Nixon greeted coolly by Soviet leaders

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon encountered a cool, though correct reception in the Soviet Union Monday, and then began his summit meetings with Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist party chief. Moscow television described the brief talk as frank and businesslike.

At a Kremlin banquet later, the first U.S. president to visit Moscow expressed veiled criticism of the Soviet Union's role as an arms supplier to North Vietnam but called for cooperation to "pave the way to peace for all the world."

A hundred thousand Muscovites turned out for a glimpse of the President and Mrs. Nixon as they rode into Moscow from the airport. The crowd, curious but not exuberant, far eclipsed the handful of onlookers who watched Nixon's motorcade travel the streets of Peking when he arrived there three months ago for the first of his major sessions of summitry.

The official welcome at the airport was colorful, with music and marchers but seemed restrained. Brezhnev wasn't there. The President was greeted by President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

This was correct by protocol, since Brezhnev is not a government leader. The President and the Soviet Union's No. 1 man met in private shortly before the Kremlin banquet in honor of the Nations.

The White House, without giving details, announced the meeting of the two leaders after pictures of Nixon and Brezhnev appeared on Soviet television.

Nixon's national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, sat in on the session, a White House spokesman reported.

The plan was for the Nixon-Brezhnev meetings to resume Tuesday morning. Heading the agenda are Vietnam and a pact to limit strategic arms and clamp controls on the two superpowers' nuclear arsenals.

Nixon said in his toast at the banquet that he came to Moscow in peace.

"The American people want peace," he said. "I know the people of the Soviet Union want peace. My fervent hope is that we, as representatives of our two peoples, can work together to insure that all the people of the earth can enjoy the blessings of peace."

In words which appeared aimed at the Soviet goal of equal footing with the United States in world affairs, Nixon said: "Because we are both prepared to proceed on the basis of equality and mutual respect, we meet at a moment when we can make peaceful cooperation a reality."

He said that although the two nations have fundamental and profound differences they also have "a powerful common interest in peace and security."

Then he delivered his oblique reference to the Vietnam war, where recently escalated fighting and U.S. mining of North Vietnamese harbors threatened for a while to wreck the long-planned summit.

Without mentioning specifically the Soviet role as Hanoi's arms supplier, Nixon said. "We should recognize that great nuclear powers have a solemn responsibility to exercise restraint in any crisis, and to take positive actions to avert direct confrontation."

"With great power goes great responsibility. It is precisely when power is not accompanied by responsibility that the peace is threatened. Let our power always be used to keep the peace, never to break it."

Thompson Point may get more coed dorms

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Dean of Student Service at Thompson Point, Will Travelstead, has tentatively approved additional coed housing and an all-male dorm which would exclude freshmen, for the Thompson Point living area.

He said several other alternate types of housing facilities are being offered. "We are trying to get students to contract for the alternative they want, instead of waiting until the fall to vote on the housing options," Travelstead said.

Three dorms will be made coed: Steagall, Warren and Smith halls. Of these three Travelstead said that one dorm may be selected just for president scholars. "They could opt for it or reject it," he said.

Under the alternate plans there would be nine different living situations at Thompson Point. Specific dorms would be set aside to meet the three options recently established by the University. In each of the male, female and coed living areas there would be a dorm for those who want seven-day 24-hour visitation, one for restricted visitation and one for no visitation.

However, all these living situations are dependent on the number in each classification and the number signing contracts.

Another alternative is an all-male dorm which would allow only sophomore, juniors and seniors to live there. Travelstead said the reasoning behind this is to provide a better studying situation.

"This can best be accomplished by excluding the freshmen from this dorm," he said. If there are not enough requests for this dorm to fill it, Travelstead said, the third floor would probably then be filled with freshmen.

He said contracts for the coed living areas are going slowly, especially the female contracts.

"Anyone interested in this type of living situation should get a contract as soon as possible," Travelstead said.

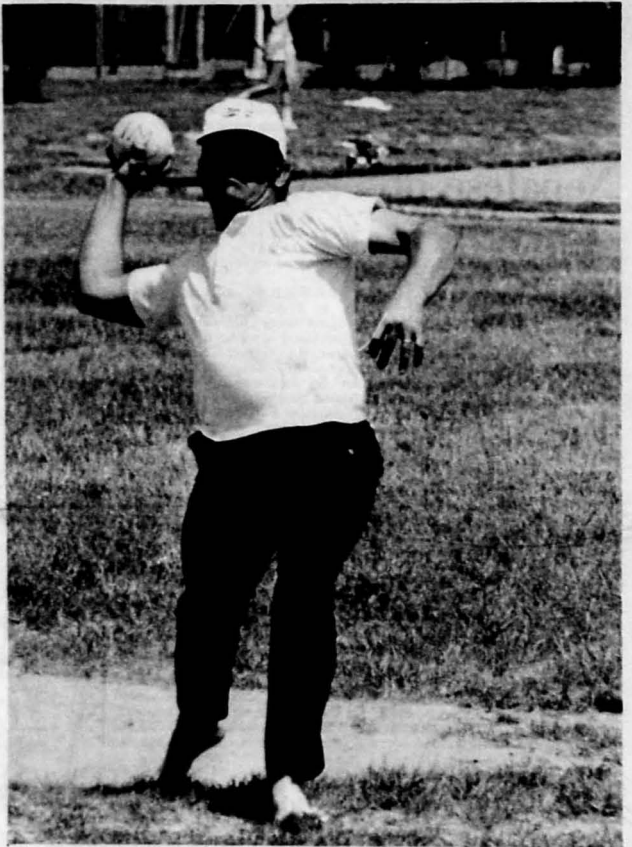

George Mace, assistant to the president for student affairs, said the University is in no way pioneering in dorm visitation. He said Northwestern and Bradley Universities now include seven-day 24 hour visitation as a preference and that starting in the fall the University of Illinois, Northern Illinois University, Illinois State University and Western Illinois University will join SIU in providing similar options.

The alternatives will be made available to students in residence halls effective fall quarter. Currently maximum visitation at SIU is restricted to 7-11:30 p.m. Monday through Tuesday, 7 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Friday, 1 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Saturday and 11-1:30 p.m. Sunday.

He said all the living areas will have referendums before the end of the quarter, however final dates have yet to be chosen. He said the purpose of the referendum will be to find out how many students desire each of the three options.

Travelstead said that if a student selects one housing option he may at anytime ask for a change of room. Presently to get a room change a great deal of red tape is required and changes are usually hard to get.

He said letters are being sent to students who have signed contracts for Thompson Point, informing them of the various options.

Unnh!

Though his throwing form may not be endorsed by the Babe Ruth League, "Shoeless" George Mace, assistant to the president for student affairs, still gave it his all in the pigs-freaks game Saturday. Mace's efforts were in vain, however, as the freaks won 25-9. More pictures are on page 11. (Photo by Jay Needleman)

Strategist in McGovern campaign to speak here

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Frank Mankiewicz, campaign codirector for Sen. George McGovern, candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

Mankiewicz, who reportedly signed on as McGovern's top strategist, holds one of the key operating posts for the campaign along with Gary Hart.

Mankiewicz is former press secretary to the late Robert F. Kennedy and was director of the Peace Corps in Latin America before joining the McGovern forces.

Mankiewicz is being sponsored by the Department of Government and will likely talk on the upcoming 1972

Presidential election, Samuel Long, professor in government, said.

