Oh Henry! Select Party triumphs in intense race

SARA BEAN AND DAN CRAFT DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTERS

Select Party Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates Sean Henry and Brian Atchison celebrated a landslide victory over Millennium Party challengers in the Undergraduate Student Government elections Wednesday.

Fenry and Atchison beat out presidential hopeful Joe Sanchez and his running-mate Ted Clark by a margin of 412 votes.

The students came out and spoke today," Henry said. "We won as a party because everybody worked together as a team."

Both parties campaigned heavily throughout the day. However, the smaller Millennium Party was no match for the stronger, larger Select Party, which had about 50 people cam-paigning on Election Day and 20 candidates for senator seats. The Millennium Party only had nine senators.

The macabre past of Earth Day's founder

TAINTED HISTORY: Self-

style guru of the '60s defames years of progress with murder.

ERIN FAFOGLIA DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Beneath the excitement and celebration of Earth Day '99 lies a grim story with a twist of murder and deception.

Ira Einhorn, a self-style guru of the '60s counter-culture, led the first Earth Day cele-bration in Philadelphia in 1970. He orga-nized and led dozens of Earth Days and in the late '60s and early '70s was a well-known hippie in Piuladelphia.

In the early '70s, Einhorn d Helen "Holly" Maddux, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College in Bryn Mawr, Penn., dating. On 11, 1977, began Maddux disappeared after ending the rela-tionship with Einhorn. Maddux had been missing for 18 months when police found her mummified remains in a trunk in Einhorn's west-side Philly Powelton Village Apartment on March 28,1979, Police said she had been bludgeoned to death.

Einhorn fled the country in January 1979, shortly before his murder trial was to start. His departure was a betrayal to environmentalists who believed Einhorn stood for peace, love and justice.

After an anonymous caller tip on the television series "Unsolved Mysteries" 16 years later, Einhorn was found on June 13, 1997 and arrested in Champagne-Mouton, a village of France, living under the name Eugene Mallon. He had married a wealthy Swede

The event has received worldwide press coverage during the years and has been made into a television movie on NBC, which will air this May.

to keep the nonor and spirit of Earth Day alive.

"I don't think there's any essential connec-tion between his (Einhom's) problems and the goals for keeping up the Earth," said Hugh Muldoon, chairman of SIUC environmentalist organization Southern Sustainability and director of University Christian Ministries.

The press coverage seems like a bogus attempt to commercialize the whole thing and discredit the environmental movement."

Muldoon said "99.9 percent" of the world's environmentalists are working in good faith toward a common goal of benefiting the Earth.

"It could be an attempt to discredit the actions of environmentalists everywhere because many people are threatened by those who speak out for it," Muldoon said.

better as our local resources

It was cold, it was windy, but it was another successful Spring Thing. And now that we've proven we can have a peaceful, entertaining student get together on campus, it's time to make it even better. So with nearly an entire year to plan ahead, we have some suggested additions we'd like to see incorporated into the festivities.

First, as Spring Thing is a mass gathering of students, it's a prime opportu-nity for RSO involvement. Registered Student Organizations can be used in the planning and promotion process as well as the actual celebration. We have student marketing, public relation and advertising organizations as well as a variety of social and recreation RSOs that can make their talents and interests accessible to the event. More student involvement equals more student enjoyment.

We also think Spring Thing could key into the success of the Pig Out and adopt some of their ideas for organized fun as well as learning from its failures. If people like the offerings of the Pig Out, and it seems they do, then there's no reason similar offerings couldn't be available at Spring Thing for equal enjoyment.

The available eating options might also be expanded. Not everyone wants Subway and Pepsi, so how about a little more variety in vendors. Get some bagel guys, munchie carts, perhaps some local restaurants with stands to give the attendees more of an option. Including local restaurants would also bring in funding for the event as well as help SIUC/Carbondale relations, and the local establishments will like it because they get to make some money in exchange for a reasonable participation fee. On that same note it might be nice to let side acts come in, aka Taste of Chicago, to provide variety in entertainment. To make up for any cost of doing this we could also sell permits to craft vendors such as those that sell their goods occasionally in the Student Center. Not credit card sign-up stations, but more in the vain of the stations set up in the University Mall sometimes, where people sell posters and knick-knacks.

In short, Spring Thing has been great the past couple years, and we've been fortunate to get some great acts to come to our University, but as a campus and community we can all participate and make the event even more enjoyable by expanding and building on the festivities.

As long as we continue to be responsible, we believe Spring Thing can only get better as our local resources are further utilized.

