Johns indicted for alleged fund violations

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

State Sen. Gene Johns, D-50th District, has been indicted by a Williamson County grand jury on 30 counts—29 of them for allegedly violating state campaign financing laws, a special prosecutor said Thursday.

Johns, who is serving his 11th term in the Illinois Senate, posed for a personal recognition bond Thursday. John Brewster, special prosecutor for the case, said the grand jury met for about five weeks before handing down the indictment Wednesday. The alleged violations involve tens of thousands of dollars.

Brewster said Johns said on Tuesday that he would unquestionably run for re-election in 1976. The indictment charges Johns with violating the Illinois campaign disclosure laws.

The 54-year-old Johns is an SIUC graduate in political science. The indictment, which includes one felony count, states that by Norma D. Collins, state's attorney for Williamson County, filed an amended complaint containing false information about how much he had received and spent and omitting information about sources of funding.

Johns was the first to be charged with violations under the 1974 law, made to open campaign disclosure to the public. Brewster said if Johns is convicted, each of the 29 misdemeanors would be punishable by up to six months imprisonment and a $500 fine.

The last count charged Johns with official misconduct, a felony, stemming from the alleged violations of campaign disclosures. Brewster said if convicted, Johns faces automatic forfeiture of his office and could be sentenced to five years imprisonment.

“Don’t worry about it. It’s the same thing they went through a year ago and they couldn’t prove anything,” said John Brewster.

Student Senate votes down proposal for Halloween ads

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

The Student Senate voted Wednesday against funding Halloween advertisements in six student newspapers. In a related action, Undergraduate Student Organization President Todd Rogers said he would veto a bill, which the senate had passed, to form a USO committee to distribute information to the visitors on Halloween weekend.

After a heated debate, the senate voted 16 to 12, with four abstentions, against spending $175.60 for advertisements in the Daily Egyptian and the six student newspapers.

Rogers said he “definitely supports Halloween being a total holiday” and that the formation of a committee would not change the image of the celebration.

“It’s going to be perceived not by the students, not by the University, but by the wheels turning first,” Rogers told the senators. Rogers said the senate would vote on the bill only one day before Halloween to veto the bill. He said if the senate overturned the veto, the Senate would be the first time the government had put a union out of business by permanently stripping it of its bargaining authority.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal labor panel voted Tuesday to strip the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization of the right to represent air controllers because of the union’s call for an illegal strike against the government.

The order by the Federal Labor Relations Authority said federal law and the union’s actions in calling a nationwide strike last August “plainly require revocation of PATCO’s status as the air controllers’ collective bargaining representative.”

Before the ruling was announced, PATCO attorney Richard Leighton had indicated the union would appeal the order to the U.S. Court of Appeals to stay the agency’s order.

The panel’s decision means the first time the government has put a union out of business by permanently stripping it of its

Homecoming to warm a cool weekend

The weather is supposed to cooperate with the university for weekend’s Homecoming festivities. Visiting alumni will be greeted by crisp, cool football weather, the forecast says. Thursday’s rain should end in the early Friday morning hours, according to the SIU-C atmospheric bulletin. The skies are clear and cold for the opening events "Octoberfest" Friday evening.

The Marching Salukis will lead students from residence halls at 7 p.m. in a parade through the south Arena parking lot, where a bonfire and pep rally will start at 7:30 p.m. The marching band will be the guests of honor, but all the residence halls will be competing out of town this weekend are expected to attend the bonfire. Other expected guests include President Albert Somit, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, Lew Hartog, acting men’s athletics director, and Charlotte West, women’s athletics director.

The crowning of the Homecoming king and queen will be the highlight of Friday evening. Students selected the winners from a field of 10 in elections held Tuesday and Wednesday.

Residence halls, fraternities and other student organizations will vie for a $25 prize in the traditional spirit-like "contest." Contestants from Thompson Point have won the contest twice in the last three years, according to Campus Barnes, chairman of the Student Programming Council, Spirit Committee.

The weather also looks promising for Saturday’s parade and football game. It should be mostly sunny with a high of 65 and little chance of rain, the forecast said.

The parade will begin at 9:30 a.m. at Main Street, proceed south on Illinois Avenue and end at McAndrew Stadium. The reviewing stand will be on the east side of the field.

About 100 units—marching bands, floats, groups and cars—will participate in the parade.

PATCO’s union status stripped by federal panel

STORMY WEATHER—Slopes Stevens, left, and Paula Moenno, both 6-year-old third graders at Springgrove School, 109 N. Springer, wait outside school Tuesday morning for their ride home. However, this Homecoming weekend offers partly cloudy and colder weather with temperatures in the upper 40s and low 50s.

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw, grand marshal. Somit and the Homecoming royalty will ride in the parade in cars. Until recently the SPC Special Events Committee has been unable to afford the cost of converting a parade car to a convertible.

But people have been very cooperative, according to Mindy Duigan, assistant coordinator of university programming. People have donated the use of a variety of small pick-up trucks and antique cars.

Economic summit begins

CANCUN, Mexico (AP) — Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo opened the first session of the conference of 23 of the world’s richest and poorest countries on Thursday, telling a tardy President Reagan and the other delegations that changes must be made in the "mistaken and unfair" global economic system.

He declared that system was responsible for "the growing poverty and squalor" and told his fellow leaders, seated at a round table behind plastic name plates bearing miniature flags: "It is imperative that we recognize the complex and plural nature of today's world, that we are not representing our own private image and likeness, we are representing either pope or messiah."