Mankiewicz has been termed a "new politics liberal" and "today's voice of the anti-establishment," by the American Program Bureau (APB).

A special panel will direct a series of questions after his speech beginning a question and answer period for audience participation, Long said.

An APB bulletin lists Mankiewicz as a speaker interested in the "impact of the non-affiliated voter, the amateur political worker and the non-political candidate on the American system."

Mankiewicz shares a nationally syndicated political column with Tom Braden. He also appeared regularly on television as a political commentator before joining McGovern.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Gus says he's not excited about coed housing—he's shackled up with chicks in his dorm room for years.

Table decorations for a luncheon are a matter of keen interest to Mrs. Preeti Singh of Nepal. Here she watches students Jan Purnal of Chicago, Gary Nimocks of Belvidere, Barbara Herzog of Prairie Du Rocher and Gayle Dunham arrange flowers for table centerpieces.

Nepalese observer seeks new ideas

By University News Service

Mrs. Preeti Singh from Kathmandu, Nepal, is spending the spring quarter at SIU as an observer in food management and service.

Former owners of a small motel at Daman, on the road to India, Mrs. Singh and her husband K. B. Singh are now completing a new hotel in the Nepalese capital, to be called "Hotel Yellow Pagoda."

"We want to try to make happy our guests by giving them our personal attention," Mrs. Singh said. "I am gaining ideas every day."

She is visiting classes and laboratories in the food and nutrition department of the School of Home Economics, has toured the food service department at the Student Center and SIU residence halls and is planning to accompany a food and nutrition class on a field trip to St. Louis to inspect food markets and buying procedures. She also plans to attend the national Restaurant Association show in Chicago.

"We will serve both Nepalese and Western-style dishes and beverages in our hotel restaurant," she said. "I am learning how to prepare Western dishes and how to present them attractively to our patrons."

In order to sample as many different restaurants as possible, Mrs. Singh arranged to live in housing without food accommodations while at SIU.

Mrs. Singh, 44, said that she grew up in a period before Nepalese women were allowed to have educational opportunities, "but my father, Lt. General Khem Shum Sher, J.B.R., was an educated man, and he made it possible for me to have a governess. My husband also is educated and he too has furthered my education."

Her husband, son of a Nepalese mother (a distant descendant of the royal family) and an Indian father, received hotel training in hotels in Nepal, India and Europe, she said. Her uncle, Min Shum Sher, J.B.R., who is retiring from the Nepalese Army, will be a partner in the new hotel enterprise.

The Singhs have three daughters, the eldest of whom is traffic chief for Air India airline in New Delhi. The two younger girls are students at St. Mary's convent school.

Mrs. Singh was acquainted with several SIU faculty members who have served on the University's educational mission in Nepal, some of whom had on occasion patronized the Singh's motel at Daman.

The new hotel, located near a number of the embassies in Kathmandu, will have 57 rooms, restaurant and catering service, an elevator and phone service.

Candidates chosen for Alumni Council seat

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Three graduating seniors have been nominated for the 1972 graduating class representative to the Alumni Association Legislative Council.

Each college was invited by the Alumni Association to send one representative to the selection committee and submit one candidate, according to Jay Garavalia, assistant director of alumni services.

Of eight original candidates the three chosen by the student committee are Paul Conti, history major, from Liberal Arts and Sciences; Richard Rosentreter, interior design major, from the School of Home Economics; and Patricia Stark, automotive technology major, from the Vocational Technical Institute.

These names now will be placed on the ballot and all graduating students who attend their college banquets will be asked to vote for one of them, Garavalia said.

Voting began Saturday when seniors attending the VTI graduate banquet will vote and ends with the voting at the Liberal Arts and Sciences banquet on June 1.

The elected representative will serve for one year on the council with the possibility of re-election, Garavalia said. The council is made up of one representative from every graduating class, he said.

To destroy the good guys

Editor's Note: Arthur Hoppe of the San Francisco Chronicle occasionally departs from his political satire format and deals with current events on a serious level.

"Why," a hard hat construction worker was quoted as saying angrily on hearing that Governor Wallace had been shot, "is it always the good guys?"

To many liberals, this must sound like a sick joke. During the past violent decade they have seen their heroes—the Kennedys, Martin Luther King, Medgar Evers—gunned down one by one.

Yet in the hours that followed that first bulletin, I kept thinking of what the man had said. And I think he's right. It is always the good guys.

For the good guys in this democracy we share are those who speak out, those who challenge the status quo, those who offer new ways out of the morass of mediocrity into which our republic is slowly settling.

For the old solutions aren't working, the old answers will no longer do. Yet the old politicians keep on seeking the middle ground and keep on carefully choosing each word to avoid giving offense. They rarely get shot.

It is, instead, those who say something, those who stimulate us to think, those who involve us in the political process. It is they who attract the "dedicated followers and, invariably, the dedicated enemies." It is those who are unafraid to speak out—the Martin Luther Kings, the George Wallaces.

It is always the good guys.

And now? I watched an editor quickly reading down the first story, looking for the identity of the gunman. He found what he wanted and his shoulders slumped in relief.

"Thank God," he said, "it was a white man."

What he feared, of course, was violence—the kind of violence that erupted after Martin Luther King was killed. But I don't fear that kind of violence so much. It soon burns itself out and our republic can survive it.

What frightened me far more was the reaction of a young secretary on hearing the news. "I just realized," she said, shaking her head dazedly, "that we've come to the point where one bullet is worth 70 million votes."

In her voice was a note of resignation, of defeat. Why go on trying to make the system work? What's the use of choosing the man you think best, of ringing doorbells in his behalf, of giving him money or even just your vote, when one bullet can erase in a split second, the whole laborious process? Why go on? What's the use?

So what I fear most is not violence, but apathy—apathy and fear itself.

Each time a good guy is shot, the fear grows. Our leaders must feel it, too.

Why take a strong stand on busing, either at a cocktail party or on the public platform? You know the passions and hatreds the issue arouses.

