Johns indicted for alleged fund violations

By Mike Anthony and Liz Griffin
Staff Writers

State Sen. Gene Johns, D-59th District, has been indicted by a Williamson County grand jury on 30 counts—29 of them for allegedly violating state campaign financing laws, a special prosecutor said

Gene Johns

Thursday

Johns, who is serving his 11th year in the Senate, posted a $5,000 personal recognizance bond Thursday. John Brewster, special prosecutor for the case, said.

The grand jury met for about five weeks before handing down the indictment Wednesday. The alleged violations "involve tens of thousands of dollars," Brewster said.

Johns said on Tuesday that he would unquestionably run for re-election in 1982. Johns' district abuts Carbondale's legislative district on the south and east.

The 54-year-old Johns is an SIU-C graduate in political science.

The indictment, which includes one felony count, states that Johns on Sept. 3, 1980, filed an amended campaign financing report containing false information about how much he had received and spent and omitting information about sources of funding.

Johns was the first to be charged with violations under the 1974 law, made to open campaign disclosures to the public, Brewster said. If Johns is convicted, each of the 29 misdemeanors would be punishable by up to six months imprisonment and a $500 fine.

The last count charged Johns with official misconduct, a felony, stemming from the alleged violations of campaign disclosures, Brewster said. If convicted, Johns faces automatic forfeiture of his office and could be sentenced to five years imprisonment.

Johns declined comment Tuesday about the effects of the investigation on his campaign and could not be reached on Thursday. However, a woman at Johns' residence who identified herself over the telephone as his wife said the charges were politically motivated.

"Don't worry about it. It's the same thing they went through a year ago and they couldn't prove anything," she said.

PATCO's union status stripped by federal panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal labor panel voted 2-1 Thursday to strip the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization of its right to represent air controllers because of the union's call for an illegal strike against the government.

The order by the Federal Labor Relations Authority said federal law and the union's actions in calling a nationwide strike last August "plainly requires revocation of PATCO's status" as the air controllers' collective bargaining representative.

Before the ruling was announced, PATCO attorney Richard Leighton had indicated the union would appeal immediately to the U.S. Court of Appeals to stay the agency's order.

The panel's order marked the first time the government has put a union out of business by permanently stripping it of its bargaining authority.

The order was a major victory for the Reagan administration, which had sought PATCO's decertification after nearly 12,000 controllers walked off their jobs 2½ months ago.

The decision clears the way for the administration to ask Congress to give working controllers a new contract, allows controllers to form a new union and puts additional legal weight behind President Reagan's refusal to resume even informal talks with the strikers, who were fired two days after the walkout began Aug. 3.

Authority members Henry Frazier and Leon Applewhite voted for revocation.

The decision marked the first time in the nation's labor history that a union has been deprived of its right to represent its members in collective bargaining.

Student Senate votes down proposal for Halloween ads

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

The Student Senate voted Wednesday against funding Halloween advertisements in six student newspapers.

In a related action, Undergraduate Student Organization President Todd Rogers said he would veto a bill, which the senate had passed, to form a USO committee to distribute information to visitors on Halloween weekend.

After a heated debate, the senate voted 16 to 12, with 4 abstentions, against spending $175.60 for advertisements in the Daily Egyptian and the student newspapers of the University of Illinois, Western Illinois University, Illinois State University, Northern Illinois University and Eastern Illinois University.

The Daily Egyptian ad was to promote safety during Halloween weekend. The other advertisements were to read, "Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, student government presents Halloween '81, Illinois' largest costume ball."

The bill passed by the senate would have made the Halloween Ball Committee, headed by Scott Bayliff, east side senator, an official USO committee.

"I've never taken a stance so strong in trying to lead the senate," Rogers said in declaring his intention to veto the bill, which passed by four votes.

Rogers said he "definitely supports Halloween being here," but that he felt the formation of a committee would not improve the image of the celebration.

"It's going to be perceived that students at SIU-C are for partying first," Rogers told the senate. He said he would wait until one day before Halloween to veto the bill to prevent the senate from overriding the veto.

Homecoming to warm a cool weekend

By Vicki Oigeaty
Staff Writer

The weather is supposed to cooperate with the University for this weekend's Homecoming festivities. Visiting alumni will be greeted by crisp, cool football weather, the forecast says.

Thursday's rain should end in the early Friday morning hours, according to the SIU Weather Station, so it should be clear and cold for the opening events of "Oktoberfest" Friday evening.

The Marching Salukis will lead students from the residence halls at 7 p.m. in a snake dance to the south Arena parking lot, where a bonfire and pep rally will start at 7:30 p.m.

The football team will be guests of honor, but all the Saluki teams that are not competing out of town this weekend are expected to attend the bonfire. Other expected guests include President Albert Somit, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, Lew Hartzog, acting men's athletics director, and Charlotte West, women's athletics director.

The crowning of the Homecoming king and queen will be the highlight of Friday evening. Students selected the winners from a field of 10 candidates in elections held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Residence halls, fraternities and other student organizations will vie for a $25 prize in the traditional "yell-like-hell" contest. Students from Thompson Point have won the contest twice in the last three years, according to Calvin Barnes, chairman of the Student Programming Council Spirit Committee.

The weather also looks promising for Saturday's parade and football game. It should be partly sunny with a high temperature of 55 and with little chance of rain, the forecast said.

The parade will begin at 9:30 a.m. at Main Street, proceed south on Illinois Avenue and end at McAndrew Stadium. The reviewing stand will be next to Dairy Queen.

About 100 units—marching bands, floats, groups and cars—will participate in the parade.

Floats will compete for $200, $100 and $50 prizes and cars will vie for a $25 prize.

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw, grand marshal, Somit and the Homecoming royalty will ride in the parade in cars. Until recently the SPC Special Events Committee had difficulty finding convertibles for the parade.

But people have been very cooperative, according to Mindy Duggan, assistant coordinator of university programming. People have donated the use of convertibles, small pick-up trucks and antique cars.

Student Center to trim services if board does not pass fee hike

By Mike Anthony and Andrew Straug Staff Writers

If the Student Center fee is not increased, building hours will be cut and employees will have hours trimmed or will be laid off, John Corker, the center's director, told the Student Senate.

Corker, attempting Wednesday to get Student Senate support for a proposed $8 Student Center fee increase, said that weekend food service would also be curtailed if the increase is not granted. He said the center would have to "nickel and dime people to death" without the increase.

On the basis of a projected enrollment decline of 1.6 percent in fiscal year 1983 and a 1.5 percent decline in fiscal year 1983, the Student Center Board last week recommended an $8 Student Center fee increase, beginning in the summer of 1982.

The increase is needed, Corker said, to make up an expected budget deficit of $206,827 in fiscal year 1983, which would occur if the fee remains at its present level of $24.

If approved by the Board of Trustees, the $8 increase will assure the Student Center of a $113,173 surplus in fiscal year 1983, and a $4,596 deficit in fiscal year 1984. If the fee is raised to $32, it would be "several years" before another fee increase would be requested, he said.

Corker said projects that use the Student Center but that compete with the center's money-making activities—activities such as the selling of posters and shirts by student organizations and the proposed Undergraduate Student Organization book co-op—would be eliminated without the fee increase. Elimination of these activities would help the Student Center make more money, he said.

Corker said earlier in an interview Tuesday that an increase in the Student Center fee is "more desirable than a major reduction of services."

"We're looking at the possibility of a staff reduction, but we don't want to do it if we have to reduce the services we provide for students."

Gregg Larson, USO vice-president, said the USO is forming a committee to investigate the proposed fee increase.

Leaders told changes are needed

Economic summit begins

CANCUN, Mexico (AP)—Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo opened the first summit conference of 22 of the world's richest and poorest nations Thursday, telling a tardy President Reagan and the other delegates that changes must be made in the "unjust and unfair" global economic system.

He declared that system was responsible for "hunger, poverty and sickness" and told his fellow leaders, seated at a round table behind plastic name plates bearing miniature flags: "It is imperative that we recognize the complex and plural nature of today's world, instead of trying to reshape it to our own private image and likeness. No one of us is either pope or messiah."

Reagan, who arrived in the Cancun Sheraton Hotel conference room nearly 15 minutes after the scheduled call to order, sat with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig, Jr., to his right, sandwiched between delegations from China and the Philippines.

The president's opening remarks were made in private. Each delegation leader spoke in alphabetical order based on the Spanish spelling of their country.