Reagan, who arrived in the Cancun Sheraton Hotel conference room nearly 15 minutes after the scheduled call to order, seated opposite Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig, Jr., to his right, sandwiched between delegations from China and the Philippines.

The president's opening remarks were made in private.

With Lopez Portillo already on his feet, the leader of the group made up of nations participated in an alphabetical order based on the Spanish spelling of their countries.

"I am happy to see," Lopez Portillo said, "that Mexico is first to make up its presentation before the president of Mexico's ninth floor suite and, using his floor suite and, using his headphones for the translation of the president's Spanish remarks."

Moments before he arrived, a White House aide said to Lopez Portillo: "Mr. President, the president of Mexico's 16th floor suite and, using his Secret Service code name, said, "Everybody is here except Ramirez. They're about to start the thing without him."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes explained afterward that Reagan was "just waiting til everybody else got here," and nothing had gone wrong.

There was no formal agenda for the two-day conference to which most of the participants wore sports clothes, a reflection of the casual atmosphere of the hot and humid climate.

State GOP to finance remap suit

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Illinois Republicans will bankroll an allegedly non-partisan suit against the Democratic-drawn legislative redistricting map instead of taking action under the party banner, it was disclosed Thursday.

State GOP chairman Dan Adams said a group representing minorities and other voters who might be hurt by the Democratic map would have a better chance in court.

Walesa urges restraint to workers

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa urged restraint Thursday as union radicals continued calling a nationwide walkout over food shortages. More than 150,000 Polish workers began a province-wide general strike and 2,000 drivers blocked a main Warsaw's freeway in defiance of Communist authorities.

"Let's be reasonable and let's not cross the borders of the line of agreement," Walesa told Solidarity leaders meeting in the Battle port of Gdansk to discuss a proposed one-hour strike next Wednesday over food shortages. The government has warned it might impose martial law unless the strikes are halted.

U.S. foreign aid world's highest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States gives more foreign aid than any other nation, but increasingly the money is targeted to support security and political interests rather than to alleviate economic hardship, government figures show.

And it is not the poorest nations that receive the bulk of the aid, Israel, for example, receives more aid from the United States than any other nation. Egypt is second.

Columbia fueling ahead of schedule

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Crews finished loading two highly combustible fuels into the space shuttle Columbia on Wednesday, a full day ahead of schedule Thursday, and Kennedy Space Center officials said that the countdown toward the Nov. 1 blast-off probably will begin Oct. 31.

The workers are no far ahead of schedule that they will be given Sunday off, said space agency spokesman Mark Hess.

State Center to trim services if board does not pass fee hike

By Mike Anthony and Andrew Spring

Staff Writers

The Student Center fee is not increased, building hours will be cut, and employees will have fewer hours trimmed or will be laid off, John Corker, the center's director, told the Student Senate Wednesday.

Corker, attempting Wednesday to get student Senate support for a proposed 9% Student Center fee increase, said that weekend food service would also be eliminated if the increase is not granted. He said the center would have to "nickel and dime people to death" without the increase.

On the basis of a projected enrollment decline of 1.5 percent in fiscal year 1983 and a 1.5 percent decline in fiscal year 1983, the Student Center Board last week recommended an 8% Student Center fee increase, beginning in the summer of 1983.

The increase is needed, Corker said, to make up an $80,000 deficit in fiscal year 1983, which would occur if the fee remains at its present level of 5%.

If approved by the Board of Trustees, the 8% increase will assure the Student Center of a $113,173 surplus in fiscal year 1983, and a $4,996 deficit in fiscal year 1984, if the fee is raised to 9%, it would be "worthwhile" before another fee increase would be requested, he said.

Corker said projects that use the Student Center, but that compete with the center's money-making activities—activities such as the selling of posters and shirts by student organizations, and the proposed Undergraduate Student Organization book co-op—would be eliminated without the fee increase.

"We're looking at the possibility of a staff reduction, but we don't want to do it if we have to reduce the services we provide for students."

Gregg Larson, USO vice-president, said the USO is forming a committee to investigate the proposed fee increase.

Woman awarded $4 million after 30 years of swindling

CHICAGO (AP)—Calling it the "most repulsive" case he has encountered, a Circuit Court judge has awarded a Chicago woman as much as $4 million in corporate assets after she allegedly swindled $5,000 a year from a bank for a decade.

Mr. Collins is the only child of the late William J. Nugent, who owned a half-dozen privately held Chicago companies, and in 1981 set up the trust for his then-14-year-old daughter, John.

Under the terms of the trust, her daughter was to receive all the stock of three companies when she turned 30. However, the father allegedly did not inform his daughter of the trust.

John Nugent, then 34, was appointed trustee of the fund in 1981. The fund’s trustee, although he was disinherited in 1968 by the father shortly before his death.

Wosk said during the trial, "John Nugent had his genesis of avavnciousness start when his stepfather disinherited him."

Spencer, who set up the 1981 trust for William Nugent, also allegedly executed a re-alignment of the family businesses with 50 percent of the ownership going to John Nugent who, it is believed, managed to get Mrs. Collins and her mother to acquire to his demands. "I have been a perfect one in my life," said "I think it would have been a mistake," said Dennis Woods, a lawyer from the office. "The reason of the University from the campus," said Dennis Woods, a lawyer from the Office. "This bill is the only chance to stop the growth of CARBONDALE."

"I want to thank the alumni for the support of the alumni association."

