Alumna awaits organ transplants

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

Robin Sigler, a former graduate student from Carbondale, has been waiting for a heart and lung donor since March when she discovered she had primary pulmonary hypertension.

In the meantime, the SIU-C Police Department has helped raise funds for the transplant, which could cost between $60,000 and $100,000. Her husband, Todd Sigler, is an SIU-C police officer and graduate student in public affairs.

Mrs. Sigler said the main symptom of the disease is shortness of breath. The first doctor who diagnosed her thought she had asthma, she said. Sigler later found that the symptoms indicated a disease that causes vessels in the lungs to contract. Decreased blood flow through the lungs also has damaged her heart.

Mrs. Sigler, 24, was a first year master's student in biological science and graduate assistant in the medical school spring semester. She now stays home with her 18-month-old son, Jason. Her doctors at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, Mo., have advised her to get plenty of rest, she said.

Mr. Sigler said he and his wife have received a lot of support from friends at the police department and school. People in the community who heard about the operation also have been supportive.

"Even a guy I arrested the other night asked about her," he said.

SIU-C Police Community Relations Officer Nelson Ferry helped create a trust fund at the First National Bank of Carbondale to collect money for the Siglers, he said. Contributions for the Robin Sigler Trust fund may be sent to P.O. Box 435, Carbondale, Ill., 62903.

SIU police officers David Bunton and Carol Kammerer of the Fraternal Order of Police recently helped raise funds at the state convention in Peoria, he said. A benefit concert featuring a gospel singer has also been scheduled for Nov. 28 in the Student Center.

The Siglers found out about police efforts to raise funds for the medical costs two weeks ago, Mr. Sigler said.

"It was fantastic. That was one of the integral parts of why I've stayed at that department because the people there are good people," he said.

The Siglers said their situation has been frustrating but they have learned to cope with it.

"I guess I don't think about it because right now I feel so good. If I felt sick I would think about it more. You just learn to live with it," Mrs. Sigler said.

Mascot's tackler still on the lam

A man who tackled Saluki mascot Woody Hammer at Saturday's game at Eastern Illinois University remains at large, EIU campus police say.

Hammer received a few bruises and minor scratches, but required no medical treatment, witnesses said.

Hammer had joined in a mock sparring match with the Eastern mascot late in the game after SIU had scored a touchdown. According to witnesses, she then entered the Eastern cheering section and was passed hand-over-hand by members of the crowd.

Shortly afterward, an EIU cheerleader came to Hammer's aid and escorted her out of the stands. As Hammer returned to the Saluki side of the field, a man jumped from the stands, set out in a run and tackled her and then fled on foot back into the stands and out an exit, EIU Police Chief Tom Larson said Tuesday.

Developer unveils plan for new mall

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

Carbondale City Council members reacted positively to plans for a new mall after their fears were calmed about safety.

The new mall would be called University Place and would adjoin K-Mart on Route 13 east. No vote was taken and further discussion of the new mall was put on the Council's agenda for its next meeting.

"This development is an exciting addition to the city and will help keep Carbondale as the retail center for Southern Illinois," said a letter from Donald Monty, community development director, to Bill Dixon, city manager.

"University Place will provide nearly 40,000 square feet for an 8-screen motion-picture-theater complex and 65,000 square feet for retail uses such as a shoe store, a drug store and clothing shops. Additional land is provided for future expansion and the creation of additional establishments," said the letter.

Councilman Neil Dillard expressed concern about safety in the proposed mall's parking lot. Dillard also asked what type of lighting would be used in the parking lot. Michael Schenck, of Schenck and Associates, told Dillard that the lighting planned for the parking lot will be stronger than required, adding that it would lower insurance costs because brighter lighting is a crime deterrent.

Councilman Keith Tuxhorn said he was worried that maintenance at the existing University Mall might suffer.

Tuxhorn said, "This is not to say I am adverse to this plan. However, I do have difficulty with going ahead with something new and not taking care of what you have."

"I know we are not here to decide what businesses should do with their money," he said.

David Hocker and Associates, which owns the existing mall, wants to build the new mall. Project planners told Tuxhorn that renovation and upkeep of the existing mall is part of the project.

Monty said the traffic lights would be installed at the intersection of Route 13 and an extension of Giant City Road as soon as possible. He said half the money would have to come from the state, adding that it would have to be included in the state's budget for the next fiscal year.

Schenck said David Hocker and Associates is one of the top 50 developers in the nation.

"They didn't get that way by not watching their Ps and Qs," he said.

Monty also told the council that he was unaware of any code violations present in the existing mall.

Work on the development of the mall is expected to begin this fall, Dixon said, but he said he is unaware of any specific date for completion of the project.

"We need to remember this mall is not serving just Carbondale and Murphysboro and Marion, but, if not one-third, nearly one-third of the southern region of Illinois," he said.

Gus says a new mall is just one more way to mile for gold in student pockets.

Israeli warplanes bomb four Lebanon villages

ARAMOUN, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli warplanes bombed suspected Palestinian guerrilla targets in four villages in the Shouf mountains southeast of Beirut Tuesday, leveling buildings and triggering huge fires. Two people were reported injured.

The surprise raid came shortly after Israeli Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin completed a tour of the Israeli-declared "security zone" in southern Lebanon, vowing to help Israel's militia allies, which are facing increasing attacks by Shiite Moslem extremists.

"Where there is an increase in hostilities by terrorists, we will increase our support," Rabin said one day after Israel sent new troops, tanks and artillery to the Israeli-Lebanese border area to beef up its surrogate militia, the South Lebanon Army.

In Washington, State Department spokesman

Charles Redman expressed concern at the increasing tensions in Lebanon. "We have long deplored the cycle of violence in Lebanon and urge all parties to exercise restraint," he said.

An Israeli Defense Forces spokesman in Jerusalem said the Israeli aircraft pounded targets belonging to the Abu Mousa group and the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, breakaway factions of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Witnesses said the aircraft were fired upon with heavy automatic anti-aircraft batteries, but the warplanes headed south to Israel at dusk.

"The planes hit terrorist sites, including a departure base for attacks on Israel by the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine and several structures far from population areas," the IDF spokesman said.

Syria criticizes France for newspaper speculation

PARIS (UPI) — Syria's foreign minister is accusing France of instigating a media campaign aimed at linking Syria to a wave of deadly terrorist bombings in Paris, reports said Tuesday. Nine people have died in the attacks. Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Al Chazaa, in an interview published Tuesday, criticized speculation in French newspapers that Syria could be a possible backer of terrorists trying to force France to free a Lebanese guerrilla leader, who comes from a northern Lebanese town under Syrian control. Iran and Syria also have been mentioned.

U.S. intellectual level blamed on minorities

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone has told party members that blacks and Hispanics in the United States lower the nation's intellectual level, according to reports in two Japanese newspapers Tuesday. The reports in the daily Tokyo Shimbun and the Communist Party newspaper, Akahata (Red Flag), said Nakasone made the remark Monday at a national study meeting of his ruling Liberal Democratic Party in Shizuoka prefecture, west of Tokyo.

Italians buy Fiat S.p.A. shares back from Libya

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — Libya sold its minority share in Fiat S.p.A. for an estimated $3 billion Tuesday and the Italian industrial group's two Libyan directors resigned, a company spokesman said. The IFI holding company, owned by the family of Fiat President Gianni Agnelli, bought two-thirds of the stake from the Libyan Arab Foreign Investment Co. A consortium of banks headed by the Deutsche Bank of West Germany and the Italian bank Mediobanca purchased the remainder of the Libyan share.

Botha blasts international apartheid sanctions

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI) — Foreign Minister Roelof Botha Tuesday called international sanctions against apartheid a "mad, perverse action" that will put many blacks out of work but "will not kill us." Botha addressed reporters at a news conference in response to requests for comments and interviews on looming sanctions, especially those adopted by Congress Sept. 11 and sent to President Reagan. The foreign minister said members of Congress who backed punitive sanctions against his white-led nation wanted to publicly "cleanse their souls."

