$3.1 million salary boost

Proposal restoring budget cuts made

By Rick Davis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, has prepared an amendment to SIU's budget appropriation bill which would restore all the cuts made by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

The amendment increases appropriations for personal services (salaries) at SIU from $47 million to $56 million, with an additional $3.1 million available for salary increases.

Choate's amendment also eliminates the need for tuition hikes.

The amendment, scheduled for House action next week, increases appropriations in the General Fund (state money) and decreases appropriations from the Income fund (tuition).

Thursday, the House Appropriations Committee again postponed its meeting on the Higher Education budget, reduced $17.9 million by Ogilvie.

Choate said he thought the delay was because the Republican majority "doesn't believe it has the necessary votes" to support Ogilvie's budget.

Choate's office indicated he may take his amendment to the House floor rather than moving for its adoption in committee because he is "pretty confident he has the votes on the floor for his amendment."

Rep. Richard Hart, D-Benton, a member of the Appropriations Committee, indicated that negotiations are underway between the governor, the universities and the governing boards of state universities on restoration of funds to the budget.

Postponement of the Higher Education budget by the committee was due to these negotiations, he said, and also to give amendments like Choate's time to go to committee.

He said he was in favor of restoring appropriations "for commitments made by universities to employees where they have entered into contracts."

There will probably be cutbacks in the total number of employees at universities if Ogilvie's budget cuts are approved, he said.

Ogilvie recommended in his budget a 4.5 per cent salary increase for state employees, below the Higher Board's 7.1 recommendation, causing some SIU personnel to fear personnel cutbacks.

Earlier this week, Local 878, a non-academic civil service employee union, said SIU would have to lay some employees off in order to honor contracts, which have been negotiated and signed for an approximate salary increase of eight per cent.

Rep. Richard Walsh, R-Oak Park, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said any increases in Ogilvie's budget through amendments like Choate's, would have to be funded "realistically" by imposing additional taxes.

He said the legislature, in the final analysis, is "not prepared to impose additional taxes" and indicated he thought they would go, "with deep regret," with the increased tuitions.

Walsh said he foresaw a "hectic weekend" before the bills for higher education budgets are recalled in the Appropriations Committee sometime next week.

The Choate amendment increases appropriations in SIU's budget as follows: personal services, from $47 million to $56 million; contractual services, $11,329 million to $11,729 million; travel, $681,000 to $710,000; commodities, $3,846,000 to $3,993,000; equipment, $4,967,000 to $5,132,000; operation of automotive equipment, $600,000 to $625,000.

More deferments abolished

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon abolished future occupational and fatherhood deferments from the draft starting Thursday; asked Congress for authority to abolish future student deferments; and urged an eventual end to the draft itself.

Nixon issued an executive order permitting men who now hold or have applied for occupational, agricultural or fatherhood deferments to keep or obtain them. But the order bars the granting of such deferments in the future to men who were not qualified for them before Thursday.

Approximately 10,600 SIU students may be affected by President Nixon's plan to abolish deferments. According to Evelyn Young, coordinator of campus Selective Service, that number of registrants were reported to draft boards fall quarter, the heaviest registration time.

The President also sent a message to Congress, seeking authority to impose a similar ban, under similar conditions, on deferments for students above the high school level.

The message strongly endorsed the unanimous conclusion of a commission headed by former Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates favoring a transition to an all-volunteer army.

Nixon said that in addition to the 6 per cent pay raise recently voted by Congress, he will propose another 20 per cent pay increase for enlisted men with less than two years of service, to take effect next Jan. 1.

His fiscal 1972 budget, he added, will contain a $2 billion request for added pay and other benefits for the military.

Nixon directed the secretary of defense to step up enlistment and re-enlistment programs and to see that the armed forces pay more attention to the "individual needs, aspirations and capabilities" of their personnel.

Spokesmen at a White House briefing declined to estimate when an all-volunteer army could be achieved or how big it would be.

But Nixon's message said that the draft "cannot be ended all at once" and that it would probably be necessary for Congress to extend authority for the draft beyond the present expiration date of July 1, 1971. A spokesman said an extension of at least two years would be needed.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., said he does not plan to have his House Armed Services Committee consider any draft legislation this year.

Embargo on mail without zip codes

The mail embargo is still on! At least mail without zip codes is being returned to senders for letters mailed to certain urban centers in the country.

Both the Campus Post Office and the Carbondale Post Office have been instructed to return mail without zip codes for selected areas:

New Jersey, 100-119; New Jersey, 070-089; Connecticut, 060-069; Michigan, 480-482; Pennsylvania, 150-152 and 189-194; Minnesota, 540 and 550-554; Wisconsin, 530-534, and Illinois, 600-606.

The embargo will be in effect for an indefinite time, according to postal authorities. Backup of mail as a result of the recent work is blamed for the embargo.

According to an announcement from the Campus and Carbondale Post Offices, all mail without zip codes for the areas listed above must be returned to the sender.

Statements published

Campaign statements of the seven candidates for student body president appear on pages 4 and 5 of today's Egyptian.

Statements of candidates for both vice presidential posts will be published Tuesday, and the statements of senatorial hopefuls will be printed in Wednesday's paper.

A report on the election forum held Thursday night in Trueblood Hall will appear in Saturday's Egyptian.

Transfer quota is filled for May

Officials at Selective Service Board 139 in Murphysboro said Thursday that its quota of transferred physicals has been filled for May.

Barbara Givens of the local board said many people including SIU students have had calls for physicals from their home boards transferred to Murphysboro. No more transfers can be handled before July since no physical notices will be sent out during the month of June, according to Miss Givens.

She recommended that students from Chicago write their home boards and ask for a delay of the physical until summer. "What they need to do is try and get a postponement of the physical," she said, "because we won't be able to reorder until July."

A big problem for the home board, the Murphysboro board and the individuals involved is that the majority of them will be returning home for the summer, she said. If their request for a transfer is granted, it would require a trip south during the summer rather than taking the examination at the home board.

Book rental manager dies after long illness

Henry T. "Heinie" Stroman, SIU textbook rental manager, died Thursday morning in Doctor's Hospital after a four-month illness. He was 58 years old.

Stroman, a resident and native of Makanda Township, joined the library staff in 1956. He had also been a lumber yard manager, timber buyer and construction superintendent before coming to SIU.

At an SIU track meet early this month Stroman was honored for over 30 years of voluntary service as a referee for University track and field events. A strong supporter of the SIU track team, Stroman attended Carbondale Community High School and SIU and was a member of the Elks Club.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. at Walker's Funeral Home in Carbondale. Graveside services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday afternoon in Oakland Cemetery.

The family has requested donations to the American Cancer Society in lieu of flowers.

arrange activities

Plans are being completed for the annual Baptist Student Union B-HI weekend April 24-26.

The theme for this year's activities is "Our World and Welcome to It." Its function is to acquaint interested junior and senior high school and junior college students with life at SIU in general, and Baptist student life at SIU in particular.

Tentatively the weekend's activities will include a hayride, conferences between present and prospective Baptist students, a tour of the SIU campus and a variety show.

Student awarded

James Kehrer, a senior in Home Economics, has won the first $250 Howard Johnson Scholarship. Kehrer expects to graduate in August with a specialization in food and nutrition and plans to enter the field of institution management.

