Thompson seeks tax relief for elderly

SPRINGFIELD (AP) -- Gov. James R. Thompson said Wednesday he will ask the Legislature for $9 million more this year and next to provide tax relief for elderly and disabled Illinois residents.

The money would enable about 35,000 more persons to qualify for up to $500 a year in property tax breaks, he said.

"This is truly property tax relief for those persons in need of it: senior citizens and disabled," Thompson said.

Thompson told a news conference that he is asking the Illinois General Assembly to allocate $19 million more for this fiscal year—which ends July 1—for the "circuit-breaker" tax relief program for low-income elderly and disabled.

Under that program, Thompson said, homeowners and renters with annual household incomes under $10,000 can qualify if their home taxes exceed 2 percent of their income.

But the governor said he would support legislation this spring to increase the ceiling allowed for this fiscal year from the current $10,000 a year household earnings to $12,000, swelling the program for another 35,000 persons.

Thompson said raising the qualifying income maximum would cost Illinois taxpayers about $6 million next fiscal year. Robert Mandeville, Thompson's budget director, said another $14 million would originally estimated last spring, when this year's budget was put together, Thompson said.

On another matter, Thompson said he would not sign legislation hiking salaries for the governor, lieutenant governor, judges and top government officials if the Legislature acts after the November elections.

I didn't like the usual and customary practice of waiting for the last day of the lame-duck session to pass a payraise bill which could then be signed by a governor when accused of four more years, during which time the voters could forget about it if they were mad about it," Thompson said.

The pay raise legislation appointed by Thompson recently recommended hefty pay hikes for the governor, lawmakers, judges and other top state officials.

The commission recommended the governor's salary be lifted by $25,000 a year to $73,000 and legislators be paid $39,000 a year instead of their current $20,000.

Thompson said his mind is still open whether state tax payers would be asked to provide the $12 million the Chicago office.

The governor said earlier that any new sport: arena for the city could be built with Chicago taxpayers' money and private funds.

Paper recycling program approved by S-Senate

By Michele Ravnsford

A recycling program that would remove about 250 tons of newprint from the campus received unanimous approval from the Student Senate Wednesday.

The recycling program would save the University between $93 and $471 a year, according to a study by the Student Environmental Center.

The newspapers would be collected in six bins located around campus. Each of the bins would hold 1000 pounds of collection. After collection, the newspapers would be bundled, stored and sold to a dealer for about $22.50 per ton, the study states.

The Senate also approved the establishment of a seven-member committee that will investigate the distribution of student athletic fees to men's and women's sports.

The committee will consist of four student senators and three appointees by the student president.

In another action, fee allocation guidelines for fiscal year 1979-79 were presented. Kevin Wright, fee allocation chairman, said the board could allocate about $40,000 to student groups after appropriations to the Student Government Activities Council.

Promotion issue moot

ABA temporarily halts investigation of Law School

By Pam Bailey

The investigation of the School of Law by the American Bar Association (ABA) has been temporarily halted.

Law Dean Albert C. Mager said President Warren Brandt told him the University had requested several ABA "Standards for Approval of Law Schools" and must explain its promotion practices to the ABA by April.

In a letter to Brandt dated Friday, James White, the ABA's consultant on legal education, said the accreditation committee had halted its investigation of the University's refusal to promote Andrew Onejeme, associate professor, because Onejeme has resigned.

White said that although the committee had decided the letter did not "satisfactorily apply" its promotion guidelines, it still wanted to hear from Onejeme, the issue was now moot.

However, White did ask Brandt to submit a report by April 15 informing the committee if the University's guidelines now comply with the ABA standards.

Brandt said in a statement Wednesday that such assurances would be provided to the ABA.

White said the committee will review Brandt's report "to ensure that future matters of faculty promotion and the granting of tenure within the School of Law take place within the context of published guidelines and that these guidelines are consistent with the ABA Standards for Approval of Law Schools."

Onejeme returned to his homeland, Nigeria, in January.

The accreditation committee said the University did not violate the ABA standards in Mager's case because he had not yet served three years as an associate professor at SIU.

Mager said earlier he was not told of his appointment to the University's standards until the ABA had begun its investigation.

The accreditation committee said the University had violated the following ABA standards when it overruled Onejeme's decision to promote him:

- The governing board of the ABA maintains general policies for law schools, provided they are consistent with a sound educational program and the ABA standards.

- "Within those general policies, the dean and faculty of the law school shall have the responsibility for formulating and administering the program of the school, including such matters as faculty, curriculum, syllabus, retention, promotion and tenure."

"If the University's general policies relating to rank, advancement, tenure and compensation do not provide adequate provision for recruitment and retention of a qualified law faculty, separate policies should be established for the Law School."

The fee allocation board will begin hearing for small groups at 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the student government offices.

The senate also allocated $1,687,050 to student groups which included the School of Environmental Sciences, the Model United Nations Association and the vice presidential contingency fund.

As a protest to the governor's budget session, Dennis Adams, student president, urged the senate to reject a position and attend the Board of Trustees meeting March 9.

"My concerns are not only environmental but also social. There has been no clarification of who would be allowed to go and who would be left behind," Adams said.

Bryan Adams, senior in secondary education, was named election commissioner.

A newly-formed student group plans to oppose the proposed "Southern National" golf course by sending two hundred students to the Board of Trustees meeting at SIU-Carbondale on March 9.

The trip, which will take about 70 students to the meeting, will be sponsored by Students for Students (SFS), a student organization that was officially recognized by the Student Senate Wednesday night.

Janet Stoneberner, SFS organizer, said the group hopes to maintain a table on the first floor of the Student Center until March 8. Students may sign up for the bus trip at the SFS table, she said.

The 18-hole golf course is scheduled to be built on the south end of the campus near the home of President Warren Brandt. As of Wednesday afternoon, Stoneberner said more than 20 students had signed up. At an organizational meeting Wednesday night, she also said that signatures of more than 400 students opposing the course had been obtained on petitions which will also be presented to the Board of Trustees.

About 20 students attended the SFS's first meeting Tuesday where a three-point platform of objections to the course was approved by voice vote of those present.

The group's objections to the course are:

- the plan that the University administration and the Board of Trustees used to "inigate" the course;
- environmental concerns regarding land usage and planning of the course;
- the possibility that state funds might be used to "relocate" fields operated by University Farms that now make up part of the 250-acre tract slated for the course.