With Lopez Portillo already beginning his introduction, Reagan, accompanied by Haig, White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III and Secret Service agent Jerry Parr, strolled into the room, took a place at a blue armchair and donned headphones for the English translation of each speaker's remarks.

Moments before he arrived, a White House staff member radioed to the president's sixth floor suite and, using his Secret Service code name, said, "Everyone is here except Rawhide. They're about to start the thing without him."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes explained afterward that Reagan was "just waiting til everybody else gets here," and nothing had gone wrong.

There was no formal agenda for the two-day conference to which most of the participants wore sports clothes, a reflection of the casual atmosphere in the hot and humid climate.

State GOP to finance remap suit

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Illinois Republicans will bankroll an allegedly non-partisan suit against the Democratic-drawn legislative redistricting map instead of taking action under the party banner, it was disclosed Thursday.

State GOP chairman Don Adams said a group representing minorities and other voters who might be hurt by the Democratic map would have a better chance in court.

Walesa urges restraint to workers

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa urged restraint Thursday as union radicals considered calling a nationwide walkout over food shortages. More than 150,000 Polish workers began a province-wide general strike and 2,000 drivers blared horns on Warsaw's main freeway in defiance of Communist authorities.

"Let's be reasonable and let's not cross the borders of the line of agreement," Walesa told Solidarity leaders meeting in the Baltic port of Gdansk to discuss a proposed one-hour strike next Wednesday over food shortages. The government has warned it might impose martial law unless the strikes are halted.

U.S. foreign aid world's highest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States gives more foreign aid than any other nation, but increasingly the money is targeted to support security and political interests rather than to alleviate economic hardship, government figures show.

And it is not the poorest nations that receive the bulk of the aid. Israel, for example, receives more aid from the United States than any other nation. Egypt is second.

Columbia fueling ahead of schedule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Crews finished loading two highly combustible fuels into the space shuttle Columbia a full day ahead of schedule Thursday, and Kennedy Space Center officials said that the countdown toward the Nov. 1 blast-off probably will begin Oct. 31.

The workers are so far ahead of schedule that they will be given Sunday off, said space agency spokesman Mark Hess.

Woman awarded $4 million after 30 years of swindling

CHICAGO (AP)—Calling it the most "repulsive" case he has encountered, a Circuit Court judge has awarded a Chicago woman as much as $4 million in corporate assets after she allegedly was swindled out of a huge trust for 30 years by relatives and lawyers.

"I have been...on the bench for 25 years, and of all the cases that I have handled, I never have seen a more repulsive one in my life or my career," said Cook County Circuit Judge Joseph Wosik in ordering the award to Riemore Nugent Collins.

Mrs. Collins is the only child of the late William J. Nugent, who owned a half-dozen privately held Chicago companies, and in 1951 set up the trust for his then-14-year-old daughter.

Under the terms of the trust, his daughter was to receive all the stock of three companies when she turned 30. However, the father apparently did not inform his daughter of the trust.

John Nugent, then 34, was appointed trustee of the fund in Mrs. Collins' behalf. John remained the fund's trustee, although he was disinherited in 1958 by the father shortly before his death.

Wosik said during the trial, "John Nugent had his genesis of aviciousness start when his stepfather disinherited him.

Spencer, who set up the 1951 trust for William Nugent, also allegedly executed a re-alignment of the family businesses with 50 percent of the ownership going to John Nugent who, it is believed, managed to get Mrs. Collins and her mother to acquiesce to his demands.

Carbondale police will begin closing traffic off along the parade route at about 8:30 a.m. Because the detours will change at each stage of the parade, Lt. Terry Murphy, Carbondale Police spokesman, advised motorists to follow detour signs and the directions of the 16 additional traffic officers who will be on duty.

Ticket sales to the Saluki football game against Southwest Louisiana are going well, according to the athletics ticket office. The kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m. The Homecoming court and distinguished alumni guests will be introduced during the halftime show.

Alumni and their guests are coming from all over the country. Most Carbondale and Murphysboro motels have been booked for weeks, motel managers reported.

The Class of 1931 will celebrate its 50th reunion with a SIU-C Half Century Club dinner at the Ramada Inn at 6:30 p.m. Friday. A reception in the Student Center ballrooms after the football game will honor alumni from classes ending in

"1" and "6" and the Class of 1980.

Three alumni will receive the 1981 Alumni Achievement Award at the Alumni Recognition Luncheon in Ballroom D at 11 a.m. Saturday. Somit will give a State of the University address and the winner of the 1981 Great Teacher Award will be announced.

The Student Center will host an Oktoberfest open house Friday night featuring German food, music and dancing.

ad bill, senators opposing it said the advertisements would damage the image of the senate and the entire University and would hurt the senate's relationship with the Carbondale city government.

Some supporters of the bill, however, said they felt the city is trying to ~~cancel the Halloween party~~ despite the wishes of students.

"What the students are basically afraid of is the town closing down Halloween," said David Hastings, an east side senator.

Tom Wood, an east side senator and sponsor of the bill, said the advertisements were "the first step in changing the image of Halloween from negative to positive. This bill is not intended to go against the city of Carbondale."

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, who attended the meeting, said,

"I think it would have been a mistake" to approve the ads.

Dennis Woods, a senator from the College of Science, said, "If we advertise, we are taking the responsibility of it being our party. I don't feel it's USO's party."

When the Halloween ad bill was defeated, Wood withdrew it with the understanding that the USO would still sponsor an ad in the Daily Egyptian promoting safety at Halloween.

Convicted rapist guilty of 2nd rape, court says

By Douglas Hamm Staff Writer

A Marion man, convicted in Jackson County Circuit Court earlier this year for rape, has been convicted on another rape charge in Williamson County Circuit Court.

Joseph Perruquet, 28, was found guilty Wednesday of charges of rape, deviate sexual assault and kidnapping before Judge William A. Lewis in connection with an Aug. 28, 1960, incident in Jackson and Williamson counties. A sentencing date will be set after the Williamson County Probation Office completes a social history of Perruquet.

Perruquet was convicted of abducting a 25-year-old Eldorado woman at knifepoint from University Mall and driving her to rural Williamson County near Cambria and raping her. Perruquet was also accused of taking the woman into rural Jackson County and raping her again.

Perruquet's case was consolidated by the Williamson and Jackson County State's Attorney's Offices so the woman wouldn't have to testify at two trials, according to Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons. Clemons and Williamson County Assistant State's Attorney Tom Coleman prosecuted the case.

Overpass gets Senate priority

Funding for construction of the U.S. 51 overpass in Carbondale has won high priority in the Senate Subcommittee on Transportation Appropriations.

The transportation appropriation bill now goes to the full Senate Appropriations Committee.

According to U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Illinois, Carbondale's Railroad Relocation Project is the only such project in the country to be designated as a priority project for funding in both the House and Senate.

The move gives the project—expected to cost $8 million—a greater chance of being funded by the Federal Highway Administration, although a recommendation on a funding level was not given.

Percy said he asked the subcommittee's chairman, Mark Andrews, R-N.D., to make Carbondale's project a priority in the bill.

The Federal Highway Administration has already agreed to release $5.3 million to the Carbondale Railroad Relocation unit for the purchase of the right-of-way at the U.S. 51 overpass.

Beg your pardon

Information was mistakenly edited from a story in Thursday's Daily Egyptian about the recommendation of a county board member.

The story originally explained that misinformation provided by the Illinois State Board of Elections led to the invalid recommendation by precinct committeemen of the county board member. The error in making the recommendation was in no way the fault of the county clerk's office.

Also, a headline in Thursday's edition said that the employees' union was said to drop a lawsuit. It should have said that the employees' association was told to drop up bylaws.

Student Senate silliness, Parts one and two

Student Senate silliness rides again. Compounding the silliness this time, however, are blatant irresponsibility and attempted, if perhaps unintentional, mismanagement of student funds.

This latest episode is a two-part farce. The first part was a proposal by Student Senator Tom Wood that the senate place advertisements for Halloween weekend in six Illinois university newspapers—advertisements that would have read "SIU-C Student Government presents Halloween '81: Illinois' largest costume ball."

The proposed advertisements would have been closer to the truth if they were to read: "For a really wild time, come down to Carbondale on the weekend of Oct. 31 and join 10,000 drunks making fools of themselves." Whatever the wording, that would have been the implied message behind such a stunt. In his defense, Wood said that the proposed ads were meant to give Halloween a more "positive" image.

