Ruffner, Brackett receive systems posts

Isaac Brackett

Ralph W. Ruffner and Isaac P. Brackett were named by the SIU Board of Trustees Friday as systems vice presidents as part of the Board's reorganization of University administration.

Ruffner, who is currently vice president for Area and International Services, will assume his duties in Edwardsville effective Sept. 1, while Brackett, now chairman of the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology on the Carbondale campus, will assume the systems vice president's chair here.

Ruffner, 56, came to SIU in 1964 to be vice president for Student and Area Services. A faculty member at George Washington University following World War II, he joined the United States State Department staff in 1956 and had assignments that took him to 42 countries.

Ruffner made his headquarters at the Edwardsville campus, and when the University initiated reorganization procedures in 1968 which resulted in creation of the office of chancellor at each campus, he continued as a central administration vice president in charge of Area and International Services.

Isaac Brackett, 54, came to SIU in 1951 from Northwestern University. He was named chairman of the then newly-formed Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology in 1957 and has headed speech and hearing projects at the SIU Clinical Center.

A native of Flemington, W. Va., he attended Northwestern University where he received his Ph. D. degree in 1947. Brackett has served on numerous SIU faculty committees.

Creation of the position was the offshoot of a special Board meeting Aug. 3, at which the office of president was elimin-

Malone hopes to be replaced before Sept. 1

Acting Chancellor Willis E. Malone said Friday he hopes to be relieved of his position by Sept. 1.

"The reason the Board didn't act on it today is that the Search Committee didn't have a recommendation," Malone said.

The Chancellor Search Committee, headed by Howard Webb of the Department of English, was formed to recommend a successor to former Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar who announced his resignation in January.

Malone said he expected that a conference call would take place next week during which the Board would tentatively approve the appointment of a new chancellor.

"This, however, awaits a recommendation by the Search Committee," he said.

A conference call is a multiple hook-up which permits several persons in different locations to speak with each other at the same time.

Such a decision would have to be ratified at the next regular session of the Board, Malone said.

Morris receives status of president emeritus

The SIU Board of Trustees released a letter Friday accepting SIU President Delyte W. Morris' resignation as president and granting him president emeritus status for the period of Sept. 1, 1970 to Aug. 31, 1971.

The letter was released after an executive session lasting from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Other action taken after the lengthy closed session was approval of changes in the faculty-administrative payroll, including appointment of two system vice presidents for SIU.

Also given final approval was SIU's 10-year plan which had been partially considered previously by the Board. The plan will now go to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The agenda for the closed session was not made public. Such sessions are restricted by Illinois law to consideration of personnel matters, land acquisition and pending litigation.

The letter to Morris expressed "profound appreciation" for his 22 years of service to the University.

"During your remarkable tenure as president," the letter said, "the University has grown from little more than a tiny teacher's college granting an occasional higher degree, with restricted offerings, diminished enrollments and a wretched campus to one of the top twenty in size of the public universities of our nation."

Because Morris' tenure as president expires Sept. 1, and commencement exercises will be held Sept. 5, some confusion was expressed about whose signature should appear on the diplomas granted at that time.

After considering the possibility of having the chairman of the University Administrative Council, Clarence Stephens, sign the diplomas, the Board decided to authorize Morris to do so.

The Board's statement of appreciation for Morris' service to the University included a list of eight duties and responsibilities which he will be expected to fulfill as president emeritus.

Among the duties outlined are consultation with the Board on programs initiated during his term of office and on University governance, fund raising from private sources, and suggesting ideas for the University's development in areas such as com-

Trustees approve Malone's budget; debate funds issue

By Terry Peters and Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

The SIU Board of Trustees approved Acting Chancellor Willis E. Malone's internal operating budget following spirited debate over the student activities allocations.

The budget of $113,759,046 is $8,018,621 larger than the allocations for the 1969-70 fiscal year. It is based on a projected fall quarter enrollment of 24,000 at the Carbondale campus and 13,700 at the Edwardsville campus, an increase of 2,550 students over last year.

President Delyte W. Morris told the Board the increase reflects enrollment increases, salary adjustments, costs of operation and maintenance of new buildings and generally higher operating costs resulting from increases in prices of goods and services.

The debate, sparked by Board member Martin Van Brown, Carbondale dermatologist, hinged on four issues: student government salaries, athletic fund allocations, Air Force ROTC allocations and funds for the new campus radio station to serve on-campus living areas. The vote was 5-1 with Brown voting against.