George Clinton interview was a missed opportunity

Dear Editor,
A dissertation of many volumes cannot express the grotesque distortion of journalism the DAILY EGYPTIAN regularly regurgitates. Knowing full well my meager effort to com-plain will most likely fall on deaf ears, vicarious embarrassment and the literary equivalent of blowing chunks compel me onward. None of the readers have ever expected much out of the EGYPTIAN. It's a free paper with nice photos of your friends (complete with their misspelled names in the caption). Although this year has shown a flurry of EGYPTIAN incompetence (anyone remember the Halloween issue?), I must raise protest the Halloween issue?), I must raise protest over the April 19 edition containing the George Clinton article.

What amazed me is the lost opportunity. With a living legend sitting five feet in front of you, reporters Chris Kennedy and Dana Dubriumy acted as if they were gathering information for a Nickelodeon sound bite. My second feacies it Dubriumy acting Clinton. personal favorite is Dubriwny asking Cinton what his favorite color was after he just said that he was colorblind. Or, what about Dubriwny asking him what planet he would be from if he was able to choose. Look out "Cosmopolitan," beware "Vanity Fair," the DAILY EGYPTIAN is out for blood!

So, to the EGYPTIAN staff, I'm sure this let-ter will be dismissed outright. Your overinflated sense of your journalistic talent does a marvelous job of insulating you from reality. Enjoy it while you can.

Superman didn't pick his nose, neither should you

In a recent class discussion it came up that the American students felt like their cars were an extension of their homes — safe, familiar and pri-

Most of the foreign students not only didn't feel this way, but considered their cars distinctly unpleasant places to be. For some reason, Americans have a different relationship with their cars than other people around the world.

The privacy we feel in our cars is obvious from the number of people you catch picking their noses at stop lights. I call this the "Superman-in-the-Telephone-Booth Syndrome." Superman is a being from a supposedly mentally superior race who used to think he could change clothes in a

Maybe he was fooled by his X-ray vision and thought that phone booths were opaque to us puny Earthlings. Since Americans don't have superpowers, aside from the ability to make all Chinese food taste like it came from Kentucky Fried Chicken, we don't have this excuse.

Our cars are simply a private world where you ould no more look at anyone than you would strike up a conversation with the guy in the next stall in a public restroom.

Then we would have to dig through fast food bags, change tapes, find cigarettes or dial our cell phones with the left hand. Since most of us are right-handed, we prefer to use the less dexterous left hand for minor things like steering. Of course, this doesn't help people who think that they have to look at the phone rather than the road while they talk. Safety isn't my main gripe against cell phones, though. Most of us are just as dangerous changing the radio station. I'm philosophically opposed to them because they defeat the whole car thing for us Americans. Where there is a phone, there is no privacy. I like being in my car because no one can find me. When I had a job that required me to carry a cell phone, I kept it under the spare tire in the trunk.

Now some people even have faxes in their cars. The only use for a car fax is to find someone else with a car fax, send them a sheet of paper that reads "honk" — and rear end them.

Our affection for cars is the source of the parking problems at SIUC. If the waiting list for campus daycare extends until your kids are feeding you strained carrots, you put their names on the list and wait. If parking worked this way there would be an insurrection.

Luckily, to be responsible for parking doesn't take the same years of education and commitment as being responsible for daycare. All it takes is a little red truck, a box of jelly donuts and the ability to color incide the litery ty to color inside the lines.

I was hoping to explain the American car atti-tude in this column, but I have to admit I'ra baffled. I don't know why some people are so com-fortable in a steel and glass box. Now, if you'll excuse me, I have to quit typing - the light just changed.

"I'm not afraid of the media, but I respect the power it has," she said.
"I essentially came out of two closets. The staff was supportive, the students were relatively supportive, I got help from the administration, but by that time I was pretty well known as a transgender."

According to Kevin Kurtz, sec-retary for Gays, Lesbians, Bisexuals and Friends, the Registered Student Organization invited Davis to visit SIUC to field the numerous inquiries that have been asked on the GLBF Prideline, the 24-hour phone line dedicated to support the GLBF population.

"We have had a lot of questions about transgender issues, and quite frankly, we didn't have the know-how to handle it," Kurtz said. "In GLBF, transgenders have been associated with finding solace in the gay community, but the bias in the heterosexual community holds true in the homosexual community because of the lack of education."

Kurtz said the underlying problem extends from the negative

Rockford's experience with the creepy crawler was not his only less-than-sanitary encounter. Rockford said the elevators are left in shambles after weekend nights.

