Rape Action Committee pitches for memorial to murder victim

By Dana DeBesumont
Staff Writer

Women from the Rape Action Committee are camping for 48 hours at the Free Forum Area to inform people, especially men, about violence against women, a camper said.

Jackie Martinez, a member of the Rape Action Committee, said The Susan Schumake Memorial Encampment—which began at noon Thursday and will last until noon Saturday—is to inform people about the potential for violence against women so that violence can be avoided.

At 2:30 p.m. Thursday, there were about 50 people, including two classes, at the seven-tent encampment.

The campers also are circulating petitions, requesting that the new east campus pedestrian overpass be named after Schumake. Schumake was raped and murdered in 1981, and her body was found on the Ho Chi Minh trail. The overpass was built because the trail was unsafe.

Larvester Gaither, vice president-elect of the Undergraduate Student Government, said that he would write a resolution requesting the overpass be named after Schumake if the University doesn't take action within two weeks.

"The bridge was built as a result of her being raped," Gaither, who was at the encampment, said. "I can't see how anyone would think otherwise."

(about sexual abuse) out. We're asking men to play a role," Gaither said.

Springfest, which Martinez called "rapefest," is next weekend and is fertile ground for sexual violence against women, she said. People will be drinking and may do things that they may not do otherwise, Martinez, a graduate student in speech communication, said.

Last year, several rapes were reported Springfest weekend.

"We want to reach a male audience," Martinez said. "Men can have a real impact. Men think that women are there and available for them to use for their sexual attitude. Once men can start not being affected by peer pressure, the sexual harassment will end."

When a man notices another man sexually abusing a woman, he should say, "Stop doing that. You're sexually abusing her," instead of encouraging it, she said.

The campers are trying to raise peoples' consciousness about the possibility of sexual abuse.

Gore halts campaign for White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Albert Gore, the youthful Tennessee who entered the presidential race hoping to be the Democrats' Southern savior, suspended his campaign Thursday pledging to help the party regain the White House this year.

By suspending his bid, and not quitting altogether, Gore can keep his winnings of more than 405 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. The freshman senator said that action will allow him have a voice at the Atlanta meeting in July.

Gore was accompanied at his Capitol Hill news conference by his wife, Tipper, campaign staff members and congressional colleagues. His departure from the Democratic field leaves only front-running Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and

Dormitories to get smoke detectors

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

Smoke detectors will be placed in all dormitory rooms by the beginning of the fall semester, Housing Director Edward L. Jones said Thursday.

Smoke detectors also will be placed every 15 feet in residence hall corridors, Jones said.

The residence halls currently are in violation of state fire laws for a lack of smoke detectors. However, Edward Grumley of the State Fire Marshall's office in Marion, said he was aware that the University was bringing the dorms up to compliance.

The halls are equipped with manual pull fire alarms, smoke detectors in ventilation ducts, sprinklers in garbage chutes and heat detectors.

The Daily Egyptian reported in a December 1986 article that the residence halls were in violation of state fire laws.

Carbondale Fire Chief Edward Rushing said in the article that the lack of smoke detectors greatly increased the risk of serious injury and death because a fire can go undetected without quick notification to the fire department.

Jones said the University is going beyond state fire law requirements by placing detectors in dorm rooms. The law only requires that common hallways and corridors be equipped with ceiling-mounted smoke detectors spaced at 30-foot intervals.

"We are pleased with the efforts they (housing officials) have been making," Grumley said.

The smoke detectors will cost $40,000, which is within the housing budget, Jones said.

"We've had to shift priorities, but we feel safety is something to be concerned about," he said.

About 2,500 smoke detectors will be installed in Brush Towers, University Park and Thompson Point housing areas.

China's return policy irks students

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

Some Chinese students at SIU-C are disgruntled about a Chinese government policy that requires them to return to China when they complete their studies in the United States.

Students who are sponsored by the Chinese government or are given assistantships to study abroad must sign a contract binding them to return to their former workplaces in China after they complete their studies. The government implemented the policy last year, fearing that the best and the brightest members of Chinese society were being lured from the country.

Rue Yuan, a graduate student in linguistics, said she feels signing the contract is unnecessary and that the government's fears are unwarranted.

"When I talk to my Chinese friends and students, many say they are going home," she said. "Some may just want to stay here a little longer, but in the end they will go back."

In 1987 there were 96 Chinese students at SIU-C.

Yuan is one of the students who signed a contract. She is working on a master's in teaching English as a second language, which she will complete in one or two semesters.

Before coming to the United States, she taught English at a Chinese university.

"The reason China is having the students sign contracts and why they want them to return, is because the country is undergoing a lot of reforms and is trying to progress in economic development," Yuan said.

"They want people who are very well educated and who have been trained in special fields to go back to their home country to serve and contribute."

"They should trust us instead of having us sign a contract to force us back," said Yujian Zhao, a student who came to the United States before the return rule took effect.

"We are citizens of China,"

Superpower talks friendly but no progress made

MOSCOW (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze held talks in an upbeat atmosphere Thursday but hopes dimmed for a breakthrough in arms control negotiations in the six weeks left before the Moscow superpower summit. There was no suggestion of progress on the troublesome issue of weapons in space, which has plagued the U.S.-Soviet arms talks since the 1986 Reykjavik summit.

Gunmen leave Mexican bank in armored car

LOS MOCHIS, Mexico (UPI) — Six gunmen who held more than 40 hostages in a bank overnight in a robbery attempt that left five people dead traded their captives for four Red Cross workers Thursday, boarded an armored car provided by police and sped off to the cheers of a crowd. Before the departure, one gunman warned authorities he had dynamite strapped to his body and "the entire armored car would blow up" if police attacked.

Iran: U.S. killed sailors from crippled ship

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran's navy commander accused U.S. forces Thursday of opening fire on and killing Iranian sailors who had jumped into the water from their missile-damaged warship during the U.S.-Iranian confrontation in the Persian Gulf. A Pentagon spokesman said, "I don't think that this type of thing warrants a reaction."

Released hostages welcomed back to Kuwait

KUWAIT (UPI) — Released hostages from a Kuwait Airways jumbo jet received an unprecedented hero's welcome on their return to Kuwait from Algiers Thursday after 16 days on a flight of terror spanning three countries and 7,600 miles. Three members of the ruling Al-Sabah family were the first to disembark at Kuwait's international airport. The crew followed and then the remaining passengers. Security was tight at the airport where military bands played national music and scores of costumed girls sang Arab folk songs.

House ignores threats, OKs trade reform bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House, ignoring President Reagan's veto threats, overwhelming approved a trade reform bill Thursday intended to open international markets and stop foreign trade abuses. Lawmakers approved the package — including a controversial advance notice requirement for business layoffs and plant shutdowns — on a 312-107 vote and sent it to the Senate for final action.

Judge denies motion to delay North hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge Thursday rebuffed attorneys for Lt. Col. Oliver North and two other Iran-Contra defendants who charged the judge has made "hollow the judicial promise" that immunized testimony would not be used against them. U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell denied a motion by defense attorneys to delay Monday's pre-trial hearing, set to determine whether independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh and his investigators "were properly isolated from exposure" to immunized testimony given by the defendants during last summer's congressional hearings into the Iran-Contra affair.

Investigators: TVA reactor manager lied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal investigators testified Thursday that the manager of the Tennessee Valley Authority's nuclear reactors lied to the government, prompting a congressional chairman to suggest that dismissal might be warranted. Ben Hayes, director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's Office of Investigation, said TVA manager Steven White submitted false statements "in letters in which White certified a TVA nuclear reactor as being in compliance with quality assurance standards."

Judge refuses to dismiss smoker-death suit

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A judge refused Thursday to dismiss a widower's suit against the cigarette companies he blames for his wife's death by lung cancer, ruling there is credible evidence the tobacco industry engaged in a "devious" conspiracy to hide the dangers of smoking. U.S. District Judge H. Lee Sarokin ruled that the 3-month-old trial of the case may go on.

Drakeford gets 20 years, attorney to appeal sentence

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

Dianne Drakeford was sentenced Thursday to 20 years in prison for murdering her sister.

Public defender Robert Van Derhoff, has said he will appeal the sentence because a 1987 statute redefining second-degree murder is unconstitutional. He said after the sentencing that there is disagreement over the statute in other circuit courts.

