'Rashomon' Opens At Playhouse Tonight

★ ★ Communications Building Bids Opened Aug. 22

Bids will be opened Aug. 22 for construction of Phase one of the new Communications Building, Willard Hart, associate university architect, said.

The proposals will be received until 2:30 p.m. and opened in Morris Library Auditorium.

The new building will be west of the Life Science building and occupy part of the old baseball field and the Chautauqua Housing Area.

C. Horton Talley, dean of the School of Communications, said this phase of construction will include space for the departments of speech, speech correction, theater, and for radio-television. It also will include a working theater and radio-television studios.

The second phase, he said, will be a "wrap-around" wing which will contain the Department of Journalism, the Department of Printing and Photography, the Film Production Services and possibly the offices of The Daily Egyptian newspaper.

Third phase will be a 5,000-seat auditorium.

The structure will be built with funds from the State Universities Building Bond Fund of 1961.

Separate bids on Phase 1 work will be received for general construction, plumbing, heating-piping-refrigeration, ventilating, thermal insulation, temperature control, and electrical work.

Summer Symphony Will Give Final Concert Friday

Southern's Summer Symphonic Band will present the last of a series of concerts at 7 p.m. Friday on the University Center Patio.

Under the direction of Donald Canedy, the band will play music from the show "Wildcat", Anderson's "Penny-whistle Song", Enesco's "Rumanian Rhapsody" and various other selections.

The band will play its last engagement at the commencement exercises on August 8.

Posture Queen To Enroll Here

Among the many new freshmen who will enroll at SIU this fall is a Peoria life-guard with a lot of spine--a lot of straight spine that is.

This life-guard, who happens to be a shapely young woman, has been named "1963 Illinois Queen of Posture."

COVER UP - The SIU Arena, shown in this aerial photo by Hal L. Stoelzle, is getting a 400-ton top hat this week. Workmen expect to complete the roofing job on the dome, which is 300 feet in diameter, sometime this week. The circular area south of the arena (at top of picture) will be a parking lot. Completion of the building is expected by the Spring of 1964.

2 To 5 Percent Higher:

Higher Salaries Await Graduates This Year, Placement Service Says

Graduates of Southern this year can expect to receive a higher annual salary than last year's graduates, according to the director of SIU's Placement Service.

"Salaries are from two to five percent higher now than last year for current graduates", Roye R. Bryant,

She is Carol McCrorey, who won the state title at the Posture Pageant sponsored by Illinois chiropractors.

A 1963 graduate of Woodruff High School, she will represent the state at the World Queen of Posture Pageant July 25-28 at St. Louis, Placement Service director, said.

"This year's graduates are going to enjoy very good opportunities as far as jobs are concerned. Companies are getting more and more used to those graduates who have a 1-A classification."

Bryant commented that grades are considered more important today than in the past for most vocations. Those interested in sales or public relations work should have some outside activities on their record to supplement their grades.

"It is not uncommon for graduates to enter vocations for which they did not have major interests in college, especially those who had poor grades."

The placement service, located in Anthony Hall, is usually fairly inactive during the summer due to the lack of candidates on campus.

Bryant urges those in their senior year to register with the service and to keep in contact from time to time.

Greatest demands from business and industry are for graduates in the fields of accounting, engineering and chemistry, according to Bryant.

He said the final placement report and a breakdown of most frequent requests for graduates in various fields cannot be completed until this fall, after the summer graduates are placed. However, he estimated that the greatest demands are in education.

Final Play Of Season

A serious drama combined with unusual staging technique are employed in "Rashomon," the final production of the SIU summer stock company.

The Japanese drama, adapted for the stage by Fay and Michael Kanin, will open a five-day run at 8 p.m. today in the Southern Playhouse.

The Kanins adopted the play from a movie by the same name and from a short story by Ryunosuke Akutagawa, a Japanese author.

Unusual in its staging techniques, Darwin Payne has designed three settings which are used on the stage at the same time. By using fading lighting techniques, the scenes appear and disappear like those of a movie.

"Rashomon" is directed by Archibald McLeod, chairman of the theater department. McLeod will be directing his first presentation for SIU in over a year. Technical direction will be by Charles Zoekler.

The cast of "Rashomon" is Richard Spiegel, husband; Michael Welsh, bandit; Susan Schulman, wife; Frank Alesia, priest; Lowell Scribner, woodcutter; Charles Fischer, wig maker; Gary Moore, deputy; Carol Plonkey, mother; and Eileen Konenik, medium.

Tickets for the play are available at the ticket office at the playhouse on weekdays from 10-11 and 3-4. Tickets are also available at 7 p.m. on play nights.

