SIU-C heading for changes, Somit reports

By David Murphy
Staff Writer

The status of the University Bike Lab, according to President Albert Somit, is dominated by one fact: It's bigger than ever, and it's going to change.

Those were Somit's main points in his "State of the University" address to about 100 alumni attending a luncheon in the Student Center ballrooms Saturday.

Somit also praised the work of a number of University departments, Morris Library and the University Press, all celebrating their 25th anniversary.

The award for teacher of the year and three alumni achievement awards were also presented at the luncheon.

"Enrollment continues to move upward and is now at about 26,000 students," Somit said. "Those of you here at earlier times may be amazed and, at times, appalled. It's a bit more than we can handle comfortably and we're looking forward to it falling a bit in the next few years."

Somit told the alumni—a few from as far back as the class of 1966—that SIU-C granted about 5,300 degrees last year.

"That's more than the total number of students enrolled yearly in the school until, I think, about the mid-1960's," he said.

In its 25th year, Morris Library's collection is approaching two million volumes, making it necessary to rent a warehouse in Mattoon as a storage facility for the library, Somit said.

"As you may know, we are getting to the point where we are crowded," he said. "We will inevitably need some major construction on campus in the future, and when we do, you'll hear about it. We'll need your help."

Somit praised the University Press, "one of the most distinguished in the country, noting its ability to keep SIU-C's name known both nationally and internationally.

Somit also praised the Undergraduate Student Organization for coordinating the Carbondale Clean-Up Day, and said the recent athletics fee referendum should put an end to questions about the value of the athletics program.

"I hope we're through debating sports," he said. "We have a agreement and we should go out and build the best program we can."

Somit said this year also represents the 25th anniversary of the School of Agriculture, College of Business and Administration, and the College of Communications and Fine Arts.

Following the address, the annual Great Teacher Award was presented to Marcia Anderson, associate professor of business education in the Department of Vocational Education Studies.

Anderson, 29, was selected by members of the SIU-Alumni Association. She received a $1,000 cash award and an award plaque.

Anderson is the co-author of three books and has published several articles in professional journals.

Alumni Achievement Awards were presented to David G. Karraker of Alton, S.C., a research chemist; David T. Kenney of Springfield, director of the Illinois Department of Conservation; and Frank C. Adams of Carlyle, former director of the SIU-C Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

About $25,000 in budget cuts will eliminate 12 University positions and downsize 24 others, but there is uncertainty as to whether an additional $25,000 will be trimmed, an assistant to President Albert Somit said Sunday.

John Baker, special assistant to the president for planning and budgeting, said some of the positions affected are currently occupied. It is hoped that the $25,000 "may not be cut," Baker said, because of an error in the original calculation. "We need to do some refiguring," he said. However, Baker said, "it is quite probable" that further budget cuts may occur "because we have to provide as much money as we need."

Both Somit and Baker said in September that $400,000 which was already budgeted must be cut to offset additional reductions in appropriations from the state this year.

The Office of Academic Affairs will eliminate three positions, including a clerk. Two positions were eliminated at a savings of $25,000. Said Baker said cut in academic affairs funds will result in hiring more junior, less experienced faculty members.

Two positions were eliminated in the President's Office because of a $61,200 cut. The positions were newly created for program development and "cannot currently afford them," Baker said in a memo to Somit's budget advisory committee.

The Office of University Relations budget has been reduced by $25,000, and in elimination of three positions and a reduction in support costs of $11,960.

The cuts will eliminate both a television producer position and a television equipment operator job. Also, the reductions will cause the office to "hold back on establishing a sizable video program of television news material," and more than $50,000 worth of television production equipment will remain idle, Baker said.

Gus says when the administration begins looking for ways to cut the budget, they should count every paper clip and envelope they use—along with every housing allowance and line of absence they're subsidizing.

$25,000 may be saved from new budget cuts, Baker says

More than 300,000 demonstrators flocked to European countries Sunday to protest a U.S.-Soviet arms buildup they claim threatens world peace.

In Brussels, at least 200,000 people staged what police sources said was the largest demonstration in Belgium since World War II, while more than 50,000 marchers paraded through Paris and a similar number rallied in an eastern sector of Berlin.

Reflecting a growing tide of pacifism across Europe, the protests followed similar demonstrations Saturday that drew crowds of 200,000 in Bonn, 150,000 in London and 200,000 and nuclear protesters rallied in Bonn, West Germany.

Government ministers and leaders of political parties led the three-hour march that completely jammed downtown Brussels.