Drakeford, 31, of Murphysboro, will be taken to Dwight Correctional Center. She was convicted in February by a jury for second-degree murder and armed violence against her sister, Ellouise Burton.

Drakeford stabbed Burton with a knife during an argument in front of the Palms Tavern in the 200 block of North Washington Street in Carbondale. Burton later died of complications related to the stab wound.

"We are a civilized society where you cannot mix alcohol and weapons," Judge William Lewis said.

Lewis originally was to pronounce the sentence Wednesday morning, but after hearing sentence pleas from both sides, he said he needed more time to consider the evidence.

Neither side made any pleas in Thursday's short hearing and Drakeford showed little emotion as the sentence was read.

State's Attorney John Clemons said after the hearing that he hoped the case would set an example for the North Washington Street neighborhood, an area of Carbondale that he said has a "history of crime."

"You have to look at the stabbings, the fights, the thefts," Clemons said. "Most of the problems in this (North Washington street) area occur when someone gets drunk and has a weapon," he said.

Clemons, who had recommended Drakeford be sentenced to 30 years,

Amnesty deadline approaching

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

The deadline for illegal aliens to apply for legal residency in the United States is quickly approaching, John Ammer, legalization coordinator for Catholic Social Services, said.

Non-agricultural workers have until May 4 to begin the application process.

Undocumented farm workers have until November 30 to apply for legal residency.

Ammer has tried to persuade legislators to extend the deadline for non-farmers until November 30, but an extension is unlikely.

"The important thing to get across to the people is that we can still help them effectively," Ammer said. "There is still time."

To apply for an 18-month temporary residency card, non-agricultural workers must prove their identity and prove that they have been in the United States continuously since May 1, 1962, leaving for no more than 45 days at one time and no more than 180 days total.

Migrant farm workers are eligible if they have worked in the United States for at least 90 days between May 1, 1965, and May 1, 1966.

Documentation for the applicants includes pay stubs, rent receipts, tax forms or utility bills.

The application fee, which goes to the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Belleville, is $185 for adults and $50 for children under 18. Applicants also must get a physical examination and special identification photos.

If the process is started now, an interview will be scheduled during July or August, Ammer said.

So far, about 80 non-agricultural workers and 60 farmers from Southern Illinois have been legalized.

Needed: 2 boards but no chancellor

A RECENT PROPOSAL to elect members of the SIU Board of Trustees instead of allowing the governor to appoint them is a bad idea. And it overlooks a bigger problem — the structure of the SIU system itself.

Electing trustees would not work, because most Illinois voters either don't know or don't care enough about the candidates and the SIU system to vote responsibly. While allowing the governor to appoint trustees leaves the door open for political cronyism, it is not as bad as electing trustees most likely would be.

But discussing the manner in which trustees are appointed ignores the real problem with the SIU system. SIU-C and SIU-Edwardsville should be separated and the chancellor's office eliminated.

IT IS BENEFICIAL for neither SIU-C nor SIU-E to be under one chancellor and one board of trustees. The two SIU campuses are separate universities with separate missions and should be represented accordingly.

Not only would both campuses be better served if each had its own board of trustees, but, by eliminating the chancellor's office, quite a bit of money could be saved.

In fiscal year 1987, the chancellor's office cost $1,344,556, not including the Internal Audit Commission, which is part of the chancellor's office. The $1,344,556 includes salaries ($107,000 of which goes to Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit), student wages, travel, and various office expenses.

SOME OF THE costs of the chancellor's office probably would have to be reallocated if the office were phased out, but the two SIU campuses still would save a great deal of money.

In addition, any action that would eliminate part of Illinois' monstrous administrative superstructure (one of the few categories in which this state leads the nation) would be a welcomed change.

In short, the chancellor's office is an expensive, unneeded and cumbersome entity that must be eliminated for the sake of both SIU-C and SIU-E.

Give students vote

ON THE TOPIC of the SIU administration and the Board of Trustees, we think the student trustee should get a full vote.

The student trustee presently has a vote in committee, but plays only an advisory role when the full board meets.

It is a cruel joke by the state legislature to allow students to take part in discussions and committees, but then tell them they don't deserve even one vote in running the universities that supposedly exist for them.

By not allowing students a say in the operations of the SIU system (and, in fact, every university system in the state), the state is telling students they are not responsible enough to make important decisions. It's tantamount to parents telling their small child that they are going to do something for the child's own good, no matter how unpleasant it may be for the child.

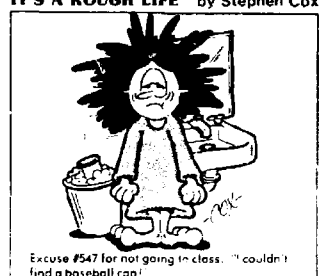

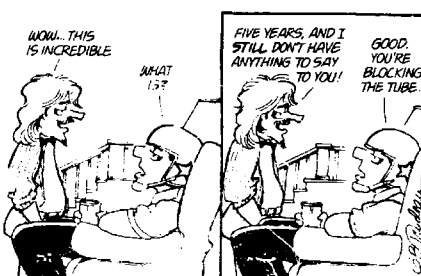

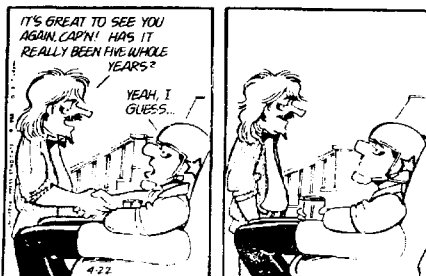

Considering college is meant to prepare students to be the leaders of tomorrow, this is quite a discouraging message.

One must wonder when students finally will be treated like adults if they are treated like children even in college.

Letters

Vicissitudes of American culture prevent staleness and stagnation

In response to Michael Edwards' letter April 14 concerning his views on America and our society — so a brand of soda is labeled a classic? Is a car not considered a classic after it has been around 25 years? Anything that stays popular for some fifty years truly is a classic.

I do not feel our population has been de-valued by television, fast food, and wine coolers. Because of the rising cost of living, people are adjusting the best they know how. Many people are working at least one job, sometimes two, which doesn't leave much free time for fixing big diners, which leads to fast food. Television can be a good, inexpensive form of entertainment for an average family as opposed to going out to see a movie at $4.25 per person.

You mentioned T.V. evangelists are sold to the public like toothpaste, but is it not true we all like different toothpastes, and toothpaste is a necessity!

As for our technical advances...hooray! We may not have found a cure for cancer, but we have found ways to diagnose the symptoms, treat the disease, and extend cancer patients' lives. My father died of cancer, and at the time they found it, they gave him one month to live, but because of our technical advances, he lived two years. Again I say, hooray!

I will agree with you that much of the music today leaves a lot to be desired, but is it any different from other eras? For example, look at the music and lifestyles of Jimi Hendrix, Jim Morrison, Janis Joplin, and yes, even the ever-famous Woodstock. Weren't drugs and sex a big part of this music?

And as far as shallow music, what does "ooo, ee, oo, aa, aa, ting, tang, wala, wala, bing, bang" mean? And even earlier than that: "Mares eat oats and does eat oats and little lamb eat ivy, a kid will eat ivy too wouldn't you?"

As for fads, today it's jam shorts, 30 years ago it was poodle skirts and greased duck tail hair styles, 20 years ago afros and bell bottom jeans, 10 years ago tie die and long stringy hair. Hasn't there always been a fad or fashion and always people looking back at photo albums causing embarrassment?

As for the future fashions and fads, I am anxious to see what our youth will come up with. If it were not for the products of our youth past, we would still be wearing fig leaves and still watching Speed Racer and Clutch Cargo.

Without change and variety, we would all become like water that stands still for long periods of time...quickly becoming stagnant and stale. Change is something tough to accept, but something we all must face. — Kim Kilpatrick, Carbondale.

Landlord plays games with former tenant, University should push for effective rules

I have a problem I would like to share. After having lived in an apartment owned by IDPM Company (Sugartree, Walnut Square, Country Club Circle), I moved out at the end of my lease.

At this time I was given a signed statement saying that I had left it in "very good condition" and was therefore entitled to a total refund of my damage deposit.