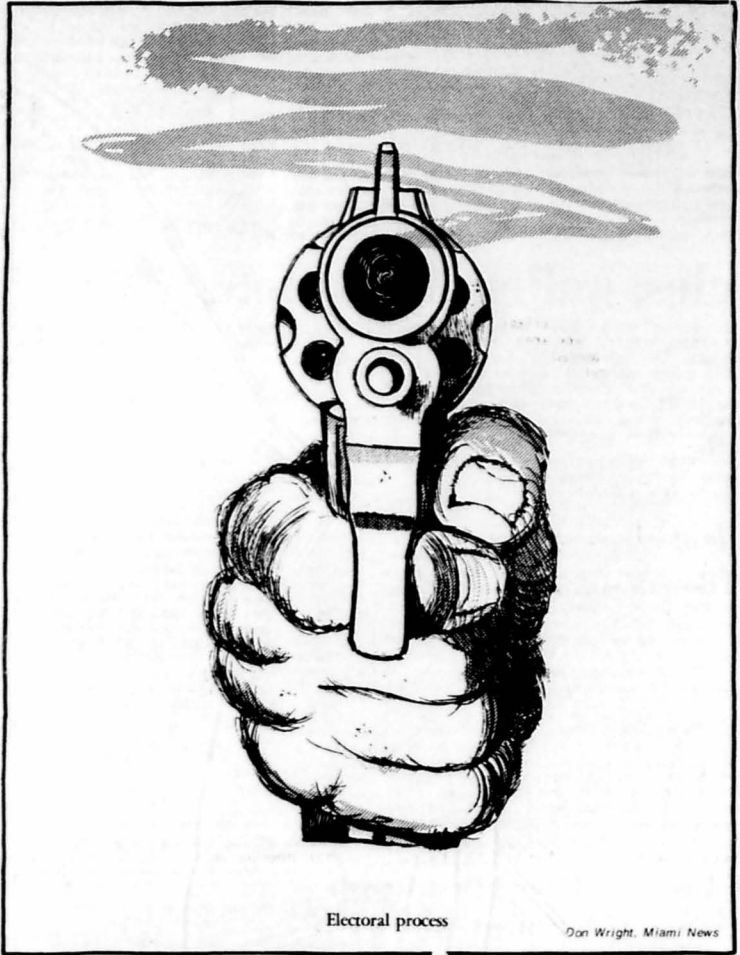

How quick will I be next time to write a column in favor of strong gun controls? You know the paranoia of some of these gun nuts. And they're all fully armed. Will Senator McGovern feel the same?

Why speak out at all? How much easier it is to keep your challenging opinions, if any, to yourself. How much safer it is, both for our leaders and ourselves, to go along with the tired old answers to the tired old problems and thereby fan no flames.

This, I think, is the tragedy in the shooting of George Wallace. For each time a good guy is shot, it destroys a little of the good guy in all of us.

And in these times, God knows, we need all the good guys we can get.

Who is 'Newman Center'?

To the Daily Egyptian:

Who is "The Newman Center?" I have attended the Center for three years and I can assure you that that tasteless, misleading bit of propaganda displayed in a recent D.E. is no way reflected my attitudes. Is this how my financial contributions to the Center are being used? Or did J. Genesio finance this little outrage? And if so, why didn't he sign it personally?

Where does the money come from to support not only small insults like this one, but the massive state and federal anti-abortion lobbies by the Catholic Church? It seems to me that this money might be more effectively used to feed and educate people or to form a stronger lobby for peace and the end of the senseless killing in Vietnam. For that matter, the money spent for that advertisement of Genesian morality might have better been used to help send people to Washington to try to bring an end to the war.

What would make anyone think that only the men of the Catholic Church have developed a proper consciousness in this regard? Is it not possible that an aging celebate male might see things a little differently than a young woman living "in and of this world?" We see things from a different side of the coin, Father. How can any man judge a situation he can never experience, except by rules and dictums that have little or no relation to actual human experience? The Church has been wrong before. I believe it is in error now.

I am a Catholic, but first I am a Christian and a woman and as such, I must follow the dictates of my conscience. The Catholic Church doesn't rule the world anymore and the longer it tries, the less effective it will be in all areas of concern.

Makes you want to hollar

To the Daily Egyptian:

Today, Thursday May 18, I went looking for a home, a place to exist while here at SIU. I wore my purple SIU track shirt being proud of it. While riding my 106cc upon which I traveled I spied a "house trailer" for rent sign. Liking the looks of the green grass, trimmed neatly, and the overall impression of peacefulness I inquired at two homes, the second of which I received directions. Following instructions and finding the landlord I asked "How much is your trailer?" Out walked the landlord, who looked to be about 60, in overalls, a plaid shirt, and fairly new brown boots.

"$90" was the reply.

"A month?" I asked. It was $90 a month.

I then asked if the trailer was big enough for two. He asked, "Are you married?"

"No." I replied, saying I was thinking about splitting the rent. Looking lost he said to come in and talk to his wife.

Inside, the wife lay back in her chair, feet on a cushion; I said "Hi!" she said "Hello." I asked "Is the trailer big enough for two?" because I wanted to split the rent. The landlord broke in, lecture type. "We run a nice place here and we try to keep it that way, we don't allow lady visitors to spend the night." I said that's fine with me, I was going to have a male roommate.

Finally the lady, about 55, said "I hate to tell you this." I just knew I wasn't going to hear what I thought I might hear; but!!! "I know you can't help that you're colored" but that they would rather not rent to colored. Then they both spoke at the same time trying to console me. The woman saying some of her "best" stutter friends were colored, and she had worked with them for many years while a cook. Them! I said to myself, what are we animals? Freaks?

The old man said "I've preached in colored churches. I have no prejudice against them." Them again was used, "why they're just like anyone else" as far as he was concerned.

As they continued to explain, they said: "There are no coloreds at this end of town." Once some lived across the street and they had a lot of trouble I was told and they're gone now. The landlord told of how he asked his renters, what if he rented to "some coloreds" and was told by his present renters they would move. Realize trailers are separate, and not connected. I said, "I had heard, and read of things like this happening, but to have it happen to you..." I was lost for words. Finally I asked if they would or wouldn't rent me the trailer. They would rather not.

Buffalo paths

To the Daily Egyptian:

I was under the impression that buffalo were fond of grazing land. There is one species of buffalo native to our campus, however, who aren't appreciative of the greenery. Our two-legged species is trampling every blade they can get their feet on.

Now, don't say "If they'd put the walks in the right place, we would use them." Did you ever notice that wherever there's a walk, there also is the unsightly path right beside it? When the walks are widened, the paths simply move over. The walks are planned in accordance with building locations. The main walks travel past each building with smaller walks branching off to the doors. It is planned this way to eliminate the disruptive flow of traffic that would otherwise go straight through a building.

So, what about all the curves? There is a good bit of psychology behind that, too. Would you want to start on a hike from the Home Economics building to Lawson Hall if you could look down a straight walk? Certainly not. You'd be psychologically tired simply because of the monotony. As it is now, the destiny is visually blocked by landscape. The curves do not add a significant number of steps. In fact, there are some paths where time is lost dodging bushes, cutting between cars, and jumping fences. We are not saving enough time to warrant the destruction.

The physical plant spends from $8-10,000 per year repairing and blockading our paths. (There are more useful places for this money to be spent.)

Our campus is really an arboretum. There is vegetation from all over the world used as an outdoor lab for the Botany Department.

The Campus Planning Office is doing all that they can as far as the function of our campus and student circulation are concerned. These buffalo paths are not necessary. If we use some self-discipline and a little common sense, the campus will be better for ourselves as well as for the students who'll be here after we've gone.

Other side

To the Daily Egyptian:

This letter is in reference to the article which ran in the Egyptian concerning University City. My experience with University City has been extremely negative and I know many other students who have had difficulty there.

At the present time I have a small claims court judgment against University City for damage deposit which they withheld when I moved out. The Office of Off-Campus Students has been trying for quite some time without avail to get University City to pay the amount the court awarded. Mr. Hanrahan, who by the way is still the power behind the scenes at University City, not the student board, has refused payment even though I checked out through my Resident Fellow and no damages were found. It is my understanding that there are about seven other cases against University City with the housing office right now that have been unsatisfactorily settled.

I think the article was a disservice to students and don't believe that University City should in any way be classified by the University as an Accepted Living Center.

Advertisement defended

To the Daily Egyptian:

Mr. Olson calls an anti-abortion ad an "inquisition" and then goes on to complain about yellow journalism. (Also, the use of the word inquisition gives the totally false impression that those against abortion are all Catholics.) He objects to the use of the word "kill"; yet an abortion does kill a living fetus, does it not? Let us tell it like it is; an abortion does kill a living fetus.