A sillier idea would be difficult to come up with. It is hard to see how a "positive" image could be made of several thousand drunken partiers crowded on a downtown street. Not only would the ads have been an outrageous waste of student funds, but it is likely that they would have made Halloween an even more crowded and rowdy weekend than it usually is. Illinois Avenue has played host to 10,000 to 15,000 revelers for the past several Halloweens and safety has always been a problem. To invite more people here would have been a reckless and egregious error.

Fortunately, common sense prevailed. To their credit, a majority of the student senators voted not to spend student activity funds on such a dubious project. What is disturbing is that 12 of the 32 senators present voted in favor of the ads, which would have cost $175. That is the height of irresponsibility.

What is even more irresponsible is part two of this woeful tale. Student Senator Scott Bayliff sent letters-to-the-editor to several college newspapers inviting students to come to Carbondale—letters that were typed on USO stationery, letters for which he did not bother to consult his fellow senators or obtain USO permission.

He was reprimanded for this indiscretion by USO President Todd Rogers, but the damage has been done. The Eastern Illinois paper has already printed the letter, and the Illinois State and Western papers have said that they will also be printing it soon.

It is hard to figure out what got into these illustrious representatives' skulls that they would attempt to build up a weekend that is a logistical nightmare for all concerned. Whatever their motivations, it was wrongheaded and downright stupid.

How does the senate ever hope to be taken seriously when its time is spent trying to find ways to waste student funds? Given the nature of this particular farce, is it any wonder that student government is widely perceived to be a joke?

A need for increased awareness

The other day I noticed the cans that were marked for the Susan Schumacke Memorial Fund were being collected. I was at the University Mall watching two people carrying armloads of them—it was pretty obvious that none of them were very heavy.

Although I can understand the logic and good thought behind the fund being developed, I can also see the logic behind the empty cans—that money of and by itself will not protect other girls from being assaulted. Originally the fund was going towards a reward for the finding of Susan's killer and perhaps a scholarship. I don't think that people are being callous by not contributing—I feel that they believe their money (which, for the most part, is fairly scarce) should go to something a little more useful in terms of their own survival.

The publicity and attention of what happened two months ago has died down considerably. Life goes on, and I am one who would like to see that no one else ends up like Susan. Since it seems that the current interest in women's safety has waned, I see the chances of attempted assaults are more likely.

On Oct. 23, in the Morris Library Auditorium, a conference entitled "Rape is a Four-Letter Word" will be given, starting at 6:15 p.m. Representatives from the SIU Police, the Community Women's Center, Women's Transit, and several other interest groups will be attending in an informative panel with a question and answer period. Their purpose is to increase awareness in the existing programs geared towards women in order to reduce the likelihood of physical assaults of women.

I recommend for everyone to come to this conference. Attendance is free and open to the public, and it should prove to be the most informative that SIU-C has had on the subject in some time. I hope to see you there.—Michelle Giles, Senior, Speech Communication.

Gossip column furor shows need for keeping the record straight

WASHINGTON is a media town. The place swarms with an estimated 10,000 reporters, editors, correspondents, broadcasters and public relations people; and wherever two or three have been gathered together this past week, the talk has been of The Ear and Jimmy Carter.

It has been sober talk, for the incident has raised some troublesome questions about the role of a newspaper and the responsibility of its writers and editors. We have some serious thinking to do. You should know, first, that "The Ear" is a gossip column written by Diana McLellan. The column originated in the Washington Star, but when the Star folded in August the feature moved over to the Washington Post. During its tenure at the Star, The Ear was probably the best-read feature in the paper. That point is important, because a part of our business is to entertain our customers, and our customers loved The Ear.

MS. MCLELLAN'S gossip is often wrong, but Diana's followers know this. They rarely take her seriously anyway. They read The Ear as they read the astrology column, for the fun of it. She writes with a kind of feather-brained insouciance, but she works hard at her trivial trade and she has excellent sources.

On Oct. 5 she led her column with an item saying that "the tired old tale about Nancy dying for the Carters to blow out of the White House as swiftly as possible is doing a rerun." She recalled the uproar in January when Mrs. Reagan "supposedly moaned that she wished Rosalynn and Jimmy would skip out before the inauguration so she could start into decor chores." "Now word's around among Rosalynn's close pals about exactly why the Carters were all sure Nancy wanted them out. They're saying that Blair House, where Nancy was lodging and chatting up First Decorator Ted Graber, was bugged. And at least one tattler in the Carter tribe has described listening to The Tape..."

FORMER President Carter read the item and drew the understandable inference that the rumor imputed the bugging to him. He summoned lawyers and threatened to sue for libel. On Oct. 14 the Post carried an editorial saying, in effect, that the rumor was untrue, but it was true there was a rumor. The story was in fact circulating, but the story was "utterly impossible to believe."

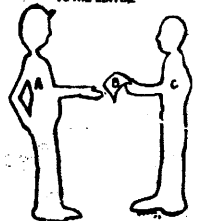

Very well. Some of my colleagues contend that no reputable, responsible newspaper has any business running a gossip column at all. I don't buy that. Our first function, of course, is to print the news, but we have other functions also. We carry editorials, letters, opinions, comic strips and columns on bridge, astrology, stamp collecting and advice to the lovelorn because these features entertain and amuse. This is where Diana comes in.

BUT IS it defensible to amuse at the expense of a public figure's reputation? Plainly it is not. Poking fun is one thing, but the bugging bit was something else. Yet let us provisionally accept as fact that the bugging rumor was abroad. Was this news? I think it was. Even the most unfounded rumors can be news. Such rumors crop up constantly in our town. A rumor swept the Hill the other day that Sen. Charles Percy had been killed in an airplane accident; it wasn't the senator, it was one of his aides. A persistent and malicious rumor had it that a leading GOP congressman is homosexual; there isn't a word of truth in it, but the rumor itself is fact.

What should an editor do when he confronts a newsworthy statement or a rumor that he believes to be wrong? The late Sen. Joe McCarthy made statements that were untrue, but it was true that he made them. The answer, it seems to me, is to check it out and then to print the false and the true simultaneously—to keep the record straight as the record is being made. Here the Post slipped up. Its editorial repudiation came about nine days too late. —(c) 1981, Universal Press Syndicate.

Fake amphetamines called dangerous, linked to deaths

By Melody Cook
News Editor

A LATE NIGHT partying looms in front of Ron. He has a paper due for English composition, plus two tests in the morning—and like most people, he's put off studying until the last minute.

So he plugs in the coffee pot and takes out his stash of "speed," bought last week just for tonight. A few hours later he begins to yawn, so he shakes out two more pills and downs them with another cup of coffee.

Meanwhile, Sherry is planning a night of partying after a long week of classes. It's Thursday and almost everyone is going uptown for an early start on the weekend. There's just one problem—she didn't get enough sleep last night between watching the late movie and getting up for her 8 o'clock class. She doesn't want to miss out on the fun, so she goes upstairs and buys a couple of "black beauties" from the guy who always seems to have them. Back in her room, she swallows them with a beer. Everyone says they work better with alcohol.

IT ALL SEEMS harmless enough. The guy who sold them the pills doesn't think anything is going to happen—he knows that they're not even real amphetamines. He bought the pills through a magazine ad from a company advertising "safe, effective and legal" body stimulants. Advertising flyers for similar pills have been seen on high school and junior high playgrounds.

But there is a very real potential for danger. Over half the buyers of the "safe" speed are purchasing what the Illinois attorney general's office has labeled "concentrated caffeine" tablets. And with those tablets, the candyman is delivering a substance which is potentially as deadly as arsenic.

Use of caffeine pills pawned off as amphetamines has been implicated in the deaths of at least 14 people, five in Illinois, within the past nine months. Two strokes, one on each coast, have also been linked to the pills.

THERE HAVE PROBABLY BEEN more deaths due to caffeine overdose,

Lethal Look-alikes

but health officials were not "particularly alert" to the problem and could have written them off as caused by amphetamines. Don Ramsell, spokesman for the attorney general's office, said.

Attorney General Tyrone Fahner has estimated that the drugs will cause the deaths of at least a dozen more Illinois youths in the next few months.

At first, the pills were considered a harmless way for young people to get their kicks without messing with prescription drugs, Ramsell said. Then the Health Department began reporting "clearly defined" deaths and strokes linked to the use of the pills, he said.

