Man charged with murder

By Deedra Lawhead and Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writers

An East St. Louis man was arrested and charged with first-degree murder Thursday in connection with the stabbing death of a 25-year-old Carbondale mother of four.

Dwight E. Jones, 25, is being held in the Jackson County Jail awaiting a court appearance today.

Marshella Sanders Houston died of multiple stab wounds at 2:49 p.m. Thursday at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Houston was attacked outside her home at 7053 N. Barnes St. while family members sat inside.

Jones, also known as "Lynn," was taken into custody by Jackson County sheriff's deputies and Murphysboro Police while hitchhiking north on state Route 127 at 3:47 p.m. Thursday, police said.

Police said the murder weapon has not been found.

Evelyn Johnson, the victim's mother, said Houston and Jones had dated, but Houston had ended the relationship.

Jones left for Orlando, Fla. two weeks ago and Thursday was the first time Jones had seen Houston since then, Johnson said.

Johnson said her family was home when Jones came to the door. Houston went outside to talk to him and the family heard Houston scream. Johnson said she went outside. Houston fell to the ground and Jones fled.

Johnson said when she reached her daughter, Houston said, "Mom, I'm hurt."

Johnson said, with tears in her eyes, "She fell, and I couldn't catch her."

Reiman waives hearing, faces trial in January

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

Dale Reiman, assistant director of the Physical Plant, waived a preliminary hearing as it was about to begin Thursday in Johnson County and will face a jury trial for the murder-for-hire charge Jan. 25.

Reiman pleaded not guilty to the charge of solicitation to commit murder, waived his right to preliminary hearings and is aware of possible penalties he faces if convicted, Richard E. White, Reiman's attorney, said Thursday.

Reiman is accused of attempting to hire David Scott Polk, an inmate at the Shawnee Correctional Center in Johnson County, to arrange the murder of a student worker. Reiman is accused of kidnapping and sexually assaulting in December of 1986.

The name of the student is being withheld.

Prendergast said he doesn't anticipate any problems in finding jurors for the murder-for-hire case. Difficulty usually arises only when potential jurors know the defendant or witnesses in the case, he said.

Dale Reiman "If evidence reaches the press, people may pre-judge the case," Prendergast said. "From reading a lot about the figure (Reiman), people (potential jurors) could form an opinion on whether he's guilty from the press and not the trial."

Prendergast said he could not release evidence, such as Reiman's contacts with Polk, whether Polk was offered

Reagan vows to work on U.S. deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, backing away from a vow never to raise taxes, agreed Thursday to hold an economic summit with congressional Democrats to reduce the deficit that helped spark the selling panic on Wall Street and markets worldwide.

Reagan, who has steadfastly vowed to veto any tax hike proposed by Congress, just as firmly refused to be pinned down on what position he will take on the bargaining table when his top economic advisers sit down with Democrats in Congress to answer the stock market plunge of the past week.

"You don't talk in advance of negotiations," Reagan said at his first formal news conference in more than four months.

But Reagan gave his strongest signal to date that he may have to accept tax increases as part of a package to drastically reduce the multibillion dollar federal deficit.

"Everything is on the table except Social Security," Reagan said in a brief statement at the start of his news conference.

Reagan also announced formation of a special commission to determine why the stock market fluctuated so wildly, hitting historic highs and lows in three days.

The president also named his chief of staff, Howard Baker, and Treasury Secretary James Baker to head his negotiating team with Congress.

Reagan said he does not want to "start a war" in the Persian Gulf and that American military action there was a response to the "irrationality of the Iranians" for firing a Silkworm Missile at Kuwaiti tankers flying under the American flag.

Pommel horse plight

Saluki gymnast Preston Knauf works out on the pommel horse Thursday afternoon in the Arena. SIU-C's season opens on Dec. 4 at the Big Eight Invitational.

Arkansas State next on list for Salukis' respect quest

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The Salukis continue their fight for respectability against 17th-ranked Arkansas State Saturday at McAndrew Stadium in the last home game of the season.

The Salukis, 2-5, were knocked out of the Gateway race by Western Illinois last Saturday. Arkansas State, 4-2, comes to Carbondale with a three-game winning streak.

The Saluki defense will need to give another outstanding effort to stop Arkansas State's wishbone attack. The Indians average 296 yards rushing a game while SIU-C's defense allows just 114 yards rushing a game.

Saluki coach Ray Dorr is worried about the loss of linebacker Mike Carbonaro, who is doubtful to play with a swollen knee. Freshman inside linebacker Kevin Kilgallon, Carbonaro's replacement, is out with a sprained ankle.

"The biggest thing that has me concerned to get the wishbone stopped is that you have to have great play out of your linebackers," Dorr said. "Unfortunately, we're going into the game with young linebackers."

Ezell Shelton moves over to play Carbonaro's position. Red-shirt freshman Ryan Wooten will be inserted in Shelton's spot.

Last Saturday, the Saluki offense corrected their habit for fumbling only to be plagued by another glaring Saluki shortcoming. SIU-C quarterbacks completed just four passes while throwing three interceptions.

"If you know what the problem is you can get it fixed," Dorr said. "We've been able to get it fixed, but a new set of problems erupt. Basically, it's a lack of concentration."

The Saluki offense will try to repeat their 297-yard rushing performance of a week ago.

"I think we have to take our strengths and utilize what we do best," Dorr said. "We have to definitely utilize the option again. I'd think we'd be foolish to change that. We not going to go out and just gamble."

National ranking, 3-game streak assests of ASU football program

By Bill West
Staff Writer

Arkansas State Indian head chief Larry Lacewell and his 17th-ranked squad face a must-win situation when they play the Salukis 1:30 p.m. Saturday at McAndrew Stadium.

The Indians are 4-2 and need to extend a three-game winning streak if they plan to make the Division I-AA playoffs.

Lacewell's team isn't affiliated with any conference for the first time in 24 years. The Indians were Southland Conference champs in 1985 and 1986, but withdrew from the conference and initiated a five-year program to reclaim the Division I-A status that ASU held for seven years.

ASU was at the Division I-A level from 1975 to 1981 before the NCAA "legislated" them down to I-AA status.

ASU will be without the services of All-Southland Conference player of the year, quarterback Dwane Brown.

Brown, a senior, ran for 231 yards and seven touchdowns and threw for two more touchdowns before suffering a fractured eye socket when he tried to break up a fight two weeks ago.

Junior quarterback Earl Easley will operate ASU's run-oriented wishbone offense. Easley has rushed for 302 yards and five touchdowns this season. He carried the ball for 75 yards in ASU'S 37-3 romp over Louisiana Tech last week, in which the Indians racked up 373 yards of total offense.

Sophomore running back Richard Kimball has ground out 291 yards in 82 carries.

The leading receiver for ASU is sophomore split end Fred Barnett with 17 catches for 369 yards and three touchdowns.

Spikers facing tough slate of Gateway foes

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The Saluki volleyball team plays host to two Gateway foes this weekend needing wins over both in order to maintain a third-place standing in the conference race.

SIU-C, 11-12 overall and 2-1 in the league, meets Bradley (1-1, 5-14) at 7 Friday night and Western Illinois (1-1, 11-8) at 4:30 Saturday afternoon.

The conference season is only in its second week but Saluki coach Debbie Hunter said this series is crucial. The results could determine which four teams qualify for the Gateway Tournament on Nov. 19-21.

"Once this weekend is completed, one of us will emerge as the team that is going to be in the finals. We need that type of challenge right now," Hunter said.

The Salukis are at nearly full strength for the first time in several matches, aided by the return of junior Dorothy Buchanan and sophomore Nina Brackins in the middle-blocker slots.

Bradley is without its top hitter, Kathy Vaitkus, who broke her hand Oct. 5. Without a major gun in the lineup, coach Pam Stanek wants to utilize the quickness of sophomores Andra Dystrup and Kelly O'Neill.

"We can't allow things to drag. I'm hoping for an upbeat match. We need Andra for blocking and Kelly to help us defensively," Stanek said.

Michelle Gordey, a 5-8 sophomore, has given the Lady Braves a boost offensively when she moved into Vaitkus' position. Against Northern Iowa last week she had a .500 hitting percentage.

Western Illinois, ranked fifth nationally in team digging,

Twins' star, Centralia native Gaetti an ex-Cardinal fan

Twins third baseman Gary Gaetti hails from nearby Centralia, Ill. He grew up a Cardinal fan.

"Yes, I'm an ex-fan," he said.

He said his family, which remains in Illinois, feels the same way.

"My family better not be Cardinal fans," Gaetti said. "They usually are unless the Cubs are doing better. Then they pick."

Police in Centralia, Ill., said they suspect some Cardinal fans may have been responsible for damage to a marquee at the high school.

Police said the marquee bore a message congratulating Gaetti on being named MVP of the AL playoffs.

Police said beer bottles and other items were hurled at the marquee, apparently early Thursday at Trout Gymnasium, breaking the plastic covering on the marquee and dislodging some of the letters.

Home sweep sweet; Cards take 3-2 lead

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Curt Ford, his opportunity set up by a bad-hop grounder, singled home two runs in the sixth inning Thursday night, pulling the St. Louis Cardinals within one victory of a World Series title with a 4-2 triumph over the Minnesota Twins.

The outcome gave the Cardinals a three-game sweep in Busch Stadium after dropping the first two games at Minnesota. The Cardinals send veteran left-hander John Tudor against rookie right-hander Les Straker in Game 6 Saturday at the Metrodome.

To win the Series, the Twins must do so in unprecedented fashion: winning all its home games and losing all its road games. If the Twins win game five and six, it would be the first World Series where the home team won every game.

Ford drove a 2-1 pitch past Bert Blyleven with the bases loaded, but only after a bad-hop single by Vince Coleman opened the inning. St. Louis added two insurance runs, enabling Danny Cox to outduel Blyleven.