When the Summer Stock season ends on Sunday, members of the company will join the cast and crew of the Summer Opera Workshop for the production of "The Music Man."

Another story dealing with the Summer Stock Company's work appears today on Page 4 and 5 of the Daily Egyptian.

Sprechen Sie Deutsch?

40 High School Teachers Find Workshop Is All Deutsch To Them

Sprechen Sie Deutsch? No? Then you too might have wondered what has been going on at Thompson Point in recent weeks--some 40 high school teachers speaking a foreign language, with not a single word of English to be heard.

Well, they are attending the German Language Institute and they have come from throughout the United States for this clinic established especially for them.

"These teachers have come here for the specific purpose of improving their ability to teach the German language in secondary schools," said Joe Fugate, assistant director of the Institute.

"They are given the best instruction possible from the cream of German language instructors from all over the United States.

Each day is started with a special cultural lecture given by a guest lecturer. The rest of the day's activities are then centered on the lecture and all discussion is carried out in German. In the evenings there are activities in which the teachers are required to speak only German.

"The teachers are required to speak nothing but German at all times," Fugate said, "and they have done extremely well. There is hardly an English word spoken at any time during the day."

The lecturers are among the most prominent men in their fields. Students will hear such experts as Victor Lange, chairman of the German Department at Princeton; Prof. Nelson Brooks, nationally known educator from Yale, and Eugene C. Betz, recently appointed Consul General in Chicago for the Federal Republic of Germany.

And there are two members of the teaching staff who teach in Europe, Otto Suhling of Bremen, Germany, and Hans W. Grueninger, teacher of French and German at Porrentruy, Switzerland. Their idea is that you cannot fully understand people of another nation unless you speak their language, know something of their history and have some knowledge of their cultural background.

They say they believe the United States in recent years has become more aware of the need for teaching foreign languages.

"The fact such institutes as this have been organized shows that progress in the teaching of foreign languages has been made in the U.S.," Suhling said.

He continued, "Living where the people of almost the whole continent speak English, it often is difficult for them to see the need of studying another language."

In Europe, he said, where one can travel only a few hundred miles in any direction without crossing into another country, this attitude is not a problem. Foreign languages have become a traditional part of the European education. It is easy for the European to condemn American apathy toward language teaching, Suhling, said, unless he knows your history, geography and cultural background.

Grueninger said Swiss students who speak German as a native language must study French, and those who speak French must study German. Those who speak Italian must study either German or French. Foreign language instruction in Switzerland begins at about the seventh grade, sometimes earlier.

Both Suhling and Grueninger were chosen by the Institute director, Helmut Liedloff, assistant professor in the SIU foreign language department, to bring more native culture of the German-speaking people to those enrolled.

Grueninger received a master's degree from SIU in 1955 and the Ph.D. from the Sorbonne, Paris. Suhling holds a master's degree from the University of Kansas and a Ph.D. degree from Malburg University, Bremen.

Speaking of the instructors, the assistant director said they "are practicing constantly with each other. They do not have their families with them so they can devote their fullest concentration to bettering their knowledge and ability of German."

When the 40 teachers return to their homes at the end of the seven-week period they will have been instructed by the best in the field. Other members of the staff are Howard French, an SIU faculty member in foreign language; Adolph Weinberger of Syracuse University; Warren Born, teacher from Des Plaines, Ill., and Henry J. Green, associate professor of German at Syracuse University.

This is the third consecutive year SIU has been chosen for the Institute, which is sponsored by the National Defense Education Act. Various universities submit plans for the Institute and the one with the most suitable plan is awarded the Institute that year.

Driver Education Workshop Underway

A four-weeks workshop in advanced driver education is in its second week on campus.

James Aaron, co-ordinator of the SIU Safety Center, said the training is primarily for teachers of driver education, with a few graduate students in safety education taking the course.

The workshop, sponsored by the Safety Center and the SIU College of Education, has an enrollment of 23.

Foreign Students Learn English The Right Way

The quickest and most effective way for a foreign student to learn oral English is to live with American students, Daniel Cook, associate professor of English, believes.

But most foreign students prefer to stay with their own people while they are here, Cook pointed out. So SIU has designed a course that will give them what they would have gotten had they picked an American roommate.

Cook, who is directing the first intensive course in English for international students this summer, said "the course is designed to improve understanding, teaching, reading and writing skills in English."

"We put emphasis on oral English because foreign students in general already learned written English in their own countries," he explained.

"Each day begins with an hour and a half of classroom work, then an hour of laboratory work, and closes with another hour and a half in the classroom. In the laboratory we go through two tapes each day."