Officially, police said there were only 65,000 demonstrators, but police sources admitted that the crowd was closer to the 200,000 estimated by reporters on the scene.

Although Belgium's outgoing left-center coalition government was not official supporting the demonstration, its participation was supported by Parliament members. At least three Socialist ministers of the government marched in front of the peaceful cortège, together with chairman of the Socialist and Communist parties.

The United States and Soviet Union have scheduled talks to begin Nov. 30 in Geneva, Switzerland, on reducing nuclear arms in Europe.

North-South summit served as debate on causes of poverty

By George Goode
Associated Press Writer

CANCUN, Mexico (AP) —
The North-South summit conference held here last week reduced to its simplest terms, was a debate over whether poor countries are victims of an unjust international economic order or actively participating in the system.

The debate was really about countries like Tanzania, a country plagued with massive debt, extreme poverty and an acute shortage of foreign exchange and of even the most basic consumer items such as bread and sugar.

In any North-South dialogue, Tanzania's claim to membership in the underdeveloped "South" is unquestioned. It is one of the 20 poorest countries in the world and the only one represented at last week's summit which is located wholly south of the equator.

The summit's main topic was Tanzania, the country's best known representative, its economy, its people, its crops — and its name.

To President Julius Nyere, who was present for the 22-nation conference, the Tanzanian experience over the past decade provides irrefutable evidence that the existing international economic order is hopelessly biased against Tanzania and countries like it.

To Nyere's detractors, Tanzania represents a textbook example of what can happen to a country which does not rely on what President Reagan likes to call "the magic of the marketplace."

Nyere argues that Tanzania's problems stem mostly from a steady deterioration in the terms of Tanzania's foreign trade. Nine years ago, seven tons of Tanzania's cotton exports could buy a seven-ton truck. Last year, the purchase of the same type of truck ate up the earnings of 20 tons of cotton.

To buy a tractor in 1978 required 13 tons of Tanzanian tea compared with five tons in 1972. Meanwhile, fuel costs, which used up only 10 percent of Tanzania's export earnings a decade ago, now take 60 percent, leaving little for investment.

It is the plight of countries like Tanzania which has raised virtually all Third World countries in support of the establishment of a new international economic order which, in effect, would transfer global economic decision-making from the industrialized countries to the Third World.

Nyere and his allies maintain that under the existing system wealth is transferred from poor to rich countries.

Suspects held in rape, assault of nun

CHICAGO (AP) — Authorities in New York City and Chicago held two young men Sunday on charges of sodomy, assault, robbery and burglary in an attack in which TV cameras were scratched off of a nun's body.

Harold Wells, 22, who was seized Saturday by Chicago police, appeared Sunday in. a New York court. His case was transferred to the chief judge of Cook County's criminal division for a bond hearing Monday.

Wells was picked up Saturday at a bus station here and told police he fled New York because he feared a rumored murder contract. He admitted attacking the 30-year-old nun, police said, and named an accomplice.

The alleged accomplice, Max Linhart, 23, was arrested in Manhattan on Saturday night, and was being held by New York police officials said Sunday.

Chicago Police Sgt. Thomas Kelley said that shortly after Wells was apprehended, he told Chicago authorities he and Lindeman raped the nun Oct. 10 in a convent in New York's East Harlem section.

New York investigators said that late on the morning of Oct. 10, the nun heard noises on the third floor of the convent and discovered two men had entered the room.

The men told the nun they needed money, police said. When she said she didn't have any, the attackers threw her to the floor, ripped off her clothes and raped her, police said. The attackers fled after-taking $50 and a watch.

Troops dispatched to Polish villages

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Declaring that "extraordinary situations require extraordinary measures," the Communist government is dispatching troops to back up local officials in some 2,000 Polish villages, it was disclosed Sunday.

Accusing the independent labor federation Solidarity of "blackmail," the government also demanded an end to wildcat strikes by more than 250,000 workers.

Gen. Tadeusz Napalowski, minister of administration and the police, military units would fan out across Poland.

Nuclear power plant vote upcoming

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The nation's most ambitious nuclear power program goes on trial in Washington state Nov. 1, with voters deciding whether consumers — and not just utilities — should control the construction budget.

The focus of much debate, and record campaign spending, is a people's initiative which sponsors call a last-ditch effort to control runaway spending on five nuclear power plants.

If it succeeds, the initiative may well spell the end of this country," says Robert Ferguson, head of the association building plants on the Hanford nuclear reservation in central Washington.