St. Louis has won nine World Series and Minnesota none, although Twins' ancestors won the 1924 title when two bad-hop hits enabled the old Washington Senators to defeat the New York Giants. The Senators moved to Minnesota after the 1960 season.

St. Louis survived a two-run Minnesota threat in the eighth. Dan Gladden and Greg Gagne opened with singles. After Kirby Puckett flied out, Ken Dayley replaced Cox and retired Kent Hrbek on a fly.

Todd Worrell then entered and gave up a Gary Gaetti drive to center. The ball fell out of Willie McGee's glove as he leaped against the wall. Two runs scored as Gaetti reached third with a triple.

In the ninth, with runners on first and second, Worrell retired Don Baylor on a pop to second base for his second save of the Series.

The Cardinals stole five bases in the game, tying a Series record set by the Chicago

Iranian missile strikes
Kuwaiti loading terminal

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — An Iranian-fired Silkworm missile slammed into an oil loading terminal of the Kuwaiti coast Thursday, setting the facility on fire and injuring at least three workers, Kuwait and oil sources said. It apparently was the first successful Iranian attack on the tiny state's offshore petroleum installations, although Tehran Radio reported the strike without commenting or claiming responsibility. The State Department condemned Iran for "naked aggression" in the attack with what "apparently" was a Silkworm.

Summit tops Shultz, Shevardnadze agenda

MOSCOW (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz and Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze opened two days of talks Thursday aimed at clinching an agreement to eliminate medium-range nuclear missiles and fix a date for a superpower summit later this year. Both sides said a major new phase of nuclear arms reduction would also be covered during the talks — long-range strategic weapons, the mainstays of superpower nuclear arsenals. Shultz, who is winding up a whirlwind diplomatic trip that also took him to the Middle East and London, has also vowed that the Soviets on human rights.

Jewish poet awarded Nobel Literature Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Jewish poet Joseph Brodsky, exiled from his native Soviet Union as a "social parasite," won the 1987 Nobel Literature Prize Thursday for writings "imbued with clarity of thought and poetic intensity." Brodsky, 47, is one of the youngest Nobel laureates in the 86-year history of the awards. The Soviet Union declared the one-time ship's stoker a "social parasite" in 1964 and kicked him out eight years later. Brodsky emigrated to the United States, became an American citizen in 1977 and now lives in New York.

Indian soldiers rush Tamil rebel stronghold

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (UPI) — Indian soldiers stormed through much of the rebel stronghold of Jaffna Thursday amid reports most guerrillas had abandoned their lair and eluded an Indian nose around the town. "The Tigers have gone underground," a senior Sri Lankan military official said. Sporadic clashes, however, continued between guerrillas of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam and Indian troops deployed under a July 29 Indo-Sri Lanka peace accord to disarm Tamil rebels in Sri Lanka's 4-year-old civil war.

Exchanges to close next three sessions early

NEW YORK (UPI) — The two biggest stock exchanges said Thursday they will curtail their operations for the next three sessions after four days of tumultuous trading. A two-day rally of blue-chip issues collapsed as the market took another nose-dive. The New York and American Stock Exchanges said they would close two hours early today, Monday and Tuesday to give member firms and their own personnel time to process the huge flow of orders that flooded markets this week.

Officials: Food stamp benefits wrongly denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators said Thursday that thousands of Americans are improperly denied food stamp benefits, a problem ignored by the federal government, which punishes states only for food stamp overpayments. In fiscal year 1985, about 5 million households were either denied food stamps or taken off rolls, and an estimated 3 percent of that total, or 150,000 households, should have received benefits.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supporters of Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork used the first full day of Senate debate Thursday to criticize "the big lie" they said opponents told to deny confirmation to the conservative judge. The chamber, which opened debate on the nomination late Wednesday, gave Thursday over to discussion of Bork, but senators more closely focused on the events to come after the Senate, as expected, votes against confirmation.

Final $1.8 million released by state to Pulliam project

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

University representatives met with the Capital Development Board in Springfield to discuss the Pulliam Hall renovation project, and added $1.8 million to the project budget Tuesday.

"What we decided was that architects will now work on a new budget," Allen Haake, supervising architect for the Physical Plant, said.

The new budget for actual construction during the renovation is about $4.5 million. The remaining money, approximately $500,000, will be used for architects' fees and other expenses, he said.

THE ORIGINAL budget of $5 million was submitted five years ago for renovation only. Last year $3.2 million was released for phases one and two of the renovation, and $1.8 million more was requested for phase three.

The three phases of construction have now been combined into one phase and will be done by one contractor, Haake said. Asbestos removal also will be done during the project and an additional $470,000 has been set aside for the asbestos abatement, he said.

The asbestos removal remains first on the agenda, but will be contracted separately, he said. Bids for asbestos removal will go out on Jan. 21 and the removal should begin in early February, he said.

REMOVING THE asbestos will take about eight weeks and should be completed about the end of April, Haake said.

Open bids for the construction and demolition phase of the project will go out at the end of March, Haake said. Construction should start in May and the entire project should be finished by November 1989, he said.

The original project was to be completed in August 1989. "We're trying to squeeze things a little" since they are running about four months behind schedule, Paake said. Hopefully about two months of the delay can be made up, he said.

FACULTY AND staff who still occupy the offices in Pulliam will be moved into new offices in the Baptist Student Center during Christmas break, Haake said. They will probably remain there until December 1989.

Offices are being painted and carpeting and telephones are being installed in the new offices at the Baptist Student Center, Haake said. The cost of preparing them will be between $40,000 and $50,000.

Pulliam Hall was originally to be closed this semester for renovations, but bids on the project were too high and had to be reviewed by the Capital Development Board, Haake said.

Full classes scheduled for Pulliam Hall were moved to Lentz and Neely halls and Morris Library.

Board of Governors OKs tuition increase for colleges

CHAMPAIGN (UPI) — The Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities Thursday unanimously adopted a recommendation to boost tuition at its five schools by $96 a semester for approximately 46,000 students.

The board said the increase is needed to offset cuts to educational programs by Gov. James R. Thompson. The schools affected are Eastern, Western and Northeastern Illinois universities, Chicago

State University and Governors State University.

The Board of Governors, meeting in Charleston, said the increase would be effective in the second semester and could generate as much as $3.5 million.

Under the plan, in-state freshman and sophomores would pay $666 in tuition each semester, junior and seniors would pay $678 and graduate students would pay $720. Out-of-state freshman and sophomores would pay $1,998, juniors and seniors would pay $2,034 and graduate students would pay $2,160.

Art Tate, a spokesman for Eastern Illinois University, said a number of students could apply for tuition waivers under the state's monetary assistance program for needy students. He estimated the tuition increase would bring in an extra $2.7 million if all the students covered by the program take advantage of it.

Condom machines an SIU-C necessity

DESPITE THE UPROAR that inevitably would be raised within the community, the University would take an intelligent, enlightened step in the direction of social concern if it approved the installation of condom vending machines on campus.

LJP Enterprises Inc., a manufacturer of condom vending machines that has sold its products to colleges and universities nationwide, has asked SIU-C officials to purchase several of the machines for campus. And while the possibility of the machines being installed at SIU-C is in its initial stage of development, that development could expand into a full-fledged and highly successful deterrent to a variety of sex-related problems.

In the midst of the AIDS epidemic — not to mention a plethora of other dangers associated with casual sex — condoms fast are coming out of the social closet and into the public forum as a social necessity, particularly at large universities.

STAUNCH OPPONENTS OF the condom and other forms of birth control might argue that abstinence — the only 100 percent effective form of birth control and prevention of venereal diseases — should be promoted by the University, rather than the condom. They're right, of course, about the effectiveness of abstinence in controlling sexually transmitted diseases and unwanted pregnancies. Abstinence should be promoted as an option, but many college students still will not abstain from sex, despite the much-publicized threat of AIDS.

By sanctioning the installation of condom machines on campus, the University would not be condoning immoral behavior; it only would be providing a valuable service to students who already have made up their mind to have casual sex.

If approval is given for the installation of the machines, some attention should be given to their placement.

THE PRESENCE OF a condom machine in, for example, a dormitory laundryroom doubtlessly would be offensive to some of that dormitory's residents. To that end, the vending machines need to be placed discreetly, out of the public mainstream.

In any event, the embarrassment and moral consternation caused by the dispensers, though unfortunate, is a small cost to pay for the opportunity to prevent even a single case of AIDS or an unwanted pregnancy.

Opinions from elsewhere

The Milwaukee Journal

The news media have become political kingmakers, of a sort, and have some reason to feel nervous about the role. They didn't ask for the job; it fell to them by default. Yet they risk being caught in a backlash, even when they perform in a fully responsible manner.

What we are talking about, of course, is the influence that political reporters wield when they inform the public about the activities, characteristics and background of presidential contenders....

Nowadays, whether a presidential candidacy gets off the ground depends, in considerable measure, on the candidate's ability to project the desired traits through the news media. Candidates failing the test will have difficulty attracting campaign contributions and volunteer workers.

Like it or not, the press has no responsible choice but to keep performing the function — for now, at least. If it does not inform people, most voters simply will be left in the dark.

Guyon made right move in tenure decision

Tenure simply is a status granted after a trial period to a teacher protecting him or her from summary dismissal.

Truthfully, tenure is really as described in a recent Southern Illinoisian "news" article: "... the means by which university professors gain job security and a commitment of future employment at a school." The noble intent of tenure has long since been bastardized — may the principle rest in peace!

When the news first broke, I was alarmed. Was our president, John Guyon, capriciously changing the rules of tenure? Was he acting in a "dangerous manner" as alleged by union representatives?

The IEA-NEA thankfully relieved my alarm and concern in a mailing to SIU-C faculty dated Oct. 8. It seems that President Guyon, acting responsibly, defended a very negative tenure vote (three in favor, 12 against) by a professor's peers, the tenured faculty members of his department.

