Spence resigns as CCHS superintendent

By Linda Henson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Melvin Spence has resigned as business manager and superintendent of Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) District 165 because of what he termed "unresolvable differences" with two members of the Board of Education.

Spence, who was rehired last month after serving one year as superintendent, said in a news release that "basic philosophical and practical differences exist between two members of the Board of Education, the principal at the Central School Arthur Black and the superintendent."

"In my judgement, these differences are not remediable," Spence said. He said his resignation had nothing to do with the financial situation that exists in the district.

Robert Brewer, president of the board, received Spence's letter of resignation Monday. Brewer said the board has taken no action on the resignation yet, but a special meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Learning Center of CCHS Central to discuss the issue.

Spence's resignation goes into effect June 30, but he will be leaving the position of superintendent and business manager for the district on June 9 because he has three weeks of vacation coming to him.

Spence said he plans to move to the Tampa, Fla. area. Brewer said Spence's new business opportunity could be one of the main reasons the superintendent decided to give up his position.

"Also I feel that when someone is put in a top management position they should be given the authority and support that goes along with that post," Brewer said. "He feels he hasn't had this, and I would tend to agree with him."

Spence said the idea of resigning had been on his mind for some time. "It just crystallized last week," he said.

Brewer said he thinks the district is going to suffer a loss. "He hasn't had an easy time. But we have made some progress through planning."

"I'm sure we will have to appoint an acting superintendent until we can find a new one," Brewer said. "Because of our financial condition, this will have to be done rapidly."

The district will be carrying a $850,000 educational fund deficit into next year. The board had decided at their last meeting to hire a new business manager. This move would have relieved Spence's responsibilities.

Spence said the financial situation in the district was one of the few reasons it was difficult for him to resign. He said it was an "interesting problem." "I don't know what is going to happen to District 165," Spence said. "I don't think anyone does. But if people collectively address themselves to the problems, they will be solved. If they don't, they won't."

Bakalis predicts tuition-free colleges

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

By the next generation, access to free higher education will be a right, rather than "elitist" privilege, Michael Bakalis, former Illinois superintendent of public instruction, said Friday.

Bakalis, Democratic candidate for state comptroller, said that during the past 100 years, elementary and high school programs have moved to a "mass instruction" concept.

He told a political science class in Lawson Hall that free tuition "won't come tomorrow morning."

He predicted, however, that the state would fully fund higher education by the next generation.

During the late 1800's and early 1900's elementary and secondary education changed from a privilege to a right through full state funding, Bakalis said.

Every high school graduate in Illinois can have an opportunity for higher education, through either enrolling at a state university or a community college, Bakalis said.

He said that enrollment in some colleges has jumped within the last 15 years from 1,000 to 23,000 students.

Higher education is entering a period of "entrenchment" because enrollments at elementary and high schools are expected to decline through 1985, Bakalis said.

He said that university teaching associations, following the lead of primary and secondary educators, would apply political pressures to get collective bargaining and higher salaries.

Coal company predicts 4,000 new jobs in area

By Eric White
Student Writer

An expected expansion of American coal mining will produce 4,000 to 5,000 new jobs for Southern Illinois, Southern Indiana and Northern Kentucky over the next 10 years, J. Richard Freeman, a representative of the Peabody Coal Co., said Friday morning at SIU.

Speaking at a Club of Rome symposium session, Freeman said the area's coal reserves (about 100 billion tons), water supplies, utility plants and oil and gas pipelines could make the Mississippi and Ohio River Valleys the "Ruhr Valley of America." The Ruhr Valley is Germany's industrial heartland.

Freeman said his company hopes to fulfill the federal government's goal of doubling coal production in the next 10 years.

Sidney Marder, director of the division of Energy of the Illinois State Energy Commission, said the goal is attainable, but "we'll be hard pressed to meet it."

"The State of Illinois will aggressively pursue coal development," Marder promised.

Marder said coal is about 90 per cent of America's energy reserves but accounted for only about 18 per cent of America's fuel use in 1974.

In contrast, Marder said, oil is about 4 per cent of the nation's fuel reserve but accounted for 46 per cent of its fuel use in 1974.

"We are depending least on our most available fuel—coal," Marder said.

Michael Rieber, research professor at the Center for Advanced Computation at the University of Illinois at Urbana, said, however, that no one really knows the extent of the earth's energy reserves because exploration is determined by economics.

"There is no energy shortage and there never has been," Rieber said.

"In America, coal is not mined below 800 feet while in Europe, mines are as deep as 2,000 feet," Rieber said. "American oil wells go down as far as 22,000 feet while Mideast wells go down only 7,000 feet."

Freeman said the coal industry "has been caught in a tug-of-war between the public, interest groups and different parts of the government."

The coal industry was caught off guard, Freeman said, because during the early 1960's, the demand for electricity was underestimated while the role of nuclear energy in generating it was overestimated.

"Older, coal-burning utility plants, which were supposed to be retired by 1970, are still operating," Freeman said.

Freeman also said the industry suffers from inadequate transportation and storage facilities as well as a shortage of skilled workers needed for deep mining.

Freeman said the industry is committed to the environment and mine safety, but government regulations in both areas are obstacles to efficient coal production.

Although deep mining will become more common as surface reserves are depleted, Freeman said the elimination of strip mining would cut coal production in half.

Marder said that despite research into coal liquefaction and gasification, initially "we're going to have to burn coal as coal."

News Roundup

Italian investigators hunt for 'antelope'

ROME (AP)—Italy stepped up the "hunt for the antelope" Friday as the head of a parliamentary commission urged investigators to go to America in an effort to identify a former premier who reportedly played a key role in the $1.6 million Lockheed payoff scandal.

