconvenience. You say that the display was emotional propaganda. I, however, found the display aimed primarily toward my mind, not my heart.

You say the display was obscene. The obvious reply is: are you sure you meant the display or could you be referring to the issues the display brings to light? Yes, it was distasteful, but then, so were the films "The Deer Hunter" and "Holocaust."

Everything in this world that needs to be said will not always be sweet. Yet because the abortion issue involves our strongest emotions, we might want to turn away and not think about it. After viewing that display I must admit I could not dismiss it from my mind as I could most of the other displays.

I for one appreciated the display for helping me to see this issue more clearly. I regret its very early closing.—Rick Lilla, Senior, Art

Tom debate not so surprising

No one in the Student Government or Student Organization should be surprised that the very few members of the news media showed up at the presidential debate. In the best of my recollection, Student government has never done anything really newsworthy. I don't know how they could expect coverage of a debate involving people who will never get anything substantial accomplished.

It seems to me that the last person in student government who really warranted news coverage was Garrick Clinton Matthews, J. Burt, Sophomore, Radio-Television

Various prophecies in harmony

I'd like to comment on a letter in your April 10 issue that stated "The Bible is the only book of scripture that dares to foretell the future and accurately so." While I'll agree that the Bible is a source of accurate prophecy, I'd like to present a few ideas for consideration.

There exist several other scriptures in the world that also contain prophecies foretelling future events. And what's interesting is that if you take time to look at and compare the prophecies of these books, you'll find that they're in remarkable agreement with each other.

There seems to be many scriptures that contain similar and reliable prophecies. The prophecies of these divergent races, nationalities and religions all harmonize and agree. Check them out, you might be pleased and surprised at what you find. Could it be that a wise and loving God has provided guidance to all His children through His successive Messengers? And that it is His purpose for His children to finally be gathered together into one family under the guidance of a universal teacher who unifies and fulfills the expectations and prophecies of all the worlds religions?

These are fascinating ideas that have only briefly been mentioned here. They deserve more in-depth attention. If anyone would like to discuss this in more detail you're welcome to attend the informal discussions that my family and I host in our home every Friday night. — Joel Smith, Carbondale

SIU to host Special Olympics this week

By Jeffrey Smyth,
Staff Writer

It's appropriate that in the middle of Earth Week, seven days of activities designed to show appreciation for nature and the globe we live on, one day will be devoted to giving love and attention to people. Very special people.

All day Thursday, starting at 9:00 a.m. with opening ceremonies and ending whenever, McAndrew Stadium will be the site of the Southern Illinois Special Olympics track and field competition.

The first Special Olympics events were held in 1968 in Chicago after William Freeburg, professor of recreation at SIU-C and Ann Burke brought the idea of athletics events for mentally disabled persons to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation. Since then it has become a year-round occurrence in the United States and in over 30 countries around the world.

This year's track and field events will be entered by more than 1,000 people from 18 Southern Illinois counties.

Dan Crunk, visiting instructor of recreation and coordinator of the event, said some 2,500 to 3,000 volunteers will be on hand to insure that the 450 different events run smoothly.

"This is a major undertaking," Crunk said. "There are many different divisions to make sure that participants compete with people of like ability."

"Volunteers are so important to these events," Crunk added. "They are needed to sack hot dogs, pass out awards and many are busy right now typing out forms and setting the participants into divisions. Clowns and 'huggers' will be on hand to give the participants support."

Giving attention and support to the athletes is the most important part of the Special Olympics, Crunk said. Whether an athlete places first or last, there is always someone close by to cheer him on.

"It means so much to them. Many live in institutions and will return to them. They go through life with no applause. It's so important to them."

"I express disappointment in the fan turnout for past opening ceremonies," he said. "They are awed when they come to a college campus and participate in a large stadium and I'd like to see more people out to cheer them."

Besides the athletic events, there is a full slate of other activities planned, including celebrity and guest appearances. Jim Hart, former SIU-C football player and now a quarterback for the St. Louis Cardinals, will be honorary coach of the day. Former Saluki basketball standouts, now pro players or former players, Walt Frazier, Mike Glenn and Joe C. Meriweather will also make appearances.