"It looks like sometimes they have parties in the elevators," he Crystal Dossie, a senior in electrical engineering from Chicago, arrives at Schneider Hall at 8 a.m. to clean up the disorder left from the weekend.

Dossie took the job of a janitor because of the hours of her personal schedule.

Dossie remembers the aftermath of Super Bowl weekend when she cleaned a mess of condoms, garbage and vomit from the previous night.

She said the excess garbage depends on the pander living on the floor. She finds coed and boys' floors require the most

"I can't imagine if the dorms were not maintained," she said. Those people would live in

Speaking From Experience

When Bobbie Chaney was 7 ars old, she remembers her father taking her 9-year-old brother to basketball practice. After she saw a member of the janitorial staff pushing a dust mop, she believed she never wanted to get involved in the custodial profession because it looked like hard

Twenty years later, Chaney, a Carbondale resident, celebrates her 10th year as an SIUC janitor.

Chaney, who is a single parent, believes this is one of the best jobs she could have to support he family. She said her position is important to her personally for financial stability, but the people around her are the true essence of

"I enjoy my job because of the people around me, not just my co-workers," she said. "I get to see generations of students go through SIUC. That is interesting to me

Chaney said janitors are important for everything from mopping the floors to supplying toilet paper for the bathrooms.

"If we weren't around you wouldn't have any toilet paper to wipe with - now tell me janitors aren't important," she said with a laugh. "We are the backbone of making SIU more appealing to visitors, students and faculty."

Chaney sometimes feels unap-preciated in the work place and society because people believe her job is to clean up after careless people.
"Sometimes I think janitors act as glorified maids when we are professional people," she said.

"We put pride into our work has to be gratifying to make us want to come into work day after

Ezra Miller, an SIUC janitor of 13 years from Carbondale, said the diversity of his job, benefits and high paying atmosphere make his job worthwhile.

Miller works the 4 p.m. to midnight shift in the Life Science II building. Miller has been in service for schools and the country his entire life.

Miller previously worked as a unitor in the high rises in Chicago and as a postal clerk. In 1986, he moved to Carbondale for the laid back atmosphere. Miller's favorite part of his job is the people he meets. He partic-ularly enjoyed working in the Communications Building because of the theater majors and their care-free attitudes.

"My people were the theater people," Miller said. "Those were my guys — they were always a lot of fun to talk to."

Miller said when the night gets lengthy, he sometimes uses the tools of the janitorial staff to keep him entertained.

"Some nights get a little long," he said. "To break the monotony you can grab a buffer. You can never go wrong with a buffer, the floor always need buffing."

Miller said he is not respected by the faculty and students as much as he should be — he expects some common courtesy from those around him.

"I think the respect issue could definitely be better," he said. "I don't expect you to invite me to your house, but a hello would be

"I'm not some guy that just drifted in here, I am the guy you see every day cleaning up your

According to Miller, some ople relieve janitors are less intelligent than the average employee and often are blamed for taking misplaced belongings.

"A lot of people have the misconception of the intelligence of the janitor, and the janitor-took-it syndrome," he said.

Sophomore center fielder breaks school's all-time and single-season home run record, but the Salukis have their five-game winning streak snapped

COREY CUSICK DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

SIUC sophomore center fielder Marta Vielhaus broke the school all-time home run record as well as the single-season record with a solo shot in the third inning of game two of a doubleheader Wednesday night against the University of Missouri. The Salukis (33-15, 7-1) split the double header with the No. 26-3|5 Salukis 16 ranked Tigers, losing the first game 3-1 regrouping to win the second 6-5 Wednesday in Edwardsville.

Viefhaus, who hit her ninth home run of the season and the 17th of her career, surpassed former Saluki standouts Jamie Schuttek ('94-97) and Colleen Holloway ('90-93) on the all-time

The homer also broke her own single season record, which she set

"Marta had a great day today," luki head coach Kay Saluki Brechtelsbauer said after Viefhaus's combined two game 5for-7 performance. "Not just with the home run, but with all the hits she had today.

"She's starting to get a little more consistent with the bat she's got quite a future ahead of

In game two, the Tigers (32-16) pounced on junior pitcher Carisa Winters (13-8) early, scoring three runs in the first inning, but the Salukis came back to score two runs in the second inning to come within one.

In the record-breaking third inning, sophomore pitcher/designated hitter Erin Stremsterfer, who had her career-high 16-game hitting streak snapped, reached on a fielder's followed by a homer from junior second baseman Lori Greiner, seventh on the return to Missouri Valley Conference action this weeker against Indiana State University and Illinois State University starting at noon Saturday and Sunday

ON THE ROAD

The Salukis

batter, Viefhaus, hit her recordbreaking shot to put the Salukis ahead 5-3.