With the tapes the students first hear an English sentence and then repeat the words, attempting to copy the

Ag School Has New Publication

A new agricultural publication has been issued by the Agricultural Industries Department of the SIU School of Agriculture.

Entitled "Some Aspects of Cooling, Handling and Packaging Firm Ripe Peaches in Southern Illinois", it is listed as a departmental publication. It's author, K.A. Thomson is an SIU lecturer in Agricultural Industries for the past two and now an agricultural engineer in research development for the Indiana Farm Bureau Association.

It reports on a preliminary study conducted by Thomson last year.

pronunciation. Later they progress to answering questions. In every case the tape can be played back so the students can hear their own mistakes.

An expert in linguistics, Cook taught in 1961-62 at the University of Damascus in Syria and will go the University of Beirut in Lebanon in September.

"The Arabians have difficulty pronouncing all English vowels," Cook said.

"Foreign peoples usually have difficulty with English sounds which they don't have in their own languages. So we must first show them the difference and similarity between English and their own languages."

Exclusive Interview:

SP Agent Tells His Top Trade Secrets

His "cover" name is Stan. He is an operative of the Security Office—the SO. He looks like many other students at SIU; this enables him to blend into the student body, to operate as a "sleeper", to serve silently.

This is the story of Stan the SO agent. Cloak over his face and dagger at the ready, he agreed to the following exclusive:

Q: How did you become an SO agent?

A: I applied.
Q: Was this your first experience in this type of work?
A: No. I was an MP in ROTC in high school.

Q: What is your major investigative field?

A: Tracking down ex-owners of empty beer cans.

Q: Is it true that Lake-on-the-Campus is being infiltrated?

A: We are on constant alert against these attempts. They do exist, however, especially between May and September. It's a seasonal problem.

Q: Tell us about some of your special equipment.

A: I carry a hollowed-out dictionary. Inside is a miniaturized camera, tape recorder, and fingernail file.

Q: Does the appearance of this dictionary ever expose you to possible recognition?

A: The instructors are highly suspicious. I generally hide it with a Playboy.

Q: What was your biggest case to date?

A: I call it the "Parking Lot Caper." It involved a switch of a parking sticker to a '29 Model A. We uncovered a high school junior attempting to pass himself off as a graduate student in order to buy hot dogs at the University Center. We really nailed him.

Q: How many underground operatives, like yourself, does the SO have?

A: I can't disclose this intelligence.

Q: Does the SO furnish your cloak?

A: No. We buy our own, so they won't be conspicuously uniform. Mine is red, white and blue because I'm patriotic.

Q: Why did you pick the cover name of Stan?

A: My parents liked it.

Q: When you finish your current tour of duty with the SO, are you going on to the CIA, OSL, FBI, G2, or similar work?

A: I have applied. I understand they are investigating both me and the SO. I found a "bug" in my room the other night. I sprayed it.

Q: What is your largest personal problem in serving underground?

A: Everybody thinks I'm an English major, and my English ain't very good. My roommate thinks I should take up other work; I can't take a chance on telling him what I really am.

Q: Does the SO expect any major problems at summer commencement?

A: In the past, pickpockets have been active, working among the graduate group. We have a suspect under surveillance; we call him "the cap and gown dip." I can't tell you any more about him. He stole our dossier on him.

Q: Is it true that The Club is a meeting place for persons you have under watch?

A: We're in there a good share of the time. We work hard; we're like the Mounties in this respect. We get our man, too.

Q: If you had to do it over again, would you be an SO agent?

A: I would rather be in the uniform division. I look good in blue.

Q: One final Q. Do all the undercover SO operatives drive Jaguars, like yours?

A: No. We mix them up with Thunderbirds, Corvettes, Chrysler XLS, Porsches, and Ferraris. We can't be conspicuous, you know.

Price Of Theater Ticket Goes A Long Way

Box Office Receipts Help Pay Tuition Of 12 Theater Majors Who Form SIU's Summer Stock Company

Chances are the average theater goer on the SIU campus doesn't realize just how far his $1.25 goes after he deposits it at the Southern Players ticket window.

But there are 12 theater majors from six different states on campus this summer who can tell you what happens to part of that money.

These 12, who represent a dozen different colleges, know about those box office receipts, because they have helped to pay their "admission" to summer school.

Each summer a number of students are carefully chosen to be a part of the Southern Players Summer Company, under tuition scholarships paid from box office receipts.

And to prove that the influence of those box office dollars goes even further, Sherwin Abrams of the Theater Department, contends that they also contribute their "two cents" to the ever-increasing enrollment at Southern.

"We often find students from this summer program will transfer to Southern for either undergraduate or graduate work," Abrams says.