The move gives the project—expected to cost $3 million—a greater chance of being funded by the Federal Highway Administration. Although a recommendation on a funding level was not given. Percy said he asked the subcommittee’s chairman, Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to make Carbondale’s project a priority in the bill. The Federal Highway Administration has already released $5.3 million to the Carbondale Railroad for the purchase of the right-of-way at the U.S. 51 overpass.

Overpass gets Senate priority

Funding for construction of the U.S. 51 overpass in Carbondale has won high priority in the Senate Subcommittee on Transportation Appropriations. The transportation appropriation bill now goes to the full Senate Appropriations Committee.

According to U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Illinois, Carbondale’s Railroad Relocation Project is the only project yet the Senate to give center stage designated as a priority project for funding in both the House and Senate. "The move gives the project—expected to cost $3 million—a greater chance of being funded by the Federal Highway Administration. Although a recommendation on a funding level was not given. Percy said he asked the subcommittee’s chairman, Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to make Carbondale’s project a priority in the bill. The Federal Highway Administration has already released $5.3 million to the Carbondale Railroad for the purchase of the right-of-way at the U.S. 51 overpass."
Student Senate silliness, Parts one and two

Student Senate silliness rides again. Compounding the silliness this time, however, is the distinct irresponsibility and attempted, if perhaps unintentional, mismanagement of student funds.

The latest episode is a two-parter. The first part is a proposal by Student Senator Tom Wood that the senate place advertisements for Halloween weekend in six Illinois university newspapers that would have read "SU4-E: Student Government presents Halloween '81: Illinois' largest costume contest!"

The proposed advertisements would have been closer to the truth if they were to read: "For a really wild time, come down to Carbondale on the weekend of Oct. 31 and join 10,000 drunks making fools of themselves." Whatever the wording, that would have been the message behind such a stunt. In his defense, Wood said that the proposed ads were meant to give Halloween a more "positive" image.

A sillier idea would be difficult to come up with. It is hard to see how a "positive" image could be made of several thousand drunks crowding a downtown street. Not only would the ads have been an outrageous waste of student funds, but it is likely that they then made Halloween an even more crowded and rowdy weekend than it usually is. Illinois Avenue has stayed host to 10,000 to 15,000 revelers for the past several Halloweens and it was always a problem. To invite more people here would have been a reckless and egregious error.

Fortunately, common sense prevailed. To their credit, a majority of the student senators voted not to spend student activity funds on such a dubious project. What is disturbing is that 12 of the 32 senators present voted in favor of the ads, which would have cost $200.

What is even more irresponsible is part two of this wondrous tale. Student Senator Scott Bayfill sent letters-to-the-editor to several college newspapers in a futile attempt to get letters that were typed on USO stationery, letters for which he did not have any proof of permission.

He was reprimanded for this indiscretion by USO President Todd Rogers, but the damage has been done. The Eastern Illinois newspaper has already printed the letter, and the Illinois State and Western newspapers have said that they will also be printing it soon.

It is hard to figure out what got into these illusory representatives' skulls that they would attempt to build up a weekend that is a logistical nightmare for concern over the consequences. Whatever their motivations, it was wrongheaded and downright stupid.

How does the senate ever hope to be taken seriously when its time for fund raising is running like a runaway train? Is the Senate capable of managing their funds? Given the nature of this particular farce, it is any wonder that student government is widely perceived to be a joke?

A need for increased awareness

The other day I noticed the campus was completed for the Susan Schmack Memorial Fund, and I was at the University Mail watching two people carrying armloads of canned foods. It was pretty obvious that none of them knew where this place was.

Although I can understand the logic and good thought behind the project, and developed, I can also see the logic of growing and developing a fund that money of and by itself will not protect other girlish from being good, some students who have been going towards a cure for the finding of Susan's killer and perhaps a scholarship. I don't think that people are being careless but contributing—in fact, I feel that they believe themselves to be the most part, fairly scarce) should go somewhere a hole. It was one who would like to see that to one else ends up like Susan.

Since it seems that the current interest in women's safety has only just started, the choices of attempted assaults are more likely.

On Oct. 25, in the Morris Library Auditorium, a community forum will be held. "A Four-Letter Word" will be given, starting at 8:15 p.m. which is sponsored by the RN Police, the Community Action League, the Women's Transit, and several other interest groups. It will start with an informative panel with a question and answer period.

Their purpose is to increase awareness in the existing programs of rape education, in order to reduce the likelihood of physical assaults.

I recommend for everyone to cease to come to this conference. It is free and open to the public, and I should prove to be the most useful. It also has had on the subject in some way. I hope to see you there.

Fake amphetamines called dangerous, linked to deaths

By Melody Cook

FAVE HOURS of studying leaves in front of her. He has a paper due for English composition, plus two tests in the morning—and just like most people, he's put off studying until the last minute.

So he plugs in the coffee pot and takes out his stash of "speed," bought last week just for tonight. A few hours later he begins to yawn, so he shakes out two more pills and drinks them with another cup of coffee.

Meanwhile, Sherry is planning a night of partying after a long week of classes. It's Thursday, and every once in a while it's going uptown for an early start on the weekend. There's just one problem—she didn't get enough sleep last night between watching the late movie and getting the kids to bed. She doesn't want to miss out on the fun, so she goes upstairs and buys a couple of "black beauties" from the guy who always seems to have them. Back in her room, she swallows them with a beer.

Everyone says they work better with alcohol.

If ALL SEEMS harmless enough. The guy who sold them the pills doesn't think anything is going to happen—he knows they're not even real amphetamines. He bought the pills through a magazine ad from a company advertising on the back of "health" body stimulators. Advertising flyers for similar pills have been seen on high school and junior high playgrounds.