That negative vote, in turn, was supported by a school promotion and tenure review committee, which also issued a negative vote. Next, a college promotion and tenure committee voted unanimously against tenure (0-7), according to the IEA-NEA. Finally, the dean wrote to then-Vice-President Guyon upholding the recommendation against tenure.

President Guyon supported the tenured faculty in their choice to deny tenure. To do less would be to infringe upon their academic freedom and to insult the wisdom of the professor's peers.

Yes, there are criteria and rules by which a person gains tenure. But, in addition to those standards, a person must be able to work cooperatively and collectively with colleagues over the long term. I believe peers at the departmental level are best informed to weigh all factors, make that decision and choose if they wish to support a commitment of future employment by an institution.

By insinuation and innuendo, the IEA-NEA has insulted Professor Hammond's tenured colleagues. Thank you President Guyon for supporting their decision.

SIU-C would not have kept Nobel winner

I read with interest articles about the most recent recipient of the Nobel Prize for Medicine, Dr. Susumu Tonegawa, a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as they seem pertinent to an ongoing debate at this institution.

Dr. Tonegawa's colleagues, when interviewed about him by the New York Times, commented that his "personality traits had not won him many friends;" he tended "not to socialize with his colleagues" and "is not very interactive." Indeed, Dr. Harvey Lodish, who has known the Nobel laureate for six years, did not even know whether he is married. Dr. Tonegawa, in fact, has not only been married for two years, but also has a 9-month-old child.

Had SIU-C's standard of "collegiality" been applied to Dr. Tonegawa, it seems likely he would have been released long ago. What price, collegiality? — Selma L. Wang, graduate student, psychology.

Remedies abound for boredom in the USA

So, you're bored with the USA. What happened? Did your VCR go on the blink? Mommy and daddy's monthly check is late?

When the Clash sang the phrase "I'm so bored wit' the USA," nearly a decade ago, things were pretty boring. Disco was still king, "Three's Company" was a top-rated TV show and you were in grade school, listening to "ABBA."

Wake up kiddies, these are exciting times. We've got Iran-Contra, the Persian Gulf, Central America, Reagan in the death throes of his presidency and a great Democratic presidential campaign going on. If you're so bored, maybe you should pull your finger out of your nose and quit scratching your brain long enough to look around.

In the next line of the song, the Clash asks, "But what can I do?" Surely, you can do more significant things than scribble lines from times you know nothing about! — Anthony Lee, alumnus, Carbondale.

Stock market crash brings with it some shrewd buying opportunities

AS THE Dow Jones plunged, I nervously pondered the possibility of another Great Depression and wondered what I should do to survive.

So I called my wife and said: "Buy coal. When I was a kid during the Depression, if you had coal in the basement for the furnace, you were all right."

"But we have a gas furnace."

"Buy some coal anyway in case they turn off the gas. And buy potatoes."

"Why?"
"Because I remember that we ate a lot of potato pancakes. Cheap, and they stick to your ribs. And remember to switch off the lights."

AFTER WE spoke, I turned on the TV and heard a financial expert say the stock plunge might merely be a long-overdue adjustment, and there is no reason to climb out on a window ledge.

Even more important, he said that this could be the time to take advantage of some shrewd buying opportunities.

Not wanting to miss any shrewd opportunities, I headed for LaSalle Street, the heart of Chicago's financial district.

I saw a well-dressed young man stumbling along, holding his hands to his face and moaning.

"Excuse me," I said, "but can I ask you a personal question?"

"Make it quick," he cried. "I'm heading for the nearest bridge."

"Are you a yuppie?"

Mike Royko

Tribune Media Services

"YES, I AM a devout yuppie."

"And are you a broker or a trader?"

"Yes, yes, but why are you asking me these questions?"

"I just wondered what kind of watch you're wearing."

"A Rolex, of course. What kind of yuppie broker-trader do you take me for?"

"Would you care to sell it?"

"Would I?" he cried, yanking it off and thrusting at me.

I stuffed a few greenbacks in his hand and said: "And I can't help but notice a Mont Blanc pen in your pocket."

"NAME YOUR price and you've got it. I've already used it to write a farewell note to my sweetheart, an assistant aerobics instructor."

"Thank you. And what about that Hermes scarf hm-mm?"

"As you can see, the scarf is newly tear-stained, so I'll knock off 10 percent."

"Make it 20. Now, let me ask what kind of wheels you have?"

"You mean my ...?" And he began weeping.

"Is it a BMW?"
"Hand washed every second day since I've owned it. Oh, my Bavarian beauty."

HE TOOK the keys from his pocket and said: "It has a list price of ..."

I shook my head. "You don't understand. Now that the Dow has hit 1,700, the market is glutted with them."

I stuffed a few more bills into his hand and took the keys.

"Anything else?" I said.
"Well, there's my Olin skis, and my espresso machine."

"I'm sure we can agree on a reasonable price. Deal?"

"I have little choice."

"FINE. HAVE we missed anything?"

"Well, yes, there is ... no, I can't bring myself to part with it."

"What is it, your Kangaroo golf bag and all-graphite clubs? You can't take them with you."

"No, it's my ... membership in the East Bank Club. With my own locker."

"Ah, poor devil. But I'll take it. Well, nice doing business with you."

"Wait," he said, as he withdrew a small metal container.

"Here," he said, "You might as well have it all."
"What is it?"
"My coke," he said.
"No thanks. I prefer Pepsi."

Stock market crash marks the end, the punishment for 80s yuppiedom

NATURALLY, ALL of you want to know what's happening to the stock market and, more important, why.

The market did not merely crash, it disappeared, like a bathier who wades out too far into the ocean. One moment it was there, full of life; the next it was gone. And now we stand at the water's edge, pointing to the spot where it went down, hoping it will reappear.

Why it happened is another matter, far more complex.

Some say it was a much-needed correction in a continuing bull market. Others say it is the beginning of an economic recession. I take a third view.

I think it's the end of the world.

THERE HAVE been a lot of signs lately, strange happenings that bode ill. For example:

Last week London suffered a hurricane. Ever hear of a hurricane in London before? Jamaica is hurricanes; London is fog. When the wind gets up to 100 mph past Buckingham Palace, strange things are going on.

The Minnesota Twins are winning the World Series. Not since the 1944 St. Louis Browns has a worse team than Minnesota appeared in the Series, and the Browns had World War II as an excuse. The Twins are no better than the 10th best team in baseball; moreover, they play in an abandoned roller skating rink. Something's wrong.

And last week, in my neighborhood, the cock crowed thrice before the dawn and a snow-white owl flew across the moon. I live in the suburbs.

Could all that be a coincidence? Naw. The end is near. God is punishing us for our sins.

I KNEW we were in trouble last month when I visited the Ralph Lauren store in New York. There I saw a cotton sweatshirt selling for $77.50, plus tax. The only thing to distinguish it from any other sweatshirt was the polo player on the breast and a thin stripe of color around the waistband. And people kept elbowing me aside to get at them. It struck me that any society whose members pay 77 bucks for something to sweat in was badly in need of chastisement.

Where spending becomes that lavish and self-indulgent, disaster lurks. As the Bible (Bad News edition) says, "Behold! God doth not suffer Yuppies gladly."

People keep asking if the current situation is as bad as 1929, when the stock market collapse took everything with it. In my opinion, it is not. It is worse.

IN 1929 we had a smart man as president of the United States. Say what you will of Herbert Hoover's efforts to confront the Great Depression, at least they were made by a man who was paying attention. Today we have a president who is very nearly brain-dead.

Mr. Reagan's performance after the market's disappearance Monday was pathetic. In times like these, when the sky is falling, one expects a leader to come before the microphones and offer the nation some words of wisdom, perhaps comfort.

He could have said: "As Joe Biden once said, we have nothing to fear but fear itself." Instead we get him on the run, yelling over the roar of a helicopter, saying that he guessed people were cashing in on profits. No wonder they hardly ever let him out of his cage.

I LOST some money in the market Monday. I put a call into my broker but he didn't call back. I wanted to know what route his children take home from school.

My mother called, though, who has been urging me to get out of the market ever since I got in. And she didn't say I told you so, either. She said: "Don't worry, Honey, if worse comes to worst I can always move in with you and we can live off my Social Security."

I think I'll get the guest bedroom ready, just in case.

money and who first discovered the murder-for-hire scheme. That information might have been revealed in the preliminary hearing, he said.

Richard Evans, of the Illinois Department of Criminal Investigation, was scheduled to testify as the only witness for the prosecution.

White would not comment when asked if Reiman waived his right to preliminary hearings to keep evidence from the press.

"Lawyers are governed by ethical rules," White said. "If lawyers comment on evidence (in a pending case), they would be subjected to disciplinary action from the Illinois Bar Association."

Murder-for-hire is a class X felony, punishable by a minimum of six years and maximum of 30 years in prison. Reiman was arrested Sept. 14 in the Johnson County case.

He faces a pretrial hearing Nov. 12 in Jackson County on 34 sex-related charges. He is on accrued leave from the University.

director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, has written letters to administrators and faculty members to persuade them that universal, or ecumenical, prayer should be the standard at graduation ceremonies.

A universal prayer would not appeal to any faith by mentioning the name of a faith's deity or religious figure, but would address God as "God" only, she said.

Benjamin A. Shepherd, vice president for academic affairs, said "starting universal prayer is asking an invited guest of a particular faith to recite a script we have given him—that's offensive."

"We could step around to find someone who isn't offended by doing that, but what if no one will do it?" he said. "I'm sure there are people who would be equally offended by listening to universal prayer."

Belcove-Schalain's request first must be considered by the University's commencement committee. The committee must then decide whether to make a recommendation to the president, who in turn will make the final decision whether to implement universal prayer. Shepherd said the committee will decide whether to make its recommendation before the end of the semester.