Just such a student is Frank Alesia, a junior who has transferred to Southern from Lincoln College in Lincoln Ill. Frank has appeared at the Chicago and Drama Festival, as well as in numerous productions at Lincoln College, including "Diary of Anne Frank", "Hello Out There", and "The Miracle Worker".

Another transfer student is William Lindstrom, from Northeastern State College in Oklahoma. Bill has been on campus since last fall, and is doing graduate work.

Between acting, play writing, and directing the one-act play, "The Verdict", Bill also found time to be one of the student night managers at the University Center this year.

Next fall he will be the company manager for the Southern Players annual touring theater.

Summer company work is nothing new for Barbara Eberhardt, of Denison University in Ohio. Barbara has spent a summer with the company at Northwestern University and then last season was with the Lake Champlain Shakespearean Festival group sponsored by the University of Vermont. Barbara is a junior.

Charles Fischer, whose home is in Kansas, but attends Northwestern State College in Oklahoma during the regular school year, is a versatile addition to any company. Charles has a background not only in theater, but also in music and art. He has written some plays, and has had some directing experience as well.

Eileen Koencnik started singing and dancing lessons when she was five years old.

With this early start on her career, she added to her experience by doing considerable work in musicals at Carthage College, in Illinois. A graduate from that institution, Eileen is also a drama major.

Primarily an actor, and one with great potential, Abrams is quick to comment, is Gary Moore, from San Francisco State College in California. Gary has been cast in lead parts in both O'Neill's "Great God Brown" and Ibsen's "Rosmersholm".

It took two tries and then some wedding bells before Carol Plonkey became a member of the summer company. She applied both in 1959 and 1960, and was turned down. Undaunted, she went to Ohio, where she met and married Ken Plonkey, who had been with the Southern group before and has come back now to do graduate work.

In addition to acting this summer, Carol, along with Barbara Eberhardt, is in charge of costuming. Carol is a graduate of Southern.

A Brooklynite, a dancer, and a graduate of the New York City High School of the Performing Arts are distinctions that belong to Susan Schulman, who comes to Southern from Hofstra College in New York. Susan has toured with the touring company at Hofstra and has also performed at Rhode Island. A major in dramatic literature, she will be senior in the fall.

Lowell Scribner, familiar to layers audiences as the Great God, William Brown, graduated this spring from Phillips University in Enid, Oklahoma. Lowell also gained some directing experience under a special program there or outstanding students.

Another spring graduate, and an actor with special technical skills as well is Richard Spiegel, graduated from Rutgers University in New Jersey. Richard was student technical director during his senior year, and also served as electrician for the children's summer theatre.

Before MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Illinois became a co-educational about five years ago, the MacMurray dramatics department was in the habit of barrowing male actors from Illinois College, in the same city.

One of the frequent "loans" was James Symons, an Illinois college grad. Jim served in the Navy following college, and is now returning to the campus scene, this time at Southern, to do graduate work. In addition to working with the summer company, Jim has an appointment as Technical Assistant for next fall.

Creative writing is the special forte of Michael Welsh, another New Jerseyan, and a graduate of Trenton State College. Michael has taught at the college and also in a high school near Trenton.

Every day is a full day for this tireless troupe. In fact, the whole week is filled with rehearsals, technical work, performances, and then more rehearsals. Sunday morning is the only portion of the entire week that is truly free.

The daily routine begins at 8:30 a.m. with a two hour rehearsal of the current play. At 10:30 rehearsing starts on the play for the following week.

Following a Lunch break at 12:30, the company re-assembles around 1:45 to work on lighting, sets, staging, costumes, and other technical duties until 5:00.

At 7:15 there is another rehearsal, sometimes of both plays, sometime concentrated on only one. And then at 8:00 p.m. it's curtain time!

The group presents five performances a week. They are committed six mornings, six to seven afternoons, and seven evenings a week, which leaves very little time for boredom! When the summer bill of five plays is completed there is still no respite, as the company will then do the technical work for the music department's production of "The Music Man."

It takes talent, versatility, and ambition to be a part of the Southern Players Summer Company. Each year the playbill is picked and announced and application invitations are issued at some 600 colleges and universities throughout the country. Anyone may apply.

Applicants are chosen on a basis of recommendations, and were this year required to send tapes and if possible appear for a personal audition as well. The final choice includes just enough to complete the casts for the plays and still give all as much experience as possible.

"We choose a minimum of players for a maximum of experience," Abrams said.

Inarticulate Summer Students

We have received criticism recently for not publishing letters to the editor.

We find the criticism unjust and unwarranted. Since summer school began we have received a total of 10 letters to the editor.

Most of these have been used.