High Court stays Florida double execution

STARKE, Fla. (UPI) — The Supreme Court granted stays Tuesday for two condemned killers scheduled to die in the electric chair Wednesday morning in what would have been the nation's first double execution in more than a decade. The court entered the stays 12 and a half hours before Allen Davis, 42, and Kenneth Jarwick, 37, were to have been executed in Florida's "Old Sparky" electric chair at about 7 a.m. EDT Wednesday.

Senate approves higher rural speed limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved an administration-backed measure Tuesday that would permit states to raise the 55 mph speed limit to 65 mph on rural interstate highways. With Western senators leading the attack on the 55 mph limit, the Senate passed the measure by a 56-36 vote. "This arbitrary speed limit simply does not fit the vast stretches of western highways," said Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, in support of his amendment to the $10.2 billion spending bill for the Transportation Department and related agencies.

AIDS Hospital to study experimental drug

HOUSTON (UPI) — The nation's only hospital devoted entirely to research and treatment of AIDS will begin several studies with the experimental drug AZT, but the institute's medical director cautions that little is known about the drug. "Let's not lose our heads about AZT," said Dr. Peter Mansell of the Institute for Immunologic Disorders.

Chernobyl radiation equals all other releases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Chernobyl nuclear accident in the Soviet Union released as much long-term radiation into the air, topsoil and water as all previous nuclear tests and atomic bomb explosions combined, it was reported Tuesday. The New York Times and The Washington Post cited a new study — to be presented later in the day at an international symposium in Vienna — that also predicted the amount of radioactive cesium emitted from the crippled Soviet reactor could exceed by 50 percent the total amount of cesium that settled on Earth from all the world's atmospheric nuclear tests.

Chancellor Pettit speaks Tuesday at an economic fair.

Number of re-entry students expected to rise, Pettit says

By JoDe Rymar
Staff Writer

The traditional mix of 18- to 22-year-old students at universities is "hanging due to the growing demand of trained professionals in the work force," said SIU Chancellor Lawrence Pettit, who spoke at the second annual Economic Development Fair in West Frankfort Tuesday.

Pettit, who spoke as a representative of SIU, said the role of universities in economic development is growing in the areas of technical training, research, and international cooperation.

Because of the change in economic base, from agriculture to high-tech industry, more people will be returning to universities to keep up with technical advancements in various fields, Pettit said.

"Industries that once depended on physical capabilities of workers are now depending on mental capabilities," Pettit said. "In the future there will be more and more people stepping in and out of universities for retraining," he said.

With the influx of non-traditional students into universities, Pettit said investments in education are essential to future economic development.

Pettit stressed the importance of basic and primary research in economic development and pointed out the recent progress in SIU's School of Agriculture on researching "Golden Death Syndrome, a problem many soybean growers across the nation face.

Because SIU has the highest international student population in the state, and eighth in the country, the opportunity for economic development on a global basis is great, Pettit said.

SIU's international alumni provide opportunity for people in businesses to make contacts in foreign markets, Pettit said.

"Success means exploring and linking internationally," he said.

The fair was sponsored by the House Economic Development Committee, and included speakers from state agencies who provided information on programs available for advancing economic development.

City reluctant on funding for proposed recycling

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

The city has indicated that it will do everything in its power to aid recycling in the region. Everything, that is, except throw money at the problem.

City Council members were receptive to several recommendations presented to them Monday by the Carbondale Energy Advisory Commission aimed at reinvigorating the area's sluggish recycling market. But they appeared reluctant to devote any more city funds to the quest for a solution to the problem.

Several of the recommendations contained in the commission's report would require the city to expand its already strained financial resources. For instance, the report recommends that the city continue its in-house recycling program in order to "set an example for the public of how recycling programs can operate in the workplace."

"Philosophically, that sounds very good," said City Manager Bill Dixon, "and we can continue with it we should." However, Dixon said, the city has been experiencing problems with storing recyclable materials.

The commission also called for a budget increase for the city's Housing and Energy Division to allow Energy Coordinator Robert Pauls to become a full-time city employee. Such a move would give Pauls the time and the resources to conduct a comprehensive study of the waste stream characteristics and recycling alternatives in the region, the commission claimed.

Dixon told commission Chairman Steve Schauwecker that he consulted several city staff members on the matter and concluded that such a move is not economically feasible.

Schauwecker said other

Illinois municipalities attempting to tackle energy problems have received funds from the state and suggested that Carbondale seek such assistance. The city has considered applying for a state grant to fund a study of the city's recycling potential, Dixon said.

Councilman Keith Tuxhorn urged council members not to abandon the city's "leadership position" in regional recycling efforts. "We are setting an example for other towns and we have the business footing here," he said. "At whatever loss we may run right now, I think the city should con-

The city's contractor-based newspaper recycling program was suspended in June after the city failed to attract bids for the franchise.

When Mayor Helen Westberg asked under what conditions newspaper recycling would be economically feasible considering the depressed nature of the market, Schauwecker said that the amount of newspaper collected "must be of such an amount that it is marketable and profitable." There must also be an increase in the number of citizens participating in the program.

Foundation should catch Coke's wave

COKE IS IT, as far as setting an example for corporations that do business in South Africa. That includes the SIU Foundation. Coca-Cola Co., with sales and assets in South Africa totaling roughly $320 million in 1986, announced last week that it's going to sell most of its remaining assets there to black investors as an apartheid protest, according to the Chicago Tribune. The Foundation — essentially the University's bank — should follow suit.

Three years ago, the Foundation had more than $1 million worth of investments tied into five corporations with strong South African ties: IBM, Exxon Corporation, Eastman Kodak, United Technologies and GTE. By last year, that figure was down to a little over $400,000.

TODAY, DEPENDING UPON WHOM you talk to, the investment total is down to about $200,000. But mere divestment was a mistake. When the Foundation divests, it takes its investments out of the companies that do business in South Africa, leaving the Foundation with a fistful of the University's money to invest where it won't help poor blacks — or poor whites — in South Africa.

But the Foundation apparently doesn't know what Coca-Cola knows, that money still is the best weapon against apartheid and the weapon should be in black hands.

Checkbook protests will help provide the weapons. Alumni and faculty should give donations to the Foundation with the stipulation that it go toward assisting black South African investors.

SIMPLY SHOUTING ANTI-APARTHEID slogans outside Anthony Hall won't work. If Coke can catch the wave and turn its money back into black-run businesses, why can't the Foundation? Certainly the Foundation has less to lose.

Panthers admit faux 'paw'

The Daily Eastern News

Eastern finally did it. They hadn't done it since 1982, but Saturday night made up for it. Showing a bold 52-7 victory, Eastern finally beat archrival Southern Illinois University.

But beating the team on the field wasn't enough for Eastern's crowd. They took it to the stands — a place where cheering — not fighting — is suppose to occur.

It started innocently enough. Eastern's cheerleaders and some band members carried Southern's mascot, the Saluki, over to Eastern's side of brightly lit O'Brien Stadium.

It was all in good fun at first. The Saluki and Eastern's mascot, the Panther, had a mock fight. They took a few pretend swings as each other. It was cute. The fans and photographers loved it.

But then it got out of hand. The cheerleaders made the mistake of handing the girl in the mangy-looking dog suit up to the rowdy and perhaps even tipsy crowd.

At first the crowd was good about handing the mascot through the air — good until the mascot caught a fist with her face.

That's not exactly a good way to show school spirit, but it's definitely a way to turn a friendly rivalry into a bitter one.

And why punch somebody who obviously had nothing to do with getting her body lofted through the air like the paper airplanes fans insisted on throwing to the field?

Blatant stupidity, that's why.

Of the 10,100 people at O'Brien Saturday, there was one person who decided he would demonstrate his school spirit by punching the big, bad Southern Illinois Saluki, which, in reality, was a defenseless woman catapulted into Eastern's stands against her will.

Nice school spirit.

Had it been our Panther punched by an irate SIU fan, we certainly wouldn't have stood for it.

Beating up another school's mascot will not help the Panthers win. The audience is there to enjoy the hitting on the field not participate in it in the stands.

Let visiting schools worry about protecting their football team from the vicious Panther offense — not about protecting their mascot from the vicious fans.

Although they seem hidden, prejudices still can be seen

By Ellen Cook
Staff Writer

When my grandfather was in the Army in the 1940s, he was stationed in the Deep South. One day, he went to a local laundromat to wash his clothes. A sign in the window read "Whites Only."