Special Events for the day include a pool and billiard clinic from 11:00 a.m. to 12 noon hosted by Minnesota Fats, to be held in the billiards room at the Student Center. At 12:30 p.m.

members of the SIU-C Parachute Club will land from the sky in the center of the football field. From 3 to 4 p.m. the St. Louis Zips basketball team will perform tricks and host a clinic at the west end of the football field. Other events will be held throughout the day.

Crunk said some 400 winners of the track and field events will comprise a Southern Illinois team that will compete in a statewide meet in Bloomington later this year.

Some call it a waste of money. Others spend $6 a day to improve their game. The habit-forming flashing lights and ringing bells of pinball machines can be found in almost any bar.

Player: Pinball not a waste of time, but a sport needing quick reactions

By Robin Saponar
Staff Writer

The pressure is on. The lights start flashing. The noises increase in volume. The round silver ball is rolling toward you. If your reactions are quick you could rack up more and more points, enough to play a second game of pinball.

Pinball is considered to be either a challenging sport, a waste of time or family entertainment.

Chuck Laggans, an employee at Quarter Time Junction, considers it to be a sport.

"I think it's a sport. It has a lot to do with your reactions," he said. "Talent is important. Some people can do nothing, some are made to play it."

Laggans, 19, said he has played since he was seven-years-old and still "gets a thrill out of it."

"I get teed-off if I don't get a good score," Laggans said. "Each machine has a pattern.

You've got to play them long enough to know them."

He said a lot of people "think it's just a game you waste your money on."

Laggans added that there are many serious players who don't consider it to be a waste of time.

"To a lot of people it's not a waste. Some guys play the same machine every day just to get better."

"We've got some people who spend $5 or $6 a day on a machine," he added.

"If a person comes real close to a free game he'll want to try again."

"Regular customers will come in rain or shine. Just like having a cup of coffee in the morning it's part of their everyday life," Laggans said.

"They come in with a determined look. If they don't play well they walk out with a sad look. They still come back the next day with a determined look again."

Laggans cited a keen sense of sight, aiming ability and supple wrist action as the major skills needed to play pinball.

City 'Secretary of the Year' to be honored at a banquet

By John Travelstead
Student Writer

Professional secretaries in both the private and public sectors will be honored Wednesday at a banquet sponsored by the Carbondale Chapter of National Secretaries.

"Secretary of the Year" and "Boss of the Year" awards will be presented at the banquet, celebrating National Secretaries Week, at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Carbondale Kamada Inn.

The award will be presented by last year's "Secretary of the Year" Marcia A. Anderson, assistant professor in vocational education studies.

According to Jan. McGee, publicity chairman of the Carbondale Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, the secretarial profession is no longer seen as attractive and worthwhile.

McGee said that basic attitude changes by educators and employers would help to attract applicants to secretarial vacancies.

She said she agreed with Ann Michele, of Albuquerque, N.M., the International Secretaries Association, that secretaries are becoming a rare breed.

Michele said, "Employers must recognize that today's secretaries are trained professionals. Their skills could be better utilized if employers would learn to assign more responsibilities."

"Educators must have support in providing curricula that better prepares students for the world of office work," Michele added.

Pansy Jones, chairperson of the Carbondale chapter's Secretary Week Committee, said that non-member secretaries and their bosses are invited to attend.

flippers, they're not aiming," he said. "Reading the directions is very important. It tells you what to hit and when to hit it."

He said that players will get very excited about a game while playing and react in a variety of ways.

"Some yell, scream and do everything else," he said. "One guy is dangerous because he starts kicking. I'll stand a few yards away from him when he's playing."

Laggans said there are players of all ages. They will be dressed in suits or shorts or jeans. But there are many more male players than females.

"I don't think there are that many ladies interested in that type of entertainment," Laggans said. "If there were more girls in here, more would come in to play."

Glynn Witte, a sophomore in business management, said he thought more men played pinball because "some arcades have been dumpty. Girls might not want to go in there."