Italian papers called the search an antelope hunt because the code name "antelope cobbler" reportedly was used for a premier in the Lockheed files now in the hands of investigators. The meaning of "antelope cobbler," other than as a code, was not known. Angelo Castelli, a Christian Democrat who heads the investigating commission, said a trip to the United States was "not only opportune but necessary. If we don't go to the United States we would waste three months to do what we can do in three days in America."

Kissinger meets with new British prime minister

LONDON (AP)—Henry A. Kissinger stopped here Friday on his way to a two-week, seven-nation African tour to establish a new policy based on a commitment to black-majority rule in the turbulent continent. The secretary of State was to confer with British leaders, including newly appointed Prime Minister James Callaghan and Foreign Secretary Anthony Crosland, before continuing on to Nairobi, Kenya. The British claim to know the complexities of southern African politics better than most other governments.

Also on Kissinger's schedule was a meeting with special U.S. envoy L. Dean Brown—who flew here to see the secretary—to review the Lebanese civil war between rightist Christians and leftist Moslems and to work out a way to smooth a changeover in Lebanon's presidency.

Court rejects resumption of campaign subsidies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court on Friday refused to order a resumption of government campaign subsidies as requested by seven presidential candidates. In a brief order with no dissent, the court rejected motions filed with it Thursday by the candidates and the Democratic National Committee. Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., concurring in the decision, said that the U.S. Court of Appeals here would be the only court with jurisdiction to grant any relief to the candidates.

Don't forget about the clock

WASHINGTON (AP)—You should be going to bed an hour earlier than usual Saturday—at least according to your clock.

That's because, when you hit the sack Saturday night, it will be time to set your clock ahead an hour, marking the arrival of Daylight Saving Time (DST). The change gives you more hours of light in the afternoon and evening and it officially takes effect at 2 a.m. Sunday, continuing until 2 a.m. Oct. 31.

The Senate approved a bill to extend daylight time to seven months this year and next, from mid-March to mid-October. But inaction in the House kept the plan from becoming law.

Hearings have been tentatively set for next month in the House, but they may be delayed by other legislation. Unless there is some change made by Congress, the nation will remain on a system of six months of daylight and six months standard time.

The move to extend daylight time began in 1973 at the height of the energy crisis. Advocates contended that longer evening daylight hours, when most persons are awake, can result in savings of energy.

But opponents argue that less light in the morning endangers children going to school and inconveniences farmers.

Remember when you go to bed Saturday night, set your clock an hour ahead.

Club of Rome predicts boost in Little Egypt coal fortunes

Marder said the conversion of coal to other fuels is too expensive for either state governments or private industry. He suggested that the federal government provide the help.

Rieber described coal conversion as "an attempt to recapture the old markets for oil and natural gas."

Marder expects new burning techniques under development to make coal burning cleaner and more efficient.

Marder said the industry views the smoke stack scrubbers now in use as an added expense that adds nothing to their rate of return.

Rieber said conservation efforts should be aimed at a more efficient use of resources rather than attempts to limit economic growth.

"Under what circumstances can you say a child of 200 years from now is of equal value to a child of today?" Rieber asked.

Rieber said there is simply no accurate data with which to predict the future.

Of the Club of Rome's projections, Rieber said, "They come perilously close to generating data consistent with its own conclusions."

"The present is normally considered more valuable than the future, though more difficult to deal with," Rieber said.

Beg your pardon

Friday's article on Styrest Nursing Home incorrectly reported that State Sen. Ken Buzbee, D-Carbondale, said home school districts should be responsible for providing classroom space for children living in the nursing home. Buzbee said that because Styrest recruits handicapped children from different areas of the state, the Styrest Nursing Home should be responsible for providing classroom space.

Cedar Lake is getting a new boat dock and launching ramp which are scheduled to be completed soon. The construction will include two boat launching areas, a parking lot and restroom facilities and was budgeted at $94,000. ## Negotiated guilty plea entered in drug case

By Debbie Absher
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 26-year-old Carbondale man charged with illegal production of cannabis was given a year's probation and fined $300 and court costs on a negotiated guilty plea Friday in Jackson County Circuit Court.

Gary Shidaker, Rt. 3, entered the plea before Circuit Judge Richard Richman. The same charge against David Waskow, 22, and William Montgomery, 22, both formerly of Carbondale, was dismissed.

The men were arrested July 18 at Shidaker's home after his trailer was searched by members of the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group (MEG) and the Carbondale Police Department and Jackson County Deputy Jim Nesler, who were executing a search warrant.

Law enforcement officials said they found about 485 plants, later analyzed to be marijuana, growing near the trailer and found 900 grams of marijuana and a quantity of potted cannabis plants inside the trailer.

Evidence presented in the preliminary hearing showed Shidaker to be a resident of the trailer for which the warrant was executed.

Bradley Etherton, 19, of Murphysboro, entered a negotiated guilty plea Friday to a charge of illegal possession of cannabis. He was given one year's probation and fined $500 and court costs.

Etherton was arrested Oct. 15 by Murphysboro police after he and two occupants of the car he was driving were seen drinking beer. When officers stopped the car they found open cans of beer and a plastic bag containing what was later determined to be marijuana.

A second charge of illegal possession of cannabis against Etherton filed in December was dismissed as part of the negotiated plea.

Billy Loos, 18, and Gilbert Riston, 18, both of McClure, were bound over for a jury trial July 12 on a charge of illegal possession of cannabis.