Church accused of faking "miracle"

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Reports by six girls of a golden-haired Madonna floating over a remote mountain meadow have provoked the Communist government to accuse the Roman Catholic Church of manufacturing a miracle for political purposes.

Eleven people were expelled from the Communist Party and 48 others received official warnings because they visited the site of the reported apparition, according to a Belgrade newspaper.

"It was a publicity trick, an attempt to show strength," said Radovan Samardzic, secretary of the government's Commission on Church Relations.

Only two have filed for council position

With the deadline for submitting resumes at noon Monday, only two persons have applied to fill the City Council seat vacated by the resignation of the Rev. Charles Wlkins. Persons wishing to apply for Wlkins’ seat need only inform the city in writing to be considered.

Wlkins resigned effective Oct. 31 to take the position of pastor at the First Christian Church of Owensboro, Ky.

The two applicants as of 2:05 p.m. Friday are Neil Dillard, the assistant director of computing affairs at SIU-C, and B. C. Bower, retired principal of eight people, including Dillard and Boone, had applied to replace Susan Mitchell, who resigned from the council in the summer.

The deadline for submitting resumes in noon Monday at the City Clerk’s office. Remains of applicants will be distributed to council members for consideration at the council’s meeting at 7 p.m. Monday. Also scheduled for discussion at the meeting is a memorial request by Jacob and Gladys Rendleman of Carbondale to permit the construction of a new shopping center anchored by a Wal-Mart on east Main Street west of the K-Mart Shopping Center.

Dunn says he’ll seek re-election

State Rep. Ralph Dunn, R-Stillwater, has announced his candidacy for re-election.

A nine-year veteran of the House, the Du Quoin Republican’s new district, if re-elected in 1982, would be the 115th as a result of redistricting. Dunn said he knew of no other candidates for the office.

Rep. Wayne Alstot, R-56th District, ruled out running for Dunn’s seat, but said he may seek the office currently held by State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Stillwater. Buzbee has already announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor.

Dunn said he is pleased with his new district, which he said has a Republican majority.

Instead of the other way around. Nyere’s critics, while recognizing that external conditions have not been favorable, claim that his domestic policies are the principal cause of Tanzania’s economic decay.

One such critic is Kenneth Adelman, a former assistant defense secretary who was named this past summer as deputy U.S. representative to the United Nations.

Before his appointment, Adelman wrote, “Nyere has carefully designed Tanzania’s industry for ‘meeting the people’s needs, not for the making of profits.’ He has done quite well on the latter.”

Waste piece glaringly inadequate

I hate to be a spoil-sport, however there are glaring inadequacies in the Egyptian editorial on nuclear waste (Oct. 21). The nature of the editorial would reduce it little more than produce excitement on Saturday.

The two introductory paragraphs are ad hominem arguments argumentative. The nuclear advocate is biased by use of his as the editorial is itself inadmissible and just plain bad journalism. This must, however, not the key issue.

The editorial's criticism is forth and subsequently skips, "Radioactive waste of a sort is a potential health hazard." If this has any validity, then this folly is not in demanding the need for nuclear plants, this is suggesting the need for nuclear plants.

Nuclear waste poses a health hazard, and this hazard is not proportional to the waste as a sample. An example can be these substances as a product of the radiation, which has been proposed to be exposed to a large quantity of nuclear waste with a short period of time. This unmasked, the half-life of a radioactive product is not itself. A more severe indication of how much radiation is involved, nor does it mean the total time of radiation output. It indicates the speed of decay for the radiation output. This indication is useless for policy decisions if further radioactive materials are to be considered.

One of the more bizarre failures of the editorial is the lack of a follow-up question to the question of why the waste must be located away from population centers. If this is a health hazard, why must it be the case? There are neither hazards to be avoided, nor are there any hazards which can be reduced by a reduction in emissions. Hence, there are no hazards, in which case the waste must not be waste in a metropolitan area. The latter is more appropriate, as these are the locations which benefit more from nuclear utilization and dumps closer to the city would mean incineration costs.

I have tried to present a short argument critique of the editorial and I also aim to present this offer. The article has not revealed the many reasons because of an assumption that we need nuclear artifacts. The critics in the article are for the very few, perhaps the most non-argue and are very particular and the masses of people at this historical moment, do not need more. I would like to see the state of today's world "locked out of the few available dump sites that exist," if for no other reason than this force us to reevaluate our real needs and our method of waste disposal. —Ray Musto, Sociology.

Registration staff did their best

As students workers in the registration center, we feel we are doing a good service by David Murphy, The Daily Egyptian was essentially the Daily Egyptian for the story concerning the registration appointment system.