The Illinois deaths have occurred in the cities of Carbor lale, Springfield, DuPage and Deatur and in Boone County—all in the last nine months, Mary Huck, public information officer for the Illinois Public Health Department in Springfield, said. She said that before the link was made between the pills and the fatalities, no one realized a person could die of a caffeine overdose.

IN CARBONDALE, THE pills claimed the life of 16-year-old Margaret Parsons, in town performing with the Chicago Knockers Mud Wrestling Team as part of the April SIU-C Springfest '81. A coroner's inquest ruled the death as suicide and said that her heart had stopped as a result of an overdose of caffeine.

The pills are legal. Their ingredients are either caffeine or caffeine enhanced by ephedrine, pseudoephedrine or phenylpropanolamine (PPA) decongestants found in many cold remedies. The combinations are manufactured in capsules or pills closely resembling prescription amphetamines. To tell them apart, "you'd almost have to be a regular amphetamine buyer," Ramsell said.

State laboratories have found that over the past four or five years, 57 percent of all the pills turned in by school and law enforcement officials for testing have been the look-alikes, he said. Look-alike pills typically contain 200 to 300 milligrams of caffeine, about as much as in two strong cups of coffee. But caffeine is a slow-acting drug, Ramsell said, and it can be up to three hours before its effects are felt.

"SOMEONE WHO IS looking for a quick kick may feel the pills don't have any impact and take another two or three or four...." he said.

That is where the danger comes in: Current studies have implicated caffeine in a withdrawal headache syndrome, according to Matthew Linnik, graduate student in physiology and teaching assistant for the 420-level pharmacology class at SIU-C. The syndrome is noticed mostly on weekends and about 18 hours after the last caffeine dose. Symptoms, including intense headaches, irritability and nervousness, peak three to six hours after their onset.

Heavy use of caffeine may also be involved in certain birth defects. Pregnant women should severely limit their caffeine consumption, Linnik said.

People prone to headaches, nervousness, restlessness, insomnia and bladder infections should also avoid the drug. It can also cause dehydration.

Pills containing decongestants are called "enhanced concentrated caffeine." The combination of alcohol with the enhanced caffeine is more likely to result in a fatality, Ramsell said.

PPA APPEARS TO be a very harmful drug, according to Lennik, although it is found in many decongestants and in diet pills. It causes a raise in blood pressure which is "very substantial" in some people, he said, and should not be used by people with blood pressure problems.

PPA should also be kept away from children because it can cause restlessness, irritability, aggressiveness and disturbances in sleep patterns. Some reactions have been severe enough to cause hallucinations and an inability to recognize parents.

Long-term use of the drug should be avoided because people who have used diet pills containing PPA have shown severe muscle tenderness, nausea, vomiting, fever, headaches and general weakness, Lennik said. People with sleeping problems and women in their menstrual cycles should also avoid PPA, Lennik said. Mixing PPA with other drugs has also proved dangerous.

EPHEDRINE, USED clinically, is often combined with a chemical very similar to caffeine and found in tea. However, some researchers have found reactions such as insomnia, nervousness and gastrointestinal complaints among its users, Linnik said. Those researchers are not convinced that the combination of ephedrine and caffeine is in the best interest of the patient, he said.

Ephedrine acts like adrenalin, the chemical that makes your heart beat faster when you're excited, except that ephedrine's effects last much longer. Ephedrine also raises blood pressure and increases blood flow to the heart, brain and muscles. It causes a relaxation of the bronchial tubes, especially when combined with caffeine.

Ephedrine also causes an increase in blood sugar. The effects of too much sugar in the body are severe dehydration and increased acidity of the blood, which can cause a person to lapse into a coma. For this reason, ephedrine is not prescribed for diabetics. Lennik said the dangers also exist for a potential diabetic even if he has no knowledge of his condition. Doctors also do not prescribe ephedrine for people with heart or thyroid problems.

IF EPHEDRINE OR pseudoephedrine are combined with caffeine and taken in therapeutic doses, the combination is effective for people with asthma, Linnik said.

"The danger of the drugs lies in their potential for abuse, as there are always some people who will figure that if a little is good, a lot is better and will potentially subject themselves to an overdose," he said.

Safe levels of any of these drugs have not been determined, Ramsell said. But he said that the stroke victims said they took only one or two capsules before they collapsed.

Fahner trying to stop flow of phony drugs

By Melody Cook
News Editor

COLORFUL advertising boasting that "we hold the key to feeling good" and offering quantities of "safe, no worry, no hassle" body stimulants are tempting people to buy and sell pills that could result in strokes or deaths, the Illinois attorney general's office is saying.

Those advertisements for look-alike amphetamines showing up through the mail and on college, high school and junior high campuses have prompted Attorney General Tyrone Fahner to file suits against 39 companies distributing the drugs in the state. Seven of the companies are based in the Chicago area. "We're trying to stop the flow of these drugs into Illinois," Don Ramsell, spokesman for the attorney general's office, said.

The companies, including nine in Illinois and 30 in other states, will be charged with violations of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practice Act, the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practice Act and the state public nuisance law. Injunctions and civil penalties against the companies are being sought in the suits, filed in May, June, August and September.

THE PILLS, manufactured to look like prescription amphetamines, have been linked with two strokes and with the deaths of at least 14 people, five in Illinois. The ingredients—caffeine and several decongestants—are relatively harmless when used therapeutically but can be deadly when abused.

Ramsell said advertising for the drugs is deceptive and contains material omissions. The visual presentation of the ads "keys off of street drug-type language," he said.

"They don't disclose that the pills have caused fatalities and strokes," he said.

Ramsell said that 20 of the companies contacted have voluntarily stopped shipments into Illinois. He said the lawsuits may be dropped for companies who sign a formal agreement to permanently stop conducting business in the state.

Michigan has followed Illinois, lead by filing suits against eight companies, Ramsell said, adding that other states have asked to study a copy of the Illinois complaint.

Lethal Look-alikes

RAMESELL SAID the business has been estimated to gross more than $500 million nationally per year.

He said that while the pills have been circulating for four or five years, the attorney general's office only became aware of the problem in March after police turned over flyers found on playgrounds. An analysis showed that the drugs are legal, so it was first thought to be possibly a harmless way for kids to get their kicks, Ramsell said. Then the Health Department reported four "clearly defined" deaths and two strokes: from caffeine overdose.

Before November there were no incidents of caffeine-related death reported. However, medical personnel were not "particularly alert" to the problem and may have attributed caffeine fatalities to amphetamines, Ramsell said.

Officials say that more than 57 percent of all the pills tested at state laboratories have turned out to be either "concentrated caffeine" or "enhanced concentrated caffeine," pills that contain decongestants. To identify the look-alikes, "you'd almost have to be a regular amphetamine buyer," Ramsell said.

DISTRIBUTORS can't use a drug company's trademark or control number, but usually only one letter or number is different on the copies.

"It does encourage someone to go out there and rip off their fellow students" by letting them think they're buying amphetamines, Ramsell said.

"If the wrong person is sold this kind of capsule, some harm could come to the person who made the sale," he added. Tom McNamara, Carbondale Police spokesman, said that when police find what look like amphetamines, the suspect is charged with possession of a controlled substance until after the testing. If the pills turn out to be caffeine or another legal substance, the charges are

Maryland, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Florida, Rhode Island and Nevada. The six that listed ingredients listed phenylpropanolamine (PPA), ephedrine and caffeine. Pills containing those drugs have been linked to at least 16 deaths and strokes across the country.

But more recent issues of High Times have been barren of ads for the look-alike amphetamines. Don Ramsell, spokesman for the attorney general, said that about three months ago the magazine and other publications told the drug distributors that they would no longer accept such ads. He said the decision was made after an Illinois attorney general's investigator brought nationwide attention to problems the pills have caused.

The attorney general's office has filed suits against 39 companies that shipped the drugs into Illinois. Ramsell said 20 of the companies have agreed to voluntarily stop shipments into the state and are expected to sign formal agreements in order to prevent the suits.

In the October 21-27 issue of the local SI Trader newspaper, however, a small ad offers pills that look a lot like the ones in the High Times ads, but with one difference. Here they are billed as wholesale generic diet aides.