University officials have repeatedly said that no state funds or student fees will be used to build the course, and that the estimated $500,000 to $1 million construction costs will be paid by the relocation of those fields for University Farms. Stoneberner said.

Dr. John Breden, SIU-C student trustee, attended the meeting to answer questions from the group.

Breden said the Board first "granted" discussed the course at its December meeting. However, he later said how long the Board had known of negotiations between Heath and the University. By the time the trustees met, the plan was already underway.

The trial of Kennedy for theft and obstruction of justice entered its second day Wednesday with testimony from prosecution witnesses concerning the photocopies of currency made by Ralph Brandon, former Carbondale police officer.

Brandon was in charge of the investigation surrounding the Mack's Big Star burglary and the $1,800 in evidence upon which the trial of Kennedy is centered. Brandon committed suicide Jan. 18. 1977, in a Jacksonville, Ill., hotel room.

The Daily News continued to compete vigorously on the local news scene, even its financial difficulties reached crisis dimensions. But Field Enterprises canceled the Daily News promotion campaign early this month, giving notice to some 85 employees that the newspaper's long-nurtured demise was near.

The management has notified employees at the Daily News and Sun-Times this month whether they would be retained at the Sun-Times or dismissed. Its union representation was the target of a complaint filed last week with the National Labor Relations Board by the Chicago Newspaper Guild.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rejected its first vote on the Panama Canal treaty Wednesday, rejecting a parliamentary move by treaty foes aimed at torpedoing the twin pacts.

The Senate rejected by a 67-30 vote an effort by treaty opponents to first take up the pact that would turn over control of the canal to Panama instead of taking up the neutrality treaty first, as Senate leaders wanted.

Had this move passed, it would have meant that the Senate would have had to decide whether to turn over the canal to Panama before passing the treaty which guarantees the canal's neutrality, giving U.S. ships priority access and guarantees U.S. rights to defend the waterway.

Although most of those voting "no" are expected to oppose the treaties, if a 67-30 result was only a procedural question and did not provide a clear test of strength on the treaties themselves.

It followed a 14-hour closed-door debate on the alleged Panamanian drug connection Wednesday which ended with a declaration by Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd that the charges should be "put to rest." Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., a leading treaty foe, sought to have the Senate reverse the order, but the vote came on a motion by Byrd to table that proposal.

Immediatly following the end of the secret session, the Senate resumed general debate on the treaties.

After doors to the chamber galleries were reopened, Byrd declared that the results of the inquiry by the intelligence agencies had "produced findings that were "negative on all counts." He said that the "inexhaustive investigation" showed "no evidence that would stand up in any U.S. court of law, that there was a Panamanian leader, Carlos Torrijos to illegal narcotics operations.

Sadat ordered commando raid

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—President Anwar Sadat said Wednesday it was he who ordered Egyptian commandos to Larnaca airport on the ill-fated rescue mission that resulted in bloody fighting with Cypriot forces. In an emotional appearance before the parliament, Sadat also withdrew recognition of Cyprus President Spyros Kyprianou, calling him a "terrorist." Sadat said the decision to use force Sunday was taken to capture two terrorists who killed Egyptian newspaper editor Yousef I. Seif and held 11 Arab diplomats and four Greek citizens aboard a Cyprus Airways DC-8 when it was his own and not the personal initiative of Brig. Nabil Shukry, leader of the commandos.

"The commander's decision to attack the plane and rescue the hostages and arrest the criminals was based on the facts of the mission he was given," Sadat said in his speech at the War Ministry after the funeral of the 15 commandos who died in the action. At least seven Cypriots were wounded "It was not his decision, but it was my decision. Any one of my sons who is given a mission is given full power and freedom to take decisions. We were following everything as was the commando leader there on the spot at the airport," he said, though it was not known whether Shukry consulted with Sadat before issuing the attack order.

He was following what went on between the control tower and the commando leader there, and it became apparent to him and to us two Egyptians, that Cyprus was preparing two passports for the killers so they could leave Cyprus, as if they had not committed a terrorist crime."

He said at that point, Shukry decided to storm the plane and carry out his orders to return with the hostages and the terrorists.

Two trains derail; 48 cars off tracks

CHICAGO (AP)—Two trains derailed Wednesday causing backups on two Illinois lines. Before dawn an Illinois Central Gulf Railroad freight train left the tracks in the business district of Dongola in Southern Illinois. Emergency crews worked Wednesday night to clear the wreckage of the 15-car derailment while keeping an eye on a leaking overturned tank car of volatile vinyl chloride.

A broken rail at the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad tracks was blamed by authorities Wednesday afternoon's derailment of 15 ppgy-back freight cars near Goodnoe in Will County. Authorities said both the northbound and southbound lines of the CAR were closed through the evening.

House vote scraps last B-1 bombers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House reversed Carter's decision to scrap the last four B-1 bombers on a 274-176 vote this week. The move, which was driven by the congressional approval of the B-1 bomber program on a 274-176 vote.

The House voted to go along with the Senate in scrapping the B-1 project.

Congress had already endorsed Carter's decision to halt any further construction on the bombers. The House earlier had insisted the final two planes—the fifth and sixth copes—be built.

At the White House, press Secretary Jody Powell said the move was "enlightened" by the 2-1 vote in the House. The House vote gave final approval to Carter's request not to spend $16.2 million of the money Congress had already appropriated for the two planes.

Open board room door

The SIU Board of Trustees has placed itself behind closed doors, above the law and beyond the scrutiny of the public whose money it spends.

By slamming the board room door on the citizens it serves, the trustees consistently have violated both the letter and the intent of the Open Meetings Act. Passed by the legislature in 1967 to ensure that the public's business is conducted openly, that law states, in part: "It is the public policy of this State that the public commissions, committees, boards and councils and other public agencies in this State exist to aid in the conduct of the people's business. It is the interest of this Act that their actions be taken openly and that deliberations be conducted openly."

There are only eight topics which the board legally can discuss in secrecy: collective bargaining matters, court action, hiring and firing of employees, campus security, student disciplinary cases, acquiring real estate, appointment to fill a vacancy on a public body, and discussion of individual students in special education programs. The law clearly states that only discussion of these issues may be closed to the public; all action must be conducted in open session in full view of the public.

