Approved funds for SPC less $2,000

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

The Graduate and Professional Student Council approved $7,000 for the Student Programming Council, $2,000 less than requested, in a meeting Wednesday night.

Trudy Hale, GPSC president, said SPC originally requested $13,500, but the amount was too large for the GPSC budget to allow.

The council's finance committee had recommended $7,000, Hale said, explaining that the amount of money the GPSC receives has not increased. GPSC has funded SPC with $7,000 for the past two years, she said.

SPC continues to face a possible budget freeze by the Undergraduate Student Government if it does not conform to two Registered Student Organization guidelines of which it is in violation.

In a speech to the GPSC, Brian Wood, SPC executive chairperson, requested $9,000 from the council to help offset a shrink in the budget for the 1989-90 year.

Wood said the cost of providing the various programs offered by the SPC have risen over the years.

Wood said the Undergraduate Student Governement has allotted $31,000 to SPC for the 1989-90, a decrease of $6,500 in allocations made by the USG in 1988-89.

Wood said the council requests funds from student government based on the total expected cost of the planned events.

Wood said the council first estimates how much money is to be spent on an event and then deducts from this total the amount of money expected to be generated from the event. The remainder is requested in funding by the USG.

Wood said money is generated at events by contributions by cosponsors, ticket sales and shirt sales.

"When we find out from GPSC how much money we'll receive from them," he said, "We'll (SPC) total up their allocations with USG's and sit down budget by budget and start slashing stuff out."

Council candidates argue issue points

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

City Council candidates Carl Flowers, Keith Tuxhorn and John Yow echoed each other on the issue of economic development in Carbondale but disagreed on the continuation of Carbondale's Halloween celebration in a forum co-sponsored by the Jackson County League of Women Voters and the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night.

Council candidate Marvin Tanner arrived for the forum 15 minutes late and left after sitting at the side of the council chambers for 25 minutes during the forum.

League Vice President Gayle Klam said she decided to have Tanner wait to enter the forum until closing statements so the forum would not be disrupted.

"He told me there was no point in staying if I couldn't find time to put him in before closing statements," Klam said.

Tanner could not be reached for comment.

All three candidates agreed that economic development was a key to Carbondale's growth.

"We need to raise the image of Carbondale," Yow said. "Commercial development of any type means economic growth for Carbondale."

Newcomer Flowers said incumbents Yow and Tuxhorn have done a good job as councilmen, but "that's not to say I can't do just as good of a job."

Flowers voiced support for the continuation of Car-

Drug bust yields high, foreign banks linked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Dick Thornburgh announced Wednesday that banks in Panama and Colombia, two of their senior officers and 125 other individuals have been charged as a result of a lengthy undercover investigation that cracked a $1 billion drug money-laundering ring.

Closing down the two-year investigation, Thornburgh hailed it as "the largest money-laundering crackdown ever carried out by the federal government" and predicted it would help "disrupt" the sophisticated dealings of one of the world's biggest drug cartels.

Sentence a first for County

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

The first death penalty sentence in Jackson County was affirmed Wednesday by the Illinois Supreme Court.

John Paul Phillips was convicted on Oct. 9, 1986 of the kidnapping and slaying of Carbondale waitress Joan Wetherall in November 1981.

After receiving the death penalty in November 1986, his case received an immediate appeal under the Illinois law.

John Clemons, former Jackson County State's Attorney and the prosecutor for the case, said Phillips is the first person to receive the death penalty in Jackson County.

According to newspaper reports, evidence was presented in Phillips' sentencing hearings to link him to the murders of two University students, Theresa Clark in 1975 and Kathleen McSharry in 1978.

The Supreme Court decided that he was properly convicted in 1986 and the decision will stand, Clemons said.

The defense attorneys in the case were three appointed public defenders from Jackson County.

The key witness in the case was Phillips' former prison cellmate, Thomas Macoby. Phillips admitted to and described the murder of Wetherall to Macoby in 1984.

"Phillips is the most monstrous barbarian I've seen in this county," Clemons said. "I'm happy the decision will stand."

Rural hospitals facing financial woes

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Although some Southern Illinois hospitals may experience financial troubles in the next few years because of low Medicare reimbursement, Memorial Hospital of Carbondale is not in any real danger of financial demise, George Maroney, the hospital's administrator, said.

Because of a large differential between the amount of money rural hospitals receive from the federal Medicare program for essentially the same services, urban hospitals provide, rural hospitals will suffer financially, Dave Strickland, a spokesman for U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, said.

Poshard, D-Carterville, visited four area hospitals this week to explain legislation that would narrow the gap between the payment formula for reimbursing hospitals for public services.

A package of seven bills was introduced last week by the Rural Health Care Coalition, of which Poshard is a co-sponsor. The bills call for $45 million for emergency medical services, $50 million for maternal and child healthcare, and interest rate deductions for educational loans for doctors, nurses and allied health professionals who agree to serve in medically deprived areas, Strickland said.

Poshard is trying to get a federal money so that rural hospitals will not be forced to close, taking jobs away from the area, Strickland said.

Strickland said a difference of between $40 and $60 million exists between the amount of

Hungarian plane hijacked in Prague by 2 teenagers

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — Two Czechoslovak teenagers armed with shotguns and grenades hijacked a Hungarian airliner in Prague, Czechoslovakia, Wednesday and flew with 14 hostages to Frankfurt, where they surrendered without incident, airport officials and police said. The Tupolev Tu-154, a Soviet-made plane similar to a Boeing 727, landed at Frankfurt Airport at 12:30 p.m. and the boys, aged 15 and 16, gave themselves up 40 minutes later to U.S. military police, said Karl-Heinz Wagner, spokesman for Frankfurt police.

Alaska says feds not assisting in spill probe

VALDEZ, Alaska (UPI) — The federal government refuses to cooperate with Alaska's criminal investigation into the largest oil spill in U.S. history, documents indicated Wednesday, and officials said the captain and third mate of the ship that spilled the oil refuse to answer questions about their roles. Documents made available to United Press International showed that the state's criminal investigation into the spill of 11 million gallons of oil was stymied by the federal government's refusal to turn over documents to Alaska authorities.

Reagan's lawyer says testimony unnecessary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lawyer for Ronald Reagan argued Wednesday that Oliver North has not shown the former president's testimony is necessary at North's trial and Reagan should not be compelled to appear as a witness. In papers filed with U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell as the Iran-Contra prosecution prepared to rest its case against North, attorney Theodore Olson protested that the former White House aide has not demonstrated Reagan's testimony would be "material and essential" to the defense.

Inmates, Guatemalan officials resume talks

SANTA CATARINA PINULA, Guatemala (UPI) — Armed inmates holding hundreds of hostages at Guatemala's largest prison rejected a government plan to end their 4-day-old uprising Wednesday, but later resumed talks with officials. Authorities, meanwhile, discovered the bodies of four more people killed in the rebellion, raising the death toll to at least 11.

Moslem militias begin heavy Beirut fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian-backed Moslem militias unleashed rockets and shells into Beirut Wednesday, triggering heavy fighting in defiance of an Arab League cease-fire call hours after the U.S. ambassador's residence took a direct hit in intense shelling. "The home of the American ambassador at Yarz was struck by a Syrian shell during the evening of March 28. Damage was confined to the living and dining room areas of the house.

Moslem leader, librarian killed in mosque

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — The spiritual leader of Moslems in Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg who received threats in the Salman Rushdie affair was found shot to death Wednesday with his librarian in the city's main mosque. Police said the bodies of Abdullah Abdel, 35, director of the Islamic and Cultural Center in the main Brussels mosque, and librarian Salem El Behir, 48, were found in the ground floor office of the Moslem leader by visitors.

First lady diagnosed with Graves' disease

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First lady Barbara Bush, suffering from swollen eyes and weight loss, has been diagnosed with Graves' disease, a disorder of excess thyroid hormone production, her press office announced Wednesday. Though most patients generally recover from the condition that mostly strikes women, the American Medical Association says the condition could lead to death if left untreated for many years.