But there is a very real potential for danger. It is estimated that half the buyers of the "fake" speed are purchasing what the swallowers believe to be real amphetamines, labeled "concentrated caffeine" tablets. And with those tablets, the candyman is delivering a substance which is potentially as deadly as arsenic.

Use of caffeine pills pawned off as amphetamines has been implicated in the deaths of at least 14 people, five in Illinois, within the past nine months. Two strokes, one on each coast, have also been linked to the pills.

THERE HAVE PROBABLY been more deaths due to caffeine overdose.

but health officials were not "particularly alert" to the problem and could have written them off as caused by amphetamines, Don Ramsell, spokesman for the attorney general's office, said.

Attorney General Tyrone Fahner has estimated that the drugs will cause the deaths of at least a dozen more Illinois youths by the end of the year.

At first, the pills were considered a harmless way for young people to get their kicks without messing with prescription drugs, Ramsell said.

Then it was found that the pills are containing "clearly defined" deaths and strokes linked to the use of the pills, he said.

The Illinois death has occurred in the city of Carbondale, Springfield, DuPage and DuPage in Boone County—almost in the last nine months. Mary Huch, public information officer for the Illinois Public Health Department in Springfield, said she that before the link was made between the pills and the fatalities, no one realized a person could die of a caffeine overdose.

In CARBONDALE, the pills claimed the life of 16-year-old Margaret Parsons, in town performing with the Chicago Blackhawks Mad Wrestling Team as part of the April SHU-C Springfield "11." A coroner's inquest ruled the death as accidental due to "overdose of caffeine pill." The pills are legal. Their ingredients are either caffeine or caffeine enhanced by ephedrine, pseudoephedrine, phencylpropanolamine (PMA) or decongestants found in many cold remedies. The combinations are manufactured in capsules or pills closely resembling prescription amphetamines. To tell them apart, "you'd almost have to be a regular amphetamine buyer," Ramsell said.

State laboratories have found that over the past four or five years, 57 percent of all the pills turned in by school and law enforcement officials for testing contained caffeine.
Fahner trying to stop flow of phony drugs

COLORFUL advertising boasting that "we hold the key to feeling good" and "safe, no worry, no hassle" body stimulants are tempting people to use "look-alikes" pills that could result in strokes or deaths, according toattorney general's office is says.

Those advertisements for look-alikes are being linked with violations of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act and the state consumer nuisance law. Injunctions are being considered against the companies are being sought in the suits, filed in May, June, and September.

THE PILLS, manufactured to look like prescription amphetamines, are marketed under different names and have been linked with two strokes and with the death of at least one person, five in Illinois. The ingredients--caffeine and several decongestants--are highly dangerous when used therapeutically and can be deadly when abused.

Ramseil said advertising for the look-alikes is "indirect and contains material omissions." The visual presentation of the ads "keys off of street drug type language," he said.

"They don't disclose that the pills have caused fatalities and injuries," he said.

Ramseil said that 30 of the companies contacted have voluntarily stopped shipments into Illinois. He said the lawsuits may be dropped for companies who sign a formal agreement to voluntarily stop conducting business in the state.

Michigan has followed Illinois, lead by filing suits against eight companies. Ramseil said, adding that other states have asked to study a copy of the Illinois complaint.

Ramsell said the business has been estimated to gross more than $100 million nationally per year. He said that while the pills have been circulating for four or five years, the attorney general's office only became aware of the problem in March after police turned over flyers found on playgrounds. An analysis showed that the drugs are legal, so it was first thought to be possibly a harmless way for kids to get their kicks, Ramseil said. Then the Health Department reported four "clearly defined" deaths and two strokes from caffeine overdose.

Before November there were no incidents of caffeine-related death reported. However, medical personnel were not "particularly alert" to the problem and may have attributed caffeine fatalities to amphetamines, Ramseil said.

In November, there were two incidents of "look-alikes" pills that contained doneas and decongestants. To identify the look-alikes, "you'd almost have to be a regular amphetamine buyer," Ramseil said.

DISTURBAMENTS can't use a drug as a trademark or control number, but usually only one letter or number is different on the copies.

"It does encourage someone to go out there and rip off their fellow students" by letting them think they're buying amphetamines, Ramseil said.

"If the wrong person is sold this kind of capsule, some harm could come to the person who made the sale," he added.

Tom McNamara, Carbondale Police spokesman, said that when police find what look like amphetamines, the suspect is charged with possession of a controlled substance until after the testing. If the pills turn out to be caffeine or another legal substance, the charges are dropped.

Officials say that more than 80 percent of all the pills tested at state laboratories have turned out to be either "concentrated caffeine" or "enhanced concentrated caffeine," pills that contain decongestants. To identify the look-alikes, "you'd almost have to be a regular amphetamine buyer," Ramseil said.

"Picks you up like many prescription drugs."

"Legal stimulants... Major manufacturer seeks qualified distributors only. Must be buying 350 bottles per week presently."

The ads go on and on. In the March, 1981, issue of High Times, a drug-oriented magazine, there were 13 such ads, ranging from quarter-page spreads to small notices in the classified section. They had one thing in common—encouraging people to become distributors for legal look-alike amphetamines, drugs which the Illinois attorney general’s office has labeled as being potentially deadly.

The ads were placed by 14 different companies from New York, North Carolina, Ohio, etc. See ADS Page 3
Maryland, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Florida, Rhode Island and Nevada. The ads that listed ingredients banned by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) contained one common, illegal ingredient: ephedrine.

