Fall semester schedule stil

By Miguel Alba Staff Writer

A decision concerning the niversity's 1990 fall break University's 1990 fall break schedule is expected to be made in about a month, University President John C. Guyon said.

Guyon said the question at hand is whether or not to have a fall break, adding that there are good psychological and academic reasons in favor of having one

Results of an Undergraduate Student Government referendum on the fail break issue show that students voted against two different fail break schedules, one developed by the administration and another proposed by the USG.

The administrative break schedule calls for the University to close down the Friday before the Halloween weekend and reopen the following Thursday. The USG proposal calls for a week break atter fall bildterms.

Under both of these proposals, the Thanksgiving break would remain as scheduled.

The schedule for the up coming fall 1989 semester would remain unchanged.

Guyon, who supports eliminating the Halloween festivities, said scheduling a break over the Halloween weekend would act as a strong inhibitor on the event.

Guyon said he will consult with all constituency groups before making a decision.

Bill Hall, USG president, said the purpose behind the proposed administrative should be a diministrative condition. schedule was to eliminate Halloween.

However, Hall said there is a have a fall break need to because the semester is long and students have complained about the tension that acises as the semester goes on. Hall said a fall break would represent additional traveling and storage costs for students.

"No one had indicated there would be added financial aid or a discount on housing for those days the students are gone, Hall said.

Hall speculated students may have voted down both proposals because of the added expense in having one.

The USG has yet to adopt a stand on the fall break issue.

Communist leaders resign; 'serious regrouping'occurs

MOSCOW (UPI) - Nearly one-third of the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee, including former President Andrei Gromyko, resigned Tuesday in a move considered a major political victory for Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and his drive for reform. "This is a serious regrouping of the forces of drive for reform. "This is a serious regrouping of the forces of the party and in society as a whole which is dictated by the new tasks," Gorbachev said in a speech to delegates quoted by the official Tass news agency.

Earthquake strikes Mexico City, Acapulco

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A strong eartinquake rocked Mexico City and Acapulco Tuesday morning, cracking walls, breaking windows and sending panicked residents fleeing into the streets. One man was reportedly killed and two people seriously hurt in the panic. The quake hit at 8:29 s.m. and was centered about 200 miles cout of the Procific miles southwest of the capital and 40 miles east of the Pacific resort city of Acapulco, which is popular with American tourists. It was felt in the southwestern Mexican states of Caxaca, Guerrero and Puebla.

Break not vacation: it's to stop Halloween

APPARENTI Y STUDENTS don't want a fall break — at all. And it's not hard to figure out the reasons they voted against it.

Having a fall break at midsemester, as Undergraduate Student Government proposed, might allow the Halloween celebration to continue. But it's not likely.

The administration and the city are fed up with Halloween in its present form, and unless they can make drastic changes for the better, it will be stopped.

And a break starting the Friday before Halloween would force most students to go home — those on campus would have no choice. It also would be very close to Thanksgiving and Christmas breaks, and some students cannot afford to go home that often. Most probably would go home for Thanksgiving.

THE END OF October also is a long time to go without a break. Students would benefit from a break earlier in the semester, such as after midterms, as USG has proposed.

But this would not solve the problem of Halloween. The only teasible way for the University to put a damper on the event is to impose a fall break during that week.

The city could try to stop the event by revoking Fair Days, but without a break students might just take over Maybe this situation can be resolved so that everyone is happy. Except the avid partiers who want to keep Halloween.

Halloween has long been a problem for Carbondale and SIU-C. The fall break is a recent proposal meant to help end Halloween — not give the students another vacation.

IF THE UNIVERSITY had been worried about the students needing a break before Thanksgiving, it could have scheduled one years ago.

Besides, there probably aren't any students who will complain about getting an extra break even if they didn't vote for one. So a fall break before Halloween probably is best for everyone.

Who knows, maybe in a few years when Halloween has disappeared, the fall break can be moved to the middle of the semester when students can benefit from it most.

Until then, the administration and the city should do what they have to do to control or discontiune Halloween.

In fact, with President Bush and the Congress desperate for additional revenue to shrink the budget deficit — and with the budget exercit—and with Bush on record against any new taxes, withholding on dividends and interest is the best option available. Reliable estimates hold that $3 billion is lost to the Treasury annually because many recipients "forget" to declare dividends and interest. That not only is a considerable sum to forgo. It also is unfair to honest taxpayers to allow so much cheating.