'Junk bonds' head indicted in insider trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michael Milken, head of Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc.'s "junk bond" department, was indicted Wednesday on federal charges including fraud and racketeering in insider-trading schemes that allegedly yielded $1.85 billion. Also indicted were Milken's brother, Lowell, a senior vice president of Drexel, and Bruce Newberg, a former member of the firm's junk bond department.

Instructor's innovation boosts program

By Megan Hauck
Staff Writer

Imagine drinking coffee from a ceramic mug that had been pounded on minutes earlier with a hammer. A quick glue job? Not likely.

A technique developed by Dale Wittmer, an instructor of mechanical engineering and energy processes in the College of Engineering and Technology, has made such an affair feasible.

Ceramic whiskers designed to strengthen and toughen material are used in research to develop a consistency that can withstand higher temperatures.

The economic importance of the phenomenon extends far beyond childproof dinnerware. Eventually, highly-developed technical sciences will switch from using metals, which can withstand heat up to 1,000 degrees Celsius, to ceramic material. Heat up to 1,500 degrees Celsius will not penetrate the ceramic material, Wittmer said.

"The ceramic material will improve efficiency and reduce harmful admissions," Wittmer said. "It'll be lighter and stronger, things you'd want if you're going to fly a plane."

The ceramic matrix material is made of alumina, or aluminum oxide, and silicon nitride.

Wittmer said the innovative material likely would not show up in coffee mugs, but rather in engines where heat is a factor. The ceramic material, which weighs less than metal, would require less force to turn in an engine than metal.

"Incoming gases can be at a much higher temperature, so you're getting more mileage out of the gases," he said. "You don't have as many gases polluting the air."

Wittmer said the technique is especially in demand in the automotive industry.

"Lots of cars means lots of parts, parts that can be made out of the ceramic material. Lots of parts means lots of money."

Wittmer, who came to the University during the spring 1986, owns five patents in ceramic engineering. A graduate of the University of Illinois, Wittmer worked for the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Tuscaloosa, Ala. for four years before accepting a position with GTE Products Corp.

Wittmer was the recipient of the 1988 Outstanding Teacher of the Year award.

"The whole idea in coming here was to take some of the government and industry experience and share that with the students."

Wittmer said he has received offers from universities that already have an established research department. But Wittmer says he is content at the University.

"You don't start a program and then walk away. There's fun in helping build a research program."

"We're on the growth curve; we get things at SIU by virtue of good work and not by name only."

Dedicated senators could improve USG

THE UNDERGRADUATE Student Government candidates want you. Or at least they ought to.

The campaigning season for senators, presidential and vice presidential candidates will begin when the USG gets its policy on write-in candidates straightened out (apparently there isn't one).

As out-going President Bill Hall did last year, candidates should be asking the students what they want from their representatives.

After the decimation of the organization from the mass impeachment wars last semester and the steady stream of resignations and impeachments for failing to attend meetings, the USG has been left with only nine of the 41 senators who were elected last spring by the students.

THE USG NEEDS people who are willing to work together for the good of the students, it doesn't need the pointless chaos of Juliana Taylor, last semester's Committee for Internal Affairs chairperson. And it needs people who will make constructive use of the more than $250,000 in student fees which the USG has at its command each year.

Senators are chosen from geographic divisions of the campus and Carbondale as well as from each academic unit.

THIS YEAR'S elections will feature multiple polling places. It is something which the students approved in a referendum last year and it hopefully will improve the consistently abysmal voting turnout. Only 1,831 votes were cast last spring.

Except for write-in candidacies the deadline for applications and petitions has passed. So the crop of young politicians who turn their petitions for candidacy into the USG office by Friday are going to be our student leaders next year. For better or worse.

Opinions from elsewhere

Negligence appears to have played a major role in the huge Alaska oil spill that endangers marine life and the fishing industry of Prince William Sound, gives the oil industry another black eye and provides environmental activists with fresh ammunition against oil exploration in coastal areas.

A damaging admission came from Exxon, owner of the tanker that struck a reef and spilled an estimated 250,000 barrels of oil into the sea. A company official said that at the time of the accident, the ship was being piloted by the third mate who was not certified to guide the vessel through the dangerous waters of Prince William Sound.

Laxity may also have been present in the lack of sufficient equipment in the area to immediately set about containing the spill, despite oil industry contentions over the years that it was fully prepared to meet such an emergency.

The extent of damage to the environment and to local fishing and tourist industries will not be known for some time.

Exxon has pledged to make any "reasonable" payment for damages, as well it should. If government regulations were violated by company personnel, as it seems, the firm also should be slapped with whatever penalty the law allows.

Aside from environmental and other damages at the scene and the losses to Exxon, this largest spill in U.S. history almost surely will hurt the oil industry as a whole. For example, it will fuel opposition to government plans to open a section of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge to oil exploration.

If the Arctic refuge and other promising sources cannot be tapped, American dependence on foreign oil can be expected to increase.

It is inevitable in an oil-dependent world that spills will occur from time to time. A particularly aggravating aspect of this one is that carelessness seems to have been largely responsible.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

Adoption offers chance for life, shames argument of abortion

Saturday is my 23rd birthday. I've spent the week reading clippings of letters from the DE editorial page. Letters from Van Der Meer, Karch, Salter, Niebelaki, Morgan among other pro-choice articles.

These people spoke for freedom of person, liberation from men, accidents of birth control, and women dying from illegal abortions. All the while, I'm waiting for an argument beyond the reach of criticism.

They all fall short in my eyes. I know of an argument that puts them all to shame.

A woman bore me nine months so I could make it to 23 with help. She shouldn't have done it. By today's standards, I should have been aborted.

They were from two different colleges. They met at the party. She was drunk. I became the legacy of that one night. She was a sophomore, rejected by her family, with no money and very pregnant.

Ms. Salter might say, "let her be rid of man-imposed servanthood and abort if she wanted to." Morgan might say that abortion was wrong but the man shouldn't interfere.

Niebelaki might want me legally dead instead of the college sophomore being a criminal. Van Der Meer and thirty others would do all they could to clear a path to an abortion clinic door.

Karch might comfort this pregnant woman by saying I was not the same person six months after the womb as I was six months in the womb. Thank God none of these people condoned her as to my future.

She placed her child, namely me, up for adoption. Through adoption I received the woman I lovingly call mother and the man who's name I proudly bear. I have a life.

Let a pro-choice element come to me and say, "You should not have been born because you were unwanted."

Or, "You should have died because the first 20 years of your life would have been miserable." Or, "It is another's own choice, so what business is it of yours or mine?"

As it may appear otherwise, this letter is spawned not out of hate, but anguish. Personal history, not abstract thought. This is persuasive thought and not condemning, though confronting. I take a stand against a person's attitude, but not against the person of the attitude.

Contradictions in thought are painfully pointed out here. So many people would be glad to say Saturday, "Bill we wish you well for being around for 23 years. Happy is the day you were born."

However, many would add, "But if your mother had wanted you dead before you were born that's ok by us too." — Bill Lail, senior, automotive technology and mechanical engineering and technology.

SIU-C will have small part in coal lab

Your recent articles on the status and plans for the Coal Technology Laboratory in Carterville create a mistaken impression. SIU-C's research program that has been funded by the U.S. Department of Energy over the past several years is being phased out this year.

Next year, subject to Congressional appropriations, DOE will allocate funds instead to the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources for a hardware development program.

SIU-C's principal functions will be to serve as a contracting agent and as a landlord for the facility in Carterville. The extent of our involvement in the development projects may be, and probably should be, quite small.

We and other university people are not very adept at hardware development, and such projects are not good vehicles for masters and doctoral theses.

Two years ago, when I directed the Coal Research Center, the demise of the DOE-sponsored research program was expected because political backing for the program was waning rapidly.

I wish John Mead good luck as the new director of the Coal Research Center; with so many problems to solve, he will need it. — James H. Swisher, professor, mechanical engineering and energy processes.

Rooftop and parking space limited on campus

Glory be! I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the geniuses at our beloved parking division, especially Marilyn Hogan, for reducing the amount of available parking in the west Communications Building parking lot.

Many spaces have been appropriated for what appears to be the new location of a satellite dish. This seems like a great idea since rooftop space is at such a premium on this campus and we have so much surplus parking in that particular area.