My grandfather, who had grown up in southern Iowa, didn't understand the meaning behind the sign, so he carefully separated his white clothes from his colors and proceeded to wash "whites only."

WE DON'T have segregated laundromats anymore, nor do we have segregated theaters or buses. At least the signs are no longer visible. Instead, some people hide the signs deep within themselves. They still separate the whites and the "coloreds" in their minds. And just because the signs aren't displayed, it doesn't mean they can't be seen.

We can see the signs in South Africa, where a black person is considered a second-class citizen and is ruled by a "white supremacist" government.

WE CAN SEE the signs in groups like the Ku Klux Klan, who hide behind white sheets while proclaiming their "white superiority."

We also can see the signs in our cities and towns, where both school children and interracial couples are confronted with racial slurs and hatred.

I can still remember my friend's face when she first heard herself referred to as a "nigger." She was nine years old.

I ALSO CAN remember the obscenities hurled at another friend when she went out with her black boyfriend. She was 19.

Although these two incidents happened years apart, they have a lot of the same characteristics. In both cases, people were unfairly judged on the basis of race.

They were looked at only as a "black" or "black lover," not as an individual. They were placed in outdated stereotypes and were expected to fit them. They were treated like second-class citizens in a land where "all men are created equal."

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that those name-callers never got to know the individuals they jeered. They would have found people who were giving and caring; people who were proud of their heritage and eager to talk about it. People who were my friends.

I wish there were more people like my friends. I also wish there were more people like my grandfather — people who hold no prejudices. People who separate the whites from the colors only in their clothes bin.

Thousands of lawyers have souls

As a law student at SIU-C, I am extremely annoyed at the constant flow of information from such liberal "rags" as the New York Times and the Daily Egyptian, which suggest lawyers are "greedy parasites who prey upon the body politic."

Not all of the 600,000 (soon to be million) lawyers in this country are "ambulance chasers." Some lawyers have souls. There are lawyers who have social consciences. You have to look hard to find them.

Former U.S. House of Representatives member from Illinois and present Federal Court of Appeals Judge Abner Mikva writing in the Human Rights publication of the Individual Responsibilities Section of the American Bar Association claims to have found 3,000 lawyers with souls.

I just sent my $10 dues so now there are 3001. Anyway, Judge Mikva suggests it's time for lawyers to get back to viewing bar-istering as a profession concerned with larger social issues rather than just another business.

I would respectfully disagree with Judge Mikva's figures. I would add the 7,000 members of the National Lawyer's Guild and many of the three or four thousand law professors to this list. So, allowing for a certain overlap in membership, there are 10,000 lawyers with souls. That's almost 2 percent.

Balloons to signal fund drive

University and City officials will release a truckload of helium-filled balloons Thursday morning to signal the start of SIU's 1986 United Way Campaign.

The balloons will be released around 9 a.m. in front of the Student Center, said Joanne M. Chezem, campaign coordinator.

Organizers have set a $52,000 goal, which will contribute to the Carbondale goal of $141,000.

Last year the SIU drive netted $58,720.

Organizers want pledges for at least a third of SIU's goal before the balloons are released, Chezem said.

Chezem said a training session for campus volunteers, who will hand out pledge information, will be held from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. Monday in Student Center Old Main Room.

Chezem said SIU employees can contribute through payroll deduction and can designate their contributions to United Way campaigns in Carbondale, Herrin, Carterville, Cambria-Crainville, Murphysboro, Du Quoin, Marion or Union County.

Members of Carbondale Community High School's Key Club will help with campaign paperwork again this year, Chezem said.

Civil libertarians file suit to block Contra rebel aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of civil libertarians teachers and church workers filed suit in federal court Tuesday in an unprecedented effort to force President Reagan to abide by a world court decision and stop aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

"At issue is whether the United States, as a law-abiding nation, will obey the decision of the highest international court in existence," said Walter Hoffman, executive director of the World Federalist Association, the chief plaintiff in the suit.

The association was joined in the suit by a Catholic nun who said she has been detained six times by the Contras, four U.S. citizens living in Nicaragua and several humanitarian aid groups.

The suit said the plaintiffs face "serious, immediate and continuing danger" because the United States is helping Contra attack villages and assistance centers where they work, including children's nurseries and an orphanage. It claimed dozens of civilians have been killed.

"We have American citizens living in Nicaragua whose very lives are in danger because of the United States government," said Jules Lobel, a lawyer in the case.

The suit was filed at the House Democratic leadership in a speech at the White House, said final action on the Contra aid package had been "deliberately stalled on Capitol Hill."

"Freedom fighters will pay with their lives for this politics of obstructionism," he warned.

The suit seeks to set a precedent by enforcing a federal court decision by the U.N. International Court of Justice. Lobel conceded that winning will be an "uphill battle."

The court, known as the world court, ruled June 27 at the Hague, Netherlands, that the United States was violating international law and Nicaragua's rights by mining Nicaraguan harbors and aiding the Contra rebels who seek to overthrow the Marxist-led Sandinista government. Nicaragua has said it may seek damages in U.S. courts.

Congress is set to take final action before recessing Oct. 3 on Reagan's latest request for $100 million in humanitarian and military aid to the Contras.

If the aid request passes, Hoffman said, the plaintiffs immediately will ask a court to block the money until the suit is heard in court.

The United States claimed after the world court decision that it had acted in self defense and the Contra aid issue was political, not legal.

Aquino, fifth-graders talk about freedom

(UPI) — Hundreds of children representing each of San Francisco's 110 schools gave Philippine President Corason Aquino a spirited welcome Tuesday and she told them they were giving her the "most enjoyable" part of her U.S. visit.

"I am just so happy to be here with you," Aquino told a classroom of fifth graders at the John Swett Alternative Elementary School. "I will always remember this moment."

Aquino sandwiched the visit between a morning speech at the University of California in Berkeley and a San Francisco luncheon address to business and community leaders sponsored by the Commonwealth Club and World Affairs Council.

Inside Room 101, the blackboard proclaimed: "Mahuhay! Welcome to President Aquino from all the students at John Swett School." A bulletin board labeled "Social Studies — The Philippines and the U.S.A." was full of newspaper clippings on the Philippines and essays written by the children.

The 35- and 10-year olds in the class sat restlessly as they waited for Aquino to make her entrance. Mayor Dianne Feinstein, Superintendent of Schools Ramon Cortines and other local dignitaries were on hand for the event.

Aquino's motorcade arrived at the school and hundreds of cheering children released yellow balloons and took up the chant, "Cory, Cory, Cory."

The Philippines president spent about half an hour with teacher Elaine Morch and her students. They exchanged gifts and she gave a short, emotional address.

After the children sang an original folk song, "Stand Up For What You Believe," student Mihn Luu read his essay, "What Freedom Means to Me."

"I know that freedom is because I come from a place where there is no freedom," read Luu, who fled Vietnam in a boat with his family but left behind an imprisoned grandfather.

Jury selection to continue today

Jury selection for the John Paul Phillips murder trial may continue through today or Thursday, Massac County Circuit Clerk Frank Williams said.

Four jurors were selected Monday and four Tuesday from 75 prospective jurors interviewed, Williams said Tuesday.

Phillips, an inmate of Menard Correctional Center, is accused of the 1981 murder of Joan Wetherall, who was a Carbondale waitress.

The trial was moved from Jackson County to Massac County because of pre-trial publicity.

Clarification

Figures for SIU administrators during fiscal year 1987, as reported in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian, did not include equity adjustments, which were made Aug. 1.

Including the adjustments, monthly salaries for those positions reported are: chancellor, $8,917; vice chancellor, $7,120; academic vice chancellor, $5,934; executive assistant, $4,964; and finance director, $5,872.

Film makers battle for video device

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The movie industry and home video taping advocates battled before a Senate committee Tuesday over a Hollywood proposal to require all new video cassette recorders to carry a new anti-copying device.

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, told the Senate Judiciary Committee that the VCR circuitry now can be changed with an inexpensive electronic "chip" that prevents duplicating movies and other copyrighted material.

He said the anti-copying device costs about 15 cents, but the only way to stop illegal copying of rented copyrighted movies and other material is for Congress to require all VCR makers to install the device.

