Council asks Gulf to lessen bus runs, not stop service

By Andrew Zinner Staff Writer

Gulf Transport Co. would cut back but not eliminate its Carbondale to Carmi and Evansville service if the Carbondale City Council has its way.

way. The council agreed Monday to draw up a resolution asking Guif Transport to reduce the service on that route, for a sixmonth trial period, from seven days a week to three. In addition, the plan calls for a fare hike on the route from 5.8 cents a mile to about 7 cents a mile.

a mile to about 7 cents a mile. "It looks like this is the best we're going to get," Mayor Hans Fischer said in endorsing the plan.

The action is in response to a Gulf Transport petition asking the Illinois Commerce Commission if they can drop the route. That petition cited low ridership -- six passengers per day each way -- and loss of about $50,000 per year as reasons for discontinuing the route.

The route is the only one that travels east from Carbondale. It stops in Herrin, Marion, Harrisburg, Eldorado, Carmi and New Harmony, Indiana. The bus leaves Carbondale every morning for the 139-mile trek to Evansville, and a return bus comes back to the city every afternoon. Fares are $17.20 one way and $2.70 roundtrip. In addition to passengers, the bus also carries parcets, mostly from businesses.

New SIU-C Undergraduate Student Organization President Jerry Cook appeared before the council to outline his Maverick Party objectives for the coming year.

Included among his plans are a new student telephone directory, an emphasis on campus sifety and recycling, and the establishment of sanitary facilities on the Strip for Halloween. Cook said his party would push for a renewed landlord-tenant union and a minority affairs committee to act as a liaison between black, handicapped and international student groups.

He said the Mavericks would also try to establish a new "ambassador program," in which USO members would travel to local high schools to sing the praises of SIU-C.

Expert says deficit to foil recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal deficits could reach $140 billion to $160 billion for each of the next three years, far above the Reagan administration's forecast and too high to permit a "vigorous recovery" from the recession, the head of the Congressional Budget Office said Tuesday.

Alice Rivin suggested that Congress consider following up on the package of tax increases and spending cuts now being debated with another deficitreducing package in 1983. "It will take another look at

"It will take another look at the whole budget, not exempting defense spending, not exempting the entilement programs — including Social Security — not exempting the tax side," she tokt the Senate Budget Committee.

Mrs. Rivlin's testimony comes in sharp contrast to Congress' official forecast for the deficit and even a slightly more pessimistic one than the Reagan administration is expected to unveil later this week.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the administration felt the Congressional Budget Office was "unduly pessimistic about the recovery and also unduly pessimistic about the impact of a successful budget resolution on the recovery."

The budget approved by Congress last month forecasts a deficit of $103.9 billion for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, declining to $60 billion in 1985.

"We think that whatever view is held, either the CBO's or the administration's, it serves to underscore the need to press ahead for successial implementation of the spending reductions required by the budget resolution," Speakes said.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said Sunday that the administration's revised forecast would have a deficit of $110 billion to $114 billion, declining to around $70 billion in 1885.

But Mrs. Rivhin said a variety of factors, including a slowerthan-expected economic recovery, could add $25 billion to $35 billion to the 1983 figure.

As for the economic outlook, Mrs. Rivlin provided the committee with a forecast that calls for slightly less growth and inflation than predicted earlier this year, with prices rising at a rate of about 6.3 percent in 1983. But she also raised her forecast for unenployment to 9.3 percent this year and 8.8 percent in 1983.

Shultz signs El Salvador's 'certification'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan commistration, clearing the way for exotinued U.S. military aid to El that the Salvadoran government is improving its humanrights records and pressing ahead with land reform.

The finding, signed by Secretary of State George P. Shultz, came one day earlier than expected and was attacked as a sham even before it was announced.

Congressional critics charged that Salvadoran security forces were continuing to commit gross violations of human rights and that the new rightistdominated government had sabotaged land reform.

In a letter accompanying the 48-page certification, Shultz said, "We continue to be concerned over the human rights situation and the course of the reform program in El Salvador."

"Nevertheless, there have been tangible signs of progress in each of the areas covered under the certification requirements and we believe... a firm basis has been established for further progress in the months ahead," Sbultz added.

The report cited problems in curbing human rights abuses and implementing land reform, but declared that significant progress had been made in both areas.

It praised Salvadorans for conducting the country's first fair election in more than 50 years, the disciplining of 109 members of the armed forces over the past six months, and issuing land titles to 11,338 peasants this year.

The report also noted a downward trend in the number of Ei Salvador's political killings.

"Although serious problems remain, we conclude that the government of El Salvador is making a concerted and significant effort to comply with internationally recognized human rights," the document said.

A senior State Department official, speaking on condition that he not be identified, said the report contained "both negative and positive information."

The report does not address the issue of torture by Salvadoran security forces, although the official said the United States has "received reports on more than one occasion of torture and (has) taken them up vigorously with the Salvadoran authorities

He said that besides finding improvement in human rights and gains in land reform, the certification said progress had been made in the investigations of the killing of four American churchwomen on Dec. 2, 1980, and two U.S. agrarian reform advisers one month later.

As part of the 1981 foreign aid law, Congress requires twice-ayear findings that progress is being made on human rights and economic reforms in El Salvador.

Without such a certification, U.S. aid to El Salvador totaling $31 million in military assistance and $104 million in economic help this year — must be cut off. The law, however, contains no provision for Congress to overturn the president's decision.

Begin firm in talk with senator: No negotiations with Arafat

Zimbabwe troops hunt for hostages

INSUZA, Zimbabwe (AP) — The Zimbabwe government has broadened a curfew to 20 hours a day and poured more troops into the search for two Americans and four other foreigners held under threat of death by kidnappers, an army colonel said Tuesday.

Tuesday. Tweive armed men kidnapped the six Friday, and the army colonel, who declined to be identified, said that some villagers had been arrested for helping the kidnappers avoid capture.

The colonel said reports from villagers who have seen the kidrappers and their hostages indicate that the foreigners are still healthy.

The abduction occurred 40 miles north of Bulawayo on the main road to Victoria Falls, one of Africa's most popular tourist attractions.