In addition, I'd like to applaud our parking Czaars for converting an entire row of previously red decal spaces adjacent to this new bustling communications center to blue decal parking only.

You must have known how much I enjoy driving past empty blue spaces while I compete with the parking vultures for that rare western variety of red decal parking space.

Ms. Hogan, please don't bother to call me at my home. I will not return your call. I have no need for your point of view. I have the red decal reality to contend with. I'd be willing to wager that you can always find a space conveniently when you need it.

I would like to suggest that you do the entire red decal-bearing student body a favor and go wreak havoc with the parking at some other university — preferably not in Illinois. — Armando Pellerano, unclassified graduate student.

bondale's Halloween celebration if it could be geared toward families and not students.

"If that doesn't work, then we should shut it down totally," he added. Tuxhorn agreed that the celebration should continue because of the economic impact it has.

However, Yow said he could not think of a reason why he should support the celebration. "It's an accident waiting to happen," Yow said.

Carbondale township candidates met after the council candidates before an audience of about 30 to discuss their qualifications for supervisor, clerk, highway commissioner, tax assessor and trustee.

Democratic candidate for supervisor is Clara McClure, who served 16 years as a township trustee. Democratic incumbent Marie Harrell is running for her sixth year as township clerk while Democrats Jim Greer and George Everingham are newcomers for highway commissioner and tax assessor respectively.

Republican Eddie Turner, also a newcomer to the race, is running for supervisor against McClure. Yolanda Harrington, a Chicago native, is running against Harrell for township clerk. Oscar Bodkin, who is the Republican candidate for highway commissioner, could not attend the forum because of illness. Incumbent John Parrish is running as the Republican candidate for tax assessor.

Democratic candidates for trustee are Susan Metcalf, Gerald Compton and incumbents Freda Stalls and Charles Leming.

Republican candidates for the four trustee positions are newcomers Larry Juhlin, Chester Johnson, Jim Blaise and Elise Sode.

lethal injection has been set for Sept. 13, but Clemons said it was "unlikely it will occur because he'll more than likely take further action."

"Nobody quits at the state Supreme Court," he said. "He'll try to get into federal court."

Phillips is being held on Death Row at the Pontiac Correctional Center, awaiting execution.

During the course of the trial in 1986, defense psychologist testified that Phillips was sexually abused by his mother. The defense reasoned that he was insane and should be given life imprisonment or life in a mental institution.

United Press International contributed to this report.

This information was incorrectly stated in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian.

money received by rural and urban hospitals. The implementation of legislation reducing this amount would start on Oct. 1, 1991 and would be finalized Oct. 1, 1994, he said.

Maroney said it would be unrealistic for rural hospitals to have reimbursement rates close to or equal to those in hospitals in Chicago because of the differences in the cost of running facilities in urban settings.

Maroney cited higher costs of living and space as reasons for higher urban reimbursement rates.

Memorial Hospital is reimbursed at a similar rate as hospitals in Chicago because of the type of patients it handles, Maroney said.

The hospital is classified as a Rural Referral Center, which handles sicker patients than those in rural hospitals.

Margaret Walton, administrator at Franklin Hospital in Benton, said "there is quite a need" for legislation dealing with rural health care and that she agreed wholeheartedly with what Poshard is trying to do for the area hospitals.

Franklin Hospital, considered a rural hospital, cares for about 65 percent Medicare patients and suffers from the discrepancy in the rural-urban reimbursement rate, Walton said.

Walton said Franklin Hospital was able "to see the handwriting on the wall" and find alternative ways of keeping the hospital functioning.

"Rural hospitals cannot sit still," Walton said.

In an effort to keep the hospital financially stable, Franklin Hospital has expanded its operations to include long term health care, a home health service in Franklin County, social services, skilled nursing care and two psychiatric care units, she said.

Walton said it costs more to provide care in rural hospitals because of the expenses needed to recruit physicians and specialists. These types of personnel are drawn to urban hospitals because the hospitals usually have more to offer.

Strickland said 50 to 85 percent of the patients using Southern Illinois hospitals use Medicare and Medicaid insurance, compared to 30 percent in the big cities.

Strickland said that according to the National Rural Health Association it costs $9,500 more per year to run a rural medical practice, yet Medicare pays more to an urban practice for essentially the same services.

Because of the differential, the NRHA said 163 rural hospitals have been forced to close across the nation since 1980 with the possibility of 600 more in the next five years, Strickland said.

Maroney said that at Memorial Hospital, 38 percent of the patients are using Medicare and 18 percent Medicaid.

Medicare is a federal program that pays hospitals according to the diagnosis of the patient and not on the amount of time spent in the hospital, Maroney said.

Medicaid in Illinois is administered by the state from federal money it receives. It pays by the amount of days a patient is in the hospital, Maroney said.

He said Poshard is primarily concerned with Medicare because it is a federal program.

Maroney said if a patient under Medicare is in the hospital for 30 days, the government pays the hospital the same rate as if the patient were in for only one day.

The cost for a Medicare patient may be $10,000 but the hospital may only receive $4,500. The difference of $5,500 must be made up by increasing the bills of paying patients not using these insurance plans, Maroney said.

Maroney compared the situation to any other business. He said if a business has some of its merchandise stolen, the price of the other products must be raised to account for the loss.

ficials of three law enforcement agencies, said a half-ton of cocaine has been confiscated and more than $45 million in cash, jewelry and real estate seized from the ring, linked directly to the Colombian Medellin cartel.

Through federal court warrants, the government also moved to freeze up to $845 million more, although most of those funds are believed to be out of the country already, law enforcement sources said.

Thornburgh called the ring "incredibly complicated," and quipped that the government had achieved "a very hostile takeover of a major money laundering operation."

John Lawn, head of the Drug Enforcement Administration, said that investigators believe they have "hit a major, if not the major, laundering operation in the United States."

The investigation, code-named "Operation Polar Cap," was publicly disclosed last month when the government arrested 31 alleged members of a ring that allegedly used an Armenian jewelry operation as a front to launder drug money in California, New York, Texas and Florida.

But its full dimensions were not known until Wednesday when three criminal indictments were returned in Atlanta charging another 29 defendants with shifting drug-trafficking profits through a maze of accounts to conceal their origins.

Besides the individuals, the Banco de Occidente of Cali, Colombia, and a subsidiary, the Banco de Occidente of Panama, were named in conspiracy indictments.

After the charges were lodged Wednesday, Eduardo Martinez, who allegedly had told federal undercover agents he was the money broker for the Medellin Cartel, entered the bank in Panama City and refused to come out when about 40 members of the Panamanian Defense Forces surrounded the establishment, law enforcement officials said.

However, they said Martinez later somehow slipped out of the bank and escaped — although authorities had seized his private plane and were holding his pilots. Thornburgh acknowledged to reporters that he was "intrigued" that the PDF was cooperating at all, considering that its leader, Gen. Manuel Noriega, is under U.S. criminal indictment on drug trafficking charges.

Thornburgh, praising the operation, said there is "no more effective way to deal with the business of drug trafficking than to take the profit out of it."

Jazz Grammy king Marsalis to play in Shryock concert

The Student Programming Council will present jazz virtuoso Wynton Marsalis in concert on April 20 at Shryock Auditorium.

Tickets, $12.50 for students and $14.50 for the general public, go on sale at 8 a.m. Friday in the Student Center's central ticket office.

Marsalis, an eight-time Grammy winner, was born in New Orleans 28 years ago and was given his first trumpet at the age of six.

At 12, he undertook classical studies and at 18 began attending Juilliard, where he was soon recognized as the school's most impressive young trumpeter.

After a stint with Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers and a recording contract with Columbia Records, Marsalis appeared with the Herbie Hancock Quartet in Japan and at the Newport Jazz Festival in New York.

Marsalis made his vinyl debut in January of 1982 with his first solo LP, self-titled, which was the unanimous choice for jazz album of the year in "Down Beat," "Steak

Wynton Marsalis

Review" and other publications. It also earned Marsalis his first Grammy nomination.

"Hummel-Haydn-L. Mozart Trumpet Concertos," released the following year, won Marsalis his first Grammy and started off a chain of seven more Grammys in five years.