F's Board of Trustees, armed with these exceptions, has turned them into loopholes that hide the public's business from the public. The trustees' abuse of the Open Meetings Act has been well documented, but this issue is of such gravity that it merits recounting. Here's a list of some of the board's behind-closed-doors actions:

- In closed session, the board approved increasing President Delwin Morris' annuity by $5,000.
- In closed session, the board decided to build a $1 million home for the president of SIU.
- In closed session, the board held meetings in 1968 in St. Louis, Mo., and in 1972 at Terre Haute, Ind., despite Sec. 2.01 of the law which requires the board to meet at specified times and places which are "convenient to the public."
- In closed session, the board discussed providing the chief of board staff with a house in Carbondale and spending $15,000 to refurbish it.

Secret meetings are weapons of those who would dupe the public.

Secret meetings are a potential weapon of those who would dupe the public. They are conducive neither to public confidence in trustees nor to good governance. Citizens have a right to know how their tax dollars are being spent, how decisions are made and how their public representatives vote on the issues. Closed meetings, as the attorney general forcefully has noted, serve to keep citizens in the dark. It's time the trustees opened the board room door.

Students can be influential in government

I'd like to commend the D.E. editorial staff for addressing the extremely serious issue of student voter registration. How unfortunate that they waited until the primary election registration deadline of Feb. 11. Stumped by a lack of genuine concern, a great deal in influence both local and state government. For example, in the spring 1977 City Council election a strong candidate who was a student concerned lost by a narrow 200 vote margin. The difference in the outcome of this city council would have made quite a difference in Carbondale city government. I agree wholeheartedly with the D.E. that student voters are vital to local and state government, but to say that "student concerns are expected and should be, no that comparatively unimportant world of student government," is completely wrong. Student apathy only perpetuates the lack of influence of student government at the campus level. When dealing with student government leaders, President Brandulf has all too often used the argument, "you were elected by only 10 percent of the student body. Why should I listen to you?"

Fortunately, out effectiveness as student leaders is limited to daily operations and with the administration. Those issues which are most important to students, such as housing, tuition, and the student government bond issue, most students do not even have a clue, let alone a voice on the issue. It is also the job of the student government leaders to be aware of the issues that affect the campus, as well as the city of Carbondale, and take direct action. If the administration is not willing to provide us with the necessary tools, it is our duty to provide those tools for ourselves. I believe this is the correct, responsible, and effective way in which the student government can be influential, and more importantly, be effective.

Ms. Schlaffy flies around the country to speak against the ERA. She lectures at banquets, goes to rallies and pickets. She writes pamphlets and letters, and organizes almost the whole State ERA movement. In a letter to the editor, she seems to imply that if any one individual single, is responsible for any other single individual, is responsible for any other single individual, is responsible for any group of single individuals, is responsible for a most formidable group of single individuals. While the idea is good, it is too slow, and shouldn't be done, to have a career, she has seen: stopping ERA from passing. As she hops a plane for Florida, she tells her suppliers to stay home. While urging women to bake apple pies for their husbands and kids, she is 1,000 miles from home eating an institutionally baked apple pie at a bakeohan given in her home. I hesitate to call Phyllis Schlaffy hyporhetical to describe Phyllis Schlaffy, but I don't understand how she can honestly get around it. I say: Go home, Phyllis Schlaffy. Stop preaching and start practicing.

Phyllis should practice what she preaches

I can't do it. I can't hold my tongue any longer! I have seen dozens of letters in the Daily Egyptian about the Federal Rights Amendment—battles fought on pages of the Letters to the Editor without either side making an effort to put the argument into clearer focus. How can I, the current editor of the D.E., harbor any false hopes about gaining supporters for the ERA through this letter. I would just like to voice a genuine opinion which I believe is quite critical of Schlaffy's issue.

Phyllis Schlaffy never comes to answer me. How could anyone possess the audacity to so openly practice what she preaches? For those who don't know, Phyllis Schlaffy is a leader of the ERA "stoppers." Problems are occurring on the Illinois campus, in an excellent neighborhood in Alton, Ill. The house, I've heard, is always immaculate—most of, for a hired maid. Now, there seems to be a certain amount of confusion among the people in the eyes of the students. But Phyllis has a maid at home because Phyllis cannot be at home herself.

Everyone should help keep America clean

I find all the litter carelessly dropped around campus very disturbing. Walking to school every day, I have become increasingly irritated to see a new McDonald's cup, wrapper, etc. thrown on the ground as soon as its owner finishes eating. I've heard a lot of irrational excuses like "cure about the litter, I just can't find my junipers something to do." I know it would be equally justified for someone to have a garbage can and simply be operating the garbage can. So people could conveniently dispose of their garbage (not to mention cost). And even then there would be some trash left. How about having these punch or drink between garbage cans, would throw this garbage on the ground because of laziness or ignorance. Anyone who eats or drinks outside should take the responsibility to make sure that any garbage is put in a garbage can. Even if there are none around, it should be their responsibility to make sure it is put in its proper place. I find it and when I can joke about our litter, such as when hunters go out in the wilderness and the leader says "Remember, if anyone gets lost, just follow the beer cans." There was a deposit on cans and bottles, I'm sure most people would think twice before tossing them. They would be more careful and responsible with those disposals. In fact, with a radio ad reason there is now a deposit on some beer bottles. It would be a shame to have a deposit on everything we bought to make sure we dispose of garbage properly. It may not be too long until we find a deposit on cans and bottles, too. We are accomplishing and can't we. all our wastes are disposed of properly. It's all help keep America clean.

Enlarged farms better than a golf course

After hearing all the verbalizing on the new golf course, I have to ask one question. Will a champion golf course really enhance the quality of education at Southern Illinois University, or is it just for the "Joe Ins?"

In my opinion, it would be better to enlarge the farm facilities at Carbondale where a practical learning situation can be encouraged. Now won't that do more for the reputation of SIU than big hollow-headed balls chasing after small white ones over hills over date?

Wildlife will suffer more in University's proposal to construct golf course

In a letter in the Feb. 21 D.E. Thomas Healy seems to indicate a belief that the proposed golf course will have some detrimental effect on wildlife of the area. Apparently, Mr. Healy, you need some basic awareness in wildlife ecology. A fact which supports a wide variety of wildlife does not just because of the golf course. It is, rather, the combination of trees and underbrush which provide the basic requirements of any wildlife—food and cover.