First of all, let's get the permanent items of the story clear. Mr. Bennett: no one was "getting a hang out of being registered," nor were they imagining what it was like to be one of the students who had to deal with over 7,200 students at 7:15 in the morning! Let us tell you, it's not a good time. Did you ever actually see a registration center before the doors opened or hear the bear say, "grab them"? No, you didn't, because it never happened...

The student center doors were opened early because of a long line that had formed by 7:15. Even if you had arrived by 8:00, you would have been there at the end of that line. We hope that the students are realizing the situation prior to picking up the caribou, but, of course some are not.

In any case, for the job that was accomplished that Monday morning we thought it was a good job. —Karla Everding, Sophomore.

The Daily Egyptian was edited by Mr. Snipes, and guest, were to see the registration.

A fine Homecoming weekend

The crowd dished-out throughout the campus to perform with wood, which showed spirits, both alcohol and warming them on late hours.

The bonfire was lit, and the mock Ragin' Cajun, perched on top of the student center, and two green on a wedding cake, was quickly engulfed in flames. The homecoming at SU-C had begun.

On Saturday, was the theme Homecoming, and in the Student Center, brunch, breakfast, and saurkrout were a crowd enjoying polka bands and a yodeling contest. A standing-room-only audience was between Shreveport and DeLaure is one of the ballrooms. All of it just a warm-up for the real excitement on Saturday.

The day dawned crisp, cool and a perfect day for a football game. The Marching Salukis struggled out of bed and instruments. Their frames with other exhibits, they proudly paraded 10 blocks in a fine show of flash, glitter, and excitement. Swarming away the main event of the occasion, the football Salukis won the Sugar Bowl against Cajun of Southwest Louisiana State.

The football team was named to the.bundle up SU-C fans down. They were hot on cold day, and they dreamed the Cajuns in a fantasy of magic.

There were many other noteworthy activities going on this special SU-C weekend —five Saluki women swimmers set a world record, a Miss Ebenses was crowned, a great teacher's named.

One of the ongoing contributed to a fine Homecoming weekend, one that was enjoyed by all who took part. It is hoped that next year's event will turn out as well as this one did.

Nicholas Nickleby illuminates the worthy cause of kindness

EXPOSURE to the large spirit boy, "Dickens" should be on a grand scale. It was announced Friday night and one-half hours in early Victorian England at the Royal Shakespeare Company's splendid production of a play brought from Dickens' upwravng novel Nicholas Nickleby.

This is an age quoting on products that are frivolous in conception and moddity in execution. But as actors playing 127 roles on a set that was masterpieces, and the producer, with passion, a gem. They have recreated the world that Dickens, Godlike, created and filled with a rapturous variety of the sort of people we shall forever describe as Dickensian.

Much has been made of the $100 ticket price. That is 20 cents a minute three cents a minute less than a lot of Broadway furt. When the 17,464 were approved, 17,500 people will have seen it (Pew, at the time of 'Nicholas Nickleby' at a University of Michigan football argy). And the producer, we had about broken even.

BY BRINGING "Nicholas Nickleby" to Broadway, they have the opportunity of a great Dickens and other Nicholas Csehmen director a glittering deed in a doubly world. Dickens has been called the least artistic and great, and be certainly the most popular fine novelist in the language. Most of his writings appeared first in serial form in periodical publications. He endowed with journalism, as entertaiment, sort of like today's comic strip. It is sometimes said, dismissively, that Dickens wrote "cartoons," meaning that he simplified and exaggerated virtues and vices. But today's cartoons are, cartoons. We have slowed down Dickens to modern-day, Doonesbury and Mad and other entertainments. In an entertainment fable at wisecracks and call the dabbler, "Nicholas Nickleby," Social Commentary.

But Dickens changed society, improved and saved lives. Dietrich Bonnenger quotes the following: "those prisons for unwanted boys that are one subject of 'Nicholas Nickleby' are among the many wrongs that helped to be helped."

HE MAY have been too sentimental for today's "realists," but he left a legacy of improvement, which they are not apt to do. He was not especially ef- fective advocate for children. In his day, children were still grave. In the usual adult and "education" still aimed at "breaking the child's spirit." Few today write much about childhood, perhaps because its con- cerns are as many, and more mysterious, than those of adulthood. Most adults have pruned their dreams and narrowed their focus and become relatively (rejected) children simple. Dickens, in "Nicholas Nickleby" and elsewhere, took the terror of childhood and the seriousness of a man who could really remember being a boy.