After much reading and debating about the philosophical, moral, theological, medical and economic aspects of abortion I have decided that the best anti-abortion position is the use of pictures so that we can see what we are killing on demand. I think those against abortion are finally beginning to stir and will organize against abortion as well as those for abortion organized in the past. I believe again the most effective anti-abortion campaign can be waged by using pictures of living and dead fetuses.

As for Ms. Collett I have little to say as she believes no man can have anything of value to say about abortion substituting Great Holy Women for Great Holy Men. However I do not believe that those for and against abortion are divided along sexual lines. There are indeed many women against abortion and many men for it. (Where Ms. Collett did you get the figure 500,000 women die each year as a result of attempted self-abortions—surely not in the United States.)

Again I would point out that the crux of the abortion problem revolves around the value or non-value of the fetus. If the fetus within a woman has no value, such as the fetus of a dog, then it may be killed on demand. If a human fetus within a woman's body has some value then it should not be killed on the demand of someone else.

Lousy spelling

To the Daily Egyptian:

The people who run around campus freely donating paint from their very own spray paint cans are to be commended for their earnest fulfillment of their civic duty. By so doing, they are not only opening the eyes of many students who stubbornly refuse to read every single handout forced on them, they are also running up a large cleaning bill for the University, the funds for which will probably come from those now allotted to the Viet Center, possibly even forcing it to be "offed"! (Is there any truth to the rumor that a single sandblasting job on a building to remove paint runs around $50?)

My praises for them is almost unbounded, yet I feel it is my duty to point out to these people a definite incongruity between their good intentions and lousy spelling.

When "Malcom X" first appeared on walls, it was tolerated. When "Chicago" went up, people began to talk. Today I noticed a large "STIKE" on the sidewalk in front of Morris library. If these people can't either rip off a dictionary or learn to spell, I'm afraid that we wall and sidewalk readers just may lose respect for them.

Stolen car recovered from bottom of mine pit

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 1970 convertible reported stolen from an SIU student May 11 was recovered from about 35 feet of water in an abandoned strip mine pit Sunday afternoon.

The car, a Buick Grand Sport owned by Patricia Russell, Carbondale, was discovered in a pit about five miles northwest of DeSoto at 2 p.m. by four SIU students diving in the pit. They are Tom Murray, Mt. Prospect, a senior in agriculture industries; Rod Ludvigsen, Glenwood, a senior in forestry; Chuck Shedd, an instructor in mathematics; and his wife Marilyn, an SIU graduate.

The four, members of the Egyptian Divers club, were diving in the pit early Sunday afternoon when one of them spotted oil on the water. The divers descended about 35 feet into the murky water, where they found the car.

A heavy wrecker was dispatched from the Davis Wrecker Service in Murphysboro and the car was removed from the pit at about 7 p.m.

Jackson County Sheriff John Hoffman said the car, stolen from the Kroger parking lot May 11 while its owner was shopping, had apparently been pushed off into the pit from a 30 foot cliff above. Very little damage to the body was discovered, although the engine and interior were apparently ruined.

GSC endorses new 19-point health plan

By Rich Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

By voice vote, the Graduate Student Council Friday endorsed a 19-point plan for a new student health service.

The plan, known as the Dubois Plan, includes such items as improved accessibility and acceptability of primary physical care, some specialist care, X-rays without charge, eye exams, maternity care and ambulance service.

The Student Senate approved the plan with nine amendments last Wednesday. The GSC endorsed the amendments. The amendments include such things as adequate transportation, the use of paramedical personnel, expansion of the Health Service to include a clinic in the Student Center and abortion information as prescribed by law.

The council also approved the formation of a health negotiating commission. The eight-member commission will include two student senators, two members appointed by the Student Health Consumer Council, two members appointed by the student body president and two from the GSC. Charles Newling and Joe Camille will represent the GSC.

By a 14-7 vote, the council approved a resolution calling for active support in the Illinois legislature for the passage of paramedical legislation. Lobbying for the bill will be done by the Association of Illinois Student Governments.

USDA director to head seminar on environment

By University News Service

H. G. Geyer, a director of natural resources and environmental quality in the extension veterinary science program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will lead a School of Agriculture seminar on environmental improvement.

Geyer's discussion, open to all interested persons, will be at 1 p.m. in Muckelroy Auditorium of the SIU Agriculture Building, according to Scott Hinners, chairman of the school's seminar committee. The seminar will include discussion and questions on Geyer's presentation on "Relating Programs and Resources to Environmental Improvement."

Since 1965 Geyer has been with USDA extension service, directing the veterinary science program, and being involved in the department's environmental problems. In 1969 he was designated the extension service representative to the Secretary of Agriculture's executive committee on environmental quality and the following year was named director of natural resources and environmental quality.

Israel trip open to SIU students

The SIU Hillel Foundation will sponsor a trip to Israel this summer.

Rabbi Earl Vinecour said the trip will include a month of working on a kibbutz, an experiment in communal living and two weeks free in Israel. Rabbi Vinecour added that the students will be given an open bus ticket for their two free weeks and that there will be a stop over in Europe.

Rabbi Vinecour said that ten SIU students will be allowed to go. The group will leave from New York on June 18. The price will be $620 and the trip is open to all students, Rabbi Vinecour said.

Swim, picnic set for disadvantaged

University Services to Carbondale and the Curriculum Development Center in Murphysboro is sponsoring a beach swim and picnic for 16 retarded students.

Charles McCann, director of the Curriculum Development Center, said that the center is finishing its retarded students swimming program for this quarter, and the beach swim and picnic will provide a "new experience in their aquatic adventures."

The beach swim and picnic is scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Tuesday, May 30, at Campus Lake Beach.

The Center's primary purpose is to train retarded children between the ages of 5 and 21. The center is comprised of five teachers, seven teacher aides and about 20 SIU volunteers.

47th birthday of Malcolm X observed at SIU

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Several guest speakers commemorated the birthday of the late Malcolm X Friday at Trueblood Hall.

Lend Frison, president of the Black Student Union and commemoration program moderator, said that Malcolm X would have been 47 years old Friday had he lived.

Malcolm X was born on May 19, 1925, and assassinated on February 21, 1965.

Frison said that Malcolm X lived in a world dominated by white oppressors and was the "Saint Paul of the Black Muslim Movement."

"Malcolm appealed to reason and not to emotion in people," he said. "He changed the whole course of the black struggle throughout the world."

Hassan Sisay, graduate student in history, said the problem of the African liberation movement was personified by Malcolm X because he personified the black struggle everywhere.

He said that the liberation movement in Africa had not been successful because the potential strength of the white man in Africa has been underestimated and because black Africans do not present enough of a united front.

He said that blacks everywhere must solve their minor differences and look toward the larger common goal.

"What we need is fresh blood and reorientation," he said. "We need to reeducate blacks with black togetherness so that the black man does not separate until he has reached the common goal."

Patricia Holmes, University News Service, said, "Our hope is in the few because the many ain't going to come until we give them hope and show them the way."

She said that black people cannot sit back and wait for everybody to come. "We have to go with what we got," she said.

"We've got to unify for survival and start relating to one another," she said. "Keep the faith."

Walter Robinson, director of Black American Studies, said that the message of Malcolm X was so great and so real that any effort on his part to enhance it would be "an exercise in futility."