To be sure, the wildlife will be left; however, all the underbrush will be removed. The carrying capacity for nearly every species of bird and mammal will be drastically reduced.

True, the type of habitat found on a golf course will favor a few species of wildlife, however most species (and unfortunately those that are diminishing in the greatest numbers because of habitat loss) will not be so lucky. They simply will not be able to survive in an area that does not supply food, shelter or nesting sites. Any golf course on a golf course are "visitors." They may go to feed occasionally, but they rely on the surrounding forests or fields for their shelter and nesting.

The environmental manipulation, plus the disturbance of vegetation, wildlife created by golf course and machines, this golf course would create, will do nothing but destroy this land as wildlife habitat.

WIDB aired debate on activity fee hike to inform students

I'm sure if I had submitted the letter to the editor before the fact, it would never have been run. ("Why, those radio boys think they can sneak in some free advertising in as dumb as we write!")

But now, this letter serves as a reminder. Because, Feb. 2 WIDB listeners heard us broadcast the emergency session Student Senate debate over the proposed student activity fee increase. We aired it because it concerned students. Our audience at WIDB is the student population that or the voice of the students. Or goal is to provide the SIU campus community that or he can tune into for all their informational needs.

How can we claim that? Because we're students too! WIDB's policy is to have an active and knowledgeable advisor to tell us what to do. Keep a close ear on us, because we're going to do anything that hurts in your interest, convenience and necessity. And we mean it.

Vatican invites professor to participate in exhibit

By Gary Harpsichordist
Staff Writer

Louis Brait, a professor in art, is one of two persons in the United States invited to participate in an art exhibit and seminar sponsored by the Committee of Religion at the Vatican City this summer.

The exhibit, which is titled "Art in America," will feature 40 artists from all over the world. The various forms of art that will be shown are drawing, painting, sculpture, ceramics, metal, bookmaking, photography, and woodworking.

The seminar, titled "Craft Art in Religion," is scheduled for July 11 to 13 in Rome, with a background in clarinet-making, will speak on the "Opus and God as an Artist."

"I will not necessarily deal with the religious aspects of a work of art but will center on the interpersonal and physical energy that goes into a work of art that becomes a spiritual endeavor," Brait said.

The selection of artists was an elimination process selected by a small group of people from three well-known museums in the United States. The three museums were the National Arts Club, the Smithsonian Institute and the Museum of Contemporary Crafts.

Jennings’ album features country songs

Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson, country-music "outlaws," have recorded a two-album set for RCA. Called, "Waylon and Willie," the two LP's feature five duets and nine solo tracks with two songs written by Kris Kristofferson.

The last time they recorded together the result was country music's first platinum record in 1973 for "On the Road Again." Jennings has already earned three gold records and a platinum album for "Texas Lullaby." Nelson won a gold record for his LP "Phases and Stages." "Waylon picked most of the songs," said Nelson in an interview. "I didn't have a chance. He played these two songs by Kris, for instance, and I said, 'I think I'll do a great. Let's do them.'" Jennings was born in Littlefield, Texas in 1937. After meeting Buddy Holly in Lubbock, Texas, where he worked as a disc jockey, Jennings joined Holly's band as a lead player. In February, 1958, Jennings gave up his seat on a Holly chartered plane to the "Big Bopper," J.P. Richardson. The plane crashed and Holly and Richardson were killed. Nelson was born in Texas in 1939 and met Jennings when he was touring Florida. "Willie was performing with his own band, the Waylors. I had just signed with RCA," said Jennings, "and I was planning to move to Nashville and I asked what he thought. He told me to stay in Phoenix. I took off for Nashville." Nelson had lived in Nashville where he played bass for Ray Price before moving to Austin, Texas, where he has been for the last few years. Both Jennings and Nelson hope to tour more this year and will be appearing together 45 times from December to March. The two men are good friends as well as a performing team. Nelson likes to hear Jennings perform "MacArthur Park" and a couple of their songs are used to kid each other, like "Tell Me That He's Only a Song If You Sing Me In Your Ear."

Students help in solving problems for businesses in Southern Illinois

By Lee Cunnings
Student Writer

Nearly 400 seniors in the College of Business have received practical experience in the past five years by participating in the Small Business Institute program. The program was started as a federal agency, the Small Business Administration (SBA), to help small businesses solve problems which arise while doing business. SIU has the approval of the SBA to participate in the program.

The students help Southern Illinois businesses solve problems ranging from set-up accounting systems to analyzing which products sell best to which customers. The businesses which participate are screened to find out the nature of the problem, and whether students can solve the problem for the program is paid by the SBA.

Harold Wilson, an assistant professor in the Administrative Science Department and teacher of the course, said the students usually deal with problems relating to marketing or accounting.

In the past, students have set up accounting systems, have analyzed the cash flow, and have done marketing surveys. Wilson said.

These techniques can help solve many business problems such as in what medium should the business advertise and why are customers buying certain products.

Wilson, who taught a similar program in Michigan, said, "This is a chance to receive real business experience. The student has an opportunity to apply book learning."

"The business is the student's client. The students operate independently, like manager-consultants. We give our students a lot of freedom. Because of the practical experience these students are more desirable in the market place," he added.

Weatherman: Spring is near

By The Associated Press

One of these days somebody will send me a letter that says, "The weatherman is wrong about the weather." Of course, I am too old to believe in letters, and, as a matter of fact, I started on the job over a month ago. It starts March 21 with 12 hours of daylight and 13 hours of darkness.

Will we ever know if there is a secret weather service that has created Illinois for weeks? Will we ever get a chance to run and stay for a while? Will there really start being North?

White House staff to be paid 'legally' if new bill passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rosalynn Carter, like seven of her predecessors, before her, has a White House staff to help her perform her duties as first lady. But the law states, no pro-payroll workers with taxpayers’ money.

A House committee is expected to approve a measure that, for the first time, would authorize the president and vice president to provide staff assistance to his or her spouse.

However, the new assistant to the president assistant to the first lady is to be paid.

"Although there is no statutory authority for such a position, or at least as I see it, no precedence to support the use of these funds," Carter said. "Congress has known for a long time that the money has been used for that support and no objections have been heard."

