Sayers reduces number of sports scholarships

By Scott Stahmer
Sports Editor
and Randy Roguski
Staff Writer

The number of men's athletics scholarships in all sports except basketball has been cut because of plans to divide student athletics fee money evenly between the men's and women's athletics departments, according to Men's Athletics Director Gale Sayers.

The cuts eventually may force SIU-C's football program to drop from Division I-A, the highest level of National Collegiate Athletics Association competition, to Division I-AA, the next level down.

"The thing that made me cut the scholarships was the student fee money," Sayers said. "There's no way we can make that up in one year. The scholarships were the only area I could cut back and not destroy the program."

The men's department currently receives $753,944, 63 percent of the funds generated by the $30 per semester student fee. For fiscal 1982, the men's department will receive a projected $574,200, the same amount as the women's program.

Sayers reduced the total number of scholarships from 171 to 135 for 1981-82, with the football program receiving the largest cutback. Football scholarships were reduced from 95, the NCAA maximum for a Division I-A program, to 70, five below the number permitted for a Division I-AA program.

All of the cuts are effective immediately, although all current scholarship commitments will be honored, Sayers said.

Basketball will retain its 15 scholarships and receive a $10,000 funding increase for next year.

In addition to the football cutbacks, other scholarship reductions were:

- Baseball from 13 to 11.
- Track and cross country from 14 to 13.

—Swimming, diving and water polo from 11 to nine.

—Wrestling from 11 to six.

—Gymnastics from seven to five.

—Tennis from five to three.

—Golf from five to three.

Most athletes in football and basketball ordinarily receive full scholarships, while coaches of other sports distribute their scholarships among the total number of team members.

Although SIU-C would need just eight sports to compete in Division I-AA, as opposed to 12 for Division I-A, Sayers and Jerry Lacey, associate vice president for university relations, said no commitment has been made to eliminate any sports.

"As planned now, we would go to Division I-AA in the future and maintain 12 sports," Sayers said.

However, Lacey said, "It's not totally out of the question to think about cutting sports."

Underage bar visitors show it's easy

Editor's note: Although underage students ordered all alcohol during the course of working on this story, at no time did any of these students pay for or drink any of the alcohol. The drinks were paid for and drank by staff writer Andrew Strang. The money for the story was contributed by reporters in the Daily Egyptian newsroom, and no University funds were used during the work on this story.

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

"UNDERAGE? DON'T ASK US to sell you beer," says a sign in Hangar 9.

A certain amount of irony became evident in the sign when underage students, accompanied by Daily Egyptian reporters, encountered few problems in ordering and being served beer and mixed drinks in Hangar 9.

However, Hangar 9 was not alone in violating the state law prohibiting the sale of beer and liquor to persons under 21.

Visits to Hangar 9, T.J. McFly's, the American Tap, the Club, the Great Escape and Gatsby's by legal-age reporters and underage students produced these results:

In 18 attempts by the underage students to order beer and mixed drinks in the six bars, only six requests were made by either bartenders or waitresses to see the underage students' IDs. The underage students ordered drinks and were served without question 12 times. Some of the bars were visited twice and there was no consistency in bar employees' efforts to check IDs.

IN VISITS TO HANGAR 9, the Club, the Great Escape and Gatsby's, either bartenders or waitresses asked to see the students' IDs and refused to serve the underage students when their ages were revealed.

A bartender at Hangar 9 asked for IDs and refused to serve the underage students at the bar, but a waitress took their orders and served them both beer and mixed drinks when they were seated away from the bar.

The visits to the bars appeared to add credibility to concerns that the Liquor Control Commission has about the ease with which underage people can get served in the bars on "the strip."

The underage students placed the orders for the entire group. If the drinks were served, the reporters paid for and drank the drinks. The underage students did not actually buy or drink any alcohol. The assumption was that tavern workers check IDs when drinks are ordered, not when they are served.

THE TOUR OF THE BARS bars during both "happy hour" on a Friday and evening hours on a Saturday clearly illustrated the difficulty—because of crowded conditions and the rush of business—that bartenders and waitresses have in checking the IDs of all the patrons. However, in other cases, it clearly illustrated the laxity by some tavern employees in checking IDs, and the insignificance of the checking of IDs at the doors of some of the bars.

Based on the tour of the bars by the four-member group, an underage drinker in Carbondale appears to have the best chance of getting served a mixed drink, ordered from a waitress in a crowded bar, at either "happy hour" or at night.

The greater the difficulty that bartenders and waitresses had in checking IDs because of crowded conditions, the greater the chances were that the underage students would get served. Of nine attempts to get served when bartenders and waitresses appeared too busy to check IDs, seven were successful. In bars with small crowds, however, only five of the nine attempts to get served were successful.

AN UNDERAGE PERSON APPEARS to have a better chance of getting served by a waitress than by a bartender. Waitresses served the underage students five of six times, but bartenders served the underage students in only seven of 12 attempts.

The underage students had better odds of getting served mixed drinks than beer. They were served mixed drinks in five of six attempts, but were served beer in seven of 12 attempts. Three of the attempts to get served mixed drinks occurred in a crowded bar where the workers appeared too busy to check IDs, and three of the attempts were through waitresses.

False IDs said to be easy to get for minors

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

ASK SOMEONE IN CARBONDALE if there's a problem with false identification cards being used to purchase alcohol and they're liable to reply that there is no problem here, that false IDs are easy to get.

Attorneys, students, SIU administrators and police all say that with a little ingenuity it is possible to be anyone—or any age—you want to be, and have the papers to prove it.

And it would seem that the uses of those papers are limited only by the imagination and need of the possessor. The most common use of false ID cards is by those under 21-years-old to buy alcohol.

The question of obtaining alcohol with false IDs came up during a recent Liquor Control Commission hearing on charges of underage sales against two downtown bars. Attorney Phil Gilbert, representing Gatsby's and Sgt. T.J. McFly's, showed the commission's members several IDs that he said had been confiscated by employees of his clients.

Students urged to vote for library referendum

By Pete Knecht
Staff Writer

The banner hanging across the entranceway of the Carbondale Public Library is beckoning SIU-C students as well as townspeople: "Vote 'yes' Feb. 24."

The vote Tuesday is, in part, for public approval for the city of Carbondale to issue bonds to fund building and equipping a new, expanded public library. The library referendum will be included on the City Council primary ballot.

Though students have Morris Library readily available, there is still reason for them to take interest in a new city library, urge library proponents.

"The University library is established to serve students and faculty. It's not one of its functions to serve the community," said Ray Campbell, director of Carbondale's library at 304 W. Walnut St.

Students are citizens of the town who can benefit from a public library that "provides popular information needed on a day-to-day basis" like facts about taxes, tax forms, home plumbing, and how to contact a senator, Campbell said.

Space is the biggest problem with the existing 24-year-old library, he said. The library, originally built from donations, was designed to hold 25,000 books. It now houses 57,000 volumes.

There is little room in the existing library for programs, reading areas and community group meetings. Parking area is limited, as is room for more than two years of periodical back issues.

If the bond issue receives voter approval, a new 16,000 sq. ft. library will be built on the Brush School site across from Carbondale Memorial Hospital. The Public Library Board purchased in October about one acre of the site, and the Carbondale City Council has included $50,000 in the 1981-82 budget to buy another half acre of the site for a new library.

The new $1.7 million library would be built to accommodate 100,000 volumes, with room for more programs, meetings and storage. Parking space for 77 cars will be available.

Attempts to cure space problems in the library have been going on for about 15 years, said Betty Mitchell, president of the Library Board. Staff salaries, utility costs and book costs have mainly been funded up to this point through property taxes, she said, but this is the first attempt to solicit public funds to build a new library.