In theory, the Internal Revenue Service matches 1099 slips filed by payers of dividends and interest with what taxpayers declare on their returns. But, in practice, it's impossible to check almost a trillion pieces of paper, and too many chiselers get away with underpaying.

The Reagan years also brought us nearly a decade when every one of us were sitting anxiously on the edge of a possible nuclear holocaust. With ever-increasing arsenals of nuclear destruction, it was widely believed that there was little chance of the world avoiding a nuclear accident or "exchange" within a few Small wonder that our your Sinall wonder that our young people found it hard to take themselves or their future seriously. Why study hard if at all or bother about health, AIDS, responsibility, etc. if there may not be a tomorrow?

How can we solve our crime problem?

1.We must change 1. We must change our foreign policy to one that is consistent with out own democratic tradition. By backing off of our confrontation and bullying approach and reducing and then eliminating our poles for eliminating our nuclear ar-senal, we will give ourselves and our young people, as well as the rest of the world, a new hope for the future.

We cannot solve our crime problem by dealing only with the Mafia, the poor minorities. ## Football money should go to educate

This letter is in regards to the proposed elimination of the football program at SIU-C, and more specifically, in regards to certain views expressed in the April 24 DE.

In that article, Dean Stuck In that article, Dean Stuck notes that several academic programs at the University cost more money than they make and suggests that if the football program was to be eliminated on the basis of it being a big-time financial loser, then perhaps those programs should also be dropped dropped.

I sincerely hope that he was making that suggestion in jest, making that suggestion in Jest, but I fear that he probably wasn't. If not, then he has obviously lost track of the purpose of a university.

The purpose of SIU-C, or of any university, if to provide education; academic programs, not athletics, are the backbone of a university. Thus, judging an academmic program by the same stan-dards which one might judge an athletic program is patently

Some academic areas bring in little money, but all are valid educational concentrations. Football, on the other hand, is a recreational program, and as such is nonessential to the educational mission of the University.

At times like these, when At times like these, when money is so tight that the University's ability to provide quality education and research facilities is reduced, it is only logical to look at taking money from nonessential programs and channeling it toward educational numbers. educational purposes.

Due to its consistent monetary losses, football

Let's face it, in these times when science labs are not adequately equipped and a research library doesn't have the funds needed to keep up with the journals needed for research, the money spent on football can be better spent elsewhere. elsewhere

I support the campaign to liminate the football eliminate the football program. That money which has been going to football and which has to go to athletics (such as athletic fees) should go to other programs and be divided evenly between men's divided evenly between men's and women's programs; the rest of the money should be divided between nonathletic scholarships and Morris Library, where it will do more good than it is now. — Jeffrey Wayne Kramer, graduate student, clinical psychology.

Kennedy adviser to lecture on political cycles in the U.S.

By Doug Toole Staff Writer

Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., political adviser, historian and writer, will deliver a free, public lecture at 8 tonight in Shryock Auditorium.
Schlesinger will talk on "Cycles of American History: The Kennedy Legacy" as part of the University Honor Program's Charles D. Tenney Distinguished Lecture Series. Schlesinger will lecture from his recent book, "The Cycles of American History," which supports the theory that American political philosophy uns in 30-year cycles. He said runs in 30-year cycles. He said periods of introversion alternate with periods of extroversion and that America may be entering another era of public action, such as that seen during the John F. Kennedy administration.

Fredrick Williams, director of the Honors Program, said Schlesinger often quotes Frank often quotes Frank Klingberg, emeritus professor of political science at SIU-C, in his book as one of the original proponents of cyclical politics. Williams said this probably did not have any effect on Schlesinger's decision to lecture in Carbondale.

"It's just another happy accident of the small world we live in." Williams said.

Schlesinger has written Pulitzer Prize-winning books on Andrew Jackson and John F. Kennedy, and served as an adviser during the Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson administrations.

Williams said Schlesinger was invited to lecture at the University both because of his wisdom and because of his connection with a politically important period in history.

"One can only speculate how many ideas, which became national policy, originally came from his mind," came from Williams said.