Tom Busch

(Senior, Champaign, Action Party)

We believe that the primary reason for the existence of SIU is to serve the educational needs of the student body. This rather obvious truth has been distorted over the years by the administrators and the Board of Trustees. They apparently believe that the student exists for the University instead of the other way around. The Action Party believes that these people must be made aware that students are also people. And as people we must be guaranteed the same rights and privileges that any other citizen has. On Wednesday we will elect a student government, and it must serve as the main force for securing and protecting our rights as members of this university community. We, the Action Party, contend that student government has largely failed to function as a strong, reasonable, and effective voice for students. It is not primarily the elected student government officials who have failed. A logical examination of the history of student government here shows that the structure does not provide any strength for student opinion. Therefore, we as students must not perpetuate this system by electing leaders who offer no constructive alternative.

The 21 candidates on the Action Party ticket are pledging to alter the present form of student government. We don't promise you a magic solution to all our problems. However, we do offer a practical, workable plan for the creation of an Academic Senate which would insure a greater role for all students in directing their own lives. The Academic Senate would combine the already existing undergraduate Student Senate, the Graduate Student Council and the Faculty Council into one body that would be truly representative of the entire campus community. It would be much harder for the administration to ignore the numerical and moral force behind resolutions passed by such a body. This is no shadowy proposal for the future. It can be done, and done now.

Mike Ashby, Buzz Spector, and myself, the Action Party Executive candidates, ask you to examine our plan, as well as that of the other candidates, and make your own decision. We have purchased space in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian to present to you in detail our proposals and our qualifications, and we hope you will consider them. You can change things. We ask for your vote on April 29.

Michael Ellis

(Senior, Murphysboro, Majority Party)

A small but verbal minority has monopolized the student government for the past year and has gotten the student body precisely nowhere. The rodent and insect population of the city of Carbondale may have been reduced slightly but what has the student government done for you, the people which it is supposed to represent?

The Majority Party is betting that you have had it with the present student government.

The Majority Party is betting that you will not again be taken in by seemingly bona fide promises of now obviously narrow-minded and self-interested people intolerant committed to their own beliefs and opinions.

The Majority Party is offering you the very kind of student government that the party's name implies—a student government administered in the best interests of the student majority.

The very concept of a democratic government is majority rule. However, the concept of American democracy has always been a unique one. In this country democracy has meant government by and for the majority with special tolerance and protection afforded to special interest and minority groups.

The student government under the leadership of the Majority Party will indeed be a government devoted to the student majority's best interests, but special attention and consideration will be given to special interest and minority groups. Such is the way our democracy should function.

Initially the Majority Party will stabilize the campus. Student government must not be allowed to serve as a public forum for radicalism and unreason.

After the campus is stabilized and the administration's and the students' confidence in the student government is restored, the Majority Party will begin to build an effective government for you.

The present student government constitution must be thoroughly examined to make certain that it lends proper authority and effective methods for initiating constructive change in response to student opinion.

We will be constantly asking for your assistance and advice. We will need you to fill the many appointed positions in your student government. We will need your opinion to make certain that we are truly serving you as your duly elected representatives.

The Majority Party will constantly strive to make certain that SIU is a university that is effectively relevant to modern times. We will earn your respect and your interest.

We know that the time is more appropriate than ever before for you and the Majority Party.

David Kite

Just to set the record straight, I am running because a president makes lots of money and gets an air-conditioned office. I could close down the "sandbox" known as Student Government and Student Senate. My opponents' parties will collapse if not elected, but I have been apathetic for four years, and I will continue to be so regardless of the election outcome.

When the majority of the student body doesn't give a damn, the people in the "sandbox" are just playing a game for themselves. When the majority of students decide that they want a student government there will be one, whether or not the University provides the vehicle. Until such a time, it's not worth the effort.

There may be far better qualified candidates, but Mickey Mouse and Bullwinkle just aren't running.

Ellis J. May

(Junior, Rockford, Unity Party)

One of the priority issues at this university and in this country is the problem of racism. Racism is seen at all levels in our society. It is important for us to be aware of this and fight against the institutionalized and individual forms of racism prevalent in our community. In order to bring about human dignity and equality for all people, the degrading forms of oppression racially, economically and socially must be ended.

Another critical problem is that of poverty. Southern Illinois is a poverty pocket in our country with the University being a glaring contradiction to this. It is a land of plenty amongst a land of poverty. The University has the resources to provide more jobs and to give technical assistance to the blighted areas of our community reaching as far as Cairo. We as students must realize that we are part of this community. We are not a separate entity. The problems we have on campus as students are one in the same to those of the community, for the University only reflects its greater society. It is not a question of student rights but one of human rights. This means self-determination over our lives, which includes housing, women's hours, coed visitation, tuition and parking, just to name a few. Until we have this self-determination, we will never truly be regarded as human beings. Thank you.

Michael McGrail

Terry Piediscalzzi

Thomas P. Scherschel

I'm Michael McGrail and an independent candidate for the office of Student Body President. Along with me, I have John Bos for Vice President and Tim Berry for Vice President Student Activities.

If elected, I plan to work through the administration, not totally against it. The Student Senate is powerless since the administration can veto or just ignore any proposal the Senate passes. This has been demonstrated time after time in the past. I am for keeping ROTC and the Vietnamese Studies Center on campus. As of yet, I have seen no evidence as to why they should have to leave. Next year, certain organizations might have to finance themselves and not depend on Senate monies. Since I'm not running for mayor, my power will be for students first. I feel that any students or, as it is becoming more prevalent, non-students who cause destruction on campus, should get the book thrown at them. As president, I would like to have a university still standing here.

Some say the University is racist in its hiring practices. It's always convenient to apply for the job. The employer is not going to go door to door looking for someone. I will also make sure that there is a Homecoming next year after the disaster this past year.

What are some issues I consider vital? The overpass over Route 51 and the IC tracks is one. Unity says it took five years to get the funds and its the administration's fault. The fact that several governors froze the needed funds has escaped them.

More representation of students is needed in Student Government since supposedly it is to serve us. Too often the senators represent themselves or their small clique. Visitation can be brought up again with active student support, which is more than just signing a petition. Student representation to the Trustees and the administration can be brought about if the students try.

A sure sign of how hard the students are trying will be seen by how many students vote April 29. I hope I will get enough votes but get out and vote. It's your government you're electing.

Terry Piediscalzzi (Junior, Madison, Wis., Reform Party)

Why does only 35 per cent of the student body trust student government, while 47 per cent trust the administration? The answer is that student government has failed the students. For example, once a person is elected to the Student Senate, he is responsible to no one but the Senate. Every effort to have senators hold public meetings with their constituents has been soundly defeated. Student government must get back to the students.

When you read the other statements, ask yourself, how are they going to involve me in their goals. The answer is that they will not. They have not even bothered to consult you when they formulated their policies. Once they are elected they will work for their policies and ignore you.

What is needed is a candidate committed to involving students in the process of making and executing student policies.

Thirty-two per cent of the students feel that they have no say in the activities of student government. This is a symbol of student government's failure to reach students. Some say students will never become involved. If this is true, then student government is a farce and should be abolished.

I ask for one year to make a wholehearted attempt to reach students. Each week I will meet and talk to any and all students for as long as they like. I will push for changes in student government that will create more communication between student government and students. As student body president I will try to involve more students by working with as many students as possible. Finally, after a year's effort to improve student government, I propose to hold a referendum to allow students to vote on the future of student government.

Student government should be your government. I am the only candidate committed to you.

Tom Scherschel (Junior, Chicago, Student's Party)

Late in January of this year, there was a gathering of students in the University Center. Some were senators and others were aspirants to new on-campus organizations. Still, others were interested students from almost every living area at SIU.