Witte entered a pinball contest in a Carbondale bar and won a television set.

"I just walked in and saw they were having a contest. I didn't think I had a chance," he said.

"To play it cost me about $15 or $20 and I ended up with a 10-inch black and white TV. It was a good investment."

Witte started playing at arcades when he was 13-years-old. Now he plays when he is in a bar.

"I've always been someone who wants to do something besides standing in a bar," he explained.

Witte said that "making saves" with the ball is very important.

"The major points (of the game) are making saves, knowing how to work the flippers and quickness," he said. "You've got to know the machine, shake it right and use a little body english."

He estimates having spent at least $500 playing pinball, yet he considers the expense to be worth it.

"You have to invest a lot of time and money," Witte said.

Forfeits haunt IM softball tourney

By Rick Seymour
Staff Writer

As if the intramural office didn't have enough to do with the basketball playoffs, it now has to worry about the softball playoffs that started last weekend.

An astounding 13 forfeits took place over the weekend in the first round of the playoffs. There even was a double forfeit when neither team showed up for its game.

"I was really surprised to see that many forfeits. They probably happened because we did not have a captains' meetings before the playoffs."

Cubs 'slam' Cards, 16-12

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP)—Barry Foote's second homer of the game, a grand slam with two out in the ninth inning, powered the Chicago Cubs to a comeback 16-12 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday.

Foote, who had four hits and eight RBI, had tied the score in the eighth inning with a solo homer.

Bobby Bonds, Ken Reitz and Bob Forsch homered for St. Louis in the Cards' 16-hit attack. The Cubs had 23 hits, including five by Ivan DeJesus, who hit the cycle—a single, double, triple and home run.

Bruce Sutter, 1-1, earned the victory. The loss went to Mark Littell, 0-1.

DeJesus completed his cycle in five innings, with a homer in the first, a double in the third, a single in the fourth, and a triple in the fifth. He also singled in the seventh.

The Cards, who hit or y two homers in nine games in Chicago last season, got two in the third inning. Bonds hit a two-run homer and Reitz had a solo shot, putting St. Louis ahead, 6-2.

The Cubs tied it with four runs in the bottom of the third, Jerry Martin driving in two with a bases-loaded single and Foote following with a two-run double.

Forsch opened a five-run St. Louis fourth with a double. Bonds and George Hendrick each contributed a run-scoring single, and Reitz capped the rally with a two-run double. Forsch homered in the fifth.

DeJesus completed his cycle in five innings, with a homer in pionship will take place April 30. All games are to be played at the Arena softball fields.

In a Co-Pec game last weekend, Zucchini Surprise edged Dow Theorists, 6-5. Back-to-back two-run barrages in the fourth and the fifth enabled Zucchini Surprise to walk away with a narrow victory.

Dow Theorists took an early lead in the game with a two-run first inning followed by a run in the second. Zucchini Surprise was shut out in the second and third innings, making it appear that Dow Theorists were going to nab the win.

Twenhafel said there have been few problems with the tournament thus far.

"As long as the weather holds out, it should work out rather well," she said.

USGF championships await gymnast Babcock

While attempting a double-back somersault during the optional floor exercises, Babcock strained both ankles. He said he injured his ankles because he didn't practice the trick enough since he injured his right ankle against Ohio State in February.

"I thought I was ready to do it mentally because I'd done it a lot before the injury," Babcock said. "I guess I was wrong."

Babcock said he was not sure how well he would do at this year's championships.

"I am going to have to raise my pain tolerance," Babcock said. "It all depends on how well I'll be able to handle the pain."

Last year at the USGF championships in Dayton, Ohio, Babcock finished 33rd. He said he hopes to improve upon last year's performance.

Pre-planning is a must in buying outdoor gear

Purchasing backpacking and camping equipment can be confusing, to say the least. Step into any outdoor store and you will be confronted with five or six choices of equipment. The choices may vary in price, weight, size, color and each may have a special added attraction. Which do you choose?

When you are buying equipment it is important to compare as many brands as you can, but even before you step into the store you should consider a few points.