We encourage students to write letters to the editor, but most of the letters sent to us are inarticulate and short of the point.

If students will write what they feel in short, concise English we will be most happy to print their letters. But before we can print letters to the editor we must have them on hand and to date we have not received that many.

All letters must be signed.

Surely, there are enough students on campus who have constructive ideas to express. Are they afraid to let themselves be heard? It is about time these students realize that they are living in a society where freedom of speech is granted by the First Amendment to the American Constitution. Why don't these students utilize the right?

Tom McNamara

It Takes Two To Dance:

You Write Them, We'll Run Them

I have made it a habit of reading the DAILY EGYPTIAN

along with the daily, nationwide newspapers and there are two very important criticisms I want to make of your newspaper.

First of all, I would like to see a "Letters to the Editor" column reinstated in your paper. I think that this is very important for the purpose of encouraging and stimulating discussion upon the very controversial subjects that are discussed in the DAILY EGYPTIAN. This was certainly true in the past and would continue to be so in the future. This matter of controversial subjects brings me to my second criticism of the DAILY EGYPTIAN. You have a column written by Republican Senator Barry Goldwater who is well known for his very rightist, conservative stands on issues of utmost importance to people everywhere. Now by and large I do not respect him for his name calling, stereotypic, paranoid, hate mongering, thinking. It is good to expose this sort of thinking in all of its ignorance, etc., but I believe there must be represented the other sides of the issues that he discusses.

If you are going to look towards our politicians and leaders for viewpoints then you must also have others represented in your paper for example, other Republican points of view, Democrats, and Socialists. Above all you must give the Southern Illinois University students and faculty members a chance to express their ideas in a "Letters to the Editor" column.

As you can see, both of my criticisms are really one and the same in that they point towards a need for freedom of open discourse from many diversified sources. Only in this way can we come closer to a deeper understanding of our world.

Thank you for your attention in this matter and I hope it will cause you to think about the things I have said and activate you to utilize the divergent sources available for opinions of national and international questions. This will make the DAILY EGYPTIAN a more sophisticated, sincerely intellectual, and lively, probing newspaper.

Mrs. June Rieber

Letter To The Editor:

Egyptian Review Of 'Rosmersholm' Missed Point According To This Letter Writer

I am shocked to read in the EGYPTIAN the review of "Rosmersholm", where in Barbara Eberhardt is criticized for not playing the part of a "conniving opportunist." Of course Rebecca West connived and was an opportunist in one period of her life, as we all are at times. But to reduce her character to that is to misunderstand the whole point of Ibsen's drama and if Miss Eberhardt had enacted that role, the play would have been ruined. Rebecca West was a woman of great power and determination but most of all she was capable of passion and devotion to the point that she was ready to kill herself to enable the man she loved to live out his own conviction. Furthermore, whatever Rebecca West may have been at an earlier time in her life, at the time represented by the acting of Barbara Eberhardt she was the extreme opposite of a conniving opportunist. Instead she was struggling with courage and power and depth of devoted love with a fatal sequence of events. To call that the conniving of an opportunist is to misunderstand the significance of the entire play.

Lovejoy Library:

A Good Name

Southern Illinois University is to be congratulated for the name chosen for the new library on the Edwardsville campus: the Elijah Parish Lovejoy Memorial Library.

Lovejoy was the Madison County resident who was a combination Presbyterian minister and newspaper editor, who was killed in 1837 by a mob for saying that he opposed slavery.

He became our country's first martyr to freedom of the press.

It is appropriate that our area should honor him in some special way. Southern Illinois University has made a wise choice.

Student Seminar Advances Red Objectives In Latin America

By Dr. A.W. Bork

Fortaleza, Ceara, Brazil

A "Student Seminar of the Underdeveloped World" is just beginning with the financial support of the Ministries of Public Instruction and Foreign Relations, and of the government of the State of Bahia. Most of the participants are Brazilians and other South Americans. Cubans, however, have not been able to secure Brazilian visas, but their influence is definitely present; Czechoslovakian and Red Chinese delegates, as well as some students from the United States are included. The hotels of Salvador are crowded. By chance your reporter happened to travel from Salvador to Recife with a student who had participated in the organization meetings of the Seminar. He is studying economics in the University of Minas Gerais in Belo Horizonte, but is a native of Natal, Rio Grande do Norte. His comments on the Cuban revolution and on the intentions of the group to which he belongs leave no doubt as to the efficacy of Soviet efforts in Latin America nor as to the care with which everything is organized and carried out in singleness of purpose—"the destruction of capitalist imperialism." Just as Fidel Castro and some of the others in his group, the student had no definite plans as to how they are out to destroy capitalism and to "liberate the people," but how social reforms would be realized he did not know. This aspect of things, in other words, is to be left in the hands of other cadres of "specialists" as in Cuba. Choice of Bahia as site for the Seminar is significant in that large oil installations exist there and the problem of the control of oil resources is apparently the chief present concern of Soviet planners in Latin America.