Tough ozone control sought

Environmentalists cite EPA report noting continued depletion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Environmentalists urged the Bush administration Tuesday to advocate tougher steps to protect Earth's ozone layer, saying the government has admitted current chemical controls are inadequate.
Four environmental groups

Four environmental groups cited new Environmental Protection Agency findings showing controls imposed on the use of ozone-depleting chiorofluorocarbons by the Montreal Protocol, an international treaty signed by 37 nations, will still allow a drastic worsening of the problem. problem

The groups said the administration must press the world community to impose new controls on two other industrial chemicals - methyl chloroform and carbon chloroform and tetrachloride — if if the ozone layer is to be stabilized. Chlorofluorocarbons, Chlorofluorocarbons, or CFCs, chemicals widely used as refrigerants, machinery cleaners and foam-blowing agents, have been viewed as the major cause of ozone depletion, contributing the largest share of ozone-depleting chlorine in the upper atmosphere.

However, the groups said new EPA computer analyses show that, "The Montreal Protocol agreement would allow stratospheric chlorine levels from human emissions in the next 50 years to increase to a level four times higher than the level that existed before the Antarctic ozone hole developed in the 1970s.

developed in the 1970s."

Increasingly pessimistic analyses of the ozone depletion problem recently prompted President George Bush and European leaders to call for toughening the Montreal Protocol to require a complete phase-out of CFCs by the end of the century. The treaty now calls for a 50-percent cut in CFC use by 1998.

But the environmental groups said "a CFC phase-out by itself would actually allow stratospheric levels of chlorine stratospheric levels of chlorine from human emissions to grow to three times higher than (current levels) over the next

According to the EPA data, restoration of stratospheric chlorine levels to the 1985 level will require not only a CFC phase-out, but also phase-out of carbon tetrachloride and methyl chloroform coupled with stringent controls to ensure the agong-deploting ensure the ozone-depleting potential of CFC substitutes is minimal," the groups added in a report, "as the World Burns: Documenting America's Failure to Address the Ozone Crisis."

EPA officials confirmed their new findings Monday, saying methyl chloroform and carbon tetrachloride and controls on them may be necessary.

Last week, the EPA warned industry against using the two chemicals, saying new scientific evidence indicates they play a larger role than previously believed in erosion of the Earth's protective zone layer, which screens out harmful radiation.

"The analyses show they

"The analyses show they contribute to the problem in a way that is probably unacceptable," John Hoffman, director of the EPA's global change division, said.

Hoffman's remarks followed a low-profile EPA an-nouncement run in the April 17 Federal Register in which the agency served notice on in-dustry that methyl chloroform and carbon tetrachloride may be added to the list of ozone depleting chemicals regulated by international treaty.

Scientists say evidence is mounting that efforts to stabilize the ozone layer will not succeed unless controls are imposed on several unregulated chemicals and that methyl chloroform and carbon tetrachloride are likely targets.

Dr. Buzz: People in my residence hall are starting to talk about Meth' or 'Crank', what is it?

Green' Question! "Meth" or "Crank" are 2 street names for self-an phetamine, one of the 3 commonly used forms of amphetamines are powerful central nervous timulants and include plain amphetamine (benzedrine), destroamphetamine (dexedrine), and methamphetamine).

Amphetamines and concentrated caffeine pills, both are of Amphetamines and concentrated caffeine pills.

more alert for those late night study marathons. Methamphetamines, called SPEED, CRYSTAL, and GO FAST, are also used by some people who just enjoy the feeling of being over stimulated. It usually comes is powder form that's snorted but also can be injected. It causes an intense rush that lasts about 30 minutes and may knep the user swall for 3-24 hours. Some general effects are increased heart rate, blood pressure, dilated pupils, increased alertness, decreased appetite, and paranoia.

Crank is again becoming popular because it's cheap and available.

College students today don't remember the health related problems associated with methemphetanine used during the late 60s and earl. 70s when it was more commonly used. "Meth" or "Crank" is a very addictive substance. Habitual use can be very damaging to both you body and your mind. Fatalities due to overdose are fairly rare but do cour. Drug users themselves came up with the phrase "Speed Kills" because of the reputation methamphetanine earned before its long-mediacts were known, you have a question about alcohol or drugs send it to Dr. Bu ellness Center or call 536-4441. Look for your answer in

Troupe to visit schools

SIU-C opera students are taking "Little Red Riding Hood" on the road to tour area schools.