The debate followed a presentation by John McCaffrey, student body vice president, who explained how the student government recommendations differed from the budget submitted by Malone.

Student government had slashed all funds for Air Force ROTC and sizeably reduced funds for University athletics. Malone's recommendations called for $1,000 for ROTC and an additional $25,000 for athletics.

Ivan Elliott Jr., Board member from Carbondale, called McCaffrey's presentation "the finest student presentation I have seen."

Brown called for an administration investigation of what he termed "subversive organizations" on campus such as Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC).

"Suppose the director of the FBI makes a report and names organizations such as SDS and the SMC as being subversive," Brown said. "Do you, as administrators, take this as sufficient cause to remove recognition of these organizations on campus—thereby denying them state tax money?"

Malone replied, "My concern is what does the group do on campus. I don't be-

Heads VTI for 20 years

Day of recognition honors retiring dean

By The University News Service
Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has proclaimed today as "Dean Ernest J. Simon Day" in Illinois in recognition of a retiring SIU administrator.

Simon, organizer and head of Southern's Division of Technical and Adult Education for the past 20 years, retires Sept. 1.

His 52 years in education—beginning in high school shop classes and extending through the directorship of the state department of vocational education and ending at SIU—is a record in the state.

Gov. Ogilvie's proclamation states:

"Educators probably exert the most telling influence on the lives of our young. It is they, through their counseling and guidance, who formulate the concepts that grow and foster in young minds.

"As the educational field becomes more complex and students progress in their schooling, our advanced technology frequently results in a lack of warmth and understanding between educators and their students.

"We in Illinois are fortunate to have such men as Dean Ernest J. Simon in our school system. For 52 years he has dedicated his life to the education of young people in Illinois.

"Under his leadership both students and faculty at the Vo-

Dean Ernest J. Simon

ational-Technical Institute at SIU have found a friend and an educator who cares about their future.

"Through his leadership VTI has grown until it now serves as a model for similar schools throughout the nation. Dean Simon will be missed when he retires September 1, and his accomplishments will be long remembered.

"Now, therefore, I, Richard B. Ogilvie, Governor of the State of Illinois, hereby proclaim August 22, 1970, as Dean Ernest J. Simon Day in Illinois and urge all his friends, students and associates to join in honoring him."

Simon came to SIU in 1950 from Springfield, where he had been state director of vocational education since 1943. A native of Chicago, Simon began his teaching career as an instructor in industrial education in 1918. He was director of vocational and industrial education for Champaign city schools from 1933 to 1943.

Simon earned his bachelor's degree in industrial education with honors from the University of Illinois in 1934, and his master's in education in 1936. Bradley University conferred the honorary L.L.D. on him in 1949 in recognition of his contributions to industrial, technical and vocational education.

He has been president of the Illinois Industrial Education Association, Illinois Vocational Association and the National Association of State Directors of Vocational Education.

SIU-Edwardsville Chancellor John Rendleman credits Simon as "the man who made technical education and programs such as manpower training an accepted and vital part of the University's service."

In a letter to the faculty and staff of the Division of Technical and Adult Education in which he paid tribute to Simon for his service, SIU President Delyte W. Morris said that "no other university has a scope of service as broad as that offered by Technical and Adult Education... no other man in education in Illinois had the driving force necessary to accomplish the task of providing the many facets of technical and adult education which the people of Southern Illinois were seeking."

McCaffrey lauds CPC move

John McCaffrey, student body vice president has never said that the decision of the Carbondale Planning Commission to not prohibit cooperatives in single family and duplex housing to more than two unrelated persons was the smartest move that could be made.

"I feel that this was the smartest move the Carbondale Planning Commission could have made," McCaffrey said. "It was the only viable, possible decision that could have been made."

"There were two public meetings and not once did a person get up and defend the proposed ordinance. The people who were for the ordinance could have made a showing, but apparently they never came to one of these meetings.

"The people are represented on the committee and they and the subcommittees have a big job ahead of themselves. They are taking into consideration the problems of the young in the community," McCaffrey said.

"We are all residents of the community and this was the first time students have been recognized in equal status with residents of Carbondale.

"Now that the 18-year-old vote is here, students will be taking more of a part in community matters."

Drugs found at Tate home

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Marijuana, hashish and hallucinogenic drugs were found in Sharon Tate's home and cocaine was discovered in the car of her former boyfriend after the actress and four others were slain at their mansion, a policeman said today.