'Liberal' Policy Often Vacuum

Vacillation in our national leadership, such as we see today along the broad reaches of the New Frontier, is inevitable when there is no firm belief in basic principles and no clear understanding of the nature of our enemy.

If you ask the liberal Democrats what they stand for, they will list a multitude of programs.

But programs are no substitute for principles. A lot of talk about a school lunch program, for example, will not serve to detract us from the basic fact that an atheistic society is confronting us and has an unalterable, irrevocable determination to destroy us.

Vacuum of Principle

I firmly believe it is this vacuum of principle which young and idealistic people sense in today's liberals. It is, in part, the fundamental moral and intellectual bankruptcy of modern-day liberalism that is causing young people to turn increasingly to the conservative cause.

All of us know there are defects in our society which we could all wish were not there—defects we wish could be corrected. Young people especially are sensitive to the fact that even in our own country, wealthy beyond any known society in history, pockets of poverty remain. And we all know of other imperfections in our country. These liberal reformers long ago set about correcting all of the evils that man is heir to. It meant a tremendous program of social engineering. In fact, it meant a whole series of programs. It meant programs within programs.

For more than 30 years, there has been a tremendous bustle across the nation as the modern liberal politicians have gone about their multitude of programs, most of which had to do with taking from one group and giving to another. It was all very forward-looking. More than anything else, it looked forward to getting more votes for liberal politicians.

But We Survived

A vast number of programs—a few large ones, many small ones—have been carried thru to completion. A few of these programs actually have led to some noticeable improvement in social conditions. About all we can say for some others—like the farm program—is that we have been able to survive them. It really is a great tribute to the underlying productivity of this country that we have not been bankrupt by some of these hare-brained schemes.

Can you imagine what level—what economic peak—we should have reached by now if we had not been carrying the tremendous and steadily-increasing burdens of the last 30 years?

Can you imagine the rocketing effect on the economy, the vast increase in employment, if some of the tax brakes had been taken off and the basic productive forces really let loose?

Dupree Eyes Berth In 1964 Tokyo Olympics

Half-Miler Scores In Russian NCAA Meet

Jim Dupree's victory Saturday in Russia climaxed a track career which didn't start until after his discharge from the U.S. Army four years ago.

Dupree won the 800 meters event Saturday in the U.S. track victory over Russia. He outran Valeri Buishev who had beaten him a year ago.

"I started running while I was in the Army," the 23-year old trackman said in a recent interview. "Prior to that I was interested in baseball and still am."

"But I started running for my base and I liked it so I kept it up," Dupree added.

Following Army service he went to the University of New Mexico for one year and then transferred to SIU in the fall of 1960.

He had to sit out a year to gain his year of residency at SIU which is required by NCAA rules to regain eligibility after transferring schools.

During the year, however, he competed in AAU meets and U.S. track coaches knew he was potentially a great trackman in the half-mile.

He competed for the first time for the Salukis in cross-country in 1961 with two English stars Brian Turner and Bill Cornell. They have formed the nucleus of SIU's track squad since then until Dupree was sidelined by injury last April.

Dupree perhaps is the best half-miler in the United States and without question the best to perform at SIU.

He already has competed in two international trips sponsored by the AAU. Last summer he toured Europe and competed in Palo Alto, Calif. against Russia.

Then this year he earned the right to represent the U.S. gain. But this time he came through with the victory which had eluded him in previous international meets.

The victory Saturday was the biggest in Dupree's career. He previously ranked the NCAA championship in the half-mile in 1962 as his greatest thrill.

Dupree met Lew Hartzog, SIU's track coach, at a track meet on the West Coast prior to Hartzog's move to Carbondale. He brought Dupree with him and several other stars who have since dropped by the wayside.

Dupree hails from Pompano Beach, Fla. but currently is running for the Los Angeles Striders, a West Coast amateur outfit.

Last year Dupree was chosen the Most Valuable Athlete by all Saluki letter winners. This year's winner is not known at this time.

Hartzog expects Dupree to represent the U.S. in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

After competing in the international meets last summer the U.S. track coach called Dupree the best half-miler in the U.S. and perhaps in the country.

Peter Snell, who now holds the world's fastest times for the mile and 800-meters, is the only person ever to beat the former SIU athlete badly.

Jerry Siebert, who since has retired, beat Dupree several times but Dupree also beat Siebert.