If this bond issue referendum should fail, Mitchell laughed, "Maybe they'll let me on the top floor of one of the towers so I can jump off."

"We have been on the threshold (of getting funding) so many times I can't count them anymore," she said.

The Public Library will go on working with the existing building and searching for new funding ways if the bond issue should fail, said Campbell. But he said he knows of no opposition to the issue.

"It's going to go this time," said Mitchell. "It's not some luxury we can go without. It's essential."

To Carbondale property owners, approving the bond issue on Tuesday will mean an increase of $27 per year on property taxes of a $30,000 home.

There will be no direct tax cost to students living in Carbondale, said Mitchell, though it is possible rent may increase slightly.

"But we're really not talking about much of an increase," she said.

Students who live within city limits may use the public library for free, Campbell said. Non-residents must pay a $12 fee to equalize the costs to taxpayers inside the limits.

Both Mitchell and Campbell are optimistic about the birth of a new library.

"Right now, I feel like we're actually going to have a new public library," said Campbell.

News Roundup

Israeli attack kills 10 guerrillas

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli commandos attacked a Palestinian guerrilla base in Lebanon near Nabatieh on Sunday night, killing 10 guerrillas, an Israeli army communique reported.

It said there were no Israeli casualties, but the Palestinian guerrilla command in Beirut, Lebanon, claimed the helicopter-borne assault force suffered "heavy losses."

A Palestinian dispatch reported there were battles at Kfour and Zelta, near Nabatieh, a major guerrilla stronghold 10 miles from the Israeli border and about 35 miles south of Beirut, the Lebanese capital. It said three Palestinians were killed or wounded and three houses were destroyed at Kfour, according to preliminary reports.

Turkey releases drug smugglers

IZMIR, Turkey (AP) — Four Americans who spent more than eight years in Turkish prisons for drug smuggling were released to the custody of American authorities Sunday, and left Turkey by plane for an uncertain future in the United States.

For two of them — Jo Ann McDaniel, 36, of Coos Bay, Ore., and Robert E. Hubbard, 31, of San Antonio, Texas — the trip was a honeymoon. Friends said the two were married Friday, two days before their release, at Bocu Prison near the Aegean city of Izmir.

They and Kathryn Zenz, 34, of Lancaster, Wis., and Michael Ray, 35, of Little Rock, Ark., were turned over to American diplomats and a U.S. marshal who was to escort them to the United States. The four were released under a U.S.-Turkish prisoner exchange treaty which took effect last December.

Avowed racist's trail to begin

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Avowed racist Joseph Paul Franklin, arrested after a nationwide manhunt, goes to trial Monday on federal charges that he violated the civil rights of two black joggers he has said deserved to die for "race-mixing."

Franklin, who will testify in his own defense, has said that although he hates blacks, he has shot no one.

Investigation begins into bomb blast

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — A team of 38 state specialists Sunday began an investigation into the "massive blast" that ripped through the Soviet bloc section of the U.S.-financed Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty, injuring eight people.

Bavarian police said the bomb blast injured a West German telephone switchboard operator and three Czechoslovakian staffers on duty at the time of the blast, as well as four passersby or residents of nearby apartments.

Communist leaders' congress to discuss relations with West

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist Party, already proclaiming "major" foreign policy successes over the past five years, is expected to focus its 26th Communist Party Congress opening here Monday on relations with the West, informed sources here said.

The two-week-long congress is being viewed by many analysts as a barometer of long-term Soviet strategy plans. President Leonid I. Brezhnev's speech to the opening session is considered his most important policy address since the last Soviet congress in 1976.

Plans for Brezhnev's speech were being closely guarded, but Western diplomats said they expected the address to contain several new foreign policy initiatives.

These could include laying the groundwork for an improved dialogue with the United States despite current problems, perhaps even leading to an eventual meeting between Brezhnev and President Reagan or other Western leaders, they said. Some observers anticipated a slightly more flexible approach by Brezhnev to resolving the controversy over Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, but no change in basic policy toward the central Asian nation was expected.

State television broadcast film of arriving foreign communist leaders, including Fidel Castro of Cuba and Polish party chief Stanislaw Kania. It also broadcast footage of foreign communist leaders laying wreaths at the Lenin mausoleum on Red Square adjacent to the Kremlin.

City voting trends tough on student candidates

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

News Analysis

Brandhorst and Walter G. Robinson.

THE THREE students competing in Tuesday's City Council primary will need a radical departure from historical trends if they are to proceed to the April 7 general election and possible election to the council.

Review of election results dating back 10 years shows that student candidates generally have been beaten like drums in races for mayor or seats on the council, usually finishing at the lowest end of the vote totals.

Polling places listed on Page 11

Carbondale holds elections for four-year terms on the council or for mayor every two years. In Tuesday's primary, SIU-C students Matt Coulter, Paul Matalonis and Lamar Zabieliski are among six candidates for two seats on the council open this year. The four highest vote-getters Tuesday will go on to compete in the general election.

Council incumbents Charles Watkins and Archie Jones, and David Colombo, Pinckneyville High School librarian, also are candidates in the primary.

TWO SIU-C students ran for mayor and another was among seven candidates for the council in the 1971 primary.

Nick Fera, an undergraduate in political science and administrative assistant to the student body president and Roger Leisner, a graduate student in community development, were mayoral candidates in the February 1971 race.

They were opposed by Neal Eckert, general manager of Eckert Orchards, Inc., present Mayor Hans Fischer, who was then a councilman and vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, Thomas North and Charles Simon.

Bob Thomas, the student government representative to the City Council, ran for one of the two council seats being contested. Other candidates for the seats were former Mayor D. Blaney Miller, Dr. George D.

Karnes, A.E. Ramsey, Al Ross, Charles Vineyard, John F.H. Lonergan and Frankie Dee Payne.

The three students trailed the field in both races and did not go on to the general election.

Of 3,835 votes cast in the election, Leisner got 125 and Fera received 49 for mayor. Eckert and Fischer went on to the general election, which Eckert won by 92 votes.

THOMAS WAS last in the council election, netting 169 votes. The four winners and their vote totals were Karnes with 1,506, Miller with 1,458, Ramsey with 1,235 and Vineyard with 1,063. The next lowest vote total to Thomas was Ross, who got 396 votes. Karnes and Vineyard won the general election.

The 1975 primary pitted Irene Altschuler, a graduate student in secondary education, against Eckert in the mayoral race and saw another student run for the council.

Al Turner, a junior in political science at SIU-C, was one of six candidates for the two seats of Vineyard and Helen Westberg, who was appointed to fill out Karnes' term in September 1973. Other candidates were Joseph Dakin, a former Carbondale police chief, Elmer ALTSCHULER LOST in the primary to both Eckert and a write-in movement that was organized for Fischer shortly before the vote. Her name was placed on the general election ballot to oppose Eckert, however, when Fischer declined to run.

Turner came in last in the council primary with 134 votes, well behind the upset fifth-place finish of Vineyard. Top vote-getters in the race who went on to the general election were Westberg, Dakin, Bradhorst and Robinson.

But the success of the Fischer write-in campaign was read by at least four people, three of them SIU-C students, who decided to organize write-in efforts for the general election.

JOEL PRESTON, a radio and television major and former manager of radio station WIDB, was the mayoral candidate. Susan Davy, a graduate student in English, and John Hardt, executive assistant to the student body president, were running for the council.

Eckert polled 2,635 votes and carried all but one precinct, defeating Altschuler, who got 901 votes, by an almost three-to-one margin. Preston carried precinct 23, heavily populated

CUTS from Page 1

Despite the scholarship cutback and the possibility of a said no official decision to drop the football program to a lower division has been made.