Belcove-Schalain said that establishing universal prayer became important to her after attending the 1985 graduation ceremony for the College of Liberal Arts.

"The minister asked us to bow our heads to our Lord Jesus Christ," she said, adding, she hopes to ensure that never happens again.

"As a precautionary step, I think the clergymen should be appraised before they are selected to direct prayer. I don't want Mohammed or Buddha singled out either," she said.

Dale Bengtson, assistant professor for Religious Studies and adviser for the Muslim Student Organization, agreed that clergymen should not specify a deity. "Prayer to Jesus Christ at a state university's graduation ceremony is a big no-no. You just don't do that," he said.

Belcove-Schalain said she expects administration officials to disagree with her in principle, and if they decide not to follow her request, "I'll take it from there."

However, she said that after raising the issue among campus ministers at a meeting in July "there is agreement among most."

The Rev. Robert Gray, head pastor of Our Savior Lutheran Church and president of Campus Ministries, disagrees. "I think she misrepresented the campus ministers in her letter," he said.

He said campus ministers agreed when meeting in July that the length of the prayers should not reach 10 minutes and the prayers should not be sermons.

The ministers also agreed that clergymen from the campus, rather than from the community, would be more in touch with the audiences at graduation ceremonies.

"But, nothing like universal prayer was agreed on, although Janet did bring it up," Gray said. "No votes were taken nor were comments made by the ministers."

"I don't believe I could ask someone to pray a certain way," he said. "I'm not willing to do that either."

Rabid bat reported in Jackson County

A rabid bat was found and reported to the Jackson County Animal Control Office Thursday afternoon.

The bat, which tested positive for rabies upon examination at the Carbondale State Public Health Laboratory, was found at Christian Covenant School on Striegel Road west of Carbondale, Lloyd Nelson, animal control officer, said.

It was the second rabid bat turned into Nelson's office this fall. No one was bitten by the bat, Nelson said.

Pet owners are encouraged to check the vaccination status of their pets and said any unusual or erratic behavior in wild animals or unfamiliar domestic animals should be reported immediately to the Jackson County Animal Control office.

Parents and teachers should be especially careful with children during the Halloween season, when they are more likely to be attracted to such animals as bats, he said. A non-rabid bat was turned in to the Animal Control Office earlier this week; it was found in the pocket of a student at Glendale Elementary School.

said officer Mike Johnson was on routine patrol when he was flagged down by someone who said there had been a stabbing.

When officer Johnson arrived, he found a woman on the ground with multiple stab wounds, Jacobson said. The Jackson County Ambulance Service took Houston to the hospital, where she died a short time later.

Tonda Reddings, a neighbor of the victim, said Houston and Jones had been dating for a year and a half and they had fought several times.

"I told her she might have to move away," Reddings said.

"She (Houston) never caused a problem with anybody," she said.

A woman who said she was a close friend of Houston's said other incidents led Houston to be afraid of Jones.

Jones had been living with Houston and her family until Houston told him she wanted to break off the relationship two weeks ago, and Johnson told Jones to move out, Evelyn Johnson said.

Johnson said her daughter had filed a complaint against Jones about two weeks ago.

Houston was the mother of three girls: 3, 5 and 8; and one boy, 6.

At the home of Houston's family, family members had tried to wipe Houston's blood from the sidewalk, but there were stains on the walk and pools of blood in the nearby grass.

Memories of 'Gillian' provide haunting play

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

A young widower is obsessed with the memory of his wife in "To Gillian On Her 37th Birthday," a Laboratory Theater production that features a strong cast and a unique set.

Directed by Michael Morris, graduate student in acting and directing, the play centers around David (Kenny Cook), an ex-English professor who has been literally haunted by the memory of his wife Gillian (Charissa Menefee Cook) since her death two years earlier, on her birthday, in a boating accident.

His teen-age daughter Rachel (Stephanie Crist), seeing David becoming increasingly withdrawn, turns to her aunt Esther (Carolyn Wilson), Gillian's sister, and her uncle Paul (Lawrence J. Knowles), who is also David's closest friend, for help.

Esther and Paul visit David on the weekend of the anniversary of Gillian's birthday and death, bringing with them a girl named Kevin (Sandra

Movie Guide

Baby Boom — (Fox Eastgate, PG) Diane Keaton stars in a comedy about a yuppie who inherits a relative's baby girl. Also stars Sam Shepard and Harold Ramis.

The Big Easy — (Saluki, R) A slightly-jaded police detective (Dennis Quaid) and a corruption-sniffing assistant D.A. (Ellen Barkin) come to terms in a film set in "The Big Easy," a nickname for New Orleans. The film approaches police corruption and the criminal background in one of America's most exotic cities, giving a view of a little-known culture operating within a familiar urban context.

Dirty Dancing — (Varsity, PG-13) An upbeat romance and dance movie that takes place over the summer of 1963. A coming-of-age teenager, Jennifer Grey, falls in love with the dance instructor (Patrick Swayze) at a Catskills resort against the backdrop of a go-go 1960s-music soundtrack.

Dragnet — (University Place 8, PG-13) Jack Webb's straight-talking "just the facts ma'am" detective character Joe Friday is reincarnated by Dan Aykroyd in this spoof-tribute to the 1960s television series. Tom Hanks stars as Friday's new, street-wise partner.

Fatal Attraction — (Varsity, R) Michael Douglas plays a married man who has a chance encounter with a psychotic woman (Glen Close).

Full Metal Jacket — (Liberty, R) Produced, scripted and directed by Stanley Kubrick ("Dr. Strangelove," "Clockwork Orange," "2001 — A Space Odyssey"), this Vietnam War drama tells the story of Private Joker (Matthew Modine), a Marine who tells his experiences from boot camp to combat in the 1968 Tet Offensive.

Hellraiser — (University Place 8, R) In a much-needed alternative to "slash and gash" thrillers, writer-director Clive Barker gives horror fans a movie filled with terrifying special effects that fails as a "respectable" horror film.

In The Mood — (Fox Eastgate, PG-13) A sexually-active teenager, Patrick Dempsey ("Can't Buy Me Love"), finds himself on the wrong side of the law when he runs off with an older woman, Beverly D'Angelo, in this nostalgic comedy set in the 1940s.

The Invitation — (Student Center Auditorium, 5, 7 and 9 p.m. Sunday and Monday) A timid young office worker throws a party and lives to regret it.

Like Father, Like Son — (University Place 8, PG-13) This high-jinks comedy stars Dudley Moore as a brilliant surgeon and Kirk Cameron of "Growing Pains" as his teenage son.

Night of the Living Dead — (Student Center Auditorium, 5, 7, 9 and 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday) Just in time for Halloween, this film is a camp classic although its special effects are quite tame by today's standards.

The Pick-up Artist — (University Place 8, PG-13) Robert Downey plays a snarky-talking pick-up artist who falls for Molly Ringwald and tries to help get her father out of trouble.

The Princess Bride — (Fox Eastgate, PG) Directed by Rob Reiner and based on the William Goldman book of the same name, this film is a worthy descendant to the "Fractured Fairytales" of yore. Billy Crystal is the Jewish magic man, Miracle Max; Christopher Guest is the evil Count Dragoon; and wrestler Andre the Giant is the gentle giant Pezvik.

Prince of Darkness — (Fox Eastgate, R) More "Halloween" fare from John Carpenter in an occult chiller about a group of science student who are enlisted unwittingly by their professor to prevent the return of Satan.

Stakeout — (Saluki, R) Richard Dreyfuss and Emilio Estevez co-star as police partners and Dreyfuss becomes romantically involved with the girl they are staking out.

Someone to Watch Over Me — (University Place 8, R) Tom Berenger and Mimi Rogers (Tom Cruise's wife) star in a thriller about a New York cop who falls for the witness of a terrifying murder.

Three O'Clock High — (University Place 8, PG-13) Absurdist romantic comedy about a nerdy hypoglycemic high school journalist who overcomes obstacles to achieve popularity.

The Untouchables — (University Place 8, R) Kevin Costner stars as Elliot Ness in this Brian DePalma update of the 1950s television series. Sean Connery plays one of Ness' government agents who "couldn't be bought...wouldn't be bribed."

Witches of Eastwick — (University Place 8, R) Cher, Susan Sarandon and Michelle Pfeiffer star as a trio of modern witches who conjure up a "devilish" gigolo (Jack Nicholson).

Soprano, baritone to join in recital

Soprano B-th A. Dedert and baritone Timothy L. Kobler will be presented in a joint voice recital at 8 tonight in Quigley Auditorium.

The program includes works composed by Benjamin Britten, Robert Schumann, Georg Friedrich Handel and Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein.

Dedert and Kobler, both seniors in music education, will open and close the recital with duets. They will begin the program with Henry Purcell's "Sound the Trumpet," and close with another English-text work, Rodgers and Hammerstein's "People Will Say We're In Love," from the musical "Oklahoma."

They will be featured in three solo works with texts written in German and Italian and English.

Accompanying them will be Tim Meier, graduate student in music. The recital is free.

International Outreach Day to feature music, exhibits

By Pamela Svoloda
Student Writer

Sounds and images of foreign countries will fill the International Lounge from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today during International Outreach Day '87. Marcelo Cecim, chairman of the International Student Council committee in charge of the event, said.

"About 24 to 25 tables will be set up," Cecim said, "associations within the International Student Council and other groups associated with international students will be present."

Students will be shown the association's past events and projects and what they have planned for the future through music, native crafts and clothing and video shows and exhibits, Cecim said.

The ISC will have a main-screen television showing the cultural and fashion show from the International Festival '87 and possibly a raffle, Cecim said. Other groups including Health Services, the International Friends Club, Study Abroad Programs and the Recreation Center will be setting up tables, Cecim said.

The purpose of the event is to show international students the opportunities the University has available, Cecim said, and to promote cultural awareness to all students.