Police said they found a bag of marijuana in the car Loos had been driving. An inventory had been taken of the car after the car had been towed following an April 16 accident near Murphysboro.

Council plans public hearing about 1976-77 city budget

A public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the council chambers at 609 E. College St. to solicit public input on the city's proposed $17.6 million 1976-77 budget.

The hearing is scheduled to precede the regularly scheduled meeting of the City Council.

The council meeting is scheduled to include council action on the budget. Following this the council will meet in an informal session to discuss a Planning Commission's recommendation to rezone Home Federal Savings and Loan at 110 N. Illinois Ave.

The council is also scheduled to discuss proposed plans by the public works department for street construction in Northeast Carbondale.

The Citizens Advisory Committee is scheduled to report its recommendations of goals for Carbondale.

Vietnamese vote Sunday in first national election

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—North and South Vietnamese vote in their first combined national elections Sunday, giving special emphasis to women candidates and endorsing a reunification process that began when Hanoi tanks rolled into Saigon a year ago.

In Saigon, authorities ordered Viet Cong flags flown but banned normal Sunday religious and cultural activities and braced for what they termed rightist attempts to "ravage" the election. The archbishop of Saigon urged Roman Catholics to attend Mass Saturday afternoon.

"Voters will have the honor of electing... a National Assembly which will give the historic mission of building a peaceful, independent, unified and Socialist Vietnam," Saigon's Liberation radio announced as balloting approached.

Candidates in both the North and South comprise a carefully chosen cross-section of workers, farmers, women, hill tribesmen and other ethnic minorities. Special attention has been given to women and candidates representing their interests. Liberation radio said last month that balloting "rests in the hands of the fair sex, the biggest and most powerful group in South Vietnam."

The North will hold its election simultaneously, and the combined assembly, which will have 492 seats, must convene within two months of the election. It will be "the highest organ of power of our state," authorities have said.

Real control, however, is expected to remain within the ranks of Vietnam's Communist party.

There are no opposition candidates in Vietnam's National Assembly race, nor were there reports of violence during a campaign that began Jan. 19.

Upper echelon party and government leaders are all running for seats in the assembly, and their victory is virtually assured.

South Vietnamese officials have warned, however, that diehard "henchmen of the former regime both in Vietnam and foreign countries are trying to ravage our election," and called on authorities to guard against trouble.

The new government in the South has gone all out to promote voting, which is open to all citizens above age 18.

In Indianapolis, President Ford said Friday that there is no prospect that the United States will extend diplomatic recognition to North Vietnam or normalize relations with Hanoi.

"I never said we would seek to normalize relations or recognize North Vietnam," Ford told a news conference in Indianapolis before flying to Evansville in his campaign for votes in Indiana's May 4 primary.

He appeared to contradict Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who said March 26 that Washington is, "in principle, prepared to normalize relations with Hanoi."

Kissinger told reporters the message listed as "our principal concern" an accounting by Hanoi of the 2,000 Americans missing in action from the Indochina war.

Ford's GOP challenger, Ronald Reagan, and other conservative Republicans have been critical of any attempt to step up relations with North Vietnam, so recently an enemy on the battlefield.

Ford personally brought up the subject on a late Thursday night television interview in Indianapolis when he said, "This government has no intention whatsoever of recognizing North Vietnam—none."

His statement was brought up at a question-and-answer session Friday and he extended that policy to ban seeking of normal relations with the North Vietnamese.

In the delicate language of diplomacy, there is a fine difference between "recognizing" and "seeking normalization." Recognition involves exchanging ambassadors and establishing embassies in both countries.

Jury finds two guilty of armed robbery

By Debbie Absher
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A Carbondale man and woman were each found guilty of armed robbery and two counts of unlawful use of a weapons Friday in Jackson County Circuit Court, while another man was acquitted of the same charges.

Orvid Garrett, 19, 703 N. Barnes St., and Helen Watts, 23, 811 N. Marion St., were found guilty of the charges stemming from the armed robbery Feb. 15 of the Clark Service Station, 1841 Walnut, in Murphysboro.

The jury, which deliberated nearly six hours, found Calvin Collier, 24, 1121 B E. College St., innocent of the charges.

Daniel Sheen, the station attendant at the time of the robbery, testified

Wednesday in court that shortly before midnight Feb. 15 as he was preparing to close the station, three people arrived at the station of foot: one asked for a package of cigarettes, he said.

Sheen said he returned to the building and was taking inventory when someone entered the building behind him and said, "Hey, I've got something to show you." Sheen said he turned around and saw a gun sticking out of the side of the person's overalls. That person was later identified as Watts.

Another person later identified as Garrett, wearing a black turtle-neck sweater pulled up over his face stood in the doorway while a third person, identified as Collier stood outside, he said.

Watts asked for all the money in the station, Sheen said. He gave her the cash he had on him and money locked in other parts of the station, he said.

Sheen said that Garrett pointed a gun at him most of the time and kept jabbing him in the chest with it. Garrett asked for some Kool cigarettes, but Sheen said he told him he had no individual packs.

Watts took all the money and then took a carton of cigarettes from a shelf, Sheen said. Sheen testified that the two then told him to stay where he was and warned him not to call the police or they would "blow your head off."

Sheen said he pushed a button in the station which summons police and then ran out of the building to get assistance. When police arrived, Sheen said he gave a description of the three persons, who he believed to have been males.

Murphysboro Police Officers Don Fenton and Ron Manwaring testified that after they received the call they noted cars traveling east on Walnut to see if any of them matched the attendant's description.

One officer recalled that black Lincoln Continental containing three persons who fit Sheen's description of the robbery had passed them on Walnut.