He received his most recent Grammy when "Marsalis Standard Time, Vol. 1" won 1987's best jazz instrumental performance by a group.

With this award, Marsalis is the only artist to win jazz Grammys five years running.

Marsalis said he studied classical music because "...so many young musicians were scared of this big monster called classical music...and I wanted to know what everybody was so scared of."

"Some people think I'm a classical musician that plays jazz. They have it backwards! I'm a jazz musician who can play classical music," Marsalis said.

Marsalis said he recognizes Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington as his greatest musical influences.

Having steadfastly refused the trendy commercial trappings that have compromised so many jazz artists' principles, Marsalis has stuck to his musical integrity and in the process has won critics' polls, Grammys in both the jazz and classical fields and has sold out concert halls throughout the world.

Newman's case goes to high court

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Actor Paul Newman's lawyers asked the state's highest court Wednesday to derail a defunct owner's lawsuit demanding a portion of the profits from the actor's charity foods business.

Attorney Wesley W. Horton asked the Supreme Court to allow the Appellate Court to consider dismissing the suit because Westport delicatessen owner Julius Gold had not presented enough evidence to even warrant a trial.

Gold claimed he was promised a share of the profits of the Newman's Own foods business.

The dispute was tried in Bridgeport Superior Court last year but ended in a mistrial June 23, 1988, because the judge learned jurors had access to a deposition that was not admitted as evidence.

Housing and job-bias cases pending in courts - NAACP

By Jackie Lay
Student Writer

About 45 housing and job-related discrimination complaints filed at the Carbondale Fair Housing Office have culminated in cases pending in the state and federal courts, an official at the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People office said.

Since the office opened in August 1988, Phillip James, the intake-outreach officer, said he has investigated more than 150 discrimination cases involving housing and employment while working for the NAACP.

Since the cases are pending judicial action, he wouldn't comment on the substance of any of the cases.

"Basically the office is open for complaints and questions from those individuals who feel they have been discriminated against," James said. "A thorough investigation is held for discriminatory-related incidents."

Most of the people who use the office are Carbondale residents, including students however. "Students don't need our help. They tend to use the campus legal services," James said.

James acts as a liaison between the plaintiffs and the defendants. "I ask the plaintiff to try to remember everything that happened, such as names, times, dates and places," he said. "Then I have them fill out a client information sheet."

This completed form is then sent to the Illinois Department of Human Rights in Chicago or Springfield. There, a decision is made by a representative for the case, concerning what action to take, James said.

"Investigations can be very detailed," James said. For example, to investigate a housing complaint, he sends people (testers) to the apartment complex to see if they were treated like the complaining party.

Testers are people who act almost like a spy in certain situations where someone has been treated unfairly. The point is to see if they also will be treated unfairly.

"I'd been anonymously told that blacks were not to be shown a particular apartment complex in this area, because they had enough (black residents). I sent testers in, two white people, to inquire about the same apartment, and the landlord said that he did have available space," James said.

The Fair Housing Office is located in the NAACP office, 207 N. Marion St.

Police Blotter

Carbondale police reported an aggravated battery occurred in the Bank of Carbondale parking lot, 216 E. Main, Tuesday.

Police said James Brown Jr., 21, was hit in the left rib cage and left forearm by an assailant wielding a tire iron.

Brown was admitted to Memorial Hospital of Carbondale where he was treated and released.

Police said the attacker is a 22- to 23-year-old black male, last seen wearing a blue shirt and jeans and driving a maroon and red Buick four-door automobile.

Terry Hale reported to Carbondale Police that an all-terrain vehicle was stolen from his home on New Era Road.

Police said a red Honda ATV was stolen from outside Hale's residence between 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. Monday.

Evidence at the scene suggests the vehicle was pushed onto New Era Road and possibly loaded into a vehicle, police said.

Carbondale Police are requesting assistance in locating witnesses to the theft. Police said anyone with information about the theft can contact the Carbondale Police Department Investigation Division at 549-2121.

Committee to analyze SIU football

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

The Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate will discuss the future of the SIU-C football program at their meeting on April 4, Donald D. Paige, Faculty Senate president, said.

Jerome S. Handler, anthropology faculty member, raised a proposal at the March 21 Faculty Senate meeting to discontinue the football program at SIU-C.

Using data gathered from University services and from long-standing faculty members, Handler presented tables showing football to be a consistent money loser, as well as socially unimportant for the University.

"Since the meeting, more people have called me in support of Handler," Paige said. He said those in support of football may not be as likely to call because they do not think the football program is in any danger.

"Before the month is over, we'll be doing something with Handler's proposal," Paige said.

He said he has written to other universities that have dismantled their football programs to ask them about the impact it has had on their university.

"However, I don't think I'll have that information before the committee meeting," Paige said.

In addition to the committee meeting, there will be two Faculty Senate meetings this month, Paige said.

Africans celebrate heritage

By Fernando Fellu-Moggi
Staff Writer

A panel discussion on bridging the language and communication gap between Africans and African-Americans began Africa Week which will host a series of discussions and presentations organized by the African Student Association.

Paul Adalikwu, president of the African Student Association said under the motto "Africa in the 1980s: new challenges, new goals," University African students will present papers and debate issues that effect the African continent today.

Adalikwu said a presentation of selected papers by African students on communications and language barriers in Africa, internationalization of conflicts and movement of refugees and the quest for education in the continent will take place at 7 p.m. tonight in the Renaissance room of the Student Center.

Friday at 7 p.m. in the Kaskaskia Missouri room of the Student Center, African students will present a panel discussion on communication problems, Pan-Africanism, economic problems and technology in Africa, and their relation to the Organization of African Unity, Adalikwu said.

He said the week will end with an African cuisine buffet at Quigley 119 at 2 p.m. Saturday. The buffet will include a speech by political science professor Richard Dale. Dale's speech will discuss Africa in the 1980s.

Tickets for the buffet can be purchased at the Student Center ticket office or at the door.

On Saturday night, a dance party and fashion show will take place at 10 p.m. at King's Wok restaurant, Adalikwu said.

Country star, local group to perform

Country music songstress Susan Marshall will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Friday night at Fred's Dance Barn in Cambria.

Admission is $4. Local country group Area Code 618 will open for the Reptile Records' recording artist.

Marshall hit the Country Top 10 for independent labels with her 1987 rockabilly single "Why Can't You Tell Me Why," which featured rock legend Duane Eddy on lead guitar.

Another guest performer on "Don't Play Innocent With Me," her debut album, was Jason and the Scorchers guitarist Warner Hodges.

Club assists foreigners' adjust to U.S.

By Fernando Fellu-Moggi
Staff Writer

Since the first international students arrived at the University in the early 1950s, University and community groups have tried to help them adapt.

Through the years, many of the groups have gotten larger and become permanent. Since 1982, they've become part of the International Friends Club, an umbrella organization that coordinates the different programs, Burghilde Gruber, president of the club, said.

Gruber said the Friends Club is a volunteer organization affiliated with the office of international programs and services.

According to a history of IFC written by the club's vice president, Inga Sollberger, families participated in the first program organized to help international students. Families of American volunteers invited students to their homes on a regular basis throughout the year "to make them feel at home away from home."

Since then, Sollberger writes, many programs were created. Some were not successful and were discontinued, but many were accepted and continue today.

Gruber said IFC currently offers nine programs including host families, American families who invite international students to their homes and groups that help spouses of international students solve problems in an American social setting.

Gruber said other programs include demonstration of international cooking for American students, teaching international students how to prepare some American dishes; three programs of language and cultural exchange between foreigners and local students and members of the community; and a program that lends household articles and clothes to students who have just arrived to the country.

"We depend a lot on our volunteers, we need a lot of help to maintain the programs," Gruber said. "We don't only receive help from people, but also from local churches."

Gruber said IFC has extended some programs to the community, including local schools and groups of senior citizens.

She said the club also has received numerous grants and aid to travel to conferences.

"Since 1963, we (IFC) have sent nine people to conferences on travel grants," Gruber said. "We have received grants from the Egyptian Agency on Aging and the Association for Foreign Students Affairs, among others."

