Committee Suggests Regents Board Govern College

CHICAGO (AP)—A Faculty Advisory Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education voted Tuesday to recommend that a proposed senior college near Springfield be governed by the Board of Regents.

The committee also recommended that a proposed senior college in Chicago be placed under the governing jurisdiction of the Board of Governors.

The action was taken at the close of a day-long meeting and is designed to help guide a special committee of the Higher Education Board.

The board's Citizens Advisory Committee decided Monday to put off its recommendation on governance of the two colleges until after it holds a public hearing on the question Dec. 11.

An advisory committee of college presidents will meet Dec. 1 to consider its recommendations on the question.

The recommendations of the three advisory committees were sought by the board's special advisory committee, which set a Dec. 18 deadline. The special committee, in turn, will submit its recommendations to the board Jan. 10. A final decision could be announced then.

The Illinois Legislature has appropriated $3 million for planning, site acquisition and development of construction plans for the two senior colleges.

Plans call for both colleges to be commuter-type, which will offer third and fourth year undergraduate studies and the first year of graduate work.

The faculty committee had a choice of recommending any of five governing bodies—trustees of the University of Illinois, trustees of Southern Illinois University and the Junior College Board in addition to the two favored Tuesday. However, only the Board of Regents and the Board of Governors were submitted to a vote.

The committee voted 13-3 in favor of placing the Springfield institution under the Board of Regents. Earlier motions to place the Chicago College under the Board of Regents and the Springfield college under the Board of Governors were defeated.

After the group voted in favor of Board of Governors' jurisdiction for the Chicago college, James G. Miller, a committee member from Chicago City Junior College, argued against a motion to take identical action on the Springfield college.

Miller contended it would be a mistake to load up the Board of Governors with too many institutions, some of which have expansion plans.

The Board of Governors has jurisdiction over Northeastern State College, Chicago State College, Eastern Illinois University and Western Illinois University.

The Board of Regents governs Northern Illinois University and Illinois State University at Normal.

After the committee supported Miller's position by a 15-5 vote, he offered his motion to place the Springfield institution under the Board of Regents.

Arguments in favor of striving for balance between the various governing bodies preceded the actual vote.

"We should point to the direction where power politics would be at a minimum and give the people in these colleges the greatest chance to develop as an entity," said Ralph Marty, a committee member from McKendree College, Lebanon.

DOLLY COMES TO CARBONDALE—Dorothy Lamour will star in two productions of "Hello, Dolly" to be presented at 4:30 and 8:30 p.m. Sunday in Shryock Auditorium. Tickets for the Celebrity Series presentation are available at the information desk of the University Center. Prices are $2, $3, and $4 for student tickets and $3, $4, and $5 for others.

Ticket Procedure Changed

Students will be required to show their ID at the gate in order to get in at student prices at Saluki basketball games, according to a new policy on tickets released by the Arena Ticket Office.

Students who do not show their ID at the gate will not be admitted.

The new policy means that married people whose spouses are not students will not be able to enter on student tickets. Both will have to buy a regular general admission ticket if they wish to sit together.

"Students pay their activity fees, and therefore if tickets were sold at student prices to non-students, we would be depriving seats to students who have paid the activity fees," Donald Boydston, athletic director, commented. "This would not be fair to the students."

Tickets for the basketball games will go on sale two days prior to the game and continue to be sold until game time. Tickets will be available at the West Ticket Office on the main floor of the Arena. It will be open from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

If a game is on a Saturday, the ticket office will be open from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Otherwise, the ticket office will not be open on Saturdays.

Tickets may also be purchased at the door starting at 5:45 p.m. the night of the game if there is a freshman game, and 7:15 p.m. if there is no freshman contest.

To purchase a ticket, a student will have to present a fee statement for every ticket he wishes to purchase, up to a maximum of four.

"We urge students to purchase tickets for basketball games as soon as possible before a game, so as to avoid a rush at the last minute," Mrs. Naomi Kinney, head of the ticket office, said.

SIU Classified Major College

CARBONDALE (AP)—SIU has been recognized as a major college by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association, the University announced Tuesday.

The University said it had been notified by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) that the writers had voted to reclassify the school.

Garrett Nets 21 as Varsity Rolls Over Frosh, 75-46

The basketball Salukis opened the 1967-68 season Tuesday night by rolling to a 75-46 victory over the SIU freshmen.

The varsity held a 37-23 lead at halftime. Junior Dick Garrett, the only holdover starter from the 1966-67 squad, led all scorers with 21 points. Most of Garrett's scores came on long range shots.

The 6-4 forward was also the leading rebounder for both teams with 11. Surprisingly, the second most effective rebounder was the smallest man on the floor, 5-10 freshman Roger Westbrook.

The varsity jumped out to a quick lead of 3-0 on center Bruce Butchko's free throw, his only point of the first half, and sophomore guard Rex Barker's jumper.

They lengthened their lead to 26-8 by the 8:18 mark of the half, before the frosh made an eight-point tie. The varsity pressed their advantage on a pair of buckets by reserve Howard Keene.

Keene, a transfer from Louisiana State via the service, was impressive in his first performance as a Saluki. The 6-6 senior took six shots during the course of the game, canning five. He also pulled down seven rebounds and exhibited some alert passing and defensive work.

The leading freshman scorer was Mike Hessick, who had 10. The 6-10 center was tightly guarded throughout the Carbondale should take advantage of the talents of SIU professor R. Buckminster Fuller and have the world famous designer draw plans for a new City Hall, Randall Nelson told fellow city councilmen last night.

Nelson Suggests Fuller Design New City Hall

Nelson said that the new City Hall, if built, should be as unique as the Eiffel Tower, so that anyone seeing pictures of the structure would immediately associate it with Carbondale.

Failure to make use of the Fuller services would be "overlooking an opportunity that any city in this country would jump at," he said.

Nelson's suggestion was made following council discussion of the city's plan to purchase the Good Luck Glove warehouse. Nelson said this property could be the sight of the new City Hall.

In other business the council requested that the city manager investigate alleged cases of poor planning in the placement of concrete retaining walls along some Carbondale home owners' properties. The council request stems from recent complaints from several city residents who claim the city has constructed retaining walls on property that does not need them; yet it has denied certain property owners requests in cases where walls were necessary. The council also referred to the planning commission, for additional study, a request by the Carbondale Savings and Loan Association for a change in the city sign control ordinances to allow construction of a fishing sign in front of the firm's building.

A "C" liquor license, which permits beer with food only, was granted to Ben's Crescent Restaurant, owned by Ben Otis Scudder.

Neely Hall Girls Discuss Hours, Other Policies

Neely Hall girls, attending the forum this week in their building, discussed topics including dormitory hours and educational policy with Student Body President Ray Lenzi and others from Student Government.

