Davies funds pass first test in committee

By Andrew Zinner

The $1 million Davies Gymnasium renovation appropriation passed the Illinois Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday and will advance for consideration by the full House later this spring. Calling it the "first step of a long series," SIUC Governmental Relations Officer Keith Sackett, house Rep. Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, for his effectiveness as the bill's sponsor.

Sanders reported the same committee also approved House Bill 2317 which would provide $1 million for the School of Agriculture for food production and research facilities.

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw was also in Springfield this week. Appearing before the Senate Appropriations Committee, Shaw continued to pitch for more state money for salaries.

He said the $149.5 million existing budget proposed for the SIU system would mean painful austerity for the institutions at Carbondale, Edwardsville, and Springfield. He called for more funds for state universitie}s, than recommended in the higher education appropriations bill being considered by the committee.

The bill provides a 1 percent salary increase. "This is likely the legislation will appropriate additional funds," he said.

He said the real income of faculty members has been reduced by 19 percent since 1980 and that budget cuts would speed further erosion of faculty earning power.

Aubit tuition increase, which would provide an additional $1.2 million, has already been approved by the SIU Board of Trustees and is part of the appropriation awaiting approval by the General Assembly.

Vice Chancellor James Brown said Wednesday that it is likely the legislature will approve the tuition hike, since it will keep them from appropriating additional funds.

Shaw told the committee members that the University is already economizing where possible. Such efforts include reducing existing funds from lower to high priority items, employing energy conservation and continuing to review all academic and administrative programs.

The appropriations bill increases operating funds, a 7 percent increase to cover general price increases, and a 14 percent addition for expected hikes in utility costs.

Pond says enrollment picture not bleak

In a higher education future of declining enrollments, SIUC presidential candidate T. Alexander Pond says Carbondale is in a position to be a winner.

"There are no compelling circumstances to argue that Carbondale will face such declines in enrollment as are predicted," said the 55-year-old executive vice president of the State University of N.York at Stony Brook.

Pond was on campus Wednesday for public and private interviews with University of New York at Stony Brook.

Pond on campus Wednesday for public and private interviews with University officials, constituency heads and faculty members. He also held two public question-answer sessions in the Student Center Auditorium.

Pond said universities requiring students to prepay for these predicted declines by reordering the perceived areas of academic quality.

"You have to find ways to make it clear in what areas you are good at. It's not uncharacteristic, because there's no point in trying to fool anyone about the quality of what you have, because they (students) will know," he said.

In a higher education future of declining enrollments, SIUC presidential candidate T. Alexander Pond says Carbondale is in a position to be a winner.

Although Stony Brook does not have a conventional athletics program, Pond said, he is a firm believer in athletics as an integral part of campus life. "The consequences in campus life of the absence of a conventional level of athletics is most serious and it is badly missed. Athletics is certainly a very important unifying part of the campus," Pond said.

"It does seem to be that a good university stands for excellence in every endeavor and certainly that includes athletic endeavor," he said.

Pond said he has had "most gratifying" relationships with students at Stony Brook, yet added that "the perception of me by my students" is that "he is the boss and I am." "But the executive vice president position is one distinctively different from that of campus president," he said.

One questioner asked Pond about the relationship between his membership in the early 1950's in the Scientists Committee for Loyalty and Security Problems of the Federation of American Scientists and his membership in 1972 in the American Civil Liberties Union.

Pond said his hobby is planning. "I am a firm believer in planning. I try to expend a good portion of effort finding to what extent it is useful to try to prepare plans."

The dates of the remaining presidential candidates' visits are as follows:

Gene M. Nordby, vice president for business and finance at the Georgia Institute of Technology at Atlanta, is scheduled for interviews April 18.

Robert H. Rutford, vice chancellor for research and graduate studies at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, will be on campus May 5.

Pond said he admited the contradiction and added, "Those things require two completely different time periods. All I can say is that Joe McCarthy died and I lived," he said.

Pond said he is a "controlled workaholic, because there's no use exhausting yourself. One must recognize there is a limit to quality effort."
McGlone named dean at MSU

Edward L. McGlone, chairman of the Speech Communications Department at SIUC for the past five years, has been chosen dean of the College of Arts and Science at Mississippi State University. McGlone, who accepted the position last week, will begin his work at Starkville, Miss., college July 1.

"My initial reaction to the offer was one of surprise and concern," McGlone said. "Although I knew the position would be a tremendous opportunity for me, there were a lot of family decisions that had to be made." He said leaving close friends that he and his family have made while at SIUC made the decision even harder.

McGlone said the high motivation, enthusiasm and assertiveness that he has encountered among students and teachers at SIUC was one of the joys of working for the University, adding that the teachers in his department have a level of excellence that is exceedingly high.

"Through Ed McGlone's work as chairman of the Speech Communications Department at SIUC, the program has improved tremendously," C.B. Hunt, Jr., dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, said.

New individuals, recruited to the department, in addition to those who were here when Dr. McGlone arrived, find working conditions so improved that they are able to perform at optimum levels."

According to McGlone, the deanship at MSU is an opportunity he "just can't pass up." He said the job would increase his responsibilities and learning experience while allowing him to discover whether he is "cut out to be an academic administrator."

McGlone received his bachelor's and master's degree from Ohio State University, and his doctorate in speech communications from Ohio University.

Housewarming kickoff of Kappa Karnival

By Steve Grant
Staff Writer
This year's Kappa Karnival, entitled "Taking You Hostage," will kick-off 72 hours of non-stop partying with a "housewarming" at 9 p.m. Thursday at the Kappa House, 120 S. Main St. The Karnival, if all goes according to plan, will begin 9 p.m. Thursday and continue until 4 p.m. Saturday.

"We have received outstanding service awards from local organizations and merchants as well as recognition from the Inter-Greek Council for sponsoring Kappa Karnival," said Gamma Upsilon, the SIUC chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi, has gained national acclaim over the years for sponsoring this annual event and has become one of the most recognized chapters in the history of the fraternity. George Hart, resident advisor for the chapter, said, "You need the Karnival to perform for the Kappa Karnival, and SIUC-C and Carbondale officials will take part in the Karnival parade, Robinson said.

Just Us," a local band featuring Aaron Akins on vocals, will be performing at T.J. McFly's on Friday and Saturday and "Milestone," another local product will be performing at Second Chance on Friday and Saturday as well. On Friday a pre-Karnival set will be held from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. at the Student Center, and aftersets will be held at T.J. McFly's and Second Chance from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. Robinson said.

The Karnival Parade will also be Saturday, beginning at 1:30 p.m. and lasting until 3:30 p.m. A volleyball, hopscotch and double-dutch tournament will be held at the Kappa House following the parade, Robinson said.

T.J. Karnivals will host a basketball tournament from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday in the Arena for visiting fraternity members.

Weather

Thursday party sunny and cooler, high in the 60s. Thursday night cloudy. Chance of rain late. Low low or mid 50s. Friday cloudy and cool. Chance of rain. Wind upper 50s or lower 60s. Probability of precipitation 40 percent Thursday night.