Several of the ads list the pills they offer. The stock includes very convincing imitations of amphetamines labeled criss cross, pink heart, orange BT 72, black RJS, black 8658, yellow RVJ, green and clear 127, brown and clear 127, and pink and yellow dice tablets. Prices ranged from $30 to $75 per 1,000 pills, $45 per 1,000 for quantities of 1,000 to 9,000, and $35 per 1,000 for 10,000 to 49,000 pills. Several ads urged readers to call for prices on quantities larger than 49,000.

The advertisements, and the pills, can be found all over the country—including Carbondale.

Ted, a senior, is a Carbondale dealer. He used to buy and sell 300 to 500 caffeine pills per week until he heard rumors of an impending crackdown on the business. Now he still orders an occasional 100 pills for a friend, but he sells them at cost, he said.

He has been selling look-alikes for three years at another state college. He had been working late hours so a friend told him he could get "black beauties" through the mail at $10 per 100 pills. Since he could sell them for 50 cents a "hit," Ted (a pseudonym) thought it would be a good business venture.

Six months later Ted and his friend pooled their money and bought 1,000 pills. With the larger quantity, the price went down to $5 per 100. By that time, Ted had a "set group of customers," and he was selling 100 to his friends for $10. To strangers, he sold 100 for $20.

"Of course, you can see the huge profit margin," he said.

"The market is there for them—who am I to pass on making money?"

He kept buying the pills through his friend after he came to SIU-C, he said, and sold them for double what he paid for them. He said he sold only to college students—never to high schoolers—and he never solicited any sales. But he never told anyone the ingredients, either, he admits.

"I've never had anyone ask me and I've never volunteered the information."

Most of his customers, in turn, sold them to other people, he said. The markup was about 800 percent by the time the pills reached the consumer. Fake black beauties have sold for up to $1 per capsule, he said.

It is possible that some people have gotten sick from his pills, but it probably was because one of his customers sold them to "some freshman in the dorms," he said.

"Sure, I'd feel terrible if someone got killed because I sold them some dope. It'd be on my conscience for the rest of my life," he said.

He says he still occasionally sends look-alikes to his roommate's sister in another state because they are unavailable there. But he says he's all but out of the business now.

"I'm done with it. I'm about to get out of this university, so why bother? Why get messed up?"

Cellmates beat child beater

PEKIN (AP)—Cellmates of a man convicted of abusing his 7-year-old daughter became so angry after seeing a television news account of the case they began beating him themselves, officials said Thursday.

Thomas R. O'Connor, 30, was treated for a broken nose and returned to the Tazewell County Jail where he is being held in a cell by himself, according to Jail Administrator Dennis Shults.

Prisoners in the cell with O'Connor turned on him and began beating him Wednesday night following a broadcast about the case.

O'Connor and his wife, Donna, 28, were found guilty Wednesday of aggravated battery and cruelty for repeatedly beating their 7-year-old daughter, Renee.

dropped. However, a person is subject to the same penalties if he represents a substance to be an illegal drug, he said. Other sources say that is why most look-alike dealers are careful never to claim that the pills are amphetamines.

But misrepresentation has always been around, McNamara said. Powdered sugar mixtures have been sold as cocaine, oregano as marijuana, and, most recently, a belladonna and strychnine combination has been passed off as LSD.

HE SAID THE only difference in the look-like amphetamine sales is that it's a large commercial operation.

"That's about the only difference," he said.

While the suits are waiting to be heard, legislation has been filed with the General Assembly in an attempt to define caffeine-type pills as controlled substances. Falner said that first indications from Congressional leaders show a "positive reaction" to the legislation.

The look-alikes typically contain 200 to 300 milligrams of caffeine and varying amounts of ephedrine, pseudoephedrine phenylpropanolamine (PPA). Caffeine is a slow-acting drug, Ramsell said, and up to three hours may elapse before its effects are felt.

CAFFEINE SHOULD be avoided by people prone to headaches, nervousness, insomnia and bladder infections. Heavy use may also be linked to certain birth defects, research has shown.

In addition, PPA and ephedrine have been known to be dangerous when combined with alcohol, cause a rise in blood pressure and intensify sleeping problems, nervousness and headaches.

McNamara, however, said the danger lies with getting drugs off the street, not just with the purchase of look-alikes.

"You're always taking a chance when you're buying it off the street," he said.

Unfortunately, the streets abound with offers of the look-alikes. But the local dealers in the flourishing business of passing off the pills won't have to worry about being busted just yet. Ramsell said there is no crackdown planned on the smaller dealers.

"If we kill the body of the octopus," he said, "The legs will take care of themselves."

Aggressive flu program demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five prominent doctors chastised the medical profession Thursday for failing to promote widespread immunization against flu and pneumonia. One said that prevailing indifference comes "close to malpractice."

At a news conference, the doctors — experts in preventive medicine — said thousands of lives could be spared every winter by an aggressive immunization program, but the medical profession is inattentive.

"Influenza remains an embarrassing anachronism in this last quarter of the 20th Century," said Dr. Edwin D. Kilbourne of New York's Mount Sinai School of Medicine. "It's close to malpractice in my view not to aggressively immunize these people in the high-risk groups."

Sponsored by the National Foundation for Infectious Diseases, the five doctors kicked off a public education program designed to encourage people to go to their own physicians and ask if they should have shots against flu and pneumonia.

The foundation said it has no reason to expect an epidemic this winter. But last winter, 60,000 to 70,000 Americans died of influenza and pneumonia — the highest number in more than a decade — and the outbreak "hardly made news and even worse it passed almost without comment," said Dr. Richard J. Duma, president of the foundation.

It said 50 million Americans are "especially susceptible to the severe effects of influenza, including pneumonia and death" and should get vaccinated against flu and pneumococcal pneumonia.

People in high risk of contracting pneumonia are those over 50 and those with heart, lung and kidney diseases, diabetes and metabolic disorders, those who have had sickle cell anemia, those who have had their spleens removed or damaged and those in chronic care facilities or who are convalescing from severe diseases. In addition, flu shots were recommended for children.

Shaw and Somit to host new shows

WSIU-TV will introduce a new half-hour program Sunday featuring Chancellor Kenneth Shaw and President Albert Somit.
 The inaugural show, to begin at 3:30 p.m., will feature Shaw discussing SIU's medical and dental programs in a 15-minute segment called "Chancellor's Report." The program will be followed by a 15-minute mini-documentary on the SIU System entitled "SIU Today."
 The station will air the program on the last Sunday of each month.

 "President's Report," featuring Somit, will air at 3:30 p.m. on the other Sundays. The "SIU Today" mini-documentary will follow the segment.
 The first "President's Report" will air Nov. 1. Robert Henderson of Broadcasting Services is the show's producer.

Stevenson claims

Byrne's support

CHICAGO (AP)—Former U.S. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson said Thursday that Mayor Jane Byrne was "very supportive" of his bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, but indicated he had not yet sought her formal endorsement.
 The two met for an hour in Mrs. Byrne's City Hall office, a meeting Stevenson described as a "very friendly, cordial talk."

U.N. Day slated for Oct. 26

By Steve Moore
Staff Writer

Timothy C. Brown of the U.S. State Department will be the guest speaker for SIU's annual United Nations Day celebration.

Saturday is U.N. Day, designated by the U.N. General Assembly each year to commemorate the founding of the organization on October 24, 1945.

According to a proclamation issued by Carbondale Mayor Hans J. Fischer, it is a day when "Americans join with the people of the world in reaffirming our commitment to the principles upon which the U.N. was founded: International peace and security, respect for human rights, and the promotion of social and economic cooperation among nations."

SIU will celebrate the occasion October 26 with a dinner for members of the Southern Illinois Chapter of the United Nations Association in the Old Main Dining Room at 6 p.m.

Brown, a career Foreign Service Officer, will deliver a lecture entitled "The United States and Cuba" at 8 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium. The lecture is open to the public.

Both the dinner and the lecture are sponsored by the U.N. Association and the Expressive Arts Committee of the Student Programming Council.

Brown is currently Deputy Coordinator for Cuban Affairs in the State Department's Latin American Bureau. He has previously served in Washington as an envoy specialist and in Paraguay-Uruguay affairs. His diplomatic experience abroad includes tours in the Netherlands, El Salvador, Paraguay, Mexico, Spain and Israel, where he has done economic, political, commercial and consular work.

Before becoming a diplomat, Brown served for 10 years in the Marine Corps, with tours in Nicaragua, Guatemala, Thailand, Taiwan and the Philippines. He is a graduate of the University of Nevada, where he studied economics.