The subject of girls' hours was the most hotly discussed issue among the students. The majority of the 41 girls who attended felt that changes in the present system should be made. But no decision was reached as to how.

Several of the girls appeared to be in favor of a system whereby junior and senior girls and those over 21 should not have restricting hours.

One girl stated that "it is necessary for freshmen to have hours because they are not responsible enough." Sophomores, juniors and seniors should not be bound to hours because "they know the ropes better" and would not be as apt to spend their late hours foolishly, she added.

There were few defenders of the present system but one girl did explain why she felt the hours were necessary. "I think the hours serve as good training for our future life where we will all be bound by certain rules," she said. The general studies program received some criticism from the girls. Several of the girls felt that the information taught in some of the courses is too detailed.

One student backed the program saying that "it serves as building blocks for future departmental courses and it teaches one's mind to think."

Some girls expressed their concern over the group's inability to come to a final decision on any of the issues. One girl said "I think the meeting was very useful and I am glad that Ray Lenzi and the others came over to hear our ideas."

Southern Players to Perform

Preview of State Play Set Dec. 9

A preview performance of Act I of the official Illinois Sesquicentennial play, "Make Her Wilderness Like Eden," will be presented by the Southern Players on Dec. 9 as part of the annual President's Party at SIU.

Written by Christian Moe, associate professor of theater at SIU, the first act of the play had its premiere performance Nov. 19 at the University of Illinois in Urbana where it was viewed by an audience of about 300 persons comprised of members of the arts committee of the Sesquicentennial Commission, educators, and school and community theater directors.

It is hoped that a performance of the entire play may be presented for the first time later in December somewhere in the area, Moe said. As of Jan. 1 the play will be offered royalty free to any state group interested in performing it during the Illinois Sesquicentennial Year, 1968.

Moe said the Theater Department at Illinois State University at Normal will take the play on tour next summer if suitable financial arrangements can be made. Also the SIU Theater Department has scheduled a performance on campus during the summer and definitely plans to take the play on tour throughout the state next fall.

Other performances will depend on the response to a questionnaire which the Illinois Sesquicentennial Commission has sent to universities, high schools, community theaters and Chambers of Commerce throughout Illinois, Moe said.

"Make Her Wilderness Like Eden" is an historical drama in two acts which depicts important events in the state's history from the late 1700's before Illinois joined the Union up to the present time.

SIU Student Charged After Narcotics Raid

An SIU student was released on $3,000 bond Tuesday morning after being charged with possession of marijuana.

Christopher Tullier, 18, a freshman from Park Forest, was arrested November 22, following a raid on his room at Boomer II, University Park.

Bus for St. Louis

Scheduled Saturday

The Activities Programming Board will sponsor a shopping trip to St. Louis Saturday. The bus will leave the east entrance of the University Center at 8 a.m. and return at 6 p.m.

Those interested in making the trip should sign up at the Student Activities Center by noon Friday. Cost is $1.50 per person.

Jobs Available in Kansas City, Kan.

Seniors interested in working in the Kansas City, Kansas, area will be able to participate in a special employment interview program during the Christmas holidays.

A program called "Operation Native Son" is a means of getting students who seek careers in business industry together with potential employers.

More than 40 firms will have representatives present to interview prospective employees.

Students wishing to participate in the Dec. 28 interviews at the Town House Motor Inn in Kansas City should get an application at the Placement Service.

Businesses conducting interviews include insurance, oil, mail order, finance, airline, telephone, engineering and motor corporations.

Captain Thomas Kirk of the Security Office obtained a search warrant for the apartment and impounded what he believed to be marijuana. The material has been sent away for laboratory analysis, according to Kirk.

Tullier will be arraigned at the Jackson County Court on December 12.

Joseph Zaleski of the Student Activities Office said the University would take no action until a court decision is made.

Zaleski said each case is decided by the University on its own merits and that there are no general rules which apply.

MacVicar Speaks

To Women's Club

A three-day meeting at SIU of the state officers and board members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs ends today.

Robert W. MacVicar, vice president of academic affairs, addressed the group of about 150 women Monday at a day-long workshop on the topic "The Woman Activist."

Seminars also were conducted on conservation, education, fine arts, home life, international affairs and public affairs.

Pan Americans

Sponsor Seminar

Tonight at 8 p.m., the Pan American Organization will sponsor a seminar in the Seminar Room of the Agriculture Building.

Mr. Charles Ekker, Latin American Institute, will speak on the "Latin American University-- Chaos or Progress." The affair is open to the public and refreshments will be served.

'King David' Yule Oratorio Performances Set Thursday

As a prelude to the Christmas season, the SIU Department of Music will present an oratorio based on the psalms of the Biblical ruler, David, to be given Thursday and Friday at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

The oratorio, "King David," scored by the contemporary composer Arthur Honegger, was originally written for the stage play, "Le Roi David," by Rene Morax. First performed in 1921, it later was revised by Honegger for larger orchestras. The work is divided into three sections--David as chief and leader of the army, as King, and as King and Prophet.

The performing forces for the presentation will include the University Choirs and the Southern Illinois Symphony under the direction of Robert Kingsbury, director of University Choirs.

Four soloists, all students of Marjorie Lawrence, will be featured. They include Peggy Parkinson, soprano; Sandra SirHendrey, soprano; Raeschele Potter, mezzo-soprano; and Jeremy Dawe, tenor. Gerald Compton will serve as narrator and Susie Webb will interpret the role of "The Witch of Endor."

The concert is open to the public free of charge. Credit will be given to music students attending.

Audubon Program

Slated Wednesday

The story of an ancient lake which was once twice as large as Lake Erie but now exists only as a remnant in the Utah salt flats will be presented today in the second Audubon Wild Life Program of the year.

Robert W. Davidson, who helped produce several shows in the "Wild Kingdom" television series, will present and discuss "The Vanishing Sea," a film about life around the Great Basin.

Sponsored by the Student Activities Center and the SIU Department of Zoology, the program will begin at 8 p.m. in Furr Auditorium of Pulliam Hall.

Admission is 40 cents for students and 75 cents for faculty and the general public.

War On Gangs

The American public needs to give more attention to motorcycle gangs across the nation who terrorize and inflict injury to defenseless and peaceful citizens, including members of their own groups.

A motorcycle gang from Florida called the "Outlaws" recently attacked a man with the result that no more than 19 square inches on his body didn't have an ugly knife wound, abrasion or bruise.

Florida's Governor Claude Kirk has declared war on such motorcyclists and vowed to use every law at his command to run them out of Florida.

Public outrage against the Outlaws in this country grew to a roar last week after 18-year-old Christine Deese told police the gang drove 10-penny spikes through her hands and nailed her to a tree.

Miss Deese was barbarically punished for violating one of the commandments of the gang when she refused to turn over $10 to her "old man." She is referred to as "old lady" of Outlaw Norman E. (Spider) Risinger, who in turn, is her "old man."