Gruber said the Friends Club is trying to expand its programs.

"We are in constant need of volunteers," she said.

$4 million telephone system to be completed by summer

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

The installation of the new $4 million telephone system begun last July is expected to be completed by June 30, Harry D. Wirth, director of Service Enterprises, said.

The new system gives each University phone a separate line and features on-campus switching centers at Grinnell Hall, the Student Center and the Communications Building.

All of the dormitories were switched to the system before fall 1988, Wirth said. Each dorm room has a private line rather than the old party line system.

Many campus buildings are already finished, but some of the larger ones have yet to be done, according to a status list that came out Feb. 22.

Morris Library, Lawson Hall and Wham are among the buildings to be finished this month.

The University is changing from the GTE 75-B system, which had been the heart of University telecommunications for 25 years, to the Centranet system.

"Each office has the choice to have the phone ring on the desk or in the central office," Wirth said. "This varies from office to office."

The first stage, completed

New system offers access to phone list via computer

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

The office of University Relations is offering a service for faculty and staff members trying to find new phone numbers as a result of the new desk phone number system, Terry Mathias, University Relations project director, said.

Faculty and staff may voluntarily provide their new phone numbers for display in the computerized University Calendar. This is a temporary service effective only until the new faculty and staff guide comes out next October.

Any faculty or staff member wishing their number to be displayed should complete a form available from University Relations, or call University Relations with the following information: name, office, and new phone number.

To find a new phone number, enter the CMS computing environment, type "calendar" to access the University Calendar, and select "12" on the main menu. Then type the last name of the person whose number you wish.

To obtain a CMS user ID number, contact Computing Affairs.

The service was installed two weeks ago.

last summer, included telephone workers dismantling SIU-C's old telemanagement system, deactivating its main switching equipment and turning on a new state-of-the-art system.

Call transfer, call forwarding and other features that come with the new phones will not be available until the second stage is completed.

"We're in the second stage now," Wirth said.

All campus users are linked to a new long distance routing called ATC Megacom service.

The finished switchover will complete a decade of planning.

Future security requires modern defenses, key to national power

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

"Modernizing America's defenses is the key to our future security," said Col. Neal Winters, a member of the Air Force National Security Briefing Team said.

Winters delivered a lecture on "National Security Issues: Threats, Challenges and Dollars" to over 90 ROTC and non-military listeners in Wham Auditorium. Winters was accompanied by Maj. Alan Thompson, also a member of the briefing team.

Winters measured national power in terms of economic, political, psychosocial and military power. He said the armed forces must carry a big stick for the time when international problems escalate to the point where the military must become involved, and "it's important that the big stick be strong."

Winters admitted defense is expensive, but said it makes up 26 percent of the national budget, not 50 percent as many people believe. He said the Soviet Union is spending two to three times as much on defense as the United States, and that the United States must spend more if it wants to remain competitive.

"We cannot allow our defenses to wither as they did in the 1970's," Winters said.

Speaking on global challenges, Winters said our Western European NATO allies in Europe are outnumbered nearly two to one in terms of tanks, aircraft and troops by the Soviet Union. All over the world, the Soviets remain our principal adversary, he said.

"The whole world, including myself, is wondering who Mikhail Gorbachev is."

Winters said Gorbachev is unlike any other Soviet leaders in that Gorbachev is charismatic, open to Western ideas, and "doesn't look like a crook."

One reason the Soviets are so advanced, Winters said, is because of the access they have to U.S. technologies. He said the CIA estimates over 5,000 Soviet technologies have been stolen from the United States. Winters said that every issue of "Aviation Week," which he referred to as "Aviation Leak," has detailed schematics of new U.S. aviation technology.

On the subject of chemical and biological weapons, Winters said over 147 nations are in Geneva trying to ban their use. He also said that the United States is having difficulty in dealing with possible chemical weapon threats in the meantime.

"Our country's policy is deterrence. To deter chemical and biological weapons, we have to have them, too."

University program sponsors Aviation Day

By Alicia Hill
Staff Writer

The Army ROTC program is sponsoring an Army Aviation Day April 22 at the Southern Illinois Airport in conjunction with the airport's air and car shows.

The 101st Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell, Kentucky and the Illinois Army National Guard will provide the helicopters.

The Army and Air Force cadets will be given orientation flights around Carbondale in the UH-60 (Blackhawk), and the UH-1H (Huey).

The army's newest helicopter, the AH-64, Apache (Attack Helicopter), the CH-47, Chinook (Transport Helicopter), and an OH-58, Kiowa (Reconnaissance Helicopter) will be on display as experts explain their capabilities.

Also, local National Guard and Reserve units will explain displayed artillery and signal equipment.

The airport's regular air show will include a wing walking act performed by a husband and wife team, an aerobatic clown act, and a 50 foot inverted ribboncut using the tail of the "Super Decathalon" plane flown by Pete Meyers.

The airport will also display numerous military aircraft including the S3A Viking, an anti-submarine plane, and the A10 Thunderbolt, an anti-tank aircraft.

A car show will round out the day with approximately 120 classic cars from the area.

Aviation Day will be from 9 to 4 p.m. The aircraft performances will begin at 1 p.m.

Ryan to give seminar to develop economic ideas for communities

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Illinois Lt. Gov. George Ryan will begin a series of seminars in Carbondale, directed at the intricacies needed to market statewide communities to corporate decision-makers for business expansion or relocation.

The seminar will begin at 1 p.m. today in Student Center Ballroom D.

The seminar will give community leaders the information and tools they need to package their community for future economic development, Kay Schultz, a spokesman for Ryan, said.

Schultz said communities usually have color community brochures that fail to provide the information business leaders need to make decisions concerning expansion.

Those attending the seminar will receive a handbook that will help communities provide the information businesses are looking for when expanding.

The handbook describes what communities need to provide in order to attract businesses, how to provide information on zoning, industrial parks, airports, and the availability of labor forces and educational accessibility, Schultz said.

Experts from both the public and private sector will attend the seminar, Schultz said.

Topics to be discussed include basic marketing techniques, a community profile, land and building forms, brochures and videos, demographics, publications, maps and agencies and private sector recruiting.

The cost of the seminar is $25.

A total of six seminars will be given across the state and once concluded, community leaders will have the opportunity to distribute information on their communities to businesses June 1-2 at the Rosemont Horizon in Chicago, Schultz said.

Theater group performs plays for deaf, hearing

By Wayne Wallace
and Nora Bentley
Staff Writers

The Traveling Hands Theatrical Troupe takes a unique approach to performing.

Their approach simultaneously brings entertainment to the deaf, the hearing and the hearing-impaired.

The group combines hearing and hearing-impaired actors in staging musicals and plays that appeal to all members of an audience, whether they can hear or not.

The Traveling Hands Troupe performed Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel" Tuesday in the Student Center as special guests of the Southern Illinois Parents of the Hearing Impaired.

Kathy Herman, director of the annual plays, said the group brings literature to the hearing-impaired which otherwise isn't available to them.

The group tours for a week each spring, presenting a full-length play. This year is the group's 15th anniversary of productions.

"Carousel" is the story of a carnival barker looking for a better life, but instead meets with tragedy.

"It's inspirational for young deaf children to see role models (the actors)," Herman said, referring to the troupe's purpose.

The hearing-impaired actors keep up with the play's narrative action and music cues by using the hearing actors as a guideline, Herman said.

Songs for the musical is on tape, but the voices are all live, she said. Singers stand behind the curtain and sing while the actors use sign language, dance and act out the musical or play.

Advice To The Drug Worn

Dr. Buzz: What are "DESIGNER DRUGS"? and in particular, what is ECSTASY?