"Division I-AA is not in the immediate future," he said. "When we do decide to go that route, we'll have to write a letter to the NCAA."

Sayers said football Head Coach Rey Dempsey and his staff were "shocked" when they found out football scholarships would be cut.

Dempsey has signed just seven high school seniors to national letters of intent this year. Thirty is the limit per year for Division I-A schools.

Sayers said that because of the number of players already on the roster, the school can sign only one more recruit this year under the new 70-scholarship limit.

"Other universities are having problems," Sayers said. "Six months from now, there might be schools in our conference or in other conferences having the same problems we are. As far as a Division I-AA schedule goes, we can get there."

Sayers said he believes SIU-C would be competitive in Division I-AA, although he added that strict financial restrictions would remain.

Shipment delay stalls moving of Law School

By Randy Roguski
Staff Writer

Although the new law building will probably be completed ahead of schedule, hopes for an early move into the building have been squelched by a delay in shipment of the building's shelving, according to Hiram Lesar, professor in the Law School.

The school's move from its cramped quarters on Douglass Drive to the new structure across the street probably will not start until mid-summer, Lesar said. Administrators had hoped that the Law School would begin moving into its new home by June.

Meanwhile, workers are laying carpeting in the building one of the last steps toward completion of the $7.9 million project.

The completed project will be more than $500,000 below budget, Lesar said. He said any unused funds will be retained by the Capital Development Board, the state agency which finances and supervises construction projects.

The completed building will have cost $5.4 million, with another $1 million spent on site preparation. Architectural designs for the project cost $700,000.

Matalonis and Watkins best for City Council

ON TUESDAY, CARBONDALE VOTERS will choose four candidates (from a field of six) to contest the April 7 general election for two seats on the Carbondale City Council.

Voters will be allowed to select two candidates in Tuesday's primary. We recommend that they vote for Paul Matalonis, president of the Undergraduate Student Organization, and the Rev. Charles Watkins, one of the two incumbents in the race.

One of three student candidates in the race, Matalonis, 22, is best qualified to represent the long-ignored student viewpoint on the City Council. Matalonis has been the USO's student liaison to the City Council since June and he has built up a working relationship with many city officials. Matalonis' performance at City Council meetings indicates that he possesses both intelligence and diligence, necessary qualities to be a good councilman.

IN ADDITION TO HIS City Council experience, Matalonis has learned many of the ins and outs of government during his term as president of USO. That term, so far, has been a fairly impressive one. Matalonis has helped accomplish such goals as Carbondale Clean-Up Day, publication of a student telephone directory and the implementation of a single identification card system (replacing the two-component system requiring a fee statement and student ID).

Watkins, who was appointed to the City Council in October of 1978, has distinguished himself as a concerned and articulate councilman. He has demonstrated sympathy and interest towards all Carbondale residents and has worked hard to develop knowledge about complex issues facing the city.

IN PARTICULAR, Watkins' emphasis on attracting new industries to Carbondale and raising the employment level merit attention. Unemployment is perhaps the biggest problem facing Southern Illinois and Watkins, the reverend of Carbondale's First Christian Church, is correct in devoting a good deal of his time to this problem.

Four candidates will advance to the April 7 election, and of the four remaining candidates we would support Matt Coulter, a graduate student in history at SIU-C, and David Colombo, a librarian at Pinckneyville High School.

Neither candidate has run an inspired campaign, but Coulter would be likely to represent the student viewpoint on city issues and Colombo has shown thoughtful insight in media interviews.

A student's wallet talks about the athletics fee

By Paul Cecilimus
Student Writer

DEAR "TEMPORARY" $10 ATHLETICS FEE INCREASE,

How are you? I am getting poorer. Since I'm a college student's wallet, you are going to affect me directly. You were "temporarily" increased from $20 up to $30 per semester in December of 1979 to alleviate a financial problem in SIU-C's intercollegiate athletics program. The "temporary" fee will expire in June, unless the Board of Trustees votes to retain you.

So, athletic fee, you want to get $10 per semester larger. As if you weren't big enough already. You want to become part of the crowd that wants more, more more. Peanut butter, fuel, Amtrak, St. Louis beers and athletes all want a larger cut of the financial pie. But I won't despair, not everything is skyrocketing. If President Reagan has his way, grants and loans to students will be going down, down, down.

ATHLETIC FEE, YOU PROBABLY NEED $10 more per semester to survive as you are. And, no, you shouldn't have to ask for less. But you should try to do less with what you have. It's not that hard to do. The lower and middle classes are doing it. And not because they want to—it's because they have to.

Athletic fee, in these times what gives you the right to ask all students to increase their support of a few students?

Gale Sayers had the right idea of getting by with less when he proposed eliminating tennis, wrestling and water polo. "I think it is important to have a well-balanced sports program, but I do not think the three sports are assets to our intercollegiate athletics program."

WHETHER OR NOT THESE SPORTS assets to the program, Mr. Sayers has the right idea of cutting back instead of streaming forward. Of course, Mr. Sayers supports a continuation of the "temporary" fee increase. But maybe he wouldn't have to if he proposed more cutbacks.

The Intercollegiate Athletics Commission considers it "critical" that the "temporary" fee increase is continued. Of course it is "critical" if athletics at SIU-C continue at their current pace. But let's slacken the pace and run our athletics departments at a speed we can live with.

So, athletic fee, right now everyone seems to be trying to get by with less. Why don't you do the same?

Respectfully Yours,
A college student's wallet

Science backs pro-life belief

Not long ago a letter was written to the Daily Egyptian entitled, "When Does Human Life Begin?" This letter addressed itself to such philosophical questions as, what is life, when does it begin, and what is human? In a nutshell, the author was saying that no one really knows the answers to these questions. Nevertheless, the author did have a few suggestions.

First, she tells how she once wrote a paper proving "logically" that a poem meets all the scientific requirements for a life form. Her biology teacher thought it was worth an "A." As for the question, what is human, she stated: "There are arguments for higher intelligence in dolphins, greater ranges of communication in whales and more social structure in tribes of chimps than man exhibits." It is possible that these are the real humans after all!

Granted, these are difficult questions; however, there are answers that just make more "sense."

Modern science, for instance, offers the following answer to the question of when human life begins. Science states that it is now known that the sperm contributes 50 and that the egg contributes 50 to the new life. The sperm contains the genetic code of the father, and the ovum contains the genetic code of the mother. When these two join, there is created at that time a new living being, a being that never before existed in the history of the world, a being not at the end of life but at the dawn.

This living being is dependent upon his or her mother for shelter and food, but in all other respects is a totally new, different, unique and independent being; a human being. Thanks to modern science, ultrasonic stethoscopes are now common in obstetrician's offices that allow the mother to actually hear her baby's heartbeat as early as eight weeks. I know this to be true. My wife and I both heard our child's heartbeat through an ultrasonic stethoscope at about eight weeks into her pregnancy. She is now about 24 weeks along, and we agree with science that there is a human life in her womb.

How do people who deny this account for this heartbeat? Furthermore, how do they explain the gentle kicking I often feel when touching my wife's stomach? Finally, and most importantly, if this is a human life, how can they explain or rationalize poisoning the child or cutting it to pieces; the most common abortion methods. How do they explain the abortion method of hysterotomy, which is opening the mother's womb, removing the baby and allowing it to die?—John McGowan, Masters, Accountancy.

Student fees held hostage by Bursar

Well, this is the 43rd day the Bursar's Office has held my medical fee captive. I know no one is terribly concerned, but I am beginning to wonder if it is going to be released at all.