A band loyal to ousted Zimbabwe cabinet minister Joshua Nkomo ambushed a cross-Africa safari tour truck and seized the two Americans, along with two British and two Australian travelers.

Flat tax system unfair, expert says

WASHINGTON (AP) congressional tax analyst said Congressional tax analyst said Tuesday that replacing the graduated income tax with a flat-rate system and no deductions would produce a major windfall for the rich at the expense of middle-income familie

By 1984, said Joseph J. Minarik of the Congressional Budget Office, a typical flat-tax plan at an 18.7 percent rate would raise taxes for a $25,000a-year family by $243 and give the $250,000-a-year family a tax of $27,700. The family cut making $10,000 a year would pay $13 more; the $100,000 family would pay $6,834 less. At a hearing before the Joint Economic subcommittee on monetary and fiscal policy, two economists leading the fight for a flat tax hailed their plan as superior to the current mishmash of special deductions, exemptions and credits with a dozen different rates.

"The benefits of tax reform are not purely economic," said Robert E. Hall and Alvin Rabushka of the Hoover In-stitution in Stanford, Calif.

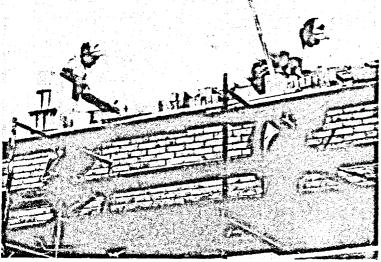

The complexities of the federal tax system foster contempt for government and make petty criminals out of a large fraction of the population," they said. "A simplified tax with low marginal rates would help restore confidence in government and would support the basic honesty of the American people." Discussion of a flat tax has been growing in recent months and President Reagan has expressed an interest, while conceding "it's not as simple as it sounds." The Treasury Department is studying the concept, which Secretary Donald T. Regan has called "maybe the fairest tax of all."

Spring opening planned for library

By Andrew Zinner Staff Writer

All systems are go for Carbondale's new $1.4 million public library, according to the head librarian, and the new facility should be ready to open next March or April. Ray Campbell said con-kay Campbell said construction of the library, located on the old Brush School site on West Main Street, is "right on achedule."

He said the facility will contain 100,000 books. The library operating now, on West Walnut Street, has a capacity of 25,000 books, Campbell said, but has been jammed with 50,000 books.

"Needless to say, we are overcrowded," he said of the building that has been Carbondale's public library since 1957.

The new facility will have about 15,000 square feet of space, Campbell said. He said the library will be in a splitlevel design, with circulation on the main level, a children's section on the lower level and an adult collection on the upper level. According to Campbell, the new library will result in no new jobs, but will be operated by the current staff.

Even with the presence of the giant Morris Library on the SIU-C campus, Campbell said Carbondale needs a public library. "Morris's function is to serve University students, and professors," he said.

Simon pursues rescue of Cairo weather station

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, D-24th District, says the administration's "shotgun" approach to closing weather stations fails to consider community impact of the closings.

The Cairo weather station was to close June 18, but Simon helped restore funds to keep it open until Sept. 30. Simon said that while some stations should be closed, the ada. Jistration hasn't taken into account the services that some stations, such as Cairo. can provide.

Opinion & Gommentary Reagan quietly kills nuclear test ban talks

· Daily Egyptian

LAST WEEK PRESIDENT Reagan in a decision that drew litle attention, decided NOT to resume talks with Britain and the Soviet Union on an agreement to ban all nuclear testing. Every administration since John F. Kennedy has expressed a commitment to negotiating a total nuclear test ban. In 1963 an agreement involving the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union and later 120 other countries banned all nuclear tests above ground, under water and in outer space. The Threshold Test Ban Treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union in 1974 limited underground testing to 150 kilotons. The 1976, Peaceful Nuclear Explosions Treaty extended this ban even to nuclear explosions for peaceful ourooses. peaceful purposes.

FOR ONE AND a half years, unknown to most, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, had been negotiating a comprehensive test han treaty to end all nuclear testing. These talks, suspended in 1980, were dealt the death blow by Reagan last week in a decision kept as quiet as possible for fear of angering anti-nuclear groups.

A comprehensive ban is central to preventing nuclear proliferation. Lesser nations are not likely to give up their own testing programs unless the super-powers show the way. To date the United States Senate has not ratified the 1974 and 1976

To date the United States Senate has not rathift the 15% and 15% treaties. The dangers of nuclear proliferation are too real for apathy. The causes of peace would be served very well if the Senate not only ratified these treaties, but urged negotiation of a new comprehensive nuclear test ban. The United States, just as it took the lead in developing nuclear weapons, should take the lead in saving the world from nuclear dangers.

SALT AND START, no matter how successful, will only be stop gap measures at best. We cannot afford to stop short of anything but total nuclear disarmament and testing.

Reagan's latest decision not to resume the comprehensive test ban talks, makes United States participation in the current 40-nation United Nations negotiations on nuclear disarmament suspect.

ERA party candidate is a good bet this year

SOMETIMES THE MOST efficient way to get what one wants in America is to make the most noise. Very often, the one who yells the loudest is the one who gets what he or she desires.

In this modern age, yelling the loudest has taken on new angles — the development of the political action committee and the special interest lobby. Both are out to accomplish basically the same task — to make the views of a particular group known to the public and in particular, to the legislatures.

THE RECENT FORMATION of Citizens for Equality, devoted to Equal Rights Amendment passage, is another case of a special interest group investing time, effort and money into achieving one aim aum. The committee has formed the Southern Illinois Equal Rights Party for the November elections. They have chosen as their candidate for the 59th District senatorial race Ben Brinkley Sr., retired Illinois Education Association field representative, who will run against incumbent Sen. Gene Johns and Rep. C.L. McCormick, RSoph District R-59th District.