Dupree is looking forward to the 1964 Olympics with enthusiasm and probably hopes to win the 800 meters for the U.S. in the meet.

Between then and now, however, he will continue running for the Los Angeles (Calif.) Striders to stay in shape and be ready for the Olympic tryouts.

Jim Beatty, who runs for the Los Angeles Track Club, was quoted in a national sports magazine this month as saying the U.S. does not have a top-notch 800-meters runner.

Jim Dupree is trying to prove Beatty's statement false.

MOST VALUABLE - Jim Dupree holds the Henry Hinkley trophy awarded to him by Jack Fuller (right) as the Most Valuable SIU athlete last year. Dupree won the 800-meters event against Russia Saturday. He was ruled ineligible by an activities committee early last spring which cut short his last year of collegiate eligibility.

Pre-Registration Ends Aug. 23:

Fall Registration Well Ahead Of Last Year's Enrollment

Applications for enrollment from high school graduates and registration of old students for the fall quarter are running well ahead of last year, according to the Registrar's Office.

Wilbur Venerable, acting director of admissions, said credentials from young people seeking admission are arriving at the rate of 15 to 20 per day and now total about 300 more than at this date a year ago.

Marion B. Treece, sectioning center supervisor, said pre-registration of old students is running about 700 ahead of this date last year. SIU's fall term begins Sept. 25.

While another record enrollment seems indicated, both Venerable and Treece were cautious in making any predictions.

"Because of difficulty in gaining admission to today's crowded universities, some high school graduates will start registration procedures at several schools. If accepted by more than one, they will make a choice.

"It is impossible to tell just how many of these 'no shows,' as we call them, will not show up," Venerable said.

Students may pre-register until Aug. 23. If they haven't registered by that date, they may sign up for classes Sept. 22-25 during the last-minute rush. Classes begin Sept. 25.

Southern seeks to spread enrollments more evenly during the academic year by asking high school graduates in the lower one-third of their class to enter the university during the winter, spring or summer terms rather than in September.

Fall enrollment last year was 16,243, making it 28th in the nation in size, according to a University of Cincinnati survey.

Casey To Coach US Swimmers Against Japanese In August

Ralph Casey, SIU swim coach, will leave early in August for Japan where he will coach the United States' men swim team in a series of dual meets with Japanese swimmers.

The U.S. delegation, composed of swimmers who distinguish themselves in the national A.A.U. outdoor championship meet to be held at Oak Park Aug. 9-11, will depart for Tokyo after assembling in California Aug. 11.

"Naturally I consider the appointment quite an honor," Casey said, "as I feel this country has the finest swimmers in the world. I only hope we are able to prove in our competition against the Japanese."

Casey, who for years produced championship teams at the University of North Carolina before switching to SIU, has transformed the Salukis into one of the Midwest's top teams since his arrival here in 1957.

Although competing against such powerhouses as Indiana, Cincinnati, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Iowa State and North Carolina, the Salukis managed to win three of their six meets last season and extended Casey's lifetime coaching record to 104 wins and 28 losses.

Launching his career at Goldsboro (N.C.) High School, Casey moved to the university ranks after compiling a perfect 18-0 prep record in four years of dual meets. His Tar Heel teams lost only seven meets in 14 years, five of which were to North Carolina State.

Weber Captures Bowling Tournament

James Weber, a graduate student in business administration, captured the summer quarter singles bowling tournament at the University Center bowling lanes last weekend.

He rolled a two-game total of 404.

Weber hails from Macomb and beat out Arnold Siudut, a senior in Marketing from Lyons, by a mere eight pins.

For the two-game series he had nine strikes and included one converted split.

He came from behind to beat Siudut with three strikes in a row in each game.

In the women's division, Carol Blair captured the individual tournament crown with a two-game total of 260. Miss Blair, a junior in Retailing from Carbondale, had to overcome a 35-pin deficit to edge out Sally Freeman by 14 pins.

The two champions will receive trophies from the Activities Development center.

Expect Nuclear Test Ban Announcement Soon

"An important communique will be issued soon."

This was the word from W. Averell Harriman Tuesday after emerging from the nuclear test-ban talks in Moscow. The delegation leaders talked for an hour and then emerged smiling.

However, they remained non-committal and scheduled the next meeting for 3 p.m. Wednesday in the ornate Spiridonovka Palace.

Previous reports from inside were that only a few words remained to be agreed upon and the pact may be initiated this week.

In Washington, President Kennedy was reported to be considering sending Secretary of State Dean Rusk and perhaps a Senate group to Moscow for formal signing of a test-ban treaty. Administration sources said they expect Harriman to return to Washington later this week to report to Kennedy.