The unwritten Outlaw code says an old lady who doesn't obey her old man's every command must be punished.

This unethical code of inhumane treatment should be recognized as a disgraceful means of upholding justice, and therefore should be dealt with in a strict manner.

Our country is too culturally advanced to permit such brutality to continue.

Gamble Pays Off

The United States has made one of its biggest gambles and has won.

The recent flawless performance of Saturn 5, at Cape Kennedy, has almost assured this country's attempt to land men on the moon before 1970. A failure at this stage would have certainly impeded the space program.

An explosion on the pad or in-flight, or worse yet, a fire in the ship's cabin, like the one that took the lives of three astronauts earlier this year, would have caused repercussions by Congress and the American people.

The lunar program could have come to a virtual stand-still. But with the success of Saturn 5, conditions are again A-OK.

Letters to the Editor:

Correction Please

To the Editor:

The Egyptian recently published an article by Jean Messick summarizing some of my views about research on alcoholism (issue of Friday, Nov. 17, page 13). Although the bulk of the article accords reasonably well with my opinions and the facts, as I understand them, there are nevertheless a few points which it is important to correct or clarify to set the record straight.

First, Messick is incorrect in imputing to me a statement to the effect that I declined the chairmanship of the Cooperative Commission on the Study of Alcoholism in favor of a teaching post at SIU. Actually, I was approached about taking the position of scientific director of the research being done under the commission's auspices. It was for this directorship, not the chairmanship of the commission, that I declined to be considered, in favor of coming to SIU.

Second, Messick attributes to me the view that the paucity of original research findings from work done under the Cooperative Commission's auspices may have resulted from the government's failure to support this particular research financially. However, this happens to be one of a very few instances where researchers received adequate financial support. Therefore, I believe the reasons for the failure to produce new and exciting results lie elsewhere in this instance.

Finally, although Messick is quite right in ascribing to me the view that, in general, federal government financial support for research on alcohol problems has been pitifully small and should be increased substantially, readers should not be left with any suggestion that I see in such government support a panacea for the problems of alcohol.

"Don't Be So Honest"

To the Editor:

Gene, Dennis and Tom, you three gentlemen wrote a letter to the editor on Friday, Nov. 17. You criticized the Egyptian for misrepresenting the economic situation in the Soviet Union. The cartoon you find fault with was of a Soviet man and woman plowing by hand. In the city a celebration was going on. The caption read, "We're celebrating 50 years of progress."

Are you three fellows so intellectually honest that you will smear your own country and build up its enemies? To increase your own stature as great minds, you hacked away at the U.S. You said that the cartoon "... only demonstrates our general ignorance..."

Did you know that the U.S.S.R. shows early American westerns to its people, telling them that these are a true representation of the United States? Why should we be so honest? You owe a great deal to the country that has given you one of the highest standards of living in the world. The Russians are committing the same intellectual crime that we are. If we are not careful, our preoccupation with truth will aid the Soviets.

You needn't be so honest. Don't try to put attention on yourselves as free thinkers while chopping away at the United States.

Helping Hand

To the Editor:

The Tri-C United Fund was tremendously helped by the 14 AFROTC Cadets and Angel Flight who helped solicit on the house-to-house drive Saturday. None of them were local Tri-C Area students, but they gave a busy Saturday to help. It is encouraging to see young people who realize that volunteer service is an integral part of American life. Our thanks especially to Major Robert M. Bullock, who incidentally helped solicit too, when he saw we were short-handed. The Cadets were: Russ Berry, Jim Lukawski, Joe Stokes, Marcel Kuper, Bruce Parks, Tom Taylor and Bob Littlehale.

Members of Angel Flight were: Jan Reel, Gloria Green, Pat Hurson, Jan Pittman, Shiela Gibbs, Pam Hudgens and Carol Malinew.

Campus Racism

To the Editor:

Recently you printed several letters which deplored the many examples of Nazi propaganda currently floating around our campus. Today I had the dubious pleasure of seeing for myself the fountainhead of such propaganda: a dozen or so young men who called themselves "Party members." They were handing out copies of their "White Power News" in front of Shryock Auditorium to passers-by, a few of which took the newspaper with obvious enjoyment.

I approached the Nazis and asked them for a copy. My darker skin color (I am a Negro) didn't seem to upset the racists, and they laughingly supplied me with The Stormtrooper, "a handsome little magazine in color" which, between raving about Communism being "Jewish" and "treason-trials" for "Peace-creep traitors," proposed to send me and all the rest of my ethnic background "back to Africa."

I showed The Stormtrooper to my roommate, and he said, "Man, this is too much!" My reaction was about the same. And I am sure most of the student body thinks that these Nazis are a little "too much." But isn't it time the administration came to the same conclusion about these long-time haters?

America Backwards

To the Editor:

In spite of the objectivity of the profession of anthropology, two competent anthropologists have been moved to call aspects of Nacirema culture strange and harsh. Men lacerate their faces every morning; women periodically bake their heads in ovens (Miller, 1956). And old people are regarded as obsolete (Henry, 1963).

I report an oddrule practiced in some areas of Naciremaland. Some Nacirema restrict the use of many categories of space (e.g., buses, restaurants, towns, schools, etc.) according to a primitive precept of the visual amount of the pigment melanin in the epidermal layers of the skin. Such arbitrary classification has confused many in the past and present who find this rule hard to comprehend. One case six years ago involv'd an African student from Kenya in a laundromat of one region of Naciremaland.

His description is as follows: "I had accumulated a load of dirty clothes in my journey from Kenya to Naciremaland. There was no one in the laundromat, but I saw two sign-boards standing out boldly. The one on the right read, 'WHITE ONLY,' and the left, 'COLORED ONLY.' I observed that the laundromat had corresponding rows of washing machines separated by a cardboard wall. So I sorted my white clothes for the machines on the 'white' side and colored clothes for the 'colored' side. And I washed my clothes. Only later did I discover that the signs did not refer to clothing." (Omulepy, 1967).

What Keeps the "Walking Wounded" Walking?

By Dan Van Atta

Pressure, tension and the need for primary group acceptance—these are the factors that contribute most to the "walking-wounded" on the American college campus, according to John E. King, visiting professor of higher education at SIU.

The "walking-wounded," a term King applies to college demonstrators is not unique to the modern campus. Demonstrators have stalked the universities for years and will be around, he believes, long after the Vietnam conflict has ended.

"Rebellion is necessary if we are to have continual revolution or change in this country," said King. "More consideration is being given the protestors today than ever before. Only in America could such rebellion exist unchecked."

King said that the key problem resulting in student disturbances is pressure.

"Pressure is a characteristic of the Twentieth Century," he said. "We can't eliminate the pressure on students, but we can help them to stand up under the pressure and grow to meet it.