"After 46 years, we have used the same thread to fight back against the man," he said. "We sort of sleep and forget about the thing called unity and when we forget, the man moves in and makes us hassle among ourselves."

"We want to pattern ourselves after the man who enslaves us, but the man gets uneasy when we take a negative thing such as being black and call it beautiful," he said. "That which is ours, he cannot do anything about and when we unite in the name of blackness, we cannot be divided."

He said that the Vietnam War was not started by black people and "protesting the war is not our protest."

Fun of sailing pictured in film

A film introducing the SIU Sailing Club is scheduled at 9 a.m. Thursday in room 1122 of the Communications Building.

According to Jorene Christenson, publicity chairman, the movie is designed to interest more people in the adventure of sailing, sailboats and things about the sailing club.

The movie is free and open to the public. More information may be obtained by calling the social chairman, Jay Cupp, at 549-8908.

"White people are protesting the war and that's the right people who should be doing the protesting because their grandfathers and fathers started that war," he said. "We've been protesting for over 400 years and that's our protest. So, don't get caught in his protest; stay on your own protest."

He said that black people must be gotten out of their dilemma so that "we can go about the business of unifying" and that black women "ain't got no time to get mixed up with women's lib because white women are fighting for the rights of white women."

It's like a quarrel between a white woman and her man and the black maid intervenes, he said. "When they make up, the black maid is fired."

He said that black people are not oppressed because they're "Catholics or Jews, Protestants or Moslems; it's because we're black. Being black is the common thread that unites us. Uhuru."

Jan Taylor, newly elected student body president, said that black people deal with a lot of things in theory, "but we should understand the reality of oppression."

"Responsibility does not stop here," he said, "but we must go out and spread that responsibility through positive example."

Bob Williams, of the United Front in Cairo, said that "We must show to the people that we are not afraid of freedom."

"Unity is a most difficult thing to achieve," he said, "but Malcolm gave us a lot of hope and without hope there is no struggle."

Commemoration of the birthday of Malcolm X was sponsored by the Black Student Union, Black American Studies and the Black Togetherness Organization.

Faculty Council announces candidates to fill vacancies

By Rich Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Gene Dybvig, Faculty Council secretary, Monday announced the names of 14 candidates to fill seven vacancies on the council.

Nominated from education are Roland Keene, professor in higher education, and Billy G. Dixon, assistant professor and chairman of student teaching. The winner will serve a three-year term.

Scott W. Hinners, professor in animal industries, and Gerald D. Coorts, associate professor in plant industries, were nominated in agriculture. The winner will serve a three-year term.

Nominated from home economics are Arlene Heisler and Karen E. Craig. Both are assistant professors in family economics and management. The winner will serve a three-year term.

Nominated in Liberal Arts and Sciences are Marie J. Southworth, assistant professor in foreign languages; Alan M. Cohn, professor in English and librarian of the Humanities Library; James BeMiller, professor in chemistry. Herbert Donow, assistant professor in English; Charles W. Speck, assistant professor in foreign languages; Jonathan P. Seidin, assistant professor in mathematics; Robert Harrell, assistant professor in English; and Joann Paine, associate professor in government.

There are four vacancies in LA&S. Three of the terms will be for three years. The other will be a one-year term. The council has not yet decided which term will be only one year.

Ballots will be mailed to all the faculty in the respective departments by the middle of this week. The ballots are to be returned to Dybvig by noon, June 2. The new representatives will take office on June 6 when the council hold officer elections.

Cyclists end annual 'Century Ride'

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The SIU Cycling Club left Shryock Auditorium at 7 a. m. Saturday and began huffing, puffing and pedalling its way to Chester for what the club hopes will be its annual "Century Ride."

There were 14 riders who participated in the event and one of the riders, Bruno Risati, even pedalled down from Chicago on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and then decided to take part in the 100 mile ride, Saturday.

Mike Olson, a member of the club, said that the century ride means that the cyclists have to cover 100 miles in 12 or less hours—these 14 cyclists made it in about 10 hours.

"There were some who made the ride in eight but for the most part we all stuck together and did it in 10," he added. The 10-hour time period includes rest, food and mechanical stops.

Were they beset by many mechanical troubles? Olson moaned and said there were six flat tires, four of which occurred on the tandem he and Teresa Steingurby were riding. "But, it was really great because the group stuck together when others were in trouble and tried to help out," he commented. The group took country roads which took them through Murphysboro, Ava, Campbell Hill and to Chester. He said they checked into bicycling permits and learned that there is no such thing.

"If you think your group might be a hazard on the roads the state police will help you with your trip. We figured since we'd be going down country roads, we wouldn't be obstructing traffic very much, so we went by ourselves," Olson said.

The University of Illinois recently made a similar trip with 220 riders participating. However, Olson said they traveled on flat land whereas the SIU group didn't.

"Everyone who participated thought it was the most successful ride of the year," he added.

Next week the group will hold its last cycling event for the quarter. On Saturday at 8 a. m. the club will leave for Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge and on Sunday at noon they will leave for the final picnic of the quarter at Giant City State Park.

Olson said the club hopes to sponsor some cycling events for summer Quarter; however, none have been scheduled yet.

The club has been in existence for two years, but it has only been this year that it has been really active.

Recently the group elected new officers. Bruce Patterson is president; Jim Hertz, vice-president and Deiores Merl, secretary-treasurer.

To join the club there is a $1 fee. Anyone interested in joining may do so; all that is required of them is a lot of energy and a bicycle. Further information may be obtained from Patterson at 453-4746.

Film schedule to be selected tonight at 7

The film selection committee of the Southern Illinois Film Society (SIFS) will meet at 7 p. m. Tuesday in Room 302 of Warren Building in Thompson Point to discuss the summer and fall film schedules.

The committee met earlier last week to determine an initial list of films that were available. Tuesday's meeting will approve and select upcoming films.

Possible movies for summer and fall include "The Maltese Falcon" with Humphrey Bogart, "A Man for All Seasons," "Phantom of the Opera," and "Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Anyone desiring more information about the meeting may contact Jim Stephens, chairman, at 453-5624.

Timber expert heads seminar discussion

By University News Service

Harold Wahlgren, a project leader in timber quality and product potential with the Forest Products Laboratory of the U.S. Forest Service in Madison, Wis., will speak to a joint meeting of forestry student groups.

Wahlgren will talk about "On-Going Research on Extending the Nation's Timber Supply" at a 3 p. m. general seminar Tuesday (May 23) in the agriculture Building Seminar Room (209). He will discuss "Timber Resources and You" at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in Neckers Building Room 440B to a joint meeting of the SIU Forestry Club and other forestry student organizations.

The meeting will be open to interested visitors. Wahlgren's appearance is being sponsored by the National Science Foundation, the Society of Wood Science and Technology and the SIU forestry department. His research interests are with improving wood quality in standing timber and environmental matters related to the use of timber resources.

Peking film slated for Wednesday

By Rita Fung
Student Writer

A modern revolutionary Peking opera will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Davis Auditorium.

The English-subtitled film, "Taking Tiger Mountain by Strategy," has been extremely popular in China and has been used frequently by the Peking government to entertain foreign visitors.

The film was created by the Shanghai-Peking Opera Company under the supervision of Madame Mao Tse-Tung during the Cultural Revolution in 1967. It is based on a true story about an outnumbered People's Liberation Army platoon defeating elements of Chiang Kai Shek's fifth "Peace Preservation Brigade" of the Eastern Heilungkiang Region (north of Korea near the Chinese-Russian border) in 1946.