Lawyer Charles Ferris, representing the Home Recording Rights Coalition, argued that Valenti's request is "a pernicious proposal" (that) should be summarily rejected at this time.

Ferris said people spend more on videos than at movie theaters, so the VCR has become Hollywood's best friend, not the enemy he said Valenti has repeatedly warned Congress it would become.

After both men testified, Judiciary Chairman Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., asked Valenti to join Ferris at the witness table to find a reasonable compromise.

But Ferris told Thurmond that Valenti, "in effect, came to me and put a pistol to my head" several years ago by insisting that VCRs threatened the future of the movie industry.

Soviet calls Reagan speech 'propaganda'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze Tuesday sharply criticized President Reagan's address to the General Assembly as propaganda full of "misconceptions and prejudices."

He also said the Soviet Union is ready to sign "at any time and in any place" a treaty prohibiting nuclear weapons tests.

Speaking to the more than 1,000 delegates from around the world in the cavernous assembly hall 24 hours after Reagan, Shevardnadze said, "it is regrettable that the rostrum of the U.N. General Assembly was used in such a way."

"To respond point-by-point to that propaganda speech presents no problem," he said.

"However, to enter into polemics would be to show a lack of respect for our audience."

"Time is too precious to spend it on refuting misconceptions and prejudices that distort reality and the facts."

Shevardnadze met Reagan and Secretary of State George Shultz last week in Washington in delicate negotiations concerning the return to the United States of American journalist Nicholas Daniloff from Moscow and a date for a summit between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Reagan blamed the Soviets in his speech Monday for casting a pall on U.S.-Soviet relations and the arms negotiations by arresting Daniloff on trumped up charges. He said the arms negotiations might represent "the beginning of a serious productive negotiation on arms reduction."

"All this gives me hope," Reagan said.

Before addressing the assembly, Shevardnadze met with Shultz for 40 minutes in the office of the present U.N. Security Council president, Soviet envoy Aleksandr Belonogov.

Shultz refused any comment on the meeting afterward, but Shevardnadze told reporters the case of Daniloff, 51, U.S.

News & World Report correspondent detained in Moscow since Aug. 30 on espionage charges, was discussed.

"Yes, we discussed it. There are good chances for solving this problem. I would stress good chances," Shevardnadze told reporters.

Shevardnadze ridiculed Reagan for speaking in defense of the American Strategic Defense Initiative, the space-based anti-ballistic missile program popularly known as "Star Wars."

U.S.-Soviet spy flap unsettled after parley

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze met Tuesday but failed to resolve the standoff over American newsman Nicholas Daniloff.

The two men met for 40 minutes at the United Nations and discussed the case that is threatening to hold up progress on a second superpower summit.

The Daniloff case was discussed and there was no resolution, State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb told reporters. "It was not resolved."

Kalb declined to give further details but Shevardnadze said earlier that resolving the case was up to the American side.

Shultz declined any comment on the 40-minute meeting, but Shevardnadze said there were "good chances" of resolving the impasse over the continued detention in Moscow of U.S. News & World Report correspondent Nicholas Daniloff.

The two men met in the U.N. headquarters office of the present U.N. Security Council president, Soviet envoy Aleksandr Belonogov. The meeting was not announced beforehand. State Department spokesmen declined to give any assessment of say whether Daniloff was discussed.

But Shevardnadze told reporters later, "Yes, we discussed it. There are good chances for solving this problem. I would stress good chances. Everything depends on the U.S. side."

Asked if he had made any new proposals on the case, Shevardnadze smiled and said, "Yes, I have made all my proposals. My conscience is clear."

Later, Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennadi Gerasimov declined to elaborate on whether any new proposals had been made. "I don't want to rock the boat," he told a news briefing.

He also called the U.S. order that 25 Soviet diplomats leave the United States by Oct. 1 "another obstacle" to a second superpower summit and said, "This obstacle must be removed."

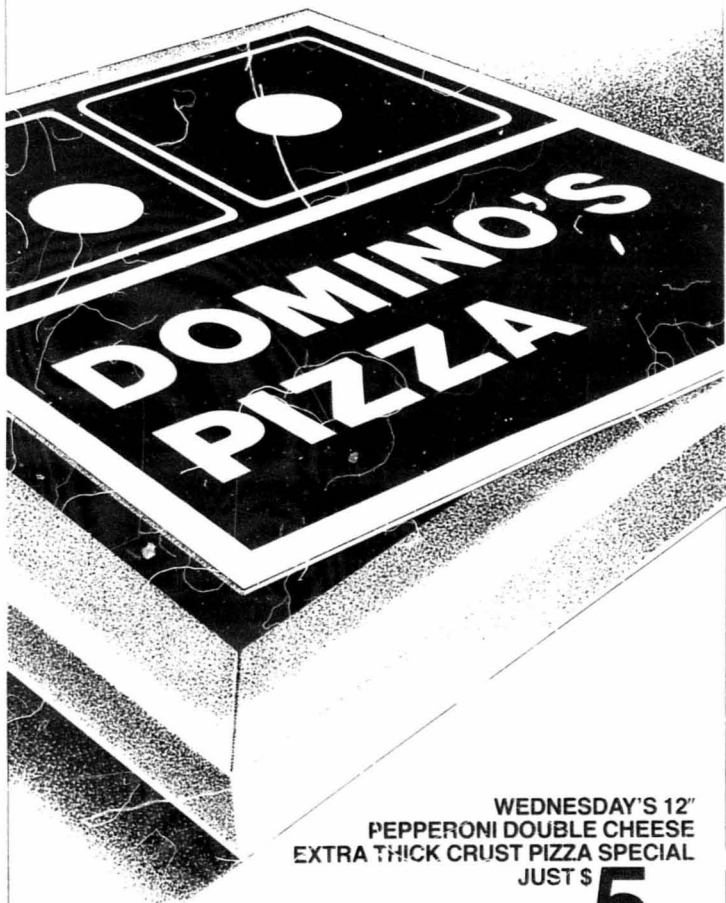

Shevardnadze, speaking through an interpreter, said he and Shultz had agreed not to discuss the meeting but "were still discussing" the issues at hand. He would not rule out another meeting.

"These are serious and regular discussions. And the less noise there is, the better for all because wiser decisions are made in a quiet and calm atmosphere," he said.

Shultz and Shevardnadze met in Washington Friday and Saturday to help lay the groundwork for a second summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. But Shultz put the "unjustified seizing" of Daniloff atop his agenda and said unless the newsman is allowed to return home he did not see an "atmosphere" conducive to progress in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Daniloff was seized by the KGB Aug. 30.

Music from this century featured in 8-part series

By Mary Wisniewski
Entertainment Editor

It squeaks, it pops and it zips along unrestrained by beat or tradition.

That's how composer Frank L. Stemper describes the sounds of Music From This Century, an eight-part concert series featuring music from contemporary composers.

The first Music From This Century concert is at 8 tonight at the Old Baptist Foundation and will feature Eric Mandat on clarinet. Admission is $1 for students and $2 for non-students.

STEMPER, WHO is an assistant professor of music at SIU, said he started the series when he came to the university in 1983.

"There was no serious contemporary music in Southern Illinois when I got here," Stemper said. He said the series began as an outlet for his New Music Ensemble, a student group that performs contemporary experimental music.

This year, the Music From This Century series is expanding from three to eight concerts a year and will include guest artists such as Miles Anderson, Erica Sharp, Synchronia, Ned Rothenberg and Gerry Hemingway.

STEMPER SAID serious contemporary music is the classical music of today.

"If Beethoven were alive today, this is the kind of music he would be working on," he said. Stemper said that like Beethoven or Brahms, serious music composers deal in sonatas, cantatas, orchestral arrangements and chamber music.

"Of course, Beethoven was a little more popular in his day," Stemper said. "Most people never get to hear modern, serious music. So many people are saturated in pop and jazz."

"BUT THIS music is evolving," Stemper said. "Pop has remained basically the same for the last 300 years."

Stemper said progressive jazz and contemporary serious music are attempting many of the same experiments in sound. "The two kind of meld together," he said, but added that there are many differences between contemporary serious music and most jazz.

JAZZ ALWAYS has a definite beat, Stemper said, and most jazz arrangements include at least one percussion instrument. "Contemporary music is not restrained by a beat," he said.