"SIU tries to meet the needs of the student," King said. "I honor any institution that tries to accomplish this, and I believe that within 10 years the people at Southern will be able to take a great deal of pride in the results of this effort."

Dr. King's opinions are based on a distinguished lifetime of service in the field of higher education. The former president of the University of Wyoming and Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia, King is now a member of the Federal Relations Commission of the American Council on Education.

He believes that the modern university makes a number of false assumptions which are in part responsible for student unrest.

"One of the assumptions that is widely repeated is that it is better to have a great man—say a Nobel Prize winner—100 feet away than it is to have an ordinary professor 10 feet away.

"I believe it is extremely unsatisfying to a great many young people," he said, "not to have primary group interaction with a professor who knows them personally and who responds to their ideas, questions and needs. Someone who writes in green ink on the margin of their papers. . . and lets the student know that he is being recognized."

King also disputed the popular assumption that you cannot help a person after he becomes 18 or 19 years old and enters college.

"This is the time in which the most changes take place within the individual," he said, "and this is when the greatest amount of help and guidance should be available. I believe that they are trying to make that kind of help available at SIU."

Dr. King is a member of the United Nations Economic and Social Commission (UNESCO) and President Johnson's Committee for the Employment of the Handicapped.

Our Man Hoppe

Volunteer for One Lifetime of Pain and Sorrow

By Arthur Hoppe

Scene: The Pearly Gates. St. Peter, nervously swinging his keys, is surrounded by a host of heavenly cherubs.

St. Peter: Ahem. You're probably wondering why I called you all here this morning. Well, as you know, babies come from Heaven. But it seems we're having a population explosion on the planet Earth—that's the tiny one out there on the fringes of Galaxy MCXXII. Demand has tripled and, frankly, we can't keep up. So it's my duty to inform you cherubs. . .

First Cherub (clapping his palm to his forehead): We've been drafted!

St. Peter (hastily): No, no! The Front Office feels any draft would be most unheavenly. Instead, I've been instructed to ask for volunteers.

First Cherub: How long a hitch do we have serve before we get to come home?

St. Peter: One lifetime. But I should advise you that your chances of ever returning to Heaven are slim. Many are called, but few are chosen.

Second Cherub (suspiciously): What's the duty like?

St. Peter (with a sigh): You are entitled to a long and searching look before volunteering. Third Cherub (as they all peer curiously down through the gates): Oh, I can't bear it. Look, there! People! Burning! They're afire! St. Peter (glumly): Napalm. Christians are dropping it on heathens.

Fourth Cherub: But that, over there. It's so beautiful it ties your stomach in a knot. St. Peter: Yes, two deer standing on a green hillside above the sea in the autumn haze. Fifth Cherub: Those huge ovens. They reek of evil.

St. Peter: Incinerators. Six million mortals were burned in those.

Sixth Cherub: Zowie! That blinding flash of light!

St. Peter: Two mortals making love. But you must not talk of that.

Seventh Cherub: Those tears, that unbearable, wrenching pain. What causes that? St. Peter: The word, "Farewell." There's a baker's dozen in a lifetime.

Eighth Cherub: And that glow that lights the sky?

St. Peter: Oh, that's Charlotte Hawkins looking into her granddaughter's face. Or do you mean that flare over the jungle? That's so men can see better to kill each other. Now, if you'll look over here. . .

The Cherubs (together): We don't want to see any more!

St. Peter (frowning): But it's my duty to show you famine, pestilence, thermonuclear explosions. . .

The Cherubs (together): No more, no more. Enough is enough.

St. Peter (shaking his head): Sometimes, I think the Front Office. . . But let's get this nonsense over with. You all understand the choice? You can spend eternity here singing hymns of ecstasy at the foot of the Heavenly Throne—or you can volunteer for a lifetime of pain and sorrow and boredom relieved only by a few moments of joy. All right. All those in favor of mortality will please say, "Aye."

And, lo, the chorus of ayes shook the very stars and reverberated even through the farthest vaults of Heaven.

Keene's Enthusiasm, Perseverance Aid City

Mayor David Keene

"IT'S BEEN A BIG JOB"

"CARBONDALE IS A GREAT PLACE TO LIVE..."

"I UNCOVERED A LOT OF ANSWERS..."

By George M. Killenberg

Mayor David H. Keene is a man who enjoys talking to people. That's how he got interested in Carbondale politics.

When Keene moved to Carbondale from Pickneyville nine years ago, one of the first things he noticed was that very few people ran for local political office. Puzzled by this situation, Keene began talking to local citizens and found that it wasn't because no one wanted to run for office, as he had thought, but because the "establishment" had nearly an insurmountable grip on the city's political apparatus.

One of the people Keene talked most frequently to was Frank Kirk, who at that time had just been appointed to fill a vacancy on the City Council.

As the two men conversed, they both came to the conclusion that government in Carbondale was in need of serious improvement. As time passed, their get-togethers began to include a small core of civic minded citizens who felt along the same lines as they did.

Last spring, when city election time was nearing, the group decided it was time to elect a mayor who would, in their opinion, work to upgrade city hall and the community. "We decided that the two main qualities the candidate needed to possess were enthusiasm and perseverance," Keene said. "We went over and over the list of men we felt were qualified. To my surprise we finally came up with my name."

Wasting little time, Keene and Kirk, along with SIU government professor Randall Nelson formed the "Blue Ribbon Slate" and pledged to revitalize the city and its government.

The slate conducted a vigorous campaign against Mayor D. Blaney Miller's administration, often assailing in their speeches the lack of leadership at city hall.

When the last ballots had been counted, Keene and the "Blue Ribbon Slate" found themselves the victors and heirs to the city's many problems.

Since taking office in May, Keene has performed with the same vigor and enthusiasm he demonstrated in his campaign. Part of his vitality can be explained by his strong feelings for the city.

"Carbondale is a great place to live. When my wife and I moved here nine years ago, everything in our lives seemed to fall into place. I'm interested in the people of Carbondale and I want to spread my enthusiasm for Carbondale to other people."

Keene has tackled Carbondale's most pressing problems head on. He traveled to Chicago to confer with the president of the Illinois Central railroad to see what could be done about traffic problems caused by IC trains. He went to Washington to request federal aid for the city's ambitious urban renewal program. Recently the Mayor and City Manager C. William Norman visited federal officials in Minneapolis to discuss Carbondale's urgent water supply needs.

The Mayor's ability to talk to people and hear their problems has enabled him to keep close tabs on the prevalent feelings of the community. Keene, often accompanied by Councilman Randall Nelson, takes frequent tours of the city stopping along the way to meet people and listen to their troubles. It's not unusual for the Mayor to drop in on a Carbondale housewife for coffee and a chat or to visit a local construction site to talk to the workers.