The bill is expected to pass. It might be a good idea to stop in to the new assistant's office, if you can find it.

The Environmental Workshops at Touch of Nature are sponsoring two weekend canoe trips during spring break. The proposed federal wilderness area around Luray Creek, Indiana, is one of the areas where you can explore.

PRESENTING THE V-FET

WHAT IS A V-FET? SIMPLY PUT:
It's the only transistor that doesn't sound like a transistor. It has been built for people who demand more than great sound. (We think it's closer to perfect.) Critics have agreed that this new device has a softer, more open sound than any units near their price, which has been a problem. V-Fets are expensive! So at Lowell's we have decided to make it as affordable as a good receiver with similar power. For a limited time only when you buy the TA 5650 V-Fet we will give you the matching ST 4950 tuner absolutely FREE!

Haldeman does not mention all of scandal in book, Dean says

NEW YORK (AP)— Former White House aide H.R. Haldeman's book about Watergate sheds little light on the subject and suffers from "conspicuous" omissions, according to one of the book's most published political foes.

Former White House counselor John Dean said Haldeman's book, "The Ends of Power," fails to mention some previously reported aspects of Watergate.

Dean, who has written his own book about Watergate, "Blind Ambition," participated via tape from Los Angeles in a taping of the Dick Cavett Show for airing over the Public Broadcast System. It was Dean's testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee which broke open the Watergate scandal.

On the Cavett show with Dean, taped here Monday, were Carl Bernstein, who reported the Watergate story for the Washington Post along with Bob Woodward, and the man who wrote Haldeman's book, Joseph DiMona, also a former Washington Post reporter.

Bernstein and Woodward wrote two bestselling books about Watergate—"All ThePresident's Men" and "The Final Days."

DiMona described Haldeman as truthful by nature and "deeply down a warm fellow" with a good sense of humor.

When Dean asked DiMona if he could raise the question of Haldeman's "conspicuous" omissions in his book, DiMona said, "Only if I can raise the omissions in your book, John."

One omission cited in Haldeman's book was the Nixon "enemies list."

Bernstein said Haldeman failed to "bring up any new points and say, 'Here's what really happened that you don't know about.' And, clearly, he was in a position to know a number of those things."

Haldeman was chief of staff to former President Richard M. Nixon, who was forced to resign the presidency because of Watergate.

White House ball team ready

WASHINGTON (AP)—There are patches of snow around the White House. The White House offices. thoughts are already turning to spring prospects for another busy season for one of the West's most publicized softball teams.

"Please don't write anything about an all-black team," White House manager of the White House team, White House official said Monday, "How about a thousand requests for tickets from all over the country."

During his visit with President Carter, deals with presidential appointments and scheduling—and with scheduling the team that carries the White House white, blue and red.

Change cure 'baaah'

Cabin fever? Talk to trees

CHICAGO (AP)—Get cabin fever from the dust, the bugs and the snow, and you have a psychiatric crisis.

Even a new hairstyle may help to overcome the awful "baaah" felt by thousands cramped up at home because of the bitter winter, says John Stone, professor of psychology at the University of Illinois Abraham Lincoln College. "For years in Norway during the long winter nights, the Norwegians hung up 'trees,'" said Green, a specialist in the treatment of "panhandle fever." "Panhandle a little. Create a companion around you. Don't go out to try to make one."

Get out and talk to birds, trees, the moon—"create something to relate to."

"But you will have to be strong-minded to do it," Greenberg warned. "You must not get embarrased if someone can't see your something in the air, like a hairstyle, but it can make you feel better and make you feel better and make you feel better."

Greenberg said it is not unusual among the severely restless winter for families to "Copyright 1973, from the Chicago Tribune."

"The public needs to understand that it is normal to feel frustrated because of the long, hard winter," he said.

Indochinese refugees get help in society integration process

By University News Service

A team of instructors at SIU is teaching Indochinese refugees in Southern Illinois the basic skills they need to integrate into American society and improve their chances of finding work.

"One of the main problems involved with some of the (Laotian, Cambodian and Vietnamese) refugees is that they can’t speak English," said Stephen Schumacher, head of the Indochinese Development Program.

"And it’s hard to get a job if you can’t speak English.

That’s why the program, started last November as a part of SIU’s Evaluation and Development Center, now is a part of the University’s Extension Institute.

The effort is aimed at boosting refugees’ English skills, so that they can function and get jobs that will provide them with more than enough to barely survive.

Schumacher said many of the estimated 130 Indochinese refugees in Southern Illinois have wash dishes or tables, a few others are on welfare, Schumacher said the program is merely helping them prepare for better jobs.

"We want to help these people help themselves. We want to convert them from welfare recipients to wage earners.”

Instructor Sonny Ngai said the refugees are "people who have just one disability—they can’t speak English."

My main objective," he said, "is to improve their reading, writing and conversational skills."

But the refugees reacted to the program positively. "We've had no problems with motivation," Ngai said.

"Students are eager to learn." There are about 15 similar programs for refugees in Illinois, but the SIU project is “unique because we were able to pull it together” by drawing from various funding sources," Ngai said.

The federal government recently earmarked $10 million for vocational programs for refugees and part of the funds for the program—$381,000 comes from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare through the Illinois Office of Education.

The Illinois Farmers’ Union kicked in $20,000 and programs which are to be conducted by the Illinois Office are $10,000.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Spring Creek residents are concerned about a possible Bing statue plans.

The statue would be erected on Riverside Park, but the residents are concerned about the raising drive and approval of signage.

In addition, Councilman Wayne Gauthre, a member of the park board, said another, secret project in the works that might replace the statue idea.

HURRY! SALE ENDS SATURDAY, FEB. 25th
WASHINGTON (AP)—Labor Secretary Ray Marshall called union and management together Wednesday as the administration tried once more to produce a negotiated settlement in the 11-day-old coal strike.

Marshall arranged the bargaining session after the United Mine Workers union gave a cool reception to the Bituminous Coal Operators Association's call for binding arbitration and an immediate return to work.

Union officials did not attend the proposal and the UMWA's 37-member bargaining council was expected to formally reject it during a pre-bargaining session with Marshall.