"We hope students walk away with a little more knowledge in the opportunities to participate in the ISC and a little more about the cultures other than political and economical," Cecim said.

"We are expecting it to be bigger and better than last year," Cecim said.

Last year the first outreach day was held in the ballrooms. This year the event has moved to the International Lounge for a warmer atmosphere and more accessibility to students, Cecim said.

'Dad' explores family bonds, relationships

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

The Department of Speech Communication's Calipre Stage production of "Dad," an intense study of strained family relations during three generations, features believable portrayals and convincing dialogue.

Theater Review

Directed by Kevin Ke'ch, graduate student in speech communication, "Dad," was written by William Wharton, author of the highly acclaimed novel "Birdy." As with all Calipre productions, the play was adapted from the book by the director of the production.

The drama explores the generation gaps between three generations of men and how a succession of painful and harrowing experiences tests their love, courage and loyalty.

The story centers around Jack Tramont, played by Robert Hurst, and the tension he experiences from being the center of three generations and the attention that is demanded by both his father and son.

Hurst's portrayal is almost faultless, considering the emotional extremes his character demands and the number of lines he has. Benjamin Hunsaker and Scott Rothenberger also deliver satisfying performances as Jack's father and son, who act as catalysts to Jack's emotional turmoil.

Jack's devotion to his mother and father is tested when both suffer debilitating illnesses, but his courage is tested even further when the question of his parent's sanity is considered.

As the play progresses, the physical and psychological ailments snowball into nightmarish proportions. Their experiences are staggering, but rendered absolutely believable by Wharton's subtle and skillful analysis into the thoughts of each of the men as they struggle to understand.

Though the stage design is minimal — two benches and silhouettes in the background — the play is very visual, due to revealing dialogue that entices the imagination.

The French national ballet company, Ballet National Du Nord, will be presented at 8 p.m. Oct. 26 at Shryock Auditorium as part of the Celebrity Series.

Under the direction of its artistic director, Alfonso Cata, Ballet Du Nord is making its first tour of the United States since its formation in 1982.

Born in Havana, Cuba and now an American citizen, Cata is a former dancer with the Geneva Conservatory, Ballet de Paris, Ballet de Monte Carlo, Robert Joffrey Ballet, Ballet de Marquis de Cuevas, and the Stuttgart Ballet.

Cata reached his peak of artistic expression in 1965 with George Ballanchine's New York City Ballet.

With Ballanchine's support and sponsorship, Cata became director of the Geneva Ballet when Cata retired from dancing in 1969. Until 1973 his Geneva company presented the broadest repertoire of Ballanchine's choreography outside the New York City Ballet.

Cata subsequently directed the Frankfurt Ballet, taught ballet in New York and choreographed for the Baltimore and Broadway ballet companies and the Puerto Rican Dance Theatre.

In 1982 the French Ministry of Culture offered Cata the opportunity to start a new ballet company as part of a plan to bring the art of dance to all major population areas across the country.

The French government was so pleased with Cata and the new dance company that it built a theater especially to meet its dance requirements. In a short time the company acquired a solid artistic integrity, and has been acclaimed by critics as the "miracle of the French dance scene."

Since its premiere, Ballet Du Nord has developed a neo-classical repertoire of over 50 ballets built upon new works by Cata and other established choreographers. Fourteen Ballanchine works, regularly set and rehearsed with masters and teachers from the New York City Ballet, are the hallmark of the repertoire.

Professor to discuss chemicals in food

Robert P. Bates, professor of food technology at the University of Florida, will lecture on chemical food additives at 8:30 p.m. Saturday in Neckers Room 218C.

The lecture, "What You Always Wanted to Know About

Chemicals in Food but Were Afraid to Ask," concerns the positive and negative aspects of essential and trivial food additives.

Bates received his bachelor's degree and doctorate from MIT and a master's from University of Hawaii.

A dinner for Bates will be held at the Prime Time Restaurant before the lecture.

For information, call Cal Meyers, professor of chemistry at 453-5721.

Refuge cleanup stalled until report issued by agency

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

In fall of 1984, Congress gave the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service $1 million to study contamination and propose a cleanup of Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge.

Since then, little has been done at the 43,000 acre refuge located in Cartersville.

However, an additional $230,000 special appropriation from Congress was added earlier this year.

An SIU-C research team discovered contamination at the lake in the mid-1970s. It was not until the late 1970s that the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency began to investigate the findings.

Norrel Wallace, Crab Orchard refuge manager, said 12 of the 33 areas of land on the refuge tested for contamination showed the existence of polychlorinated biphenyls, ammonia nitrates and chemicals used for explosives and fertilizing.

These areas are located at the extreme east end of the lake.

Four of the 12 contaminated areas were classified as hazardous because they contained PCBs. The highest area has a PCB level of 8,000-12,000 parts per million. Any level over 50 parts per million is considered hazardous, Wallace said.

PCBs are used for electrical insulation. They usually enter the body through consumption of contaminated water or by skin contact. PCBs are linked to cancer in laboratory animals and may be linked to cancer in humans.

In July, Crab Orchard was the first national wildlife refuge ever to be placed on the national Superfund list of toxic waste sites.

Mary Ann Croce, of the federal Environmental Protection Agency's Chicago office, said making the list may not give the site money for clean up, nor does it necessarily make the clean up process faster. However, once a site is officially on the list, she said, it cannot be removed until the cleanup is complete.

"It's a long process," Croce said.

The first phase is to conduct an investigation to determine the site's problems. A report on Crab Orchard Lake has been drafted. When the final report is made public, decisions will be made on what action should be taken, Croce said.

Croce said she does not like the term "cleanup."

"That would mean we were planning on getting it (the contamination) all out, which may be impossible," she said. "Rather, we will be working to correct the problem."

Wallace said the cleanup, which should be under way by spring, could take one of four forms.

One answer, Wallace said, would be to cover the area with cement, making it a giant immobile rock with PCBs inside.

Other clean up methods include building a wall around the dump site or digging up the soil and hauling it to a hazardous waste dump site.

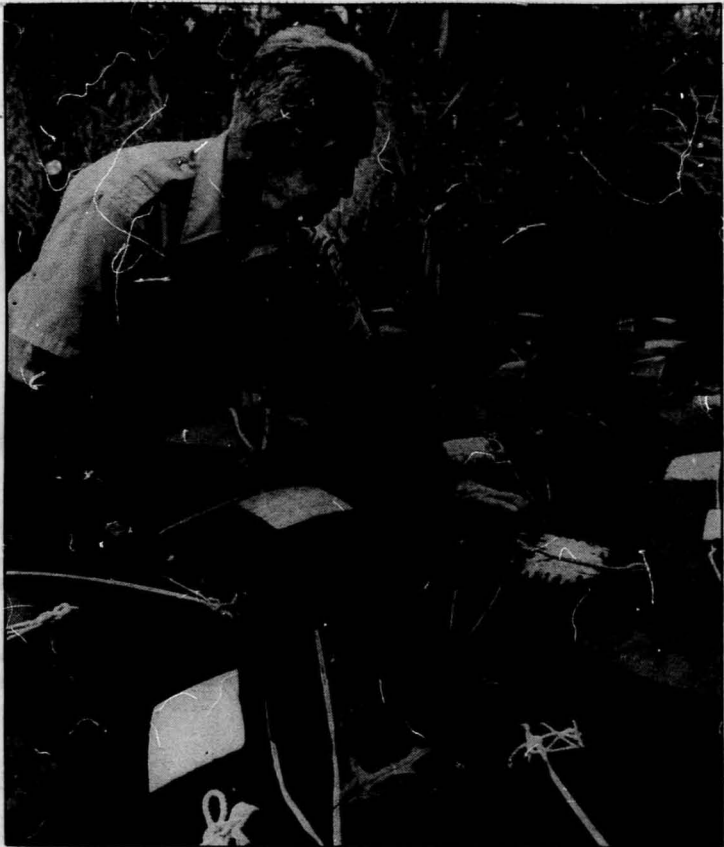

Once a decision is made, according to the Superfund law, cleanup must begin within 180 days.

Greg Michaud, spokesman for the public health office in Springfield, said getting on the list makes the refuge eligible for Superfund money, but puts the state in charge.

"It (the Superfund program) hasn't allotted any money for clean up yet, but it should help speed up the process," he said.

Croce said Crab Orchard Lake is not eligible for Superfund money because it has potentially responsible parties, companies that could be held responsible for the contamination, paying for the studies.

Sangamo-Western, formerly Sangamo-Electric, and the

Refuge biologist Glen Smart inspects barrels Sangamo Dump site in the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge.

U.S. Department of Interior, owner of the refuge, are the potentially responsible parties in the Crab Orchard Lake contamination, Croce said.

Sangamo-Electric produced electrical transformers from 1946 to 1962 at the refuge.

Wallace said Sangamo should not be held responsible for cleanup.

"Sangamo left 13-14 years before the government found out the chemicals were hazardous," he said. "There were no restrictions in those years and at the time they didn't know what they were doing. No laws were broken because they didn't have any."

Jerry Updike, spokesman at the U.S. Department of Interior, Fish and Wildlife, said the department rents the refuge ground to industrial companies.

Sangamo was one of the industrial tenants and is the only industry held responsible for the contamination, Updike said.

Part of the study is to analyze the soil to determine the magnitude of contamination. Soil analysis is being done by O'Brien and Gere Engineers Inc. of New York.

Updike said that once the study is done, it will be sent to the EPA.

"After the EPA decides what the alternatives (of cleanup) are, the industrial tenant will ... decide who will pay," he said.

While no one can predict what the cleanup will cost, Marion Mayor Robert Butler said the cost has been estimated at about $7 million.

Community leaders and environmental authorities are still debating whether Crab Orchard Lake Refuge really needs to clean up hazardous contamination.