Head-on injuries in juices two

By Leanne waxman
Staff Writer

One police officer described the scene of Tuesday night's head-on collision on West Main Street in Carbondale as "a wake-up call to the town and the drivers of the town." The accident occurred at about 8:30 p.m. in the 1300 block of West Main Street near the Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant on Wall Street. There were no serious injuries to the passengers in either vehicle.

"The engine of the Continental was pushed into the passenger compartment of the car," Carbondale Police Lt. Murphy said.

Carbondale Police Lt. William Hykes, who was called to the scene minutes after the cars collided, said the crash was the one that occurred last July when an eastbound car failed to make a turn on East Walnut Street and crashed into an unoccupied residence.

Hykes, a resident of 315 S. Illinois Ave., was listed in critical condition at a Carbondale hospital Wednesday. He was thrown from the truck and received internal injuries. Carbondale police and other law enforcement agencies were checking the accident to determine if any of the occupants, a hospital spokesman said.

The driver of the car, a 36-year-old Gary Wave of 314 Lakeview in Marion, Illinois, was in stable condition Thursday.

Carbondale police, Carbondale police and police officials had to pry open the driver's side door of the car to get to the driver. He received a scalp laceration and was being observed for possible fractures.

According to police reports, a witness who was driving directly behind the truck said Howard seemed to have being trying to stay on the right side of the road, and, in an attempt to regain control of the truck, veered off the road and hit the Continental.

Police have two additional witnesses to the crash. Patrolman Terry Nick was parked in the area of the crash writing a report when he heard the accident call come over the radio. The truck caught fire on fire in the crash, but, with the help of a passing motorist who jumped out of his car with a fire extinguisher in hand, the fire was extinguished.

Police didn't know how fast the car was traveling in the crash, and one witness told them the truck swerved in the other lane after the two cars collided, regained control of the truck and hit the Continental.

The driver of the car was charged with driving while intoxicated.

The two cars were involved in a head-on collision Wednesday night in Carbondale, according to police reports.

A 39-year-old SIU-C student was killed and a 27-year-old woman was injured in a head-on collision Thursday night in Carbondale.

Captain Carl Kirk, University Police police investigator in division supervisor, said Police had no suspicions Wednesday night.

One of the men threatened the student with a knife and hit her on the head, Kirk said. The assailants fled on foot without seriously injuring the woman, Kirk said. The two men killed Kirk, said police.

For the moment, sources said there had made a firm decision to attempt to tap what had been enormous vote discontent with President Carter and Ronald Reagan. The Democratic establishment.

Anderson is to announce what aides are now calling "the second phase of his campaign at the National Press Club in Washington at 11 a.m. EST on Thursday. They will expect the Republican and Democratic National committee and the other presidential candidates to wage legal fights to keep Anderson of the ballot in November.

Athletes sue U.S. Olympic Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The U.S. Olympic Committee illegally caved in to political pressure when it voted to boycott this summer's Moscow Games and the decision should be reversed, 19 Olympic hopefuls told a federal court Wednesday.

The athletes contended in a lawsuit that the international Olympic Charter requires national governing bodies to "protect all pressures of any kind ... whether of a political, religious or economic nature." The USOC violated the charter when it went along with President Carter's boycott demand, according to the suit filed in U.S. District Court.

According to the suit, Carter, in seeking to punish the Soviet Union for its "ominous move into middle east" with a campaign to coerce USOC into compliance with the president's demand for a boycott.

Senate rejects House-reduction bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) -- The Senate rejected a proposed constitutional amendment Wednesday that would have slashed the House by one-third from 177 to 118 members, a move supporters said would save taxpayers money.

But Sen. Lynn Martin, R-Rockford, countered that "if this is approved, how can anyone have some of their most outstanding members." The proposal got only 23 of the 36 votes needed.

But Senate approved proposed constitutional amendments calling for major changes and how it should be handled in the Legislature every other year instead of yearly, and barring lame duck pay raises for lawmakers and other officials.

There is a political partnership at this University that is advocating a “smokey-room” student election. Half of this partnership is the USO Election Commission. The Commission and its candidate judges do not regulate not only when, where, and how the election results will be tabulated, but also who will be elected. The commission is the power to scrutinize required candidate expense reports and to fill election grievances. If the Election Commission cannot apply his discretionary power without bias, then there will be no problems on the April 30 election day. But can anyone be unbiased toward a roommate? Tom O’Malley, a candidate for USO President, lives with the election commissioner, Tim Adams. Can we, the students, assume that Timmy and Tommy live in a large apartment and rarely see one another? Isn’t there a conflict of interest when a candidate for Student Body President, the regulated, is rooming with the Election Commissioner, the regulator?

No matter how the election turns out, one can be assured that Timmy Adams will either be promoted or retired from his position as election commissioner. - Jay Huddleston, Engineering

Roommates— who cares?

I am outraged! What a bogus way to use the press and publicity by Adams and O’Malley to manipulate the roommates. As long as they aren’t sleeping together, I can’t see this issue getting the exposure it is getting. I’m living with two murderers, a bisexual goat and I have the cancerous spleen of the demon shah on display above our fireplace, but do I get an article on conflict of interest?

Does anyone know if Pete Alexander is looking for a roommate? Third, or only the candidates

In response to Mr. Huddleston’s accusations of a “smeaky room” student election, I would like to say the following to clear the air:

First, if Mr. Huddleston or the person who provoked Mr. Huddleston to write this letter would have attended the candidates’ meeting on April 8, he would have known that every candidate or proxy for the candidate was informed that there would be no committee of the ballot boxes and tabulation of the votes was not only left up to the candidates, but was at their discretion, but encouraged by the commission personally.

Second, the candidates expenditures are governed by the expenditure limits put upon them by the USO bylaws and will be examined by the USO Election Commission or the Election Commissioner. If Mr. Huddleston would like to personally examine them to clear his conscience, I would be happier to arrange it.

The only candidate or third parties may file grievances, not the Election Commission personally.

Fourth, Mr. Huddleston’s assumption that I will retain this position or any other position in the USO is totally false, regardless of who wins the April 30 election.

As to Mr. Huddleston’s inquisitive remarks about me and my roommate, I would like to state the following facts.

First, according to this position long before my roommate even considered running for the presidency.

Second, Jeffersonian my office of anyone’s candidacy would be foolish not only because of the checks in the system, but because of the close scrutinizing given to this situation.

Third, when I became part of the USO there weren’t and still aren’t enough people volunteering for the available positions or willing to give up the great deal of time involved in working with the USO.

Fourth, I was appointed to this position to see that this election is conducted fairly and legitimately; this is the only interest that the commission has in this position or any other position in the USO.

As for Mr. Huddleston’s inquisitive remarks about how they work. I am outraged and as Kurt Boyle’s running mate, I believe it is my duty to correct an error made by one of your reporters.

On Thursday, April 17, in the USO debate between the candidates, Kurt was misquoted as saying he did not wish to battle it out with the other candidates in explaining his absence. The quote should have read, "I much preferred spending the evening with a few thousand of my constituents, rather than have a battle of wits with five unnamed men.