Sgt. Michael McGann, homicide investigator called by the prosecution at the Tate murder trial, gave these results of a search of the premises after the killings in August of 1969:

Seveny-five grams of marijuana were found in a living room cabinet; 30 grams of hashish, a potent Middle East variety of marijuana, found in a nightstand in a bedroom shared by victims Abigail Folger and Wojciech Frykowski; 10 capsules of the hallucinogenic drug MDA, also in the nightstand, and in the car of victim Jay Sebring a gram of cocaine, 2.9 grams of loose marijuana, 3.4 grams of marijuana in a film can and a two-inch smoked marijuana cigarette butt on the floor.

Sebring, a Hollywood hair stylist, was once engaged to the actress, wife of film director Roman Polanski.

McGann took the stand after the judge in the case took a personal look at county jail conditions which Charles M. Manson has called barbaric.

Manson, leader of a hippie-type family, is on trial in the case with three women followers.

For academic, disciplinary reasons

Malone sees more admission denials

By Terry Peters
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A number of students will likely be denied admission or readmission to SIU as a result of tighter administration of the University's academic and disciplinary requirement policy, according to Acting Chancellor Willis E. Malone.

Malone, who hopes to step down from the chancellorship Sept. 1, discussed other developments spawned in the aftermath of the May campus disorders, including a crisis management committee which will recommend guidelines for campus assemblies and demonstrations.

"I think that the University has been rather liberal in the matter of the readmission of students who have had academic difficulties," Malone said.

"I asked the academic deans to take a very careful look at each case where an individual has been dropped for academic reasons," he continued.

"If there seems to be some legitimate reason to make an exception, and readmit him immediately, that's fine. But I don't want it to be done simply as a formality."

"Our regulations basically say that a student who has been dropped for poor scholarship would be out of the University for two quarters. Unless there's some good reason why an exception should be made, that policy should be adhered to," Malone concluded.

The disciplinary as well as the academic record of transfer students will be examined before such students will be admitted to SIU, Malone said.

"We had not done that prior to this year," he said. "And I think it's important that it be done."

The Acting Chancellor said he expects that the tighter administration of the University's retention policy and the new requirement for transfer students will increase significantly the number of students denied admission or readmission to the University.

"But the extent of it, I don't have any idea," Malone said.

Malone said a crisis management committee composed of students, faculty and other segments of the University community, has met several times during the summer.

"This committee grew out of a recommendation made by a task force soon after the suspension of classes," Malone said.

"The reason we have not yet announced the composition of that group is that all the student members have not been appointed," he continued. "Mr. Scherachel (president of student body) has plans to be a member of this group, and has attended some meetings."

Malone said the group will have two major functions: advising the chancellor during or in anticipation of a crisis on campus, and developing general guidelines for the campus on student assemblies and demonstrations.

"Our hope is that there will be general acceptance of the guidelines," he said. "I would hope that, certainly prior to the beginning of

Willis
Malone, acting chancellor

fall quarter, there would be distribution of the general guidelines that have been drawn up.

"I can't give you anything specific on it right now," he added, "We're not that far along."

Malone pointed out that fact-finding groups have been set up to investigate the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs and the Air Force ROTC program. Both groups were formed as a result of agreements former Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar had made with students, Malone said.

Malone said the chairman of the committee on the Vietnam study center is Willis Moore, chairman of the Department of Philosophy. The committee includes faculty members, graduate and undergraduate students.

The committee on the AFROTC program, set up by the Carbondale Faculty Sub-Council, has not met because all the student members have been named.

"But this one will be under way, if it isn't under way now, certainly before fall quarter," Malone said.

Malone said the purpose of the two fact-finding groups is to "find the facts, publicize those facts as widely as they can, and make recommendations."

He said decisions on the status of the Center and ROTC will not be made until the committees' recommendations have been made.

Malone said his recommended review of undergraduate education has been taking place at the school and department levels during the summer.

"We've had reports from many departments saying that they've been devoting time and effort to reviewing their curriculum," Malone said.

"I am pleased with the efforts to improve staffing," Malone said, singling out the increase in the number of full-time staff members in the General Studies Program.

Regarding General Studies, Malone said any radical changes in the program will probably be deferred until a decision is made whether or not to decentralize it and make it a campus rather than an all-University function.

"The basic changes made this summer have not been organizational, but rather involved a rethinking of the content of General Studies and a review of staffing," he said, adding that a change in the hours requirements will also be delayed pending a decision on decentralization.

"I think there will be and should be differences in General Studies at Edwardsville and Carbondale," Malone said.

The decisions on which units to assign to the campuses will be made by the recently created University Administrative Council during the two-year interim period designated by the Board of Trustees. That period will begin Sept. 1.