I was told to pay my tuition fees by the deadline or else my registration would be cancelled. I did so. I was told to go to the Health Service Dept. within a certain amount of days to request a refund (or else again). I went and was told my payment would be sent to me by mail. They said cash payments were no longer made as in the prior semesters. But they still haven't sent me the money.

Now I realize how much red tape there is to go through. But upon calling to inquire about the refund, I was told, "If your account has been credited that means your refund is on the right track. You've made it through the first step." Three cheers!

I'm glad something is going forward. The negotiations sound so familiar. Do you suppose I might see my $42 by next year?—Norma Minor, junior, Elementary Education Watching "Five Finger Exercise," I was reminded of the strain under which anybody with no budget works in the laboratory. I was reminded as well of how much caring matters, which, not coincidentally, formed the foundation for director Curtis Miller's interpretation of the Peter Shaffer play.

It's not that caring compensates for flaws, although it helps. It's just a shame that there's not more of it around these days, in theater, in anything.

"Five Finger Exercise" is the 1950s version of "Ordinary People," except that the father in "Exercise" is an Archie Bunker type. Donald Sutherland's role as an unrelenting saint in "People" is taken on by a German tutor in "Exercise." It is the tutor's addition to the family that precipitates its crisis.

Among the elements that survived the staging in the Laboratory Theater was the pace and blocking. Even though Thursday night's performance carried on at breakneck speed,

by Willie Nelson

When Willie Nelson sings "On The Road Again," he really means it.

Nelson's summer tour will include another stop at the DuQuoin State Fair. Nelson and Family will take the stage for two shows at 6 and 10 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 4. It is the third straight summer that Nelson has appeared in DuQuoin.

Primarily known as a singer-songwriter, Nelson has recently been in two movies, "The Electric Horseman" and "Honeysuckle Rose." A song from the latter, "On The Road Again," has been nominated for an Academy Award. In concert, Nelson plays a blend of easy-listening versions of old standards, foot-stomping country songs and some gospel tunes.

Tickets, priced at $12 and $10, are available by mail only from the Fair Ticket Office, P.O. Box 191, DuQuoin, Ill. 62832. Tickets may be charged to MasterCard or Visa accounts. Persons should specify which show tickets are requested for. Orders will be filled in the order in which they are received.

A Review

the play lasted two hours.

If Miller was worried about the play dragging, he needn't have. The production had enough going for it that the pace could have been slower still, particularly at the beginning. The blocking worked well, even—or surprisingly—when the actors had their backs to the audience.

Some of the acting, however, resulted in lines booming onto our laps, and pivotal dialogue being pounced on and beaten with a sledgehammer. The set managed to suggest an entire house on the lab's tiny stage without appearing cramped, but one exit served for both the bathroom and the tutor's room, which created some distracting exits and disembodied voices emanating from odd directions.

By far the most accomplished actor in the production was Walt R. Willey as Langer, the tutor. I can't decide what was more wonderful, the way he used his body and face, or his handle on the script. Willey's control was matched by Dan Plato as Stanley Harrington, the stony father.

Wonderful as Willey and Plato were, their characters carried less of the burden of Miller's interpretation than those played by Timothy Mooney and Elisabeth Garretson, as Clive and Louise Harrington. Their characters were the most complex, and Miller's interpretation was more sympathetic to the mother and son than I could find it in my heart to be.

The end of the play is as enigmatic and incoherent in the script as it is in the production, but it doesn't matter. Miller's sense of rhythm of the play hits its stride at the end. The rushing and jumble of words explode in punctuation. We are left with our thoughts.

Mine fire forces home evacuations

CENTRALIA, Pa. (UPI)—The fury of an underground mine fire burning for almost 20 years has caused earth to collapse and people to move from their homes, but officials say a lack of money may delay relief action for more than a year.

Seven homes had to be evacuated because of carbon monoxide seeping inside them. A gas station was shut down when the temperature in the basement hit 142 degrees.

A 12-year-old boy almost fell to a fiery death last week when the earth beneath him collapsed. Steam can be seen spewing from cracks in the earth.

"It is a dangerous situation. It's critical," said Walter Vicinelly, who heads the state Office of Deep Mine Safety. "The carbon monoxide is not in dangerous proportions now, but it could change at anytime and become hazardous."

Officials who are studying how to extinguish the blaze are not sure how much the project will cost. The federal Office of Surface Mining estimates the cost of the project between $22.5 and $24 million and say funding like that will not be available for 16 months or more.

Gov. Dick Thornburgh has been asked to consider proclaiming the small, northeast Pennsylvania town a disaster area.

Government officials have known for years about the blaze, which covers 140 acres in an old anthracite mine beneath the town that grew up around it. The rich fuel still remaining underground, combined with oxygen present in old passageways once used to transport coal, has fed the fire.

Vicinelly suspects someone dumped hot ashes in an abandoned pit once used as a landfill, starting a fire in 1962 that ignited the coal seam. No one knows for certain.

Residents of the town worry that relief won't come soon enough.

A week ago, a section of steaming earth collapsed under a 12-year-old boy walking in his grandmother's backyard. He saved himself from falling 300 feet into the fiery pit by grabbing the root of a tree that bridged the hole.

"Since we've had the subsidence hole, where the young boy fell, we could have the same situation repeat anywhere in town," Vicinelly said. "Where you have a raging fire, the heat affects the rock strata and the possibility of subsidence increases."

"The heat or the gases from the fire have been killing one of my neighbor's red maples (trees)," said former Mayor John Coddington.

Art teachers to exhibit works

The faculty of the School of Art will present an exhibit of their works beginning Monday and continuing through March 20 at the University Museum in the C wing of Faner Hall.

A reception will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday. It is open to the public and admission is free.

The faculty will present a variety of art forms, many of which have been shown throughout the United States and Europe.

A sculpture by Aldon Ad-dington, an assistant professor in the art school, has been acquired by Western Illinois University for its permanent collection.

Authorities to extradite murder suspect

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois authorities say they want to talk to a man arrested in Greensboro, N.C., on armed robbery charges about the killings of six people in Rockford and nearby Beloit, Wis., during a one-week period, the FBI said Sunday.

FBI agent Bob Pence, in a telephone interview from Charlotte, N.C., said Rockford and Illinois State police were traveling to Greensboro, where the FBI has arrested Raymond Lee Stewart in connection with the Dec. 12 robbery of a Rockford rental agency manager.

Rockford Police Chief Delbert Peterson said Saturday, "We're going to extradite him on the robbery charge and talk to him about these murders."

Stewart's bond was set at $100,000 and he was being held in the Guilford County Jail in Greensboro, Pence said.

A large caliber handgun was used in all the killings, which occurred over a three-day period, Jan. 27-29, in Rockford and Feb. 2, in Beloit, 20 miles to the north.

UNDERAGE from Page 1

The checking of IDs at the door of the bars did not appear to make a difference in the ease with which the underage students got served. IDs were checked at the doors of all the bars except the Great Escape on Friday afternoon and the Club on Saturday night. The underage drinkers were not able to get served at either of the bars when there was no ID checked at the door.

THE TIME OF DAY WHEN the underage students attempted to get served did not appear to make a difference either, as they were served in six of nine attempts during both "happy hour" Friday, and evening hours Saturday.

The "party" began on the afternoon of Friday, Feb. 6, with visits by two underage students and two reporters to Gatsby's, Hangar 9, the Great Escape and the American Tap. In a second visit to the bars on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 7, which took in the same four bars visited Friday as well as the Club and T.J. McFly's, the group consisted of only one underage student and one reporter, accompanied by two 21-year-olds.

The underage students in the group Friday were a male who is 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs about 130 pounds and a female who is 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 105 pounds. The male said "no" when asked if he looked 21, and the female replied, "Most people have told me that I look 15," when asked the same question. The underage student who accompanied the group Saturday night is 6 feet tall, weighs about 170 pounds and said he did look 21.