"Our lake would have to be as dry as the Sierra Desert before it would be feasible for us to take water from Crab Orchard Lake," said Marion Mayor Robert Butler.

Marion recently faced a water shortage. On Oct. 14, officials estimated the town had about 60 days of water use left.

The city is awaiting approval to build a basin at Devil's Kitchen Lake.

The last time Marion pumped water from Crab Orchard Lake, Butler said, high levels of PCBs were found in the water.

Crab Orchard Lake Refuge Manager Norrel Wallace said the highest level of water contamination is found off the Sangamo electric site, where only "a small amount ... reaches the lake."

Sangamo produced electrical transformers from 1946 to 1962 at the refuge.

"The Food and Drug Administration set the contamination level at 50 parts per 1,000 (parts water)," Wallace said. "Any amount under 50 parts is not something of concern."

He said the highest level of PCBs off the Sangamo site is well below the FDA standards.

The Environmental Protection Agency placed a two-part-per-million regulation on food items. When analyzed, fish at the lake were all found to be below the standard.

Butler disagrees. "Anytime we have one of the most toxic waste dumps sites in the country it is reason to be concerned," he said.

"It has PCBs and about any other kind of contamination you can think of," Butler said. "Those who say it doesn't affect the quality of fish are only kidding themselves. Bottom hugging fish such as carp will pick up the toxic waste at the bottom of the lake."

Zevon, X concert muddled by bass

By Curtis Winston
Entertainment Editor

Warren Zevon and opening act X played great music that was muddled by bottom-heavy sound mixing to a well-behaved, appreciative, Shryock audience Tuesday.

The auditorium's legendary acoustics could have highlighted both Zevon's politically oriented pop-styled rock and X's hardcore-edged brand of music, if only the people running the sound board controlled the bass.

Concert Review

X, fronted by a pregnant Exene Cervenka with bassist John Doe, played a short, spaced set filled with old X classics such as "Los Angeles," and "New World."

A highlight of X's set was the song "Devil Dog," which harked back to the band's late 1970s L.A. punk days with a refrain of "Long Black Cadillac," a song covered by colleagues of the band, the Blasters.

Zevon followed basically the same formula as his opening band in keeping the pace of his two hour set quick and playing crowd-pleasing old favorites such as his opener "Lawyers, Guns and Money."

The "Excitable Boy" led a tight four-piece backing band of guitarist, bassist, keyboardist and drummer, and showed his facility on both electric guitar and piano.

With the poor mixing, Zevon's stark baritone vocals were heard as indistinguishable mumbles, leaving his fans who knew what songs he was singing to explain to the uninitiated Zevon devotee.

The best songs were the familiar ones such as the rock anthem, "Johnny Strikes Up The Band," the disturbing, "Roland the Headless Thompson Gunner" and the big hit, "Werewolves of London." Again the vocals were buried, though, with only the wolf howl, "Awoo," audible.

The music that shined was instrumental breaks such as guitar solos and a pretty flute and 12-string acoustic guitar duet on "Carmalita," played by Zevon on guitar and his keyboardist on flute.

While the overall sound from the two groups wasn't driven to the earbleeding levels encountered at Arena concerts, the booming low-rumble from the bass drums and electric bass made the vocals from both acts hard to hear. The poor mixing was a shame because both X and Zevon had some lyrics worth hearing.

Many seats remain for Def Leppard

By Richard Nunez Staff Writer

About 5,000 tickets are still available for the Def Leppard and Tesla concert to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the SIU Arena, Michelle Suarez, promotions director, said.

Def Leppard will perform in-the-round. The stage will be set in the middle of the Arena, which improves the number of quality seats.

Def Leppard is touring in support of their new album "Hysteria," the groups first album since 1983's "Pyromania," which sold over six million copies.

In 1984, drummer Richard Allen lost his left arm in automobile accident and the bands music was put on hold until he could recover. Allen continued drumming and developed a left-footed drumming technique with a specially designed Simmons electronic drum kit.

Allen's drum kit is designed with four specially constructed foot-pedals that send electronic pulses onto a silicon chip, loads them into a "brain" (Simmons SDS7) and when triggered reproduces sound like magnetic tape.

Allen uses a blend of SDS7 Library Samples and recorded drum samples of his own, which reproduce five sounds consisting of a bass drum, snare drum and three tom toms.

Def Leppard's debut album "On Through The Night" went gold in America and spearheaded England's new wave of hard rock bands. The bands follow-up, "High 'n' Dry," sold over one million copies and produced their breakthrough single, "Bringin' On The Heartbreak."

"Pyromania," the band's next album, spent nearly two years on the music charts and featured such singles as "Foolin'," "Photograph" and "Rock Rock."

Tickets for the concert are $15.

Charles, Di apart? Enquiring minds want to find out

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Charles left Princess Diana behind after a six-hour public appearance in Wales, their first together in 36 days, fueling a cornucopia of media reports Thursday their fairy tale marriage has soured.

Most of Britain's other tabloids echoed the same sentiment that the 6-year-old marriage between the 38-year-old heir to the British throne and one of the most photographed women in the world seems to be on the rocks.

A Buckingham Palace spokesman confirmed Charles had returned immediately to his grandmother's home near the royal Balmoral Castle in Scotland Wednesday.

He has been staying at the Queen Mother's home for more than a month on a hunting vacation, fueling widespread reports the scholarly prince no longer enjoys living with his wife, who enjoys pop music and parties.

Dance, not drink, till you drop

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

Can you party one Friday night without alcohol?

At least 43 students pledged to do that in support of the Beer Fast, an Alcohol Awareness Week event sponsored by the Inter-Greek Council and Wellness Center. Students who want to make a similar pledge can do so by signing up from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today in the Student Center.

The object of the Beer Fast is to find an alternative to drinking.

"I would like to think the students who signed up are going to keep their word," Ron Degonia, a freshman in physiology and member of the Theta Xi fraternity, said Thursday. "After all, it's just one night."

All fraternities and sororities on campus are participating in National College Alcohol Awareness week, although not all members have pledged not to drink, Degonia said. Often, the fraternity or sorority has a representative come in and sign up for all its members, he said.

Fest to offer alternative to the Strip

By Tom Trotter
Staff Writer

The second annual gospel music festival on Halloween night is an alternative to the celebration on the Strip, Deborah Onyewuchi, organizer for the event, said.

"Gospelfest '87" will be at 6 p.m., Oct. 31, in the Student Center ballrooms, she said.

Sponsors for the gospel fest are Voices of Inspiration, Black Affairs Council and Undergraduate Student Organization, she said.

"It's a matter of choices and changes," Onyewuchi, a sophomore in religious studies, said. "You make the choice to come and changes will take place from your choice."

The festival is an interdenominational event that will include at least 17 entertainment groups, she said. In addition to the entertainment, campus ministers and University staff members will speak at the festival. There also will be prayer and an altar call.

Ronald Wright of WIDB-FM and Cassandra Willis, senior in health education, will be hosts for the event. Willis also helped Onyewuchi organize the event.

"I started to get this together about a month ago and then realized I couldn't take all the work on my shoulders," Onyewuchi said. "That's when I asked Cassandra to help."

Patent workshop set

The U.S. Patent System and Patent Searching workshop will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Nov. 2 in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

There is no registration fee, but preregistration is recommended. For details, call David Gulley, Technology Commercialization Center, at 536-7551, or Jane Evers, coordinator, Division of Continuing Education, at 536-7751.

organizations have been working the sign up table all week, he said. He did not know the exact number of students who have made pledges.

Universities across the nation are providing alternative parties for students tonight, Degonia said. The alternative party for SIU is a sock hop. "Even if a student hasn't signed up (not to drink)," he said, "we hope he will come to the sock hop and show his support instead of going to a party to drink."

The sock hop is set for 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. in the gym at the Recreation Center.

'Doctor of sick towns' calls on Cairo

Retired professor prescribes harbor and tourist center

By Robert Lucky
Staff Writer

The combination of utilizing a leased park as a tourist center and tentative plans to open a commercial harbor are two ways to cure the problems of Cairo, Richard Poston, the "doctor of sick towns," said.

Poston, a retired University professor in community development, and faculty and students from recreation and community development are taking a part in Cairo's "Operation Enterprise." Recreation students have recently been drawing up plans to upgrade and utilize the grounds of Fort Defiance State Park, which lies between the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

DOUGLAS N. MCEWEN, associate professor in the recreation department, said 22 students in his class are working in three planning teams. They will present preliminary suggestions to Cairo residents on what can be done with the park.

McEwen said the students will present three development maps and three 30-page reports to the city at the end of the semester. Since the city's project is one of community development, the reports will suggest ways in which the city's residents can help themselves.

"Students are enjoying it, because it is a realistic project which could help a good number of people," McEwen.

The park was claimed by the people of Cairo this summer. Following a cleanup, the city leased the park from the state's Historic Preservation Agency for $10 for five years beginning Nov. 1.

RESIDENTS OF Cairo will continue to upkeep the park, and the state will grant the city $5,000 a year for maintenance costs. Before the city took control of Fort Defiance, the preservation division did the maintenance, but did not have enough money or workers to keep the park in good condition. Earlier, the park had been cared for by the state's Department of Conservation, but it did not have enough money either.

The Illinois National Guard will provide vehicles and drivers to help in an annual spring cleanup at the park. An agreement between the city and the guard's transportation company was made so the guard could use the land for its bivouac training between September and April of each year.

CAIRO'S RESIDENTS suggested concession stands, an outdoor amphitheater, a playground, miniature golf, excursion boats, water sports and a tourist center for the park.

"Operation Enterprise" is Cairo's community development self-improvement campaign. The second project is the promotion of a harbor split on the Mississippi for commercial and recreational use, Poston said.