Malone said Cresap, McCormick and Paget, the management consultants whose report recommended a major overhaul of SIU's administrative structure had access to the recommendations of SIU's University Committee on Governance and Reorganization.

"Whether they were influenced by them, I don't know," Malone said. "Many of the recommendations of the governance committee may be implemented during the two-year interim period."

Malone said the two sets of recommendations differed mainly in that the University governance committee assumed a given administrative structure, while the Cresap report took a hard look at the entire University organization.

Both sets of proposals emphasized decentralization and increased campus autonomy, however.

Malone complimented the Student Conduct Review Board, composed of three faculty members, three undergraduates and one graduate student, for its handling of disciplinary cases arising from the May disorders.

The board, set up in June, has a rotating membership which relieves the members from having to sit in at every hearing. The review board hears cases on appeal from administrative hearings.

"I think it's important that our student body know that the board is operating, and that we have responsible students and faculty operating in this area," Malone said.

"I consider the work of the Student Conduct Review Board tremendously important," he continued. "We all feel a bit reassured that our disciplinary procedures are set and operating."

"The members of that board are putting in lots of time. They're very serious and, it seems to me, very devoted people," Malone said.

So far the University's judicial procedures have handled over 100 cases, Malone said, out of the 300 which grew out of the May disturbances.

"And for all of these cases, either hearings have been set or are in process," he said. "And we hope that before the opening of fall quarter these will be handled."

Malone said the "reserve" of people working on the board is large enough to set up two such Student Conduct Review Boards, if the need should arise.

Board approves organizational plan and confirms departmental heads

SIU's Board of Trustees approved Friday a College of Education organization plan that provides an assistant dean for executive offices and a director of undergraduates student personnel service.

The Board also confirmed appointment of three departmental chairmen in the college.

The executive dean will be Troy W. Edwards, who has been assistant dean for undergraduate studies. John R. Verdun, Jr., director of teacher education programs, was named to the post formerly held by Edwards. In his new position Edwards, on sabbatical leave until Jan. 1, will assist Dean Elmer J. Clark in carrying out functions of the Dean's Office and the College. His duties will include acting as budget control and fiscal officer and coordinating space needs and course scheduling within the college.

Harold L. DeWeese, who has been the College's chief academic adviser, is the new director of undergraduate personnel services.

Besides advising students and improving courses of study, DeWeese will be responsible for academic discipline matters and will coordinate and supervise the Academic Advisement Center of the College of Education.

Dale Kaiser, acting as assistant dean for executive affairs until Edwards returns to campus, has been appointed director of educational services in the new set-up. Kaiser previously had handled many duties of this new post as director of the School Services Bureau in the Department of Education Administration and Foundations.

Dean L. Stuck of the Department of Administration and Foundations has been named assistant dean for graduate studies and research to succeed Donald W. Robinson, who resigned to become dean of education at Youngstown (Ohio) University. Stuck, a native Iowan with his Ph.D. from Iowa State University at Ames, has been at SIU since 1968.

Roger Robinson, who has headed the Educational Research Bureau, has the title of director of educational research in the new plan. Duties include administering the research bureau, considering research proposals and making recommendations regarding them to the dean, and encouraging and facilitating research in the College. Changes of departmental chairmen were:

John E. King, who has headed the Department of Administration and Foundations, moved over to chairman of higher education and Edward B. Saase of administration and foundations has been appointed to succeed King in that department. Dean Clark was acting chairman of higher education during the past year as well as serving as dean. The Board also confirmed the appointment of William E. O'Brien, a veteran faculty member, as chairman of the Department of Recreation. He succeeds William Bidingler, who remains on the faculty.

Hester lauds Morris

Lee Hester, president of the Nonacademic Employee Council commended SIU President Delye W. Morris at Friday's Board meeting "for his efforts to preserve academic freedom on this campus and to rid this campus of that small number of appears to be to tear down the University for their own political or personal reasons."

Hester addressed the Board on behalf of the employee council before the Board began consideration of other agenda items.

His presentation also cited a felt lack of communication as one of the persistent attitudes emerging during the recent confrontations on University campuses, and recommended that nonvoting representatives of the students, faculty, and nonacademic employees be provided on the University Administrative Council.

"These representatives should receive notices and agenda of all meetings, as well as all other material sent to the administrative council, sit with regular council members and take part in discussion at all sessions, including executive sessions, and participate in all other activities of the council including conference calls and all other consultations among council members," Hester said.