Well, silly me: I planned on receiving my payment promptly and with a smile.

This was mere fantasy — it has been more than five months since I moved and I haven't seen a penny.

Yes, I have contacted IDPM headquarters in Nashville, Tenn., as well as the local office more than 15 times. Strangely enough, the property manager seems to have meetings, days off, and important phone calls Monday through Friday from 9 to 5. She hasn't worked a return phone call into her schedule. So far, I have only heard, "You should really learn to be more patient."

Soon, I wised up and took my case to the campus's Legal Service, who has handled over 30 similar suits against IDPM this year (more than 20 at once!)

Doesn't it seem reasonable that the University get involved in stopping scams like this? It should protect its students initially, so it doesn't have to bail out so many victims! — Dan Schneider, medical student

Bands thrive in basements

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

The air is dank with the smell of beer and sweat. Your feet sink into the soggy, beer-soaked carpet. As you descend the stairs into the dark tomb of a basement, you hear the beat of a drum and the strains of jangling guitars.

Welcome to the underground. Across a mass of dancing bodies, there is a rock 'n' roll band playing eagerly in the far corner of the room. Most likely, the band is playing for the experience. If they're good enough, however, they will make a few dollars for the night's performance.

Most Carbondale rock 'n' roll bands get their start from playing in basements at local parties. The city's underground music scene is rich in variety and talent. There are punk bands, cow punk bands, heavy metal bands, Top-40 bands and a cappella groups.

Underground bands include 138, The Drow, Diet Christ and Fuse Box. Although most bands do not survive the underground, breaking up after several months of practice, a few do emerge to play at local bars.

Fuse Box is one band that has a good chance of succeeding and eventually playing the local bars.

Consisting of guitarists Mark Jarzemsky and Todd Hartman, drummer Ralph Wood, bassist Steve Marquis and singer Greg Kessler, Fuse Box is one of Carbondale's more talented underground bands.

And some of the bands play on

By Richard Nunez

Carbondale has been the breeding ground for many famous and once-famous rock 'n' roll bands, many of which have sharpened their skills by playing at local bars.

A handful of those bands even call Carbondale home.

During the late '60s and early '70s Carbondale enjoyed a musical heyday, when a variety of rock 'n' roll bands performed regularly before becoming famous.

REO Speedwagon, from Champaign, Illinois, performed in Carbondale regularly during that era and remains one of the most popular bands to have played on the local circuit.

The Golden Gauntlet, 315 S. Illinois, which was later T.J. McFly's, was a veritable way station to national recognition for many bands from the Midwest.

In the late '60s, The Golden Gauntlet regularly hosted such bands as REO Speedwagon, Head East, The Flying Burrito Brothers, The Rotary Connection and Pacific Gas and Electric.

Head East was a St. Louis band that met with fleeting success in the mid-to late-'70s and recorded seven albums together.

Head East's biggest selling album was "Flat as a Pancake," which also featured the band's best selling singles, "There's Never Been Any Reason" and "Since You've Been Gone."

The Flying Burrito Brothers was formed by former Byrds member Gram Parsons, along with two other ex-musicians from the Byrds, Chris Hillman and Michael Clarke.

A band that incorporated rock 'n' roll and country and western styles, the Flying Burrito Brothers released eight albums in the early-to mid-'70s, six of which received critical acclaim for pioneering the rock and country blends.

The Rotary Connection and Pacific Gas and Electric enjoyed the spotlight briefly in the late '60s. Both were soul-based funk bands from the heyday of San band knows how tough it is to become recognized locally.

"The only time we've ever gotten paid was at a rugby party," Marquis said. "And that was when we were the Love Junkies."

Marquis, Jarzemsky and Wood said they enjoy playing at parties, although they usually are not paid.

"When you play at parties, you feel a little more relaxed than if you're playing at a bar," Marquis said. "The atmosphere is a lot better."

"I think there needs to be a bar in town willing to take chances," Jarzemsky said. "A lot of bands would be willing to play and I think they could attract a large crowd. The parties are always packed."

Most bands earn the right to play in bars by performing at benefits and producing demonstration tapes for bar owners, Jarzemsky said. Fuse Box performed at Hangar 9 as the opening act for October's Child during a recent WIDB benefit. It also doesn't hurt to have friends who will give you a break.

"We receive a lot of support from other bands," Jarzemsky said, mentioning such local bands as the Modern Day Saints and October's Child. "They put in a word for us."

October's Child is one of the more promising bands in Carbondale. A video of the band's first single, "I Can't Stand It," was shown on MTV's Basement Tapes March 3.

The band, formed in January 1987, consists of bassist David Schultz, guitarists Mike Sharp and John Pirruccello and drummer Phil Levin.

"The video has really done well for us,"

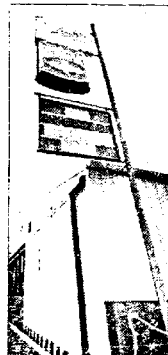

Schultz said. "It's getting picked up by other, smaller video shows."

"It's given us something to barter with when we're dealing with managers and club owners," he said, adding, film makers and producers in Los Angeles and elsewhere around the country have shown interest in the band's music.

Schultz said gaining recognition in the Midwest is a matter of setting clear priorities and then working hard to attain those goals.

"It's not that hard to gain recognition," Schultz said. "There's not a lot of luck involved. You do your homework, do your job and the rest falls into place."

"You have to do a little research," he continued. "You make sure albums are available to people who might want them. You research alternative radio stations who might be willing Zhao said. "I think most college graduates, under the love of China, wanted to go out of the country to study for the advancement of their country and themselves."

"If you want to hold people tightly, keep in tight control, things may go opposite than what you think," he added.

Students who break the contract and do not return to China are fined large amounts of money, which relatives must pay, Zhao said.

Chinese students are placed in three categories: government sponsored, self sponsored and those who receive assistantships.

The Chinese government pays tuition and living expenses when it sponsors students, Yuan said. Students who are given assistantships receive a tuition waiver and stipend from an American foundation or university. The expenses of self-sponsored students are paid by relatives, she added.

The number of Chinese students sent abroad to study has not declined as a result of the return policy, a Chinese State Education Committee official stated in an article published in the overseas edition of the People's Daily. The People's Daily is the official newspaper of the Chinese Communist Party.

The article stated that there will be changes for students who are sponsored by the Chinese government. Instead of being sent almost exclusively to the United States, as is the practice now, they will be sent to universities abroad.

The Chinese government also will no longer send students abroad to study for undergraduate degrees, and the number of students sent abroad to study for master's degrees will be smaller.

The government thinks Chinese universities are capable of training master's students at home, the People's Daily article said.

Since 1979, when China began sending students abroad to study, it has sent more than 40,000 students to 70 countries. More than 20,000 of those students have returned to China, the People's Daily article said.

Zhao said he will definitely go back home when he finishes his doctorate degree in reading and language studies. In China he taught English as a second language.

"I think China is where I belong. My family, parents, friends and colleagues are there. I want to join them," he said. "Since my university sent me here to study, I should show gratitude and render my services to my home university."

Another change, according to the article, will be the placement of restrictions on the amount of time students can stay abroad.

Workplaces that send students abroad provide substitute workers for people who have left to study abroad. The time limit allows workplaces to know how many years workers will be gone.

The restriction also means that students will be pressured to finish their degrees as soon as possible, the article stated.

"Personally I think this is not very good," Zhao said. "If the institution or government trusts us, then they should just let us go."

civil rights leader Jesse Jackson.

He said he will remember a lesson from the campaign trail: "From Dukakis, I learned that after eight years of Reagan and Bush, competence is charisma in the eyes of Americans hungry for leadership."

Gore was throwing a farewell party Thursday night for his staff and supporters at a Washington nightclub called The Fifth Column.

He celebrated a birthday March 31 and he noted ruefully Thursday, "I was doing great until I turned 40."

Last September, eight Democrats were in the running for the White House; preceding the Tennessee to the wings were Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware; former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt; former Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado; Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri; and Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, who also suspended campaigning to keep his 169 convention delegates.

Jackson, campaigning Thursday in Williamsport, Pa., said Simon and Gore should have quit the race: "When the race is over and you stop running, you should declare that."