Designer drugs are neither as fashionable as they sound nor custom-made to fit you. They are a wide variety of compounds that are produced in clandestine laboratories, often someone's basement or garage. Though they closely resemble illegal drugs in chemical composition, some are just different enough from the "parent" drug that federal laws do not specifically include them under their definition of being illegal. DESIGNER DRUGS can be dangerous, however, not just because of their "parent" compound, but also because of the conditions under which it may have been produced, i.e. little regard for quality control, contaminants, poor storage, etc. It's estimated that 50% of such street drugs are misrepresented as far as their content. ECSTASY, XTC, MDMA, and ADAM all stand for Methylendioxyamphetamines, a drug that is chemically related to amphetamines. It is illegal and produces intoxication and changes in sensory perceptions. Although related to amphetamines, users report that it calms them down and promotes relaxation. It is commonly called the "love drug" because it's supposed to inspire loving feelings in groups of people. Like other amphetamine-derived compounds, ECSTASY in high dosages or in combination with alcohol or other depressants can cause adverse reactions including blurred vision, dangerous fluctuations in blood pressure, panic attacks, and even death in extreme cases.

If you have a question about alcohol or drugs - send it to Dr. Buzz c/o the Wellness Center or call 536-4441. Look for your answer in Dr. Buzz's column.

Poet's life work celebrated in reading on eve of death

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

The poetry of William Butler Yeats will be celebrated through a dramatic adaptation of his life's work at 8 p.m. Friday in Morris Library Auditorium.

Admission is free to this reading in eight voices, directed and adapted for the stage by Aaron Aji and Roy Flannagan.

Aji and Flannagan, graduate students in English, were commissioned by the English department to stage a salute to the Irish modernist poet on the eve of the 50th anniversary of his death.

Last October the co-directors adapted a successful presentation of T.S. Eliot's contemporary poem "The Wastland," Aji said.

"We had a full house, which was nice to see for a poetry reading. We hope to get the same response for Yeats," he said.

"Yeats is one of the most accessible poets to the common reader. For modern times, this is a rare treat," Aji said.

"He's extremely musical and sounds better when read aloud. He's very melodic," Flannagan added.

"Yeats brings his readers with him far into his imagination. With Eliot, you can only watch as he goes," Aji said.

The presentation is titled "The Widening Gyre," taken from a passage in Yeats' poem "The Second Coming," Flannagan said.

The passage and the poem itself deal with "Yeats' apocalyptic prophecy, his mythological construct of history in terms of recurrent cycles," Aji said.

Aji described Yeats as taking the modernist disposition that values have become obsolete in a disintegrating, war-torn society.

"The Second Coming," will be featured prominently in the dramatic presentation, as will three other of Yeats' major works.

Flannagan said fragments of an additional 15 Yeats poems will be incorporated into the show. "It reads almost like a dialogue, just like a play," he said.

With the exception of an opening ode to Yeats, written on the occasion of his death in 1939, every word spoken on stage Friday night will be strictly from Yeats' poetry.

Aji said they adapted the bulk of Yeats' work into a dramatic presentation by juxtaposing passages of poetry which responded thematically to one another.

Flannagan noted, however, that poetry purists may frown on this method of chopping up poems and violating the sanctity of whole works.

"But you always run that risk," Flannagan said.

The directing duo has encompassed Yeats' major themes into three categories. The first deals with the poet's political preoccupation with the Irish nationalist cause.

His modernist reflections on man's mortality comprise a second category.

Thirdly, the dramatic reading will explore Yeats' ethereal love poems and his infatuation with Maude Gonne, an Irish society matron.

Yeats' more carnal and lustful aspects will also be brought out in the reading.

Library group to hold book sale

By Alicia Hill
Staff Writer

A Morris library support group, will hold a book sale today and Friday in the browsing room of the library.

The Friends of Morris Library book sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day. Interested students are encouraged to come early.

"The books sell out every year, usually in the first day," Karen Drickamer, executive secretary of the group, said.

Over 3000 books and magazines have been collected for the sale.

Book prices range from $.25 to $.2.

"We have books from all subject areas. There is an especially large amount of history books in excellent condition," Drickamer said.

The books are donated for sale by members of the community, faculty and Friends members.

Profits from the sale go to the library's resource fund.

The Friends of Morris Library is composed of approximately 200 members from the community, University faculty and alumni.

The group functions to supplement the library's resource funds.

"We try to provide the entire library with materials which would otherwise not be provided through the library's budget," Drickamer said.

The book sale is a semi-annual event.

Time vault to contain undershorts

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A time capsule to be buried at the Colonnade residential and business complex will contain mementos from the complex's residents, including a pair of undershorts from a federal judge, a spokeswoman said Wednesday.

Mary Lou Hearn, a sales representative for Hill & Co. of Baltimore, which is the residential broker for the project, said she asked buyers of the units to submit something they would like to see included in the time capsule.

"The items all had particular meanings. It meant something in their lives," Hearn said.

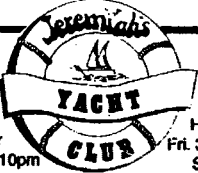

Among the items are soil from the construction site, a Salvador Dali perfume bottle and a letter from Ronald Reagan.

But the most unusual item is a pair of underwear from an anonymous federal judge in Baltimore.

"I don't know what it means but I imagine it could be very exciting," Hearn said.

The time capsule is to be opened in the 22nd century.

Ceremonies to bury the capsule are scheduled Thursday to mark the completion of the Colonnade infrastructure.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

Please Be Sure To Check
Your Classified Advertisement For Errors
On The First Day Of Publication

The Daily Egyptian cannot be responsible for more than one day's incorrect insertion. Advertisers are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser which lessen the value of the advertisement will be adjusted.

All classified advertising must be processed before 12:00 Noon to appear in the next day's publication. Anything processed after 12:00 Noon will go in the following day's publication. Classified advertising must be paid in advance except for those accounts with established credit. A 25% charge will be added to billed classified advertising. A service charge of $7.50 will be added to the advertiser's account for every check returned to the Daily Egyptian unpaid by the advertiser's bank. Early cancellation of a classified advertisement will be charged a $2.00 service fee. Any refund under $2.00 will be forfeited due to the cost of processing.

All advertising submitted to the Daily Egyptian is subject to approval and may be revised, rejected, or cancelled at any time.
The Daily Egyptian assumes no liability for any reason it becomes necessary to omit an advertisement.

A sample of all mail-order items must be submitted and approved prior to deadline for publication.
No ads will be mis-classified.

Indiana's Jay Edwards leaving for NBA career

Sophomore says nothing more to do in college arena

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Jay Edwards, who overcame a bout with drugs to lead Indiana to the Big Ten basketball championship this season, said Wednesday he plans to skip his final two collegiate seasons and enter the NBA draft.

"Jay Edwards has declared his intention to enter the NBA draft," associate athletic director Steve Downing said in a brief statement.

"Jay told me yesterday that he is going to the NBA and apply for hardship," Downing said. "He felt he had nothing more to accomplish at Indiana. He said that with his player of the year honor in the Big Ten he would never be any hotter than he is right now."

Edwards, a member of UPI's All-America team, said he plans to remain in school and finish the spring semester. Edwards averaged 20 points a game this past season for the Hoosiers, who lost to Seton Hall in the NCAA West semifinals.

Coach Bob Knight issued a one-sentence statement that said, "I wish Jay the very best and hope that his decision works out well for him."

Knight stuck by Edwards prior to his sophomore season and eventually reinstated him after Edwards underwent drug rehabilitation last fall. Knight also pulled and later reinstated the scholarship of the Marion, Ind., native.

Rick Majerus, coach at Ball State, called the move "the biggest mistake that kid could make."

He and teammate Lyndon

Jones both enrolled at IU after leading Marion to three consecutive Indiana high school basketball crowns. Jones and Edwards shared the 1987 Mr. Basketball award for state prep players.

Edwards becomes the second player to leave Indiana for professional basketball after his sophomore season. The first person was Isiah Thomas, who departed after leading the Hoosiers to the 1981 NCAA title. The Detroit Pistons made Thomas the second pick in that year's draft.

The departure came against the advice of Rosemary Edwards, Jay's mother.

"I'm numb at this point," she said. "I talked to Jay on and off about it, but I thought we would be able to talk to him face to face. Personally, I wanted him to stay in school. But Jay has to do what he has to do. It has worked out for some and hopefully it will work out for him."

The NBA draft will be conducted June 27. A lottery in May among teams not making the playoffs will determine the order of selection for the first picks.