Hester also recommended that all parking fees at the Carbondale campus be suspended immediately, and that a comparison study be made of parking fees, regulations and fines at all state colleges and universities, particularly between SIU's Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

No new dead fish seen at Lake-on-the-Campus

By Bob Patton
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

No new deaths of fish were reported at the Lake-on-the-Campus Friday, according to C.W. Thomas Jr., assistant coordinator of student activities in charge of the lake. Thomas said the fish have apparently stopped dying as suddenly as they began.

The first dead fish began appearing in the lake following a rain storm Wednesday afternoon, and by Thursday hundreds of dead fish could be seen on the surface and along the shorelines of the lake. "The appearance of dead fish has dissipated," Thomas said. He said only a few dead fish have appeared on the surface since Thursday and are believed to be those fish which sank to the bottom and are now floating to the surface.

Thomas said that the death of the fish remains a mystery. He said tests by the SIU Department of Fisheries and Research have not turned up any clues as to what caused the sudden death of the hundreds of fish.

However, Thomas said that according to Kenneth Thompson, assistant director of the fisheries research laboratory, the copper sulfate added to the lake earlier in the week was not the cause of the fish deaths.

Thompson also pointed out that the chemical is not a weed killer. He said the chemical was used as a deterrent to the growth of algae. He said that the chemical also acts as a water purifier.

Tests also show that the cause of death to the fish was not due to lack of oxygen in the water as had previously been speculated.

Thomas also said that all tests taken at the lake by different investigating agencies have not turned up any new clues to the mysterious deaths of the fish.

Thomas said that several people have speculated that the lake may have been overstocked. He added, however, that there is no definite proof. He said that the lake is still filled with thousands of fingerlings and the recent kill would not require restocking.

"All I can say is that I am happy the kill has stopped," Thomas said.

Several student volunteers were at the Lake Friday afternoon to help the lake crews clean up the remainder of the dead fish. Ralph Schultz, a crew chief at the lake, said that most of the dead fish had cleaned up by late Thursday afternoon. Approximately 14 people were involved in the lake clean-up Thursday.

ated effective September 1 through August 31, 1971.

At the same meeting, the Board created a University Administrative Council composed of six officials, including Ruffner and Brackett, Edwardsville Chancellor John Rendleman, acting Carbondale Chancellor Willie E. Malone, James Brown, chief of Board staff and Clarence Stephens, chairman.

The Trustees declared that the system vice presidents have responsibility during the transitional period for administration of those activities and persons now reporting to the University's central administration.

The Administrative Council will act as an adviser to the Board on further reorganizational matters, with the desired end result being maximum decentralization of the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

The Council will present a recommendation on the need for a president of the SIU system by June 30, 1971.

In addition to the announcement of the systems vice presidents, the Board made numerous faculty appointments.

Nineteen instructors and 34 assistant professors were given contracts for teaching at the two campuses of the University. Nine in associate professor rank were approved, all for the Edwardsville campus, while seven full professors were employed, six of them to serve at Edwardsville.

Some of the new appointments are to fill vacancies caused by resignation, while others are to reinforce departments in which preliminary figures show substantial enrollment gains.

The six professors named to the Edwardsville faculty are William D. Claudson, Malcolm Lieblisch and James P. Woodward in the Fine Arts Division, Gene Taun Haisao in the Social Sciences Division; Ivan L. Russell in the Education Division; and William Weismantel in the Social Sciences Division.

Herbert Marshall, who has been a visiting professor at the Carbondale campus, was approved for a continuing appointment as professor in academic affairs.

Two appointments were confirmed in the School of Dental Medicine, Dr. Richard E. Coy as associate profesor and Dr. Gilbert N. Zoeller as assistant professor.

William T. Kabish was approved as associate professor and assistant dean of the School of Medicine.

Two visiting professors were employed for stated terms at the Carbondale campus. Charles A. Leonard will serve as visiting professor of theater for the fall quarter and I. Milton Sacks as visiting research professor of government for the fall and winter quarters.

The SIU Trustees also approved some reassignment of personnel, in part reflecting reorganization procedures. Howard S. Dye, a professor in the Business Division, was named acting dean of the Graduate School at the Edwardsville campus. John W. Leonard was named acting dean of the division.

Donald L. Beggs of the Carbondale faculty was named associate dean of the campus Graduate School; John Kurtz was named acting campus director of Broadcasting Service; and Phillip H. Olsson was confirmed as assistant dean in the College of Communications and Fine Arts.

lieve in guilt by association."