The largest number of ads, 2,057, were spotted in the Oct. 9-15 issue of the Detroit Free Press. Two thousand advertisements in 44 of the 1,000 to 9,000, contained the ingredient. The most advertisements, 195, were spotted in the Oct. 16-22 issue of the Times Mirror. The daily paper had 111 advertisements that contained the ingredient.

The largest number of advertisements, 837, were spotted in the Oct. 16-22 issue of the Toronto Star. The next largest amount, 142, was spotted in the Oct. 9-15 issue of the Toronto Sun. The FDA is expected to release a list of ingredients that are being used to make 'knock-alike' pills soon.

The ads ranged in size from 4 to 21 inches. Many of the ads appeared in sections of the paper that have a higher concentration of college-aged readers. The FDA is concerned that college students may be more likely to purchase the ads for their apparent medicinal purposes.

The ads are expected to be more frequent in the newspapers of larger cities. The FDA is currently looking into the possibility of issuing an order to stop the advertisements.

The FDA is also looking into the possibility of issuing a warning to college students and their parents. The agency is concerned that college students may be more likely to purchase the ads for their apparent medicinal purposes.

The General Assembly is in an attempt to define caffeine-type pills as schedule substances. Father said that first indications from Congressional leaders are they are positive reactions to the legislation. The look-alike typically contain 200 to 300 milligrams of caffeine and varying amounts of ephedrine, pseudoephedrine, phenylpropanolamine (PPA). Caffeine is a slow-acting drug, Ramsell said, and up to three hours may elapse before its effects are felt.

CAFFEINE SHOULD be avoided by people prone to headaches, nervousness, insomnia and bladder infections, that use may also be linked to certain birth defects, research has shown.

In addition, PPA and pseudoephedrine are sold as look-alikes.

expedie have been known to be dangerous when combined with alcohol, cause a rise in blood pressure and intensify sleeping problems, nervousness and headaches.

McNamara, however, said the danger lies with getting drugs on the street, not just the purchase of look-alikes.

"You're always taking a chance when you're buying it off the street," she said.

Unfortunately, the street surrounds with offers of the look-alikes. But the local dealers in the flourishing business of passing off the pills won't have to worry about being busted just yet. Ramsell said there is no crackdown planned on the smaller dealers.

"If we kill the body of the octopus," she said, "the legs will take care of themselves."

U.N. Day slated for Oct. 26

By Steve Moore
Staff Writer

Timothy C. Brown of the U.S. State Department will be the guest speaker for SIU's annual United Nations Day celebration.

Saturday in U.N. Day, designated by the U.N. General Assembly each year to commemorate the founding of the organization on October 24, 1945.

According to a proclamation issued by Carbondale Mayor Hans J. Fischer, it is a day when "Americans join with the people of the world in reaffirming our commitment to the principles upon which the U.N. was founded: International peace and security, respect for human rights, and the promotion of social and economic cooperation among nations."

SIU will celebrate the occasion October 26 with a dinner for members of the Southern Illinois Chapter of the United Nations Association in the Old Main Dining Room at 6 p.m.

Brown, a career Foreign Service Officer, will deliver a lecture entitled "The United States and Cuba" in the Student Center Auditorium. The lecture is open to the public.

Both the dinner and the lecture are sponsored by the Student Programming Council.

Brown is currently Deputy Coordinator for Cuban Affairs in the State Department's Latin-American Bureau. He has previously served in Washington as an energy specialist and in Paraguay-Uruguay affairs. His diplomatic experience abroad includes tours in the Netherlands, El Salvador, Paraguay, Mexico, Spain and Israel, where he has done economic, political, commercial and consular work.

Before becoming a diplomat, Brown served for 15 years in the Marine Corps, with tours in Nicaragua, Guatemala, Thailand, Taiwan and the Philippines. He is a graduate of the University of Nevada, where he studied economics.

In conjunction with the U.N. Day activities, the Carbondale Inter-Church Council will support the U.N. Children's Fund through "Trick or Treat" for UNICEF collections and through the sale of UNICEF Christmas cards.

Lichtenstein Circus is in town

Ring acts performed 'royally'

By Joe Walter
Entertainment Editor

Children gathered 'round when the circus came to town—so did a couple of adults. The crowd, numbering about 150, gathered at noon Thursday to see the performance by the Royal Lichtenstein Quarter Ring Sidewalk Circus at the Newman Center. For those who missed it, the circus will also perform at 2, 4, and 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the University Mall.

"Ploughsharing" was about the queen of the kingdom of the Imagis, Flo, and the king of Oddiby. Flo receives seeds on her birthday, a gift from a relative. She plants the seeds, which grow into flowers. She is crowned queen. Stunned by the flowers' beauty, she and her subjects plant the seeds until they run out.

Brent of Oddiby receives a gun on his birthday, a gift from a relative. However, he does not know that the gun can shoot and kill—to him it is a beautiful sculpture. The other people of the land of Oddiby also like the "sculptures," so the whole country sets itself to making guns. When Brent becomes king, he cannot understand the neighboring kingdoms' worries about his nation's accumulation of arms.

The performance included a magic show by Weber, who asked a member of the audience to help him with a card trick. After the helper pulled out a card, Weber inserted a cassette into his tape player and a recording told the audience the correct card.

A trunk trick, originated by the legendary escape artist Harry Houdini, was executed.

The Daily Egyptian erroneously reported in Thursday's issue that $1,000 checks would be presented to each of the men who will receive Alumni Achievement Awards. A $1,000 check will go to the faculty member selected for the Great Teacher Award to be presented at an alumni banquet Saturday at the Student Center.