Wichita State shortstop leading Valley in hitting

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Wichita State shortstop Mike Lansing is majoring in journalism, but as the Missouri Valley Conference's leading hitter he's already enjoying a fair share of the press clippings.

Although Lansing had garnered some media attention last spring with a nine-game hit streak through the Valley tournament and College World Series, his latest ex-plots are raising eyebrows throughout the conference.

MVC Roundup

Lansing, only a .281 career hitter, has started this season on a tear. His .466 batting average is just one of five conference hitting statistics in which he ranks first.

But it was Lansing's .469 clip in seven games last week that earned him the MVC baseball Player of the Week award.

As the Shockers went on a 6-1 run that improved their record to 24-2, Lansing tied a school record with two triples in a single game in the 7-2 loss to Hawaii at the Rainbow Easter Tournament in Honolulu.

For the record, Lansing has played in 25 games, had 116 at bats, scored 48 runs, had 54 hits, had six triples and 42 runs batted in.

The native of Casper, Wyo. remains a threat on the basepaths. As a sophomore, Lansing led the Valley with 51 stolen bases. He has stolen 14 bases in 16 chances this season, which projects to a season total 36 over a 65-game season.

When it comes to playing the field, he's no slouch. Last week, Lansing fielded 29 chances without an error.

Mound Shocks

While Wichita State's of-fense performers grab the limelight, its pitchers keep throwing smoke. Freshman Darrin Paxton had 13 strikeouts in a three-hitter over Hawaii-Hilo to push the Shockers up to No. 3 in the ESPN rankings.

But the real fire comes from Greg Brummett and Pat Ceden, who lead the Valley with 36 strikeouts each. The undefeated Ceden was the first conference pitcher to win 5 games. Meanwhile, junior short relief specialist Jim Newlin grabbed save No. 5.

How'd that Stryke-ya

Illinois State has the Valley's two top earned run average leaders in Ed Stryker and Cory Tasche. Each has only one earned run. Stryker, who is 2-0, has a .60 ERA. Tasche, 1-0, also has a .60 ERA. As a team, though, the fifth-place Redbirds also are fifth in pitching rankings.

Going the distance

Bradley pitchers filed complete games in four victories this week. The Braves now have a total 10 complete games. Outfielder Jerry Mitchell's hit streak went to 15 games, but second baseman David Carr suffered a broken hand and is lost for at least two weeks.

Cincinnati hires basketball coach

CINCINNATI (UPI) — University of Akron basketball coach Bob Huggins was named head coach at the University of Cincinnati Wednesday.

"This is a job where you can be in the Final Four every year," said Huggins. "To me, that's what it's all about. Those guys who are playing in the Final Four this week, that's where I want to be."

Huggins, 35, signed a five-year contract to succeed Tony Yates, who was fired three weeks ago.

Two tennis players near milestone win

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

A number of milestones could possibly be reached this weekend when the women's tennis team travels to Memphis State for a four-team round-robin competition.

No. 1 singles player Beth Boardman and No. 2 singles player Dana Cherebetiu are only a win away from moving up on the all-time SIU-C singles win list.

Junior Boardman's next singles win will give her a career record of 81-34, tying Stacey Sherman (1980-84) for sixth place.

Cherebetiu will move up to the fourth-place spot with her next victory, tying Mary Pat Kramer (1982-86).

To achieve these marks, the Saluki women must face

Louisiana Tech, Southern Mississippi, and longtime rival Memphis State.

"We haven't played the other teams in a long time," coach Judy Auld said. "But we play Memphis State every year since I've been here and it's always a close, competitive match."

The Salukis go into the weekend sporting a 6-0 spring record, tying the eight-game win streak from spring of 1988. Auld said she is extremely happy with her teams performance this spring.

"We have pulled out the close matches and that always makes a coach happy," she said. "We are going to play tough this weekend and then we can come back and prepare for the conference teams that are coming up."

Coaching Turnstile

Missouri Valley
Coaching changes
1989
Wichita State: Eddie Fogler resigns to coach at Vanderbilt.
Illinois State: Bob Donawald, coach since 1976, fired.
Indiana State: Tates Locke hired after resignation of Ron Greene.
1988
Drake: Tom Abatemarco replaces Gary Garner.
1986
Wichita State: Eddie Fogler replaces Gene Smithson.
Bradley: Stan Albeck replaces Dick Versace.

SHOCKER, from Page 20

"It is a tremendous step up, and one of the better jobs in the basketball world," Herrin said. "He has had great success his three years there, and I consider him a good friend of mine."

Herrin said the Valley has not really been hurt by losing three coaches, and job shifts are a common thing in the coaching world.

"It is not an unusual thing," Herrin said. "There will always be turnover, always be changes."

Fogler visited the Vanderbilt campus Tuesday, then returned to Wichita State for a meeting Wednesday with his team and Athletic Director Tom Shupe.

Fogler, 40, has been a head coach for three seasons, all at Wichita State. He took the Shockers to the NCAA Tournament his first two years. His record at Wichita State is 61-32, including 19-11 this year.

He was named an assistant coach in 1973 at North Carolina after serving as graduate assistant and playing for head coach Dean Smith from 1967.

Broadcaster holds Michigan AD should name Fisher head coach

"The decision about Steve should be made regardless of what he did in the (NCAA) tournament," Packer said of Fisher, who replaced Bill Frieder when Frieder left for Arizona State on the eve of the tourney. "Fisher has been an assistant for seven years. You should have a handle on your personnel by then."

Fisher has guided the Wolverines to four tournament victories. They play Illinois Saturday in the second half of the Kingdome double-header.

"The question you might have about an assistant is if he could pull the trigger," Packer said. "Steve Fisher has shown he can. The decision (to retain Fisher or not) should've already been made."

"It might be Bo's style handling it this way, but a good executive would've done it differently."

Packer also said Saturday's Seton Hall-Duke opener should be more competitive than many people expect.

"Seton Hall has four great seniors and (6-foot-7 swingman Andrew) Gaze, who has been playing for a long time," the analyst said. "They have good size and power, just like Duke."

Packer called the Michigan-Illinois matchup a "mind game."

"Michigan is playing like a different team than they were three weeks ago when Illinois walked on their court and destroyed them," he said. "Illinois has won twice, but there could be an inner mental breakdown. Winning two could be a positive or negative." Packer added he believes much talk in Seattle will concern the future of North Carolina State Coach Jim Valvano. The Wolfpack endured a season in which Valvano's recruiting tactics were questioned in an unpublished book.

"Jim has done a fine job at N.C. State," he said, "but with all the backlash from the book, whether it was published or not, the team is in a rebuilding process. In a sense, Jim's career is somewhat in a rebuilding process."

There have been rumors that Valvano will coach the Los Angeles Clippers next season.

"It's my opinion that with a healthy Danny Manning, the Clippers are an exciting young team as there is in the NBA," Packer said.

Lawyers for America's Cup looking for reasons to appeal

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Attorneys studied a judge's ruling Wednesday in search of a way to keep the America's Cup in San Diego despite her order that the world's top sailing trophy be forfeited to New Zealand.

The San Diego Yacht Club and America's Cup Organizing Committee pressed a search for grounds on which to appeal Tuesday's stunning ruling that awarded the cup to New Zealand's Mercury Bay Boating Club.

"We had a good discussion (Tuesday) and briefed both boards. A lot of the board members weren't able to make it on short notice so they'll be briefed today," said Mark Smith, an attorney for the yacht club.

New York Supreme Court Justice Carmeen Beauchamp Ciparick issued a strongly-worded ruling Tuesday agreeing with Mercury Bay's contention that San Diego violated the spirit of sportsmanship when it trounced the Kiwi's monohull sloop with a catamaran last fall.

It was New Zealand's contention that San Diego was required by cup rules to defend the trophy in a yacht that was similar enough to the challenging boat to make for a fair sporting match.

Ciparick scolded San Diego for trying to "retain the cup at all costs."

"I think it is safe to say that no one expected this decision," Smith said.

ACOC spokesman Tom Mitchell said Ciparick's decision was being examined "line by line" by a team of lawyers who found it to be vague.

BARDO, from Page 20

Illini, and watching their hard work throughout the season pay off.