Plane lands in field after engine fails

By Richard Goldstein
Student Writer

An SIU-C student and a flight instructor for the Air Institute crash landed in a plowed field Thursday, Air Institute Director Ronald D. Kelly said.

Neither the student nor the instructor were injured in the crash.

Student Dino S. Hall and flight instructor Mike Bauer were taking part in a training exercise when the aircraft developed engine troubles.

"It (the engine) appeared to have a stuck valve which prevented the airplane from maintaining the altitude we like them to have," Kelly said. A landing was attempted in the field somewhere between Zeigler and West Frankfort.

But "in the last few feet of the landing the airplane flipped," Kelly said.

Neither Hall nor Bauer could be reached for comment. The accident occurred around noon.

Pennsylvania polls place Dukakis first

By UPI

The 1988 Democratic presidential field that once numbered eight candidates slimmed down Thursday to two hopefuls, and they moved on to Pennsylvania to start their springtime sprint to the party's nomination.

Polls in the Keystone State, which has its primary next Tuesday, show front-runner Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis with a healthy lead. A statewide poll released Thursday night gave Dukakis a 31-point edge over Jackson, 55 percent to 24 percent.

The poll of 400 Democratic voters was conducted April 20, the day after the New York primary, for Philadelphia's KYW-TV and Pittsburgh's KDKA-TV. It had a 5 percent margin of error.

But support in those cities is strong for Jackson, and a reflection of that following came in a significant endorsement by The Philadelphia Daily News.

In an editorial Thursday, the newspaper said the civil rights leader "would bring back into the process the citizens Ronald Reagan has excluded and reverse the changes Reagan has brought to our government. That alone makes his nomination important."

In Washington, the Democratic pack thinned by one as Sen. Albert Gore, the moderate Tennesseean who tried to stretch his Southern appeal north and failed, suspended his White House bid — but held onto his convention delegates.

Dukakis was in Boston until the evening, when he was to stop briefly in Pittsburgh before going on to Cleveland for an address to the City Club.

Jackson started his day in Williamsport, Pa., the home of the Little League World Series, where he delivered an anti-drug speech to high school students and called on Gore to help unify the party.

In his campaign, Gore, who had his 40th birthday March 31, attempted to reach out to the aging baby-boom generation, drawing on the name and legacy of President John Kennedy. At his news conference in Washington, he joked "I was doing great until I turned 40."

Gore got into the race intent on winning big in the mostly Southern Super Tuesday contests March 8. He won six states then but never took another contest.

Women 'taking care of business'

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

Taking care of business, small business, is what women are doing, Luanne Schwanager, the women's business advocate for Illinois, said Thursday.

Schwanager, who works for the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs as a liaison between the state and businesses, said four out of every five small businesses are started by women.

Women own 130,000 small businesses in Illinois, Schwanager added. She was one of the speakers at the Women in Business '88 convention at the Student Center.

About 90 percent of women that start businesses have been dissatisfied with service-oriented businesses, Sch-wanager said.

Society is validating women in business because women are the money managers, Barbara Shelby, president of New Horizons Planning Group, said.

"Very few small businesses run by women have gone under because their businesses are extensions of themselves," Shelby said. "Women have management experience from dealing with their families, and anyone who can convince sick little Johnny to take his cough medicine has experience in sales."

Most small businesswomen are divorced or single and run the business on their own, Shelby said.

Shelby consults women who want to follow their dreams to start a business.

"Women who want to go into business need to specialize, not generalize," Shelby said. "Women need to know what kind of people they would like to deal with in their businesses."

"The number of home-based businesses has risen. Many women contract out," Shelby said.

The convention, Women in Business '88, was a day-long series of workshops on women in business, giving women an opportunity to discuss business ideas and questions.

"Women inspire each other," Shelby said.

The workshop topics ranged from "Balancing Personal and Professional Life" to "Techniques for Cornering the Market."

S. Illinois' economy shows improvement, wins SBA awards

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

Awards from the U.S. Small Business Administration won by two Southern Illinoisans show that Southern Illinois' economy is improving, a development expert said.

"We have never had an award winner south of I-70," Irene Carlton, director of the Small Business Development Center at SIU-C, said. "This region has resources."

She added that since there aren't enough jobs, the region must work to create jobs.

Stephen Burgess, publisher of the Southern Illinoisan, won the Media Advocate Award and Jerry Furby, president of United Financial Services in Benton, won the Financial Services Advocate Award.

The awards honor people who support small businesses with their knowledge and skills through professional activities.

Financial advocates are honored for helping small businesses obtain financing or promoting changes that benefit small businesses.

Media advocates are honored for reporting on business issues and how they affect the economy.

Burgess is co-chair of the Southern Illinois Coalition which encourages economic development in Southern Illinois. He is also involved with many other economic development committees.

Furby devised one-week SBA loan application and approval process for United Financial Services. The SBA office in Springfield takes six to eight weeks to process a loan application, a University news release said.

Committee sponsors clean-up

By Susan Curtis
 Staff Writer

Carbondale Clean and Green is sponsoring a Carbondale Clean-Up this weekend for Keep America Beautiful Month.

The University committee of Carbondale Clean and Green will sponsor a pedestrian overpass cleanup from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. today. The Carbondale Clean-Up will take place Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m. in Turley Park on Route 13 West.

Jean Paratore, chairwoman of the University Committee of Carbondale Clean and Green, encouraged students, faculty and staff to help clean the plexi-glass on the north pedestrian overpass over Route 51.

Prizes will be given to the individual and group collecting the most trash in the Carbondale Clean-up, Jean Foster, Clean and Green chairwoman, said.

Hotdogs for lunch have been donated by local grocery stores. Great Licks will provide frozen custard and Pepsi will provide soda, she said.

The Carbondale Park District will provide trash bags and the National Guard will use its trucks to transport students to the clean-up.

Volunteers still are needed to hand out trash bags, pick up trash and help with lunch, Foster said.

MYTHS ABOUT RAPE

DO YOU THINK: Only young attractive women are raped?
THEY AREN'T. Females who have been sexually assaulted range in years from infancy to old age. Men, both straight and gay, are sexually assaulted too, by other men; primarily, women are the targets.

DO YOU THINK: Women are usually raped by strangers?
THEY AREN'T. Studies show that the majority of women who have been sexually assaulted are acquainted with the men who assault them. Rapists are not always strangers; they can be acquaintances, friends, neighbors, or relatives.

DO YOU THINK: Rapes are unplanned acts and rapists are men who have uncontrollable sex drives?
THEY AREN'T. Most sexual assaults are planned in advance. The rapist has it in his mind to rape a woman — any woman — or he has a specific woman in mind. Sexual assault is an act of physical and emotional violence, not of sexual gratification. Sex is involved in sexual assault only as the means the rapist uses to express his anger or violence, but it is not the primary motivating factor.

DO YOU THINK: Most rapes are interracial?
THEY AREN'T. Statistical evidence shows that most sexual assaults are committed by men against women of the same race.

DO YOU THINK: Men don't have to be concerned about rape; it only affects women?
NOT TRUE. Neither men nor women can be proud or nor can live safely in a culture that in any way encourages or condones acts of sexual violence toward others. In addition, men, too are victimized by sexual assault; and men have wives, friends, mothers and daughters who may be assaulted. Lastly, rape will not cease until men stop raping.

Wakoski has written more than a dozen volumes of poetry.

"Making the Fit" is directed by Sharon Bragg. Seventeen of Wakoski's poems will be presented at the performance. The performers will portray characters in Wakoski's poems as well as the poet herself.

All the female performers dress in similar clothing so they can take turns portraying Wakoski. The two male performers also dress alike and portray various men in Wakoski's life.

Her poems address her mother-in-law Fanny, schoolmates, her husband, other wives and her mother.

The performers portray Wakoski speaking with friends about what kind of husband she is looking for and, later, dancing on her deceased husband's grave.

Most of the poems reflect Wakoski's own loneliness and her trials at love and at life.

Most of the poems reflect Wakoski's own loneliness and her trials at love and at life. She raises questions about our perceptions of ourselves, others and the world.

The poems usually are long and tell a story about Wakoski or a specific person or event in her life, but occasionally a short poem is included.

A stand-out act is a scene based on Wakoski's poem, "What I Want in a Husband Besides a Mustache."