Although chapters of many organizations exist from campus to campus, the activities of these groups are not necessarily homogeneous, Malone said.

"What defense do taxpayers have?" Brown asked. "You and I know these groups are where the trouble starts."

Edwardsville Chancellor John S. Rendleman replied that no campus group has "unlimited freedom." He said faculty fiscal sponsors approve each expenditure requested by the group.

Brown complained that the previous student government, under the leadership of Dwight Campbell, overspent its budget by $5,000 and was assigned additional secretaries by the administration.

"Exactly as they said they wouldn't do at last year's budget meeting," Brown said. "I think somewhere your administration is being bamboozled by somebody."

Malone defended the present student government, characterizing its leaders as responsible individuals.

Chairman Melvin Lockard agreed, saying, "I think student government is on an upward trend."

"Everything is taxpayers' money, but the students are assessed fees for activities. I think they (the students) should have quite a little to say about how the money is spent, under supervision."

Prior to the budget debate, which did not appear on the Board agenda, the Trustees acted on several general business matters.

Among them was approval of guidelines for an affiliation agreement between the SIU School of Medicine and the Springfield Memorial Hospital. The Board also reaffirmed the University's policy of nondiscriminatory hiring practices by contractors working on University projects. Public distribution of Board minutes was also approved.

Richard Moy, dean of the School of Medicine, said he felt it was unnecessary for the University to build its own academic research hospital.

Many other institutions have built such units, but, Moy said, the University could affiliate with two community hospitals in the Springfield area.

Moy said an agreement with Springfield Memorial Hospital is being worked out and another agreement with St. John's Hospital is forthcoming.

In another decision, the Board voted 4-2 to provide the central libraries on each campus with copies of Board minutes with salary figures removed. Elliott called for an additional sentence to the resolution explaining that salaries are public information and are obtainable from the Board office.

Brown said, "Everybody knows they are available, but let's make it a little difficult to get them."

Brown said other universities experienced difficulties when such information was made public. Elliott responded, "That's just part of the hazard of working for a public institution."

Elliott's amended version was defeated in a 3-3 vote with Brown, Lockard, and F. Guy Hitt voting no.

The University's anticipated operating income for the year is shown as $84,794,768 from legislative appropriation and tuition charges: $13,933,278 from operation of auxiliary enterprises such as residence halls; and $15,031,000 in restricted accounts, including $1,076,300 in general student activity fees.

Budget allocations for 1970-1971 were approved by the Board as:

Education and general expenses, $97,189,218; Auxiliary Enterprises, $13,933,278; University Student Activities, $1,070,000; and Student Aid (scholarships, fees and fellowships), $1,566,550.

Morris plan stated community and area development, environmental studies, international education and educational opportunities for the disadvantaged.

The Board told Morris that he should expect to vacate his present residence by Dec. 31, 1970, to permit the construction of the Humanities Building to begin. It relieved Morris of the requirement that he live on the Carbondale campus after that time.

The governing body also approved Morris' planned trip to the International Association of Universities Conference in Montreal to represent SIU. He will travel to New York, Washington and Michigan after the conference on "missions for the University."

Board sends studies on steam plant back

A recommendation that SIU switch from coal to gas for steam generation has been sent back to engineering consultants for further study.

SIU's Board of Trustees heard Friday a second opinion that conversion could be costly and that mechanical dust collectors could adequately handle particulate emissions from the existing coal-fired steam plant at SIU.

A 10-year plan for upgrading SIU's campus utilities system, received by the Board in January, had urged conversion to pollution-free gas boilers in future expansion. It said that if a favorable gas rate couldn't be negotiated, existing and new coal-fired units should be equipped with electrostatic precipitators that would take out 98 per cent of fly ash and foreign matter from boiler gases.

The report was submitted by Consoer, Townsend and Associates of Chicago. The SIU Board sought a backup opinion from Stanley Consultants, Inc. of Muscatine, Ia., before beginning action on the 10-year plan.

The second firm's review, accepted Friday, claimed that coal is now much more economical than gas and that gas supplies are short because of regulatory policies. It said that mechanical collectors could control emissions at levels well below state standards and would cost much less than precipitators.

The Board hired Consoer, Townsend and Associates to complete a supplementary report.

Help needed to aid patients

The Jackson County Mental Health Association is seeking volunteers to work with patients in nursing and shelter care homes.

According to Lela Ruediger, coordinator, the use of drug therapy and psychotherapy has filled shelter care and nursing homes with patients that in previous years would have been in hospitals.

"They need even more patient services than those offered to the short-term patients of general hospitals by their auxiliaries," she said.