HERE IS WHAT HAPPENED during the two trips to the bars:

Hangar 9—The underage students were successful in getting served in three of four attempts. They got served beer and mixed drinks from a waitress and beer from a bartender. A bartender refused to serve them beer once.

The Great Escape—Of three attempts to get served, two were successful, including one for mixed drinks. A waitress served the mixed drinks, and bartenders refused to serve beer Friday but did serve beer Saturday.

Gatsby's—The underage students were successful in getting served in three of six attempts. They got served beer and mixed drinks by bartenders onetime and were refused beer and mixed drinks by bartenders another, and were served mixed drinks once and refused beer once by waitresses.

The American Tap—None of the two orders for mixed drinks or one order for beer were refused. The Club—A bartender refused to serve beer in the only attempt.

T.J. McFly's—A bartender served the underage student beer in the only attempt.

WHENEVER THE UNDERAGE students ordered drinks from a waitress in a bar where the hands of the legal-aged patrons were stamped upon entrance to the bar, the underage students would place their hands on the table to give the waitresses a chance to notice that their hands were not stamped.

During oath visits to the American Tap, the bar was so crowded that the bartenders appeared to not know who placed the orders for the drinks.

In Gatsby's, the bar that is awaiting hearing on an appeal of the suspension of its liquor license for six days by the Carbonade Liquor Control Commission for allegedly serving alcohol to underage drinkers, the only two attempts to get served Saturday were unsuccessful. The waitress appeared to be watching the group to make sure the underage student did not drink from drinks that were ordered by the reporter, and a doorman checked the hand stamps of the entire group after they had been in the bar for about 10 minutes.

In Hangar 9, the only attempt to get served on Saturday night was made when a band took a break and the bartender appeared too busy to check IDs because of a rush of people to the bar. However, after the initial rush to the bar was over, the bartender checked the hand-stamp of one of the 21-year-old members of the group when he ordered beer.

Klan rally spurs arrest

CERES, Calif. (AP) — Police arrested one person near an all-day Ku Klux Klan rally where members burned a cross and heard Bill Wilkinson, head of the Invisible Empire of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, predict "a racial conflict as serious as the Civil War." Stanislaus County sheriff's officials said a single shot was fired Saturday at a trucker after he honked his horn at four people on a street near the rally.

A man, one of the pedestrians, was booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon, authorities said.

by students, but received only 331 total votes. Hamilton's name was written-in on 35 ballots.

THE STUDENT write-in candidates for council finished fifth and sixth in the election, far behind the four candidates on the ballot. Hardt was fifth in the race with 480 votes and Davy ran last with 259.

The council seats were won by Dakin, with 2,513 votes, and Westberg, who received 2,121. Brandhorst was third with 1,218 and Robinson fourth with 929.

The 1977 campaign for two seats on the council attracted only one student candidate, who ran for the council and student body president at the same time.

Dennis Adamczyk, graduate student in public affairs, challenged Fischer and Jones, both seeking their third terms on the council. James Hewede, a retired Army colonel, also ran in 1977, making his first attempt for a council seat.

In a low-interest general election April 20 that drew only 1,169 voters, Fischer and Jones breezed to easy re-election, getting 1,189 and 924 votes respectively. Adamczyk was third in the race with 594 votes and Hewette last with 306.

HIS ELECTION fortunes changed overnight, however, because Adamczyk was elected student body president on April 21 with 1,102 votes, well ahead of any challenger.

Another student candidate came out for the 1979 primary as a council candidate, but withdrew from the race a month before the Feb. 27 primary.

Dan Carmell, a junior in political science, announced his candidacy in Nov. 1978, but withdrew in early January because of personal problems.

The three students running this year stand a better mathematical chance of getting to the general election than any of their predecessors. With four of the six candidates in the primary advancing to the general election, at least one student will be among that number. However, as the past decade's results indicate, only one incumbent councilman, Vineyard in 1975, has ever been turned back in a primary election, and all incumbents who ran in general elections have been re-elected.

Viking sailors may have seen tall mermen fortelling storms

NEW YORK (AP) — Vikings who roamed the North Atlantic 800 years ago faced perils unknown to modern mariners: They saw mermen as tall as water towers foretelling dangerous storms, and found themselves hemmed in by mysterious "hedges" far at sea.

Modern scientists usually dismiss these reports as the visions or exaggerations of superstitious sailors. But two researchers at the University of Manitoba have confirmed the ancient Norse writings, which they may refer to an optical illusion caused by rare weather conditions. Waldemar Lehn and Irmgard Schroeder say illusions may explain the mermen and the "hafgerdingar," or hedges of the sea, where a ship seems surrounded by a distant tidal wave several hundred feet high.

The Norse merman, as a mid-13th century tract described him, "rises straight out of the water (with) shoulders like a man's but no hands. Its body apparently grows narrower from the shoulders down."

The creature was sometimes accompanied by a mermaid with heavy hair, breasts and large webbed hands. "Whenever the monster has shown itself, men have always been sure that a storm would follow," the tract, noted for its accuracy in describing natural phenomena, says.

Using a computer, Lehn and Schroeder showed that certain atmospheric conditions preceding a storm can bend light rays so that low-lying objects are stretched to gigantic proportions.

A whale's head a mile away might appear as a tree trunk-like object, its white eyepatch stretched into a fang, they say.

Writing in the British journal Nature, Lehn and Schroeder say the illusion can occur when a layer of cold air less than 10 feet thick lies on the surface of the ocean with warmer air on top.

When larger ships with higher decks came into common use, the scientists say, the sightings ceased.

"Pilot. The pens you have to hold onto with two hands."

—Rodney Donaghy

"Get your claws off my Pilot pen. See... I don't get no respect!"

"People have a hunger for my Pilot Fineline because they're always fishing for a fine point pen that writes through carbon. And Pilot changes only 7% for it. People get their hands on it and forget it's my pen. So I don't get no respect! I don't make out any better with my Pilot Astor Point. It writes whip-cream smooth with an extra fine line. Its metal collar helps keep the point from going squishy—so people love it. For only 86¢ they should buy their own pen—and show some respect for my property."

JACKSON COUNTY Assistant State's Attorney Paul Baertschi and Assistant City Attorney Elizabeth Byrnes both said that their offices do prosecute those arrested using false IDs and intend to continue to do so.

Baertschi said he had reviewed some charges just last week, and will soon take them to trial.

"The States Attorney's office is here to enforce the law and we look at charges of underage acceptance and false IDs the same way we do at any other law. If we have a provable case, we will prosecute it, and on state charges, conviction penalties are pretty severe," he said. State charges of underage acceptance or use of false IDs are class B misdemeanors punishable by up to six months in jail, he said.

Calling the use of false IDs in town "heavy," Byrnes said the use of false identification to obtain alcohol is a violation of city ordinances and those arrested for it are generally prosecuted in municipal court. She said displaying a false ID to a policeman could result in charges of possessing a false ID and obstruction of justice if the officer was trying to determine a person's age in investigation of a possible crime.

RECORDS AT THE Jackson County Courthouse indicate that 72 charges of underage acceptance, possession or consumption of alcohol were filed by Carbondale police from Nov. 3, 1980 to Feb. 13, 1981. Of those cases, 18 were accompanied by charges of use or possession of false ID and 15 others were charged with obstructing a police officer.

"We are looking at the possibility of asking the court to impose stiffer fines for false identification use, but that decision will ultimately be up to the judges. Fines now are generally in the $40 range, and that is fairly difficult for some students to pay," Byrnes said.