A key district leader of the union told reporters that binding arbitration would deny union members their "constituent right" to vote on a contract proposal. Kenneth Dawes, an opponent of UMWA President Arnold Miller, also said industry executives were "proscribed people who will not sit down in good faith and negotiate."

Dawes's statements emphasized the split in the union and the tension a stall that Miller holds over the leadership. Miller has not commented on the BCOA's call for arbitration.

Asked about the prospects for a settlement, Marshall told 5 Washington Evening Post, "I hope for it. You can't tell at this point."

But presidential press secretary Jody Powell, citing the strike's worsening economic impact, said the government "cannot permit the stalemate to continue indefinitely."

Meanwhile, there were reports that a major coal producer was three days away from breaking the 136-member BCOA and negotiate its own settlement with the union if the association was unable to quickly accept a strike-ending agreement. A large independent producer, Pittsburgh and Midway Coal Mining Co., reached a tentative agreement with the union on Monday.

The threat of such action by a BCOA member "releases the pressure on the organization to end the impasse."

The White House has warned of government intervention—possibilities mentioned are the seizure of the mines or a back-to-work court order—to end the strike later this week.

Illinois River ice slows traffic

PEORIA (AP) — Barge traffic has been delayed by a week's outlook of Illinois River, a key part of the western United States with the Gulf of Mexico. The Illinois has never been closed for a week's outlook of the river because it was unsuited for navigation, it was reported Thursday.

The river, which is the major source of coal from the Illinois area, has been closed for nearly a week due to the activities of the local coal miners. The miners' strike has caused a decrease in the amount of coal being transported by barge. This has led to a temporary suspension of barge traffic on the Illinois River.

The suspension of traffic is expected to last until the labor dispute is resolved. The miners and the company are currently negotiating a new contract, and it is hoped that a resolution will be reached soon.

The suspension of barge traffic has had a significant impact on the local economy. The coal industry is a major contributor to the economy of the region, and the closure of the river is expected to have a negative effect on the local economy.

The Illinois River is a vital transportation route for coal and other goods. The river is also a popular recreational destination for boaters and anglers.

The suspension of traffic is expected to be temporary, and it is hoped that normal operations will resume as soon as possible.

Biologist: Area weather has not harmed wildlife

by J.W. Eklund
Staff Writer

Southern Illinois’ worst winter in 10 years has had little impact on animals in the area, such as fish and terrestrial deer, reports Rom Adams, staff biologist at the Crab Orchard Lake Wildlife Refuge.

"The deer might charge their food-gathering habits from elsewhere to grains in improved brushland on heavy winter," Adams said. "Winters here are relatively milder when occupied to be deep snows. Nothing damages such as Michie, Minnesota and Wyoming. This kind of weather has had some effect on gamehounds as hawks in the holoways quails," Adams said. "We probably lost a few, but enough will pull through to replenish the stock next summer."

"I don’t think there is much reason to be too concerned about a fish-tail this year, providing we don’t have additional heavy snows this winter," Adams said. Fish-tail is the result of deep snow covering lightly frozen lakes and impoundments, preventing sunlight from penetrating their depths. A lack of sunlight for extended periods of time kills aquatic plants and prevents the levels of oxygen in the water, which is necessary to sustain fish life.

"Last year we had a fish-tail in many of the small impoundments."

Battered women get help

The Women’s Center, 402 W. Freeman in Carbondale, offers temporary shelter to battered women in the area, says Kathy Stathos, director of the Women’s Center.

"Wife or mate-beating in Carbondale is more serious and widespread than most people realize," Stathos said. In October and November, the Women’s Center provided emergency shelter and counseling for about 25 women who had been beaten.

The Women’s Center provides temporary shelter for battered women for three days. It is one of four shelters in Illinois that offers temporary housing for battered women, Stathos said.

"What these women really need is a halfway house where they can stay for a few months while they can put their lives back together," she added.

Officials to give away manure

RENO, Nev.—Federal officials are holding their breath, hoping somebody—anybody—will help them get rid of a mountain of manure that needs to be gotten rid of.

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management’s wild horse program is using the public to just drive away the manure.

"Unlike many other programs, this one has no red tape involved," said ELK ape. "We have someone who can collect and take as much as they want."

"We’ve had over 7,000 wild horses in these corrals during the past year," said Bill Stewart, the supervisor of the BLM’s cattle.

SAN FRANCISCO (AIP) - A city attorney says he is appalled that two San Francisco public park clubhouses for meetings from June 1977 to December 1978 are barred. But a city attorney says the law prevents him from trying to keep those meetings from being held.

A Social and Political Network White People's Party, the Socialist White Workers Party, the San Francisco District Recreation and Park Department and the government at large are being sued by the National Socialists White People's Party.

But city attorney says he is appalled that two San Francisco public park clubhouses for meetings from June 1977 to December 1978 are barred. But a city attorney says the law prevents him from trying to keep those meetings from being held.

"We certainly aren't going to be as rats as they are and call them" the city attorney said.

He said the meetings have been held in city parks, which were donated to the city in 1976 by the widow of a prominent Jewish businessman, Sigfrid Stern. Her request stipulated that the park be used "only for recreational and cultural purposes," said city attorney Albert H. Pathen.

Superintendent Quentin Kopp informed Tuesday of the meetings and he was arraigned and asked the city attorney's office for "a full and expeditious inquiry."

7 vie for Shipley's seat in Congress

By Charles Roberts

Congresswoman Jo Ann Davis has declared she will not seek another term from the 23rd District, which includes the East St. Louis area. She was an Army corporal in 1944 when her husband, Joseph P. Davis, was killed in his first term. Now, as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, he is a major factor in the fortunes of America's military establishment.

His presidential ambitions are in line with those of the district. Sam Steamer, St. Louis, tried but failed to unseat President Davis in 1976.

Drews, of Granite City, has been a reluctant candidate in the area and, like Price, supports a strong military.

He has said he sees the Soviet Union as a successor of Hitler Germany in efforts to establish a world empire.

No one has come forward to challenge Steamer's candidacy for the third term from the 23rd District, which includes the state's most southern counties.

The 59-year-old Congressman carries the candidates in the district in 1975 when he defeated Republican engineer Peter J. Frumes at Carbondale.

A state employee from Marion and a retired naval enlisted man from Columbia are fielding for the Republican nomination to oppose Steamer.