In protecting our campaign image, I believe the true question raises a much clearer issue of us rather than suggesting we fear our opponents. I assure you sir, on any level we certainly do not.

Political allegiance an injustice

This letter, I hope, will bring your attention to what I perceive as an injustice to both the readers of this paper and also to the political hopes of one USO presidential candidate.

I have in my three years at this school had absolutely no interest in the USO’s elections or candidates; but I felt personally insulted by an article appearing in the April 14 issue about some political allegations.

Upon reading the article, I recognized some of the concerns as legitimate, but whether they are deserved, the attention of the voting body must be refuted, the writer of the article having researched the allegations and reported that they were justifiably being handled.

Now the purpose of the article should be questioned. The presidential candidate, Tom O’Malley, had his name dropped 10 times; all reported allegations against him were answered. The article was literary rubbish, only pointing to the fact that O’Malley has a roommate?

Sure, we would have friends—THANKS, GOD—who got a room and named a few people who live with us. I just wonder who the author of the article friends are, if the DE is hurting for filler; if the author is going to adopt a name sneering, and if the author will work as diligently at clearing Mr. O’Malley’s name of this injustice?

John Poeler, Junior, University studies

Participate in open forum

Recently, I heard a persistent cry for student participation in campus and area government. That same concern has been voiced since lack of input is a continuing problem. Do we have apathy? Sure, that’s just one way to raise any concern.

Given our political alternative. Stop in the Ohio Rooms in the Student Center and raise your hand anytime between 2 and 5 p.m. to take part in an open forum. By contacting the representatives of the political parties City Council and city staff will be on hand to discuss any topics you would like to raise.

Do you care about the Carbondale area? Would you like to leave all decisions up to elected officials and bureaucrats? Give a damn and give some input. I’ll hear from you Thursday. — Jim Karas, USO Liaison

Suzanne Somers’ ‘Nothing Personal’ is boring, unbelievable, unfunny

By Ken Mac Garride Staff Writer

If you can't find the gas, time or money to see Suzanne Somers' 'legitimate' acting debut as 'Nothing Personal' don't panic!

'Nothing Personal' is one movie you'll fall in love with. For the outer limits of TV-dom in about three months. Watch it then if you're bored or boring or both.

'Nothing Personal' is not a movie you'll fall in love with. It's a bunch of cardboard acting and cardboard characters. It's rather unbelievable and unfunny and has a couple of car chase scenes.

In other words, TV and 'Nothing Personal' were made for each other.

Our story begins in Alaska, of all places. Some actors posing as college students are upset that a bunch of goons are killing a bunch of seals. The idealistic college professor (Donald Sutherland, shades of 'Animal House') snores a joint and decides to go to Washington, D.C., and right this wrong. Our hero here meets Suzanne Somers, a 'liberated' law student who can't get a job and clians. Suzanne agrees to take the case for nothing.

If you're following the plot so far, you'll notice that the producer's have done three things right for Suzanne so far: (1) they put her in the can- tina, instant audience sympathy position of fighting for the cause. (2) They gave her a part where she's not playing the 'dumb blonde' character (Suzanne's Company')—instead, we're asked to believe that Suzanne did her undergraduate work at Cornell and then graduated Magnum Cum Laude from Harvard (right). (3) They surrounded her with a name star—Donald Sutherland to keep the pressure off her. But back to the movie.

Donald and Suzanne are riding in a train. Suzanne says she's bony. Donald plays hard to get. Next scene: Donald and Suzanne are in a bedroom. Suzanne is made under the sheets. Once again, Donald plays hard to get. Next scene: Donald and Suzanne are in yet another bedroom. Suzanne comes on strong. Donald finally gets smart and decides that this playing hard to get is for the birds!

Donald and Suzanne then go to the Library of Congress when whammo!, they're back on the bed again, spewing forth some of the most inane pillow talk ever dreamed up.

The producer's again are thinking. They had to establish some kind of sex symbol, cheesecake poses for Suzanne for the male lens. And so they had to establish a love angle for the female fans. Back to the scenes.

After a few setbacks, Donald and Suzanne discover that one Indian in the whole United States owns the rights to the land that the seals are being killed on. The rest of the movie involves a race between Donald and Suzanne and the bad guys to find this Chief.

Perhaps one shouldn't spoil the few laughs in this inane movie, but the biggest nut the audience gave any joke was when the bad guys were chasing Donald and Suzanne by car through a town field. The bad guys accidently run over a scarecrow and think it's a person they've lost in the movie.

"Don't you think you should stop?" "Nahh! These farm people are tough!" (roll laugh track)

If this sounds like your kind of humor, then rush out and see 'Nothing Personal' starring Suzanne Somers. The producer's of the movie will thank you.

R. Buckminster Fuller to lecture

R. Buckminster Fuller, father of the geodesic dome and world- renowned architect and innovator, will present a lecture titled "Thinking Out Loud" at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2, at the Student Center Auditorium.

Fuller, a key speaker at the early Earth Day celebrations ten years ago, will cap off a week of North West activities at SIU-C.

Fuller, now 84, is a professor in the SIU-C design departments at Carbondale and Edwardsville from 1960 to 1971. One of his geodesic domes was featured in the United Nations exhibition at World's Fair in Montreal and many of his domes are in permanent use around the world, including one used as an exhibit building in Moscow, another as a sports center in Spain and the Climatron at the Missouri Botanical Gardens in St. Lc.

Fuller has written several books and articles, is a member of more than 30 professional and social organizations and has given hundreds of lectures over the past years at universities around the world.

Tickets for the lecture are available at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

CBS wins TV ratings race, ends ABC's 3-year reign

NEW YORK (API) - It was anybody's race for 32 weeks, and Jim Jones, Johnny Carson, "The Dukes of Hazzard" and Robert Redford all figured in the finish. When it was over, CBS had ended ABC's three-year reign as the dominant network in prime-time television.

It was the closest race in a decade, perhaps in the history of television. CBS, victor, claimed Tuesday, was by the narrowest possible margin—stork's one-tenth of a point—and even that subject to contention by ABC.

A margin of a full point on the 1979-80 season might have meant a difference of $60 million in advertising revenue for the winner. CBS and ABC entered the last week of the season in a dead heat, and both networks threw some blockbuster programs into the final seven-day period. ABC's broadcast of the Academy Awards was the week's highest-rated program, but CBS scored with a two-part miniseries, "Gumna Tragedy: The Story of Jim Jones." It is the final confrontation Sunday night. "The Sting" on ABC starring Redford and Paul Newman, topped a two-hour "Dukes of Hazzard" special on CBS for the No. 1 spot for the week.

CBS won the week with a rating of 30.7 to 19.4 for ABC and 18.2 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week 20.7 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to CBS.

That left CBS claiming the season with an average rating 19.6 to ABC's 18.5. NBC was third at 17.4.