Their conversation was informal and the topic was problems at SIU. The problems were many, and one idea stood out very plainly, that was, if SIU was ever again to become a peaceful and beautiful campus, the people down here at SIU had to quite thinking of themselves as Greeks, hippies, vets, militants, freaks, blacks, whites, radicals, liberals, conservatives etc. . . and start thinking of each other under one heading first, that is "students"—groups of young men and women with a common goal. All the points that separated these groups and held them back from working together had to be minimized, and new emphasis had to be put on the needs and desires that are common to everyone at SIU.

Thus the Student's Party was formed and its goals drawn up to include the needs of all students such as opening up one half of campus drive for parking during the day and blacktopping all existing parking lots, increasing bus service to commuting and VTI students, expanding medical services to the Brush Tower and U. Park area, replacing all worn facilities at VTI, repairing and remodeling all lounges in the Thompson Point area, improving relationships between the University and the community, requiring closer inspection of secondary housing off campus, to mention only a few.

In the past year at SIU the theme has been unrest and agitation between the administration and the students. Right now is the time when the administration and the students need most to come together to demonstrate their protest against the governor's "freeze" on funds to universities and his order to increase tuitions at state schools. Many students at SIU lead a financially marginal existence as they have only the three summer months to earn enough money to put themselves through school and pay their expenses. Now that the tuition has doubled, those students, who found it difficult this year, will find it close to impossible next year.

The resolution of such issues is dependent upon the willingness and ability of administrators and students to see each other's point of view. Once this is accomplished we can end the war on campus, too.

Annual meeting planned for local U.N. chapter

The annual meeting of the Southern Illinois Chapter of the United Nations Assoc. (UNA-USA) will be held at the Student Christian Foundation, Sunday, Mrs. Wayne A.R. Leys, president of the group has announced.

The speaker at the international buffet will be Albert Badre, professor of economics at SIU, whose topic will be "The Hammarskjoldian Concept of the United Nations and Its Testing in Lebanon and the Congo."

Badre has held several posts with governmental agencies in Lebanon and the United Nations as well as various academic positions.

Mrs. Milton McLean is heading the arrangements committee for the dinner, and Mrs. David Clarke is in charge of decorations, accenting the festive international air of the meeting.

The new slate of officers as well as a report on the past year's activities will be presented.

SIU offers nature workshops

SIU will offer two related two-week workshops this summer designed to help expedite conservation and outdoor education programs in schools, parks, recreation areas and nature centers.

An outdoor education workshop, to be held June 15-26, will focus on developing philosophies and strategies for school curricula outside the school building.

The workshop in conservation and outdoor education June 29-July 10 will acquaint teachers and administrators with ecology and conservation. Sessions will be held at the SIU Outdoor Laboratory.

Four hours of graduate credit will be given for each workshop. The staff is composed of Paul Nowak, chairman of the Department of Conservation and Outdoor Education, and Robert Christie, instructor in the department.

The workshop in conservation and outdoor education June 29-July 10 will acquaint teachers and administrators with ecology and conservation. Sessions will be held at the SIU Outdoor Laboratory.

Drug program planned
A program about drug abuse will be presented at 9 p.m. Tuesday, at 600 West Freeman, residence hall. The program will consist of the film, "LSD - Trip or Trap," followed by an informal question and answer period.

Captain Kirk of the SIU Security Police will be present to discuss and to answer questions about the drug issue.

Inflation rises, slow down seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Inflation took another sizzle out of each $10 bill in March.

The Labor Department has announced that living costs rose five-tenths of 1 per cent, extending the fastest price advance in 20 years. Big new increases in doctor bills and mortgage interest rates helped inflate the index.

Officials saw some hope for a slowdown somewhere ahead, however. Automobile and gasoline prices declined, food costs moved up more slowly, and after adjusting the figures for seasonal variations, the increase in consumer prices was four-tenths of 1 per cent.

That was a bit smaller than February's five-tenths of 1 per cent seasonally adjusted increase and better than the six-tenths of 1 per cent increases recorded in each of the three preceding months.

There had been hope for a more convincing price slowdown, because wholesale prices in March showed the smallest increase in seven months.

Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told reporters the inflation rate as reflected in the new Consumer Price Index was "still significant, though there has been some easing from the late fall and early winter."

The index rose to 133.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average. This was 6.1 per cent above a year ago. It meant that a typical city family must pay $13.32 to buy the same assortment of goods and services that cost $10 in 1957-59. Although rank-and-file workers made some gains in per cent below the record high take-home pay in March, the consumer price bulge wiped out the gain and left their real spendable earnings just about unchanged from February. The real earnings were six-tenths of 1 per cent below a year earlier and 2.8

About 44,400 workers in the airline, aircraft and aerospace, interstate transit, and other industries will receive pay increases based on the low 8 percent climb of the index.

'Encore 70' premiere Carrying cross 2,600 miles

Phi Mu Alpha, SIU's professional music fraternity, is sponsoring a musical variety show titled "Encore 70," today and tomorrow at 8 p.m., at Muckelroy Auditorium in the Agriculture Building.

Gary Blackwell, co-chairman of the event, said there will be a wide variety of talent featured in the show, ranging from a Johnny Cash-style folk singer, to the Angel Flight Dancers.

The Angel Flight Singers will also perform, singing selections from the Broadway musicals, "Porgy and Bess," "The Smell of the Greasepaint the Roar of the Crowd," "The Sound of Music" and others. Also planned is a special medley of instrumental "pop" tunes performed by the Phi Mu Alpha members.

The object of the show, according to Blackwell, is to entertain the audience, but also give the Phi Mu members some experience in performing before a live audience.

Tickets are $1.25 and can be purchased at the music office in Altgeld Hall and the Information Desk at the University Center.

Congratulations sent from Russian conductor

Pozdraute Geroev Kosman-atev Apoloon 13 i splen- niem nmegaia leta oratorii profekieva vashim Studen Cheskim borem.

Stasevitch is Abram Stasevitch, famed Soviet conductor, who sent the telegram to Herbert Marshall, director of the Center for Soviet and East European Studies in the Performing Arts.

In translation the telegram reads, "Congratulations the heroic cosmonauts of Apollo 13 and the performance of 'Long Life' in the Oratorio of Prokofiev by your student's choir."

The telegram, received this week, referred to the most recent Apollo mission and to the Edwardsville Student Choir which participated in the performance of "Long Life" on the Prokofiev Oratorio.

In 1968 Stasevitch was guest conductor at the St. Louis Symphony at the world premiere of Prokofiev's "Ivan the Terrible," an oratorio based on the music Prokofiev wrote for a film by Sergei Eisenstein. The Edwardsville chior took part and Marshall, who wrote the English translation, narrated.

Stasevitch has been invited by the St. Louis Symphony to conduct Shostakovich's recent work, "The Execution of Stepan Razin," in 1971. The verse, by Yevgeny Yehuskenke, has been translated into English by Marshall.

Preacher stops trek here

An ordained but unorthodox Baptist minister will visit Carbondale Saturday on his walk across the nation.

Arthur Blessit, who works with drug addicts and run-aways on the Sunset Strip in Los Angeles, will speak twice here.

With the help of four friends, Blessit is moving a 10-foot high, 80-pound cross from Los Angeles to Washington, where he expects to have a mass prayer rally at the Washington Monument July 18-19. Blessit's family is traveling with him by car. They left Los Angeles on Christmas Day.