The achievement awards will be presented to David T. Karraker, Aiken, and Frank C. Adams of Carbondale, former director of SIU-C student aid programs. The achievement awards will be presented at a cooperative dinner from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Sunday in the Lutheran Center. Tickets are $6.50 and can be purchased from fraternity members.

International Friendship will have a cooperative dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. Sunday at the Wesley Foundation. Officers will be elected.

Afshin Razani, graduate student in sociology, will give a presentation entitled "A Structural Analysis of the Iranian Revolution" at 4 p.m. Friday in Piner 3410.

The Microbiology Department will present a seminar at 11 a.m. Friday in Life Science II Room 450. John Davis, professor from Washington University, will speak on "How Antibodies Are Diversified." He is a researcher in the SIUC Cooperative Wildlife Research Laboratory, which research on "Natural Regulation of Bobwhite Abundance." At 3 p.m. Monday in Life Science II Room 450, the students will have a relaxed atmosphere for a unique and pleasant shopping experience.

Donald Elkins grasps the brown-green stalk of sorghum, breaking it open near the top.

This stuff could be addicting," he says half in jest as he pushes a chunk of the sweet, fibrous plant between his teeth. It's just one of the fruits of his labor at the agronomy station, part of SIU-C's mini-farm crops garden.

Elkins, agronomy professor at SIU-C's Agriculture School, seems to be at home whether noting data for several long-standing research projects or teaching a class.

In fact, it's the combination of his unique teaching technique, his work on supplementary projects like a self-instruction lab for agriculture students, a crop identification garden, and research that won him the 1981 Agronomic Resident Education Award of the American Society of Agronomy.

The award means that society thinks he's the nation's top agronomy teacher. But Elkins remains unfazed by the award—possibly because he's gotten nearly as close as teaching hovers in his 14 years at SIU-C. To him, his first obligation is teaching.

"The way I see it, the student is the most important person at the university. I wouldn't have my job without students and because of that I try to treat them accordingly," Elkins explains.

He has his own approach to teaching. He'll go out of his way to keep students interested in the subject of crop science, using techniques which might be considered unorthodox in other classrooms.

"It's not all a bunch of gimmicks," he explains, noting the use of down-home country music to open and close class, an interview after about 30 minutes of lecture, and the awarding of prices to students for various special events.

"I'm concerned about breaking down barriers between students and teachers, and I'm serious about the material and that there's learning going on. But you need to get their attention first. If students fall asleep, "there'd be too many whiplash injuries in class," he says. "No matter how good a teacher you are or how good that material is or how good a speaker you are, you've got to have their attention.

Leading into a lecture on cotton, Elkins staged "Dr. Don's Dynamite Denim Day" recently. The 100 students in class voted on who wore the best denim outfit that day.

Conway Twitty wailed about "a tiger in those tight-fitting jeans" in the background. Cotton vines took home home jars of what Elkins called "Douville Elkinsbacher's Cotton Picking Corn." The point, and what got scrambled into most notebooks, was Elkins was concerned about denim's resemblance to the greenhouse on campus.

since 1975 there's been an explosion in the use of cotton, soybeans, castor beans, flax, tobacco, millet, and clover. All was not lost, however. In 1976, there was some money and sometimes lost it all.

Eight years he has searched ways to grow crops and cut soil erosion. The result is a plot about 100 yards from the sorghum, there's a corn plot that is planted with corn and soybeans. It is noticeably taller and fuller than other corn this season. Elkins mentions that the soil, in addition to helping prevent erosion, has probably added the crop with added nitrogen. He expects the plot to yield 150 to 160 bushels per acre.

In this area, the crop research seems be more to Elkins than to teaching and recording the results.

Fourteen contestants seek Miss Eboness title

Fourteen contestants are seeking the Miss Eboness title in a pageant scheduled at 8 p.m. Saturday in Shryock Auditorium.

Pageant coordinator Daryl Leake said the 1981 pageant is being dedicated to the memory of the black children murdered in Atlanta.

The event, sponsored by Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, is not a beauty contest, Leake said. Community service and scholastic achievements of the contestants are considered along with performances at Shryock. The winner receives a $500 scholarship.

SIU-C to sponsor conference about industrial development

By Jennifer Polk
Staff Writer

More than 250 delegates from industry, labor, government and education from Southern Illinois will meet with state and international representatives at the Conference for Exploring Government, Industry, Labor and Education at the Student Center Monday and Tuesday. The conference, sponsored by SIU-C, will focus on the industrial development of the region. Reports from Japan, Great Britain, Germany and Canada as well as representatives of state and federal agencies will lend their assistance at the conference.

Former U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, who has announced his intention to seek the Democratic nomination for governor, will speak at noon Tuesday in Ballroom D. Gov. James Thompson and Willard Corby, Democratic nominee for the gubernatorial seat, will be among other guests.

"Then if we stimulate industry, we can make the economy will benefit," said Oliver Hensley of the Office of Research, Development and Administration and Coordinator of the conference. "If we can stimulate population, we can stimulate jobs and labor improvement."

Conference groups have been formed to address problems in the key areas of agriculture, energy, international, commercial, industrial and capital development.

"These people will discuss the specific barriers to each phase of development," said Hensley. "Then they'll discuss what resources are needed to combat the problems and what is needed to develop those resources. They will present some specific developmental strategy guidelines. Hopefully we'll have some proposals and agreements by the end of the conference."