Most bars and liquor stores in town require a photo ID card as positive proof of age. The Illinois Drivers License or SIU-C identification card are the most shown cards, but some bar managers said they also would accept out-of-state photo identification. Managers and doormen at several bars said they will confiscate any ID they recognize to be falsified, and some estimated they take between six and 10 per month.

STUDENTS WHO have altered their own or other's SIU-C IDs said that generally, changing the card is easy for the skilled hand. The plastic seal around the card can be steamed open and a new picture or data tape with name, student ID number and birthday imprinted on them inserted. Sheets of plastic coating can be purchased and ironed over the changed card, the students said.

Two different sources told a similar story of the theft of 30 to 40 blank SIU-C IDs from the registration center at Woody Hall during registration for fall semester. Both students said a resident of one of the campus dormitories "walked over to the desk where IDs were being printed up, acting like he was an employee from upstairs, opened a desk drawer and took a stack of blank cards out." The student then left the registration center without being questioned by anyone, the sources said.

HENRY ANDREWS, assistant director of registration, said he thought "it would be possible for someone to abscond with some blank cards," but that he had not heard of the fall incident. Andrews supports removing the birthdate of a student from the information on the SIU-C card, because the most routine uses of the card on campus, checking books out of the library and cashing checks, do not require proof of age.

Andrews said a new form of ID card, produced in the same manner the new Illinois Drivers Licenses are, is being studied. The new style of card may make alteration difficult or almost impossible, he said.

THE PRESENT SIU-C ID is a plastic badge with a photo insert, Andrews said, and the two-piece construction makes it easy to open the plastic cover to make changes. New ID card production equipment, manufactured by Polaroid Corporation, makes a one-piece card by photographing the student over a data card inserted into the camera. Polaroid claims the cards are tamper proof because anyone who tries to open the plastic seal of the card will also tear the card, Andrews said. The Secretary of State's Office converted drivers license production to a similar system last year.

There are several forms of identification that can be bought in stores or through the mail with falsified personal information on them that have been confiscated in bars here, but police spokesmen said the SIU ID is by far more popular for alteration.

INSTANT PASSPORT Photos of St. Louis sells a "U.S. Government Identification Card," that, despite its official appearance, is not issued or endorsed by any federal agency. A spokesman for the firm said anyone with a Social Security or library card, which generally do not display proof of age, and $8.95 can have one of the cards made in a few minutes. An affidavit swearing that the information on the card is true must be signed by each purchaser, the spokesman said, but the affidavits are filed only with the company, not with any branch of government. The police department has confiscated three of the cards within the last year.

The March, 1981 issue of "High Times" magazine has six different advertisements offering identification cards, catalogues of different style cards and books of instruction on obtaining false IDs, a new identity or credit deception practices. The cards and information range in price from $5 to $25.

Chief Ed Hogan said the class will be held by the police because of the interest expressed by the liquor license holders. The problem of false identification cards being used by minors in pursuit of alcoholic pleasure goes much deeper than enforcement of a law or set of laws governing alcohol use, he said.

THE OWNERS AND managers of liquor establishments in Carbondale have asked the police department for instruction on how to spot false IDs, and police have organized a training class on the subject for bar employees through their Community Relations department.

"The most erroneous conclusion that anyone could make is that this is a police problem. Any time a segment of a community has to break the law to serve its own purposes, that community has a serious problem, and I perceive it to be a problem of the entire society," Hogan said.

Energy delivery cost report to be presented to City Council

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

A study showing that Carbondale spends more than $30 million annually on energy is expected to be presented to the City Council Monday night.

The study, initiated last summer by the city's Energy Division and completed by an SIU-C design class under the direction of Richard Archer, assistant professor of design, details the "end use" energy consumption cost of residences, businesses, the University and city buildings.

According to Robert Pauls, city energy coordinator, the "end use" figures cited in the report reflect the ultimate cost to the consumer for delivered energy, not the cost of producing the power.

Pauls said that $25 million of the yearly energy-purchasing cost is lost to Carbondale and can not be used to aid the local economy. He cited a formula developed by David Morris, executive director of the Institute For Local Self-Reliance in Washington, D.C., which shows that 85 cents of every dollar paid for a fossil fuel is lost to the community.

Morris will address the city Energy Conference at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Carbondale

Community Center on East College Street.

"In simple terms, the balance of payments for energy is out of line," Pauls said. "To recapture all or part of the total of exported dollars through the use of conservation, efficiency and greater use of renewable energy resources would have an effect similar to adding several multi-million dollar industries to the Carbondale economy," Pauls said.

The council is also expected to review a proposed revision of the ordinance prohibiting the use of false identification cards. The revision, drawn by Mary Ann Midden, assistant city attorney, would move the prohibition against use of false ID's out of the city code section relating to alcohol consumption.

Polling places named for city primary election

By Tony Gordon
Staff Writer

Polling places for 26 Carbondale precincts will be open from 6 a.m. until 7 p.m. Tuesday for the City Council primary election.

Six candidates are competing for four positions on the April 7 general election ballot. Two of the four nominated will be elected to four-year terms on the council.

Also on the ballot Tuesday will be a referendum for voter approval of a $1.7 million general obligation bond issue by the city to support the building of a new public library. The bonds will be financed by increases in city property taxes.

City Clerk Janet Vaught said it was important for all voters to check the location of the polling place for their precincts. The precincts and polling places are:

Carbondale 1, Thomas School, 895 N. Wall St.; Carbondale 2, Carbondale Community Center, 607 E. College St.; Carbondale 3, the apartment building at the corner of South Marion and East Walnut; Carbondale 5, Eurma C. Hayes Center, 441 E. Willow St.

Carbondale 6 and 7, First Assembly of God Church, 801 N. Almond St.; Carbondale 8, Park District Building, 1212 W. Main St.; Carbondale 9, Carbondale Community High School Gym, West High Street; Carbondale 10 and 26, St. Francis Xavier Hall, West Walnut Street.

Carbondale 11, Pyramids Apartments, 516 S. Rawlings; Carbondale 12, Church of the Good Shepherd, Orchard Drive; Carbondale 13 and 14, Epiphany Lutheran Church, 1501 W. Chautauqua St.; Carbondale 15, Parrish School, 115 N. Parrish Lane; Carbondale 16, Western Heights Christian Church, West Old Route 13.

Carbondale 18, Carbondale Community High School East, 1301 E. Walnut St.; Carbondale 19, Lakeland School, Giant City Road; Carbondale 21, Wilson Hall, 1101 S. Wall St.; Carbondale 22, Newman Center, 715 S. Washington St.;

Carbondale 23, Grinnell Hall, Brush Towers; Carbondale 24, Building 150, Evergreen Terrace; and Carbondale 25, Lentz Hall, Thompson Point.

Matmen win big in season's last meet

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

Heavyweight Dale Shea provided an exciting regular-season finish for 25 or 30 diehard SIU-C wrestling fans at the Arena Saturday, pinning Evansville's Bill Lahonis with 44 seconds left in the second period of the final match to account for the Salukis' final points in a 40-3 win over the Purple Aces.

Shea, whose opponent outweighed him by about 25 pounds, was trailing, 6-3, when he toppled Lahonis onto his back and held him for the pin.

Shea's coach, Linn Long, described the meet as "a really good one to watch" despite the fact that Evansville forfeited three matches. Illness and injuries cut down on Evansville's depth.

"Our team balance and their three forfeits accounted for the lopsided score," Long said. "But, from the standpoint of the spectators, it was a good match because there were some close battles at some of the weights."

The win gave the Salukis a 9-7 dual meet record, as Notre Dame Coach Joseph Bruno last week confirmed that the early season match between his team and SIU-C was a forfeit to the Salukis.