A critic, "raining that evil is more interesting than good, says: "Take someone to see the snakes." At the end of the play, Nicholas Nickleby's audience rise up and applauded the last few"Rite of As in the human zoo. Is Nicholas standing there at the end with an arm around him, reminding us that there is always another child to be comforted, "too good to be true"? He is, if we think so. Thinking of him as impossibly noble can make us unnecessarily discouraged about our capacities.

G.K. Chesterton, a Dickensian figure in his physical appearance and his more than simple confidence in the common people, wrote: "I do not think that whereas a post in the Middle Ages inscribed "Abandon Hope! All Ye That Enter Here" over the gates of Hell, modern writers murmur that over the gates of this world. But over the gates of Dickens' turbulent world is inscribed the injunction to abandon hopelessness and all the pleasures.

Orwell, with his disdain for "shuddery little orthodoxies," distills Dickens' doctrine: "If men should believe decently, the world would be decent. That lack of metaphysical foolish, but it has the not inconsiderable virtue of being true."

Unlike John Osborne and the other "angry young men" of the postwar theater, Dickens was, in Orwell's phrase, the "angry getaway.

In his Osborn's "Look Back in Anger" the protagonist, Jimmy Porter, says: "There aren't any good brave causes, which has found an avid audience. Dickens, in that of the worthiest cause is kindness, and it is timeless.

Recitals, jazz band concert scheduled

Two faculty recitals and a jazz band concert highlight activities planned by the School of Music for this week.

Faculty members Robert Weiss, trombonist, and baritone David N. Williams will perform in the Old F'ost Foundation Chapel. Weiss’ program is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday and Williams will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Admission to all events is free and open to the public.

Weiss has chosen selections ranging from 17th century music for sackbut, an early, smaller form of the trombone, to contemporary music.

A unique feature of his performance will be the composition “Additions” by Anthony Brown, in which the trombone and flutes are played offstage, amplified and periodically run through a tape-delay system.

Weiss will be accompanied by music faculty members Donald Beaston on piano and harpsichord, J. Helen Poule on violin, and Jerry Underwood on flute.

SIU-C fraternity is No. 2 in nation

SIU-C’s chapter of the Pi Omega Pi business education honorary society has been ranked second in the nation by the society’s national headquarters.

The Beta Zeta chapter was ranked second among 91 chapters on the basis of national, state and local projects, service to the profession, publications at state and national levels, and articles by chapter members carried by the society’s newsletter.

Williams, assistant professor of music, has included works by Vivaldi, Strauss and Douglas Moore in his program.

He will be accompanied by his wife, Cadence, on harpsichord and piano, and by Charles Fiegel of the music faculty on bassoon.

The Williamses recently completed a two-month study and concert tour of Austria, where they worked with leading conductors and musicians from Europe and the United States at the American Institute of Musical Studies in Graz.

Review in the Graz kleine Zeitung cited Williams as “a wonderful discovery possessing a dark, powerful baritone voice.

Williams’ work in opera includes performances with the Central City Opera of Colorado and the opera theaters of Kansas City, the University of Colorado and the University of Wichita.

Three groups will perform at the SIU-C Jazz Band Concert set for 8 p.m. Wednesday in Sycamore Auditorium.

The concert will be dedicated to the memory of Herbert Kriluss, a jazz saxophonist killed in an automobile accident.

Entertainment by the jazz band will include a mixture of contemporary music and band selections.

Two original tunes by student composition David Henderson will be featured.

Mercy, a group of musicians from the community, has chosen a repertoire of modern jazz and contemporary jazz-rock tunes.
Homecoming spirit ignited by festivities

By Vicki DeGraycy
Staff Writer

Students and alumni who attended Friday night's bonfire probably said to themselves, "Down the Cajuns! We're number one!" and "Five in a row!"
The Salukis went on to burn the Louisiana State University Ragin' Cajuns on the football field 41-24 Saturday.

About 300 students, athletes and band members braved the cold to attend the bonfire rally, the opening event of Octoberfest. The Marching Salukis, skaters and cheerleaders led students from the east- and west-campus residence halls in a snake dance to the south Arena parking lot, the site of the bonfire.

Both Lew Hartsoe, interim athletic director, and Charlotte West, women's athletic director, expressed appreciation at the bonfire for the support that the students have given the University's teams.

"The kind of spirit you're expressing tonight is really important to the athletes," West said.

The football team could not attend the bonfire because they were meeting in the Student Center, but Coach Ray Dempsey thanked the people at the bonfire for their support of the Salukis.