WASHINGTON

Top railroad management Tuesday approved President Kennedy's formula for heading off a nationwide strike.

But they stood by their plan to apply work rules changes as scheduled unless Congress acts on the Kennedy program before the deadline. The rail unions consider the deadline, 12:01 a.m. Tuesday, as a walk-out signal.

Kennedy has recommended turning the question over to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a binding settlement.

The railroad statement was announced shortly after congressional leaders indicated uncertainty over whether Congress can act in time.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.

A Republican effort to force action on civil rights by the 55th annual Governors' Conference was temporarily sidetracked Tuesday.

Democratic Gov. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington, conference chairman, ruled out of order a motion by Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon to suspend the rules for the introduction of a civil rights resolution.

Rosellini said there was no time at the Tuesday session to act on the motion because of the scheduled arrival of Vice President Lyndon D. Johnson.

Hatfield told his colleagues his purpose was to bring before the conference "the most important issue before the country today" for action on a resolution which would put the governors on record for racial equality in all matters.

Liston Flattens Floyd; Gaseous Cassius Next

LAS VEGAS, Nev.

In about the same length of time as it will take to read this story, Sonny Liston successfully defended his heavyweight boxing title against Floyd Patterson Monday night.

The ring announcer's pre-fight comments had hardly had time to stop echoing off the back walls of the stadium when Patterson found himself unable to get up as the referee recited numerals one through ten.

The kayo by Liston came after 2 minutes, 10 seconds of the opening round, only four seconds longer than it took Liston to win the title from Patterson in September.

Liston knocked Patterson down three times in the round, but two times Patterson was on his feet before the referee had finished the mandatory eight-count.

Patterson was clearly in trouble after the first fistic barrage by Liston, and struggled between knockdowns to ward off the powerful onslaught by the champion.

Liston, who was fined $100 earlier in the day for reporting late for the official examination, weighed in at 215 1/2 pounds. Patterson's official weight for the fight was 194 1/2.

Patterson, the only boxer to lose and then regain (from Ingemar Johansson) the heavyweight boxing crown, was attempting to repeat the feat last night.

Liston has now won 28

ZION, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.

Reps. Raymond J. Welsh of Oak Park and Leo Pfeffer of Seymour, both Democrats, were named yesterday as members of the newly created Illinois Crime Commission.

The appointments were made by Illinois House Speaker John W. Lewis, who previously named Reps. Ed Lehman, East St. Louis, and George Brydia, Prophetstown, to the 12-member commission set up by the legislature to investigate organized crime and other criminal activities.

The commission also will include four senators and four public members, who have not yet been appointed.

Welsh and Pfeffer were named by Lewis on recommendation of House Democratic leaders. Pfeffer voted against the crime commission bill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.

Traffic deaths have passed the 1,000 mark in Illinois, the Illinois Traffic Safety Division reported Tuesday.

Thirty-four fatalities during the week ended Monday brought the total this year to 1,002, compared to 908 at this time a year ago.

The division said a continuation of the current increase would result in at least 2,086 deaths by the end of the year.

WASHINGTON

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted Tuesday to cut another $105 million from the administration's $4.5 billion foreign aid program and to require at least 2 per cent interest on all loans under the program.

The committee also adopted an amendment by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to shut off almost all future military aid grants to prosperous Western European nations and Japan.

Except where the United States has firm commitments made prior to July 1, grants to these countries would be limited to a maximum of $1 million to each for orientation and training expenses.

The weather forecast for Southern Illinois called for partly cloudy Wednesday with occasional showers or thundershowers mostly in the west central and southwest sections. Today's high was forecast in the low 90s.

Chicago CORE Chairman 'Sick Of Sit Ins,' Resigns

CHICAGO - Sam Riley, Chicago chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, has turned in his resignation, saying: "I'm sick of sit-ins and picket lines."

His action and his sentiments were confirmed Tuesday by Jack Harkins, spokesman for CORE.

CORE has conducted sit-ins and demonstrations in or near the offices of the Chicago Board of Education, but a truce has been called pending a meeting Thursday with the board's president.

Riley, 40, leader of the CORE since 1961, served notice Sunday that he intended to quit. But Harkins said it was oral and it has not been accepted.

Riley's resignation came in protest against what he termed the "ultra-militant tactics of the kids" in the organization. The demonstrators conducted a sit-in at the board office for nine days this month and then sat down Monday in the lobby of the building housing the Board of Education.

"I prefer to plan and negotiate," Riley was quoted. "I'm sick of sit-ins and picket lines."

"We are all sick of sit-ins and picket lines, Harkins told a reporter. "The only way you get what's right is direct action."