"Opera on Wheels" is a SIU-C troupe that tours downstate schools each year to introduce younger audiences to opera. This year's tour will go to Du Quoin, Eldorado, Elkville-Ver-gennes, Goreville, gennes, Goreville, McLeansboro, Red Bud and Sesser. Jeanine F. Wagner, administrative director of SIU-C's Marjorie Lawrence Opera Theater, said that complicated plots and lengthy arias in foreign languages have no place in children's opera. When selecting the touring company's operas she said she looks for works with English lyrics, 45-second solos and in-stantly recognizable stantly recognizable story lines.

"It is much better to approach children on a level they're already comfortable with," she Children's operas also move to lighter music and have a quicker pace.

"There's lots of action, and no one activity will last more than two or three minutes," Wagner

Also, during the per-formance singers speak directly to the audience and kids often talk back, she said. Lesson plans, music tapes and scores are sent ahead so the kids can have a better un-derstanding of what they will be seeing

The cast members als mingle informally with the audience before the show. For example, Clay J. Hulsey, who plays the wolf, will talk with the children onstage as he applies his make-up.

"He basically makes friends with the kids before he goes behind the tree, puts on his mask and scares them to death," Wagner said.

Film about divorce funny, sentimental

Remarriage shown through eves emotional. Yet, the film is saved from gooey maudiness by a heavy dose of situational through eyes of widow, divorcee

By Kathleen DeBo

Most divorce films are about the divorce, "See You in the torning" is about the divorce. Morning' remarriage

It is sentimental, not sur-risingly, but its humor saves prisingly, but its humor saves it from sappiness.

Jeff Bridges stars as a diverced psychiatrist who falls in love with a widow, played by Alice Krige. Farrah Fawcett plays Bridges' ex-wife.

Any film about a divorced man and a widow giving love a second try is expected to be

For example, Bridges surprises Krige by dressing himself like a statue of Cupid, complete with white body paint, and standing in a nitch in a wall of Krige's house.

The most humorous part of the film is when Krige's kids come home early and call the police because they cannot find Mom and Dad. Mom and Dad are making love in the bedroom closet.

Linda Lavin, who plays the mutual friend who brings Krige and Bridges together, has most of the few grating moments in the film.

abcut husband's sperm count are a little silly. Her character is rather obnoxious

She makes remarks that are supposed to be witty, like "Sometimes I think all that terrific male equipment just hangs there by a thread."

Bridges' one main fault in this film is that he has none. Lavin introduces Krige to Bridges by telling her he is a jerk, but that is never shown in the film. Bridges is an understanding husband and stepfather.

Bridges knows Krige's kids better than she does. When Cathy, played by Drew Barrymore, shoplifts, ne knows she is rebelling against being treated like a kid. Maybe Bridges has these remarkable bridges has transfer insights because he is a osychiatrist. His un-derstanding and perception seem too perfect for a realistic novice ster dad.

Lukas Haas, who has made a Lukas Haas, who has made a strong juvenile career playing sensitive children in "Witness" and "The Lady in White," is once again the vulnerable little boy. It is not exactly a stretch for him, but he does a fine job, as do the other actors.

The only problems with this film are minor ones. Humor, heart-warming situations and excellent acting make this film well worth seeing.

Super 7 lotto jackpot leaps to $100 mil in Pennsylvania

T-BIRDS

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) Pennsylvania's recordsetting Super 7 lottery jackpot jumped to $100 million Tuesday, boosted by frantic sales that kept ticket machines sales that kept ticket machines whizzing at the rate of 30,000 tickets sold per minute for Wednesday's drawing.

Despite odds of 1 in 9.6 million set Monday, regular lottery players increased their spendings while people flocked to Pennsylvania from around the country to take their chances.

Jan Gasvoda, working at the sole lottery terminal at Greater Pittsburgh International Airport, estimated that 20 percent of the people standing in line had flown to Pittsburgh just to buy tickets.

Gasvoda said some players plunked up to $900 for lottery tickets.

"It's like a feeding frenzy of sharks — that speaks for it-self," said clerk Pat Roberts, 23, gesturing toward a line of people waiting to purchase tickets at a combination newstand-store in downtown Pittsburgh.

Pennsylvania's Super 7 jackpot surpassed the $69.9 million split last week by four winters of the Illinois Lotto.