One of the police cars and State Trooper Claude Wright followed the car and saw it parked in front of the American Legion, 902 Locust.

The officers said they stopped the car and found a gun on the driver's side, an empty gun holster and some coins on the car floor and a loaded gun under the armrest in the front seat.

When they frisked the suspects, they said, they found more than $300 in cash and rolled coins on Watts and found $18.06 on Garrett.

Officers testified they later found a black turtle-neck sweater in the front seat of the car. They said they also found a package of Kool cigarettes that had a tax number stamped on it which matched the series of ones at the Clark Station.

Watts took the stand in her own defense and testified that the night of Feb. 15 she went by the Palm Lounge, 220 N. Washington Ave., to return a house key to her mother, who was there with relatives.

She said she then drove to the American Legion in Murphysboro to see someone and when she was about to leave, Collier asked her for a ride home. As they were leaving, police stopped them, she said.

Circuit Judge Richard Richman set the sentencing date for June 2 at 1:30 and ordered Watts and Garrett held without bond in Jackson County Jail pending sentencing.

100,000 protest Boston racial strife

BOSTON (AP) — A crowd estimated at 100,000 marched through downtown Boston on Friday to protest a week of racial beatings and stonings, but the poor blacks and whites responsible for much of the trouble were noticeably absent.

The mile-long procession, led by politicians and clergymen, ended with a prayer session on the steps of City Hall. The marchers, almost exclusively white, were mostly well-dressed workers who had been given time off from their jobs in government and business office buildings.

While they walked, two victims of the violence remained hospitalized. One, a man, had severe brain damage, and the other, a girl, a skull fracture. Both are white and were attacked by gangs of blacks in separate incidents during the past week.

The current wave of unrest began two weeks ago when a black lawyer was beaten during a white antibusing demonstration and escalated in recent days with racial beatings and stonings in poor black and white neighborhoods. It was the latest outburst in a city wracked by racial tension since busing for integration began two years ago.

Friday's "Procession Against Violence" came one day after 22 people were hurt in a bomb blast at the Suffolk County Courthouse. That incident has not been linked with the racial trouble.

White antibusing groups boycotted the rally, and few blacks showed up, either. City Council President Louise Day Hicks, head of the antibusing organization, Restore Our Alienated Rights, said, "The only march that will mean anything will be on Judge W. Arthur Garrity's courtroom."

Garrity, a U.S. district court judge, ordered the city's current busing program.

The march was led by Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, a white Democrat, and Edward W. Brooke, a black Republican; Humberto Cardinal Medeiros, the archbishop of Boston; Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, and Mayor Kevin H. White.

The crowd was estimated at 100,000 people by Peter Meade, the city parks commissioner who coordinated the march. However, some reporters put the total at 30,000 to 50,000. Police refused to make an estimate.

"This is an affirmation of America's great tradition of tolerance," said Kennedy. "I don't think any single act will relieve the problems."

The crowd filled City Hall Plaza, where several clergymen offered prayers on the City Hall steps against a backdrop of tropical plants.

"Teach us, oh God, that the voice of violence speaks not for democracy but for the devil of fascism," said Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn. "To indulge in inflammatory rhetoric is like playing with matches near a cache of dynamite."

EDITORIAL POLICY—The general policy of the Daily Egyptian is to provide an open forum for discussion of issues and ideas. Opinions expressed on the editorial pages do not necessarily reflect those of the administration or any department or the University. # Aliens don't threaten jobs

By John Rebchook
Student Writer

About a year ago a letter in the Chicago Tribune asked that we "crack down on the illegal aliens and those that hire them so that we could have hundreds of thousands of new jobs. The writer said he is tired of the "liberal hand-wringings about the plight of the poor aliens."

The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) estimates that there are about 8 million illegal aliens in this country, 60 per cent of them from Mexico. This means that illegal aliens constitute almost 8 per cent of the total work force, a figure very close to the labor force which is black (when the total labor force is corrected to include the aliens).

But are they taking jobs away from United States citizens?

Michael J. Piore, associate professor of economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, wrote a paper entitled "The 'New Immigration' and the Presumptions of Social Policy."

He said the jobs the aliens obtain tend to be characterized by "low wages, poor working conditions, instability, lack of advancement opportunities and slight skill requirements."

Piore said the illegal aliens are filling a labor shortage at the bottom of the labor market. This labor shortage is attributed by employers to the growing reluctance of black workers to accept the kinds of low level jobs that blacks traditionally filled.

He said the aliens fill the "menial, low-wage, unstable, dead end jobs in industries like textiles, shoes and tanning, at sewing machines in the garment industry, in restaurants, hotels, laundries and hospitals." Mexicans are often hired in the South West to do seasonal harvesting.

The U.S. Labor Department conducted a study of 793 illegal aliens apprehended by law-enforcement officials around the nation. They found that the average hourly earnings of the aliens was $2.71, compared with $4.47 for U.S. production workers in 1975.

The same study found that between 20 and 25 per cent of the illegal aliens "appear to have been paid below the minimum wage."

Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., introduced a bill in Congress last year that would have made it against the law to hire illegal aliens. The bill, which died in the Senate, would have imposed fines on employers convicted of hiring illegal aliens.

Piore is troubled by the logic behind this bill. He believes passage of this bill would push the alien labor market underground. He fears it would become common practice for an employer to profit from paying less than the minimum wage and by ignoring legal health and safety standards.