This contemporary Peking opera exemplifies the current artistic approach of the Chinese in presenting revolutionary themes with a classical form of drama.

The film, released by the Chinese Film Library in New York, is co-sponsored by the Asian Studies Committee, the International Education Service and the Department of Foreign Languages at SIU.

Admission is free and all who are interested are invited to attend.

Campus briefs

Edmund L. Epstein, professor of English, has been delivering a series of lectures on linguistics and literature at several British and continental universities while he is on leave in Europe. Epstein has lectured at the universities of London, Cambridge, Birmingham, Leeds, Oxford and Cardiff. He also has lectured at the Amerika Haus in Berlin and University of Paris.

Epstein delivered two lectures at Cambridge University and on June 5 is scheduled to talk at the University of East Anglia. The title of his paper is "Decorative, Mimetic and Dramatic Syntax in Pope, Joyce and Blake."

Walter L. Borst, assistant professor of physics, is the author of a published article and the co-author of another. In addition, he was invited to attend a workshop, on "Dissociative Excitation of Simple Molecules," at the University of Colorado, Boulder, and presented a paper, "Secondary Electron Emission from Metal Surfaces by Metastable Atoms and Molecules," at the Physical Electronics Conference in Albuquerque, N.M.

Borst's article, "Excitation of Several Important Metastable States of Molecular by Electron Impact," was published in Physical Review. He is co-author of the article, "Absolute Cross Section for the Production of Oxygen Metastable Atoms in the Quintet State by Electron Impact Dissociation of Molecular Oxygen," published in Chemical Physical letters. Other authors were E. C. Zipf, professor of physics at the University of Pittsburgh, and W. C. Wells, staff scientist at Lockheed Research Laboratory, Palo Alto, Calif.

Decadent art at Drag City this weekend

A Drag City Decadence Sculpture Show, sponsored by two art students, will open at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at 909 W. Sycamore, and last throughout the following day.

There is a limit of three pieces of work per artist and the name and address of the artist should be attached to the work. All entries should be submitted on Friday from 12-6 p.m.

The two students sponsoring the show, Archie Connelly and Victor Alfonso, are both seniors majoring in art. Connelly said the idea for the art show came out of the fact that Drag City will be closing.

"We just decided one morning that an art show would be a nice way to say good-bye to our friends."

"Since Drag City has been dedicated to decadence for a year we want to see what influence we have been," Alfonso added.

Connelly said the exhibit will only be for three dimensional pieces, both indoor and outdoor, and garden pieces will be accepted. There is no entry fee and a prize will be given for the most decadent piece. Further information is available at the art department, 453-2571. The winner of the prize will be announced at the opening.

"Heads up ball" did not seem to be the order of the day Saturday, as the freaks walked all over the pigs for the second time in two years. The freaks won this year, 25-9, despite the efforts of such as Carbon-dale Mayor Neal "Sluggo" Eckert (lower left) and "Shoeless" George Mace, assistant to the president for student affairs (lower right). The two were originally slated to umpire the contest, but joined the pigs' team when only four policemen showed up. At the top, it was one for the umpires to decide between the fleetfooted Eckert and the grimacing baseman. (Photos by Jay Needleman)

'Hired Hand' deals earnestly with Western machismo myth

By Glenn Amato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"The Hired Hand," at the Fox, is an earnest attempt to deal realistically with the Western machismo myth. It shows these wanderers as they probably were—selfish dreamers, tired of sleeping in their underwear in hostile or uncharted territory.

One such wanderer, Hank, played by Peter Fonda, decides to return home after seven years. His sidekick tags along. Fonda's wife, played by Verna Bloom, rejects him at first and treats him like another hired hand. His little daughter thinks he's dead.

Fonda makes it plain that he's tired of roaming, and his sidekick leaves. A while later, Fonda is drawn away again when his sidekick is captured by some old enemies bent on revenge. Fonda is shot and killed in the scuffle, and his sidekick brings his body home.

The story must be described simply and literally, because this is its intention. Its tone is somewhat akin to the one used in "Will Penny" a few years ago.

But Fonda, who also directed the movie, isn't willing to relate his production in the screenplay's tone. The film is related in an oddly romantic fashion that clashes with the laconic material, and if it weren't for this one flaw, "The Hired Hand" might be the best Western in some time. Still, there are enough memorable contributions—Ms. Bloom's plain-spoken, passionate Hanna; Warren Oates' untypically kind sidekick and, of course, Alan Sharp's screenplay—to make it worthwhile and at times just fine.

A Review

"The Last Movie"

"The Last Movie," the co-feature at the Fox, represents an incredible lapse, or collapse, of taste, judgment and discipline—qualities one logically, and fairly, expects to find in a film if he is to admire and then ponder it.

A Hollywood film company on location in the Peruvian Andes unknowingly teaches the natives their violent ways, who, in turn, retaliate on Kansas, a company hand—and are you bored just hearing about it?

Dennis Hopper, who did so well by the low-budget "Easy Rider," obviously needs an older, more assured hand in guiding and restraining him. Besides directing, he also plays Kansas, but the film, which has lovely, Cinemascope-travelogue-type location shots, merely sinks without a ripple.

City Council to discuss possible IC underpass

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The possibility of constructing an intersection to serve the new U.S. Post Office and University Mail facilities on Ill. 13 east of Carbondale will be discussed at an informal meeting of the Carbondale City Council Tuesday night.

A proposed agreement between the city, state and the developers of the strip of land south of the highway and west of Crab Orchard Creek would provide for the construction of an intersection between Ill. 13 and the frontage road to be built parallel with and south of the highway.

The intersection also would serve as the access point for the Giant City blacktop, if and when that road is extended northward from old Ill. 13 to new Ill. 13.

The council also will discuss a study of the proposed Mill Street underpass beneath the Illinois Central railroad tracks. According to the study, such an underpass is feasible and would cost about $1 million. The facility would handle an estimated 20,000 cars per day.

The feasibility of an overpass or underpass to relieve congestion caused by trains stopping in downtown Carbondale has been discussed for some time. Northeast Carbondale residents in particular have expressed a desire for such a facility in their area to enable them to get to health facilities on the west side in the event of emergencies.

The council will meet in special formal session at 7 p.m. to act on several resolutions and a proposed contract for a research project into industrial wastes in the area.

One of the resolutions expresses the city's intent to employ minority group members in housing and urban development projects.

Conservationists to meet Tuesday

The Shawnee Resource Conservation and Development Project's Executive Committee will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the State Office Building in Marion to discuss the effect of the Environmental Quality Act of 1969 on the Southern Illinois area.

William E. Weber, project coordinator, announced that biologists from the Soil Conservation Service, Department of Conservation and Fish and Wildlife Service will present a program and answer questions from the floor.

The meeting will attempt to answer questions concerning the effects of the Environmental Quality Act on local citizens, planning agencies and the Shawnee RCD Project.

The meeting is open to the public.

Pianist to give recital Wednesday

By University News Service

Mrs. Andrea Shields Saunders of Murphysboro, pianist, will be presented in her graduate recital by the School of Music at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium.

Mrs. Saunders will perform Johann Sebastian Bach's "English Suite II" and Beethoven's "Les Adieux" sonata for the first portion of her program, and close with Maurice Ravel's "Miroire" and Alexandre Scriabine's "Sonata No. 5." The performance is open to the public without charge.