ABC, which began the season a week ahead of the others, called the finish a "virtual tie," with the leaders neck and neck at 19.5.
Carbondale high will require competency level for graduates

By Colleen Moore

Beginning this fall, students who attend the Carbondale Community High School will have to meet an eighth-grade level minimum standard to graduate—two years higher than the sixth-grade level accepted at most other schools.

CCHS is one of the schools in Illinois that has approved a minimum competency and remediation plan for its students. Thirty-eight states already require at the local level some form of remedial courses for students who are having reading or math problems. Some Illinois districts are already using MCT.

Hollis said the focus of the CCHS plan is primarily remediation. Although CCHS has given high school placement tests as a measurement of the basic skills of reading, math, and language arts to eighth-graders before, the new plan will require additional remedial courses for students who are having problems. The courses include a reading course the first year, a second year of math and a fourth year of English if a student is still having difficulty.

"We're going to have smaller classes," Hollis said. "The smaller classes would provide for the students' needs.

After taking the placement test, devised by the Illinois State Department of Education, the students will be placed in one of three levels: the high level for students who score at or above the eighth-grade level; the middle level for students who score between seventh- and eighth-grade equivalency; and the remedial level for students who score below the seventh-grade level.

The progress of a special education student is then measured annually using the student's Individualized Education Program. Federal and State laws require this be done only at CCHS but other schools as well.

If MCT were used throughout Illinois, costs would be determined as to whether the tests were developed and administered to local districts. The state or both. About 90 percent of the school districts in Illinois have some form of district-wide testing program using commercial and locally developed tests for student identification and program evaluation purposes.

Local districts in Illinois are spending $2.8 million for these testing programs, ranging from 50 cents to $13 per student.

If the state had complete control over MCT, costs would be at least $10 per student or about $1.5 million for each grade tested. Alternatives would be to require local purchase of a list of commercial tests or in-test development based on state standards. This would reduce state cost but increase local fees. Costs would be between $2.50 and $10 per student depending on the size of the district.

If local districts had the greater control over MCT, the cost would be about $6 per student.
The countess (La Vorn Hale, right) and her maid Susanna (Carla Coppi) read a letter in a scene from Mozart’s “Marriage of Figaro.” The scene will precede “Trial by Jury” April 26 and 27 at 8 p.m. in the Quigley Hall Auditorium.

Gilbert-Sullivan show set for opera theater

“Trial By Jury,” Gilbert and Sullivan’s satire of the goings-on during a breach of promise of marriage case in Victorian England, will be presented by the Marjorie Lawrence Theatre at 3 p.m. Saturday and 8 p.m. Sunday in the Quigley Hall Auditorium.

The one-act opera stars Hans Ashbaker as a judge, John Kazer as the defendant, Sarah Brickland as the plaintiff and Ron Hester as the usher. Graduate student Jack Dare is directing the production as his thesis project in opera.

An extended scene from Mozart’s “Marriage of Figaro” will be presented as a lead in to “Trial By Jury.” “Figaro” stars La Vorn Hale, Carla Coppi, John Lippe and Ashbaker.

The entire program is open to the public for $1.

Registration patterns unaffected by change in cancellation policy

By Cindy Humphreys
Staff Writer

Neither the earlier registration cancellation date nor the pending late registration fee has substantially changed this year's pattern of registration for classes, Roland Keim, associate director of admissions and records, said.

"If anything, we've a little behind last year at this time," he said. "This year's classes are closing as they usually do. Certain classes close just as soon as registration opens.

The proposed late registration fee is aimed at preventing President Lesar's signature to become effective: Spring of 1981. The fee would charge students $15 for registering on or after the first day of classes.

This charge would have been imposed after the late registration fee is "clearly the University's fault," said Richard Millman, assistant to the president. Such cases might include graduate students who receive late assignments to teaching assistantships.

Keim said about 10 percent of last year's student body registered late, and between 30 and 40 percent of these were graduate students.

Undergraduate students have a variety of reasons for registering late, he said, and one of them is to get into closed class sections that open because of cancellations for non-payment of fees.

This semester, however, the registration cancellation date was moved from the Friday before the first day of class to 10 days before the first day of class. Keim said the change was an effort to cut the long lines at the Bursar's office during the first week of class and to get students in class the first day. "The intention of the late registration fee is the same," he said. "We're trying to coax students to register before classes begin so they can get to class the first day. An additional benefit is that add drops will go faster if there are fewer students registering the first week of classes."

Former horseman on trial for show horse stable fire

BENTON, Ili. (AP) - One-time millionaire horseman Silas W. Jayne was on trial in federal court in Benton on four charges stemming from a 1978 fire which destroyed 15 show horses on a Wisconsin farm owned by an old friend and fellow horsemanship. Opening arguments against Jayne, 72, were heard Tuesday in a case from the Nimrod Stables near Oconomowoc, Wis., where an April 11, 1978 fire did an estimated $150,000 damage. Jayne was an inmate at the Sheridan, Ill. Correctional Center at the time.

Judge James Foreman is presiding over the jury trial on charges which include one count of conspiracy to commit arson, two counts of interstate travel to commit arson and one count of aiding and abetting commission of arson. Assistant U.S. Attorney Marsha Johnson of East St. Louis alleged that Jayne hatched the plot in 1975 while he was an inmate at the Vienna Correctional Center.

His alleged accomplice, Nicholas Guido, 59, a convicted leader of a torture-robbery gang, and Charles H. Johnson, 40, a convicted arsonist, are expected to testify during the trial. Both men are on parole from Vienna.
Assistant asked to resign after USO election dispute

By Charity Gould
Staff Writer

Student President Pete Alexander has asked for the resignation of the student vice president's executive assistant, Phil Eberlin, after Eberlin charged one of Alexander's appointees with a conflict of interest.

Eberlin, a candidate for the student presidency, alleged the relationship between student presidential candidate Tom O'Malley (who is Alexander's executive assistant) and Undergraduate Student Organization election commissioner Tim Adams constitutes a conflict of interest. O'Malley is a roommate of Adams, and Eberlin charged that Adams, who is paid $350 a month, but said he never remained unfilled for the rest of the semester.

Court martial hears murder testimony

RANTOUL, ILL. (AP) - Airman David Towne testified at the court-martial of Mrs. Leroy Galanti, who is accused of stabbing her husband to death Dec. 4 at the couple's home.

Towne said he heard Mrs. Galanti say she hated her husband, and then Brown left the house. He said she saw a bottle thrown at the sergeant, then saw a woman he believed to be Mrs. Brown pick up the bottle and chase Brown with it.

The Browns and Towne lived in base housing facilities, and only a thin wall separated their quarters from theirs. Towne testified.

On cross-examination, he said the couple argued 15 or 20 times a month, but said he never heard the woman threaten Brown's life.

Editor says American public foots bill for excessive military spending

By Karen Golli
Staff Writer

"The duty of the line..." when it comes to military spending by the government, and the American public is footing the bill, according to Ervin Knoll, editor of Progressive magazine.