In this scene, Wakoski is seen sitting with a group of friends comparing their fantasies of their future husbands and laughing. The poem is enlightening and a comic relief from Wakoski's serious and sometimes depressing poems.

'Streetcar' makes a stop at McLeod

Williams' classic still has the heat that made it a hit

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

Still heated and controversial after all these years, Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire" will continue its five-performance run this weekend at McLeod Theater.

The play centers on Blanche DuBois, who arrives in New Orleans to live with her sister Stella and Stella's husband Stanley Kowalski.

Theater Review

Blanche, a fragile Southern belle, has come to New Orleans to escape the memory of her husband's tragic death and the rumors of her small hometown of Laurel.

Blanche is a fallen woman still trying to maintain the dignity of a rich, Southern belle among the chaotic environs of New Orleans. Blanche also tries to denigrate Stanley in the eyes of Stella, who had settled for a comfortable, though somewhat low-class, life with Stanley.

Blanche's actions spark the anger of Stanley and he tries to shake her from her delicate dream world.

Sandra Cawley and Patricia McDonough are the highlights of the production.

Cawley delivers a superb performance as Blanche. She develops her character gradually and brilliantly propels Blanche toward a climactic, but unflourished exit.

There are scenes in which Cawley is bursting with intensity and seems ready to break down and collapse at

Boys, miniskirts don't mix

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — A plan by four eighth-grade students to protest a "no shorts" policy for boys by wearing short skirts has been short-circuited by school officials.

The male students arrived Wednesday at Whitney Middle School stylishly clad in miniskirts, a move they said pointed out the inequities of a school policy that allows only female students to wear shorts in warm weather.

But Alma Maxie, the acting principal, spotted the leggy protesters before they hit the classroom.

She told them while no school rules specifically barred boys from wearing skirts, such attire would cause disruptions in the classroom.

That, she said, meant the skirts came off and the pants went on or the students went home.

Jimmy Anderson, one of the miniskirted protesters, said the rule barring boys from wearing shorts was not fair because "girls can stay cool in the hot weather" while male students have to wear pants.

Anderson said students are gathering signatures on a petition that calls for boys to be allowed to wear shorts.

any minute. McDonough also delivers a fine performance as Stella. She is torn between her love for both Stanley and Blanche, and she does so with reserved but subtly complex acting.

McDonough does an apt job, faintly reminiscent of Kim Hunter's performance in the 1951 movie, for which Hunter earned an Academy Award. McDonough is given the difficult task of balancing the extreme emotions of both Stanley and Blanche, and she does so with reserved but subtly complex acting.

Bob May's portrayal of Stanley is not as explosive as Marlon Brando's classic performance in the movie, but May does a fine job nonetheless.

Fine performances also were delivered by Kim Curlee as Mitch, MaryBeth Scherr as Eunice Hubbell and Daniel Green as Steve Hubbell.

Granted, McLeod's production of "A Streetcar Named Desire" is not one of the best, but it still is a highly absorbing and entertaining one.

to play your music. You have to do your homework."

Touring is important once a band has gained local recognition, Schultz said. Since releasing its single "I Can't Stand It," October's Child has toured extensively, playing Chicago, Memphis, Nashville, Louisville, Champaign and Bloomington.

"Once you get a region under your belt, you have to move on," Schultz said. "I mean, once you sit back on your laurels, you're a has-been."

Schultz said the band will continue touring, concentrating on cities north, south and east of Southern Illinois.

"The West is a dead zone," he said. "There's not a lot of places to play out there."

October's Child has supported many local underground bands. The group frequently shares the limelight with other bands by allowing them to open for its performances or recommending them to bar owners.

"I think there's a lot of good bands out there," Schultz said, mentioning the bands Lucky Mary Blonde, the Modern Day Saints, Primary and Fuse Box. "If they stick to their guns, they'll be pretty good."

Harold Miller, assistant professor of music, has played bass guitar for the jazz band Mercy for about four years.

Mercy, consisting of bassist Miller, saxophonist and flutist Buddy Rogers, pianist Joe Liberto and drummer Ron Spaeth, has played in Carbondale for about 15 years.

"I like Mercy. I have to say that off the bat," Miller said. "They're a good, solid band."

Miller said Mercy is one of the few recognized jazz bands in Carbondale, besides the Francisco rock.

Pacific Gas and Electric scored big with the single "Are you Ready?" from their only album, "Get it On," in 1969.

Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows, Jason and the Scorchers and A.C. Reed are natives of Carbondale. All three acts performed in Carbondale bars before achieving national recognition.

Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows were seen regularly in local bars during the '70s. The band released an album in 1969 entitled "Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows," which received a four star rating from Rolling Stone magazine.

Jason Ringenberg, from Jason and the Scorchers, was a SIU-C student during the early '80s. He performed at local bars with his band Shakespeare's Riot and later as the musical act, Jason and the Nashville Scorchers.

Jason and the Scorchers released an album, entitled "Lost and Found," which included the single "White Lies." The group has achieved national recognition as one of the forerunners of the cow-punk movement.

A.C. Reed, a legendary blues saxophonist who has played with such blues musicians as Albert Collins, Earl Hooker, Muddy Waters and the Rolling Stones, performed March 8 at Gatsby's after a 40 year absence from Carbondale.

Reed lived in Carbondale in the early '40s. He left to study music at the Chicago Conservatory of Music in Chicago, where he now lives.

"If you really want to make it, you've got to take it on the road. I was on the road for a year or two and I didn't like it."

Dixie Jazz Cats, which he occasionally sits in for.

"There's a limited amount of jazz musicians in the area," Miller said. "The band (Mercy) is fairly tight, but I would like to see the members play with other people."

In the past, Miller said, band members have backed up such acts as the Driters, the Crystals, Stanley Clarke, Bob Hope and jazz musicians Teddy Wilson and Bud Freeman.

"Those things mean something," Miller said. "It means that you've reached some sort of plateau and are respected as a musician."

Miller played in many jazz bands in Milwaukee before coming to Carbondale. Those bands include Jazz Caravan, Jazz Straight Ahead and the more successful What on Earth, which featured jazz guitarist Jack Grassel, who played as the guest artist at the Fifth Annual SIU-C Jazz Festival March 26.

Miller said as a professor he has taught and worked with many of the musicians now playing in the local rock 'n' roll bands.

Miller said to become a recognized act, band members have to "pay their dues." Those dues include extensive traveling, playing and skimpy wages.

"If a band really packs them in, they may get paid. There's no money for musicians unless they reach a certain plateau," he said. "If they're lucky, a band can make about $30 or $35 a night. If they play six days a week, they may make some good money."

"When I was playing in Milwaukee, I thought $350 a week was the tops," Miller said, adding, there are added factors that keep a band afloat, such as a sound engineer and various traveling expenses.

"If you really want to make it, you've got to take it on the road. I was on the road for a year or two and I didn't like it," he said. "When you get past your twenties, family begins to become more important in your life."

Miller said he doesn't regret having settled down and given up his snot for a career as a musician, although he has not given up completely the idea of performing and touring with his music again.

Writers to take to woods during Writer's Festival

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

The Writers' Support Group and The Association of English Graduate Instructors and Students will sponsor a Writers' Festival at noon tomorrow at Giant City State Park.

The festival will feature food, drinks, music and poetry and fiction readings by faculty members and graduate and undergraduate students.

The festival is the first English department activity to encompass a wide scope of writers and their works. Organizers hope the event will draw a large audience and be the largest poetry and fiction reading the English department has sponsored.

"We are trying to promote interaction among writers and exchange works," Aron Aji, graduate student in English, said. Tomorrow's reading is designed to shed light on the quality and various types of poetry and fiction being written in the Carbondale area.

"We felt there was a need to get people outside, because that's where poetry should be," Neil Steffey, graduate in English, said. "Readings have a tendency of being sterile when they are held inside. You feel as if you can't cough or sneeze. It's the bad way to look at poetry readings."

The Writers' Support Group was established by graduate students in order to provide support and encouragement among writers in an otherwise unsupportive environment, Aji said.

Gear swap scheduled

Fishing gear, bicycles, frisbees, boats and climbing shoes and other outdoor recreation equipment can be traded at the Outdoor Gear Swap, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Recreation Center.