When Carbondale was faced with its racial crisis this summer Keene said, "I listened to everyone who came along and I uncovered a lot of answers in the process." He was able to head off the threat of racial violence by hearing out the Negroes' woes and taking action. He formed the Youth Corps and the Employment and Resources Center in order to find jobs for the unemployed. He established the Northeast Advisory Group as a liaison between the Negro section and the city. Streets were repaved, sidewalks were built, trash was cleared away and streetlights were erected in the previously ignored north-east side.

Many of Carbondale's ailments have been cured during Keene's first six months in office, but the Mayor admits that a great deal remains to be done. The poverty-stricken northeast side is still a serious problem and will continue to be into the future. Urban renewal, water shortages, lack of industrial growth and a stagnant downtown area present additional headaches for the city.

Does the Mayor plan to try a fling with Carbondale's future problems by seeking reelection? "I don't intend to at this point," he said. "It's been a big job...buttomorrow, who knows, I may want to."

Head Start Admissions Program Aids Preps

High School juniors can get a one-year jump on the college stampede under a new admissions policy in effect at SIU.

SIU's head-start admissions program enables a high schooler in the upper half of his junior class to apply for admission at the end of his sixth semester. If he still ranks in the upper half at graduation time, an SIU admissions slip is OK'd and the student can go directly through registration.

Illinois students must rank in the upper half of their graduating class or achieve high ACT scores to gain admission in the fall quarter. Those in the lower half, but not in the lowest one-third, can enter any other quarter. For bottom-third students, entrance is restricted to the spring and summer quarters, and then on academic probation.

SIU admissions director Jerre Pfaff has sounded the first call for students who plan to enter school next summer or fall. Written applications to his office should include a high school transcript and ACT scores. Applicants then receive an admissions packet including all necessary forms.

Appointments Set

Pre-registration Ends Dec. 8 For Liberal Arts Students

The last day of pre-registration for continuing students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences will be Friday, Dec. 8.

The Liberal Arts and Sciences Advisement Center has reserved time during the week of Dec. 4 through 8 for last-minute appointments with continuing students. Appointments may be made beginning Friday Dec. 1 for advisement consultations Dec. 4 through 6.

Dec. 7 and 8, which are the final days to preregister for winter quarter, will be for walk-in appointments.

No advance appointments will be given for the final two days.

All students who have a Southern and overall grade point average of 3.25 who will not be registering for the first or last time in the college may self-advise and thus do not need an appointment.

Students planning to register during the week of Dec. 4 are asked to plan schedules carefully and have several possible alternatives for each course since classes are closing rapidly. Closed class permits will not be given unless absolutely necessary and with the concurrence of the department concerned.

Continuing students who have not pre-registered by Dec. 8 will not be able to register until Friday, Jan. 5, of winter quarter, which is the third day of classes. Persons registering at that time will pay a late fee of $5.

Students whose preregistrations were cancelled due to non-payment of fees will also pay the $5 late fee.

Situation Still Tense

Negotiations Continuing Among Greeks, Turks

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—An urgent Greek Cabinet meeting on the Cyprus crisis failed Tuesday night to produce agreement to Turkish demands. Western alliance mediators immediately decided on new visits to Ankara, Turkey, and to Cyprus to deal with points of difference.

Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis emerged from the Athens talks over Turkey's demands and said: "There has been no approval yet."

This came after a long day and night of consultations from which the government earlier had promised a decision one way or the other, as a spokesman put it, for peace or possible war.

The foreign minister told newsmen, "No agreement has been reached with the Turks."

He said he saw the situation as "delicate and dangerous."

Asked if he thought war possible, Pipinelis appeared thoughtful and replied: "Yes, it is possible. It is less of a possibility now."

He conferred with White House envoy Cyrus R. Vance, who thereupon made plans to fly to Nicosia, the Cypriot capital, to talk with President Archbishop Makarios about some of the details involved in the main dispute about evacuation of Greek troops.

Pipinelis also met again with Manlio Brosio, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Greece and Turkey are Nato members. As a consequence of that conference, Brosio decided to fly back to Ankara.

As the Greek Cabinet met earlier in the day more than a dozen Turkish warships maneuvered off the north coast of Cyprus for two hours, then returned to their bases. A Turkish source said it was a routine naval exercise, but it was widely regarded as another show of force to increase pressure on the Greeks.

The new steps by Vance and Brosio clearly indicated that the stumbling blocks in the controversy involved details—undoubtedly the timing and manner of any back-down on either side—which needed very delicate negotiation to remove.

The envoys travelling from Athens to Ankara and back for four days produced some kind of a package which resulted in the Greek government's efforts to find acceptance.

No Agreement Reached On Reducing Expenditures

WASHINGTON (AP)—The gap between President Johnson and key members of Congress on the kind of spending cuts required to justify a tax increase remained unbridged Tuesday on the eve of the administration's big push for the income surcharge.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and William McC. Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, are scheduled to appear before the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, beginning Wednesday.

But Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., declined to comment on prospects, emphasizing that the committee hearing is only on proposals for cutting government spending, not on tax legislation.

Seven weeks ago, the committee, by formal resolution, set aside the tax bill until Congress and the chief executive could agree on a scale-down in government expenditures.

Mills' own position is that spending cuts should match, dollar for dollar, any additional taxes imposed.

Administration spokesmen have indicated the reduced spending proposals they will submit to the committee total a saving of about $4 billion.

The yield of the proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income tax, together with postponement of reductions in excise taxes and speedup of corporate tax collections is estimated by committee revenue experts at $5.1 billion for the full year following that. The estimate assumes the surcharge going into effect Jan. 1, 1968.

Mills is known to contend that the proposed savings fall about $1 billion short of the tax increase, even if taken at face value—and he refuses to take them at face value. A large part of the proposed saving, he has told associates, is really postponement of spending.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Communist China lost ground slightly Tuesday when the U.N. General Assembly brushed aside for the 18th year bids to seat the Peking regime and expel Nationalist China from the world organization.

The vote was 45 in favor of seating the Chinese Communists and 58 against with 17 abstaining. This represented a net shift of only one vote as compared with 1966, but it was significant in that it continued a trend away from the tie vote registered in 1965.

McNamara Bank Post Bid Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Bank confirmed Tuesday night that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara had been nominated as president of the bank.

The first official confirmation of the nomination came after the White House said McNamara's departure from the Cabinet would mean no change in the conduct of the Vietnam War.

The White House said it had nothing to add after refusing earlier to confirm or deny the resignation reports.

In response to inquiries, the bank confirmed earlier reports that McNamara's name had been placed in nomination but it's still uncertain when any formal action will be taken by the bank's executive directors.

It is up to the 20 executive directors who represent all 107 nations to select a new president to succeed the retiring George D. Woods, also an American.

McNamara's name was submitted to the bank last week and telegrams were sent to member governments for their views. Some directors may not want to vote on the nomination until most or all nations reply.