Stemper said that most jazz is limited to certain kinds of instruments, like saxophones and pianos, while contemporary music can employ any kind of instrument.

STEMPER SAID that while the music featured in the Music From This Century series is experimental, it does not necessarily include such bizarre improvisations as tearing apart pianos or kicking over garbage cans.

"Back in the 1960s, there was a lot of money floating around in the universities for new music," Stemper said. "They would do things like make a tape recording right at the concert and then string the tape around the audience so that everyone could share in the music."

BUT STEMPER said he sees the value of that kind of performance as more symbolic than musical. "Now there are more composers and less money," he said. "It's not so theatrical."

Mandat, who is an assistant professor of music and co-director of the New Music Ensemble, will play Stemper's "Clarinet Piece," Alban Berg's "Vier Stucke fur Klarinette und Klavier" and an original clarinet solo entitled "Folk Pieces" at tonight's concert.

MANDAT SAID compositions like "Folk Pieces" or the Stemper and Mandat composition "D F C 2.3" are unique because they require the clarinetist to produce more than one pitch at the same time.

"The pitches are normal but there are changes in color based on altered fingering," Mandat said. He said "color" is a musical term meaning a change in sound, like the effect of a mute on a trumpet.

MANDAT SAID he was attracted by contemporary music because it allows a musician to work directly with a composer. "I also like being the first musician to play a new piece," he said.

Piano contest set for spring

The University will be the host of a new solo competition for pianists next spring.

The competition is possible because of a $2,000 endowment to the Beethoven Society for Pianists by Eric Friedheim, son of a 20th century piano giant.

Eric Friedheim, editor and publisher of Travel Agent magazine, gave the money to the society to establish the Arthur Friedheim Awards Competition in honor of his father, Arthur Friedheim.

The elder Friedheim studied under master pianist Franz Liszt in the latter part of the 19th century and served as Liszt's personal secretary for a time before settling in New York in 1915.

Donald P. Beattie, founder of the Beethoven Society and assistant professor in the School of Music, said Eric Friedheim is a New York resident who also endows an annual piano competition at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

"There are quite a few distinguished competitions in the United States for young artists each year," Beattie said. "The Beethoven Society thinks this one could generate interest nationwide," he said.

Pianists ages 13 to 22 who have graduated from high school can enter the competition. Undergraduate students are also eligible. Finalists will compete for a $1,000 first prize on March 10 in the Law School Auditorium.

For additional information or entry instructions write to Donald P. Beattie, School of Music, Carbondale, Ill. 62901, or phone (618) 536-7505.

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)

Gubernatorial challenger Adlai E. Stevenson III's request that the November general election ballot be changed was unanimously rejected Tuesday by the state Board of Elections.

Stevenson, a member of the Illinois Solidarity Party ticket, last week asked the board to remove the Solidarity name and the party's straight ticket voting circle from the ballot.

Oklahoma and Miami top poll, clash at Orange Bowl Saturday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oklahoma retained its firm grip on the top spot in the UPI weekly ratings Monday while Miami was ranked No. 2 to set up the biggest college football game of the young season.

The Sooners, who used a 63-0 shellacking of Minnesota to claim the top spot for the third straight week, play at Miami Saturday in a game featuring the wishbone attack of Oklahoma and the high-tech passing of the Hurricanes.

"We've been in top game situations before where we played teams 1-2-3-4-5," Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer said. "Ranking had nothing to do with it. It won't affect the ball game at all. It'll obviously have a great impact in the polls after it's over, but preparing for the game, those things never even come to mind."

The Sooners, 2-0, were involved in the last two meetings between the country's two top teams. In 1984, No. 2 Oklahoma played to a 15-15 tie with No. 1 Texas.

Last year, the No. 2 Sooners defeated No. 1 Penn State 25-10 in the Orange Bowl to earn the national championship.

Oklahoma received 43 of 50 first-place votes from the Board of Coaches for 740 points. Miami, 3-0, was idle this week and was awarded three first-place votes and 617 points.

Oklahoma's 123-point haul over Miami was the largest the team has been awarded by the board since the preseason poll in which the Sooners held a 126-point margin.

Alabama, 4-0, and Michigan, 2-0, flipped positions. The Sooners moved up a spot to No. 3 while the Wolverines slid to No. 4. Both schools received one first-place vote. Penn State, which maintained its No. 6 ranking, earned the other two first-place votes. Nebraska stayed at No. 5.

Washington at No. 7 was followed by Auburn, Arkansas and Arizona to close the Top 10. Arizona State was No. 11 and then Southern Cal, Iowa, Maryland, UCLA, Texas A&M, Baylor, Michigan State, Fresno State and Florida State.

Three Top 20 teams fell from the rankings. No. 8 Louisiana State lost to Miami (Ohio) 21-

12. No. 10 Georgia fell to Clemson 31-28 and No. 13 Brigham Young was routed 52-21 by Washington.

"Because of the particular situations, it is an even more exciting ball game than you might usually have," Hurricanes Coach Jimmy Johnson said of the Oklahoma contest.

"You've got No. 1 vs. No. 2. Oklahoma was No. 1 last year and the only loss was to Miami (27-14 at Norman). You've got Heisman Trophy candidates on both sides of the ball (quarterback Vinny Testaverde for Miami and linebacker Brian Bosworth for Oklahoma) and there's the connection Barry Switzer and I have going back to Arkansas in 1961 when I was playing and he was just starting coaching."

The three new teams to the Top 20 are UCLA, Michigan State and Fresno State. Southern California made the biggest jump of the week.

The 50 coaches ranked 15 teams, with total points based on 15 points for first place, 14 for second, etc. Teams on NCAA or conference probation are ineligible for the Top 20 and national championship consideration.

ramifications and we're collecting data daily on the steps being taken at other schools."

Livengood said University policy on the drug issue would be "that we are working on it."

In another discussion, Livengood and West spoke of a study being undertaken to determine the extent of interest in joining a Missouri Valley Conference for men's athletics.

West and Livengood stressed that the study of such a move was initiated by university presidents.

ROGER ROBINSON, serving his first term as IAAC chairperson, asked about the advantages of such a move. Livengood said he knew of no advantages.

"Personally, I'm not excited at all about such a move," Livengood said. "The Gateway gets better every year and from a purely personal standpoint, I would not favor such a move."

Robinson suggested that the MVC may be a bit unstable, with various schools voicing ideas of moving to other conferences and financial difficulties suffered by the MVC as a whole. The conference dropped football as a league sport last year because of scheduling and financial difficulties.

ROBINSON SAID that a statement of athletics department philosophy has been approved and is awaiting President Albert Somil's approval.

Robinson said that although policy statements were often "not taken seriously," he would take the statement very seriously and would "use it as a guideline to judge if what we're doing in the intercollegiate athletics department is right."

"I am very anxious to get the statement approved by the president," Robinson said. Robinson added that he had received a "tentative promise" from the president's office that either Somil or a presidential appointee would be present at the next meeting of the IAAC to address the topic.

Ojeda pitches Mets past Cards 9-1

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Ojeda scattered three hits over six innings Tuesday and Ray Knight, Keith Hernandez and Darryl Strawberry belted home runs to power the New York Mets to a 9-1 romp over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ojeda, 17-5, lost his shutout when Steve Lake homered with one out in the third. The other hits he surrendered were doubles to Willie McGee and Tom Herr. The left-hander struck out five and walked none.

Jesse Orosco pitched the last three innings to earn his 19th save. Greg Mathews, 10-9, was the starter and loser for St.

Louis. He lasted four innings and gave up eight hits and five earned runs.

The National League East champions took a 4-0 lead in the second. Knight hit a leadoff homer, his 10th. With one out, Rafael Santana walked and went to second on Ojeda's single. Moe' e Wilson's single loaded the bases and Lee Mazzilli doubled in Santana and Ojeda. Wilson scored from third on an infield out by Hernandez for the fourth run.

Hernandez slammed his 13th homer in the fourth inning to make it 5-1. In the next inning, Strawberry smashed the first pitch from reliever Joe Boever for his 23rd homer. Gary Carter's RBI single in the sixth made it 7-1. New York added two in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Wilson and a RBI single by Mazzilli.