The 2600-mile walk was begun to emphasize the need for national and spiritual re- newal, according to Blessit. He has asked American youth to "turn on to Jesus and stay loaded 24 hours a day."

Blessit will speak at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on the mall between Wheeler Hall and the Home Economics Building, where he will be accompanied by a rock band.

Saturday evening at 6:30 Blessit will speak at Walnut Street Baptist Church. "The Changing Times," an SIU student folk group, will sing.

Proposal restoring budget cuts made

Choate said he is against Ogilvie's proposal to double tuitions at state universities "on such short notice" because it would be a "great hardship for many students and their families."

Hart opposed tuition increases on the grounds that the Higher Board "had a long range plan for tuition increases based on projection. 'I am not in sympathy with rejecting these after such a long study was made. . . I am not in sympathy with such a summary decision based on some kind of budget projection rather than ability of people to pay.'"

He said the Higher Board recommendation, not to increase tuition for in-state students but to maintain an earlier decision to increase out-of-state tuition by approximately $100 next fall, "shouldn't be rejected unless their studies are shown to be flagrantly wrong. . . and I haven't seen any reason why their recommendations should be rejected."

Walsh said that even with tuition increases, schools would be hard put to honor contracts without cutbacks in personnel. The Appropriations Committee might, as one possibility, draw up an amendment which would abolish some tuition waivers at universities, he said.

Calling Ogilvie's budget "balanced," the chairman said it also involved priorities. He cited increased demands on the state ($185 million more for public aid, $85 million more for elementary and secondary schools) as reasons for tuition increases.

Walsh also said tuitions in Illinois are lower than in many states. The problem of universities meeting their negotiated increases in salaries, he said, is under consideration by the Appropriations Committee. He said many schools have negotiated contracts for more than Ogilvie has appropriated.

Absentee voting Saturday, Sunday

"Absentee" voting will be conducted between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the student government office (T-39) for students who are unable to vote on campus in the April 29 student government election, according to Rhonda Starnes, elections commissioner.

The absentee voting policy is designed to accommodate student teachers and other students who will be away from campus on the day of the election.

The policy was adopted by the Student Senate at its April 15 meeting, along with several other amendments to the election laws.

The other changes included a provision requiring that petitions for student government positions be turned in to the elections commissioner two weeks before regularly scheduled elections, and one week before special Senate elections.

SIU students attend teach-in

A class of SIU conservation students will participate in Washington University's teach-in activities beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, April 25.

Workshops will be set up to look at problems of pollution, waste disposal and over-population.

Problems of survival will be the concern of speakers such as conservationist Barry Commoner and entertainer Eddie Albert. The speeches will commence at 8 p.m. Sunday, at the Field House of Washington University.

Free buses for the conservation students enrolled in GSA 312 will depart at 6 a.m. Saturday from the parking lot west of Lawson Hall, and will return at 12 midnight. Other students must provide their own transportation, according to Eugene LeFebvre, assistant professor of zoology, who is coordinating the event.

Book money given

Students who brought books to sell at the Student Government book sale may pick up their money in the Student Government Office today and Saturday.

Selective service corrections due

The Office of the Registrar, Selective Service Division, announced that all new, re-entry and transfer students at SIU this quarter have received a student copy of the enrollment information to be sent to selective service boards.

French troupe 'enjoyable' but not understood

By Ingrid Torver
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

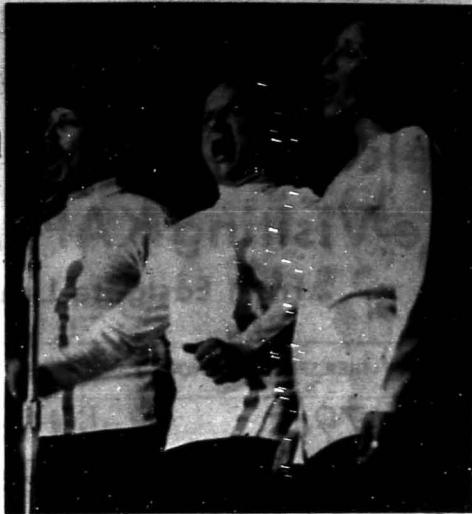

The Paris Rive Gauche, a delightful French troupe, performed well on the stage of the SIU Arena Thursday, but the performance didn't come across well with the audience.

Twelve of the 13 melodies were sung in French and few in the audience benefited from the humorous lyrics.

The voices of Paul Villaz, Pia Colombo, Bernard Haller and Jacques Marchais did blend well. Each showed enthusiasm during the numbers and performed exceptionally well during duets and solos.

The mood of the performance was keyed to each song and moved from French revolutionary melodies to themes of love and romance.

An hilarious solo recitation in English, by Bernard Haller during the earlier part of the program, captivated the audience as he described a scene between students and a professor prior to, during and after an examination.

Jacques Marchais proved himself an excellent guitarist whether accompanying himself or someone else.

The vibrant voice of Pia Colombo was captivating.

Paul Villaz enchanted the audience with a song about a land where "flowers grow upside down."

All in all, the performance was an enjoyable one. It is too bad most of the audience was not able to enjoy the entire program. Perhaps song should not ignore national boundaries.

Association to perform here tonight at 8

Tickets are still available for tonight's Association concert, according to Dean Justice, manager of the SIU Arena. The Association will appear at 8 p.m. in the SIU Arena.

Student tickets are $3 and $3.50 and for the general public, $3, $3.50 and $4. Persons buying tickets at the door should be at the Arena around 7 p.m., when the box office opens.

SIU students with discount tickets are reminded that they must show their I.D.s at the door.

Justice estimates that about 6,000 people will attend the concert, based on first-day ticket sales of 2,500 on campus.

The Association is a group

The Association

"whose records are not indicative of the personal style they project on stage," according to Justice. His office has been in contact with other campuses who have featured The Association, and the response has been enthusiastic.

"They are real entertain-

Keene is Hope Chest head

Carbondale Mayor David Keene has been named the 1970 chairman of the MS Hope Chest Campaign in Carbondale, according to Herbert Holland, chairman, St. Louis Area Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Scheduled to open on Mother's Day, May 10, the appeal will seek funds to support needed services for MS patients and their families in the area, and professional and public education.

"The annual MS Hope Chest Campaign is our major fund raising event of the year," Mayor Keene said. "We urgently need men and women who can spare a few hours to help raise funds for this promising research and for our chapter's programs for MS patients and their families."

Persons who wish to volunteer their services for the 1970 MS appeal should contact the mayor at 549-5302.

Students teach at state parks

Students from SIU, the University of Illinois, Western and Northern Illinois Universities will teach children of campers this year about their environment.

Illinois Beach, Chain-O-Lake, Rock Cut, Kankakee River, Starved Rock, Pere Marquette and Fort Massac State Parks will give campers aged seven through 14 something new.

For a day the children will have a chance to participate in 22 different activities at each park, including canoe-

Student and prof attend conference

Manfred Landecker, associate professor of government, and four SIU students attended the 32nd Annual Public Affairs Conference last weekend at Principia College in Elmhurst. The conference was a discussion on the Middle East Crisis. The conference was attended by representatives from 55 colleges and universities.

The four students were Cynthia Sasko and Lynda Lee Kaid, seniors majoring in speech and members of SIU's varsity debate team, and Judd Holder and David Randerson, seniors majoring in government and members of ROTC.

of this university, the two terms are not mutually exclusive.
We believe that student rights and human rights are the same.
The most basic right of any human being is the right to control his own life, and we are tired of administrative rhetoric which seeks to disguise a "legal totalitarian state".