If one person takes the jackpot, it would be the largest prize collected by an invividual since Sheelah Ryan of Florida won a $55.1 million lottery pot in September.

Baseball commissioner doing best in Rose case

Consider this scenario:

An investigator for baseball commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti is questioning Ron Peters about taking bets for Reds manager Pete Rose. Peters is hesitant to say much. Maybe Peters doesn't want to be the guy responsible for Rose being suspended. Maybe Peters simply des not feel compelled to talk to any of Giamatti's gumshoes. Maybe Peters wants to know what's in it for him. Maybe Giamatti offers Peters some type of incentive for cooperating.
But what can he offer?

neentive for cooperating.

But what can he offer?

Giamatti says he'll write a letter to the judge in Peters' court case explaining how cooperative Peters was in hasehall's investigation of baseball's investigation of

Why not? What does Giamatti have to lose? The judge should throw the letter away, anyway, for what does baseball's investigation of Rose have to do with Peters' court case? This is not part of some elaborate plea bargain in which Peters' charges are reduced or dropped because he's testifying against Rose in another legal matter. (Which, by the way, is not uncommon.)

This is baseball, for crying out the Cincinnati Reds, not L.A. Law.

Naturally, Giamatti will ask that the letter not be publicized until the commissioner's investigation is complete, for who needs to know about this, anyway? There will always be those who will misinterpret Giamatii's actions and see him as meddling where he doesn't as ineduling where the doesn't be ong, as going to bat for an accused criminal. There will be those who will doubt his credibility and will suggest that he resign his jurisdiction over the Rose investigation.

Isn't such a scenario possible? Isn't it likely?

possible? IST'TH INCHY?

In fact, it is the most logical explanation to the letter sent by Giamatti. This is not a stupid man. He does not want supin man. He does not want to put himself above the law, only uphold the order of his sport — and that means finding out all he can about the antics of Peter Edward Rose.

That the letter has gone public should not be a big deal. That the judge, Carl B. Rubin, should be "somewhat disturbed" over the letter is a bit naive. That Rose's at-torney, Reuven Katz, should suggest Giamatti divorce himself from the Rose case should not surprise. That we should be concerned about his ability to render a fair and unbiased judgment is unnecessary unfounded. and completely

To Bart Bashers who believe To Bart Bashers who believe he is out to get Rose, consider this: Giamatti could have suspended Rose for a year already if for nothing else than guilt by association. Others have been removed from the game in the past because of their cronies' reputations. You see, image and per-their cronies' reputations.

You see, image and perception can be judge and jury in baseball, while due process is a discretionary ideal. If you're a participant in the game, you should understand that — and have no reason to complain if you're cited.
Give Giarnetti and former

Give Giamatti and former Commissioner Peter Ueberroth a little credit for wanting more evidence of wrongdoing before acting. It shows that a better sense of justice prevails over today's game, that baseball's game, that baseball's autocracy has adopted some of society's standards. Granted, society's standards. Granted, the game is temporarily soiled by the long and ugly wait for a verout, but baseball is a Scotchgarded product. When this is over, the sport will carry on — if not good as new, at least cleansed.

Still, the wait is excruciating, every day and every story and every rumor dissected like an earthworm in biology class. Conclusion biology class. Conclusion jumping has become the latest jumping has become the latest rage. Some are unwilling to match Giamatti's patience. So, now they twist the truth, and they lash out at him. They see Giamatti as Black Bart and Rose as The White Knight because of a meaningless letter that might have helped uncover the truth about Rose. Giamatti is not the villain, but the hero. Avain. He but the hero. Again. He demonstrated foresight and leadership in suspending Rose for 30 days last year after the manager twice shoved umpire Dave Pallone. By acting quickly and strictly, Giamatti proved that he would not allow even the legendary Rose to push around the law of the game. Now his patience in ensuring that the same Rose is treated fairly is equally exemplary.

Giarnatti could ma'ce a name for himself simply by suspending Rose for his associations and then com-pleting his investigation during the next year. Instead, Giarnatti is continuing to make a good name for himself in his quest to find the truth.

Listen, Bart Giamatti hasn't brought all this attention upon Pete Rose. Pete Rose did it himself. As evidenced by all the reports and allegations, Rose was an investigation waiting to happen. Nobody wants to believe the informants, but how credible is Rose when he purposely lies about winning a Pik Six? Does Katz really think there's a vendetta, or is he trying to cover Rose's butt? Listen, Bart Giamatti hasn't

All we want is the truth. Same with Bart Giamatti. Not a bad price for a meaningless letter, wouldn't you say?