In conjunction with the U.N. Day activities, the Carbondale Inter-Church Council will support the U.N. Children's Fund through "Trick or Treat" for UNICEF collections and through the sale of UNICEF Christmas cards.

Nancy Olesen of the Royal Lichtenstein Circus performed in a mime fable at the Newman Center on Thursday. The circus will perform Friday and Saturday at the University Mall.

Lichtenstein Circus is in town

Ring acts performed 'royally'

By Joe Walter
Entertainment Editor

Children gathered 'round when the circus came to town—and so did a couple of adults.

The crowd, numbering about 150, gathered at noon Thursday to see the performance by the Royal Lichtenstein Quarter Ring Sidewalk Circus at the Newman Center. For those who missed it, the circus will also perform at 2, 4, and 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the University Mall.

The circus, founded by ringmaster Nick Weber, offered a colorful variety of entertainment—from the Roman Rings acrobatics of Jens Larson, to trapeze artistry by Stephen DeSauniers, to foot-balancing by Robert E. Lee, to two mimefables, "Ploughsharing" and "Miles from Giles," narrated by Weber and performed by Larson, DeSauniers, Lee, and actress-dancer Nancy Olesen.

"Ploughsharing" was about the queen of the kingdom of the Imagi, Flo, and the king of Oddiby.

Flo receives seeds on her birthday, a gift from a relative. She plants the seeds, which grow into flowers. She is crowned queen. Stunned by the flowers' beauty, she and her subjects plant the seeds until they run out.

Brent of Oddiby receives a gun on his birthday, also a gift from a relative. However, he does not know that the gun can shoot and kill—to him it is a beautiful sculpture. The other people of the land of Oddiby also like the "sculptures," so the whole country sets itself to making guns. When Brent becomes king, he cannot understand the neighboring kingdoms' worries about his nation's accumulation of arms.

The performance included a magic show by Weber, who asked a member of the audience to help him with a card trick. After the helper pulled out a card, Weber inserted a cassette into his tape player and a recording told the audience the correct card.

A trunk trick, originated by the legendary escape artist Harry Houdini, was executed

Beg your pardon

The Daily Egyptian erroneously reported in Thursday's issue that $1,000 checks would be presented to each of the men who will receive Alumni Achievement Awards.

A $1,000 check will go to the faculty member selected for the Great Teacher Award to be presented at an alumni banquet Saturday at the Student Center.

The achievement awards will be presented to David T. Kenney, former SIUC political science professor who is director of the state Department of Conservation; David G. Karraker, Aiken, S.C., research chemist; and Frank C. Adams of Carbondale, former director of SIUC student aid programs.

Winner of the Great Teacher Award will be announced at the banquet.

U of I enrollment hits new record

URBANA (AP)—Enrollment at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is a record 35,152, school officials said Thursday.

The record came despite the fact that the university's enrollment of new freshmen was down one from a year ago.

Award-winning prof at home in classroom or on the farm

Kathy Kamienski
Staff Writer

Donald Elkins grasps the lime-green stalk of sorghum, breaking it off near the top.

This stuff could be addicting," he says half in jest as he pushes a chunk of the sweet, fibrous plant between his teeth. It's just one of the fruits of his labor at the agronomy station, part of SIU-C's mini-farm and crops garden.

Elkins, agronomy professor in SIU-C's Agriculture School, seems to be at home whether noting data for several long-standing research projects or teaching a class.

In fact, it's the combination of his unique teaching technique, his work on supplementary projects like a self-instruction lab for agriculture students, a crop identification garden, and research that won him the 1981 Agronomic Resident Education Award of the American Society of Agronomy.

The award means that society thinks he's the nation's top agronomy teacher. But Elkins remains unfazed by the award—possibly because he's gotten nearly a closetful of teaching honors in his 14 years at SIU-C. To him, his first obligation is teaching.

"The way I see it, the student is the most important person at the university. I wouldn't have my job without students and because of that I try to treat them accordingly," Elkins explains.

He has his own approach to teaching. He'll go out of his way to keep students interested in the finer points of crop science, using techniques which might be considered unique in other classrooms.

"It's not all a bunch of gimmicks," he explains, noting the use of down-home country music to open and close class, an intermission after about 25 minutes of lecture, and the awarding of prizes to students for various special events.

"I'm concerned about breaking down barriers between students and teachers, and I'm serious about the material and that there's learning going on. But you need to get their attention first."

Donald Elkins of the Agronomy Department stands surrounded by students' projects in the greenhouse on campus.

If students fall asleep, "there'd be too many whiplash injuries in class," he says. "No matter how good a teacher you are or how good that material is or how good a speaker you are, you've got to have their attention."

Leading into a lecture on cotton, Elkins staged "Dr. Don's Dynamite Denim Day" recently. The 100 students in class voted on who wore the best denim outfit that day as Conway Twitty wailed about "a tiger in those tight-fitting jeans" in the background. Contest winners took home jars of what Elkins called "Donville Elkinbacher's Gourmet Popping Corn."

The point, and what got scribbled into most notebooks,

That since 1975 there's been a big jump in the use of cotton, one contributing factor has been the explosion in jeans. Elkins draws from his broad farming background in his writing and research. Born in Paducah, in northern Kentucky, and then transplanted to mid-Tennessee, Elkins says he watched as his father's farm "sometimes die some money and sometimes lost it all."

He looks over the variety of soybeans, castor beans, flax, tobacco, millet and clover, and takes almost the same interest in the plants as he does in his students. "Frost is about to get the castor beans...Poor tobacco, really got the insect damage...Cotton didn't quite make it to bloom this year..."

All was not lost, however. "The beauty of the garden is that the kids haven't seen 75 percent of this stuff before. "I like to give them hands-on experience and use show and tell as much as possible." It must work. Even during a 10 a.m. Monday class, all eyes were on Elkins. There were no whiplash injuries that day.

For eight years he has researched ways to grow crops while reducing soil erosion. The project has several years to go, Elkins says, but some of this year's growing attempts showed success. In a test plot about 100 yards away from the sorghum, there's alfalfa that was planted with corn. It is noticeably taller and fuller than other corn planted this season. Elkins mentions that the alfalfa, in addition to helping prevent erosion, has probably benefited the crop with added nitrogen. He expects the plot to yield 150 to 160 bushels per acre, high for this area. But the crop research seems to be more to Elkins than planting and recording the results.

Fourteen contestants seek Miss Eboness title

Fourteen contestants are seeking the Miss Eboness title in a pageant scheduled at 8 p.m. Saturday in Shryock Auditorium.

Pageant coordinator Daryl Leake said the 1981 pageant is being dedicated to the memory of the black children murdered in Atlanta.

The event, sponsored by Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, is not a beauty contest, Leake said.

Community service and scholastic achievements of the contestants are considered along with performances at Shryock. The winner receives a $400 scholarship.

The contestants are Revonda McMorris, Carmelita Salter, Kim Murry, Elsie Barnett, Greta Brewington, Linda Sykes, Delois Porter, Danielle Hill, Gail Davenport, Miriam Sankey, Twila Lavender, Marcia Martin, Yvonne Smith and Audrie Hicks.

Judging the talent contest will be Layonne Molton, Black Affairs Council, graduate assistant; Harriet Wilson, Admissions and Records Office; Isaac Brigham, academic counselor for athletes, and Richard Hayes, affirmative action director.

Tickets are $3, $4 and $5.

Campus Briefs

The Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge will hold an open house Saturday at its new headquarters facilities. The refuge office and maintenance shop will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. and staff will be available to guide visitors through the facilities and to answer questions.

A potluck dinner for volunteers of the Newman Center's Heart to Heart Program will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Sunday in the Newman Center snack bar. Vivian Ugent, director of the Carbondale United Way, will speak on "Volunteering: Why it is Important."

The Murphysboro Shrine Club will have an "Old Fashioned Ham and Bean Feed" from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple, 1115 Chestnut St. The charge will be $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

SIU-C to sponsor conference about industrial development

By Jennifer Polk
Staff Writer

More than 250 delegates from industry, labor, government and education in Southern Illinois will meet with state and international representatives at the Conference for Exploring Government, Industry, Labor and Education in the Student Center Monday and Tuesday.

The conference, sponsored by SIU-C, will focus on the industrial development of the region. Developmental experts from Japan, Great Britain, Germany and Canada as well as representatives of state and federal agencies will lend their assistance at the conference.