Piore said legal and social standards would no longer be effective. Once consumers became accustomed to the cut-rate prices that an illicit market permits, a new, lower level will be set up for labor conditions. Piore said we are in danger of returning to a "world of the sweat shop and reminiscent of conditions of child labor, a world we have not seen in this country for 50 years."

The majority of illegal aliens work in jobs that most Americans do not want. To fine employers for hiring illegal aliens will not curb the tide of illegal aliens, but will only worsen an already deplorable situation.

Letters

Don't pass the buck

To the Daily Egyptian:

In Mr. Hans Fischer's letter of April 20 regarding a 25 cent donation for the upgrading of Mrs. Elsie Steele's home by student groups, I question why Mr. Fisher did not bother to include non-student participation, like his own.

Does Mr. Fischer feel the community, away from the students, have done their share for this woman? I could see taking up collections, but let's make this a joint effort.

I've learned in business courses that it is vital for businessmen to work for the betterment of the community. This should not be done by writing letters and "passing the buck" to some other community population, like students. I see what people mean when they say, "out of sight, out of mind," as the city council has done in "The Other Carbondale."

Face death squarely

To the Daily Egyptian:

The recent editorial in the Daily Egyptian concerning the ethical issue of plug pulling failed to bring out important aspects of the controversy. Although I agree that brain death and coma are not the same, it is also my belief that respirator and life are not synonymous. The basic issue seems not to be the definition of death but rather the acceptance of death. Until our culture comes to realize that death is an inescapable consequence of coming into being, I doubt that much progress will be made in handling situations similar to the Karen Ann Quinlan case.

With this in mind, I must disagree with the editorial. It is not time to go on defining and redefining death but rather a time to face death squarely and with a calmness befitting its natural position in the life cycle.

A better understanding

To the Daily Egyptian:

As a native of the Northeast Side, I would like to thank you for the seven-part series about "The Other Carbondale-The Northeast Side". Quite often when I introduce myself as a native, the response is "You're the first I've met," as if they did not even know natives existed.

I take a special interest in this subject not only as a native, but also as one of the ten children of Mrs. Eurma C. Hayes, and as a victim of some of the problems mentioned in the series. Hopefully as a result of these articles more people who are capable of helping us solve these problems will lend a hand, not only in the areas designated, but also in areas which were not discussed.

There is a "silver lining behind every dark cloud." An article about the good sides of this cloud (involvement of such organizations as the churches) would have provided a better understanding of "The Other Carbondale."

Consider the source

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to respond to Sandy Mulder's editorial concerning Hunter Boy's advertisements. I've lived in Carbondale nearly all my life and I think I can shed some light on the lack of complaints about Dick Hunter's "Thought for the Day." By the term "Southern Illinois women", I assume you mean the local wives and mothers of this area. Most of these women are very much against women's lib and things associated with it. They live fairly settled lives and are quite contented to take care of their homes, husbands, and families. This is the life they have chosen to lead. They rarely get up in arms over things concerning women's rights. They are loved and cared for by their husbands and the general attitude is; if their men want to have a little joke, let them. It's only a joke and is not meant in a serious or malicious manner. As for the local young women like myself, I think we just consider the source.

Bicentennial Festival begins Sunday

The Student Activities Center Exhibits Program and the City of Carbondale will hold a Bicentennial Festival Sunday through Tuesday. The festival will open Sunday from 4 to 9 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms. On Monday and Tuesday it will be open from 1 to 9 p.m.

Search for dog who bit student still underway

A medium sized white and black dog who bit an SIU student is still being sought to prevent the student from having to undergo a painful series of rabies shots. The dog was tied outside the Lewis Park IGA store around 5 p.m. Monday.
 To avoid the shots, the dog must be found and put under observation for 10 days.
 Anyone who might own the dog or provide information about a dog fitting the description is urged to call Barb at 549-1064.

Participating in the festival will be persons representing Carbondale Foundation for a Better Environment, Resource Reclamation Inc., Red Cross, Carbondale Council of Garden Clubs, Student Christian Foundation, Easter Seal Society, Southern Illinois Audubon Society and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

These groups will sponsor slide shows, demonstrations and talks.
 Two traveling exhibits from the Smithsonian Institute are included in the festival, "Five Critical Elections" and "Just Before the War". The first depicts the elections of Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley and Franklin D. Roosevelt. The later is a collection of photographs that reveal the nature of urbanism in the United States just before World War II.
 Paintings by Carl Shull, professor of art at Eastern Illinois University, will be displayed in the Student Center Gallery Lounge. The paintings, titled "Bicentennial College Paintings" will depict American fashion and mores. The Bicentennial Festival will move outdoors with mobile units displaying visual and performing arts. The mobile units will be located near Anthony Hall. Ceramic and weaving mobile units will be located at University Hall.

Black alumni group seeks new members

The Black Alumni Association of SIU is currently seeking new members, said Lynn Avery, a representative of the association who received an M.A. in Rehabilitation from SIU last year.

The Black Alumni Association was formed in 1973 by a group of black students interested in encouraging college-bound students to attend SIU, Avery said. The association has also expressed concern in relation to new enrollment procedures and the retention of black students at SIU. The association now consists of 50 members and Barbara Medley, 1971 elementary education graduate, is president.

The organization has not been formally affiliated with SIU or the Alumni Association. A representative from the Black Alumni Association has made initial contacts with the Black Affairs Council and the black faculty to discuss mutual concerns of black students at SIU.

Contacts have also been made with black students on campus to increase their awareness of the association and to stimulate support for the association's fund raising affairs.

Birthday Boogie sets theme of Kappa Karnival weekend

This weekend marks the 25th anniversary of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity's celebration of Kappa Karnival at SIU. The weekend, filled with games, activities and social gatherings, is designed to promote the black experience, said George Hart, karnival chairman.