Students are people, too.
On April 29, you will elect a student government to protect your rights as members of this university community.
It may be fairly said that up to this point student government has largely failed to function as a strong, reasonable, and effective voice for the student.
We believe the primary fault to lie with the present structure of student government.
We must not elect officials who will perpetuate this system.
It can be changed.

There is a logical alternative.

We propose a new form for university government, which would ally the already existing, but totally independent, councils of the citizens of this academic community.

We intend to establish an Academic Senate composed of representatives from the undergraduate Student Senate, the Graduate Student Council, and the Faculty Council.
The combined and unified voice of this new Academic Senate would consolidate the power of all three bodies.
It would be much harder for the Administration to ignore the numerical and moral force behind resolutions passed by such a body.
Representing, as it would, every segment of this University, the Academic Senate would provide a countervailing power to the immense and unchecked authority of the Administration.
We don't promise you a magic solution to all our problems.
We do offer you a practical, workable way to obtain a greater role in directing your own life.

This is no shadowy proposal for the future

It can be done. Now

We need, and we ask for, your vote on April 29.

New SIU spring sport

Windy weather prompts high-flying fun

By Karen Ramp
Student Writer

A new spring sport for some SIU students is blowing in the wind—kite flying.

The recent windy weather has prompted some to try the sport. Emma Schieles, a junior from Chicago, said she enjoys kite flying because "it gives me a feeling of freedom and power. It makes me wish that I could be up there on the end of that string instead of the kite."

Charles Gray, a graduate student from Decatur, enjoys kite flying because "it gives me a feeling of accomplishment and freedom to get that kite into the air. It's a challenge."

SIU students are not the only ones who enjoy kite flying. It is the national pastime of the Koreans, Chinese, Japanese and Malaysians. No one is certain where and when kite flying originated, but Asian peoples have been using kites for as long as history has been recorded.

There are a few things to remember about flying a kite. According to Rafael Colmenares, a student at the Center for English as a Second Language, the length of the tail is important, as this keeps the kite from being too light and difficult to control. Colmenares, who made kites when he was a boy, said, "The tail should be from eight to ten feet long. The higher the wind, the longer the tail should be." He added that the string should be transferred onto a stick and the string should be waxed to keep it from tangling.

According to Gray, "the paper kites, seem to fly better than those made of plastic, because the paper seems to breathe, to be more porous. This seems to let the air flow through the kite better and lets it fly better."

An open area, free from high power wires and trees is necessary when flying a kite. Some good on-campus kite flying areas include, the area around the SIU Arena, McAndrew Stadium and Pulliam Hall. However, some students prefer to fly their kites at Crab Orchard or Little Grassy lakes.

Next time someone tells you to "go fly a kite," try it—it can be a lot of fun.

SIU holds education seminar

An educational seminar to help school officials, sponsored by SIU, will be held April 29 at the Marion Holiday Inn.

Objectives of the seminar, called Educational Administrative Seminar in Planning, Programming, Budgeting, and Evaluation Systems, are to aid in identification of goals and objectives, development of programs to reach the stated goals and objectives, determination of methods of evaluating programs in terms of the objectives and resources, replanning of programs, and long-range planning.

Expected to attend are school board members, superintendents, assistant superintendents, school business officials, county superintendents and staff, and other concerned school people.

New cheerleaders selected

Markham. Carol Schober, freshman from Indianapolis, Ind.; and Melissa Sitter, freshman from Arcola, according to Sarah Cotton, instructor in physical education.

Mrs. Cotton said each girl was required to perform two SIU cheers and one of their own.

SIU Faculty News Briefs

The SIU agriculture faculty has two members with research articles appearing in current professional journals.

Appearing in the March issue of Weed Science is an article on "Effect of Nitrogen Form on Simazine Accumulation in Corn, Soybeans and Rye," co-authored by James A. Tweedy, SIU associate professor of plant industries, and former graduate student William D. McReynolds, now a doctoral student at Michigan State University.

George Waring, assistant professor of animal industries, has a technical article on "Sound Communications of Black-tailed, White-tailed, and Gunnison's Prairie Dogs" published in recent issue of The American Midland Naturalist. The report is based on Waring's doctoral studies in Colorado before joining the SIU faculty.

Royce R. Bryant, acting dean of the School of Home Economics, represented SIU at the Centennial Convocation of Loyola University in Chicago recently.

Bryant also represented SIU at the inauguration of John J. Wittich as President of MacMurray College in Jacksonville.

Three faculty members in the SIU College of Education, Cleo Carter and Bernice Seifert of the Department of Student Teaching and Madelyn Treece of University School, recently attended the meeting of the Illinois Association of Higher Education at Illinois State University.

Mrs. Seifert moderated a panel discussion and was elected to the board of the IAHE Educational Improvement Fund.

JoAnne Thorpe, associate professor of physical education at SIU, has been elected vice president of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation (AAHPER) at the organization's 85th anniversary convention in Seattle. She will take office at the 1971 convention in Detroit.

Miss Thorpe, who has been on the faculty of the SIU Department of Physical Education since 1958, also was named chairman-elect of the Division for Girls' and Women's Sports and a member of the association's board of directors for 1971-72. The AAHPER is an affiliate of the National Education Association.

Brent Kington, associate professor of art at SIU, and two other members of the Department of Art, William Fuhurmann and Elliott Pujol, have pieces of art displayed at the GOLDSMITH '70 national craft competition exhibition at the Minnesota Museum of Art in Minneapolis.

Kington, chairman of the Society of North American Goldsmiths conference, which took place in conjunction with the opening of the exhibition, is president of the newly formed Society of North American Goldsmiths.

"Laboratory Experiments in Exercise Physiology," a book co-authored by SIU Physiology Department Chairman Harold Kaplan, has been published by Prentice-Hall.

The other coauthors are C. W. Zauner and W. B. Stainsby of the University of Florida faculty.

Kaplan said it is the first such book of its kind in the growing field of exercise physiology.

D. W. Slocum and T. R. Engelmann of the SIU Department of Chemistry had a research paper published in the December issue of the Journal of Organic Chemistry.

The paper is entitled "An Analysis of Diastereotopic Protons in the 2-Halo Dimethylaminomethylferrocenes." It concerns new approaches to the analysis of NMR spectra of dissymmetric protons.

During the main portion of the work, Engelmann was the holder of a NASA fellowship.

David T. Kenney, director of the Public Affairs Research Bureau at SIU, has written a book titled "Basic Illinois Government: A Systematic Explanation," designed for use in college government courses.

Kenney's book is expected to be of interest to delegates to the Illinois Constitutional Convention. Copies are being purchased by Con-Con for each delegate. Kenney himself is a delegate to the convention from the 56th district.

By utilizing maps, charts and other media, Kenney has illustrated the effects that past Con-Cons have had on the State of Illinois.

"Inscape," a selected bibliography of paperback books on crime, has been published by SIU.

The 33-page brochure was compiled by Richard Vandiver of the Department of Sociology faculty with the assistance of Jacqueline Lewis, a research assistant at the SIU Crime Study Center.

The National Catholic Business Education Association awarded its Presidential Award to Charles J. Woelfel, an SIU associate professor of accounting. The plaque was awarded at the association's annual convention in Atlantic City, N.J.