The swap is sponsored by the Adventure Resource Center and Recreational Sports.

"We are hoping to get a lot of people who have a common interest with outdoor activities," Rick Waldrup, graduate assistant and supervisor of the Adventure Resource Center, said.

Actors back animal use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Actors Tony Randall and Helen Hayes defended medical researchers' use of animals Thursday in an effort to counter the protests of about 45 animal rights activists arrested during loud demonstrations.

At a news conference timed to counter "World Laboratory Animal Liberation Week," Randall and Hayes, two famous surgeons and six children said millions of human lives have been saved by medical procedures and drugs that were first tested on animals.

But two hours later, animal rights activists staged a protest of animal research at the National Institutes of Health.

"It all started from a grassroots interest," Aji said. "There was no feedback to the point where we could not feel good about our writing."

Aji said the increasing attendance at recent poetry and fiction readings also sparked interest in establishing the festival.

"If we had not received that kind of support, we wouldn't have gone on with the events, because we would have been hurt," Aji said. "We wouldn't have dreamt of this type of event two years ago."

Aji and Steffey said the quality of poetry and fiction writing in the area has increased in the last two years.

Steffey attended Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., and when he arrived at SIUC as a graduate, he said he did not expect the amount of interest and quality in poetry and fiction writing he found on campus.

"When I got here, it just damn near knocked me down," Steffey said. "I didn't expect to find so many people interested in poetry and so eager to write."

"The sense of community here is so important," Steffey said. "To be a part of a community that supports you is wonderful. There is always a sense of an audience around you."

The English department has sponsored numerous poetry and fiction readings in the past, including faculty readings, Grassroots magazine readings and guest lecturers such as Derek Walcott and Alison Lurie, two well-known writers who lectured on campus this year.

Among those who will be reading at the festival will be professor and poet Rodney Jones, who has published three books of poetry and is considered one of the finest poets in the Midwest; professor and author Richard Russo, whose first book "Mohawk," published as part of the Random House Vintage Contemporaries Series, is under contract to be made into a motion picture; and lecturers and poets Philip St. Clair and James Solheim.

Kidnapped Marine to stand trial

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The group claiming to hold kidnapped U.S. Marine Lt. Col. William Higgins said Thursday the U.N. observation team commander will stand trial before an Islamic court on espionage charges.

The Organization of the Oppressed on Earth said it had completed its interrogation of Higgins and declared, "he is going to be transferred today to the oppressed court for trial."

In Washington, State

Department spokeswoman Phyllis Oakley spoke contemptuously of the reported trial.

"The notion that the Organization of the Oppressed on Earth, which has proclaimed itself the kidnapers of four university professors, has the right to try anyone is simply grotesque," she said. "A so-called trial can bring only further discredit to the terrorists and their cause."

The clandestine group made its announcement in an Arabic-language statement sent to west Beirut media outlets.

Christian Voice of Lebanon radio reported Monday that Higgins had been killed by his pro-Iranian captors in retaliation for Saturday's assassination of Khamil al-Wazir, the No. 2 man in the Palestine Liberation Organization. Shiite Amal militia officials denied the report.

The PLO says Israel was behind the assassination.

Bicyclist takes campus break

By Holly J. Corrington
Staff Writer

Thank God, there was room at the inn.

After seeing Delta Chi fraternity listed on his road map as a place with inexpensive lodging, Mike Ferkowicz bicycled onto campus Wednesday, hoping to find a place to rest.

On March 31, Ferkowicz, a native of Smith's Creek, Mich., flew to San Diego, Cal., for the sole purpose of bicycling cross-country to his summer research job in Cape Cod, Mass.

When he reached Carbondale Wednesday night, he had traveled about 3,500 miles. He expects to go a total distance of 5,500 miles.

Ferkowicz, 24, a graduate of Michigan State University, began planning the trip last October while in Cape Cod looking for a job. After securing a job, he decided to fill the gap between graduation and work with a little exercise — biking.

"I just did it for something to do," Ferkowicz said.

Not all of Ferkowicz's resting places have been as pleasant as his stay at the Delta Chi house.

Ferkowicz said the worst place he had to sleep was in a woodshed in Missouri.

"There were rats all over the place and it was raining," he said. "One of the rats even "Everybody at the house thought it was great." Delta Chi member Michael Tatara, freshman in journalism, said.

If he doesn't complete the trip by June 1, Ferkowicz said he will "cut it off" and find

Women runner picks up healthier ways, faster times

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

Dora Kyriacou is pulling her weight.

She's running faster times and scoring more points for the women's track team.

"I lost eight pounds (since last season)," Kyriacou said. "I believe that has helped me a lot."

She was the team's leading scorer during the indoor season with 77.25 points and scored 17 points in the Gateway Conference Indoor Championships to help the Salukis retain the title.

Kyriacou runs in the 100-, 200- and 400-meter dashes and on the 4 x 200 and 4 x 400 relay teams.

"She's kind of the workhorse of the team," assistant coach Tom Felton said.

This weekend, Kyriacou set a national record for her native Cyprus in the 400 with a personal-best time of 55.05 seconds. She won that event, the 200 and the 4 X 400 relay and placed second second in the 4 X 100 relay and 100-meter dash.

Kyriacou set an indoor record in the 200 with a time of 25.73 seconds at the Arkansas State Invitational Jan. 30.

She ranks fourth on the all-

time list in the 400 with a time of 57.17 and ranks third in the 300 with a 40.74 mark.

"It's been looking very obvious that she's a class act this year," head coach Don DeNoon said. "I think pretty much that whatever we put her in, she will perform well."

In addition to weight loss, Kyriacou attributes her success to good health and hard work.

"This year I'm running healthy," she said. "That's the main reason I'm running better."

Kyriacou suffered a knee injury in last year's outdoor season.

"She has always been a very dedicated athlete," DeNoon said. "It doesn't surprise me that we're seeing outstanding performances from her."

Kyriacou says she is a strong athlete. "When I have competition I push myself for the best. I never give up," she said.

Kyriacou has had to make the transition of being the best in her native Cyprus, to being just another runner in the United States.

"I was first in Cyprus, but here there are so many girls running better than that," she said.

administration. Plus, West has dutifully stood guard over the athletics department since Sept. 1. She already has completed the most taxing job asked of an athletics director, the hiring of a new football coach.

Now, the naming of the next athletics director rests in the administration's lap, specifically President John C. Guyon. He will have to make a decision that will not only put one of them in charge, but will reflect the administration's philosophy of what the purpose of the athletics department is.

If the primary job of an athletics director is simply to generate income, then by all means give it to Hart. His rapport with the boosters can't be matched.

But if this is the case, then the administration had better be prepared for the consequences. The message it will send to the nation, the student body and its athletes is this: Loyalty, perseverance, hard work, dedication and all the virtues that are supposed to be gained through athletic competition and also are epitomized by West's example, aren't as important as the almighty dollar.

Woe is the day that the administration, the elite educators themselves, make that choice.

Men's tennis caps ninth straight victory

By Jeff Griesser
Staff Writer

The men's tennis team could do no wrong Thursday. The Salukis, 16-12, downed the Murray State Racers, 6-3, at the University Tennis Courts. The victory was the ninth in a row for SIU-C, which hasn't lost a dual match in nearly a month.

"It's always a pleasure to beat Murray State," Saluki coach Dick LeFevre said.

The teams split the top four singles matches. The Salukis No. 1 singles player, Jairo Aldana, lost to Tony Wretlund, 6-1, 6-3.

No. 2 Jose Demeterco whipped Murray State's Phil Murray, 6-1, 6-1. Demeterco improved his record to 13-3. Murray let out a scream after Demeterco nailed a winner toward the end of the match. "This guy is Superman," Murray said.

"I feel that right now I'm in the best shape I can be," Demeterco said. "I'm playing without any pressure."

He said that his game isn't without fault, though. "I need to improve my return and my volleying," he said.

Mickey Maulie won for the 24th time this spring. He downed Mathias Arrfelt, 6-4, 6-3.

No. 4 Fabiano Ramos lost to Murray's John Schneden, 6-1, 6-3.