Expos beat Cubs 10-5

CHICAGO (UPI) — Andre Dawson, Andres Galarraga and pitcher Dennis Martinez each drove in two runs Tuesday to spark the Montreal Expos to a 10-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Expos got 18 hits off five pitchers and moved one-half game ahead of St. Louis for third place in the National League East division.

Randy St. Claire, 2-0, blanked the Cubs for the middle three innings to earn the victory.

The Expos scored two runs in the first, second and fourth innings to forge a 6-0 lead. With Mitch Webster at third and Tim Lincecum at second in the first inning, Galarraga hit a check-swing single to right to drive in two runs.

In the second inning, Martinez doubled down the first base line with Tom Foley at third and Luis Rivera at second to give Montreal a 4-0 lead.

Martinez and Casey Candaele singled off Chicago starter Greg Maddux, 1-4, in the fourth and an intentional walk to Rivera loaded the bases. Dave Gumpert replaced Maddux and gave up a two-run single to left to Dawson to give Montreal a 6-0 advantage.

The Cubs got five consecutive hits and scored four runs to chase Martinez.

Sabonis says he'll stay in Soviet Union

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Soviet basketball star Arvidas Sabonis will reject offers to play for Louisiana State University or any other American team, preferring to play for his own country in the 1988 Olympics, a sports magazine reports.

In a copyright story scheduled for distribution Saturday, Tiger Rag, a weekly publication about LSU sports, quoted Lithuanian coach Vladas Garastas as saying the 7-foot-1 center wants to remain with the Soviet National Team at least until the Olympic games in Seoul, South Korea.

"We have decided that for the next two years, until the Olympics in Seoul, he (Sabonis) has to remain," Garastas said in an interview with Rima Jarnulevicius, a Lithuanian-American who wrote the story.

"After the Olympics, we will think about it. That is the decision."

The coach said Sabonis, 21, agreed with the decision.

LSU Coach Dale Brown traveled to the Soviet Union earlier this year in the hopes of recruiting the star. During a more recent trip to West Germany, Brown was unsuccessful in making a return trip to Russia to pursue the recruit.

Brown, who was unavailable for comment Tuesday, worked with the NCAA to amend an eligibility rule that required all college athletes to take standardized academic entrance exams.

Under the amendment to the rule, any student who graduated from high school prior to 1985-1986 could be exempt from the testing provision.

The $10 Sauki Athletic Pass is also good for the entire men's basketball season, as well as the women's home schedule, all home volleyball meets and gymnastics meets.

Lee Trueblood, athletics ticket manager, said that although renewals for season-ticket holders have not been sent out yet, he is expecting an increase in sales for the third consecutive year.

"There's still a lot of interest in coach Herrin," Trueblood said. "A lot of people think he's the man that will turn the program around."

Lakers sign top draft choices and free agent Branch

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers have signed draft choices Ron Kellogg, Andre Turner, Dale Blaney and Roger Harden and free agents Adrian Branch and Vada Martin, the club announced Tuesday.

All four draft choices are guards and played with the Lakers' entry in the Southern California Summer Pro League. Kellogg, the 42nd overall pick, was selected by the Atlanta Hawks, who dealt the 6-foot-5 former Kansas star to the Lakers on draft day.

The 5-11 Turner was selected in the third round out of Memphis State. Blaney of West Virginia was taken in the fourth and Harden of Kentucky in the fifth round.

Branch, a 6-6 swingman, was chosen in the second round of the 1985 draft by Chicago. He played last season with Baltimore of the Continental Basketball Association, where he averaged 25.4 points and finished second in Rookie of the Year voting.

Martin, 6-7, was not drafted after graduating from Murray State in 1985. He played three games in Germany last season before returning home to Montgomery, Ala., where he worked in an auto warehouse.

All six players are expected to participate in Los Angeles' training camp, which begins Oct. 5 at the College of the Desert in Palm Desert, Calif.

Restructuring the right move, says Livengood

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Athletics Director Jim Livengood told the Intercollegiate Athletics Advisory Committee Tuesday that he's pleased with progress the athletics department has made since its restructure in July.

"We've covered a lot of rocky ground, but there's still a lot to go," Livengood told the committee. "I think we've taken the right initial steps." Livengood told the committee the weekly staff meetings held in the Davis lounge were very helpful and conducive to progress in the department.

THE ATHLETICS director also spoke of the location problem and said that daily problems were encountered because of the housing of men's athletics and women's athletics in two separate buildings. The men's staff is located in the Arena complex while the women's staff is housed in Davis Auditorium.

Livengood added, however, that he felt progress was being made in melding the two departments into one and getting a feeling of unity between staff members on both sides of the two departments.

IN OTHER topics discussed by Livengood, the committee was told of Livengood's and Associate Athletics Director Charlotte West's personal meetings with every new student-athlete on the SIU-Campus.

"It's an effort to welcome them on a personal basis and let them know that they are more than just athletes to us," Livengood said.

On the topic of drug testing,

Livengood said that although he was not against drug testing, he felt that testing was by no means a cure-all that would make the problem go away.

"WE'LL ATTEMPT to approach the drug issue from an educational standpoint," Livengood said. "There are very significant legal

NCAA ready to institute drug testing

Football testing begins during postseason games

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The NCAA, facing a congressional probe into drug use in big-time college sports, Wednesday will unveil the "most demanding" drug-testing program in the nation, including testing athletes for street drugs and steroids, officials said.

THE TESTING will be limited to the championships in individual sports and will start with 1986 fall sports, NCAA spokesman Jim Marchiony said Tuesday.

In football, the testing will commence during the Division I-AA, Division II and Division III championships and will include testing of Division I players who participate in bowl games.

The testing is part of a wide-ranging anti-drug package that includes drug education programs for student-athletes, Marchiony said. It was approved earlier this year at the NCAA's annual convention, although the details have not yet been announced.

"IT'S THE MOST demanding testing program of any sports organization in the United States," Marchiony said. "It's more than a drug-testing program. It's a drug education program that includes drug testing."

The announcement comes as the NCAA continues its opposition to legislation in Congress establishing a federal commission to investigate drug use and the balance between athletics and academics in major college sports.

THE MEASURE, sponsored by Rep. Thomas Luken, D-Ohio, was approved earlier this month by the House of Representatives as part of a multibillion-dollar anti-drug bill.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association regulates intercollegiate sports.

MARCHIONY said the NCAA will announce at Wednesday afternoon's news conference agreements with laboratories approved by the International Olympic Committee to handle the processing of the urinalysis tests for drugs such as marijuana and cocaine, as well as anabolic steroids, which promote muscle bulk.

Men's 1986 hoops slate should feature more wins, says Herrin

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

From the looks of the 1986 Saluki men's basketball schedule, coach Rich Herrin's second year at the helm promises to be an exciting one, with a full slate of Missouri Valley Conference games as well as two tough tournaments.

With 15 home games, Saluki fans will get ample chances to see the same aggressive, scrappy style that Herrin's squad displayed last season in an 8-20 effort.

A win over NCAA tourney qualifier Tulsa, two near-misses to nationally-ranked Bradley and solid performances against powerful Western Kentucky, Arkansas, Nebraska highlighted a season when critics predicted a near-nothing season for the Salukis. Herrin feels the fans are in for a few more wins this season.

"It's a good schedule, and I don't mind telling you that the whole team is awfully excited about it," Herrin said. "We'll still be scrappy, and we think the fans enjoy that kind of play. Plus we'll be bigger and will try to pick up the tempo — we're expecting a good season."

Herrin said he feels the Salukis have a realistic shot at winning their first four games before traveling to the Virginia Invitational.

Some itinerary changes have been made, but the schedule is now final. Fans now with schedules should check the dates to make sure everything is live same. The changes include the Western Kentucky game (originally scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 10) and the Illinois State game (originally scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 19). The final

It's a shame that some people have no class

Eastern Illinois coach Al Molde said that Saturday's football game with the Salukis was for respect, and the 52-7 thrashing the Panthers inflicted on the Dogs might have won that respect.

However, it is unfortunate the EIU fans couldn't display some respect of their own.