His opponent, Lynn C. Couch, says he has "a conservative approach in fiscal matters and an overall social conservative. That means I think Congress should quit throwing taxpayers' dollars and I'm ready against forced housing and gun control.

Shipley's seat is open and a flood of candidates for the 2nd District seat including his brother-in-law, The congressman's Illinois district includes Danville, Mattoon and Effingham. Shively, 38, is a resident of Richland County in the late 1950s when he and his wife's brother Donald Watson of Olney, as a lawyer.

Watson, a former field worker, became Shipley's administrative assistant when the sheriff went to Congress in 1959.

Opposing Watson in the Democratic primaries are Tony Thoma, M. of Charleston, and David Hill, 36, and state Sen. Terry Bruce, 35, of Olney.

Field interviews are scheduled at the Career Planning and Placement Center for Feb. 27 through March 3. Job interviews could be arranged by the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

AN OUTSTANDING OPPORTUNITY TO STRIKE UP A MEANINGFUL RELATIONSHIP
Move to oust Kuhn in works

NEW YORK (AP)—A backcourt movement by a handful of baseball owners intent on firing Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has gained support from roughly seven of the 28 teams, the Associated Press has learned.

Brad Corbett of Texas, the anti-Kuhn ringleader, has approached several sympathetic owners for support in the project, including Ray Krue, the outspoken owner of the San Diego Padres.

There are suggestions on other subjects and it came up in conversation," said Krue from his Chicago office. "I haven't played any part except as an interested one who has brought it to my attention."

Corbett and Krue have indicated that there are a number of other people who would participate.

The Associated Press survey has revealed that at least nine of the 28 teams would vote to fire Kuhn if a secret ballot were held today. Those teams are Baltimore, New York, Oakland, California, Texas and Chicago in the American League and Cincinnati, San Diego and Atlanta in the National League.

Kuhn's office said that the commissioner was out of town Wednesday. A list of questions was submitted to Kuhn's office and relayed to Kuhn, who refused to comment on the matter.

Firing the commissioner would entail buying up the remaining five years of Kuhn's 7-year contract, a total sum of $75,000. That would break down to about $4,500 per club.

Even with the $1.75 million the owners has lost on the deal, Kuhn's office said that the commissioner was not on the market. He had already been ousted.

The Associated Press was able to get in touch with the owners' vote on the matter.

The Braves, owners of the Atlanta Braves, have voted to fire Kuhn.

The San Diego Padres, owners of the team in San Diego, have also voted to fire Kuhn.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, owners of the team in Los Angeles, have voted to fire Kuhn.

The New York Yankees, owners of the team in New York, have voted to fire Kuhn.

The Chicago Cubs, owners of the team in Chicago, have voted to fire Kuhn.

The St. Louis Cardinals, owners of the team in St. Louis, have voted to fire Kuhn.

The Boston Red Sox, owners of the team in Boston, have voted to fire Kuhn.

The Philadelphia Phillies, owners of the team in Philadelphia, have voted to fire Kuhn.

In 1976, the owners voted to oust Kuhn for his handling of the National League's expansion plans. The owners then hired the Commissioner's assistant, William Harrington, to replace Kuhn.

Salukis host Braves in key tilt

The Braves are an experienced team and Lambert said his team has to come out with the right mindset on offense and defense to win.

"They have a great player in Piegler who is capable of getting 40 points a game," he explained. "But if you pay all your attention to contain him, their other players can score. When Piegler was out with an injury, the missed four games, Maykow and Garrett had super scoring games. All their players can score, so we can't afford to give them an easy chance to score."

The Salukis will again be playing without Ansley, which means they will not see any action in the first two weekend games. The 6-8 sophomore forward has been out with a back injury.

The Salukis have a tough road ahead of them in the first two weekend games against the team that is the biggest in the country.

The team has been scoring up to 85 points a game, so it will be a tough road ahead for the Salukis.

Gymnasts win, wait for state meet

By Steve Carson

Muncie, Ind. (AP) - Playing without its top gymnast, Linda Nelson, the women's gymnastics team still managed to defeat Illinois 137.6-136.1 Tuesday night in Champaign.

While Nelson did not even make the trip to Champaign due to a strong case of the flu, four other Salukis competed despite also being ill.

"It was a matter of survival," said coach Herb Vogel. "We could've scored very well today if we were healthy, but we were really in no condition to compete at all."

Chris Wurmack, Maureen Hennessey, Sandy Martin, and Linda Piat all competed admirably despite being ill.

Hennessey, a sophomore transfer from the University of Vermont, recorded her highest score as a Saluki when she came up with a 9.5 first-place routine on the uneven bars.

Moran, who along with Nelson gives the Salukis some All-America experience to help Vogel reach the five freshmen on the squad, came up with another fine performance. She finished first in the all-around competition (39.0), first in vaulting with a 9.1, and second in floor exercises with a 9.5.

The meet was held on the campus of Indiana State University, which was the site of the 1975 NCAA championships.

"The last team that wins the individual and team championships is the team that wins," said Herbert Vogel, head coach of the Salukis. "We have a young team, but we have good potential."
Few bright spots for gymnasts in low-scoring loss to Illinois

By Steve Corson
for the Daily Egyptian

The inconsistent men's gymnastics team went from a season-high score last Saturday to one of its lowest scores of the season Tuesday night in Champaign. Illinois defeated SIU 131.50-121.65.

"It was the most exciting meet of the year," said SIU Coach Bill Meade. "The team's excitement and effort."

"They did lose their focus a bit in the face with a bucket of ice water," Coach Bill Meade said after watching his team miss several crucial routines.

"I had a feeling that we might be a little flat and resting on our laurels after the Penn State meet."

The Salukis moved up to fourth place in the country by defeating Penn State 134-121.0 on the Arena last week, but couldn't repeat the performance against Illinois.

"Their (the Illini) score wasn't a fluke. The judges didn't interfere with who was the better team Tuesday night," Meade said. "If they can stay healthy, they are my pick as the champs of the Big Ten."

"It was the first time Illinois has beaten us in a long time."

Prairie Carl Antonioli led Illinois to its highest score of the year. Antonioli captured first place in the all-around (53.85) and vaulting (8.5). He scored 8.00 on the bar and 9.00 on the high bar (8.25).

Meade did note several bright spots in the losing effort.