Speaking at a lecture Monday night sponsored by the Coalition Against Registration and the Draft, the 49-year-old editor and author of four books said the U.S. military budget rose from $99.5 billion in 1978 to approximately $128.7 billion for fiscal year 1981--a 60 percent increase. Knoll said the public is led to believe that the country is constantly in a state of "military crisis."

"Those military budget increases have nothing to do with the nature of Americans in Tehran or with the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan," Knoll told a crowd of over 70 in Browne Auditorium. "But they have everything to do with our domestic system of massive military spending and massive scare campaigns by the government.

Knoll delivered his remarks in the wake of Congressional approval of a $123.3 billion defense budget--registration of 4 million 18- and 30-year-olds beginning this Summer. He criticized military training, calling it "unwarranted servitude which is prohibited by the U.S. Constitution."

"The whole purpose of military training is to have young men abandon rational thinking and common sense so that in the case of an emergency, they can perform irrational tasks without question," said the former editor of Editor and Publisher, the Washington Post and Los Angeles Times.

Knoll said that although military spending is skyrocketing and the public is "underwriting all the risks and most of the costs," about one-fifth of the total U.S. economy is tied to military spending.

"The American public would have to be horrendous adjustments if the military budget were to be cut," Knoll said. "The military budget provides necessary economic stimulus for military contractors and creates a kind of socialism for the rich."

Knoll attacked legislators who say they support draft registration but oppose the draft.

"To say you are opposed to the draft but support registration is like taking a vow of celibacy and then going out and buying a pack of Trojan," Knoll said.

The Progressive was involved in a First Amendment case last March when it appealed an injunction from the Justice Department prohibiting the magazine from publishing an article about the hydrogen bomb.

The case marked the first time an American publication was prevented from publishing a story on the grounds of national security, but the Justice Department withdrew the injunction when a similar article appeared in a small Wisconsin newspaper.

A federal judge sealed nearly all of the documentation involved in the case.

Avoiding Future Shock

"They take away your manhood and your economy," what were once seen as the best way to avoid being called up to war, are today that much more unpalatable and that much more destructive," Knoll said. "The public now sees the war as a way to protect our lands and Resources. Your taking these steps is an attempt to show you how to prepare for a nuclear war in the case.

Herpes virus spread through sexual contact

Editor's note: Your Health appears twice monthly in the Daily Egyptian. If you have some question, if you'd like to see answered here, send them to Your Health, Student Wellness Resource Center, Mail Code H-3.

Q. I keep hearing about a disease called herpes. Is it true there's no cure and you get it sexually?

A. You're right that herpes is transmitted sexually and there's no cure for it yet. Herpes is actually a term for two similar viruses. Herpes Type I virus causes the familiar cold sores that appear on the mouth. Herpes Type II causes similar sores on the genital organs, penis in men and the outer vagina or cervix in women. This type of herpes, called "Genital Herpes," is second only to gonorrhea in prevalence. More than 300,000 Americans will catch it this year and its numbers are steadily rising.

Herpes is spread by sexual contact and causes painful, fluid-filled blisters to appear from two to 20 days after contact. These blisters gradually disappear after a week or more, but they can reappear again and again, either weeks or months later. The later attacks, which are usually less severe, can be triggered by stress, other infection, menstruation, or even vitamin deficiency.

Although there is presently no drug that will cure herpes, doctors are working with several that look promising. One method involves giving pain-killing medications and advising their patients to keep the infected area clean to prevent secondary infection. In dry up the sores and hasten healing. Women who have herpes are advised to have Pap tests every six months. Since there is evidence that their risk of cervical cancer is increased. A pregnant woman with herpes sores would need to deliver by Caesarian section, since the disease could be transmitted to the baby as it passed through the infected vagina.

The best advice about herpes is to avoid getting it in the first place. The disease is highly contagious when the sores are present, and scientists think it can be spread only to one or two days after the blisters appear.

For more information on herpes, write to the American Social Health Association, HELP Program, P.O. Box 100, Palo Alto, CA 94302. The HELP Program is an information service for people with herpes.

Q. My friend drinks shots because he says he likes the taste and gets buzzed quicker. I like drinking shots, too, but I order a beer between each one to give my body a rest. My friend thinks I am crazy—What do you say?

A. I wouldn't say you are crazy, but you do have some wrong information about alcohol. A small alcoholic drink is an alcoholic drink, whether it is beer, wine or "hard" liquor. A shot of liquor (eth. vodka, etc.) has the same amount of alcohol as an average glass of beer or wine.

The liver processes alcohol at a rate—1 ounce of alcohol per hour. If your friend drinks four shots in an hour and you drink two shots and two beers you have had 2 ounces of alcohol—which causes, besides more than twice the time, of vital enzymes.

Alumni establish teaching award

By Lyle Ganther

Student Writer

A retired professor from a New York university and his wife, who were raised in Southern Illinois and attended Southern Illinois University, have established an annual award for excellence in teaching history at SIU. The award, which will be named the Queens Award, will be given for the first time in 1981.

The Queens, who live in Paducah, have also arranged to donate part of their estate to SIU after their deaths to establish an annual scholarship for students from Murphysboro and Du Quoin High Schools who plan to attend SIU and enter the teaching profession.

George S. Queen, a 1904 graduate of Du Quoin High School, received a teacher's certificate in 1908 from SIU. The George S. and Gladys Wright Queen Excellence in Teaching History Award will be given for the first time on Honors Convocation Day in 1981 at SIU, said Clyde Maulding, treasurer of the SIU Foundation.

The annual monetary award to an outstanding history teacher will be financed by dividends from shares of Illinois Power Co. stock, which the Queens have donated to the SIU Foundation.

The guidelines for the recipient of the award, set by the Queens, are based on past teaching contribution, student evaluations, integration of teacher, objective teaching, use of good textbooks and spirited recitation.

Harry Ammon, chairman of the History Department, said the nominations for the history award can be made by SIU faculty, graduate or undergraduate students and administrators. The committee in charge of selecting the winner has not yet been established.

The award will be contingent on the annual dividends from the stocks which presently will be $1,100 for 1981, Maulding said.

The proposed annual four-year scholarship to be awarded to graduates of Murphysboro High School will be named the Gladys Wright Queen Award for Excellence. The proposed four-year scholarship to be awarded to graduates of Du Quoin High School will be named the George S. Queen Award for Excellence, Maulding said.

The scholarships are proposed to be $1,000 each for Du Quoin and Murphysboro High Schools. If one student receives the scholarship, that student will get $1,000 per year for four years. If four students are awarded the scholarship the same year, each student will receive $250 per year for four years, Maulding said.

The respective high school administrators are to consider specific criteria provided for by the Queens in making a selection of the recipients of the Maulding said.

SIU enrollment shifting toward job-oriented, vocational majors

By Carol Stenta

Staff Writer

Two colleges are spearheading SIU-C's participation in a nationwide trend in higher education toward "generalist" majors in the applied and vocational areas, according to Paul Richard, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Journalism, and Music.

Richard said the College of Liberal Arts and the College of Engineering and Technology are the frontrunners in the trend.