The highlight of the four-day weekend is the Kappa Karnival with the theme of the "Bicentennial Boogie" beginning at 9 p.m. Saturday at the SIU Arena. The karnival will feature carnival games, such as ring toss or darts, novelty sales booths with souvenirs and a dance complete with disc jockeys. The karnival will be set up at the upper concourse of the Arena with the dance to be held on the floor.

Activities will run until 2 a.m. Sunday with the crowning of the Kappa Karnival queen scheduled for 11:30 p.m. Admission for the Arena karnival is $3 per person.

Also competing are Halli Pryor, freshman in health science, Mary

Haynes, sophomore in data processing; Denise Lang, freshman in radio and television; Pat Fitzgerald, junior in social welfare; Crystal Knight, freshman in foreign languages; Karen Jones, freshman in nursing; Sharon White, freshman in nursing; Vanessa Robinson, freshman in nursing; Denise Bragg, freshman in speech pathology and Karen Harris, sophomore in business administration.

Kenneth Lester, Karnival court chairman, said the 1976 court of 18 is one of the largest ever chosen.

Also planned for Saturday is the "Parade Freedom March." The parade will be a lot bigger than last year," Hart said. He is tentatively planning on bands, floats and decorated cars.

Parade route for the 3 p.m. parade is from the A & P parking lot, 207 W. Monroe St., under University Avenue, onto Mill Street to South Illinois Avenue and back to the parking lot, Hart said.

Athletics are also planned for the weekend beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Arena. A basketball single-elimination tourney open to fraternity teams and a volleyball contest open to fraternity teams and everyone are scheduled. Registration for the athletic events should be made at the Kappa house, 102 Small Group Housing.

Four dances, or sets, are planned for Saturday. The 2 to 6 p.m. atterset is the "Nat Turner Gathering" at Das Fass, 517 S. Illinois Ave. T. Hart Duo will be the featured band.

Scheduled for after the karnival are a "Merlin's Compromise," from 2 to 6 a.m., at Merlin's, 315 S. Illinois Ave., with admission at $3 a person; "John Brown's Raid" from 1 to 6 a.m. at the Student Center, with admission at $2; and "Bonaparte's Underground Railroad" from 2 to 6 a.m. at the former Bonaparte's Retreat, 213 E. Main St. Admission will be $2. A disc jockey will provide music at each afterset.

No special events are planned for Sunday, Hart said, except for an open house at the Kappa Fraternity House. The all-day event is called the "War Between The Sexes."

The public is invited to all events planned.

WSIU Friends host Fine Art Weekend

The Friends of WSIU will be conducting their second annual Fine Arts Weekend, in Chicago from May 7 to 9.

Highlighting the weekend are top price seats for a concert by the Juilliard Quartet at Orchestra Hall, and top price seats for a concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra performing Richard Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman."

Cost for the weekend is $100 per person for a Friend of WSIU and $110 for a non-member. The additional $10 includes membership in the Friends group. The cost also includes transportation to and from Chicago by bus, accommodations at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, seats for both concerts, and two meals.

Reservations for the weekend will close Wednesday at 5 p.m., said Larry Richardson, music director at WSIU radio and television station and host for the weekend.

Reservations, with the entire amount due, can be made by mailing the reservation form, available at WSIU, to Larry Richardson, SIU Broadcasting Service, Carbondale, Illinois 62901, or through the WSIU office.

Checks should be made payable to the "SIU Foundation Friends of WSIU."

Departure is scheduled for 9 a.m. May 7, from the Communications Building, with pick-up stops scheduled for the Williamson County Airport, Mt. Vernon Ramada Inn and the Effingham Ramada Inn.

Richardson said activities for Saturday morning and afternoon are not scheduled, to allow time for the 72 American Exhibit at the Art Institute, shopping, or other activities.

Saturday evening dinner is scheduled for the Haymarket Restaurant at the Hilton with no charge, followed by the Symphony concert.

Tentatively scheduled is a visit to the "Ninety-fifth," a restaurant on top of the John Hancock Center. Richardson said Dinner at the restaurant average $20 per person and reservations must be made with the trip reservation form, he said.

Dinner is required to visit the top of the center without paying a cover charge.

A farewell brunch is scheduled at the Hilton Coffee House without charge followed by check-out time at noon. Drop-off stops will be in reverse of pick-up spots.

St. Louis Symphony concert planned for Shryock Sunday

Tickets are still available for the 3 p.m. Sunday concert of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at Shryock Auditorium.

Tickets will be for sale from 7 a.m. Saturday to 1:30 a.m. Sunday and from 7 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the Student Center Information Desk and from 2 p.m. until concert time at the auditorium box office.

Lew Bolton, researcher for the Special Meetings and Speakers office, said tickets would be available in all price ranges. Price has been set for $4, $5 and $7 for the general public and $3, $4 and $6 for SIU students, he said.

The orchestra, will perform four numbers, including Mikhail Glinka's "Russian and Ludmilla," Gabriel Faure's "Pelleas and Melisande," Aaron Copland's "El Salon Mexico," and Peter Ilyitch Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 2 in C Minor."

Associate Principal Conductor Leonard Slatkin will direct the orchestra. He has been hailed as the front running American conductor since Leonard Bernstein by the Chicago Today.

Council approves temporary liquor license for city fair

The Carbondale City Council approved and issued a temporary Class C liquor license to allow the sale of beer and wine at the city fair to be held Saturday at Evergreen Park.