Freeman Randy Betts had a season-high of 3.5 in floor exercise. He was held up on the pommel horse as his 8.4 score won the event. Rob Coleman got a 9.0 on the still rings for the second straight meet. Jim Tanguay broke the 9.0 barrier in parallel bars competition after having several 8.96 scores during the last year and a half.

The parallel bars was the only event in the meet that the Salukis were able to win as some fine routines by Dan Muens and Rick Adams (8.1) and Tanguay (8.9) helped keep the meet close.

Another indication of how the Salukis did compared to the Penn State meet would be the all-around scores. Against Penn State, Dan Muens and Adams took the top two spots in the all-around competition with scores of 54.80 and 57.70, respectively. But against the Illini, Dan Muens and Adams came up with all-around totals of 53.60 and 53.57, while the other two all-arounders, Kevin Muenz and Scott McBroome, were hampered by injuries.

"Evidently it was a poor coaching job in getting them ready for the meet," Meade said, "so I'll take the blame and try to turn it around for our Friday night meet with Nebraska."

The Salukis will conclude their home schedule Friday when they face the Cornhuskers at 7:30 p.m. in the Arena. Meade Menee should be pretty happy about having any more "easy" meets in the Arena this year. Of the six teams to visit the Arena, SIU has hosted host to (Oklahoma, LaSalle State and Iowa State, the three top-ranked teams in the country.

But Meade has always been a firm believer that a team can't learn anything unless it goes up against the best in competition.

Women cagers to close regular season on road

By Red Vanderneck
for the Daily Egyptian

The Intramural at Davies Gym is still open, but some semblance of basketball has been in the women's basketball team. The best team (Koons/Athletic) vs. the worst team (Pinkman/CCC) will have a pair of victories that could seal their plans for the season in the final tournament for the state tournament next week.

"Our season is over, search for the cure of their inconsistent play will take place in the last two games for games with the University Saturday and Eastern Kentucky Saturday.

The women take a 10-1 record into their final two regular season games before the State Tournament on Normal March 9-4, the last day of the season.

Last week Scott scored only one point in the 78-75 loss. She said things aren't quite that bad that week.

"(Meyer) is still sick and so are Jill (Fleming-Johnson) and Sue (Fleming-Green)," Meade said. "We have been practicing, as they will play, although I won't be able to play all 40 minutes."

Robin Drapovich also deducted a flagger in last Saturday's game against Missouri, but Scott said she is fine and will be ready to play.

"Getting her players ready to play has been a handiwork of mine recently for Scott. Her height is always played well in most, but the Salukis have played certain occasions as well. Scott is scores in the 4.00 area to play well for more than 30 minutes."

"If we played 30 minutes of half-court defense, we win right," she said. "Our offense and defense are fine as we play what we have to, but not giving up. We need to win these two games to play well for more than 40 minutes."

Scott will start her usual lineup of Brewer, Bonnie Faley and Jeri Hoover. "They can both be in the front line, with Sue Schaeffer and Lynn Williams playing a good game."

"T's Saluki have a first-round bye in the state tournament and they will play the winner of the (Oberlin) and Eastern Illinois game at 7 p.m. March 2."

Showdown weekend at Arena opens with Bradley contest
By Bob Vanderlick

It all sounds so simple: three home court victories and the Salukis will be making a return trip to the NCAA March 11 at Henry Heller Arena in Alton.

It may sound easy to some, but this is the Missouri Valley Conference, the land of second guesses and upsets. Realizing this, Coach Paul Lambert's future thoughts go no further than 7:35 p.m. Thursday, when the Bradley Braves come to the Arena for the first game of an evening doubleheader that may raise the roof off the 13-year-old building.

Following the Thursday night shoot-out, the Creighton Bluejays fly into town Saturday night to complete Lambert's second weekend at the Valley race for 1977-78. The winner of Saturday's game will draw a bye into the championship game of the Valley tournament March 5 at the Chicago Stadium.

Creighton's loss to Tulsa Monday night was greeted by sighs of relief at the Bradley Arena, which was named after the slain Brave. A home stand still is a dream the basketball team has to kill the Valley race with a 3-1 record. To Lambert, the game is just another challenge, and he wouldn't have been able to have had Creighton Monday night.

"Bradley always plays tough and we want to beat them," Lambert said. "If we win it we'll have a chance to win the title tonight Saturday. If we don't win it may hurt our confidence for Saturday's game with Creighton.

There may be some sort of revenge motif present. The Braves outraged the Salukis 86-81 at Robertson Memorial Fieldhouse in Peoria Jan. 7 in the second Valley game of the season. In that game the Salukis learned, as many went on, he who was not recontracted.

The 6-7 senior from East Peoria, the second-leading scorer in the Valley behind Larry Bivens, said, "I'm sure many teams are catching the line in the last few minutes when the Salukis were playing catch-up.

Phegley's talents require much attention from an opponent's defense, but the rising star in basketball was not recruited to the Valley. Three other starters—Alex Mazurek, Bobby Humbles and Ken Garrett—are scoring in double figures and the fifth starter, Harold McMahan, is the team's leading rebounder.

Saluki tracksters may be slowed by flu at MVC meet

Missouri Valley Conference Championships are this weekend and a large portion of the Saluki indoor track team is stranded in bed with the flu. But things aren't as bad as the last two weeks have been. And the Salukis hope to have the Saluki sideline up and out of the state Intercollegiate meet at Champaign, the team members hope for a flu-watch running smoothly at the line in the last few minutes when the Salukis were playing catch-up.

Walk-on Phegley walks off with Brave scoring mark

Chet Walker is a legend in Peoria. Bradley compiled a 34-14 record during his three-year career here in the early 1960s and his career point total of 1,575 was the standard of excellence in Bradley basketball for many years.

Walker went on to have a distinguished pre-career with the Philadelphia Athletics and briefly played in the NBA while his name will live forever. But his career scoring mark has been broken by Cooper Baisden, who had 28 points against Bradley last Saturday night. Walker's score was 1,575.

Baisden drew the cheers of 5,000 for the West Texas freshman who went 11-for- 15 from the field. "It seems as if all the time we've had this season," Walker said. "There have been almost every game with better teams than Bradley.

Walker's career total of 1,575 came in 1968, when he had 1,230 points. "I have never had a season like this," Walker said. "I have never had a season like this.