Robert Busson, associate dean of Administrative Sciences, said that over the last five years, we've seen fairly significant enrollment increases in our graduate and MBA programs.

"This is occurring across the country," he said, also indicating that the trend will probably continue into the mid-1980s. "It is a continuation of individuals moving to professional programs. Students appear to be becoming much more job oriented in their program selection."

"It is a counter-trend," Richard explained. "In the late '60s and early '70s people were moving away from vocationalism toward liberal knowledge, self-study.

Richard-replied that at SIU-C two movements are now emerging. First is the movement of students out of disciplines -liberal arts, the sciences, humanities — that don't train them for specific jobs into "professional" disciplines - engineering, business — that do. As an example he said since journalism is more applied than literature, there is probably a shift toward journalism from literature toward journalism.

Second is the movement to modify programming in disciplines that aren't easily applied to give students a more job oriented curriculum. The other colleges respond to these trends, Richard added. "Market forces work in higher education just like anywhere else."

James Licht, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said there is "no doubt" that the trend is toward vocationalism. He said the College of Liberal Arts has added classes in economics, psychology, sociology and mathematics to supply vocational needs for other colleges.

"We've swung fairly far toward vocationalism," he said, noting that computer science, a College of Liberal Arts department that is professionally oriented, is also growing with the trend toward applied and vocational areas. That department has multiplied ten-fold in the last six years up to a point where it has the most majors in the College of Liberal Arts," Licht said.

Enrollment figures for University academic units lend credibility to Richard's statement of trends toward applied and vocational studies at SIU-C. As a percent of total University enrollment, the College of Business and Administration and the College of Engineering and Technology increased their enrollments in 1978; 7.5 percent to 10 percent and from 4.2 percent to 7.5 percent, respectively.

All other academic unit enrollments either went down or did not increase above 2.5 percent or they remained the same, with one exception. The Science and Technical Careers Bachelor's degree enrollment increased from one percent in 1976 to 4.5 percent in 1979.

The stress on the colleges involved with substantially increasing enrollments in the "professionally" oriented programs has been great.

"We have in the past been able to meet the demands for instruction for business courses but that's becoming increasingly more difficult to accomplish," said Busson. He noted that the College of Business and Administration is having to open new class sections and new faculty positions to meet demands created by increased enrollments.

Dean Kermit Tempelmeyer of the College of Engineering and Technology said his college has been given four additional faculty positions for 1980 and is still unable to meet growing instructional needs.

Visiting playwrights discuss their part-time profession

By Robin Segnos
Staff Writer
Six may be a small amount of people to be working in a certain occupation in this country, yet two part-time professional playwrights estimate there are only about a half-dozen full-time professional playwrights in America.

"Americans don't have time for non-productive occupations. I should have opened a pub," said Victor Power, visiting playwright.

"All you need is one song," replied Bernad Sabath, also a visiting playwright.

Both playwrights were at SIUC for a playwriting workshop held April 15 through 18. Theater Department students presented plays by Power and Sabath as part of the workshop. Other events included a playwriting symposium and a staged reading of a play by a student playwright.

Power is currently employed by the Department of Human Services in Chicago. He heads the office of Program Services. He considers himself to be a "weekend writer."

"I teach on the side and write on the side," he said. "When I'm not writing plays I write fiction."

Power is the author of more than 17 plays, numerous articles, published short stories, novels and translations. He has worked in a number of jobs including actor, director, teacher, radio drama editor and a chaplain.

"I got bored. I did keep each job for a long time. I was a chemist for 14 years. It was an indoor job. No heavy lifting was required," he added with a laugh.

He was born in Dublin in 1930 and lived there until 1966 when he came to the University of Illinois on a fellowship.

"They kept feeding me fellowships so I stayed there," he said.

Power said his interest in writing was influenced by members of his family. One of his brothers was a novelist. His great-grandfather spoke 13 languages and "was a very good writer." Power was 16-years-old when he had his first story published.

"Johnnie Will," a play by Power, was read during the workshop and deals with the problems which arise in a modern Irish rural family. Power lived in rural Ireland and uses some of his own experiences in his plays.

"My heart was in the country so I went there on vacations," he said. "For many years I wrote my plays in Gaelic."

Sabath coaches a fiction workshop at the Medill School of Journalism in Chicago.

"Coaching is my contact with the world, otherwise I'm a playwright," he said. "I spend most of my time waiting for things that are going to be produced—to be produced."

He has been waiting for one of his plays, "The Boys in Autumn," to be produced since March 1976. The play is about the boyhood of Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer.

"We've been trying to cast since then. There are only two characters in the play," he said. "It's a great education in patience and impatience and frustration."

Some of the actors that were considered for the parts included Henry Fonda, Robert Redford, Gregory Peck, Andy Griffith, Jason Robards, Raymonde Burr, Kirk Douglas and Burt Luscicker.

Sabath is the author of 12 full-length plays about the life and times of Mark Twain and the Midwest region. Mark Twain is the pen name used by Samuel Clemens.

Forum set for town officials to discuss city-student issues

By Mary Ann McNaught
Staff Writer
Want to find out how city officials view housing and energy problems, Hailwooden and city planning, you may want to attend the forum set for Thursday.

These and other issues will be discussed by city officials at an open forum held from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Student Center this room.

Jim Karas, Undergraduate Student Organization liaison to the Carbondale City Council, said he arranged the open forum as a "great question and answer" session, an information session, and a chance for students to meet city officials.

City Manager Carroll Fry, council members Charles Watkins and Archie Jones, Senior Planner L.S. Bruno, Police Chief Ed Hogan and Energy Coordinator Robert Pauls are scheduled to attend the meeting to discuss city-student issues, Karas said.

The Comprehensive Community Plan for Carbondale—a master plan for the city from 1977 to 2002—down town redevelopment, convention center, river service, Hailwooden, housing and energy issues are topics Karas and student senators have asked the officials to address. Karas said.

Hogan said he was asked to talk about rape and underage drinking in the city at the forum. Each of the city officials will give a brief biography, explain the projects they are concerned with and then address any questions or issues students want to discuss.

Management chapter wins national award for 2nd time

By l·tvenl· News Service

The SIU-C chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management (SAM) has been cited as the nation's outstanding student chapter for the second year in a row.

The 103-member chapter won the award in competition with more than 150 other chapters across the nation. Competition is based on professional programs, fund-raising events and other community service projects conducted by the chapters.

The SIU-C chapter finished ahead of chapters from the College of St. Thomas in Minnesota, St. Norbert's College in Wisconsin, West Virginia State University and West Virginia University.

Officers of SAM will receive the chapter's first-place award during the society's national convention scheduled for May 5 to 7 in Chicago.

John Fohr, professor in the College of Business and Administration, is faculty advisor to SAM.

Hollis said she thinks MCT should be controlled by local districts because each school and community operate differently.

Donald Beggs, associate dean of the College of Education at SIU, has been serving as a consultant to the CCHS Curriculum Committee and other schools throughout the state.