The citation stated that the award was given for "distinguished service to business education and to the National Association." Woelfel served as national president of the Catholic Business Education Association during 1966-68 and was editor of the quarterly Business Education Review from 1962 to 1966. His regular column in the Review entitled "The Critic's Corner" has received national acclaim.

Choral group holds concert

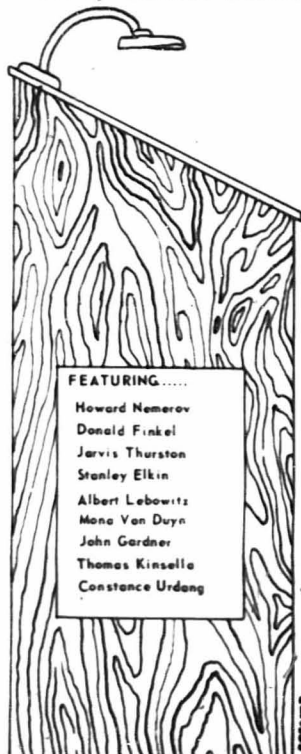

The Women's Ensemble choral group will hold their spring concert at 3 p.m. May 3, in the Home Economics Auditorium.

The oratorio, "Strabat Mater" by G. B. Pergolesi will be the featured presentation. The composition depicts the story of Mother Mary at the cross.

Soloists for the concert will be Betty Garrett, alto; Brenda Brown, soprano, and Catherine Wanaski, alto. The group is under the direction of Charles C. Taylor, professor of music.

Art exhibit opens today

Jewelry, weavings and sculpture will be exhibited today through Thursday in the Mitchell Gallery, Home Economics Building. Mrs. Edna Kaufman and William Richmond are the artists.

Mrs. Kaufman, from Haifa, Israel, has earned two awards in SIU's Fine Arts Festivals and received the SIU Tuition Award for 1967-68. Jewelry and weavings are her specialties.

Richmond, of Willmette, has exhibited in several Mid-West competitions and had a private showing at Evansville University in 1969. He will exhibit sculpture composed of wood, carpeting, leather, metal pipe and polyurethane foam.

The exhibit is open to the public free of charge weekdays from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. A reception will be held from 6:30-8:30 p.m. Sunday. Refreshments will be served.

Apathetic

When silence may not be golden

By Dick Gregory
Wade Allen Syndications

It is at once odd and sad that both blacks and whites in America today are just beginning to realize the high price one must pay for the privilege of apathy and silence. History seems to have a way of turning the tables in its repetition, and those who choose to ignore the horrors of one historical era can almost expect to be the victims of the same horror the second time around.

In the black community today, one hears the repeated observation, "It looks like this country is fixin' to practice genocide." That observation merely illustrates that ignorance knows no color distinction. Just go up to the Indian reservation some day and ask my red brother how long this country has been known for its ability to not only practice but enforce genocide. America has always practiced genocide. She is now merely "fixin'" to expand her group. And the sad truth of the matter is that black folks sat by for years and watched this American system oppress and destroy the Indians without raising a voice of outraged protest. If black folks did not protest the system's genocide against the Indian, they can hardly be surprised when the same system becomes openly genocidal against blacks.

One must pay a high price for being silent. Silence is the friend of oppression, and when the silence is broken in the name of justice, the oppressor will always seek to restore it by repression and imprisonment. I imagine there were many good thinking Germans in Germany during the days of Hitler's rise to power, who stood silently by and watched the Nazis have a field day because they were afraid to open their mouths. But one day they looked up in the sky and saw the bombers open up on Berlin. It must have been a terrible realization that not one of those falling bombs was labeled, "For bad Germans only."

White folks in America are just beginning to fully realize the terrible price one must pay for silence. Twenty years ago, when the crime syndicate was restricting its dope pushing activity to black ghettos, black parents cried out to white America, "Please stop those syndicate hoodlums from pushing reefer and heroin to young black kids." But white America looked the other way. Little did white America realize that if it permitted the syndicate hoodlums to push dope to young black kids without fear of reprisal, it would only be a matter of time before the same hoodlums would be pushing dope to young white kids.

Now it is white America's turn to live with the tragic results of an earlier silence. Newspaper editorials and magazine feature stories are finally recognizing the terrible problem of narcotics—now that young white kids are becoming addicted. Some of white America's most prominent families—in government, in the entertainment industry, in high society—have been touched by narcotics addiction. Yet it is odd to notice that narcotics addiction in the black community has decreased during the last decade according to statistics of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. A decrease has resulted in spite of the silence and apathy of the white community.

It is also ironic that dope addiction has traditionally been a problem only in the most impoverished black communities. Middle and upper middle income black families, those who benefited from higher education and good jobs, seldom had to worry about their kids being hooked on dope. Black kids who suffered most from addiction were the children of poverty stricken, uneducated black folks.

Now that it is white folks' turn to be plagued by the horrors of dope addiction, it is the children of upper income families who are getting hooked. Young white kids in Appalachia are not turning on and getting high. Odd, isn't it, that when it comes to dope addiction at least white folks' best seems to equal black folks' worst.

When the tables of history turn, those who have been silent cannot seem to comprehend the consequences of their silence. For years, white folks stood by in silent approval as buses were used to transport white kids and black kids in the interest of maintaining segregated schools. Now that busing is being used as a strategy to promote school integration, white folks act like black folks invented buses.

President Nixon extols the virtues of the silent majority and, in his inaugural address, urged the nation to lower its voice. Vice President Agnew condemns loud voices of protest and Attorney General Mitchell tries to silence them. Daniel Patrick Moynihan urges a policy of "benign neglect" and a shroud of silence over the race issue.

But if silence does prevail, one cannot help wondering who will prove to be history's ultimate victims.

Debaters end season

The SIU debate team ended its season last weekend with a 4-4 record at the National Debate Tournament in Houston.

SIU's debate team of seniors, Cyndy Sasko and Lynda Lee Kaid, missed making the elimination round of the tournament by only one ballot. The team finished in the top 20 of 50 teams.

The SIU team defeated Boston College, Emory University, George Washington University and one of Wyoming's two teams. SIU lost to San Fernando Valley State University, UCLA, Kansas State University at Emporia and Wyoming's second team.

The tournament marked the end of the debate season except for the debate team's banquet which will be in May. Miss Sasko indicated that they will also assist the Department of Agriculture's debate team.

Group seeks to curb TV violence

Formation of national organization proposed

By Copley News Service

NEW YORK —Church leaders and members across the country are being urged to campaign for formation of a national organization to bring pressure on Congress, government agencies and the broadcasting industry to curb irresponsible displays of violence on television.

The organization—in the form of a strong national commission, council or agency—would represent major segments of the general public in safeguarding the rights, interests and concerns of TV audiences and in exerting influence on government and industry to encourage improved programming.

The proposal for such an organization was made by the Commission on Research and Social Action of the American Lutheran Church in a report on "Violence in Television Programming."

Its "statement of analysis, concern and proposed action" has been approved by the executive committee of the denomination's national council and referred to the membership at large for approval. Throughout its report the commission made it clear that it does not oppose all presentations of violence on television, preferring to urge a "balanced, whole, unfragmented analysis of man's nature and his capabilities as well as the requirements of an orderly, effectively functioning society."

The report said that because TV is a powerful social force, there needs to be a distinction between actual and fictional portrayals of violence. Studies of available material indicate, it explained, that the more closely a viewer sees a picture as representing a real situation, the more likely it is to affect his attitudes and behavior.