THE COMMITTEE WAS formed to ensure passage of the amendment that both the 59th District legislators oppose. They seem to think that they can get their candidate elected on a one-issue platform, and that the public is so hungry for ERA's passage that voters will jump at the chance to elect an official who has no background in politics and who is running on one issue and one issue alone

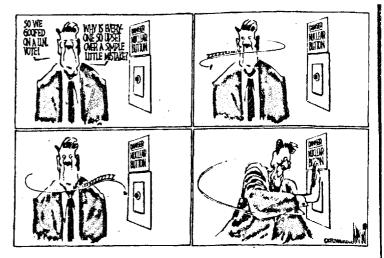

Passage of the ERA is long overdue. The question of its validity is

The real issue is whether or not a candidate can survive an election in a highly-competitive district while in actuality having only one reason for running — to place in the State Senate a legislator who will vote for ERA.

IT IS TRUE that ERA supporters must elect legislators who will vote for ERA and will back it to the fullest. But to put forward cancidates who waffle on other issues for the sake of passing the ERA is political suicide. Voters will recognize the one-issue candidates and will be less likely to vote for them. National political action committees, which very faction from progun lobbies to pro-abortion lobbies seems to have these days, carry a lot of weight in the legislatures. They accomplish their goals through careful use of the media and clever cultivation of friendly legislators and attacks on those who are not friendly.

IF ERA SUPPORTERS want to elect legislators who will get the amendment passed, they should find candidates who not only support ERA, but who are well-versed on other issues - issues that - issues that support EFA, but who are well-versed on other ssues — issues that will help them get elected. In Ben Brinkley, the Equal Rights Party has found such a man. His years of experience as a teachers' advocate in winning collective bargaining agreements and negotiating with balky school boards make him a formidable opponent for Johas and McCormick. He knows Southern Illinois people and Southern Illinois politics. Other Equal Rights Party groups should choose as well.

*Viewpoint-*Israel is now doing unto others what was done unto them before

By Michael Olowu College of Liberal Arts

IN THE FIRST three weeks of Israel's invasion of Lebanon, 10,000 children, women, senior citizens and innocent people had been murdered and about 600,00 had been made homel as and turned into refugee. Sur-prisingly, the murger and maimings continue at an alarming rate and efforts to find a solution are still dim.

Whenever I sit down and get glued to my TV set for the evening news, my heart bleeds and my head swells seeing the Israelis destroying human lives, properties and a whole people. I really get mad whenever I see the mad whenever I see the arrogant, senseless and inhuman Israeli Prime Minister, Mr. Begin, boasting of destroying the PLO and ordering Palestinians to get out of Lebanon, in three days, ten days or thirty days. And I get sickened more whenever Dan Rather refers to those Palestinians who are fighting Palestinians who are fighting for their annexed homeland as guerillas or terrorists. I question myself what terrorism really is, whether a man who has been been dispossessed of his borne has a right to use any means or not as a lighting strategy. I get real sickened in my Leart get real sickened in my teart whenever the appropriate adjective is thrown into the air and another one is blatantly misused. With the help of Britain and the United States, they drove away the Palestinians to neighboring nations and jungles. They found the Palestinians to be incompatible not because they are Palestinians but they are Palestinians but because they are Arabs and Muslims of different race and value systems. What and irony! The same Jews and the whole world sympathized with during the Nazi's holocaust are now systematically effecting their own genocide against the Palestinian people. If Begin had found himself in the shoes have committed greater atrocities against humanity than Hitler. The present Israeli actions in Lebanon and the occupied territories point to this conclusion.

Reaganomics needs more time to solve nation's economic woes

By Jim Granato Senior Business Administration and Policical Science

THIS LETTER IS directed THIS LETTER IS directed to the editors of the Daily Egyptian. The editorial "Reaganomics record: A barrel of unfilled campaign promises" was filled with many helf-truths, distortions, mistakes and erroneous complexitient. The editorial conclusions. The editorial was reduced from an analysis of the present economic situation to a vitriolic diatribe, fueled by an abysmal ignorance of ob-jective economic analysis, plus an extremely large dose plus an extremely large dose of demagoguery The tax cut, which took place on July 1, was the second of a scheduled three. The editorial stated that it was "the first of a scheduled three" was "the first of a scheduled three" — a clear indication of the lack of research; moreover, the editorial stated that the unem-ployment rate (nationally) for May was at 9.1 percent and 9.3 percent for June. Again, the author(s) was wrong. The labor department listed unemployment at 9.5 bisted unemployment at 9.5 percent for May and 9.5 percent for June. Where did the author(s) get their statistics? Clearly, the research for this component was not done thoroughly, or with great care.

THE AUTHOR(S) STATE that "Americans are stan-ding in line at unemployment watching offices. their benefits dwindle and their buying power vanish..." This is only half-true. It is a given fact that the unemployed are going to lose buying power because they no longer have a stable stream of income; however, the author(s) "neglected" to mention the fact that inflation has been ract that initiation has been cut in half since Reagan took office. So, although inflation is still eroding buying power, it is at half the rate of 18 months ago. The reality is that Americans have actually that Americans have actually gained buying power since Reagan took office, albeit inflation is still a threat.

The author(s) made fur-ther mistakes when they discussed the July tax cut, discussed the July tax cut, and the economic figures for June. The editorial states that "the tax cut that went into effect July 1 will stimulate spending." The author(s) then gave the figures for June and implied that the tax cut has not stimulated spending. But, simple logic shows that July ws June. It should have folle been obvious to the author(s) that consumer spending would not have been stimulated until the consumers received the added income from the tax cut. What the author(s) should be looking at is the retail sales after July 1. If the author(s) were referring to the "rational expectations hypothesis" or the "per-manent increase hypothesis," then they should have specified and explained it. But, maybe the author(s) were not aware of such theories.

ANOTHER ERROR DEALT with the June figures. What the author(s) stated was true, but they omitted (mysteriously) other data concerning June statistics. Business cut inventories by 0.9 percent in June — the biggest decline on record, and this is a good sign for the future because businesses will have to reorder and re-stock in-ventories. It is correct to assume that June was not a good month, but May was the best month since the recession started; moreover, sales for the second quarter were up 3.1 percent from the first quarter — a sign that the recession is ebbing slightly. More importantly, however, was the fact that the author(s) used only one month to castigate a program that is designed to span a period of years.

We could just as easily have taken a "good month" during Jimmy Carter's term and called his economic program a success. But, does that bear out the facts after his four years in office? If the author(s) had any inkling of economic analysis, they would have given statistics for the light 18 months and possibly longer. What is important are trends, not short-term fluctuations, but that would have taken away from the gist of the editorial, so the author(s) ignored the trends.