Beggs said if minimum competency is enforced, it should be on the local level with parents and teachers reviewing the curriculum. "I don't believe that a state-mandated program can accomplish the end results that are being sought by the critics," Beggs said.

The critics are saying that most tests or evaluations are needed to convey students' skills. Beggs said if MCT is state-controlled, tests have the potential to become the contaminant thing.

"What are the competencies a student should have in the question," Beggs said. "It's really hard to get an agreement on what those competencies should be."

Sidney Miller, a professor of special education, said, "We lack people with trade and craft skills. We ought to look at that as an issue."

Miller believes MCT should be based on the ability to apply knowledge in the appropriate setting.

John Pullman, assistant professor of guidance and educational psychology, said, "We don't need new tests. We simply need to look at the ones we have in a more humane, rational way."

Kennedy wins race but hopes to improve

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Sen. Edward M. Kennedy ousted President Carter to win the Pennsylvania presidential primary by the frailest of margins Wednesday, and said he'll have to do better to catch up in the race for the Democratic nomination.

The long, slow count of ballots in the Tuesday election was so close that Kennedy and Carter almost shared the state's Democratic nominating votes. Only a handful of popular votes, out of more than 1.4 million cast, separated the winner and the loser.

Kennedy garnered 64 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Carter got 91, and that kept intact the president's faraway lead in delegates strength.

Former U.N. ambassador George Bush upset Ronald Reagan in the Republican primary. He gained 53 percent of the vote to Reagan's 46 percent.

The GOP popular vote did not bind delegates, who were elected separately and were officially uncommitted. But Bush confounded the victory was evidence that his emphasis on conservative Reagan is starting to pay off.

With this knowledge, I didn't know he went down..." he said.

"People think..."

Valli goes the distance in 9-5 softball triumph

By Dave Kane
Staff Writer

Benefiting from a five-run second inning and seven Southeast Missouri State errors, the SIU women's softball team cruised to a 9-5 victory over the Oblateans Tuesday night in Carbondale, Mo.

The victory went to Saluki righthander Gena Valli, who improved her record to 3-6. The junior from St. Louis, Mo., struck out five and walked none as she went the seven innings, dropping SEMO to 2-16.

"Gena pitched an excellent ballgame," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "She's really coming along on lately like we'd hoped. I'd have to say it was her best outing of the year."

Offensively, SIU failed to get an extra-base hit, but a cluster of singles and numerous SEMO miscues opened the way for five runs in the second inning. The second inning, in the third, in the twone in the fourth and one more in the sixth.

"We didn't have any long balls in the Brechtelsbauer said, "but we put together some solid rallies and managed to move our runners along. The fifth inning was a prime example."

The SIU outburst featured three singles and a walk, plus one of the SEMO errors sandwiched in between. Second baseman Pat Stang got an RBI double in the second-run fourth.

A trio of Salukis had a productive night at the plate. Dee Shull upped her average to .340 as she went 2-for-4. Ivan Deterting, who was batting .108 early in the season, lifted her to .306 with a 3-for-4 outing. Stang was 2-for-4.

SEMO came up with four runs in the fifth inning to make the game interesting. Brechtelsbauer felt playing under the lights affected SIU's play—especially in the outfield.

"We had a couple of miscues in the fifth inning," Brechtelsbauer said, "and the lights were kind of low, so when a fly ball would go higher than the lights, the outfielders would have trouble picking it up when it began to come down."

The game was in doubt with a score Scott 372 as she went 2-for-4. Ivan Deterting, who was batting .108 early in the season, lifted her to .306 with a 3-for-4 outing. Stang was 2-for-4.

"SEMO came up with four runs in the fifth inning to make the game interesting. Brechtelsbauer felt playing under the lights affected SIU's play—especially in the outfield."

Ten-kilometer

A 10-kilometer run will be held May 3 at 8 a.m. The run is being sponsored by Vic Koenig Chevrolet and the Jackson County Heart Association.

The race, which is split into six age groupings, will start at the University Mall. It will move south down Lewis Lain, west on Grand Avenue, south past Brush Towers, north on Nail Street, east on Grand north on Giant City Road and west toward the Mall, which is the finish line.

The cost of registration is $2.

Martinez' 3-hitter halts Cubs

By Joe Masek
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - Silvio Martinez fired a three-hitter and the St. Louis Cardinals scored three unearned runs in the seventh inning to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, Wednesday. Tony Scott opened the month with a single and Martinez hunted, but Scott was safe at second on Bill Buckner's throwing error. Gary Templeton singled to score Scott.

Then Ken Oberkfell hunted and was safe when losing pitcher Mike Krukow, 1-1, threw wild past first as Templeton scored. The third came in on Bobby Bonds' sacrifice fly.

Martinez, 1-1, allowed two walks and struck out eight.

The game was in direct contrast to Tuesday's slugging in which there were 39 hits and six home runs.

Martinez retired 15 consecutive batters following Carlos Garcia's single with two out in the second inning and Jerry Martin's bunt single with two out in the seventh. Ivan DeJeske RBI single in the eighth was the only other Chicago hit.

Krukow had a four-hit shutout going until he ran into trouble in the eighth.

ONE-HITTER THROWN

St. LOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - Bruce Kison in only his third appearance with the California Angels, missed a no-hitter by two outs Wednesday, but finished with a one-hitter in stopping the Minnesota Twins 17-2.

If past results are any prediction of the future, the women's tennis team can look forward to this weekend's Missouri Valley Collegiate Tennis Tournament at Columbia, Mo. The Salukis will be making their third appearance in a row at the four-day tournament. In 1978, SUU won the team title by defeating a Missouri double and a singles player.

Missouri will be tough again this year, but through the first two doubles matches SUU won 6-0. Last year, SUU slipped to a fifth-place tie while the Tigers rallied 40 points to finish 11th ahead of second-place Drake. The Salukis and Oklahoma State scored 33. Saluki Coach Judy Ault is certain of this year's field, but she knows a strong team effort will be required no matter what schools participate.

The Missouri team will be trying to duplicate the success of last year's Salukis. SIU won the team championship, while Missouri placed second. The Tigers' success came with a late surge, as the Missouri team finished fifth in the fall season. This year, the Tigers have been going between 13 and 14, but track and field events have not been a focus.

Missouri has a strong swim team, including those who won the NCAA championships. However, the Tigers have not been as successful in the other events. SUU will likely find themselves in a competitive environment, but Ault is confident her team can compete.

Drake Relays are next challenge for hurdler Lee

By Rod Smith
Staff Writer

Jesse Owens, Bob Hayes, Dick Fosbury, Dave Wottle, David Lee. These are some of the names that come to mind when one thinks of the Drake Relays. The Salukis' Dave Wottle is one of the athletes who has excelled in the event. Last week, Lee ran a blistering 49.38 in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, setting a new Kansas Relays record and breaking the school record and personal best he had run at Illinois a week earlier. His time is second in the nation this spring, trailing Andre Phillips of Southern Cal by just 0.1 seconds.