The Jackson County Mental Health Association is a voluntary health organization and receives no tax money or United Fund support.

The association is also asking for contributions of materials for arts and crafts, toys and other items.

If anyone is interested in either volunteering time or donating materials, they should write to the Jackson County Mental Health Association, c/o Post Office, Murphysboro or call Mrs. Ruediger in Murphysboro.

Two-day horse show to open in Marion

The Southern Illinois Open Hunt is hosting a horse show at the Williamson County Fair Grounds in Marion today and Sunday.

Wayne Smith, spokesman for the club, said horsemen from five midwestern states will participate in what he termed, "One of the largest horseshows in the Midwest."

The show will open today at 9 a.m. and continue until about 5 p.m. The show will continue through Sunday, opening at 9 a.m. and closing at 4 p.m. Tickets to the shows are $1 each and may be purchased at the gate at the fair grounds.

Flag off stamps

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The South Carolina delegation to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention wants the Post Office Department to stop using the American flag on stamps.

Flag stamps are "constantly hit upon and stamped, causing a severe and horrible defacing," the delegation said in a resolution submitted to the 71st convention.

Former Saluki football star heads St. Louis Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Quarterback Jim Hart knows he's No. 1, meaning the St. Louis Cardinals could well become one of the National Football League's passing powers this fall. Hart is a former SIU star. The Cardinal signalcaller virtually rewrote the school record book in his career as a Saluki at SIU. He owns 15 of the 19 SIU passing marks and all six of the school total offensive statistics, establishing all of them during the 1964 and 1965 seasons.

But the revving up of the Cardinal offense, at times excellent in 1969, is going to mean little unless gaping holes in the team's defense last fall are shored up firmly.

Beaten early and often by injuries a year ago, the Cardinals frequently started as many as five first-year players against opponents' attacks and wound up yielding 389 points.

The result was a skid from a 9-4-1 finish in 1968 to a 4-9-1 in 1969, leaving Coach Charley Winner convinced "we've nowhere to go but up."

Winner, who has survived traces of deep dissent on his club, thus welcomes back a healthy Jerry Stovall to a cornerback position and hopes Roger Wehrli and Terry Brown have profited from experience.

He has obtained former AFL star Miller Farr to man the left corner, with Wehrli at right corner and Stovall and 11-season vet Larry Wilson at safeties, as well as Tony Plummer, the club's 10th-round draft choice for Pacific.

Linebacking should be improved given the frequently outstanding service of Larry Stallings. Stallings is at left linebacker, with Jamie Rivera in the middle and Rocky Rosema on the right side. A rookie, Don Parish of Stanford, has been impressive in practice.

The Cardinals' front four lists second-year player Rolf Kraeger and Chuck Walker at ends and Fred Heron and Bob Rowe—a strong tandem last year—at tackles.

As far as the offense is concerned, Winner has gone for greater mobility and quick striking power—not without some risk.

To begin with, he swapped accurate-passing Charley Johnson to Houston last winter for Oiler veteran Pete Beathard, who will back up Hart.

The swap is aimed at bolstering Hart's confidence in cementing him as No. 1, but his record of interceptions in four previous seasons as Johnson's fill-in is not favorable.

Should the 6-foot-2, 205-pounder cure the ill, he has an outstanding set of receivers in John Gilliam, Jackie Smith and Dave Williams, who combined for 151 catches in 1960.

Williams ranked fifth in the NFL with 56 receptions to Gilliam's 52 for ninth place. Williams scored seven touchdowns and Gilliam nine, averaging 19.5 yards a grab.

MacArthur Lane will be tried at running back, with 6-foot-3, 230-pound Cid Edwards and Johnny Roland offering good power at the other running post.

Ernie McMillan and Bob Reynolds give the Cardinals continued excellence at offensive tackles, but the interior—save ninth-year guard Irv Goode—is new.

Twelve-season guard Ken Gray is gone, the victim of weakening knees. In his place is Clyde Williams, backed by Chuck Hutchison, a 6-foot-3, 230-pound husky drafted second from Ohio State.

Perhaps the key to the interior is Wayne Mulligan, who moves up to No. 1 center following release of former All-Pro Bob DeMarco on waivers.

Philadelphia continues to rebuild

READING, Pa. (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles will be hard pressed to win more than half their games in the 1970 National Football League season, despite front office optimism.

Coach Jerry Williams is in his second year of rebuilding and still has a long way to go. The Eagles have problems with offensive blocking, an inexperienced defensive secondary and a lack of squad depth. The quarterbacking is adequate, pass receiving excellent, and running game solid as long as Tom Woodeshick is healthy.