The White House statement that McNamara's leaving would mean no change in the conduct of the Vietnam War was disputed in some Congressional quarters where it was predicted a stepup in the war would result.

The White House denied any rift between McNamara and President Johnson over policy in the bombing of North Vietnam.

There was a wall of silence at both the White House and the Pentagon on a successor for McNamara as head of the Defense Department, which he has ruled with a firm hand for nearly seven years.

Some observers suggested Johnson might want to name a Republican as defense secretary, with the 1968 presidential campaign ahead and the war in Vietnam looming as perhaps the most important issue.

Others speculated that Johnson might tap a leading industrialist in the mold of the management-minded McNamara.

Administration sources indicated no decision has been made on a successor yet. Among those mentioned as possibilities are:

Charles B. Tex Thornton, board chairman of Litton Industries, Inc. Thornton, of Los Angeles, has been a close friend of McNamara's at least as far back as World War II when they served in the Air Force together.

Cyrus R. Vance, presidential troubleshooter in Cyprus and previously special Johnson representative in the Dominican Republic during the 1965 crisis there.

Dr. Harold Brown, 40-year-old physicist, now secretary of the Air Force and formerly chief of defense research and engineering.

Gov. John Connally of Texas, former secretary of the Navy under President John F. Kennedy and an old political ally of Johnson's. Connally, who is not seeking reelection as governor, said Monday night "there is not a word of truth" to reports that he would become the next secretary of defense.

Congressmen Predict Hawk Takeover

An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert S. McNamara's impending departure from the Defense Department is likely to bring a hardening of the Vietnam war effort, congressional sources said Tuesday.

Although job fatigue played a part in McNamara's expected transfer to the World Bank after nearly seven years in the Cabinet, the clear indications are that the hawks among President Johnson's advisers have won out.

An official familiar with the situation said that in recent months Johnson has been leaning more heavily on Walt W. Rostow than on McNamara or any other adviser for Vietnam policy recommendations.

Rostow, who is Johnson's special assistant for national security matters, is generally regarded as a hawk on the war.

McNamara has advocated restraint, questioning the increasing commitment of troops and their deployment. He has argued that expanded bombing of North Vietnam will not win the war.

At the White House, where McNamara's resignation was neither confirmed nor denied, a spokesman said his departure from the Pentagon would mean no change in the conduct of the war.

But some congressional sources think one result of the changeover may show up soon in the bombing of Haiphong harbor docks—a move McNamara has opposed.

Others believe there may be action to close the harbor channel by sinking concrete-laden ships in it.

Where once Johnson accepted McNamara's advice almost without question, he now is depicted as sifting the secretary's recommendations carefully, checking them with several of his other subordinates and often altering them before acting on them.

Another factor said by Congress members to have contributed to the President's decision to make a change were the bad guesses by McNamara on the progress of the war and when it might be ended.

Republicans have put together a dossier on McNamara predictions that misfired. They used it in the 1966 congressional campaign and are expected to enlarge and employ it in the next year's presidential contest.

Student Senate Starts 'Grass Roots' Forums

Student forums have been instituted by student government as a new program to get "real grass root discussions and understanding on what the students want," according to Ray Lenzi, student body president.

Lenzi and Stuart Novick, administrative assistant, are presently holding these forums at the floor meetings of Neely Hall. According to Lenzi, similar ones will be held at all the campus dormitories.

The purpose of the forums, according to Lenzi, is to hear ideas that students

Soil Expert Help In State Program For Assessments

Joe H. Jones, SIU soils specialist, is one of five advisers from universities and other agencies helping the Illinois Department of Revenue develop guidelines for assessing the value of farm land according to its productive capabilities rather than the more common system of assessing on the actual amount of crops produced.

Jones says the department's Division of Local Governmental Affairs and Property Tax has been working on the program for about a year with Floyd Smith of Salem, a property assessment consultant and farmland specialist, heading up the program development. Jones and other advisers are helping determine the productive capabilities of different types of soil.

Under the new program, county clerical workers using data on the production capabilities of different types of soil and soil maps from the U.S. Soil Conservation Service can average out a capability rating for each farm in the county as a guide for assessment, Jones says.

Smith says adoption of the new assessment system is voluntary with Illinois counties. A county can start using the program by investing less than $1500 for tax maps plus the cost of clerical help. Eight Illinois counties, including Clinton, Jersey and Wabash in Southern Illinois, are using the system and 11 others plan to start with it soon, he says. The program is available on a non-mandatory plan in Iowa, Ohio and Nebraska, but has been made mandatory by state law in Maryland and New Jersey.

Legal Aid Bureau Handles Civil Suits

A story about the Jackson County Legal Aid Bureau appearing in the Nov. 21 edition of the Daily Egyptian contained two misstatements.

The article erroneously stated that the Bureau cannot handle civil suits. The Bureau can handle civil suits except those which are fee-generating, that is, civil suits in which the lawyer receives a percentage of what the court awards in damages.

The second concerned the location of the Bureau's office. The Bureau's main office is on the third floor of Carbondale city hall. The Bureau also maintains a part-time office at the Jackson County courthouse in Murphysboro.

generally toss around among each other. "We are interested in hearing their opinions on girls' hours, housing policy, educational policy and the general studies program," said Lenzi.

Lenzi went on to point out that through the forums "we are seeking to build a spirit of concern among the students so that we can obtain what the students want."

The participation at the forums in Neely Hall has been more than expected, according to Lenzi. He said no girls flatly disagreed with any of his ideas regarding student power, general studies, housing or girls' hours.

Lenzi said that one girl who was critical of his idea of "student power" at the outset of the discussion ended up in favor of it.

"Student power is the assertion by students of their potential to make and influence decisions affecting their lives," Lenzi said. He stated that "it does not mean the taking over of the university administration by students as some so wrongly feel. I don't think the students want to be burdened with that."

The decisions affecting the students' lives, according to Lenzi, are such things as student wages, social rules, transportation facilities and housing policy. Lenzi feels that "he who has to obey the rule should make it."

Regarding the educational policy, Lenzi says "we are not seeking for control but rather to have a part in the structuring of the policy." He said the feelings of the students should be taken into account before the actual policy should be formulated.

Lenzi stated that the lecture system which prevails in most of the general studies courses discourages freedom for the students to speak out and say what they feel on issues erupting in the classroom.

According to Lenzi, "on the whole the courses in the general studies program prepare the students very poorly to become good human beings."

Holiday Season Events to Open

Season of Holidays will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday with a decorating party in the University Center.

The decorations will center around an international holiday theme and will involve American and foreign students as well as faculty and staff members.

Refreshments will follow the decorating from 4 to 5 p.m. in the River Rooms.