The Carbondale City Council met in a special formal session Friday to amend the ordinance that provides for temporary liquor licenses. The council passed the temporary liquor license ordinance at their meeting Monday.

The amendment allows the sponsors of the fair to receive a temporary liquor license without the

Police plan no major change in security on Kappa weekend

SIU Security and Carbondale Police officials said Friday that no substantial change in police procedure will be made for the Kappa Carnival this weekend.

"When you have between 8,000 to 10,000 extra people coming into town, the police can expect to have a few more problems than usual," said Lt. Jerry Reno of Carbondale Police. "We are going to need more men on Saturday afternoon to handle the parade, but we are not going to make any real, substantial changes," he said.

Reno said that the department will have more investigators working during the nights and will have additional personnel to handle the large amount of traffic and service calls that are expected. Lt. Marvin Braswell said that the SIU Security Department has no special plans for the weekend. He said the carnival was usually required before issuing the license as set down in the original ordinance.

The amendment also included a section implying licensees obtain county health and city code department approval of the location of the event and be charged a sales tax for all drinks sold.

The amendment also calls for a $50 license fee.

In other action, the council met in its capacity as the liquor commission to grant the Veterans Club a liquor license under the provisions of the same amendment.

said the carnival has been very quiet and orderly for the past few years, and the Security Police anticipate no trouble other than more traffic problems. He also mentioned that Kappa Alpha Psi, the sponsor, is going to help with security.

Salukis do poorly under rainy skies in 67th edition of Drake Relays

Ampon wins No. 1 match as Saluki netters win

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

On paper, the tennis match Friday between SIU's No. 1 player Mel Ampon and Kansas' No. 1 player Bill Clarke looked like a great match-up. But after Ampon selected the proper strategy against the much taller Clarke, it was all over.

Ampon won easily 6-3, 6-0. The Salukis wrapped up the team win with the conclusion of singles, winning five of six matches and seven of nine overall, avenging an early season loss to the Jayhawks. SIU's record is now 8-5.

Clarke, who had one of the best individual records in the country (18-1) coming into the match at the University tennis courts, had beaten Ampon earlier this year 6-3, 6-3.

"I was lucky he was missing a lot of shots," said a happy Ampon following the match. "He's got a big serve but it didn't work for him today."

The final score of the match didn't look close, but seven games went to a tie-breaker.

"I won all seven of the tie-breaking games and that was important," Ampon added.

"When he was at the net, he was sticking too close," he said. "I was changing the pace of the ball too and I think that changed his timing."

The win was a big one for Ampon. Clarke is one of the better tennis players in the Midwest. Last year at the NCAA tournament, he had a big lead on Brian Teacher of UCLA before bowing. Clarke said he figures to do well in the Big Eight this year.

"I think either Frank Mitchell of Missouri or myself will win the Big Eight this year," Clarke predicted. "If he's going to do well, Clarke knows where he must improve—defending against the lob. Ampon continually lobbed high arching shots over Clarke's head, which the latter had difficulty handling."

By Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Des Moines—A tough trivia question for future generations might be—When was the last time it didn't rain during the Drake Relays?

It poured again Friday during the opening session just as it has for as many relays as most people can remember. The rain dampened the morning session of the 67th edition of the prestigious relays but stopped long enough for the afternoon session to be run on a dry track.

Then the skies broke open again. It didn't matter what the weather was like, the SIU track team performed poorly.

"I really didn't play too well against the lob," he admitted. "I should have attacked the net a lot more. I let a lot of stuff get by. I wasn't doing that enough today."

In the other singles matches Friday, Felix Ampon beat Tim Headtke 6-2, 6-4; Jeff Lubner beat Mark Hosking 6-2, 6-4; Neville Conlin beat Joe Ruysser 6-4, 6-2; Neville Kennerley beat Jeff Thomas 6-2, 6-3 and Sam Dean lost to Greg Buller 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

"Mel beat him (Tim Headtke) last year so I didn't expect a real tough match," Felix Ampon said of his victory. "I didn't think I would have any problems."

Ampon has missed a lot of practice this spring because of studies. Many days he has classes in the afternoon when the rest of the team is practicing and as a result, it hasn't helped his tennis much.

"I'm about the same as I was last year," he said. "I don't think I've improved over last year. I lost to two guys this year that I beat last year and that's not too good."

Since SIU had the match won after singles, Saluki coach Dick Lefevre was able to shift people around in doubles. Felix Ampon was given a rest along with Kennerley.

SIU lost two of three doubles matches. Ampon-Lubner lost to Clarke-Headtke 6-4, 1-6, 6-4; Conlin-Dean beat Buller-Ruysser 6-0, 7-6 and Evert-Davis lost to Thomas-Hosking 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

Saturday the Salukis have two matches at home. At 9 a.m. they play Eastern Kentucky, and at 2 p.m. SIU plays Tennessee.

Daily Egyptian

"Outside of a few people, this is the worst we've done," Coach Lew Hartzog said.

SIU ran four relays Friday. Three of those races were preliminary to Saturday's finals. Only the sprint medley relay team will run Saturday.

The two-mile relay team finished dead last in a 15-team field in the finals of that event.

The 440-yard relay team, still having trouble with its baton passes, failed to qualify for Saturday's finals.

The mile relay team closed out the sub-par day for the Salukis with a fourth place finish. Only the top two teams in each heat go to the finals.