SPACE WILL NOT allow SPACE WILL NOT allow elaboration how social programs are being "but-chered," but there is a strong case that these programs are not doing what they were intended to do; moreover, the benefits are not going to people who truly need the help.

There is one final point that deals with the suggestion that a war can help a strugging economy. Wars do help stimulate full employment, but they also lead to shor-tore priming and inflation tages, rationing and inflation, which in the long run actually makes an economy worse off. Post-World War I, post-World War II, the aftermath of Korea and Vietnam all lead to serious dislocations in the economy that took a period of ars to recover from. This is without considering the massive loss of life, which is a much more undesirable result. For the author(s) to result. For the author(s) to even mention such a hideous thing about Reagan is in-comprehensible. Does this mean that Wilson, Rossevelt, Truman, Johnson and Nixon all had wars to boost the economy? Our leaders were not angels, but they are not on a par with Hiller and Stalin. Suggestions like these serve no useful ournose: miceover no useful purpose; moreover, the author(s) should be ashamed of themselves for having the audacity to elicit. such a statement.

THE CRITICISM OF the author(s) is welcome, and in the next two years, they could be right, but that is not an issue here. The issue is presenting an opinion with credible documentation, with sound analysis and the ab-solute avoidance of of misleading statements. The author(s) have a right to voice their opinions, but they must also remember that they have a duty to the people who read their column. Leave your pooch at home!

Attention all dog owners: If you love your dog, PROVE IT. Leave him at home. I have seen too many dogs waiting for their owners outside buildings, not just for a few minutes, but for hours!

A dog's normal body tem-perature is 101.5 to 102.2 degrees Fahrenheit. With the extreme weather temperatures we have been experiencing, leaving the dog outside in the hot sun could elevate the dog's temperature to a dangerous level. In a short time, the poor general direction. I finally decided that having my refreshment was more im-portant than playing this game of wills with her, so I simply

The bigger deal is that once again bartenders are slipping to the level of such rudeness to the level of such rudeness to their patrons. Is your business so good that you can exercise this type of customer discrimination? Granted I paid no cover to use your facilities for my own entertainment that for my own entertainment that night; however, I have put money into your pockets in the past and find it very insulting to be treated in this manner (especially because if I had ordered something alcoholic I would have had no trouble). Maybe you should charge something for the cup or for the ice – or maybe for the great amount of labor it takes to fill an order for water. Whatever your present policies are, it certainly is a "Great Mistake" for your patrons to be treated in this manner. - Michele Van Ort, Carbondale.

Is there suddenly something wrong with asking a bartender for a glass of water? Is this wrong with asking a barteader for a glass of water? Is this against some sort of new policy or law? I may be wrong, but it seems that not too long ago, local bars were serving patrons water with no questions asked - whether it be for an ID, an admission stamp or a charge. Well, the Great Escape seems to have a different policy, or at least one of their bartenders does Last Friday night, I was part of a large crowd dancing to

Uncle Jon's Band. When I needed a break from this craziness, I very politely asked one of the three bartenders for a cup of water and she very impolitely told me that I'd just have to wait because "there are people who want drinks!" I understood this at first since she was in the middle of preparing an order of about four drinks; however, as I stood there trying to be patient, she did her best to ignore me. She continued to serve other people who had just walked up and then began to sneer in my

Play deals with realities Ouilt Pieces' is identifiable tale

By Carlos Clark Student Writer

"Quilt Pieces," the first full-will be presented in the Laboratory Theater Thursday at 8 p.m.

A quintet of short scenes in the lives of loosely related women living in a small Southern Illinois town, "Quilt Pieces" was premiered July 21. It is a play about family ties and the strength that bonds those ties together. It is about friendships, lost or maintained through the years, and faded beauties who, years ago, missed that one chance at a brief moment of glory. Billingsley, with a keen sense of observation and quaint smal! town idiom that peppers the dialogue, brings us into the lives of the women and allows us to experience the joy and misery of their day to day survival. We watch as time passes, things change, and the characters learn to deal with everything from the pangs of growing up to the realities of growing old. The women in "Quilt Pieces" deal with these passages well, facing up to their difficulties with humor, a few tears, and a little fear, but with ultimate confidence in what lies ahead. The play begins with one of the youngest of the relations running away from tome. Young Dana, played by Joanne Mantovani, is ready to hit the road, seeking fame and fortune in California. Her cousin, Cassie, played by Judy Lavender, tries to talk her out of it, giving her good common sense reasons for staving, while simultaneously understanding her need to leave her need to leave. Although the two women obviously care about each other, a bit of competitive jealousy can be seen in their interaction. They share a common pond, the quilt blocks that each had to prepare for a new family quilt. As the play progresses, we meet older women and watch other relationships taking place in the small town.

In the final scene, we meet Hester, the oldest member of heater, the index memory of the family quilt. She is proud and refuses to succumb to the frailties of her age. She is necessary to the family, for they depend on her to remain a context in their line. constant in their lives.

But Hester is failing, and, in the end, it is I ana, the youngest, who understands this. We get the feeling that when the time comes, it will be Dana who will take over the care of Hester.

A good cast and a fine production is only part of a good play. The other part is in the playwright's realm. He or she must know the characters that have been created, and know how to transmit that un-derstanding to an audience. When it all comes together the audience leaves savoring the experience and feeling that, somehow, the characters will continue on and on forever.

How can seeing a beautiful leave one feeling film depressed?

The film itself, Don Bluth's animated "The Secret of NIMH," is not at all depressing; it's just about as uplifting, and visually as splendid, as any such film of the past decade. And that includes "Star Wars" and "E.T." The depressing part is that as for ssing part is that so few depre people may see this film,

The two very different films have Walt Disney in common. "Tron" was made by the was made by the Disney studios, with con-siderably more visual daring than that studio has used since "Fantasia." Still, the video-"Fantasia." Still, the video-computerized plus can't cancel out the minus, typical of almost all Disney films, of a certain emotional sterility.