On Monday, there will be a plenary session on regional development at 10:30 a.m. A luncheon session concerning state development will be from noon to 1:30 p.m. The current sessions of the conference development groups will be from 1:30 to 5 p.m. A banquet discussion on the national perspective of development will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The conference development group meetings will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, followed by a luncheon session concerning government administration. A plenary session on government incentives for research and industrial development will be held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. The leaders of the conference development groups will meet with the total group from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Tuesday to share the results of their meetings.

Hensley said the public is invited to attend all sessions of the conference, but meals will only be provided to those who registered.

The conference is the result of a year of planning by the Council of Government, Industry, Labor and Education for the Development of Southern Illinois.

"Trick or treat" to benefit UNICEF

Children will "trick or treat" door-to-door throughout Carbondale from 6 to 9 p.m. Sunday for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund. The trek to collect money is sponsored by the Carbondale Interchurch Council.

Proceeds will be sent to the U.S. Committee for UNICEF to help supply better health care, nutrition and water supplies to children and families in the developing world.

Information about the upcoming activity is available from Al Par at 549-3029.

with perfection. Olesen was locked into a trunk which was covered with two layers of tarps. Finally securing the locks, Larson, covering himself with the tarps, climbed from one to the next. And Olesen emerged from the trunk, continuing the count. When the trunk was opened, Larson sprang.

Humor was provided by the inimitably witty Weber, who sprinkled the show with his quips. When the calliolas band played "Stars and Stripes Forever," Weber turned to a woman in the audience and said, "Doesn't that make you want to go to war?" Once, he told the crowd that President Reagan is "married to that woman who always wears the red habit."

And what's a circus without a performance? This one featured a walking bear, a small stallion which jumped through a hoop and two dancing noodles.

Dave scored a goal with 1:57 left in Tuesday's game to lift the Salisbury over SIU.

The Westerwinds will counter with high-scoring forward Cheryl Novak. Novak

Leads WIU with 22 goals in 13 games and Illner said the Salukis will have to watch Novak closely.

They have a strong forward line and have super forward in Cheryl Novak," Illner said.

"They play her up and try to get her ball on a breakaway and she is very tough one-on-one. We'll have to really play defense on her when we're on offense."

The Saluki defense is young and inexperienced but has been stong this season. SU-C has allowed only 12 shots on goal and 1.4 goals per game this season. The Salukis also have six shutouts. Illner said part of this week's practices has been devoted to honing the defense.

"They've improved a lot through the year but they still have room for improvement," Illner said. "We need to have more pressure on the puck."

Run to be held in Pinckneyville

The Pinckneyville Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a marathon swim, a 10-kilometer run and a 5-kilometer walk at 8 a.m. Oct. 31 at the Pinckneyville Fairgrounds.

"I think this competition is going to be fun, and we think the public will enjoy what we have to offer," Chamber President Tom Westerwinds said.

"We have a lot of events planned, and we're looking forward to seeing everyone come out and have a good time."

The Pinckneyville Chamber of Commerce is a non-profit organization that serves the Pinckneyville community and has been in existence since 1990. The Chamber has sponsored numerous events, including the Pinckneyville Chamber Fair, the Pinckneyville Chamber Golf Tournament, and the Pinckneyville Chamber Art Show.

The Chamber is looking forward to a successful event and is encouraging the public to come out and support the Chamber's efforts.

"We're excited to have this event in Pinckneyville," Westerwinds said. "We hope to see everyone there and have a great time.

The Chamber is also planning to hold a raffle as part of the event. Prizes will include a variety of items, including gift cards, apparel, and more.

"We're excited to offer these prizes to the public," Westerwinds said. "We're hoping to raise some money for the Chamber and give back to the community."

The Pinckneyville Chamber of Commerce is a member of the Pinckneyville Chamber of Commerce Association, which serves as a resource for member chambers and helps to promote Chamber events.

"We're excited to be a part of the Pinckneyville Chamber of Commerce Association," Westerwinds said. "We feel that it's a great resource for us and helps us promote our events.

"The Pinckneyville Chamber of Commerce Association is a great resource for us, and we look forward to working with them in the future," Westerwinds said. "We feel that it's a great resource for us and helps us promote our events."

The Pinckneyville Chamber of Commerce is located at 101 S. Washington Street in Pinckneyville, Illinois, 62274.
Polo team to play in Illini tourney
by Jim Cagle
Staff Writer

The water polo team, with a record of 5-9, travels to Champaign to face both Illinois Invitational Friday and Saturday. The Salukis, under Coach Bob Steele, will take on Missouri, Illinois and Kentucky Friday evening. Depending on the outcome of the first two matches, the Salukis will play either Illinois, Ohio or Loyola Saturday. The Salukis have faced all but Kentucky earlier this season, defeating Ohio State once, 18-12, and Illinois twice, 18-17 and 18-16. SIU-C has lost twice to Loyola and once to Rolla.

“We pretty well have to win two-out-of-three matches to be invited to the conference championship,” said Steele. “We don’t really know where we stand right now, because we don’t have all the results from last week. We’re ranked somewhere between seventh and tenth in the conference.”

Steele said his team has continued to improve throughout the season. “We beat Ohio State early in scrimmage with fans. Fans attending the scrimmage should come in the south entrance and are asked by Arena management to sit in the chairs on the Arena’s east side. The scrimmage will be a regulation game, and Van Winkle hasn’t decided how his squad will be split into teams.

Cagers to hold Saturday.

The Saluki men’s basketball team will have a scrimmage in the Arena Saturday at 11:00 a.m., and fans are invited to attend.

The scrimmage will end around 1:15 p.m., when players and Coach Allen Van Winkle will be available to talk to the fans.