The Salukis scored what proved to be the game-winning run in the top of the fifth after two costly throwing errors by the Tigers, scoring Vielhaus, who singled and stole second prior to the

The Tigers responded with two runs in the bottom half of the fifth on three consecutive hits off Winters, two singles and a double to trim the lead to 6-5.

In the bottom of the seventh, Winters, who struck out nine in the win, worked out of a jam after hitting the first Tiger batter, who later stole second. Winters, however, forced the next two batters to fly out to center, and the last out came via a groundout to second.

'The important thing is that they took a 3-0 lead in that second game and we didn't let down or give up.", Brechtelsbauer said. "(Carisa) got behind some batters. Sometimes she was sharp and at other times she struggled, but she fought until the end."

In game one, the Salukis jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the top of the second inning behind senior infielder/outfielder Jaymie Cowell's seventh home run of the

The Tigers quickly responded, however, scoring two runs (one unearned) in the bottom half of the inning on a two-out single by Shawna Robinson off Stremsterfer (15-7), who picked up the loss.

The Tigers added an insurance run in the fourth inning on an RBI double by Erin Erickson to push the lead to 3-1.

The Salukis had many chances to score in the late innings, but failed to take advantage of their opportunities.

In the fourth inning, Viefhaus hit a one-out single, only to be left stranded at second.

In the sixth, Stremsterfer hit an infield single with one out, but Greiner grounded into an inning-ending double play.

In the seventh inning it was much of the same for the Salukis. Viefhaus led the inning off with a double, only to be left stranded there after Missouri pitcher Christy Caccavo (11-5) struck out senior infielder Nikki Beard and Cowell and forced junior shortstop Jamie Campbell to pop out to the catcher to end the game.

"We had some opportunities, but we just couldn't get it done," Brechtelsbauer said.

KNIGHT-RIDDER NEWSPAPERS

PHILADELPHIA - Memo to Louisiana State University's women's track team and all collegiate sprint relay teams arriving Tuesday for the 105th Penn Relays Carnival: Texas is coming to chase history.

The Longhorns are after a sweep of the four Championship of America sprint relays, a feat that has been achieved just once at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field oval.

The only other? Texas in 1989. "We're going to load it up as est we can," said Texas coach Bev Keamey.

Texas captured two of the four events (4 x 100, 4 x 200, 4 x 400 and sprint medley) last year, with rival LSU nipping the Longhorns by .06 seconds in the 4 x 100 and George Mason pulling an upset in the sprint medley.

Two of LSU's sprint headliners,

Combs and Peta-Gaye Dowdie, along with former Simon Gratz star Joyce Bates, a sophomore hurdle sensation, are back to anchor the Tigers' Texas challenge.

George Mason returns three members of the defending sprint medley champion.

Kearney will mix and match her Texas sprinters from a deep group that includes 100-meter dash contenders LaKeisha Backus and Nanceen Perry, freshman LaKeesha White, Suziann Reid, former William Penn High star Angel Patterson, and veteran anchor Liz Diaz.

Texas is fresh from an eye-pop-ping showcase at its Texas Relays two weeks ago, during which it defeated LSU by a half-second in the 4 x 100 with the fastest time ever run (42.9) in the event outside of the NCAA championship meet.

Kearney's team also broke its collegiate 4 x 200 record, going

As if that weren't enough, the onghorns also posted the fastest 4 x 400 ever run outside an NCAA 3:28.48. Carolina, championship meet, Florida, South Georgetown and Alabama also could factor into the sprint relay picture.

"It's going to be very hard to win all four, but it's our goal to win them all," Kearney said. "I think the chance exists. For me to say it's impossible would be disest, because I really think it's possible.

"It's going to be difficult because there's so much room for error and the competition is so great. But I'm one that always wants to try to do something that no one else has done before."

Texas will have targets on its back from the minute it lands in Philly, with the rivalry with LSU expected to be one of the weekend's best storylines.

CAPE GIRARDEAU. Mo. SIUC catcher Ben Arbeiter feels right at home every time he plays at Capaha Park, and it showed Wednesday afternoon.

Playing several games in the ballpark at Cape Central High School in Cape Girardeau, Mo., Arbeiter's pinch-hit two-run home run in the ninth inning gave the Salukis a 14-11 Salukis 14 cushion they never relin-Indians 11 quished.