If Lee can match last week's time, he will break the Drake Relays record of 49.4, set by Ralph Mann of Brigham Young in 1970, and become the second Saluki to presently hold a record at the Drake Relays. The first was Byran Daniel, who set a 51.48 at last year's Relays, and then Byran set a 51.29 record in 1979.

To set the record, Lee must get down his stride of 13 steps between hurdles.

"Every time I go out, I just try to run faster than I did the time before," Lee said. "I've been going between 13 and 14, but when I hit 13 all the way through, I'll break one." For the second consecutive week, Lee will run against former Oklahoma standout Gregg Byram, who last year won the "Grand Slam," sweeping the intermediate hurdles, long jump, and javelin record.

Lee's goal is to break the Byram record of 51.29 set in 1979.

"We still don't know how fast we can run," Coach Lew Hartog said.

Lee also will run the 110-meter high hurdles and the 400-meter leg of the distance medley relay. Other individuals who have qualified for the meet are freshman Brett Runner in the javelin, freshman John Sayre and senior Mike DeMattei in the pole vault, and freshman Bob Schoen in the high jump.

The 400-meter relay team of Dan Jeffries, Dave Colt, Kevin Baker, and Clarence Robinson, as well as the distance medley team of John Sayre, Tom Hoffman, Karsten Schultz, and Lee, will compete.

One Saluki who already has been honored is Coach Lew Hartog. Hartog, who has been the SIU coach for 30 years, was selected as decathlon referee, one of five honorary referee positions this year. He served in the same capacity in 1968.

If SIU wins this year's meet, it will be the team's fifth consecutive title.

Toasts, roasts mark tankers banquet

By Dave Kane
Staff Writer

The "banquet circuit" is one of those little fringe benefits that come with success in athletics. A successful player can count on being asked to attend get-togethers with hometown sports figures such as Reggie Jackson, Montreal Bub, and Hank Aaron. Saluki star Alonzo Johnson and French Harris take the circuit in stride.

The SIU men's swimming and diving team held a awards banquet Monday night in the Old Main Room of the Student Center. Maybe this feat wasn't on Willie Stargell's list of banquet stops for the year, but the number of awards, no matter how much they may have deflated a swimmer's ego, made this dinner a unique one.

There were the usual awards, and no one could argue that the recipients were deserving. Sophomore Roger Von Jouanne was named the team's most valuable swimmer. Von Jouanne was SIU's lone swimming finalist in the NCAA championships, when he placed 11th in the 200 butterfly. The award was customarily also was the team's hardest worker.

Junior Rick Theobald, who gained All-American status from his efforts in the NCAA championships, was named most valuable diver. Theobald was eighth in the one-meter and 11th in the three-meter diving competition.

In the "most improved" categories, senior freestyler Marty Krug was named most improved swimmer, while freshman Willard Bower was the team's best short diver.

Departing seniors dominated the spirit and leadership departments, as Dean Elmhurst and coach Bob Sanpier received the leadership award.

But where the serious honors left off, the parodies took over. Over. Leading off for the Saluki Swimming "Hall of Shame" was sophomore Mark Pollard, who received an award for the most frequently-upset stomach over the course of the season.

Sophomore Dave Farr earned his way into SIU's swimming history in a big way, winning laurels as the team's "Pokey Sliver (Stays late) and can't team's "Dirty Ernie" (always saying the wrong thing at the wrong time)."

"I even got one vote for that one," Farr said. "I admit I knew I was eligible." And this year's team wasn't the first to know how Reggie, Kareem, Willie and Franco could turn down invitations.

Mona Etchison is one of the Saluki netters that will play in this weekend's Missouri Valley tennis tournament at Columbia, Mo. The Lady Salukis completed their dual meets Monday with an 8-1 win over Principia. SIU finished the season with a dual match record of 18-4.

Drake Relays are next challenge for hurdler Lee

Jesse Owens, Bob Hayes, Dick Fosbury, Dave Wottle, David Lee. These are some of the names that come to mind when one thinks of the Drake Relays. The Salukis' Dave Wottle is one of the athletes who has excelled in the event. Last week, Lee ran a blistering 49.38 in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, setting a new Kansas Relays record and breaking the school record and personal best he had run at Illinois a week earlier. His time is second in the nation this spring, trailing Andre Phillips of Southern Cal by just 0.1 seconds.

If Lee can match last week's time, he will break the Drake Relays record of 49.4, set by Ralph Mann of Brigham Young in 1970, and become the second Saluki to presently hold a record at the Drake Relays. The first was Byran Daniel, who set a 51.48 at last year's Relays, and then Byran set a 51.29 record in 1979.

To set the record, Lee must get down his stride of 13 steps between hurdles.

"Every time I go out, I just try to run faster than I did the time before," Lee said. "I've been going between 13 and 14, but when I hit 13 all the way through, I'll break one." For the second consecutive week, Lee will run against former Oklahoma standout Gregg Byram, who last year won the "Grand Slam," sweeping the intermediate hurdles, long jump, and javelin record.

Lee's goal is to break the Byram record of 51.29 set in 1979.

"We still don't know how fast we can run," Coach Lew Hartog said.

Lee also will run the 110-meter high hurdles and the 400-meter leg of the distance medley relay. Other individuals who have qualified for the meet are freshman Brett Runner in the javelin, freshman John Sayre and senior Mike DeMattei in the pole vault, and freshman Bob Schoen in the high jump.

The 400-meter relay team of Dan Jeffries, Dave Colt, Kevin Baker, and Clarence Robinson, as well as the distance medley team of John Sayre, Tom Hoffman, Karsten Schultz, and Lee, will compete.

One Saluki who already has been honored is Coach Lew Hartog. Hartog, who has been the SIU coach for 30 years, was selected as decathlon referee, one of five honorary referee positions this year. He served in the same capacity in 1968.

If SIU wins this year's meet, it will be the team's fifth consecutive title.

Toasts, roasts mark tankers banquet

The "banquet circuit" is one of those little fringe benefits that come with success in athletics. A successful player can count on being asked to attend get-togethers with hometown sports figures such as Reggie Jackson, Montreal Bub, and Hank Aaron. Saluki star Alonzo Johnson and French Harris take the circuit in stride.

The SIU men's swimming and diving team held a awards banquet Monday night in the Old Main Room of the Student Center. Maybe this feat wasn't on Willie Stargell's list of banquet stops for the year, but the number of awards, no matter how much they may have deflated a swimmer's ego, made this dinner a unique one.

There were the usual awards, and no one could argue that the recipients were deserving. Sophomore Roger Von Jouanne was named the team's most valuable swimmer. Von Jouanne was SIU's lone swimming finalist in the NCAA championships, when he placed 11th in the 200 butterfly. The award was customarily also was the team's hardest worker.

Junior Rick Theobald, who gained All-American status from his efforts in the NCAA championships, was named most valuable diver. Theobald was eighth in the one-meter and 11th in the three-meter diving competition.

In the "most improved" categories, senior freestyler Marty Krug was named most improved swimmer, while freshman Willard Bower was the team's best short diver.