In the individual events:

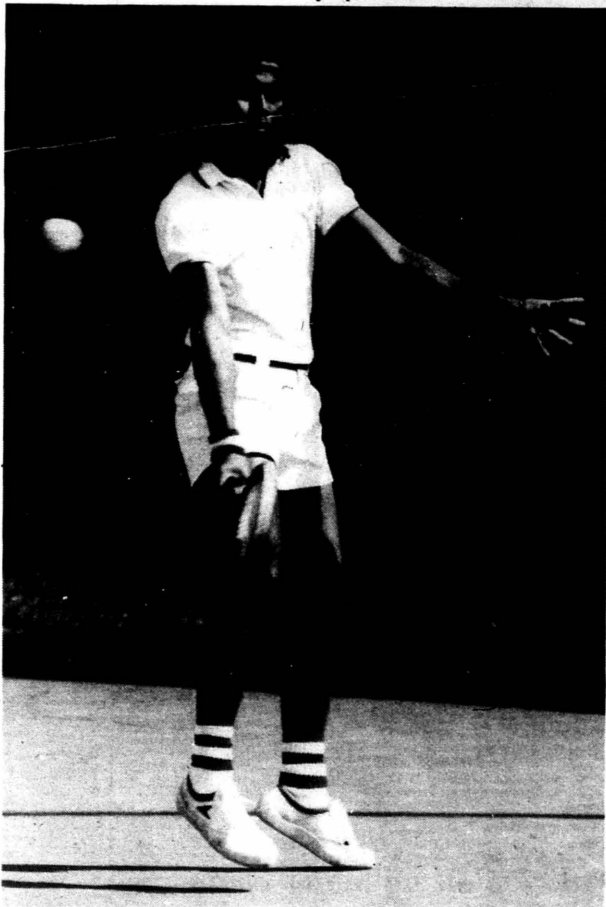

George Haley qualified second in his heat of the preliminaries in the 400 meter intermediate hurdles with a 52.1 clocking. He finished sixth in the finals with a time of 52.3.

For the third consecutive relay meet, sophomore Bob Roggy finished second in the javelin.

Mike Kee qualified second in his heat of the 100-meter dash with a time of 10.52.

In the long jump, Rick Rock took fifth with a jump of 24-0. The winning jump was 24-7 1/4.

SIU triple-jumper Philip Robins carries the favorite's role into Saturday's competition by virtue of his 55-5 1/2 jump at Kansas a week ago.

Error-prone St. Louis beats softballers

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Despite an avalanche of errors, the University of Missouri St. Louis whipped the SIU softball team 4-1 in home action Friday afternoon.

Before the game ended, St. Louis had committed seven errors, but their hitting attack outproduced SIU, eight to four.

The winning pitcher for St. Louis was Pat Pelly, while Saluki Helen Meyer absorbed the loss. Pelly didn't strike out any Southern players, but she was backed by creditable fielding.

Southern's most prominent problem Friday was its difficulty to come up with hits in key situations. At one point, Coach Kay Brechtelsbaer had the Southern starters run to the right field fence in between innings in an effort to pep the team up.

St. Louis scored its first run in the second inning starting off with consecutive singles up the middle by Pat Shelly and Mabel Miller. On a bat attempt by Jerri Allmeyer, Meyer threw wild to fill up the bases.

Joe Overman singled in the solo run of the inning as SIU escaped with minimal damage.

Saluki errors opened the door for three more runs in the fifth. Second baseman Sue Schaeffer threw wild after a difficult ground ball stop to allow St. Louis' lead runner to reach second.

After one out, Pelley singled in a run and went to second on the outfielder's throw. Schaeffer dropped a fly ball to help Tommie Wehrle reach first. Another St. Louis single and an error by Meyer pushed over the other two scores.

The Salukis tried to reach the scoring column as SIU had runners on base in the fifth, sixth, and seventh, but couldn't produce.

Southern's sixth frame was frustrating. Left fielder Brenda Smith singled a blooper to center field in a lead off capacity. She went to second on a long Meyer flyball.

On a fielder's choice Schaeffer got to second, but the play caught Smith at the third. A wild pitch sent Schaeffer to third and she came home on the catcher's own wild throw for SIU's only run.

Shortstop Pam Towry received a free base when St. Louis's first baseman contributed to the error production by dropping a routine throw. Right fielder Jan Winkler singled up the middle, but both Southern runners stayed as catcher Peg O'Connell flied out to right.

During the last turn at bat Southern gave it one more shot in the dusty wind as third baseman Pat Matreci spiked a single down the third base line with one out.

However Smith's line drive went straight to the shortstop, who caught Matreci off first for a double play.

This loss puts Southern's record at 4-3 with a chance to break into a win streak with a home doubleheader against SIU Edwardsville Saturday.

First game is at 10 a.m. with the second starting at 11:30 a.m.

Eight-ball billiard tournament scheduled by women's IM office

Women pool sharks (and non-sharks) will have a chance to compete in an intramural 8-ball billiards tournament at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center.

The same tournament was held last semester, and about 35 women participated, Joyce Craven, tournament supervisor said.

Each match in the single-elimination tournament consists of two-out-of-three games, Craven said.

Mary Lynne Kohler, the graduate assistant in charge of the contest will go over the rules before the match. One rule used will be that of "calling the pocket," Craven said.

"We had such a good turnout in the fall that we decided then to add a spring competition," Craven said.

Participants must sign up by 5 p.m., Wednesday, April 28, in room 205 of Davies gym, she said.

Trophies will be awarded for the overall winner and runner-up. The only fee involved is the rental of the table, which is 90 cents per hour.

"When several matches are played between different individuals on the same table within the hour, no one ends up paying that much," Craven said.

Last semester, observers were surprised at the seriousness with some SIU women place on billiards, she said.