"I appreciate the support and I especially appreciate the student referendum, the fact that you voted that $30 in," he said.

Friday night's crowd also cheered for the other teams, both those that competed this weekend and those that didn't. Allen Van Winkle, men's basketball coach, introduced this year's team to the crowd.

"I've only been at SIU-C for six months, but I can already tell that we've got the best student body in the Missouri Valley Conference," Van Winkle said.

The unopposed Marching Salukis received $50 in traditional "yellow-like-hell" candy Friday.

The coronation of this year's Homecoming king and queen completed the pep rally festivities. Karriean Shariati, a public relations and marketing major from Upper Marcellin, Md., and Denise Ann Wells, an administration of justice major from Calumet Park, reign over the Octoberfest activities as king and queen. Both were nominated by off-campus Homecoming members.

Shariati, Wells and the other members of the Homecoming royalty presided over Saturday's parade down South Illinois Avenue. Colorful floats, bands, cars, clowns and marching groups entertained a crowd of Carbondale residents young and old as well as University students.

Twenty-two floats marched in the parade. The Egyptian High School Marching Band won the first-place trophy for bands with more than 55 members.

The parade groups varied from the precision marching of the Air Force Drum Team to the crazy, side-splitting antics of the Marching Salukis. The floats varied in size, color and professionalism, but nearly all predicted a Saluki win over the Ragin' Cajuns.

The float built by Alpha Eta Rho won the $90 first prize and trophy competition for floats by other fraternities.

Sigma Phi Epsilon won $100 and a trophy for their "It's Time to Clother the Cajuns" float. The float depicted a German beer garden complete with a clock out of which a person dressed as a Saluki dog clobbered a Ragin' Cajun football player over the head with a mallet.

The float jointly built by Delta Chi and Sigma Kappa won the third-place trophy and $50. "Down the Cajuns in Saluki Spirit" depicted a Southwest Louisiana football player hanging out of a giant beer Stein.

The price of getting a phone installation increased Nov. 1 from $10 to $18 for the basic residential connection charge, according to Carbendale officials of the General Telephone Co.

But with the new rates, customers will have the additional option of hiring an outside contractor to do the installation wiring or doing it themselves, said Chuck Meadows, GTE service manager.

The last increase in the installation option was in 1976, Meadows said.

The increase is in the wiring charge, which will go from $4 to $14.25 for a residence.

Other increases include the travel charge, from $5 to $7.40; jack charge, from $2 to $4.15; and station handling, from $2 to $6.95. The $3 flat charge will stay the same.

The increases were approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission on Oct. 7. The new rates will run from a minimum of $23 to a maximum of $61.80 for the installation of one phone in a residence. Other rate increases were approved for business phone installations. Those installations will range from $33.20 to $75.15.

Also, installation of wiring is available from Phone Mart stores, the GTE business office or by mail.

DeLois Porter crowned Ms. Eboness

By Laurie Landgraf
News Editor

They began to prepare six to eight weeks ago—polishing acts, putting finishing touches on costumes, perfecting a graceful walk.

The week of anticipation culminated Saturday night when DeLois Porter, a 19-year-old international marketing major from Chicago, was declared winner of the 10th annual Ms. Eboness pageant. She will receive a $400 scholarship.

Two contestants, Marcia Martin and Elsie Barnett, tied for first runner-up with Andrea Hicks as third runner-up. Completing the top four were Twila Lavender, Linda Sykes, Bevonda McMorris, Gabrielle Davensett, Danielle Hill, Yvonne Smith, Carmelita Salter, Greta Breathing, Kim Murray and Marion Sanket.

Ms. Porter's talent performance was a dramatic interpretation of a scene from the play "For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide When the Rainbow is Enuff." She also scored points when, as one of four finalists, she delivered an impromptu answer to a question concerning how blacks will survive President Reagan's budget-cutting. Her answer, "Blacks will survive because they always have survived," drew hearty applause from the audience.

Contestants were judged on talent, poise, grace and personality as displayed during the pageant and in pre-pageant interviews with judges. Scholastic achievements and community service also were considered.

Each contestant gave a brief talent performance during the 3½-hour event. Acts ranged from an interpretation of poetry by Davensett to a touching rendition by Hill of "Hope" from the Broadway musical "The Wiz." Unusual choices included Breathing as "Lady Herald," dressed in satin and smoking a cigarette from a zippo lighter, who intoned a poem characterizing the drug endorsed in "Lady Heroin.""After talent presentations, the four finalists responded with impromptu answers to questions from pageant host ethereum, a WDBN disc jockey, and playwright Brenda Major, pageant chairman. Topics ranged from abortion issues to recruitment of minority students at SIU-C.