Therefore, the commission recommended the establishment of criteria for handling conflict more positively than through violent situations as they usually are portrayed. The presentation of actual events calls not just for accuracy, it said, but also for a balance between the right of public access to information and the danger of inflaming an issue or invading privacy.

In fictional situations, the commission pointed to a need for a sense of proportion in relation to other programs and to life as a whole. There also is a need, it added, for portrayals of a variety of responses to injustice and frustration—not just violence. The commission said its report was written on the assumption that violence is defined as "the amoral aggressive use of physical force, bringing bodily injury to persons or damage to or destruction of their property."

But the definition really should go beyond that, it said, to include psychic injury, any systematic degradation or dehumanization of any people because of race, religion, national origin or socio-economic status, and any unbalanced pictures of life that create false and misleading impressions.

Cookies delayed

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A work stoppage by Teamsters Union Local 600 has kept nearly 1.5 million boxes of Girl Scout cookies locked away in a St. Louis warehouse for 22 days.

The cookies, 35 truckloads of them, rolled into St. Louis March 31, the day before 9,500 Teamsters walked off the job.

Within this context, the commission expressed a deep concern over "the possible effects which the portrayal of violence may have upon the attitudes and actions of viewers and upon social values." Violence is essentially a poor and ineffective, even self-defeating way of handling conflict, the report said, adding that it may lead to an insensitivity toward the problems of others and even to "an immunization of people and society against the just claims of others."

The commission also recognized that the "threat to use force may be absolutely necessary for a just social order," but it warned that force used as a last resort to maintain order or secure and preserve cherished values would appear to sanction the use of violence and could stimulate a violent reaction.

Proposed tuition increases smaller in Illinois than neighboring states

SPRINGFIELD—Tuition increases proposed for Illinois students in state colleges will not reach the level of 14 comparable schools in neighboring states, according to John W. McCarter Jr., director of the Illinois Bureau of the Budget.

McCarter said the increases will average $163 per student. Total tuition will be 13 per cent less than comparable schools out of state, he continued.

In terms of a student's total budget, he said, the increases tuition amounts to between 8 and 10 per cent more for a year.

Calling the increases "reasonable," McCarter detailed reasons behind the proposal, including these:

"Our state tax system is regressive—it extracts more dollars in proportion to income from the poor than from the wealthy.

"Subsidies resulting from low tuition tend to go disproportionately to students from higher income families.

"With the current combination of low tuition and high tax subsidy from regressive taxes, we find many lower and middle income taxpayers whose children will never attend a university are paying for the higher education of children from more affluent families."

Both the state scholarship and student loan programs will be expanded to help needy students, the budget director said.

One effect of the increases will be to correct the imbalance between tuition costs at private and public institutions, McCarter said.

Under the present "pricing bias," he continued, "students flocked to public institutions, and many private colleges found themselves losing students. The current crisis in private higher education may be a crisis induced in large part by public higher education."

"The analysis that led to the decision to shift more of the burden from the taxpayer to the student is complex. We cannot claim that we have found definitive answers to all of the difficult questions involved.

"But we can say that the answer to the basic question is clear: the primary beneficiary should pay more. Tuition is a user fee, pure and simple. It is a fee that puts the burden of cost on the person who receives the direct benefits."

Although the proposed tuition charges are designed to pay 25 per cent of direct operating costs, they will amount to less than one-tenth of the budgets requested by public institutions, McCarter said.

Job demands decrease for local water hauler

Morte Lodd
Student Writer

As the weblike network of water lines spreads over the Carbondale countryside, jobs for "water haulers" become fewer and fewer.

"It is an occupation that is slowly dying out. Each year I lose a few more customers," said Orville Forby. Weekdays he is a salesman and evenings Forby hauls water in a 1,000 gallon tank on the bed of his dump truck. He gets the water at Carbondale's water plant on south Wall street.

Forby started hauling water part-time seven years ago. At the peak of business he had over 100 customers, but less than half that number want water hauled now, he said.

Most of Forby's customers are in the Makanda area because city water lines end south of Carbondale near the Midland Hills Golf Club Road, and Makanda has no water system.

Asked if the water was clean and safe, Forby said, "Yes, it's the same as the water in the water lines. But cisterns need to be cleaned out once a year."

People usually want water put in cisterns or wells, but Forby recalls some unusual requests. Once he filled a gold fish pond. And occasionally he hauls water to a fire, he said.

"The largest order was filling the Crab Orchard Mo-tel's swimming pool. It took 32,000 gallons."

In 22 years of driving—he estimates driving about 1,000,000 miles—Forby never has had an accident. But hauling water has had some problems, especially in the winter, he said.

"This past winter was the worst I've ever had for getting stuck. One time I had to be pulled out by another truck."

"Sometimes people call for water, but when you get to the house you find their cistern is full and the water lines are frozen. Then I have to dump the water in a water ditch," he said.

Forby said the strangest problem was when his brother was driving the truck for him and was unaware the empty tank had fallen off the truck. Eventually the tank was found in a driveway.

"I've chained it on now," he said.

Forby is optimistic about the future of his part time work because now he hauls mostly rock and sand instead of water. The tank usually remains behind as water lines continue to take over.

International concern mounts

U.N. grapples with pollution

WASHINGTON—The war against pollution is taking on an international flavor, complete with a touch of the royal purple.

Here, at the United Nations and at a series of seminars in Western Europe, scientists are attempting to pool their knowledge and techniques to grapple with problems of ecology and environment that refuse to respect man-made frontiers. A world conference under U.N. auspices is planned in Stockholm in 1972.

Sweden has taken the lead. With a $50 million government program at home this year and plans for national volunteer clean-up campaigns, it has moved into the international sphere. It proposed the special U.N. discussion of environmental ills and it is urging regional efforts through the Nordic Council, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the Council of Europe.

In recent years the publicity given pollution problems in Sweden has been surpassed only by the coverage of the Vietnam War.

The most notable international attack on pollution came recently at Strasbourg, France, where conservationists from 24 European nations gathered on the invitation of the Council of Europe and drafted plans for coordinated campaigns.

American observers reported that President Nixon's comments on pollution, contained in his State of the Union message, were the prime topic of conversation and a basis for many proposed European actions.

Europeans' interest ranges from the effects of smog on health to the effects which automobile exhausts are said to have on ancient, historical buildings.

Scientists in Rome recently reported evidence that hydrocarbons emitted by that city's automobiles are beginning to eat away at ruins that have stood as monuments to other civilizations for 2,000 years or more.

Although the Strasbourg conference was described as "preliminary," it did produce a plan for a ministerial conference of government leaders from all participating countries.

The importance of the meeting was underscored by the presence of Prince Philip of Britain, Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands and Prince Albert of Liege, brother of the king of Belgium.

The Strasbourg meeting predicted that the population will double in the next 15 years, inevitably worsening problems not only of pollution but of conservation. Special dangers from the rush of building for human habitation along the shores of the Mediterranean, Scandinavia and the Swiss lakes was one of the points accented in the final report.

Many times in the discussion the American experience was cited as the damage nonplanning could do. Four principal subjects were on the agenda: urban conglomeration, industrial problems, agricultural and factory problems, and the question of open lands conservation for recreation. Observers from Israel, Canada, Spain, Portugal, Finland, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Liechtenstein and the United States attended.

Plan for union

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A plan for union of nine Protestant denominations was referred to an ad hoc committee for study today by the general conference of the United Methodist Church.

The plan was drafted six weeks ago by the Consultation on Church Union.