Don Bluth may have been rebelling aginst the sterility when he stopped animating for Disney and struck out on his own. The animation in "The Secret of NIMH" recalls vin-tage Disney in its richness of detail, but goes worlds beyond Disney's cardboard characterizations. Occasionally a Disney film would try for in-depth characters; Bluth's debut independent film has suc-

Bluth had a good story to work from. Robert O'Brien's "Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH" takes us into a pastoral animal world that, like Richard Adams' "Watership Down," is all too human and not all that block I'w a story with death placid. It's a story with death and disaster running like electric wires throughout, but this gives it a true sense of life.

The film's heroine is Mrs. Brisby, whose name was changed for obvious reasons. Mrs. Brisby (voice by E izabeth Hartman) is a field-mouse, recently widowed due to a local cat. A fairly traditional crisis trying to avoid the farmer's plow — involves her in much deeper crises. It's no exaggeration to say she becomes a rodent counterpart to Frodo Baggins or Luke Skywalker: an orožnary person thrust into an extraordinary world.

You've come a long way from "I Love to Love You Baby."

Donna Summer's new album, "Donna Summer," bears no resemblance to the early music she released during the mid-70a Summer disco craze. has disco craze. Summer has teamed up with some of the finest talent in the music industry to produce a refreshing, upbeat sound.

The album is produced by Quincy Jones, the man who walked away with an armful of Grammy's last year for his album "The Dude." Jones' style is evident in the orchestral and vocal arrangements, but the real star of the show is Summer

The current single off the album,"Love is in Control (Finger on the Trigger)," is pure joy. The song starts out on a slow beat that allows Summer to display her vocal range. It then moves into an upbeat rhythm that will make even the most solemn listener tap their

The line "She said ya, ya gotta come out smokin"-Hit it with your best shot every time" applies to all the songs on the album. Jones has assembled such talent as James Ingram, Kenny Loggins, Christopher Cross, Mike McDonald, Michael Jackson, Lionel Ritchie, Dionn Warwick and Stevie Wonder to provide the strong but not overpowering background vocals.

Also featured on the album are such renowned muscians as Ernie Watts, Jeff Pocaro and Louis Johnson, and - believe it

That world was spawned by NIMH — the National Institute of Mental Health. Their ex-. periments have so elevated the intelligence of their lab rats that they've learned not only to escape, but to siphon off elect tricity from humans and even feel guilty about doing it.

But the film doesn't turn into an ecological debate; it has as many hair's-breadth crises as many hair's breadth crises as "Raiders of the Lost Ark," including its beatific finale. But the bottom line of the film is that you come to believe in its world — it's hard to write off as just a fantasy cartoon.

Strong characterization is the key to believa/sjity. The cast ranges from r. a ss than Derek Jacobi as the voice of Nicodemus, the Merlin-like leader of the NIMH rate, to Dom Deluise as a comic-relief crow. Bluth gets fully-developed characters out of all of them, with emotional detail only seen before now in the films of Ralph Bakshi and the animated "Watership Down."

I may be making the film all its sources; indeed, during the finale, one makes inevitable comparisons with Yoda levitating a zpaceship. But Bluth's advance is to pull together traditional animation style and untraditional content, fashioning a powerful and glorious world.

Don't let the "G" rating fool ou; "The Secret of NIMH" ou: isn't just kids' stuff.

Do it again... Safety taught from the driver's seat

By Mary Pries Staff Writer

"Look up, let go of the clutch, squeeze your knees into the tank. O.K. Now, put it in neutral, turn around and do it again. This time think about everything you've learned at once." Chris Ross, part-time teacher of the Motorcycle Rider Course, shouted at me as he tried to teach me to do one motorcycle drill well enough so that I could go on to the next one.

Learning to ride a motorcycle can be fun. Wrecking a motorcycle is anything but fun. The best way to prevent a wreck is to learn to ride correcty. "Illinois was the first to have

"Illinois was the first to have a statewide program," said David Thomas, assistant coordinator for the motorcycle rider training project in 40 Illinois counties. "There are five regional centers in Illinois. The one at SIU-C is the largest," he said. "Most people don't have the

"Most people don't have the opportunity to get good information on riding a motorcycle," Thomas said. "Yet, a motorcycle is a far more difficult piece of machinery to deal with than a car. So it is that much more important to learn to ride correctly."

I discovered on the first night I went to the free motorcycle riding course that a lot of important information is given in the first of the six classes, each of which last four hours. The emphasis is on learning by doing.

Thomas said, "There is no better way to teach you than to put you on and have you ride."

I learned through much frustration that each student is forced to learn at his own pace. I was satisfied with turning corners in a half-right way and wanted to go on to the next drill. However, I did not get off that easily.

"Relax and lean over with the turn," Ross advised.

Fear of falling off and a lack of confidence kept me from putting my whole body into the turns. Ross would not give up on me, even though I was almost ready to. He became more persistent and bad me do special drills for turning.

Less than enthusiastically, I did the drills over and over. When Ross sensed my aggravation, he tried to calm me down.

"You can do this, Møry," Ross said. "You ride a hecycle and you have to use the same type of balance on it. Just give it b'me."

koss said that no one could be a professional rider after only two lessons. It was a skill that takes time and practice to develop, he said.

Instructor Rick Hellman said, "Taking this class makes a but of difference. It gives a rider the ability to handle any basic situation. To ride, you have to know exactly what to do or you will wreck the bike, yourself or both," he said.

Ross said, "The students in this class get solid knowledge of how to operate the machine, good facts about safety and some of our experience. They also get a different perspective toward motorcycles, which makes them better automobile drivers."

Instructor Marie Vicher said, "I think even people who have been riding for a while should take the course. They pick up bed habits in daily riding," she said. "I've learned something in every class." The Safety Center provides

The Šafety Center provides instruction, motorcycles, heimets, eye protection and insurance. The motorcycles are loaned by dealers in the area, much as cars are loaned to schools for driver's education programs. The center is responsible for damage and maintenance, Thomas explained.

The class operates through the Department of Continuing Education and is open to any Illinois resident 16 or older who has a driver's license, Thomas said. The average class size is about 39 students, with no more than six students to an instructor, he said.