Former U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, who has announced his intention to seek the Democratic nomination for governor, will speak at noon Tuesday in Ballroom D. Gov. James Thompson and will speak at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Center Auditorium.

"We want to focus on developing Southern Illinois by fusing scientific resources with industrial, government and labor resources so that the local economy will benefit," said Oliver Hensley of the Office of Research, Development and Administration and coordinator of the conference. "If we can stimulate industry, we can stimulate jobs and labor improvements."

Conference groups have been formed to address problems in the key areas of agriculture, energy, international, community, industrial and capital development.

"These people will discuss the specific barriers to each phase of development," said Hensley. "Then they'll discuss what resources are needed to combat the problems and what is

'Trick or treat' to benefit UNICEF

Children will "trick or treat" door-to-door throughout Carbondale from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund. The trick or treat is sponsored by the Carbondale Interchurch Council.

Proceeds will be sent to the U.S. Committee for UNICEF to help supply better health care, nutrition and water supplies to children and families in the developing world.

Information about the upcoming activity is available from Al Parr at 549-2029.

needed to develop those resources. They will present some specific developmental strategy guidelines. Hopefully we'll have some proposals and agreements by the end of the conference."

On Monday, there will be a plenary session on regional development at 10:30 a.m. A luncheon session concerning state development will be from noon to 1:30 p.m. The concurrent sessions of the conference development groups will be from 1:30 to 5 p.m. A banquet discussion on the national perspective of development will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The conference development group meetings will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Tuesday, followed by a luncheon session concerning government administration. A plenary session on government incentives for research and industrial development will be held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.

The leaders of the conference development groups will meet with the total group from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesday to share the results of their meetings.

Hensley said the public is invited to attend all sessions of the conference, but meals will only be provided to those who registered.

The conference is the result of a year of planning by the Council of Government, Industry, Labor and Education for the Development of Southern Illinois.

with perfection. Olesen was locked into a trunk which was covered with two layers of tarpaulin firmly secured above the locks. Larson, covering himself with the tarpaulin, counted from one to four, and Olesen emerged from the trunk, continuing the count. When the trunk was opened, Larson sprang out.

Humor was provided by the inexhaustibly witty Weber, who sprinkled the show with his quips. When the callioli band organ played "Stars and Stripes Forever," Weber turned to a woman in the audience as he marched and asked, "Doesn't that make you want to go to war?" Once, he told the crowd that President Reagan is "married to that nun who's always wearing the red habit." And what's a circus without performing animals? This one featured a walking bear, a small stallion which jumped through a hoop and two dancing needles.

CHICAGO (AP) — Former U.S. Senator Adlai Stevenson is set to be named for the Democratic nomination for governor with endorsements by more than 50 state central committeemen, an aide said Thursday.

Stevenson was endorsed by committeemen Bill Morris of Vaukegan, Sam Ackerman of Chicago and Wayne Arnold of Effingham, putting 13 of the 24 state committeemen behind his candidacy. He also received support Thursday from 80 county Democratic chairmen and was to meet with Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne.

News aide Rick Jasculca said Stevenson would have the backing, and probably the nomination, locked up once other Democratic committeemen who have privately pledged support come out publicly in favor of Stevenson.

"There was a time earlier in the year when some of the swimmers questioned whether or not they could do it," Hill said. "Twenty-four hours straight is a long, long time to be swimming."

"Physically, we have the tools to pull it off," he said. "Mentally, it's hard to say how well anyone will hold up over that long period of time."

The assault on the record begins Saturday at 1 p.m. It will end at noon Sunday because of the weekend time change.

Even if the relay team is unsuccessful at breaking the record, Hill sees the marathon swim as having a number of advantages for his team.

"I think what they will find is that they will swim faster when they're tired than they ever thought they could," Hill said. "At the end of 24 hours we will have broken down a lot of mental barriers, which will hopefully lead to faster times in competition."

season without losing a few matches.

"No player, no matter how good he is, goes through a season without a loss," LeFevre said. "There are just too many good players around that it's impossible to win all the time."

But the Salukis have been coming on strong lately, LeFevre said, and the stiff competition this weekend is just what the team wants. Lito Ampon will be the No. 1 seed for SIU-C this weekend, and an improving David Desilets will play as the No. 2 seed, LeFevre said. Senior Brian Stanley, drops from the No. 1 seed to No. 3 because of a pulled leg muscle that has been hampering him for over three weeks.

Freshman Gabrielle Coch, the No. 6 seed, is still recovering from tennisitis in his right knee but will play. All the top-seeded players will play three matches against each other and the winners will go into a bracket to compete for the first through fourth places. The losers will go into a bracket to compete for the fifth through eighth places, LeFevre said. The doubles tournament will be run the same way, he said.

According to LeFevre, the amount of matches the Salukis win isn't as important as the experience the players will receive from playing some of the premier amateur players in the country.

"Jimmy the Greek probably would say that we don't have much of a chance of winning too many matches, but that isn't the importance of a tournament like this," said LeFevre. "What we're interested in is the experience and the chance to improve ourselves for NCAA and conference play starting after January first."

LeFevre said that possible individual seeds for the tournament, excluding SIU-C players, could be last year's NCAA II champ SIU-E's Ken Flach at No. 1, Arkansas' Gene Desdunes at No. 2 and SIU-E's Robert Seguso in the third spot. With improvement in both the singles and doubles play by the Salukis, LeFevre is quick to point out that anyone can win the tournament.

"Gabriel Coch is the most improved player that we have," he said. "Gabriel had to readjust his reflexes because coming from South America, he is used to playing on clay courts. Stanley and Coch have improved in doubles play, too, as well as our other teams of Filer and Greif and Desilets and Ampon."

HOCKEY

Davis scored a goal with 1:57 left in Tuesday's game to lift the Salukis over SLU.

The Westerwinds will counter with high-scoring senior forward Cheryl Novak. Novak leads WIU with 22 goals in 13 games and Illner said the Salukis will have to watch Novak closely.

"They have a strong forward line and have super forward Cheryl Novak," Illner said. "They play her up and try to get her the ball on a breakaway and she is very tough one-on-one. We'll have to really play defense on her when we're on offense."

The Saluki defense is young and inexperienced but has been stingy this season. SIU-C has allowed only 12 shots on goal and 1.4 goals per game this season. The Salukis also have six shutouts. Illner said part of this week's practice has been devoted to honing the defense. "They've improved a lot through the year but they still have room for improvement," Illner said.

Run to be held in Pinckneyville

Polo team to play in Illini tourney

By Jim Cagle
Staff Writer

The water polo team, with a record of 6-9, travels to Champaign to compete in the Illinois Invitational Friday and Saturday.

The Salukis, under Coach Bob Steele, will take on Missouri-Rolla and Kentucky Friday evening. Depending on the outcome of the first two matches, the Salukis will play either Illinois, Ohio or Loyola Saturday.

The Salukis have faced all but Kentucky earlier this season, defeating Ohio State once, 18-12, and Illinois twice, 18-17 and 16-10. SIU-C has lost twice to Loyola and once to Rolla.

"We pretty well have to win two-out-of-three matches to be invited to the conference championship," said Steele. "We don't really know where we stand right now, because we don't have all the results from last week. We're ranked somewhere between seventh and tenth in the conference."

Steele said his team has continued to improve throughout the season.

"We beat Ohio State early in the year and we're a much better team now," he said. "We totally dominated Illinois in our second game. The key game will probably be Kentucky."

The top eight of the 14 conference teams are invited to the championship.

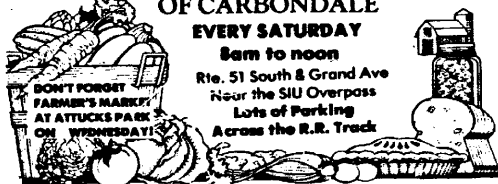

The Salukis return home to host their second tourney of the year Saturday, Oct. 31.

SIU Soccer Club

to play Malaysians

The SIU-C Soccer Club will play an exhibition game against a team made up of visiting Malaysian Air Force personnel Saturday, immediately following the football game at McAndrew Stadium.

The Malaysian team consists of 35 players chosen from a field of 75. The students are being attending aeronautic school at SIU-C.

SIU-C is an all star team comprised of players from four soccer clubs on campus. So far the club has a 5-0 record and has 16 games left to play. Game time is approximately 4 p.m.