Tension-building drum rolls accompanied the announcement of the runners-up and, finally, the winner. Judges were S.iza Bringham, academic counselor for black studies; Richard C. Hayes, the University's associate affirmative action officer; C. Lavonne Molton, graduate assistant for the Black Affairs Council; and Harriet E. Wilson, coordinator of minority student enrollment.

Music helps keep swimmers afloat

By Jim Cagle
Staff Writer

At 9:30 a.m. Sunday, there weren’t very many people at the pool during the Saturday hours to witness the Salukis relay team break the women’s 24-hour continuous swim world record, it was rather anticlimactic.

When Laura Brown touched home, she put the Salukis’ mileage beyond 76 miles and climbed a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records, there more noise at the opposite end of the pool where an intramural match was taking place. There were a few shouts of encouragement from the supporting staff, which had waited through the night, nursing the swimmers through the wee hours of the morning—but not the hoopla one would expect after shattering a world record.

Even the stereo system played a mellow song, super-tramp’s “Even in the Quietest Moment.” But that recording was later exchanged for another. So was the mood at poolside.

As R&O Speedwagon’s “High Infidelity” filtered through the speakers, too started tapping and the possible crowd liveved.

Even Janie Coontz, after swimming for 24 hours, had the energy to give her teammates a little mock dance step on the starting platform.

From that point on the crowd got progressively bigger and noisier, until more than 100 people cheered the Saluki five home in the final half hour. The theme from “Rocky” played loud and strong and the crowd clapped and screamed at each member of the quintet, the move her last 100 yards all out and then swam the last lap as a team.

The marathon; swim took its toll on the swimmers. Pam Rallsie lost five pounds during the event, and was so fatigued that she could barely stand up for photographs. Other team members were just as weary. “I’m shakin like a mad dog,” Debbie Ricket said, “How does it feel to be in the Guinness Book of World Records? I don’t know,” Coontz said. “I’ve never been there before.”

Bears win 20-17 in sudden death

CHICAGO (AP) — John Rivete’s 26-yard field goal with 5:30 left in sudden death overtime Sunday lifted the Chicago Bears to a 20-17 victory over the San Diego Chargers, snapping a four-game losing streak.

The triumph was only the second this season for the Bears, who are now 5-4 and left the Chargers with a 5-3 record.

Gary Fink’s interception of a Dan Fouts pass set up the winning score. Fink intercepted at the Chicago 41-yard line and returned 32 yards to the San Diego 27.

Cardinals upset Vikings 30-17

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jim Hart tossed his 199th and 200th career touchdown passes, Neil O'Donnogue booted three field goals and Wayne Morris raced 13 yards for a key score in the final half, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals to a 30-17 National Football League upset Sunday over the Minnesota Vikings.

An epidemic of Minnesota mistakes helped St. Louis end a two-game losing streak and halt a string of five consecutive Vikings victories.

The Cards, 5-5, grabbed a 13-6 advantage in the opening 10 minutes and secured the triumph with two second-half touchdowns.

Vikings miscues included Joe Senese's fumble after a reception of a Tommy Kramer pass in the third minute. Hart seized advantage of the opportunity by scoring in Pat Tillley on a 37-yard touchdown pass one play later. It gave the Cards a 13-6 advantage that grew to 13-0 on O'Donnogue's second field goal.

Minnesota narrowed the St. Louis lead to 13-3 at halftime when Rick Danmeyer booted a 36-yard field goal to cut a 57-yard march.

Dodgers win 2-1, take Series lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pedro Guerrero and Steve Yeager hit consecutive home runs off Ron Guidry in the seventh inning, giving the Los Angeles Dodgers a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees Sunday and a 2-1 lead in the World Series.

The Dodger Stadium 56,115 erupted in thunderous applause and cheers as the Dodgers continued on a comeback trail that began with the National League West Division series against Houston.

The start of the underdog Dodgers continues Tuesday in Game 6 at Yankee Stadium.

"Today was today," Molla said. "Southwest Louisiana played real bad today, and we could do the same thing next week. We have to worry about each game as it comes."

"I'm not as proud of this team because it was 9-3 and it didn't quit," Dempsey said. "I wasn't thinking then about us having a chance to be 5-3 because I don't look down the road. I know that sounds like coach talk, but I don't let myself do it." Molla said Poole shares Dempsey's philosophy.

"This game helps, it'll help us in practice all week," Poole said. "But we have to take out last three games one at a time."