Saturday's win wasn't an entirely happy experience for the Salukis, though, as it was senior Eric Jones' last regular season meet. Jones, the only member of the team to graduate before next season, received a standing ovation from the crowd Saturday when he went to the mat for his 167 pound bout, which he won by forfeit.

"I was disappointed that I didn't get to wrestle in my last

Woolridge's shot keys Irish victory

CHICAGO (AP)—Orlando Woolridge's 16-foot jump shot as time ran out lifted 11th-ranked Notre Dame to a 57-56 upset victory Sunday over top-ranked Virginia, handing the Cavaliers their first loss of the season.

With 10 seconds remaining, Virginia's Lee Raker threw away an inbounds pass and after a timeout Notre Dame made its move. Tracy Jackson missed a shot and Kelly Tripucka was stripped of the ball as he attempted to shoot. Woolridge then grabbed the ball and let fly with the game-winning basket.

Saluki netters shut out Jayhawks, 9-0

By Greg Walsh
Staff Writer

The Kansas Jayhawks felt the wrath of the SIU-C men's tennis team Saturday, when the Salukis swept the Jayhawks 9-0 at Carbondale's Court Club.

It was the first loss and the second meet of the weekend for the Jayhawks, who had beaten St. Louis University 9-0 Friday. The Salukis have won their last three matches and are 3-1.

Coach Dick LeFevre called the shut-out "a little surprising because they had beaten St. Louis University 9-0 the day before."

"We have been taken in by Kansas the last couple of years. We would go there thinking could beat them easily and they would beat us," LeFevre said.

But the 1981 indoor season started badly for first-year Jayhawk Coach Randy McGraph, whose team has been plagued by ineligibility problems. Dropped from the team at the beginning of the spring semester were No. 1 Senior Dave Thies, and No. 3 Senior Bill Krizman ineligible because of low grades.

The Lawrence, Kan., attorney did not seem worried about the top of the Jayhawks lineup though.

"Our problem right now is who is going to be our No. 6 man," McGraph said.

The Salukis' No. 1 player, Guy Hooper, lost the first set of his match with Wayne Sewall, 4-6, before taking command and winning the next two, 6-2, 6-2.

"Hooper was playing tough," LeFevre said. "Even Sewall said after the match that Hooper had outplayed him."

The rest of the Saluki lineup had little trouble in the singles matches. No. 4 player John Grief was the only other player needing a third set to beat his opponent.

In the doubles matches, the Salukis showed why they have won 11 out of 12 in their four matches this season. No. 1 doubles Lito Ampon and Steve Smith had no trouble beating Sewall and Ed Bolen, 6-4, 6-3.

Senior Day ends successfully for women's gymnastics team

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's gymnastics team celebrated Saluki

Senior Sunday by beating the University of Louisville Cardinals, 141.50-140.45. In doing so, the Salukis nailed down Coach Herb Vogel's 300th career victory and their 18th consecutive winning season.

SIU-C seniors Pam Conklin, Denise Didier and co-captain Patti Tveit made their last Arena performances memorable by delivering fine performances.

In the uneven parallel bars competition, Didier scored a season high of 9.15. Conklin scored an 8.70 in the vaulting competition, and Tveit scored a 8.90 in the floor exercise. Saluki Coach Herb Vogel thought it would be a close meet because of Louisville's second-place finish in the Windy City Invitational, but he didn't expect to have a lot of trouble beating the Cardinals.

"We have gotten better since the Windy City Invitational, but I don't think they have," he added.

SIU-C's Val Painton won the all-around competition with a score of 35.80, but Vogel said that she didn't have a good meet.

"She had a sloppy bars routine," Vogel said, "and in the floor exercise, she lost at least half a point in her first tumbling pass. If she had hit it, she would have easily broken a 36 in the all-around competition."

Painton scored a 9.1 in the vaulting, an 8.75 in the uneven bars, an impressive 9.15 in the balance beam and an 8.80 in the floor exercise.

Salukis Lori Erickson and Pam Turner tied for third place in the all-around competition with scores of 35.45. Erickson scored a 9.20 in the floor exercise.

Roundfield, Hawks beat Bull by five

CHICAGO (AP)—Dan Roundfield scored a season-high 29 points and Atlanta's guard tandem of Wes Matthews and Eddie Johnson combined for 37 Sunday to lead the Hawks to a 121-116 National Basketball Association victory over the slumping Chicago Bulls.

The Hawks, winning their third game in a row and only their sixth in their last 24 contests since Jan. 1, dealt the Bulls their fourth loss in their last five games.

Atlanta, 24-39, held a seemingly comfortable 97-82 bulge after three quarters. But the Bulls, behind the scoring of Artis Gilmore and Reggie Theus, began to whittle away Atlanta's lead, and with 4:28 remaining Chicago had cut the deficit to 109-103.

breaststroke with a time of 30.25. Larsen set state and pool records in the 100-yard butterfly (55.98). Diane Poludniak placed third in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:12.86. Riker won the 200-yard backstroke with a 2:10.51 time.

Northwestern won the 800-yard freestyle relay, setting pool and state records with a time of 7:48.01. SIU-C was second with a 7:51.88.

Ratcliffe set another state record by swimming the 400-yard individual medley in 4:31.82. Poludniak placed third in that event with a time of 4:45.24.

Paula Jansen, a freshman from Montreal, Canada, set a state record by winning the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:01.00. Riker was third again with 1:01.30. Laura Brown, a freshman from Joliet, set a state record of her own in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:55.93.

Ratcliffe won the 100-yard breaststroke, setting another state record with a time of 1:06.30. Larsen set pool and state records by winning the 200-yard butterfly with a 2:04.19 time. Ratcliffe placed third in the 50-yard freestyle (25.01). The 400-yard medley relay team placed second behind Northwestern with a 4:04.71 time.

Larsen shattered the 1650-yard freestyle record held by NU's Lindstrom (17:22.50) with a time of 17:02.53. Brown finished second in the 100-yard freestyle (54.21) while Jansen finished third in the 50-yard backstroke (28.64). Ratcliffe broke the pool and state record in the 200-yard breaststroke with the time of 2:25.72. The previous state mark was 2:27.75.

strong in the MVC championships next week." Hartzog said. Schulz is the MVC defending champion in the mile and 1,000-meter run.

In the field events, Hartzog said he saw marked improvement which will also help at the MVC championships. Performances like Stephen Wray's second-place finish in the high jump at 7-1, John Sayre's 16-6 in the pole vault and John Smith's 55-11½ effort in the shotput that was good enough for fourth place showed Hartzog his team is ascending toward the MVC championships.

"If we had gotten hyped up we could have done better. We didn't do any of that," Hartzog said. "We were all looking toward next week."

Tankers enjoy super Saturday

Saluki breaststroker Anders Norling nears completion of the second leg of the 400-yard medley relay Saturday at the Student Recreation Building pool. SIU-C won the race and went on to take a 58-55 dual meet victory over Iowa.

Women break 13 records, win state title

By Michelle Schweet

A song by the rock group America warns, "Don't cross the river if you can't swim the tide."

The SIU-C women's swimming team conquered the tide and harnessed the river as it won its first Illinois AIAW state swimming crown Saturday despite a strong challenge from Northwestern.

The Salukis won in style as the crowd in the Recreation Building Pool chanted "SIU, SIU," urging on the 400-yard freestyle relay team. When SIU-C touched the wall in first place (3:36.49) the Salukis brought out their new maroon and white T-shirts with the following message, "One Hill of a Team first state champs." The last relay was the only relay the Salukis won in the meet, but they knew had to win it in grand fashion.

"The girls hadn't won a relay all weekend, so I told them that if there was one race we had to win it was this one," Coach Tim Hill said.