Women ruggers

to play Evansville

The SIU-C Women's Rugby Club will play an Evansville club in Indiana Sunday.

The SIU-C ruggers have a 6-2 record following a seventh-place finish in the Women's Midwest Union Tournament held at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind., last weekend.

Ohio State beat SIU-C in its first match of the tournament 18-4. SIU-C then notched three consecutive wins, beating Detroit 28-6, Plattville 12-4 and shut out Iowa City 18-0.

Grid coach hopes to cause turnovers

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

Southwest Louisiana's Ragin' Cajuns are coming to SIU-C on Homecoming Day, and they're not coming to dance.

They're coming to beat the hottest thing on campus, the Saluki football team. Saturday's game starts at 1:30 p.m.

The Cajuns have a 1-5 record, and the Salukis are 4-3. A big Homecoming game crowd is expected and the Salukis have three players coming off the injured list. So, the Salukis might have the edge.

Senior safety Trey Washington will be available Saturday. Washington hurt his knee in last season's first game, and hasn't played since.

Linebacker Granville Butler has also been taken off the injured list. Butler hurt his knee Sept. 26 at Tulsa. He was a starter when injured.

Offensive guard Chester Cropp is also back in action. He hurt his knee Sept. 12 against Wichita State.

"Butler will play—it's just a question of how much," Saluki Coach Rey Dempsey said. "We don't know if we'll need Washington. Just having an extra defensive back around helps. We don't know about Cropp yet either. It's hard to bounce back and jump right in."

Dempsey thinks freshman offensive tackle John Cook will start. Cook, 6-2 and 250 pounds, played a little more than a quarter of the Oct. 17 Fresno State game.

"He jumped offside once, but he played well other than that," Dempsey said. He blocked well. If he does well in practice Thursday and Friday, he'll start."

Dempsey hopes Cook and the rest of the line can give tailback Walter Poole some blocking. He also hopes the Saluki secondary can stop the Cajun passing attack.

Dempsey pointed out that USL passed for 250 yards against North Texas and for 196 against Arkansas State. The Cajuns won the North Texas game.

"This quarterback can move around back there, and he's a good passer," Dempsey said of senior Curt Calderera. "Southwest Louisiana passes about one out of every three plays."

To handle the Cajun passing game, Dempsey plans to start Terry Taylor, Bill Thomas, Tony Haywood, and Greg Shipp in the secondary.

Dempsey hopes his defense can cause some turnovers. In their four straight wins, the Salukis have forced big mistakes and have used them well.

"Southwest Louisiana is a sound team. They don't make the big, big mistakes," Dempsey said. "But we can create turnovers Saturday."

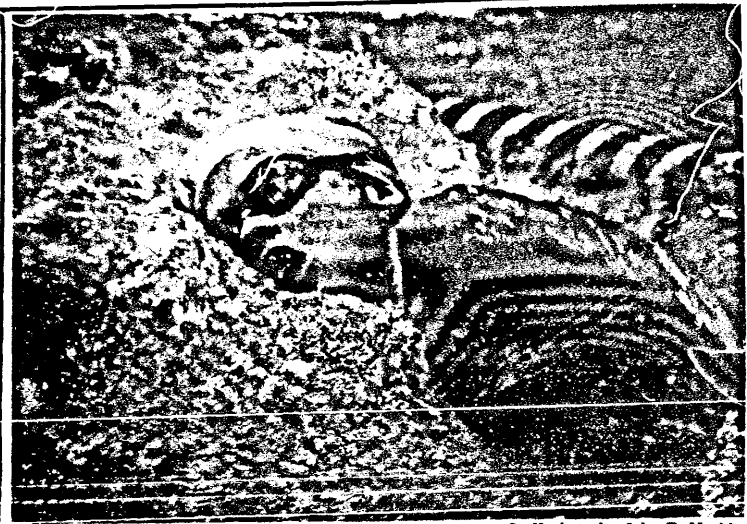

Dempsey tied his team's success at creating and taking advantage of turnovers to the team's "good attitude."

"That's our philosophy—that we have to create turnovers to win," Dempsey said. "Everybody's so close, so confident in each other, that they know they'll get the break and that they'll use it when they do. We've overcome adversity every game."

The biggest adversities have been injuries. Defensive back Eugene Walker hurt his lower back and kick returner Jeff Ware separated a shoulder last week at Fresno State. Lineman Ed Wedell chipped a bone in his arm in Wednesday's practice.

Wedell will miss the remaining four games and Walker and Ware might.

"Walker's injury is worse than Ware's, but we have our injured guys checked constantly, and there's always hope these guys could make the last game of the season," Dempsey said.

Swimmers to attempt world mark

Swimming is a record sport. Whether it be a personal, club, school, regional, national or world record, somewhere there is a swimmer breaking a record. In practically every meet there exists the possibility of a record being shattered.

But some swim records are more difficult to break than others. And some records are rarely challenged.

But five members of the Saluki women's swim team will attempt to break one of the more obscure world records in the sport Saturday and Sunday at the Recreation Center pool.

If the quintet of Laura Brown, Pam Ratcliff, Barb Larsen, Debbie Riker, and Jane Coontz can log 89 miles, 1,455.5 yards in a 24-hour time period, they will break the world record in the 24-hour continuous swim relay, putting their names into the Guinness Book of World Records.

The record-breaking attempt is the brainchild of women's swim Coach Tim Hill, who coached the Sarasota YMCA Club women's team that currently holds the women's world mark of 76 miles, 415 yards, set in July, 1977. The overall record, which the Saluki quintet will attempt to challenge, was set in May, 1980 by the Loughboro University men's swim team in England.

"Our training isn't quite up to the level needed to break the overall record," Hill said. "However the women's record is certainly well within our capabilities."

Hill said there are two reasons for organizing the waterlogged trek for the record. One is to draw media attention to the University, and the opening of the Saluki swimming season. The other is to raise funds for the swimming program through sponsorship.

Sponsors may pledge any amount per lengths completed by either a specific swimmer or the relay team as a unit. Each swimmer will get a rest after swimming a 50- to 100-yard leg. Each rest period will average about two minutes.

"I said I'd never do it again," Hill said. "It makes for a very long and grueling night for all the people helping out. And you know it takes its toll on the swimmers."

Hill's record-setting Sarasota team, comprised of 13- and 14-year-olds, included Kim Linehand, current world record holder in the 1500-yard freestyle.

Saluki netter to face some of nation's finest

The men's tennis team will travel to tennis pro Jimmy Connor's hometown of Belleville this weekend to face some of the toughest teams in the country at the Oak Hill Invitational Tournament.

Hosted by last year's NCAA Division II champion, SIU-Edwardsville, the tournament will feature such teams as Arkansas and Clemson, the No. 6 and No. 7 rated teams in Division I. Co-Big Ten champions Michigan and Minnesota will play, along with Wisconsin, the third place finisher in the Big Ten last year. Illinois State, a Missouri Valley Conference foe of the Salukis, rounds out the eight-team tournament.

According to Saluki Coach Dick LeFevre, there will be so much talent in the tournament that it's hard to pick a definite favorite because even the best players never go through a

Fielders to face rival Westerwinds

The field hockey team will tangle with rival Western Illinois in Macomb Saturday in what could be the Salukis' toughest match of the season.

The Salukis have a 10-6-2 record and have four wins and a tie in their last five matches. One of the Saluki wins was a 4-2 victory over Division II power Southwest Missouri.

The latest victory, a 2-1 win over powerful St. Louis University Tuesday, was a big win because SIU-C had not beaten the Lady Billikens since 1975. The Westerwinds beat St. Louis twice in the last two weeks but one of the wins was questionable, according to Coach Julee Illner, who spoke with one of the referees who worked the game.

WIU is the only team other than SIU-C that has won the state crown and has won the state title two years in a row.

The Salukis hold a 11-4-1 series advantage over WIU in their 16 matches since 1971 but the Westerwinds have had the edge the past two years.

The match will be intense, according to Illner

"One of the games we lost to them in the last two years really hurt us in the seeding for the state tournament," Illner said. "There is an intense rivalry between us and our games are always emotion-packed. We'll have to play well because it will be a hard fought contest."

The Salukis feature a strong offensive attack. SIU-C has outscored its opponents 46-25 through 18 games and has averaged over 30 shots on goal per game. Junior Ellen Massey leads the team with 19 goals while junior Cindy Davis has 16.