First, consider what your use of the equipment will be. If you are buying boots, will they be worn for occasional leisurely hikes or will they be used in winter mountaineering expeditions? The weight and construction of the boot you buy should depend on the expected use.

Another point to think about is if the piece of equipment is adaptable for several uses. Some packs have compression straps which allow you to have a big pack for longer trips or a smaller, compressed pack for shorter ventures.

A third and very important consideration is the construction of the piece of equipment. You ALWAYS want to check for quality workmanship. One thing that sometimes makes this difficult is the lingo of the outdoor equipment.

If you are comparing sleeping bag construction and do not know what the terms baffle, differential, draft flap, slant box, overlapping V and sewn through mean, you will have problems comparing sleeping bags.

So how do you learn enough about outdoor equipment to be able to purchase wisely? Equipment catalogs have a wealth of information in them. By leafing through catalogs from companies such as EMS, REI, Lowe Alpine, Holubar, L.L. Bean or Early Winter, you can compare pieces of equipment without leaving the house.

Catalogs also have special articles on topics such as boot construction, differences in ski construction, or descriptions of the fabrics and materials used in their products. Looking through many catalogs will give you a better idea of what is available on the market.

The next thing to do is to talk to different people about their equipment. Talk to people who backpack and camp, and ask them why they bought a certain brand. Go into outdoor stores and talk to salespeople—they are more than happy to tell you about their equipment.

Pitching paces Salukis past UMSL

By Mark Pabich
Staff Writer

SIU's Bob Schroeck had quite a day pitching against Missouri-St. Louis Tuesday at Abe Martin Field. The junior lefthander relieved freshman Rick Wysocki in the seventh inning of the first game, recording his first save of the season, as the Salukis won, 3-1.

In game two, Schroeck put in a complete game, four-hit performance, striking out six in SIU's 2-0 win over the Rivermen. The victory, Schroeck's fourth of the year, put his career mark at 19-2, tying an SIU record for winning percentage, .905.

Wysocki, who recorded his first collegiate victory in game one, said he was "relieved" to have Schroeck finish for him.

"With someone like Bobby finishing up the game for me, how could I lose?" he asked. "I got a little tired about the sixth inning because I was throwing hard today.

"It feels great getting that first win under my belt," he said. "Being able to pitch last weekend and again today put me in a regular rotation, which helps me out a great deal throwing every four or five days.

"My slider and the rest of my pitches were moving right, and I got the hits behind me, too."

The hit which got things rolling in the first game was a solo home run by junior Gerry Miller, his seventh of the season. The Milwaukee, Wis., native leads the Salukis in home runs and RBIs.

"Gerry has been hitting well all season," Jones said, "and now he's just getting more power behind the ball and he's hitting some home runs."

The Salukis' other two runs came in the third inning on singles by freshman Joe Richardson and Bob Doerrer, along with a few UMSL errors. Jones said pitching was the key to both victories.

"Two of our best pitchers were throwing today, and without them, the wins wouldn't have been easy, if at all," he said. "We just couldn't have won without pitching. "We weren't hitting the ball at all," Jones added. "Right at the end of the game you say to yourself 'two good wins,' but after you look at the statistics you realize we didn't hit consistently against a team that's played a lot of games the past three days."

In game two, the Salukis managed only two runs, both coming in the second inning. Freshman shortstop P.J. Schranz opened the inning with a walk, then stole second base. Junior Paul Ondo, playing center field for the first time this season, cracked a double, scoring Schranz.

"We've been working on changing Ondo's batting style lately," Jones said. "We've been trying to work him in the lineup again and his hitting came through for him today."

Another double by junior catcher Gary Kempton followed, scoring Ondo and finishing the scoring.

"I'm disappointed we didn't hit well as a team," Jones said. The double-header sweep pushed the Salukis' record to 16-10.

Babcock qualifies for USGF all-around competition

Brian Babcock said he was not trying to give gymnastics Coach Bill Meade a heart attack when he fell off the pommel horse twice at the United States Gymnastics Federation regional meet Saturday and Sunday at Michigan State University.