All students see two films relating general information about bikes and hike riding the first night. Then, the students go on the course and learn to start the bike. Some even start riding if they feel comfortable with it.

Vicher said, "By the end of the course, the students learn emergency braking, ride trails, do figure eights, ride the course using stop signs and use turn signals."

She said students have the chance to take the driver's licensing test on the course.

Staff Photo by Doug Janvrin PUSHING SAFETY - David Thomas, assistant on motorcycle safety at a recent class sponsore/ coordinator of motorcycle projects, relates points by the Safety Center.

"The students receive a completion card," Vicher said. "Some insurance companies give a discount to students who have this card."

Scott Mission, who rides his motorcycle to the class, said, "I just want to get the insurance discount."

Cheryl Bryant, who also took the class, said, "I have always wanted to take this class. It's fun and now I want to get my own motorcycle. I think I will go ahead and try to get my license at the end of the course. Mahoud Qattona, said, "I Mahoud Qattona, said, "I already own a motorcycle, but I won't drive it until I know how to drive it right. I can't afford to pay for all the gas that my car eats so this will save me money."

Vicher said, "For me it's relaxing to take my motorcycle out and ride after a long day."

CLEARING THE LANES - Busy workmen renovate the Student Center howling alley.

Never fear! Alley renovation to be completed for fall bowling

By Steve Metsch Staff Writer

Don't despair Student Center bowlers, the bowling alley — closed for remodeling — should be ready for use by the start of fall semester.

Phase one of a two-part renovation of the bowling alley and billiards room should be completed by Aug. 23, the first day of fall classes, John Corker, Student Center director, said Monday. The bowling alley

Monday. The bowling alley closed July 19. "The work is progressing pretty well, but as with any construction, it takes time to complete." Corker said.

The brunt of the project is the construction of an underground ball return system, Corker said. Instead of returning from the pins to the bowlers in plain view, bowling balls will be hidden until they surface near the scorer's table, he said.

The pinsetters and the facing covering them will be rebuilt, he said. New scorers' tables will be installed and scorers will be able to project bowlers' scores on screens hung above the anes, Corker said. The floor around the tables will be retiled, the ceiling will be painted for the first time in 10 years, and the walls will be covered with either carpet or inyl, Corker said.

The bill for new equipment and concrete work for the ball return system totals about $134,000, Carker said. The cost of the equipment is $122,000 and the concrete work costs $12,000.

he said. R.B. Stephens Construction Co., of Carbondale, is in charge of the concrete work. The Brunswick Bowling Corp., which sold the equipment to the Student Center, will be in-stalling it, Corker said. Funding for the project will be obtained from building reserve funds and the Student Center's operating budget, he Center's operating budget, he said. The wallcovering and painting could cost up to $10,000, but Corker said that has yet to be determined. The second phase of the project — to be carried out during winter break — will be the installation of new carpet in the bowling alley and billiards room to replace the current carpet which is in "pretty bad condition." Corker said.

He estimated the carpet will cost around $25,000, but added that no bids have been taken yet. Existing wooden spectator seats behind the scorers' tables will be painted and finished also, Corker said.

Despite all the planned renovations, Corker said new lanes aren't on the list of improvements.

"We're not going to put in new lanes. We're still a couple of years away," he said. "We'll go to a synthetic top we can lay over the wood."

Corker said that bowling class and leagues were not disrugted by the closing.

"What we had to do was give students coupons to allow them in the bowling alley at other times to get all their classes in before July 19," he said.

Cadets attend training camp

Five students are attending an Army ROTC basic training camp at Fort Knox, Ky., which started July 12 and will end Aug. 19.

They are Kenneth J. Brimm, a junior majoring in education; John H. Backensto, a Backensto, sophomore majoring in architectural technology; Keith D. Gregg, a sophomore majoring in forestry; Tracey T. Wall, a transfer student who will begin classes at SIU-C this fall and Robert C. Murphy, also a transfer student beginning es in the fall. class

The camp is designed to train Army ROTC cadets in basic military skills such as leadership, weapons handling, physical conditioning and land navigation. Successful navigation. Succession completion of the summer camp qualifies cadets to enroll in SIU-C's Army ROTC Advanced Course.

Project study on child abuse helped by grant

SIU-C's Project 12-Ways, which is part of the school's Rehabilitation Institute, has received a $516,707 federal grant to help combat child abuse and neglect in Illinois' southernmost 27 counties.

The project grant, which comes from federal funds made available by the Title XX program, is administered program, is administered through the Illinois Department of Children and Family Ser-vices and the governor's Donated Funds Initiative.

The three-year-old project works with DCFS attempting to identify and correct basic causes of child abuse and neglect in Southern Illinois.

Some 47 SIU-C counselors and graduate student assistants pr/vide in-home counseling and support services for nearly 175 families, who are referred to the project by DCFS. Services include alcohol treatment, home safety advice, job placement raining, money management, marital discord counseling, prenatal and postnatal skills training and stress reduction counseling, according to John Lutzker, project director.

"We look at the problem of abuse and neglect as being multifaceted...it's being jobless or alcoholic; it's nutritional deprivation and unsafe homes - as well as physical abuse," he said.

He said nearly one-third of the clients have been unwed mothers, some as young as 13, who have been helped with prenatal care, birth preparations and care and teaching of infants.

Davis to lead young tracksters

By Gene Stahlman Staff Writer

Women's track and field Coach Claudia Blackman said the addition of a few talented freshman will mean only one thing to ber Salukis chances of a state title. Strength.

Two of those additions will be in the sprints, an area where the team is already solid. Junior Debra Davis will lead the Salukis in that department. Davis holds the school record in the 200-meter run with time of 25.4

Denese Blackman and Ann Marie Lavine, both from Barbados,Ill. have recorded better times in the 200-meters, said Blackman. Denese's best time is 24.1, while Lavine has run it in 24.9.

Another freshman who should help the team is Rhonda Mc-Causland from Valparaso, Ind., said Blackman. McCausland is a discuss and shot putter who has already thrown the discus 150-2, which is 25 feet better than the school record.

This past spring was the first time that Rhonda had concentrated just on track," said Blackman. "Before she had always played other sports too. "She has already improved a lot and should continue to do so."