Track meet at stadium today

Some team members will be out because of injuries, but a good portion of the SIU track team will run a practice meet at 1:30 p.m. today against Vincennes, Ind., Junior College. The meet will be held in McAndrew Stadium, Ivory Crockett, Alan Robinson, Don Miller and a host of other sprinters and distance runners may not run because of injuries which have nearly crippled coach Lew Hartzog's

SIU international club to face U of I

The spring soccer season continues at 2 p.m. Saturday when the SIU International Soccer Club tangles with the University of Illinois. SIU will be seeking its second straight win of the season against the U of I. Two goals by Luciano Fernandez gave the SIU club a 2-1 win team. Originally expecting to send a sizable squad to the first running of the Drake Relays this weekend, Hartzog will enter only triple-jumper Obed Gardiner and discus thrower Phil Blackiston in the historic meet. SIU's next official competition is May 2, when the Salukis take on an improving University of Illinois team in Champaign.

over the University of Kentucky April 11. Heavy rains prevented SIU from engaging with Springfield YMCA April 19. Future games for SIU include a road contest May 3, against powerful Eastern Illinois, and then a return match May 9, against U of I.

Rinaldi and Newman concur; Saluki ballclub works together

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Gene Rinaldi looked out at the light mist that was falling on the baseball diamond during yesterday afternoon's picture taking session. "I compare our ballclub to the Mets," the Saluki shortstop said. "We don't have any great power hitters but we all work together."

"If we aren't all working together, there's no way we'll win a game. Two guys can't carry this ballclub. It takes all of us that are on the field." Nevertheless, Rinaldi and second sacker Mark Newman are two big reasons the Salukis have compiled a 15-4 record.

Rinaldi played in the shadows of Bill Stein last season and was regarded as a good field-sometimes hit ballplayer. Rinaldi admits even he is somewhat surprised by his .312 average.

Newman made the switch from pitching to second base last fall and has responded with a .369 average. He is currently tied with Jim Dwyer for the team lead in doubles with seven.

"It took us about six weeks to get together," Rinaldi said of their play around second base.

"We started out completely unorganized. But now it's worked out real good."

The Salukis are using a new group of infielders that had "the basic problems, such as double cutoffs and double plays," according to Newman.

"You have to have confidence in each other and their ability to make the play," Rinaldi added. "If you've got that, there's no reason why anybody can't work together."

One of the things coach Richard "Itchy" Jones has been concerned about are mental lapses on the field.

"You have to maintain enough composure to not let one part (hitting or fielding) offset the other," Newman said. "If you worry about your hitting while in the field, it doesn't help your hitting and all it can do is hurt your fielding."

Newman is an excellent opposite field hitter and one of the best hitters on the team at picking his pitches, according to Jones.

Because of a lack of real power, Newman said he thinks he can help the team more by going with the pitch.

"A lot of the pitchers in college don't see a hitter very often so they start throwing the ball away, and I just go with it."

SPORTS SHORTS: The Salukis will put their 15-4 record on the line Saturday with a home doubleheader against Western Kentucky.

John Daigle has lowered his earned run average to an anemic 0.27 following five scoreless innings against Washington University last Tuesday.

Garrett named to NBA rookie team

Dick Garrett, three-year star for the basketball Salukis, has been named to the National Basketball Association All-Rookie Team.

Garrett averaged 11.0 points per game with the Los Angeles Lakers and started frequently after the Lakers became plagued with mid-season injuries.

In his final season at SIU, Garrett led the cagers with an 18.5 points per game average.

Rounding out the All-Rookie Team were Milwaukee Bucks' Alcindor, NBA Rookie of the Year, Boston Celtics' Jo Jo White, Baltimore Bullets' Mike Davis and Milwaukee Bucks' Bob Dandridge.

SIU tennis team to host University of Tennessee

Three of SIU's tennis players will try to defend undefeated records from regular season play today when the SIU netmen host the University of Tennessee. Bill Lloyd (4-0), Macky Dominguez (8-0) and Graham Snook (5-0) will pace the Salukis against an improved Tennessee team owning a 12-4 dual meet record.

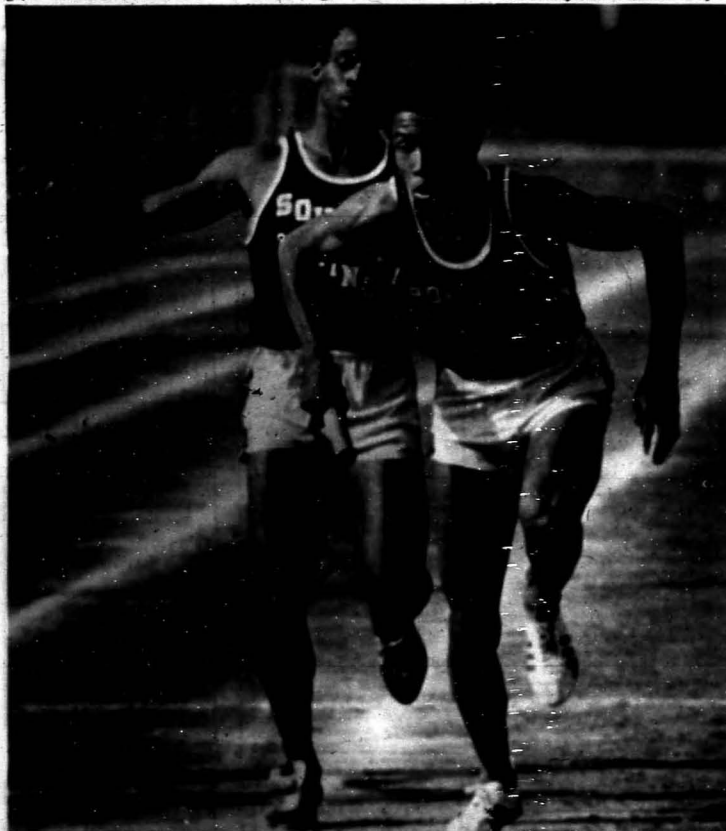

Fritz Gildemeister (4-4) will face a stiff challenge in the number-one singles match when he faces undefeated Toomy Mozur. Presently 13-0 himself this year, Mozur was the Southeastern Conference singles champion in 1968 and is considered one of the nation's top six players by SIU coach Dick LeFevre.

Chris Greendale (7-1) suffered his only loss against Mississippi State in the championship of the Oklahoma City tournament. The New Zealand native will probably be playing in the number four spot both today and Saturday when the Salukis host Oklahoma City at 2 p.m.

Also sporting just one loss in singles play since the pre-season tour, Ray Briscoe (7-1) will be playing either number five or number six depending on whether Snook is recovered fully from a recent injury.

While both Tennessee and Oklahoma City should give SIU all the trouble it needs, Memphis State will be at 2 p.m. Monday in Carbondale for another dual meet. Three wins would give the Salukis an 11-0 regular season mark following a 3-4 performance over spring break against some of the nations more formidable tennis powers.

Gildemeister along with Dominguez were the spark-plugs last weekend as SIU cleaned up against Bradley, Northern Illinois and Toledo. Gildemeister, 1-4 previous to the three meets, won three times to make his record 4-4.

Blind handoff

SIU's skeleton squad this weekend in the Drake Relays will not include either Ivory Crockett (rear) or Marvin Cooper (foreground) because of injuries. Both would have competed in the 440 and 880 yard relays in the famed meet. (Photo by Mike Klein)