Sunday's event will be a children's party from 2 to 4 p.m. in the University Center Ballrooms. Films, games and refreshments are on the agenda as well as a visit from Santa Claus with a special treat for every child present.

The party is being planned for married students' children between the ages of three and nine.

An ice sculpturing contest will be held from 4 to 5 p.m. Sunday on the University Center Patio. Tools will be supplied for students entering by application. Cash prizes will be awarded.

Campus caroling is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6. Carolers will meet at the University Center and proceed to the classroom area, to Woody Hall, on to Lawson, out to Thompson Point, and return to University Park for an informal party at Trueblood Hall.

The Holiday Convocation will be presented at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 7. Robert W. Kingsbury, assistant professor of music, will direct the program.

Season of Holidays is sponsored by the Special Events Committee of the Activities Programming Board.

MAGGY IS MEASURED—George Williams, graduate research assistant, and student worker Barbara Clemens measure one of SIU's most popular girls before she is loaded to New York's Museum of Modern Art. The bronze statue, a part of the University's permanent collection of art works, will travel the exhibition circuit during 1968.

Musical Accompaniment

Art Exhibit Scheduled

A public reception honoring an exhibit featuring 34 works of art will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Mitchell Gallery in the Home Economics Building.

The exhibit is representative of the total collections owned by the University.

The faculty wood-wind quintet will provide musical background.

The paintings, drawings, prints, sculptures, ceramics, tapestries and banners are a part of the more than 900 works of art on the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

Some of the earliest paintings collected by the University were secured by Burdett H. Shryock, Sr., Dean of the School of Fine Arts. Several works by outstanding American artists were given to the University on permanent loan when the WPA Federal Art Project was discontinued shortly before World War II.

Gifts from faculty, students, private collectors and foundations have helped the collections to grow. Each graduating MFA student who majors in art is required to leave with the University one selected example of his work.

The State Legislature appropriated a substantial sum in 1964 for the University to use as the Architectural Arts Fund. Mrs. Katherine Kuh, critic and writer for the "Saturday Review of Literature," was retained to select works for purchase.

Objects in the exhibit include a large felt banner by Wayne Thiebaud, a bronze by Antoine Bourdelle entitled "Beethoven, A Tragic Mask," paintings by George Inness, Joseph Albers and Rufino Tamayo, and an optical art construction by Toni Costa.

The exhibit will run through Dec. 16.

Edwardsville Students Direct Own Off-Campus Housing

Students at SIU-Edwardsville are getting a chance to supervise their own off-campus housing facilities under an experimental program, while at the same time solving a housing problem.

Although Edwardsville is largely a commuter school with no on-campus housing facilities, there has been a recent demand for nearby off-campus housing by a growing number of students who live beyond the commuting range.

To meet the demand, Edwardsville housing officials have appointed 44 students as resident managers of off-campus housing units where the owner does not reside.

By designating responsible students as resident managers, Edwardsville housing officials are able to fulfill a University rule that all off-campus housing be supervised and have thus increased the amount of housing available.

According to William D. Burcky, Edwardsville's housing coordinator, the response of managers and landlords in the area toward the experimental program has been favorable. "Their cooperation and enthusiasm are helping to assure the availability and quality of off-campus housing," Burcky said.

SIU Coed Selected For 4-H Honors

Linda Rowland, an SIU student from Christopher, has been chosen for honors in 4-H Club Leadership. She will receive an all-expense paid trip to the National 4-H Club Congress from Nov. 26 to Dec. 1 in Chicago.

A trip to the Club Congress is the highest award a member of the 4-H can receive. The top 12 national leadership winners will receive educational scholarships of $500.

Panel Will Discuss Man, Automation

"The Quality of Human Life in an Automated Age" will be the topic of a symposium conducted by the Recreation 500 class at 8 p.m. Thursday in Davis Auditorium.

Miller Newton, a political scientist from Webster College in St. Louis, will be the featured panelist participating in the discussion. Other panelists include William McKeffery, assistant to the vice-president, John Baker, Department of Government, and Arthur Prell, business research director.

Rehabilitation Speaker

Kevin Mitchell of the Arkansas Rehabilitation Center will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Muckleroy Auditorium.

Career Counselor Slated Today

A representative of the Illinois Department of Personnel will be at the Placement Office today to interview and counsel senior students interested in taking the Illinois Professional Career Entry Examination.

The examination will be administered Saturday.

Seniors interested in talking with John McQuown should make an appointment at the Placement Office.

Arrangements to take the Illinois Career Exam should be made with Harley Bradshaw, psychometrist at Testing Services.

Patient Needs Blood

An elderly patient in Holten Hospital is in need of type O positive blood. Any student desiring to donate blood is asked to contact hospital authorities.

New Building Planned

Intramurals See Bright Future

By Wayne Markham

SIU's intramural program, marked by steady growth in the past and reaching some 9,000 student participants this year, seems to enjoy an even brighter future with plans for construction of a "multi-million dollar" Co-Recreational Building.

The 9,000 student participants, anticipated in combined estimates from the men and women's intramural athletic offices, add emphasis to student and administrator support for the badly needed facility.

Glenn "Abe" Martin, co-ordinator of men's intramural athletics, said completion of the building would greatly relieve scheduling difficulties of the present intramural program.

Intramural Cage Schedule Listed

Here is the schedule of intramural basketball games at University High School Gym for today:

6:45 p.m.

Figs vs. Lodgerooms, court 1
Refuge Bombers vs. The Spoiler, court 2

8 p.m.

Stulous Quownus vs. Purple Haze, court 1
The Fox, Flash and Friends vs. Saluki Primers, court 2

9:15 p.m.

Beta Tau vs. Eastern Blades, court 1
Cedar Mansions vs. Ash Cans, court 2

Imperial Wizards Win Championship

The Imperial Wizards won the team championship in the intramural wrestling tournament.

The Marauders were second and the Mat Burners were third.

The individual winners in each weight class were: 120 pounds, Wayne Gugsburger; 128 pounds, Tony Rubiano; 136 pounds, Ken Jones; 145 pounds, Wayne Rudolph; 155 pounds, Allan Stern; 163 pounds, Murphy McCabe; 175 pounds, Dean Thompson; 190 pounds, Larry Gardner; heavyweight, Doug Zapotocky.

Swim Tournament Date Rescheduled

The date of the annual intramural swimming and diving tournament has been changed from December 2 to February 17, the intramural office has announced.

Beginning this week a record 3,000 SIU men will start play on a 600-game intramural basketball season that ends before Christmas break.

Basketball courts for intramural games are reserved in the Arena, Women's Gym and University High School Gym during regular season play, according to Martin.

In addition, he said, directors have had to use facilities in the Army and area schools on special occasions like intramural tournaments where SIU is the host.

Female intramurals also figure into the ever-growing program. This year the Women's Recreation Association (WRA), will field five intercollegiate basketball teams chosen from a larger intramural pool.