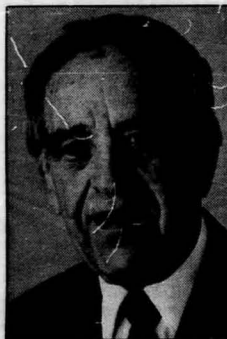

Poston said tentative plans have been made to dredge out the chute between the Angela Towhead Island and the Illinois shore line, deepening it, and damming the upstream north end. Barges and other commercial vessels could dock on its western edge for repair, loading, and unloading, while pleasure boats would moor on the eastern side.

WITH A combination commercial and recreational harbor, the needs of both markets would be accommodated, and would become the major harbor between Memphis and St. Louis, Poston said.

"It would change the economic outlook for Cairo," he said.

Poston said if President Ronald Reagan signs a military appropriation bill within the next few months, the U.S. Army Corp of engineers, stationed in Memphis could begin a reconnaissance study pinpointing the exact location of the harbor.

Following would be a study

of the economic feasibility of the project, with 50 percent of the cost coming from federal funds. The final step would be construction.

POSTON SAID "Operation Enterprise" appears to be in good shape. The city is ready to begin full-scale weekly meetings at the Cairo High School to form 16 committees under the project.

"I've never seen a group of people respond with more enthusiasm," he said. "It's really heartening to see them work together."

Other plans for development include a campground, a weekly farmers' market, and incorporation of Angela Towhead Island as a major resort.

Expert to lecture on optical communication

An expert in data communications will discuss "The Promise of Optical Communication" at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium.

Robert W. Lucky, executive director of ATC Communications Sciences Research Division, is this year's winner of the Marconi International Fellowship Award. The free lecture is part of The Distinguished Lecturer Series.

Lucky invented the adaptive equalizer, a technique used to correct distortion in telephone signals, which is widely used in high-speed data transmission.

His AT&T unit works on communications research, including lightwave systems, robotics, artificial intelligence and new physical devices for optics and electronics.

Lucky co-authored one of the standard textbooks on data communications, has edited three technical journals, and is a consulting editor for a series of books on communications.

He is a fellow of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers and a member of the National Academy of Engineering. He is chairman of the Scientific Advisory Board of the U.S. Air Force.

Pros back to normal; Steelers are best bet

NEW YORK (UPI) — Predictions on this weekend's NFL games:

Sunday
Washington (minus 8) over NY Jets — Redskins stayed united during the strike and victories by their replacements will shame the regulars into playing well. The Jets might still have some hard feelings between union men and strike-breakers. Redskins 24, Jets 14.

Indianapolis (plus 5½) over New England — It's back to normal in the NFL, meaning the Colts will lose, but Patriots had some problems before the strike and might not be in top form. Patriots 28, Colts 24.

New Orleans (plus 3½) over San Francisco — There is friction on both teams between strikers and strike-breakers which could make for some unusual play. The 49ers can open an early cushion in the NFC West but the Saints might be in the race until the end. 49ers 21, Saints 20.

Green Bay (plus 5) over Detroit — Packers are feeling good about tie with Denver before strike, and their replacements kept them in the NFC Central race. The Lions can't win with or without their regulars. Packers 17, Lions 14.

Pittsburgh (minus 3) over Cincinnati — Bengals' passing game will take some time to come back together after layoff. Steelers RB Earnest Jackson and WR John Stallworth have been playing, and will key Pittsburgh's offense. Steelers 31, Bengals 27.

Denver (minus 2½) over Minnesota — Vikings might be feeling deflated after watching replacements lose three and ruin 2-0 start. If John Elway stumbles, the Broncos can always go to Ken Karcher. Broncos 26, Vikings 17.

Buffalo (plus 9½) over Miami — Dolphins are another passing team which honored the strike and might take a while to get its timing back. As bad as they are, the Bills regulars have to be an improvement over their union squad. Dolphins 20, Buffalo 13.

Tampa Bay (plus 10) over Chicago — Bears should have little trouble winning but Mike Ditka might want to get his starters out early to prevent injuries if they show signs of blowing Buccaneers out. Bears 26, Buccaneers 17.

Philadelphia (even) over Dallas — The strike is over and the Cowboys are back to normal, which means even the Eagles at home can handle them. Eagles 16, Cowboys 14.

Houston (minus 4) over Atlanta — The Oilers should retain their unusual piece of the AFC Central lead against the lowly Falcons, who will lose their passing game now that regulars are back. Oilers 30, Falcons 20.

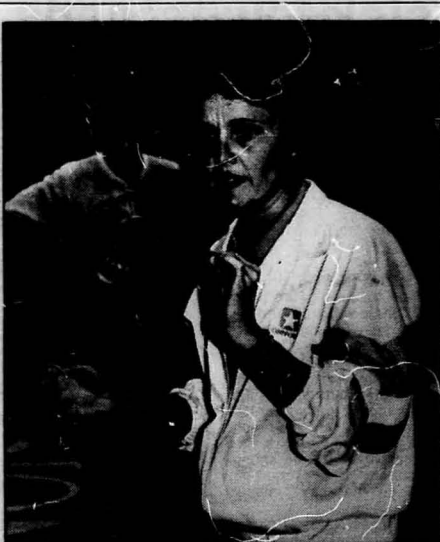

LA Raiders (minus 6) over Seattle — The Raiders have CRs who can cover Steve Largent. They also must make the most of this home game, as their next three are on the road. Raiders 30, Seahawks 21.

Kansas City (plus 4) over San Diego — Chargers' fans will be calling for the return of the replacements if the regulars blow their 4-game winning streak. The Chiefs can kiss off the season if they lose. Chiefs 37, Chargers 34.

St. Louis (plus 10) over NY Giants — The Giants will be rusty, and they didn't look like Super Bowl champions before the strike. The Cardinals had 21 regulars play during the strike, and could have been a replacement powerhouse if they had Neil Lomax. Giants have played some of their best defense against Lomax in the past. Giants 20, Cardinals 14.

Monday
Cleveland (minus 3½) over LA Rams — The Rams are reeling from 1-4 start, RB Eric Dickerson wants a trade and the Browns are a tough team to run against. Browns looking to take command again of AFC Central. Browns 17, Rams 10.

Best bet — Steelers.
Last week — no picks.
Season record — 16-14 (no picks during strike).
Best bets — 2-0.

Quest for No. 200
With a 10-year record of 195-93 (.677), Saluki women's basketball coach Cindy Scott could notch her 200th career victory early in the 1987-88 hoop season.

Tennessee NCAA violations not on expiration schedule

MISSION, Kan. (UPI) — The probationary period imposed last year on University of Tennessee for violations in its football program has not expired as scheduled this month, the NCAA announced Thursday.

The probationary period will continue until the NCAA enforcement staff reviews information relating to recently published reports of alleged violations of NCAA regulations and a cover-up in the university's 1986 investigation of its football program, the NCAA said in a five-sentence statement.

"Sport" magazine charged in its November issue that UT athletic officials, particularly Athletic Director Doug Dickey and football coach Johnny Majors, orchestrated the cover-up into the university's probe of alleged improper ticket sales by student athletes and other NCAA rules infractions.

The probation, which did not involve sanctions regarding postseason competition or television appearances, was due to end Oct. 9.

At the university's request, the NCAA will conduct its own independent inquiries, the association said.

Dickey said no current members of 1987-88 Tennessee sports teams were involved, and added that the University requested an NCAA verification of the internal investigation.

No timetable was given and NCAA headquarters declined to further comment.

Hoosier-Michigan game highlights weekend slate

NEW YORK (UPI) — This week's college football predictions:

Notre Dame (giving 6) over Southern Cal — The Trojans face their third straight road game against a Notre Dame team that has rallied around sophomore quarterback Tony Rice. Rice, playing because starter Terry Andrysiak is out for the season with a broken collarbone, was only 1 of 5 last week in a 35-14 triumph over Air Force but did rush for two touchdowns. The Trojans have a big edge at quarterback with Rodney Peete. He should benefit from the return of receiver Ken Henry, who missed three games with a shoulder injury. The Irish have won the last four meetings in this annual battle. A hunch Tim Brown's multidimensional skills and Lou Holtz's motivational abilities lift Notre Dame. Notre Dame 34, Southern Cal 23.

Georgia (giving 10½) over Kentucky — Bulldogs reward a healthy Vince Dooley with a big homecoming victory. Georgia 38, Kentucky 20.

Saluki defender chooses SIU-C over football-oriented big boys

By Bill West
Staff Writer

Defensive end Shannon Ferbrache's baby-face appearance might not instill fear in the hearts of opposing quarterbacks, but his quickness off the line should.

The 6-foot-4-inch, 235-pound, sophomore has 19 tackles this season, including five for losses and two quarterback sacks. Ferbrache also has three fumble recoveries and two pass breakups.

"He is as good a defensive lineman as we have up front," Saluki coach Ray Dorr said.

Ferbrache has played football since the third grade. At Warren Central High School in Indianapolis, Ind., Ferbrache was moved from the middle linebacker spot to defensive tackle.

"I started to grow. At 6-3 and 230 pounds, I was a big kid so they moved me to the defensive line," Ferbrache said.

Warren Central won the 6A state championship and several players on the team, including Ferbrache, attracted the attention of college football recruiters.

Illinois, Louisville, Ball State, Western Illinois and Southern Illinois were seeking his services, Ferbrache said.

"A guy came down to the classroom and told me there was a coach from Southern who wanted to see me. I told him, naw, I don't want to talk to him, I'm going to Notre Dame, UCLA, somewhere big. Tell him I'm in class," Ferbrache said.

Ferbrache, a university studies major, visited several of the campuses, but liked SIU-C the best.

"I went down to Louisville and the coaches were saying, yeah, yeah, yeah, we really want you, we really think you can be a good one for us. All of the recruits were saying, hey, they said the same thing to me," Ferbrache said.

There were other things Ferbrache didn't care for about Louisville.

"They had a football dorm and you couldn't mingle with the other students. The players are there just to play football, and if while they were there they got an education, well that's good too. They eat and live football. I wanted to get an education," Ferbrache said.