The victory for the Salukis was their second in 12 games and first in 10. It also improves them to 23-16 on the seaso

The Salukis win, however, could have easily turned into defeat after giving up eight home and you see that the team you beat hit eight home runs and some-thing's not right," SIUC coach Dan Callahan said. "You don't win games where you give up eight home runs. But our offense did a tremendous job."

had one RBI and stole a base. "The past couple of games I have been swinging the bat OK the hits haven't come, but I felt pretty comfortable," Ruggeri said. "But today was awesome. It was a great way to come out, and we needed this win big time." The Salukis jumped out early against SEMO (17-21) to a 2-0 first-inning lead, extending it to 3-1 in the third on a double to center field by senior Joe Schley, with, Ruggeri scoring from first base. But in the fourth inning, senior pitcher Jason Frasor unraveled at the seams. He allowed back-to-back-to-back home runs.

Frasor only lasted 3 2/3 innings, allowing four runs with six strikeouts and just two walks.

From there, the two teams played seesaw. Combined, they scored 15 runs in the span of four innings. Freshman Luke Nelson (3-0), who made his lucky 13th appearance, earned the win in relief of Frasor, Nelson allowed two runs in 2 1/3 innings.

However, the Salukis allowed SEMO to battle back in the eighth inning. The Indians scored five runs off of senior Brad Heuring and freshman Jake Alley.

Alley recovered to shut down the Indians to preserve the victory.

This was the most brutal stretch we've had since I've been here," Ruggeri said, "But we all stuck together. Nobody got down on anybody else and we kept battling. Hopefully, we will carry this momentum into this weekend and come back with four wins from Bradley."

Schley (2-for-4, HR), Scott ... Boyd (2-for-4), Jeff Stanek (2-for-2, three RBIs) and Nelson (3-for-5) led the alukis 16-hit attack.

"It's been so long since we've won, it was almost like we forgot how," Callahan said, "But finding a way to win and doing as good of a job as we did on offense today is huge. Hopefully, it will give us a little more momentum as far as going into this weekend.

Southwest Missouri State University, Illinois State University, Creighton University and the University of Evansville finished fifth through eighth, respectively.

What more can you say about Alison," Daugherty said. "She's had a great freshman year. She has sin-gle-handedly elevated our program because everybody had played bet-ter. Our future for the next three years with Alison on board is really bright."

Other Saluki finishers included: junior Andrea Walker (11th), sopho-Elizabeth Uthoff (20th), senior Jami Zimmerman (21st), senior Renee Myers (t36th) and senior Jane Starkweather (t40th).

"We'd run a stretch of five or six pars and then a triple bogey," Daugherty said. "Then we'd ger a couple of birdies and then a double bogey. We just didn't get too good of a run and keep it there.'

The prestigious meet has high entry standards, so the women's and men's teams will be unable to take their entire teams to Drake this weekend.

Track and field teams set to compete in one of the biggest events in college sports

DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

The chance to compete in front of 18,000 fans doesn't come along very often for track and field

This weekend, several SIUC athletes will participate in the 90th-annual Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa — one of the biggest spectacles in college sports.

The nicet is a virtual melting pot of world-wide track and field. Professional, collegiate and high school athletes from 55 nations and 751 teams will be present. A grand total of 8,651 competitors are expected.

How big a deal are the Drake Relays? Well, not too many single events in any sport have their own Halls of Fame — one for athletes and one for coaches.

Log on to www.drakerelays.org and you'll find the meet's very own website, complete with a running clock counting down the hours, min-utes and seconds until this year's four-day event.

On Friday and Saturday, the two main days of the relays, Drake Stadium is expecting its 34th consecutive sellout.

Unless they go to the Olympics, it's safe to say the Salukis will never have the track and say the Saluks will never have the dark and field universe revolving around them again.

"It's a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to compete in front of thousands of people," women's coach Don DeNoon said. "It will hold a good memory (in the athlete's) minds for the rest of their lives."

SIUC senior distance runner Joseph Parks is going to his third Drake Relays. He said the best thing about the crowd is they're just track fans they don't seem to care who wins.

"When you get down there on the track and see the thousands of fans it's a real boost," he said. "All the fans are great; they yell for you no matter where you're from."

Men's coach Bill Cornell hopes the crowd will push the four relay teams he is sending.

"Bradley was extremely surpris-ing. I think there is such a thing as home-court advantage, but my good-ness I was stunned."

Three of the top four finishers were Braves, including freshman medalist Kelly Dillon (233). Dillon shot an unbelievable 69 on a par-72 course in the first round, which a featured a hole-in-one.