SIU netmen score maximum in winning conference meet

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Dominic Webster defines it as "to hold mastery over by reason of superior strength."
And that's just what Southern Illinois' tennis team did last weekend on the Ball State courts when it mesmerized the rest of the Midwestern Conference to retain the top net title.

The tennis team scored the most points possible in the two-day meet with a total 27. Indiana State finished a distant second with 10, followed by Northern Illinois' 8, Illinois State 7 and host school Ball State 1.

So effective were the Salukis that they captured every singles and doubles title offered and that includes the No. 1 and No. 2 singles, down which had been the cherished dreams of NIU's Gullikson (Tom and Tim) twins.

But those dreams turned to nightmares for the brothers Gullikson as Graham Snook at No. 1 and Jorge Ramirez at No. 2 won individual titles.

Snook beat Tom Gullikson for the No. 1 title in two sets, 6-1, 6-4 while Ramirez blew brother Tim away, 6-3, 6-2. For Ramirez it was his second conference title in two years. Last year he won the No. 1 spot when he beat Tom Gullikson in the title match held on the SIU tennis courts.

The victories over the Gulliksons marked the second time this season Snook and Ramirez had beaten the Northern twins. The first time happened in a quadrangular meet earlier in the year and was part of Southern's 7-2 conquest of the Huskies.

Snook and Ramirez also combined to give Southern a No. 1 doubles title. Again the victories came over the Gulliksons, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3. The Gulliksons were defending conference champions at No. 1 doubles.

Chris Greendale continued his work on a perfect season as he took the No. 3 singles title. He beat Illinois State's Wayne Johnson in the finals. Greendale was a defending champion at the No. 3 spot.

Greendale teamed up with Ray Briscoe to take the second doubles title in a 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 victory over Indiana State's Dan Bigg and Max Pokorny.

Briscoe also won the No. 4 singles title when he beat John Nolan of Illinois State in two sets, 6-2, 6-2.

At No. 6 singles Mike Clayton was victorious over Mike Suter to win the title. Clayton took three sets to fashion the victory, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3.

The final SIU singles championship went to first-year-man Chris Gunning. The freshman from New Zealand made quick work of Indiana State's Chris Palmer, 6-4, 6-4.

Gunning also teamed with Clayton to win the No. 3 doubles crown by defeating Herb Nold and Bruce Trapp from NIU, 6-3, 6-4.

NFL owners discuss rules

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League club owners began their meetings Monday in closed-door committee sessions, heard from Players' Association Executive Director Ed Garvey, then called an early halt to help honor players and owners.

The committee sessions were expected to produce recommendations for some constitutional and rule changes to be voted on by the full ownership later in the week, including a proposed move to have a tie count one-half game won, one-half game lost.

Also being considered was a rule change that would alter the nature of sudden death so that each team would have at least one opportunity to handle the ball. As things stand now, a team can win a coin flip to gain possession of the ball and kick a field goal for the victory without the opposition ever getting the ball.

Jones gets four..

Three Illinois high school baseball players and one junior college transfer have signed national letters-of-intent to attend Southern Illinois.

SIU baseball coach "Itch" Jones announced that Rick Bengston of Peoria, Jeff Scott of Kankakee, John Hoscheidt of Henry and Rob Klass of Gulf Coast Junior College, Panama City, Fla., have accepted scholarship offers.

Bengston is a 6-3, 195-pound first base, third base and catching prospect. He was named to the all-Midwest conference team as a freshman, sophomore and junior. He's consistently batted over .340 in his career at Richwoods High School.

Hoscheidt, a 5-10, 170-pounder, is a third base and outfield candidate although he has had experience as a pitcher. He also lettered two years in basketball and was named all-state as a senior.

Scott is a right-handed pitcher. The 5-2, 190-pounder also has played some shortstop for Eastridge High School.

Klass, a graduate of Reitz Memorial High School in Evansville, Ind., is a 6-2, 180-pound right-hander. He currently is sixth in strikeouts in national junior college statistics with 103 in 66 and two-thirds innings.

... Meade signs three

Three of the nation's top high school all-around gymnasts have signed national letters-of-intent to attend Southern Illinois University.

Two of the performers, Doug Law and Bill Anderson, hail from Chicago's northwest suburban area while Lance Garrett is from Monaca, Penn.

Law, who helped Arlington High School to a second-place finish in the state championships, placed sixth in the all-around competition.

Garrett was a two-time all-around champion of Pennsylvania. In addition, he also won the horizontal bar and vaulting events in the 1972 state meet.

Although Anderson was injured throughout most of the senior campaign, SIU coach Bill Meade still feels the graduate of Conant High in Palatine shows great potential.

Meade appraised the talents of the three signees by saying, "Although we lost Tom Lindner, with the addition of these three young men, I feel we should be stronger in 1973." SIU won the 1972 NCAA title.

MC holds meeting June 2

The regular spring meeting of the Council of the Midwestern Conference will be held Friday, June 2, at Indiana State University in Terre Haute.

William Domermuth of SIU, the Council chairman, made the announcement. Faculty representatives and athletic directors of the five conference members will attend.

The meeting was originally scheduled for Saturday, May 20, at Ball State University.

Three SIU gymnasts advance to final trials

Three Southern Illinois gymnasts—Gary Morava, Tom Lindner, and Juliette Mayhew—qualified for the final Olympic trials last weekend.

Morava and Lindner, who paced the Salukis to the 1972 national collegiate championship, placed sixth and eighth, respectively, in the second U.S. qualifying round in Berkeley Saturday evening.

The top 12 advanced to the final trials June 16-17 at Des Plaines, Maine West High School. Last weekend's mark represents 50 per cent of the final total.

Morava (105.80) and Lindner (105.25) were about three points off the pace set by leader Steve Hug with 108.25. The Stanford undergrad and former 1968 Olympian leads runnerup John Crosby (107.15), George Greenfield (106.95), Makato Sakamoto (106.40) and Marshall Avenir with 106.30 compulsory and optional points.

In between the two Saluki all-around performers is Jim Culhane (105.70). Rounding out the 12 qualifiers in (ninth through 12th) are Dave Butzman, Bob Dickson, Ted Marti and Jim Ivicek.

Morava climbed four notches to sixth due to his 55.00 total on optional exercises. That optional mark was the highest of the 25 participating gymnasts.

Ms. Mayhew was one of nine

IM award blanks now available

Nomination blanks for the Glenn "Abe" Martin Intramural Athlete-of-the-Year Award are now available in the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, room 128 of the SIU Arena. Students may nominate individuals for the award through May 31.

Students should submit nominations of those individuals they feel are deserving of the award, said Larry Schaake, acting director of Recreation and Intramurals.

An intramural student board will make the final selection from those nominated, Schaake said.

The award was created in honor of Martin who served as Coordinator of Intramural Athletics at SIU for the past 18 years. Martin retired from his position last September.

Canadian women gymnasts to qualify for next month's final Olympic trials in Toronto. She advanced by finishing eighth in last weekend's meet in Calgary, Alberta (Canada).

Terry Spencer, another SIU woman gymnast, will participate in the U.S. four-day trials, beginning Wednesday in Long Beach, Calif.

SIU women's coach Herb Vogel said Ms. Spencer's injured back is improving daily and she has "a real god" chance of finishing in the top 10. The top six girls will form the American team—the other four advance to a summer camp, competing for the alternate slot.