Other newcomers include 100meter hurdlers Karen Cooper and Amy Goerss. 800-meter runner Lisa Reimund and 200meter sprinter Leslie Williams

Davis is probably the best of the returnees, said Blackman. She will be joined by seniors Rosa Mitchell and Cindy Clausen. Dyan Donley should provide good leadership for the newconners and the Schut newcomers, said the Saluki

'Right now our track team is usually made up of about 50

becarry nade up of about 50 percent non scholarship athletes," said Blackman. The loss of Patty Houseworth, last year's leading point scorer and Cindy Bukauskas, who was second on SIUC's all time let in the similar sufficient but said list in the javelin, will hurt, said Blackman.

The most serious loss will be that of Karen LaPorte in the 400-meter hurdles. She was the team's only 400-meter hurdler. Blackman said she would try Cooper and Goerss at that spot next year.

Houseworth's loss will be felt even more in cross country, said Blackman. "We really don't have any one individual who seems to come to the forefront right now, but then we didn't last year either when Lindy Nelson didn't come back," Blackman said. Then Patty just sort of came out of the bunch. Hopefully that will happen again this year," she said

Blackman said this year should be interesting with the Salukis being in a new conference

"Three of the four teams that beat us at the state meet will be in the MCAC along with Drake, which is always strong in track," said Blackman.

A basketball federation off joial said the Sports has turned into "one of the biggest shots in

"It's our sport ever had." "It's our best opportunity to see young kids," Tom McGrath of the ABAUSA said. "We can feed them into our Pan-American and Olympic teams. "Before, we'd see the kids in college and that was it."

Aside from one pre-tournament press conference, the men's coaches of the East, North, South and West squads worked their players behind locked doors at Indiana Central, excluding spectators. They have been the only closed practices at the Festival. McGrath said there was a valid reason for the closed

"Our games committee felt it could best have the team develop and keep the players' attention by doing it this way," he said. "These athletes are so young. They're not accustomed to the pressures." The closed practice policy spawned a year ago, when Georgetown Coach John Thompson sought to shelter his heralded incoming freshman, 7-foot Pat Ewing, from the media at the Syracuse, N.Y., Festival. Johnny Dawkins, a secondyear Festival basketball perf ormer from Washington, D.C., save this internament sure heats hi s playground pickup games. "The Festival was a tremendous help for me last year in high school," said the 6-foot-2 Duke recruit and an East squad member. "Besides, it's much better competition than you get every day in the summ

Stuart Gray, UCLA's 7-foot sophomore and the 1981 Festival's Most Valuable Player, agrees with Dawkins. "I wanted to come back. Nowhere else can you get this kind of competition," said Rind of competition," said Gray, who averaged 18 points and nice sales and non-rebounds for the West in this event a year ago. The North's Sam Vincent, a 6-

3 guard from Michigan State, es the Festival as an opp ortunity for 1983 Pan-American Games consideration. "It's the best young talent from around the country," Vincent said. "It lets you know where you stand, how good you really are."

Vincent's North teammate, 6-4 Eric Turner of Michigan, looks even farther into the future, saying: "It's a chance to prepare myself and get exp neure for the '84 Olympics."

For Greg Dreiling, it means more than international squad consideration. He became ineligible for the next college basketball season after trans ferring from Wichita State to Kansas

"I'm trying to get as much game-type competition as possible, the more the better," said the 7-1 Dreiling. "It's rough sitting out a year. That's why I'm here." I'm here.'

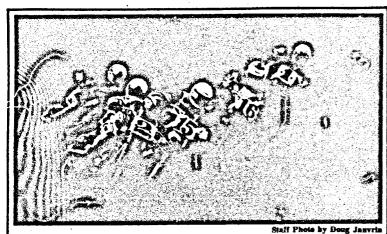

In rowing championships Tuesday, Elizabeth Hud-Broderick of Philadelphia won the gold medal in single sculls in 4:01.8, beating Sara Nevin of Hadley, Mass., by almost three full seconds.

Jean Harcourt of Durham, N.H., and Sue Montesi of Barrington, R.I., captured the double sculls gold medal in 3:59.1 with Paige Nilles of Seattle and Amy Berner of Bellevue, Wash., claiming the silver.

Cathy Ryan of Matawan, N.J., and Lisa Black of Allston, Mass., swept to the pairs without conswain title, easily defeating Debbie Fine of Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., and Leanne Cox of Menio Park, Calif., in 4:41.39.

Roger Crump holds the early lead in a semi-final heat at the DuQuoin Mile National.

Graham holds on to point lead after victory at DuQuoin Mile

Gene Stahlman Staff Writer

Winston Pro Series grand national cyclist Ricky Graham goes to Mount Pocono, Pa., next month

Pocono, Fa., next month $4,825 richer. That's the amount he picked up for his victory at the DuQuoin Mile National Championship Saturday at the DuQuoin State Fairgrounds track. He also added 20 points to his com-manding lead for the national championship. He had picked championship. He had picked championship. He had picked up $10.000 earlier for heing the mid-season point leader. Mount Pocono is the next event on the Winston Pro Series tour, Aug. 8. In front of a crowd of about 0.000 the 22 variable should be

In front or a crowu or allown 10,000, the 23-year-old beat out a railying Jay Springsteen in the 25-mile points race. Ted Buody finished a close third.

Graham, who had mechanica' problems all day, took the lead in the eighth lap had and hung on despite strong challenges from Boody and Springsteen. Springsteen got $3,2:0 for second place while Boody received $2,100 for third in a purse total of $23,000.

After the race, Graham said he felt a lot more comsaid he reit a lot more com-fortable this year than in 1981, when he finished a disap-pointing 13th. He finished third in 1980. "I ran a different machine last year and never did feel comfortable with it," the California native said.

Springsteen, known to motorcycle enthusiasts as "springer" and one of the crowd favorites, said after the race he was very pleased with the results even though be didn't win.

"I actually ran the last race on just three cylinders," he said. He said he had broken the fourth cylinder in an earlier heat but decided to go ahead and give it a try in the form finals really didn't think it "I really didn't think it would hold up, but as the race went along I kept getting more confidence and really went for it at the end," he said. "But I just didn't have quite enough to catch Ricky at the finish."