It's a shame that the pounding inflicted on the turf didn't satisfy the Panther fans, who had to turn nasty towards an uninvolved party to satisfy a desire to get revenge for three consecutive Saluki victories.

SIU'S MASCOT, that cute little doggie with ribbons adorning her canine ears, was treated with pure and total disrespect.

When the Eastern cheerleaders grabbed the Saluki mascot after Paul Patterson's kickoff return for the Dogs' lone score, I thought it was all in fun. I did not, however, see the action late in the game while in transit from the press box to the field.

That was when the EIU fans in the stands of O'Brien Stadium began to get nasty with our mascot. After a mock bout of fisticuffs with the Panther mascot, the Saluki mascot was carried into the stands and handed around the rowdy, fired-up crowd. After being passed around the stands, she was tackled by a fan and severely bruised.

MAYBE IF THE mascot had been 6-9 and 295 pounds it all wouldn't have happened. But the small-statured Wendy Hammer had the wind knocked out of her (which is always a scary experience, no matter what size or stature) and received bruises that will last a long time after the hurt is gone.

From the Press Box
Steve Merritt

No doubt about it, the fans were as fired up as the players. The Daily Eastern News (Monday, Sept. 22) printed a story in which Saluki coach Ray Dorr was quoted as saying that the Panthers were not a physical football team. The Carbondale-based publication that originally printed the quote may have added fuel to the fire and given the Panther gridders and fans a little something extra to think about.

THE EASTERN NEWS said coach Al Molde had lashed the story up for all the players to see. It was pretty much the reverse of what happened to the Salukis a week before at Murray State. News of playing a nationally-ranked I-AA powerhouse, often mentioned in the media, had the Salukis fired up. Little did the SIU players know that a week later, the trick would be turned on them.

"They've been talking crap all year long," Panther nose guard Carl Parker told the Eastern News, referring to pregame publicity pegging the Salukis as heavy favorites.

"They'll think about this game the rest of their lives," said slotback Calvin Pierce.

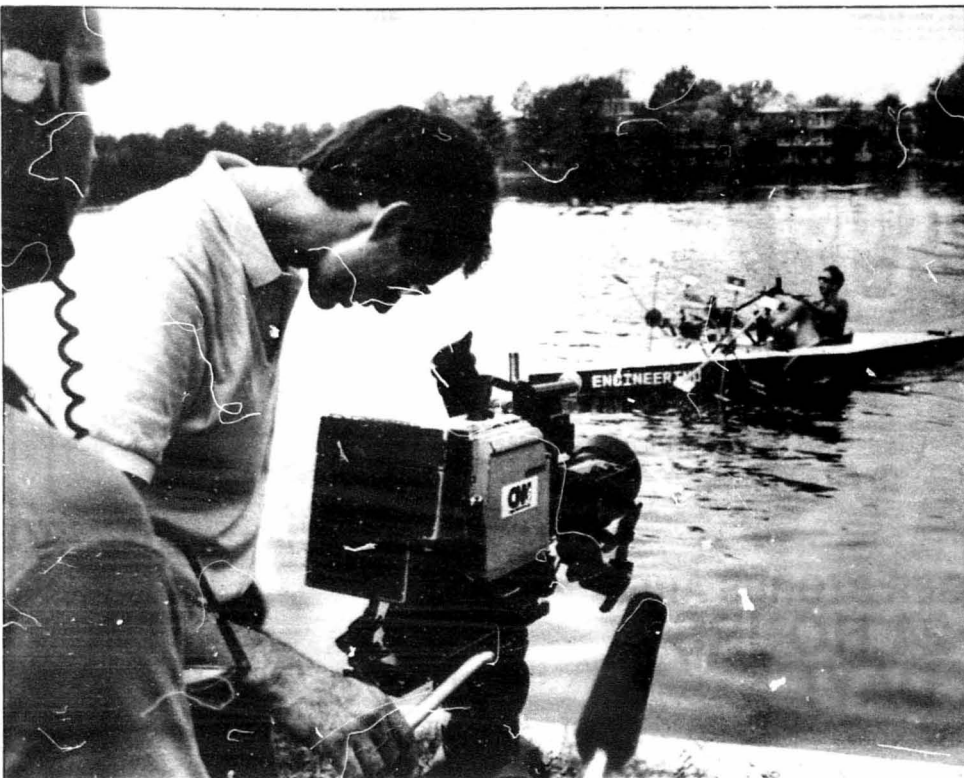

WHO'S TALKING crap

now? It always hurts to see intercollegiate athletics turned into something it wasn't intended to be, and this example is no exception. But a final reminder to Eastern fans and players — next year's game will be held at McAndrew Stadium. And Parker was right — the players still around for coach Dorr next season will remember. The fans will remember, and so will Wendy Hammer.

I WONDER IF the Panther mascot will make the trip to Carbondale next season? If the kitty does come down, it will provide SIU fans a chance for the ultimate victory — a win on the playing field and a sportsman-like conduct from the stands.

Then all the talk can be put where it belongs — in the litter box with all the rest of the crap.

U.S. garbage rates with Soviet navy

ABOARD THE USS CONSTELLATION, Gulf of Alaska (UPI) — A Soviet surveillance ship trailing the USS Constellation picked up garbage from the aircraft carrier this week to look for secrets, Navy officials said.

"We've got a picture showing the Soviet trawler picking up the garbage," Adm. Lyle Bull, commander of the six-ship carrier group, said. "Now why would they be picking up the garbage?"

Bull called the Soviet action "amazing" and joked, "We've got damn good garbage."

"We were in typical fashion getting rid of our garbage," Senior Intelligence Officer Joe Mazzafrò said in a Monday interview aboard ship. Garbage is put in plastic bags, punched through with holes to make it sink, and discarded at sea, he said.

One bag did not sink and a Soviet intelligence collector ship — "In plain words it's a spy ship" — that had been shadowing the Navy fleet sent out a small launch to retrieve the garbage, Mazzafrò said.

Officers with access to secret information aboard ship are under orders to destroy all classified information before discarding it, Bull said. Shredders are on board ship.

"It's unlikely that they found anything," Mazzafrò said of the Soviet scavenging effort. "But because we're a free society, we put all sorts of things that would be classified in the Soviet Union in the trash."

Registration drive hits a snag; financing rallies not a problem

By Bill Ruminski
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Organization registration drive suffered another setback. But it is only temporary.

Tuesday morning the USO lost the use of a registration table on the first floor of the Student Center.

"The registrars scheduled to work this morning didn't show up," said David Madlener, USO registration coordinator. "But that's been taken care of."

Student Center policy requires organizations to staff a table throughout the day, or forfeit the space.

However, Madlener said, "Things are looking up."

Madlener has the money to finance the remaining rallies scheduled for today and Sept. 30.

Last week the voter registration drive received donations from Fred's Dance Barn and the campaigns of Randy Patchett and Ken Gray. Fred's Dance Barr. donated $152. Patchett for Congress contributed $250 and Ken Gray's campaign gave $100.

Donations to the registration rallies were not solicited, Madlener said. He said calls from the political campaigns came last Wednesday following publication of a Daily Egyptian article discussing the drive's financial problems.

Randy Patchett and Kenny Gray figured since they were involved with the candidate rally they would help us out," he said. "Fred's called me over the weekend and asked me how much we needed."

Barrett Rochman, owner of Fred's Dance Barn, said the money was donated because registering students to vote is a way to get students to participate in politics.

"Registering people to vote is a good thing," Rochman said. "When I read that the drive was in trouble I called Mr. Madlener and asked 'How much do you need?' "he said. Madlener said most of the problems facing the drive have been worked out, but he needs a little more money.

"The kinks are working their way out," he said. "Everything will go as planned — unless of course it rains."

Jackson County residents will be able to register during the candidate rally in the Free Forum area today and the Sept. 30 rally that will feature a performance by the rock band Synthetic Breakfast.

Registration tables are also located in residence hall cafeterias between 4:30 and 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. The deadline to register for the Illinois general election is Oct. 3.

Handcuffed; Man drives 60 miles

FRISCO, Colo. (UPI) — With his hands cuffed behind his back, a suspect drove a stolen police car at speeds up to 105 mph about 60 miles through the Colorado Rockies before crashing into a trailer.