Streaking Salukis scalp Cajuns 41-0

By Rod Fairless
Staff Writer

Saluki football Coach Ray Dempsey knew what the Salukis needed to do to win, and the Salukis did it. "Southwest Louisiana's lost some games. They're hungry. We need to strike early, get them down early," Dempsey said before Saturday's Homecoming game.

The Salukis grabbed 14 points in the first six minutes of the game and went on to slap a 41-0 cage around the Cajuns. Almost 16,000 fans watched the Salukis glide.

"I don't know if anyone noticed, or if anyone knew what we were doing," Dempsey said, "but before the game, the team gave the fans a hand. We appreciate their support."

The fans appreciated the romp, which dropped the Cajuns to 1-4. The win gave the Salukis a 5-2 record and maybe some momentum for their last three games, all of them conference contests.

It wouldn't hurt the second-place Salukis title chances if they could jump on their last three opponents early, like they did the Cajuns.

On the fourth play of the game, safety Bill Thomas recovered a Cajun fumble on the USC 17. Eight plays later, tailback Walter Poole ran from a yard out, scoring the first of the day. His second came minutes later, set up by the Cajuns fumble. Sexton ran the ball from the Saluki 5 and weaved between Cajuns to the 17.

"I thought I was gone," Shipp said, "but I got some good downfield blocking. The tacklers just had the angle on me."

Place kicker Paul Molla isn't as good a punter as he was last season, but in the Cajuns' case he kicked off in the third quarter. The Cajuns' field, and opened up the Cajuns' fourth splot. Molla's last fumble recovery came at the USC 33.

"Never," Molla said. "Never. It felt good, the whole day felt good."

The Salukis in four meetings this fall. The Salukis opened the season by routing the Bulldogs 26-3 at Milford Hills Golf Club. SIU-C also belted the Redbirds at the Illinois State and Salukis.

Blackman said he knew how to handle his team, how to handle any team. "I really expect to have the Redbirds' top runner pass protected, and maybe we couldn't do anything wrong.

"We worked with Rick all year to build him up to that position," Dempsey said. "He's been benging his legs too much."

He didn't bend them Saturday, and his line gave him plenty of time to throw. "We pass protected well," Dempsey said. "Southwest Louisiana has one or two strong pass rushers. The times they sent everybody we picked up on it and ran delays. It seemed like we couldn't do anything wrong.

"If we get a lead and the Cajuns couldn't do anything right. They lost three fumbles and an interception giving the Salukis the breaks they've used so well this year. Shipp is used to grabbing turnovers. He stole his third and sixth interceptions of the season Saturday. He caught his fourth of the season on the Saluki 2 and weaved between Cajuns to the 27.

"I thought I was gone," Shipp said, "but I got some good downfield blocking. The tacklers just had the angle on me."

Despite finishing last in the inaugural Missouri Conference championships, Coach Claudia Blackman was pleased with the performance of the women's cross country team.

Pre-race favorites, Drake would have a walkaway, despite the fact that Leatha Davis, one of the Bulldogs' top runners was coming in with an injury. Drake's Liz Hjalmarsson was first with a 21:34. Illinois State's Wendy Van Mierlo was second at 21:37. Lisha Tenney from Wichita State, finished third with an 18:16.

Senior Patty Pymiere-Housworth was tops for the Salukis, finishing fourth with an 18:25. Juniors Kees Mitchell and Dyanne Donley were 15th and 17th with times of 19:37 and 19:32. Freshman Pat Eletto was 19th at 19:46.

World record broken by Saluki swimmers

By Jim Cagle

What do five members of the SIU women's swim team have in common with the man with the longest fingernails and the lady with the most children? All of them are members of the Guinness Book of World Records.

The Saluki quartet of Pam Ratcliffe, Barb Larsen, Laura Brown, Debbie Riker and Janet Doolittle broke the women's world record in the 24-hour marathon swim in Sarasota, Florida. Their time was 1,666 yards—eight miles and 1,565 yards ahead of the old record.

The Salukis shattered the old mark—76 miles, 415 yards set by the Sarasota YMCA. In 24 hours, Brown completed one of many 50-yard legs at the Recreation Club. The swim began 2:30 a.m. and ended at 2:30 p.m.

"We're starting to take short breaks now," he said. "It's really only the beginning."

The Saluki swimmers IIawed one 50-yard leg at a time, resting while their teammates pulled down their legs. All five were in the relay Rotation when we started. They finally began 1 p.m. Saturday. As the Cold weather affected the Salukis' performance according to Blackman.