Miss Charlotte West, faculty adviser to WRA and director of the women's intramural program, said, "Women students for the most part do not avail themselves of the opportunities for athletics, but once out, they stay out for their sport."

Even with a smaller program than men's intramurals, any further expansion of a women's program is a "question of space."

The Women's Gym, according to the WRA adviser, is in constant use during open hours from 8 a.m. Monday to 5 p.m. Friday, and the weekend recreation program, open to all University students, is equally taxed.

Basketball seems to be the most popular intramural sport, but other leading sport programs in the men's intramurals include flag football, which had some 2,000 participants last fall, and softball, which drew 2,400 last spring, according to Martin.

GLENN "ABE" MARTIN

Women have a choice of 10 sports including intramural play in which they can participate on various levels.

Men's programs include 17 sports activities open to University students, and this year number 18 was added with SIU's first annual Turkey Trot, a cross-country race of two miles with prizes for the individual and team winners.

Martin said his office "tries to keep abreast of student interests," and he attributed organization of the Turkey Trot to student suggestions.

Jack W. Graham, chairman of the committee which is supervising planning for the Co-Recreational complex, linked a similar "pulse feeling" among students with specifications considered by his committee.

The chairman of the Campus Recreation Facilities Planning Committee said the co-recreational facility is now at the architects stage.

Tentative location of the intramural-recreational complex, according to Graham, is on a site north of the Brush Towers housing area.

He said present specifications to the architect call for a regulation size pool and 12 basketball courts to be included in the plans, as well as numerous indoor handball courts, a weight lifting room and other activity areas.

The chairman stated that with construction of the complex, SIU would have "the finest facility of its kind in the Midwest."

While refinements are being made in relation to the swimming area, Graham said, "an outside architect has been secured and requirements for the permanent fixed equipment have been submitted to him earlier this quarter."

Date for start of construction is not yet known and nothing definite appears likely before the end of this academic year, according to Graham, who reports his committee's findings to the Campus Buildings and Grounds Committee.

Funds for the building were authorized by the Board of Trustees in December of 1964, following a student referendum in January of that year which supported construction of the Co-Recreation Complex and Health Service facilities.

A $15 Student Welfare and Recreation Building Trust Fund was set up and is part of the fees charged every undergraduate student.

Today's enrollment of close to 19,000 seems to exhibit a better support for the growing intramural program, attested to by the 9,000 student participants.

Varsity Crushes Freshmen In Annual Game

game by both Butchko and Rosborough and only got off five shots, four of which were successful.

Terry Buhs had nine points, Tom McBride six, B. J. Trickey five, Roger Westbrook, Gene Cross and Rich Beard four apiece, and Doug Boohler and Martyn Bradley two each.

The freshmen shot for a .339 percentage. They were outrebounded 51 to 35 by the varsity.

The varsity defense forced the frosh into 14 turnovers, seven in each half.

Friday night the Salukis play their opening regular game against Sam Houston State in the Arena. That game will be followed by a Saturday night contest against McMurray College.

Coach Jack Hartman said he was pleased with the play of both Keene and another reserve Juarez Rosborough, who converted three of five shots from the floor and grabbed five rebounds.

"Juarez is making a strong bid for the starting center position," Hartman said. "He's very quick and has looked impressive during practice sessions throughout the week.

Another reserve whose play has picked up recently is guard Criag Taylor. He alternated with Barker throughout the contest.

The varsity shot for a .443 percentage. Two regulars who had trouble finding the range throughout the evening were guard Willie Griffin and forward Chuck Benson.

Griffin made only one of 13 shots and Benson hit four of 11. Benson snagged eight rebounds.

Hartman said he wasn't particularly concerned with their inability to convert their shots. "Both Chuck and Willie are better shooters than they showed tonight. Willie will have to work on putting his game together. He did a lot of things right out there, but failed to put it all together."

Butchko got loose several times in the final half and added six points to his first half contribution. Other varsity scorers were Barker with six, Taylor two, Jay Westcott six, Bill Steppe two, and Bobby Jackson three.

Simpson Second

Beban Wins Heisman Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Gary Beban, UCLA's record-setting quarterback, Tuesday won the Heisman Trophy, annually awarded to the outstanding player in college football.

Beban polled 369 first-place ballots and 1,968 total points to beat out O. J. Simpson, Southern California's dynamic running back. Beban will receive the Heisman Trophy, the 33rd, on Dec. 7 at the Downtown Athletic Club.

Simpson finished with 261 first-place votes and 1,722 total points. Simpson, a junior, was the nation's leading rusher.

Leroy Keyes of Purdue, who led the nation in scoring, finished third with 278 first-place votes and 1,366 points.

"I have mixed emotions over winning," said Beban in a telephone interview. "I'm surprised at the choice because there were three fine candidates. Of course, I'm very grateful."

Beban, Simpson and Keyes dominated the balloting, with fourth place going to fullback Larry Csonka of Syracuse, who had 136 points.

He earned the trophy with a spectacular season in which he gained 1,586 yards in total offense and accounted for 19 touchdowns passing and rushing. He finished his career with 10 UCLA offensive records.

The Bruins had struggled through three straight losing seasons before Beban arrived in 1965. In three years he has piloted UCLA to 23 victories, five losses and three ties. UCLA was 7-2-1 this season.

"It is inconceivable that anyone could be of more value to a team than Beban is to ours," said his coach, Tommy Prothro.

"He can be a loser for 56 minutes but keep you poised for the big play that will make you a winner."

A scrambler, Beban relies on his ability to run almost as much as his passing. "I've always admired scrambling quarterbacks like Fran Tarkenton," he says, "I think they are the wave of the future in football."

USC Remains In Top Spot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach John McKay was really not floored Tuesday when advised that his University of Southern California Trojans had been named the national collegiate champion football team for 1967 in the final poll conducted by The Associated Press.

"But of course I'm very tickled. I was worried," said McKay, a humorous fellow. One never is sure whether John is putting one on.

"No, really," he continued. "You never know about those votes until they're in."

National championships are treasured matters and this is the second for McKay since he took over at Southern Cal in 1960. His 1962 team was unbeaten in 10 regular season games and defeated Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

And it is Rose Bowl time again for McKay and the Trojans, whose only setback in 1967 was a 3-0 defeat by Oregon State in a mud battle at Corvallis.

Indiana's Cinderella kids are coming west to represent the Big Ten in the New Year's Day classic at Pasadena.

McKay is well aware of the psychological emotion Indiana can generate for this game. A team that won only one contest in 1966, the Hoosiers lost only one this season.

The top 10 in the poll: 1. Southern Cal. 2. Tennessee. 3. Oklahoma. 4. Indiana. 5. Notre Dame. 6. Wyoming. 7. Oregon State. 8. Alabama. 9. Purdue. 10. Penn State.