SIU Soccer Club to play Malaysians

The SIU-C Soccer Club will play an exhibition game against a team made up of visiting Malaysian Air Force personnel Saturday, immediately following the football game at McKaleeer Stadium.

The Malaysian team consists of 11 players chosen from a field of 75. The students are all attending academic school at SIU-C. SIU-C is an all-star team comprised of players from four soccer clubs on campus. So far the club has a 5-5 record and has 16 games left to play. Game time is approximately 4 p.m.

Women ruggers to play Evansville

The SIU-C Women’s Rugby Club will play an Evansville club in Evansville Sunday. The SIU-C ruggers have a 6-2 record following a seventh-place finish in the women’s Midwest Union Tournament held at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind., last weekend.

Ohio State beat SIU-C in its first match of the tournament 18-4. SIU-C then notched three consecutive wins, beating DePauw 26-4, Platoffville 26-4 and shut out Iowa City 18-0.

Southwest Louisiana's Ragin' Cajuns are hoping to continue their Homecoming Day, and they're not coming to dance.

"They're coming to beat the hottest thing on campus, the Cajun football team. Saturday's game starts at 1:30 p.m. The Cajuns have a 1-3 record, and the Salukis are 4-3. A big Homecoming game crowd is expected and the Salukis have three players coming off the injury list. So, the Salukis might have the edge.

Senior safety Trey Washington will be available Saturday. Washington hurt his knee in last season's first game, and hasn't played since.

Linebacker Ornamente Butler has been a target of the injured list. Butler hurt his knee Sept. 26 at Tulsa. He was a starter when injured.

Offensive guard Chester Conwright is back in action. He hurt his knee Sept. 12 against Texas and has performed well.

"Butler will play—just a question of how much," Saluki Coach Bill Thomas said. "We don't know if we'll need him in all four quarters for an extra defensive back around helps. We don't know about Conwright. It's hard to bounce back and jump right in.

Dempsey thinks freshman offensive tackle Ilyia Denis will start. Cook, 6-2 and 250 pounds, is a little more than a quartile in the Southwest Louisiana State game.

"I don't think one bit, but he played well other than that," Dempsey said. He blocked Florida's Alex hash during practice Thursday and Friday, he'll start.

Dempsey hopes Cook and the rest of the line can give Saluki quarterback Walter Poole some blocking. He also hopes the Saluki secondary can stop the Cajun passing attack.

Dempsey pointed out that U.SL passed for 350 yards against North Texas and 196 against Arkansas State. The Cajuns have played 26 of their 32 games.

"This quarterback can move around back there, and he's a good passer," Dempsey said of either of the Cajun signal callers. "Southwest Louisiana passes about one out of every three plays."

To handle the Cajun passing game, Dempsey plans to start Terry Taylor, Bill Thomas, Tony Haywood, and Greg Shipp.

Dempsey hopes his defense can cause some turnovers. In the first round, the Salukis have forced big mistakes and have used them well.

Southwest Louisiana is a sound team. They don't make the big, big mistakes," Dempsey said. "But we can create turnovers Saturday."

Dempsey tied his team's success as creating and taking advantage of turnovers to the Salukis' attitude.

"That's our philosophy—that we've passed for 450 yards to win," Dempsey said. "Everybody's so close, so Colonial the other, they know they'll get the break and that's what we do. We've overcome adversity every game."

Other Cajun adversaries have been injuries. Defensive back Eugene Ware is questionable, as is offensive tackle Chris Lameymore. Ed Weddell chipped a bone in his left foot last week and will miss the remaining four games and Walter Poole's 300-pound backup.

"Walker's injury is worse than Ware's, but we have our injured guys checked construction feels. I always hope these guys could make the team," said the coach, according to the season," Dempsey said.

Saluki netter to face some of nation's finest

By Bob Morand

"The men's tennis team will travel to tennis pro Jimmy Conner's hometown of Bourbonville this weekend to face some of the toughest teams in the nation in a match against the Hill Invitational Tournament.

Hosted by last year's NCAA Division II regional champions, Edwardsville, the tournament will feature such teams as Arkansas and Clemson, the No. 6 and No. 7 ranked teams in Division I. Big Ten champions and Big East opponents.

By Michelle Schwent

Sports Editor

The field hockey team will tangle with rival Western Illinois University in Macomb Saturday in what could be the Salukis' tightest match of the season. The Salukis have a 10-6-2 record and have four wins and a tie in their last five matches. One of the Salukis wins was a 4-2 victory over Division II power Southern Missouri.

The latest victory, a 2-1 win over powerful St. Louis University Tuesday, was a big win because SIU-C had not beaten the Lady Billikens since 1975.

The Westervinds beat St. Louis twice in the last two weeks and one of the wins was questionable, according to Coach Jane Iller, who spoke with one of the referees who worked the game.

WU is the only team other than SIU-C that has won the state crown and has won the state title two years in a row. The Salukis hold a 11-4 series advantage over WU in their 18 matches since 1971 but the Westervinds have had the edge the past two years.

The match will be intense, according to Iller.

"One of the games we lost to them in the last two years really hurt us in the seedings for the state tournament," Iller said. "There is an intense rivalry between us and our games are always emotion-packed. We'll have to play well because it will be a hard fought contest.

The Salukis feature a strong offensive attack. SIU-C has outscored its opponents 46-25 through 18 games and has averaged over 2 shots on goal per game. Junior Ellen Maassey leads the team with 10 goals while junior Cindy Davis has 16.