Springsteen, who won the national championship in 1976, '77 and '78, caught Boody at the finish, while 1976, '77 and '78, caught Boody at the finish, while reaching 120 mph and playfully slapping Boody on the thigh as be passed him. "I didn't really know what the hell was going on when Jay patted me," Boody said. "I do know it sure surprised me."

Springsteen, who is still hampered by a stomach ailment, said it doesn't look as if anyone will catch Graham this year. Boody agreed and said that unless agreed and said that unress something happens to Graham, it's doubtful if anyone will evertake him. Graham now has 162 points te second-placer Springsteen's 115. Terry

Poovey, who finished eighth, is third with 114. Seventh place finisher Scott Parker is place finisher Scott Parker is fourth with 111. Fifth place finisher and 1980 national champion Randy Goss is fifth with 108 points. Forty-eight riders qualified for the heat races in the time trials. qualifying time clocked by Springsteen in 36.277 seconda. After the qualifying laps, four preliminary heats were run, two semi-final heats and a last chance qualifying run to get a field of 7 riders for the final race.

The first four heats were won by Springsteen, Alex Jorgenson, Parker and Steve Ekkund. The semi-finals were won by Jay Beach and Tom Maitland. Last year's ortional acheroide Mile Maitland. Last year's national champion Mike Kidd, who won last year's race, won the last chance qualifying heat.

Belleville native Tim Mertens made the final 17 by finishing third in the first heat, becoming the final qualifier from that heat. Mertens blew a tire in the 16th lap giving him a 16th place finish.

Tammy Kirk, the first woman to qualify for heat races in the Winston Pro races in the winston Pro Series, broke a rod midway through her heat, spoiling her bid to become the first woman to qualify for a national final.

The 1982 National Sports Festival is an awesome event. Over 2,500 of the best athletes in the United States are assembled in In-dianapolis for 11 days of competition, ending this weekend. The athletes are divided into four teams, North, East, South and West, and compete as teams as well as individuals. Indianapolis has gone full-tilt in building some of the finest sports facilities in the United States. Millions have been spent constructing the Major Taylor Velodrome for cycling, the Indianapolis Sports Center for tennis and the Indianapolis Convention Center, which was used for boxing, fencing and wrestling. Market Square Arena, a relatively new 17,000-seat facility, was constructed for the Indiana Pacers basketball team, and is being used for the figure skating, hockey and basketball competitions.

Indiana University—Purdue University at indianapolis is evidently trying to go big-time with its sports program. Recently constructed were the IUPUI Track and Field Stadium, considered to be one of the best facilities in the United States, the IU Sports Field, which has two lighted softball diamonds, and the IUPUI Natatorium, an 11,000-seat areas for swimming and diving. 1991 Pan American Games. The only major league franchise in Indianapolis is the Pacers basketball team. There is a minor league baseball team as well, but that is it for the professional sports. The city is spending all its time and energy to promote amateur sports. The National Sports Festival is a prime example. The totally amateur event runs every year except an Olympic year. The original concept was to have the Festival every four years, the year proceeding an Olympic year. Advance ticket sales for the 1982 Festival have far exceeded the previous three Festivals. The pageantry and level of competition can be surpassed by only the Dlympics itself. Thousands of the top amateur athletes in the United States give it their all for nothing more than a gold medal and personal satisfaction. There are no multi-million dollar prizes or contracts awaiting most of these athletes when their amateur days are done. All that will be left will be the memories of competition and the pain of the hours ensut in practices.

All that will be left will be the memories of competition and the pain of the hours spent in practice. Sure, major corporations like Levi Strauss, who provided all the warmups and uniforms, Miller Beer Corp., Kodak Co. and dozens of others are pouring millions of dollars into the Festival to gain the promotional considerations, but they are also responsible for the National Sports Festival in the first place. Dorsett being sued for divorce divorce by his wife of two years, who cited a personality conflict with the 26-year-old running back

Dorsett agreed in district court last week to pay his wife, Julie Ann Simons Dorsett, a $2,500 monthly support through Oct. 1, pending a full hearing. Mrs. Dorsett, also 28, said in apers filed with Judge John L. papers filed with Judge John L. McGraw that a personality conflict with her husband 'destroys the legitimate ends of the marriage relationship and prevents any expectation of recorciliation.

Dorsett, the National Football Conference's second-leading rusher last year with 1,646 yards, said earlier that his wife and an extensive off-season conditioning program were reasons for his success. The Dorsetts have been married since Sept. 1, 1980, and separated June 21, the divorce papers stated. They had no children together. Dorsett has a 9-year-old son and Mrs. Dorsett has a pre-school age child. "I have nothing to say, and it's not even worth writing about," Dorsett said just before the team meeting Monday ning

In other football news, the New York Jets traded running back Kevin Long to the Chicago Bears Monday while other National Football League teams began trimming free agents and rookies, preparing for veterans to check into their training camps later this week. Long, a sixth-year fullback out of South Carolina, was swapped for a conditional sixthround draft choice, contingent on his making the Bears' roster. He gained 269 yards in 73 carries last season and enjoyed his best year in 1978 when he led the Jets with 954 yards. The Houston Oilers cut six players, including University of Houston basketball player Eric Davis, who was trying out as a defensive back. Also dropped were offensive tackle Greg Fry of Columbia, defensive tackle James Grisby of Texas Southern, defensive back Broderick Harrison of Bishop College, quarterback Mark O'Connell of Ball State and linebacker Reggie Williams of Nevada-Las Vegas. Coach Ed Biles said 20 to 25 more playuers would be dropped before the Oiler vets report on Wednesday.

Tuesday, the East men and women faced the North men and women at Indiana Central University.

Basketball continues through Saturday when the gold- and bronze-medal games will be played in 17,000-seat Market Square Arena.

The only poor weather in the first five days of this 33-sport spectacle, heavy rain Tuesday morning, delayed the playing of the men's and women's tennis singles and three doubles for the gold medals.

Up for grabs Tuesday night were 10 boxing gold medals, 12 swimming championships and the women's and men's crowne in figure skating.