The longest matches of the day came at the No. 4 and 5 singles positions. The Salukis Juan Martinez and George Hime each came away with three-set victories. Martinez won, 2-6, 6-2, 7-5, at the No. 5 spot, and Hime eluded Tomas Hult, 1-6, 7-6, 6-4.

SIU-C got a clutch doubles victory from its No. 1 team, which had been struggling. Maulie and Ramos came back to defeat Wretlund and Schneden, 1-6, 6-2, 6-4.

"They're capable of playing well," LeFevre said. "Sometimes there's just a total lack of concentration."

No. 2 Aldana and Demeterco won, 7-6, 6-2. The Salukis lost the No. 3 match.

He also has run the mile in 4 minutes, 6 seconds and ran a 9:15.60 3,000-meter steeplechase.

Dennis is the United Kingdom national youth cross country champion at the over four-mile distance. He also is the English schools senior boys champ over six miles. He finished third in the United Kingdom cross country trials for the world championships.

Paul Glanville of St. Andrews and Vaughan Harry of Redditch also signed letters of intent with SIU-C.

Glanville's best time in the 800 is 1:51.70. His top time in the 1,500-meter run is 3:49.80.

Harry's best times include a run of 8:34 in the 3,000 meters. He has run the 5,000-meters in 14.55 and the 10,000 in 32:10.

Cornell had earlier success recruiting in England with the signing of 1987 All-America miler Andy Pettigrew. Pettigrew is from Maidenhead.

Cornell, from Chelmsford, came to SIU-C in 1981 on a track scholarship. He still holds the record in the mile, 4:00.74, and is a member of the record-holding outdoor 4 x 800-meter and sprint medley relay teams.

Track teams in the running for 'high class' relay meet

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The men's and women's track teams will compete in the 63rd annual Kansas Relays in Lawrence today and Saturday.

SIU-C will be among 35 universities from 25 states to participate in the "high class" meet, Coach Bill Cornell said.

Kansas is the second leg of the Midwest Relays Triple Crown series. The other legs are the Texas and Drake relays.

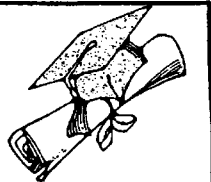

In a meet of this size, the teams look to improve their times, rather than win individual events, Cornell said. "We're looking for improvement in individual performances."

Cornell is looking for Bret Garrett to qualify for nationals in the 800-meter run at the meet. "Every week we're hoping Bret might qualify," Cornell said.

The qualifying standard is 1 minute 47.60 seconds. Garrett's best time this year is 1:48.50.

Women's coach Don DeNoon is looking for his team to have a good showing in the meet's six relays. "In four of the six relays we hope to see the team finish in the top six," he said.

Softball team's hitters near several of school's records

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

When it comes to offense, the softball team is on the verge of rewriting virtually the entire school record book. "Hitting has definitely helped us a great deal," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "It's something that you never know when it will come around, but we've responded well. Even in games when we're not getting a lot of hits, we're still stroking the ball well. With so many freshmen that will be returning sophomores, it can only get better."

One team record already has been broken and five others are in jeopardy. In addition, senior Theresa Smugala and sophomore Shelly Gibbs each have set individual records with their performances at the plate.

The team set a new mark of 98 runs batted in last weekend against Indiana State and Illinois State. The old record was 91, set in 1978 and tied in 1979.

The Salukis are closing in on the record 37 doubles with 34. They also are near to the records of 21 triples and nine home runs with this season's 19 triples and eight home runs.

With a 21-14 win-loss mark this season, the team needs to win only five of the remaining 14 games to break the record 25 wins set last year.

Smugala tied the school record of four home runs in a season.

Smugala, a redshirt last year, is one triple shy of the record seven and four hits shy of the record 45. Her batting average of .363 is fifth in the Gateway and approaching the school record .372 set by Pam Rendine in 1977.

Gibbs holds two season records, 11 doubles and 19

RBI's. In a little more than a season and half of play, she also has the career record of 18 doubles. With three home runs this season, Gibbs is reaching the single-season and career records for homers.

Freshman Kim Tummins has walked 17 times this season and Gibbs has been passed 16 times. The record for bases on balls is 18.

Men's golf out to avenge losses

The men's golf team will face some tough Missouri Valley Conference teams at the Illinois State Invitational Saturday and Sunday in Normal.

Bradley and Illinois State, two of the top teams in the Conference, will play in the meet.

"Bradley has beaten us twice and Illinois State beat us by nine strokes down in Palm Coast (Fla.)," coach Lew Hartzog said. "This will be a good test for us."

Eastern Illinois, Morehead State, Northern Illinois, SIU-C and Western Illinois also will compete in the 54-hole tournament. The teams will play two rounds on Sunday and one round on Monday.

Purdue tough foe for women's golf

The women's golf team will be hoping for a repeat performance at the Purdue Classic Saturday and Sunday in West Lafayette, Ind.

The team had a strong showing at the meet last fall, finishing fourth out of 11 teams. Four golfers had 70s in their first round.

Only eight teams will compete in the 36-hole tournament this time, but the Salukis will still find the field competitive, Coach Diane Daugherty said.

"Purdue's a tough team, they finished ahead of us in the fall," Daugherty said.

"I'd like to give Purdue a run for their money. Personally, I think we're capable of finishing second," she said.

Tina Kozlowski, Vicki Higginson, Lisa Johnson, Lisa Merrit, Julie Schumaker and Peggy Ellsworth will compete for the Salukis.

four when you're at home and that's what we're out to do."

Creighton opened the conference season by splitting its series against Bradley and moved into first by sweeping Indiana State last weekend.

Creighton is led by first baseman Oneri Fleita. Last season, he went by the name of Dave, but changed his name over the summer to reflect his Cuban heritage.

Fleita leads the Valley in average (.456), hits (62), doubles (23) and RBIs (47). He is tied with Bradley's Brad Tilly for the home run lead with nine.

"He's absolutely amazing," Hendry said. "He's the best clutch hitter I've coached in 10 years. I never have to say anything to him. Whenever he struggles, I just figure it's a matter of time before he breaks out of it."

Both Creighton and the Salukis are tied for Valley lead in hitting with a .321 average.

Second baseman Chris Gadsen (.298, 1 HR, 11 RBIs) leads off for the Blue Jays, followed by outfielder Gary Selvera (.325, 1 HR, 31 RBIs), Fleita and catcher Scott Servais (.296, 3 HRs, 27 RBIs).

"They're (Creighton) at our place and that makes a little difference because we're a little more excited when we play at home. I feel you have to win three out of four when you're at home and that's what we're out to do."

—Coach Itchy Jones

Servais is considered to be one of the top catchers in the country and is expected to be selected in the first round of the major league draft.

Creighton opponents have stolen 29 bases in 40 attempts. The Salukis have stolen 68 in 79 tries.

By comparison, the Blue Jays have been successful in 104 of 130 attempts. Outfielder Bill Meier (27 steals), Gadsen (23) and outfielder Eric Boodie (20) are the main threats on the base paths.

The Salukis will send pitchers Dale Kisten (3-6, 4.42 ERA), Lee Meyer (4-0, 1.05 ERA), and Rich Campbell (5-1, 3.45 ERA) to the mound in the first three games. Dale Meyer (3-0, 3.19 ERA) will start game four if he doesn't relieve in any of the first three games. Cliff McIntosh (3-0, 5.46 ERA) is the probable pitcher if Dale Meyer already has seen action.

Creighton will counter with a pitching staff that has a 4.41 ERA. Right-handers Dave Driggers (7-0, 2.39 ERA), Dan Johnston (5-3, 4.33 ERA), Russ Mencyzwor (5-3, 4.84 ERA) and left-hander Dan Smith (4-3, 4.73 ERA) are the Blue Jays' top four starters.

Right-hander Steve Plummer (3-2, 3.64 ERA) leads the conference with four saves.

Last year, the Salukis won three of four against Creighton.

In other Valley games, Wichita State, 4-4 in conference, is home against Bradley, 3-5. Illinois State, 4-4, plays at Indiana State, 2-6.

field advantage.

However, Brechtelsbauer doesn't want her team going out on the diamond with a "playing not to lose" mindset.

"We want to go out with an attitude that we are playing well," she said. "We are prepared to go out with intensity, to get better in every game we play."