SIU-C won the Division I-II division with 901 points. Northwestern was second with 840 points, followed by Western Illinois (639), Eastern Illinois (530), Northern Illinois (525), Illinois (378) and University of Illinois-Chicago (200).

In all, 23 Division I-II state records were set, 13 of them by SIU-C. Freshman Barb Larsen set five of the records while another freshman, Pam Ratcliffe set four. The red-haired Larsen was named the meet's Most Valuable Participant.

Larsen set her first state record Friday night as she won the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 4:57.64, eclipsing the 5:05.25 mark set by Northwestern's Kim Lindstrom last year. Ironically, Lindstrom came in second and bested her own record as she finished with a time of 5:03.47. Saluki freshman Debbie Riker finished third (5:08.63).

Ratcliffe set her first state record and pool record Friday as she won the 50-yard

Men's team gains revenge against Iowa

By Mike Anthony

The score was the same as last year, 58-55, but the roles were reversed.

This time, SIU-C men's swimming and diving team was the winner over Iowa. The Salukis beat the Hawkeyes Saturday at the Student Recreation Building pool, and gained a 2-1 edge in the Saluki-Hawkeye series.

"The nicest thing about the win was coming back and beating them after having lost the same type of meet by the same score last year," Saluki Coach Bob Steele said.

Steele added that last year's defeat was painful because SIU-C took Iowa to the last event, the 400-yard freestyle relay, but lacked the firepower to finish the Hawkeyes off.

This year the story was different because the Salukis had "some really good firepower," Steele said.

"I knew by the 200-yard backstroke that we had it won," Steele said, "because all we needed then was a third in the 500-yard freestyle, a second in the 3-meter diving and a first and second in the 200-yard breaststroke."

The last event, 400-yard freestyle relay, was a bonus for the Salukis because they had already clinched the victory. Their all-freshman relay team of Tony Byrne, Carlos Henao, John Fischer and Keith Armstrong set a new freshman record with a time of 3:04.84, but lost the relay to Iowa by .002 of a second.

It was Senior Day, and the Salukis put in a strong team performance as they recorded 15 lifetime-best swims and seven season-best unrec'd swims.

"The three seniors went out in great style," Steele said.

Senior Pat Looby, SIU-C co-captain, captured first place in both the 50- and 100-yard freestyles with times of 20.99 and 46.20, respectively.

"Looby had his best unrec'd times in the 50 and 100 free," Steele said, "he's a real racer, and you can't replace racers."

Saluki Dave Parker, a senior from Coventry, England, finished third in the 1,000-yard freestyle with a time of 9:42.45, and placed fourth in the 500-yard freestyle at 4:41.46.

In the diving competition, SIU-C senior Rick Theobald edged out Iowa's Randy Ableman, who was on the 1990 U.S. Olympic team, and won the one-meter diving with a score of 318.22. Theobald also finished second in the three-meter diving with a 337.42 score.

George Greenleaf of SIU-C placed third in both the one- and three-meter events with scores of 284.37 and 282.37, respectively.

Said Steele: "Greenleaf was super, and we needed that so bad. He got us our 57th and 58th points. He sure did it today."

A number of other people came through for the Salukis and contributed to the win, Steele said.

Roger VonJouanne turned in another consistent effort, capturing first place in both the 200 individual medley and the 200 butterfly with times of 1:52.64 and 1:50.52, respectively.

Conrado Porta won the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 1:53.02, and placed second in the 300-yard freestyle at 1:41.55.

"Porta had one of his best meets ever," Steele said. "He had a lifetime best in the medley relay and a season-best 200 back."

In the 200-yard breaststroke, SIU-C's Pablo Restrepo finished first with a 2:06.10 time. He also placed second in the 200-yard individual medley at 1:54.17.

Steele said Larry Wooley of SIU-C's unsung hero. Wooley had lifetime-best times in the 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard breaststroke.

"He's the only swimmer I know who gets faster every time he swims," Steele added.

Steele said that the victory was encouraging for the Salukis' conference meet, the National Independent Championships, which will be held at Columbia, S.C., which will be held March 6-8.

Trackmen second at Michigan

By Greg Walsh
Staff Writer

Impressive performances, including two first-place finishes by David Lee, earned the Saluki men's track team second place at the Central Collegiate Championship meet held Friday and Saturday at Ann Arbor, Mich.

Big Ten power Michigan won the meet with 128 1/2 points, followed by SIU-C with 94, Michigan State 75 5-6th, Western Michigan 58, Illinois State 53 and Eastern Michigan 44 1/2. About 15 other teams competed in the meet.

Lee, SIU-C's all-around trackman, showed why he is the Salukis' catalyst and top point scorer. He won the 60-yard high hurdles with a 7.39, but after he had taken second in the preliminary and semifinal heats to two different runners.

In the 300-yard dash, Lee won with a clocking of 30.69, beating defending champion and Wolverine star running back Butch Woolfolk by .34 seconds.

Lee followed up the 300 by anchoring the mile relay with a 47.5 quarter mile. However, the mile relay team's time of 3:15.13 was only good enough for second place. Illinois State was first at 3:13.47.

Lee's teammates--sophomore Tom Ross and senior Tom Fitzpatrick--had performances that were also encouraging to the Saluki Coach Lew Hartzog.

Hartzog said Ross' second-place finish in the mile run with a time of 4:06.07 was impressive because it is the first mile run Ross has competed in this indoor season.

"Tom Ross just had a great meet. He came so close to qualifying for the NCAA championships (4:05.5)," Hartzog said. "He gives us another dimension."

As for Fitzpatrick's fourth-place finish in the three-mile run with a 13:51.55, Hartzog said, "I was extremely pleased with him. He ran one heck of a race."

Hartzog admitted he will be counting on the two Saluki distance runners to perform well in next weekend's Missouri Valley Conference championships.

"If they can do the same things they did this week, they will place well," Hartzog said.

Fellow distance runner Karsten Schulz, did not fare as well as his teammates. After strong performances during the preliminaries on Friday, in which he missed the NCAA indoor qualifying time of 2:11 by .5 seconds in the 1,000-meter run, Schulz returned on Saturday to run a poor 4:08.08 in the mile and did not place in the top seven of the 1,000-meter run.

"I expect him to come back

Slow start dooms cage team in loss at New Mexico State

By Scott Stahmer
Sports Editor

The Saluki men's basketball team couldn't overcome a slow start Saturday night at New Mexico State and lost to the Aggies, 72-60, in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

SIU-C, which lost its 16th consecutive game, dropped to 0-15 in MVC play and 7-18 overall. The Salukis must defeat Drake Saturday night at home to avoid becoming the first Valley team to go winless in conference play since Memphis State in 1968-69.

After Charles Nance scored the game's first basket, the Aggies scored 14 consecutive points to lead, 14-2, with about 10 minutes to play in the first half. The Salukis played NMSU evenly the remainder of the way.

SIU-C crept to within 30-32 at halftime after three consecutive baskets by Johnny Payne. After the Aggies opened up a 50-37 second-half lead, a long jumper by Payne, two free throws by Rod Camp and Scott Russ' three-point play left the Salukis trailing by just six, 50-44, with 5:56 to go.

But buckets by Renault Moultrie and Paul Atkins extended NMSU's margin to 54-44, and, after the Salukis chopped the lead to 58-50, the Aggies outscored SIU-C 14-10. Atkins' two free throws gave NMSU its biggest lead of the night, 69-54.

Atkins and Jaime Pena led New Mexico State's scoring with 18 and 16 respectively. Payne was SIU-C's top scorer with 17, followed by Russ and Camp with 10 apiece. Camp, however, hit just two of 14 field-goal attempts.