Once he saw the SIU-C campus and met the people, he knew that Southern was the right place for him, Ferbrache said.

"Every player recruited wants to go some place where he is really wanted. I mean, who wants to be around people who don't want you. Of all the place I visited, the people that wanted me most were here," Ferbrache said.

Shannon Ferbrache

The fact that the Salukis are struggling this year after all the preseason projections of fame and glory does bother the likeable and out-going Ferbrache.

"I think about losing all the time, but the losses don't sink in until Sunday morning after you wake up because I go out Saturday night and see all my friends, Ferbrache said.

"Losing wouldn't be so tough if we were getting blown out 51-0 every game, but we are getting beat, for the most part, by a touchdown or less because of mental mistakes," Ferbrache said.

Ferbrache credits his father and older brother for supporting his athletic and educational endeavors.

"If it wasn't for my Dad, I wouldn't be close to where I am at today, not only in football, but in school too. He's the person behind my life," Ferbrache said.

"They say you're suppose to play football for yourself, which I do, but if I ever decide to stop playing for myself, I would definitely play for them because they put in too much time for me to quit," Ferbrache said.

His father has missed only one game since the third grade and that was because I was injured, Ferbrache said.

Ferbrache played against teammate Brad Crouse while in high school at Indianapolis and it was the only time he didn't start in 24 games. Crouse played fullback in high school.

"I hate to tell Brad the story, but it's true. My coaches said he was too big and strong for me to bring him down, but I did get to play. I jumped on his back and pulled him down a couple of times after he carried me for a few yards," Ferbrache said.

"In high school I developed an utter dislike for him because he was always the better athlete at the rival high school, Ferbrache said.

Ferbrache and a group of his friends went to a wrestling match featuring Crouse against one of their school chums.

"We were cheering for Brad to lose, but he pinned the guy in about 35 seconds. We didn't speak to our wrestler for about a week," Ferbrache said. Now Crouse is Ferbrache's best friend on the defensive line.

Ferbrache and Crouse will have their hands full when the Salukis take on 17th-ranked Arkansas State 1:30 p.m. Saturday at McAdams Stadium.

The speed on the ASU team is going to be a big challenge, Ferbrache said.

"When we were watching game film I told coach Rod Sherrill to slow the film down to the right speed. He said it is at the right speed. No way, but it was," Ferbrache said.

"I have to keep the quarterback contained. If you're at the game and see the quarterback scampering down the field you will know it's my fault, but if you see him laying flat on his back you know I did my job," Ferbrache said.

Men's tennis players get chance to qualify

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

Qualifying for the national championships will be the goal of four Saluki men tennis players participating in a weekend tournament at Wichita, Kan.

Jairo Aldana, Fabiano Ramos, Mickey Maule and George Hime will try to win the Intercollegiate Tennis Association Qualifier for Region V.

Winning either the singles or doubles competition of the tourney automatically advances a player(s) to the national championships in Minneapolis, Minn.

A good showing could mean an at-large bid to the finals.

"This could be the biggest tournament we will play all year," Saluki coach Dick LeFevre said.

Aldana has a definite chance to win, while Ramos has an outside chance, LeFevre said.

Aldana, the winner of the Illinois Intercollegiate three weeks ago, has a 6-2 record. Ramos and Maule are 4-3 while Hime is 5-1.

The Salukis will enter two doubles teams. Aldana will play with Hime, while Ramos will team with Maule.

Competition at the tourney is expected to be strong. In addition to playing against Missouri Valley Conference rivals Wichita State, Tulsa, and Illinois State, SIU-C must face Big Eight opponents as well.

"We'll be competitive," LeFevre said. "If we get in the quarterfinals it will be a heck of a bonus. People always ask me if we won or lost, but there will be several excellent players who will not win it."

Wichita State coach R. Coad will seed the tournament.

Salukis Juan Martinez and Dean Russell did not make the trip because of class conflicts.

Women's tennis team ends season at Murray

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

The women's tennis team concludes its fall season at the Murray State Invitational this weekend.

The Salukis will compete individually against players from Murray State, Southwest Missouri State, Ball State, Arkansas State, Middle Tennessee State, Eastern Kentucky and Western Kentucky.

It's not going to be as strong of a tournament as we have played in the past, but it still should be a good tournament," Saluki coach Judy Auld said.

No. 1 singles player Ellen Moellering is out with a neck injury and will not play. Everyone else will be moved up one position.

Beth Boardman, 10-7, will play the top position. Jana Cherebetiu, 14-6, will move to No. 2 singles. Missy Jeffrey, 8-9, will play the third spot. Sue Steuby, 10-6, will play in No. 4 singles. Maria Coch, 7-5, jumps to the fifth position while 2-5 Julie Burgess takes over the sixth spot.

Cherebetiu and Jeffrey, 5-7, will play in No. 1 singles. Coch and Burgess, 2-6, move into No. 2 singles. Steuby and Sherri Knight will play together for the first time in No. 3 singles.

"I'm looking forward to the tournament," Auld said. "I'm excited to see how everybody will do moving up to play better competition. I think the girls are ready to end the season on a good note."

SIU-C concluded its fall team competition two weeks ago with a 9-3 record.

Young men harriers to run at Invitational

By Jim Black
Staff Writer

Five of the younger members of the men's cross country team will compete in the Ole Miss Invitational Saturday in Oxford, Miss.

Coach Bill Cornell said he will leave the top five runners home so that they can rest for the Missouri Valley Conference championship meet slated for Oct. 31 in Wichita, Kan.

Of the five runners set to compete in the 8,000-meter race Saturday, only senior Bret Garrett has lettered before in cross country. Senior Brian Stewart, junior Eric Linder and freshmen Mike Kershaw and Edwin Taylor will complete the Saluki roster.

Cornell said the young runners should gain experience in the meet, which

SIU-C won last year.

"The Ole Miss Invitational is a tough meet," he said. "It will be a good learning experience."

Cornell said he wants to give the runners who will stay home a chance to rest their legs and minds.

"It would take too much out of them, both physically and mentally, to compete at Ole Miss," he said.

"I feel the team has been coming along at the right pace," he added. "We've been training hard this past month and it's time to start easing up."

The Salukis will try to claim their first conference championship since 1983. SIU-C has finished second in conference behind Illinois State each of the last three years.

Rugby club faces SEMO

The rugby team, 4-3 on the season, will battle Southeast Missouri on Saturday in Cape Girardeau.

Last season, SEMO beat SIU-C in spring play while SIU-C came back to defeat them in the fall.

Though the teams are fairly even in competition, team captain David Graham said practice was poorly attended this week, perhaps giving SEMO a slight edge.

Bucks meet Soviets in first of kind event

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks, faced with getting ready for the upcoming NBA season, will pause this weekend to play for their country in the McDonald's Basketball Open.

The Bucks will play the Soviet National team and Tracer Milan from Italy in the round-robin tournament which starts Friday. The Bucks and Soviet team will square off Sunday in the finale of the tournament. That meeting will be the first between the Russian National team and an NBA club.

In other games, Tracer Milan and Milwaukee meet Friday and the Russians will face Tracer Saturday.

Soviet star center Arvidas Sabonis is out, recovering from an Achilles heel injury while Milwaukee is without its top four guards.

Sidney Moncrief underwent knee surgery this week. Ricky Pierce is unhappy with his contract and holding out, while Craig Hodges and John Lucas are unsigned free agents. Center Jack Sikma and Paul Pressey also are nursing injuries, but are expected to play.

"We're not treating this as an exhibition game, but at the same time we aren't going to panic and sign people to play for this tournament," Milwaukee Coach Del Harris said.

"We feel an obligation to the league, to our country and to ourselves to treat it as a straight game," Harris said. "For the moment this is No. 1 on our minds."

The Russians practiced with the Atlanta Hawks during the summer to prepare for the game.

Tracer Milan is the reigning European champion and is led by three-time NBA scoring leader Bob McAdoo. Rickey Brown, who has five years of NBA experience, and Mike D'Antoni, who played with San Antonio and Kansas City in the NBA, are also on the team.

McAdoo believes the difference between the European squads and an NBA team is experience.

"These guys grew up playing soccer while NBA players played basketball," he said. "The bodies and the speed is there but they don't have the experience."

It's also a chance for the Italian team to see how they compare to some of the world's best players.

With Milwaukee being favorites to win both games, Harris believes there is added pressure on the Bucks.

"With us representing our league and our country, then it's a tremendous amount of pressure," Harris said. "It's starting to build up in me and that usually doesn't happen a few days before the game. Also, we don't know much about these teams."

The Soviets will have a cheering section at the Milwaukee arena. A Soviet freighter will dock in Milwaukee and 50 to 100 sailors will attend the game. A contingent of Soviet emigres from Chicago also is expected to attend the Sunday game.

will be a major obstacle. The Westwinds, under second-year coach Juli Kartel, are led by all-conference Sue Orstrom.

Orstrom, ranked nationally in several statistical categories, leads the Gateway in kills at 310 and aces at 50. "She's setting the world on fire," Hunter said.

Western, which plays Eastern Illinois Friday, is also hampered by an injury. A preliminary report said Sue Rossman (3.7 digs-per-game) is suffering from shin splints. "If she's out, it will be a big void. We're waiting for the doctor's report. It could be stress fractures," Kartel said.

Although starting hitter Edie Renick returns to the lineup after a three week absence due to a sprained ankle, Kartel is concerned about the Westwinds' continuity.

"SIU stays with you all the time, and we have a tendency to be a streak team -- win one, lose one. Injuries make this match difficult to evaluate. It all depends on Rossman," Kartel said.

RESPECT, from Page 24

ASU has defeated SIU-C three times straight and 10 of the last 11 meetings. The Salukis defeated ASU in the 1963 championship year under Ray Dempsey.