Babcock recovered from the mistakes to finish second out of seven gymnasts trying to qualify for the USGF championships, to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Ohio State University. He scored a 108.9, 0.9 points more than the 108 he needed to advance to the finals for the second straight year.

Two other gymnasts from the Midwest regional qualified for the championships. Marvin Gibbs, Michigan State, finished first with a two-day total of 109.15 and Randy Hairston, Ohio State, was third, 108.3.

The competition was divided into two parts: compulsory exercises and optional exercises. To qualify for the championships, Babcock had to average nine points per event in both competitions.

During Saturday's compulsory competition, Babcock compiled a score of 53.55 in the six events. In the floor exercise, he scored a 9.0, 8.05 on the pommel horse, 9.0 on the rings, 9.1 in vaulting, 9.35 on the parallel bars and a 9.05 on the horizontal bar.

"Saturday night he worked very hard not to make me comfortable by falling off the pommel horse twice," Meade said semi-jokingly. "But after the floor exercise on Sunday, he did the four best exercises on the next four events that I've ever seen him do."

Babcock made the comeback he needed Sunday night, scoring a 53.35 in the optional exercises to bring his score above the qualifying mark. He scored a 8.6 in the floor exercise, 9.35 on the pommel horse, 9.5 on the rings, 9.5 in vaulting, 9.3 on the parallel bars and a 9.1 on the horizontal bar.

Gottfried has triple recruiting option

By Scott Stahmer

The triple option. Although the term might seem more pertinent to his brother Mike, the football head coach at Murray State, it also applies to what Saluki basketball Coach Joe Gottfried is facing as the 1980 recruiting season continues. SIU has one scholarship remaining, and Gottfried can take one of three paths with it.

He can offer it to a power forward, or he could sign a "swingman" capable of playing both guard and small forward. Or, knowing that SIU will have just two scholarships left next year if all are used this year, Gottfried can save it until 1981.

The coach is taking his time before deciding what to do.

Junior college players have visited Carbondale in the last few weeks, and several more are scheduled to visit.

"I can't answer that right now," Gottfried said when asked if the fourth scholarship will be used. "I wish I could be more specific."

The Salukis have signed Robert Kirsner, a 6-1½ point guard from Brooklyn, N.Y.; Vincent Wiggins, a 6-10 center also from Brooklyn; and Johnny Fayne, a 6-4 guard from Carbondale and Dodge City (Kan.) Community College. Wiggins' letter of intent arrived through the mail earlier this week with his and his mother's signatures, making that signing official.

Charles Nance, Karl Morris,

Edward Thomas, David Youngblood, Charles Moore, Lawrence Stubblefield, Kent Payne, Darnall Jones and Scott Russ probably will return next year from this season's 9-17 squad. Also, 6-11 center Rod Camp will be eligible.

"With nine players returning off our traveling squad, and with the addition of Rod Camp," Gottfried said, "we feel pretty good about the nucleus we'll have going into next season."

"Until players have been through the pressure of college basketball, you really can't evaluate a recruiting class," Gottfried added. "We're pleased with what we've gotten so far, because it's what we were looking for in terms of skilled areas."

Kirsner and Fayne are expected to battle for starting positions at the guard slots. Wiggins, along with Youngblood, probably will back up Camp in the pivot.

Gottfried said the new recruits will create more competition for the starting spots, adding that this should improve each player.

"The better the competition, the better each player will develop," he said. "If the only competition a player is getting is on game night, he won't progress as much. Guys like Kent and Darnall are bound and determined to battle for starting positions."

The coach said SIU is attempting not to "over-recruit," or bring in too many players.

"You've got to be careful of over-recruiting," he said. "You can get some players discouraged and have them quit or transfer. We try not to over-recruit."

"I've always believed you have to recruit by position and have guys who are skilled at each position," Gottfried added. "For the most part, our recruiting is geared to getting skilled players for each position."

One "skilled player" Gottfried wouldn't have minded having signed elsewhere last week. Greg Stewart, a 6-9 junior college All-America forward from national champion