The Eagles find themselves in trouble already with four players having undergone operations that will sideline them for the exhibition season. Larry Keyes, last year's No. 1 draft choice, was to have been switched from offense to a cornerback but tore an achilles tendon before camp opened. Second year man Bill Bradley, a kicking specialist last season, was slated to replace Joe Scarpato at free safety and handle the punting.

He suffered cartilage damage in the exhibition opener. Offensive tackle Dave Graham also tore knee ligaments and underwent an operation, as did

Problem players may see action

By Mike Rethel
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way Joe Kapp's talking, Gary Cozzo will quarterback the Minnesota Vikings in Saturday night's nationally televised game against Houston, and the way Weeb Ewbank is talking, Joe Namath may quarterback the New York Jets in Sunday's game against the Giants.

That was the situation with pro football's two problem-placed quarterbacks Friday night as a 12-game National Football League exhibition program began with Philadelphia at Buffalo and Atlanta at Washington.

The Saturday schedule lists eight night games, with the Vikings-Oilers game at Houston, which will be carried on CBS-TV at 9:30 P.M., EDT, the headliner because of the troubles besetting last year's NFL champions.

In other Saturday games,

Baltimore is at Denver, San Francisco at Miami, Oakland at Los Angeles, Green Bay at Dallas, Detroit at New Orleans, Cincinnati at St. Louis and Kansas City vs. Cleveland at Memphis, Tenn.

Sunday belongs to the Jets and Giants for their clash at New Haven, Conn., in which Namath may make his debut, and Monday is set aside for a game between the Chicago Bears and Chargers at San Diego.

Kapp will not be on hand, his position seemingly having hardened in his contract dispute with the Vikings on the basis of a statement by his attorney that the veteran quarterback was considering a multimillion-dollar suit.

The Vikings also may be without the services of defensive end Carl Eller, who is not with the club and is on a $200-a-day fine program.

While Kapp is definitely out, there is a strong possibility that Namath, who reported to the Jets' camp only last Tuesday after being AWOL for two weeks, may make his debut against the Giants.

Ewbank has said he will not make a decision until just before game time Sunday but has waxed optimistic recently.

"I'm amazed at the way his timing is coming back," Ewbank said. "He's 1,000 per cent better than he was Tuesday. There's no sense bringing him for a token appearance. If he's going to play at all, he'll start."

Cardinals set game tonight with Bengals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Bengals tangle tonight in Busch Stadium with elimination of error the object of both teams in the National Football League exhibition.

Head coach Paul Brown of Cincinnati and Charley Winner of the Cardinals spoke about critical mistakes in losses last week.

Brown has done the most juggling in an attempt to mold a Bengal outfit around the loss of Quarterback Greg Cook.

He says he's planning to start Essex Johnson and Clem Turner at running backs in place of Paul Robinson and Jess Phillips, following the Bengals' 20-10 defeat by the Miami Dolphins.

"I'm not really displeased with Robinson and Phillips but they made too many mistakes ... and I want to get a look at the other two," Brown said. The Bengal's quarterback will be Faye Lewis, a former Canadian league running back tried last season as a punter by the New York Giants.

Backing Lewis will be Bubbe Wyche and Rick Norton, whom the Bengals picked up on waivers from the Dolphins last week.

The only change in the Cardinal lineup is at wide receiver, where veteran Freddie Hysit will replace fleet John Gilliam.

Lemon contract extended

By Robert Moore
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bob Lemon, the former Cleveland pitching great, received a one-year extension of his contract as manager of the Kansas City Royals Friday and said he is convinced there's no reason why an ex-pitcher can't be successful as boss of a major league team.

Lemon succeeded Charlie Metro as manager June 7. Terms of his contract were not disclosed. The contract ran through the 1971 season. "I know many major league owners are against hiring a former pitcher as manager," Lemon said, obviously pleased with being asked to continue as Royals' skipper, "and

I've always wondered why. "Pitching is 75 per cent of the game. If it's so important, why not have a former pitcher as manager? He can always have someone else run the other 25 per cent of the club."

Cedric Tallis, Royals' executive vice president and general manager, announced the contract extension and said that under the circumstances, Lemon "has done a fine job of placing the ball club in a competitive frame of mind."

Lemon, 49, has guided the Royals from fifth place into fourth in the American League West since he took over from Metro. The team was playing .365 ball when Lemon took charge and has played .380 since.