"My joy comes through knowing the different kids on the team," Bardo said. "I know how hard St-phen has worked. A lot of times, people work hard and come up short, but in this case, they worked hard and things turned out for them. That is what pleases me the most."

To no surprise, and despite the fact that his son is on the team, Dr. Bardo says Illinois is his pick to win the national title.

"I really don't think anyone can beat them," Bardo said. "They convinced me when they beat Louisville after Lowell Hamilton and Kenny Battle were hurt."

"There is something about that Illinois team that a coach can't coach, and is unidentifiable. People talk about guts and courage, but, as trite as it may sound, I think a lot of it has to do with how much of a family they are."

Finals week is coming a bit early for the men's swim team.

Ranked 13th in the final College Swimming Coaches Association poll, the Salukis will be trying for their highest NCAA finish under fifth-year coach Doug Ingram at the swimming and diving championships today through Saturday in Indianapolis, Ind.

In the last four NCAA meets, SIU-C has placed 16th, 17th, 24th and 26th respectively. Since 1960, the Salukis have had 24 top 20 finishes in the season's final meet, the highest being ninth in 1965.

This year, SIU-C will take 12 athletes into the competition, many members of Ingram's first recruiting class.

"Our whole focus this year, and for the past four years, has been to make progress at the NCAA championships," Ingram said. "We did a nice job in the dual meet season and got nice rankings, but the true test of our ability comes this week."

The Salukis will carry a 10-2 dual meet record, the best under Ingram, into today's competition, which includes wins over four teams ranked in the top 25, Indiana, Miami, Kansas and Nebraska. The Salukis will take four All-Americans — Scott Roberts, Harri Garmendia, Chris Gally and Alex Yokochi — into the Indiana Natatorium.

Leading the Saluki charge will be senior co-captain Roberts. The Tacoma, Wash., native qualified in December in the 200 freestyle and broke a school record in the same event in January at 1 minute 37.22 seconds.

Roberts, who is making his third NCAA championship appearance, will swim the 200 backstroke, 200 freestyle and possibly the 100 backstroke in addition to being a member on all five relay squads.

"Scott's the kind of guy you want leading your team," Ingram said. "He's been a conscientious and consistent performer the past four years. Because of that I know he'll be prepared and he'll have a great attitude."

Garmendia is a two-time finalist in the 200 butterfly, and has been SIU-C's top scorer in each of the past two seasons. In addition, Garmendia will swim in the individual medleys.

"Harri's a big meet swimmer," Ingram said. "He thrives on competing against the best competition. I think he'll surprise people with his individual medley performances."

Gally set a new school record in the 100 butterfly with a 48.10 time in December.

SIU-C's individual event qualifiers are Eric Bradac in the 500 and 1,650 freestyle, Bruce Brockschmidt in the 200 and 400 individual medley and 200 backstroke, Mark Canterbury in the 100 and 200 breaststroke, Gally in the 100 and 200 butterfly and Yokochi in the 100 and 200 breaststroke.

The Salukis will send five relay teams which include the seven individual qualifiers and Lee Carry, Todd Edision, Jeff Goetz, Deryl Leubner and David Morovitz.

University professor enjoys watching son play basketball

Bardo and his wife follow Illini guard around country

For Dr. Harold Bardo, director of SIU-C's MedPrep program, the world of medicine is going to have to survive without him for a few days.

You see, Bardo is off to Seattle. No, there's no big medical conference or lecture going on. He's going with his wife, Lana, and family to watch a basketball game.

When Illinois hits the Kingdome floor Saturday night against Michigan, you can bet Bardo and his family will have their eyes glued on one person, their son Steve, a starter for the Illini.

"You hear how people say the experience is almost indescribable, I think it almost is," said Bardo, who also serves SIU as assistant dean of students for minority affairs and counseling for the School of Medicine and is associate chairman of medical education.

Describing himself and his wife as ardent Illinois fans, Bardo said they have seen nearly every Illini games this season, home and on the road, and were on hand in Indianapolis, Ind., and Minneapolis, Minn., for Illinois' NCAA tournament action.

Through his contact with his son at the tournament sites, Bardo said he understands just how excited Steve and the rest of the Illinois team really is.

"After the Syracuse game, he came over to his mother and I, gave us a hug, and said 'Dad, we're going to the Final Four,'" Dr. Bardo said. "The emotion in his voice told me how much it meant to him."

"When they were in Minnesota, the night before the Syracuse game, he called and said 'We got fitted for our rings today.' All the teams in the Final Four get a Final Four ring. I think that really describes in a sentence how he felt about it."

Steve graduated from Carbondale Community High School in 1985, and besides being courted by Illinois, Michigan State, Ohio State and Notre Dame, the Salukis were hoping to sign Bardo's name on the dotted line.

"It is often difficult for a young person when he grows up in a community where there is a college," said Dr. Bardo on his son's choice to pass up SIU-C. "If you can afford it, most students want to get away from their home."

"Illinois was the closest Big Ten team to home. Whether he seriously considered SIU I really don't know. It offered nothing new or different to him, and that was the time when (the Salukis) were experiencing the transition of coaches and none of that helped."

Dr. Bardo said he did not force SIU-C on his son, despite the fact that he graduated from the University.

"This is my university, my school where I got my degree," Bardo said. "I let my children have the choice of where they wanted to go. Our policy in raising children is to make them aware of the possibilities."

The University administrator said he takes pride in knowing the members of the

Shocker coach Eddie Fogler takes head spot at Vanderbilt

Wichita State head basketball coach Eddie Fogler resigned Wednesday to accept an offer to become head coach at Vanderbilt.

Fogler's departure is the third by a Missouri Valley coach since the season's end. Indiana State's Ron Greene resigned and was replaced by Taylor Locke and Illinois State fired head coach Bob Donewald.

Fogler said at a news conference in Wichita, Kan., that the decision was one of the toughest of his life. But, he said Vanderbilt offered too strong an attraction to stay at Wichita State.

"I probably had the chance to interview for maybe 15 positions over the past few years," Fogler said. "I only chose to interview at one and that was Vanderbilt."

Valley commissioner Doug Elgin said the loss of Fogler leaves a pair of big shoes for the Shockers to fill.

"When a guy like Eddie Fogler leaves it is not a happy day for the Missouri Valley," Elgin said. "I am sorry to see him go. He is a class person and was good for the MVC while he was in the league."

Elgin said there is no real concern on his part regarding the rash of coaching changes this season.

"There is no cause for alarm," Elgin said. "My only concern is with the hiring of the right people when coaches leave."

"I think it is a tribute to our league when schools like Vanderbilt take our coaches. It can be a positive thing if a new person comes in and builds on the past tradition."

SIU-C head coach Rich Herrin, whose four-year tenure with the Salukis makes him the dean of the MVC, said the move is a definite step up for Fogler.

Saluki women picked fifth in Gateway

The Saluki softball players were in the cage and in front of the tube Wednesday after rain kept the team from competing in Cape Girardeau.

The team practiced inside Davies Gymnasium after its game against Southeast Missouri State was canceled Wednesday.

Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer talked strategy with her players after the conference report came out with the Gateway pre-season favorites. She also held batting practice and showed a film on the proper mind set for winning.

Pre-season picks place the Salukis in fourth behind favored Illinois State who racked up five first-place votes. Western Illinois was second and Eastern Illinois was third.

The point total was close for first and second with ISU getting 74 points and the Westwinds receiving 72 points. Third-place Eastern had 55, SIU-C had 52 points with no first or second-place votes, and Northern Iowa was close behind with 51. Indiana State was sixth with 49 points, Wichita, Southwest Missouri, Bradley, and Drake followed with 30, 29, 26, and 10 points respectively.

"It's hard to pick them until you've seen them," said Brechtelsbauer. "A few years ago Western had the No. 7 seat and ended up winning the conference."

The Salukis rescheduled their game with Southeast Missouri for May 3, in Cape Girardeau.

Rain postpones baseball game

Today's baseball game at Austin Peay was rained out. The 8-10 Salukis have scheduled a makeup as part of a May 3 doubleheader against the Governors.

The Salukis are scheduled to play a noon doubleheader Saturday.