Police were amazed that the man, Claude Padilla Jr., 28, of Denver, could have driven the car at all, let alone as far and fast as he did.

"Don't ask me how you drive handcuffed," said State Police Lt. James Doughy. "I have no idea how he steered." Doughy said Padilla must have used his teeth and knees to steer.

Doughy said the incident began Sunday night when a Summit County deputy sheriff stopped Padilla for suspicion of drunken driving. After the suspect failed the roadside sobriety test, the officer handcuffed Padilla's arms behind his back, placed him in the passenger seat of the police car and went back to move Padilla's car off the highway.

The officer looked back and saw his own car speeding away down Interstate 70, heading west in eastbound lanes.

High-tech cyclist, writer packs it up

SEATTLE (UPI) — A high-tech nomad is packing all his "passions" into a 225-pound, 36-speed bike, complete with solar-powered computer systems, cassette players, a small TV, an electronic compass and ham and citizen-band radios.

The 8-foot-long "Winnebiko," free-lance writer Steve Roberts, 33, said during a stop Monday in Seattle, will allow him to compose while pedaling, as well as transmit text via radio.

Hoye files breach of contract suit against city

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

A disgruntled developer has filed a $7.25 million suit against the city for breach of contract over the proposed downtown convention center.

Developer Stan Hoye filed the suit in Jackson County Circuit Court on Tuesday. Hoye, who was the developer of the downtown project from the mid-1970s until 1984, is seeking compensation for accounting, underwriting, architectural, appraisal, consultant and legal fees and feasibility costs he claims to have incurred while working on the project. The suit also seeks restitution for "the loss of future profits to have been received from the project and the loss of business opportunities."

In an executive session

Monday night, the City Council discussed an out-of-court settlement proposed by Hoye, but took no action on the proposal.

Hoye's attorney, Charles Hines of Carbondale, said Wednesday that Hoye decided to file the suit after city officials rejected several proposals made by Hoye for a negotiated settlement to the problem. "There was almost a total lack of interest and a disregard of Mr. Hoye's attempt to enter into negotiations," Hines said. "For some reason, they elected not to have any meetings" with Hoye.

When asked about Hines' charges, Mayor Helen Westberg acknowledged that Hoye made overtures to city officials, but they chose not to act on them. Westberg declined to elaborate on Hoye's offers, citing the sensitive nature of the legal proceedings.

The city severed its development contract with Hoye in October 1984 after the city failed to acquire the land needed for the project. But it wasn't until September 1985 that a final agreement be-

Few attend political rally

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

Listening to politicians speak isn't a college favorite when it comes to a warm sunny day. Or so it would seem, judging from the few who attended a political rally Wednesday at the Free Forum area.

The rally, sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Organization, included representatives and candidates for county, state, and federal offices. As each spoke, a large number of people shuffled by, but few stopped to listen.

For candidates speaking to the assemblage, which peaked at about 15, it was a disappointment.

"I expected some apathy but not as much as there was," James Ness, Republican candidate for Jackson County Sheriff, said in a phone interview after the rally.

"I think they (the candidates) were all disappointed," he said.

It was an issue Ness' opponent agreed on.

"I was there at my time and nobody was there," Sherrif William Kilquist, Democratic candidate for Sherriff, said.

"A lot of the candidates said 'why should I even say anything,'" Kilquist said.

Times have changed since the late 1960s, Kilquist said. He said he remembers campaigning to a crowd of "thousands" in the same Free Forum area.

A voter registration table was set up along the sidewalk of the Free Forum area. No one was fighting to get at the table, but USO registered about 160 people, 100 more than the daily average since the voter registration drive began Aug. 27, according to USO President Phil Lyons.

Lyons said he was happy with the registration turnout, despite the lack of interest in the speakers.

"It's not how many people were there, it's the service that USO offers to students to make it easier and more accessible to vote," Lyons said.

Many of the students walking by the rally said they were not registered voters.

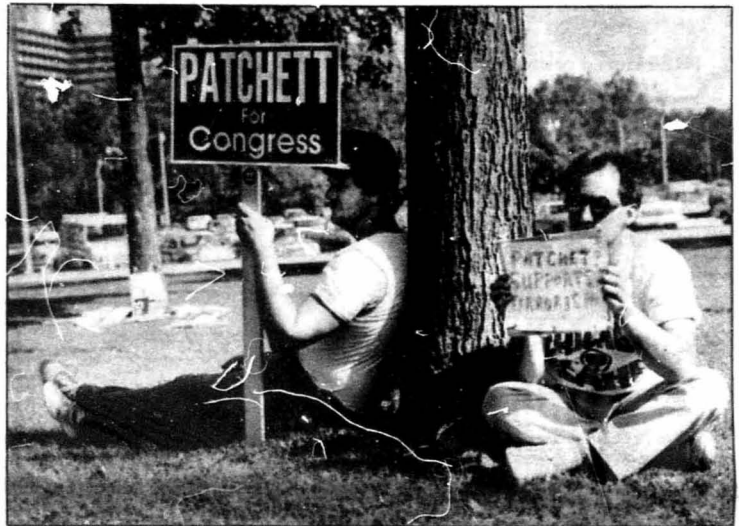

"I don't know about the issues," "I don't care," or "I will on the way to my next class," were a few of the responses.

Commenting on the small turnout, Madlener said most students are more concerned with "immediate, tangible things" but, he added, the rally at least turned some heads.

Opposing points of view were on display Wednesday at the Free Forum Area, the site of a political rally and voter registration drive. Matt Furchouser, left, of Lake of Egypt, shows

Soviets propose Daniloff solution

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, amid indications negotiations had reached a critical stage, said Wednesday the Kremlin has made "good proposals" to Washington to resolve the case of Nicholas Daniloff.

The Reagan administration, following two unannounced meetings Tuesday between Secretary of State George Shultz and Shevardnadze, was mum on the talks over the fate of the American journalist accused of spying in Moscow.

"I just don't want to talk about it," Shultz told reporters.

"We're working on it."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, traveling with President Reagan to Detroit, told reporters the standoff over Daniloff, a correspondent for U.S. News and World Report, "is not resolved."

Officials said no further meetings between Shultz and Shevardnadze had been scheduled and the two men went about their business at the U.N. General Assembly. Shevardnadze told reporters he would "not exclude" another but Shultz declined comment.

Asked if he had made new proposals, Shevardnadze said, "We gave them good proposals."

As to whether the problem could be resolved, he said: "Yes, yes. There is a possibility ... and the chance still remains." But he smiled and said the resolution remained "up to the American side."

Since arriving in Washington last week for top-level meetings with the administration, Shevardnadze has been saying the case could be resolved and left it up to the Americans.

New lawyer sought for hospital suit

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

A Carbondale lawyer who is suing Memorial Hospital of Carbondale and two nurses for more than $6 million after her infant died at the hospital is taking herself off the case and looking for an out-of-town lawyer.

"This is not my specialty and not my wife's specialty either," the baby's father, Ronald Isaacs, said. Isaacs is a third-year law student at SIUC. The baby's mother is Norma Beedle, a Carbondale lawyer.

The baby was born in the hospital June 20, 1985, and died there Nov. 3, 1985. Isaacs said the cause of death was kidney failure. He said the baby was born with only one kidney.

Beedle said the case would be too emotional for her to deal with properly.

Isaacs said the new lawyer could change anything in the suit, including monetary amounts and parties involved.

The suit alleges that two nurses, and the hospital did not provide the child, Elizabeth Beedle-Isaacs, with proper care and were negligent in handling the child.

"I think we have a very sad situation here," said George Maroney, hospital administrator.

"We have committed no wrong and our nursing staff has committed no wrong," he said. "Right now our reputation is on the line."

Maroney said he was unaware of the change in lawyers.

Isaacs said, "This is not all the nurses."

"There are nurses there that hate this sort of thing. They are very competent and they will go the extra mile, to get the job done."

The lawsuit, filed Sept. 18 in Jackson County Circuit Court, alleges:

— Some nurses didn't wash their hands regularly.

— Precautionary alarm systems on life-support equipment were sometimes turned off.

— Some nurses "regularly occupied themselves with needlepoint, books, and magazines ... instead of caring for the babies ...." Phone calls were also mentioned in the suit.

— Some nurses took breaks