Radison inherits another award

Honors continue to pour in for Southern Illinois third baseman Dan Radison, who has become SIU's all-time baseman runs-batted-in champion.

Radison, a senior from Columbia, received the Metro-East Outstanding Athlete Award this past Sunday at McKendree College in Lebanon.

The award, presented by the Bearcat Booster Club of McKendree, goes annually to the top college senior athlete from the Metro-East area.

Previous award winners have been Kentucky's Tom Parker of Collinsville and Drake's Leon Huff of Altan.

Radison recently was named the recipient of the SIU baseball Alumni Letterman's Award in honor of former SIU coach Glenn "Abe" Martin.

Radison added his name to the SIU record books this year when he collected his 50th and 51st RBIs of the season against McKendree one week ago today, breaking the old mark of 49 set by Barry O'Sullivan in 1969. He finished the season with 56 RBIs.

Tuesday's floor hockey

Two games are on tap Tuesday in the intramural department's floor hockey league.

At 9 p.m. in Pappia Gymnasium, Phi Sigma Kappa will take on Blue Bong Rangers. At 9:45 p.m., the Ranger will meet Delta Upsilon.

SIU signs key to J.C. kings

Dennis Shidler, playmaker on Vincennes Junior College's national championship basketball team, has signed a national letter-of-intent to attend Southern Illinois.

Shidler's outstanding guard play helped Vincennes to the 1972 national juco title in Hutchinson, Kan., last March. He was selected to the all-tournament team.

A native of Lawrenceville, Ill., Shidler stands 6-1 and weighs 170.

He averaged 15 points per game in 1971-72 and led Vincennes in assists and steals.

"Our coaching staff felt that we needed an experienced guard who was an excellent team player," said SIU coach Paul Lambert. "This is why we wanted Dennis."

Trackmen break 7 meet marks

By Ken Stewart
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Mike Bernard got a hefty lung full of Muncie, Ind., air and began his motions toward the high bar.

When his body landed on the foam rubber after successfully clearing 6 foot, 11 inches of bar and air, he had:—set a new conference and Ball State track record.

—beaten favored Steve Cooksey of Indiana State.

—put the Salukis ahead for good in the outdoor Midwestern Conference track championships last weekend at Ball State.

The Salukis finally wound up with 202 points followed by Ball State (147), Illinois State (84), Indiana State (77) and Northern Illinois (73).

Southern won 12 of 20 events, broke seven conference records and tied two others, established six Ball State track marks and tied another.

There were two double winners for the Salukis: Ivory Crockett in the 100 (9.4) and 220-yard dashes (20.7) plus Dave Hill in the mile (4:07.3) and three-mile runs (14:03).

Ball State jumped off to an early lead last Friday but the Salukis slowly ate away before the high jump results came in. Southern's first (Bernard) and third (Bill Hancock) finishes in that event gave SIU a 75-69 lead over Cardinals.

"We didn't have a single disappointment in the meet," said Saluki coach Lew Hartzog. The Salukis have swept all four track crowns offered in the troubled conference—two indoors and two outdoors.

Terry Erickson's second place 46.8 clocking in the 440-yard dash qualified him for the NCAA meet in June.

Now, 12 Salukis have qualified for the national meet in 11 events:

100: Crockett (9.2 qualifying time); 200: Crockett (20.3); 440: Erickson; mile: Hill (4:01.9); three-mile: Hill (13:35.9); Jack St. John (13:54.1) and Gerry Craig (13:55.5); high jump: Hancock (6-11) and Bernard (6-11); long jump: Hancock (24-8); triple jump: Jim Harris (50-5¼) and Phil Robbins (50-0); the relay team of Crockett, Gerald Smith, Stanley Patterson and Eddie Sutton (mile, 3:09.440, 40.1; 880, 1:23.0).

Track stats

The following are event winners and all Saluki finishers in the Midwestern Conference track championships last weekend:

Baseballers sweep Ball State... but it's all over for '72 season

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

It's all over for the '72 baseball Salukis.

Their season concluded in a much diminished blaze of glory this past weekend with a three-game sweep of Ball State. The composite record was 32-8-1.

Then, Sunday night, the Salukis learned there would be no NCAA post-season bid, despite an eighth-place national ranking and the Midwest's best overall record.

But the disappointing news wasn't totally unexpected.

"I felt going into the Ball State series that we had our backs to the wall," said coach Richard "Itch" Jones. Why no bid? "We didn't win the Midwestern conference."

Southern Illinois finished second behind Northern Illinois (24-6), recipient of an at-large bid to the NCAA District Four Playoffs. Other bids went to Iowa (17-13), Bowling Green and Central Michigan Northern will play host school Bowling Green (Ohio) on Thursday afternoon. Iowa and Central Michigan will follow in the nightcap.

Red gridders smash Whites, 28-7

The SIU football Red squad ended a two-week old debate on "Who's Better?" Saturday evening in McAndrew Stadium by smashing the rival Whites, 28-7.

The White team did a lot of helping out, though. The Reds converted two pass interceptions and a short punt into three touchdowns in the final spring practice.

The squads played a 7-7 contest two Saturdays ago.

The Whites got on the board first with running back Thomas Thompson flipping a 24-yard pass to flanker Phil Jett with 6:40 remaining in the first quarter. That 7-0 lead stood up until Red quarterback Larry Perkins scampered over from the four-yard line just three minutes into the second period. Russ Hailey set up the score by intercepting a Jim Sullivan pass and racing 52 yards.

The Reds added another touchdown before intermission. A 10-yard punt was downed by the Red team at the opponent's 35 yard-line. On the very next play, a Perkins to Sam Reed screen pass gained 35 yards and a 14-7 Red lead at halftime.

"Before they go off to summer collegiate leagues, we want to make them conscious of what they should concentrate on," Jones said. "Also, this will help us decide what we want to recruit."

When the Salukis swept Ball State (7-0, 4-3, 14-0), Jones recorded his 104th SIU coaching victory against just 25 losses and one tie.

In the 14-0 drubbing of the Cardinals, freshman southpaw Robin Derry (2-1) pitched all nine innings on a yield of one triple and three singles. He struck out 11.

Mike Eden tied an SIU record when he collected five hits in six at-bats. Eden had one triple and four singles.

Dan Radison had three runs-batted-in Friday and two more during Saturday's second game. That pushed his own school record to 56 RBIs, a mark that undoubtedly would have increased during post-season play.

Before the 14-0 Saturday win that also had Joe Wallis collecting four hits, the Salukis took a 4-3, 10-inning first game decision.

Pitcher Jim Fischer, who also collected three hits, pitched five-hit ball and had the Salukis out front, 3-2, in the seventh. But he pulled a leg muscle covering first base and had to be replaced.

defensive halfback Dennis O'Boyle ran 18 yards with an interception with only 28 seconds remaining in the ballgame. Both teams offered different offensive attacks. The victorious Reds made 186 yards on the ground of their 248 total yardage. Meanwhile, the White squad relied on the passing Sullivan. The Watseka native connected on 13 of 22 passes for 162 yards. Perkins was four for 11 in the passing department.

Football practice resumes Aug. 28 when the Salukis return to carpeted McAndrew Stadium. The first three opponents—East Carolina, Lamar Tech and Wichita State—are road engagements. First home game is Oct. 7 against the University of Dayton.