Brechtelsbauer's team first will test its tenacity against Drake, 12-24 overall and next to last in the Gateway at 1-5. The Bulldogs are coming off an 11-inning, 5-4 victory over Western Illinois last Saturday.

"Drake doesn't win as consistently as the other conference schools, but they can come from nowhere," Brechtelsbauer said. "They can beat you on any given day, Western found that out."

"We've got to be ready to play Drake and not look past them," she added. "We struggled to beat them twice last year."

The Bulldogs have won five of the last eight games. Sophomore shortstop Laura Zmrhal, who leads the team with a .333 average, scored eight runs last week.

Drake's top pitcher is Kim Wyllie (9-12). She has 76 strike outs and a 2.49 earned run average.

Northern Iowa has swept doubleheaders against Bradley and Drake and split with Western Illinois.

"Traditionally when you talk about Division I softball, you kind of forget them," Brechtelsbauer said. "But by no means are they a second division team. They are legitimate contenders, a mature team."

Left-handed pitcher Sarah O'Byrne heads the Northern Iowa staff with a 11-8 record and 1.20 ERA. She has thrown five straight shutouts and has not been scored against in the last 37 innings.

Pitcher Krista Fosbinder is 14-7 this season with a 1.26 ERA. She has completed 19 of the 20 games she started. "She's back on track," Brechtelsbauer said.

The Panthers are batting .264 as a team compared to SIU-C's team average of .260. Their top hitters are right fielder Jenny Schultz (.351) and third baseman Chris Ehler (341).

Crises, Contempt & Christ

Today, the magnitude and scope of suffering is greater than ever before in recorded history. With the ever increasing suffering, comes a need for an increase in support and assistance for its victims.

Ironically, what is usually offered to those in need instead of help is hindrance.

What form does this hindrance most often take?

The form of contempt! Victims of pain and suffering (emotional and physical) are also victims of disrespect, disdain, and despise.

Rather than being recipients of sound counsel and relief from their physical difficulties, they are destructively criticized and left with less than before.

This isn't a new trend, particular to modern humanity "adding insult to injury"; it is as old and worn as the cliché used to describe it.

One of the earliest written accounts of this tendency is found in the Book of Job in poetic form, "Men at ease have contempt for misfortune as the fate of those whose feet are slipping." (Job 12:5, NIV)

Job, after losing his family, his wealth, and eventually his health, learned that people generally believe that the victims of such suffering somehow deserve their plight and are unwilling to offer little but an increased sense of hopelessness.

But there is help and hope for the suffering; and, it is found in the same source today as it was found thousands of years ago by Job, in God.

There is no contempt in Jesus Christ for those in pain whether they are the cause of their own misery or not. Christ's only contempt is for sin, the behavior that brings about misery.

Christ was once approached by a man suffering from leprosy, the most dreaded disease of the time for it not only involved physical devastation, but it also openly invited contempt.

The leper knelt before Christ and said, "Lord, if you are willing, you can make me clean."

"Jesus reached out and touched the man. I am willing, he said. Be clean! Immediately he was cured of his leprosy." (Matt 8:1-3, NIV)

Christ is the source of help and hope: look to him. He is willing.

Hart heeds alumni cry, bids for AD

To rescue the drowning SIU-C athletics department, concerned alumni have called upon Jim Hart to cast aside his apron, don a white cape instead, and make a triumphant crossing of the Mississippi to bid for the job of athletics director.

Hart has been a loyal Saluki since he first tossed footballs for touchdowns at McAndrew Stadium 26 years ago. During and after his NFL days, no one has questioned that his heart lies in Carbondale. So when the cry for help went out, he could not turn his back. He had to come and save the day.

Meanwhile, interim Athletics Director Charlotte West, who has served this university with priceless devotion and endless energy for more than 30 years, now must face the prospect of again being denied the top administrative position in the athletics department.

For West, it truly could be a case of forever being a bridesmaid, yet never a bride.

Other candidates have applied, of course, but in the end it will come down to these two.

Hart will bring his name, a valued commodity to this celebrity-starved community. He also will bring the media, which will tell stories of how the pro football great is tackling his new position. And, it is hoped, he will be able to draw big bucks back into SIU-C's empty coffers.

West, on the other hand, also has much to offer. Her experience cannot be measured by just numbers and words on a resume. As a former head of the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women and a current member of the NCAA Council, she has held positions demanding far greater scope than athletics director.

Salukis take on Creighton

Blue Jays coach expects battle from 'Hill Gang' fans

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

Creighton faces an uphill battle to remain in first place after the weekend.

The Blue Jays will have to contend with "The Hill Gang," as well as the second-place Saluki baseball team.

"I think Southern Illinois is a real good club and especially tough at home," Creighton coach Jim Hendry said. "It's a tough place to go in and win. They have great fan support and a good ballpark on campus. The campus kids will be on us for four games, but that's part of it. I think we'll be ready for them and I look for them to be outstanding. I expect it to be a fight."

The Salukis, 25-12 overall and 5-3 in the Valley, trail Creighton, 28-12 and 6-2, by one game for the conference lead. The teams play noon doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday at Abe Martin Field.

"The Hill Gang" has earned Abe Martin Field the reputation as the toughest place to play in the Missouri Valley. Two years ago, first-place Indiana State came to Carbondale needing to win just one of the four games to clinch a Valley title. By the time the Sycamores left for Terre Haute, Ind., they were still looking for that win. It was the Salukis, aided by the fan support, who claimed the conference championship.

Saluki coach Itchy Jones is glad to be playing Creighton in front of the home crowd.

"They're at our place and that makes a little difference because we're a little more excited when we play at home," Jones said. "I feel you have to win three out of

Team wins 9th straight

Although No. 1 singles player Jairo Aldana lost to Murray State's Tony Wretmund 6-1, 6-3, the SIU-C men's tennis team won its ninth straight match with a 6-3 victory at University Tennis Courts on Thursday. The team has a 16-12 record and will be host to Illinois State at 2 p.m. Saturday. Story on Page 21.

Bears out to bolster defense in draft

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bears, four-time defending NFC Central Division champions, are looking to restock their defense in the NFL draft that begins Sunday.

Bears coach Mike Ditka has declared a need for added depth at almost all positions, possibly to create a competitive atmosphere in the spring mini-camp and the summer training camp as the Bears try to again become a championship team.

"We need defensive backs and linebackers," Ditka said. "We have to look hard at the tight end position, maybe another offensive lineman. There isn't any position we can afford to overlook. The defensive backs are something we have to analyze more than other positions."

Running back, quarterback, wide receiver and safety are the spots where the Bears appear ready to go for the 1988 season. After that, it's a matter of weighing need against the best athletes available.

Chicago will pick 23rd and 27th in the first round when the draft begins Sunday. The second pick came from Washington as compensation for the Redskins' signing of free agent linebacker Wilber Marshall.

The position of greatest need for Chicago is cornerback, where Maurice Douglass and Vestee Jackson finished the season as starters while veteran Mike Richardson watched. Ditka claims it is unlikely the Bears will use their first two picks to grab a cornerback — but only because the draft talent at that position is not deep.

Softball team to be home for rest of Gateway games

The softball team is home for the remainder of the Salukis' Gateway Conference schedule.

The games will be played out at IAW Field, across from the Recreation Center, starting with today's 2 p.m. showdown against Drake.

"We're shooting to win it all, but we're going to have to play one game at a time," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. The team is 21-14 overall and fourth in the Gateway at 5-3.

The league homestand continues noon Saturday against league-leading Northern Iowa. After a non-conference game against SIU-Edwardsville this Tuesday, the Salukis finish the season against Wichita State and Southwest Missouri next weekend.

With Northern Iowa (27-15, 5-1), Eastern Illinois (18-11, 7-3), and Illinois State (23-6, 4-2) ahead of the SIU-C in the standings, the Salukis can't afford to lose with the home

3 runners from England to join SIU-C track team

By Stephanie Wood

Men's track coach Bill Cornell went home to England this weekend and came back with three top-notch runners for his team next year.

The Salukis' top recruit, Jonathan Dennis, is "probably the best athlete his age I've ever recruited," Cornell said. Dennis is 17.

Dennis, from Camberly, also was recruited by Iowa