Jackson finding life after baseball difficult since retirement from pros

More than 18 months since his final at-bat in the major his final at-bat in the major leagues — a single up the middle against the Chicago White Sox — Reggie Jackson still psyches himself up for baseball on a daily basis.

Here is Oakland. And you know who Reggie is because he was one of the few at lees in was one of the few athletes in our lifetimes who was so renowned, so charismatic and, yes, so good, that a surname for identification became superfuous. If you really felt the urge to be formal, you could always address him with the title Mr. or in Mr. October. the title Mr , as in Mr. October.

And so it is more than a trifle sad that baseball's marquee name of the 70s and '80s cannot even find work in the major leagues. And it's more than a tritle disconcerting that Reggie thinks he's been blackballed from the front offices and the coaching staffs of the 26 clubs.

of the 26 clubs.

It's downright shameful.

This isn't just another somebody-done somebody-wrong song. This is about Reggie Jackson. And if Reggie Jackson doesn't have something to offer back to the game, who does?

"It's not like I haven't tried.

'It's not like I haven't tried to return to baseball, because I have," Reggie said during a chat at his mansion-office in Berkeley, Calif. "I've tried

"Hey, I don't need the money, but I still love the game. I've done my best to try to work something out with the (Athletics). I asked to become an assistant general manager here, and they didn't want me. That's why I can't feel com-fortable at their ballpark.

future. I don't think anyone outside can know how difficult a financial situation the athletic department is in.

"There were a couple people who were very much in favor of eliminating football completely—thought all problems would be soived. As you can see there was no recommendation to do that."

Cherry said dropping football would place a financial burden on men's basketball to support the remainder of the athletics department. He also said fundraising could go down because football fans would no longer contribute to the athletics department and justification of the $30 student athletic fee could become an athletic fee could become an

Despite an initial shock if the program were cut, Allen said eliminating football is what the department needs to survive.

"The budget crisis requires some kind of drastic action, and the only one that can go is football." Allen said. "That is the one major sport where the potential for support is not in this region."

Allen said the basketball program could carry the burden that would accompany cutting football.

"They (the athletics department) aren't facing reality it seems to me," Allen said. "If we had a football program that could compete at their level, then it would be OK. We do have a basketball program that can compete at their level. They almost did this year."

"Footbal is my favorite sport," Boydston said. "However, when they asked me my opinion, I had to give my honest opinion and that was that football was hurting the total program

"I support and back my statements completely, but that doesn't mean I go on record supporting cutting football now."

Asked if he supported Handler's argument or if he would support cutting football now, Boydston declined comment.

Boydston said elimination of several athletic programs during the 1980s was something he feared when he wrote his opinion.

"I feel more strongly in 1989," Boydston said. "I saw a number of things happen that I thought would happen.

"The point is, if you're a pragmatist and look at the situation of what has happened situation of what has happened over the last nine years, and what will happen before the year 2000. if football is reiied on I do not see a totally bright future for the athletics department."

Seymour Bryson, assistant to the president in charge of Affirmative Action and a commission member, said the conversation surrounding football was not so much of eliminating the sport.

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI)

The International Olympic Committee Tuesday approved an anti-drug manifesto it hopes become universally cepted.

The International Agreement on Doping is likely to receive the full backing of International Summer

Sports Federations at Thursday's joint meeting with the IOC Executive Board

Prince Alexandre de Merode, Belgian president of the IOC Medical Commission, has been a longtime advocate of a unified policy on drug abuse in sports

Worldwide interest has been

"I believe some basic principles unifying all procedures and rules are necessary," the prince said Tuesday.

of banned drugs, a unified policy for testing and a unified stance in the fight against trafficking in drugs. It must also be the same with sanctions against offenders."

De Merode was optimistic of support from the international federations. "They understand the need for unification," he said. "Now it is time to have it written on paper."

Also included in the agreement was a provision for testing athletes outside their competitions. De Merode wants laboratories accredited by the IOC to conduct the tests.

Anthropology professor Jerome Handler's push to eliminate Saluki football is not the first effort made at the University to cut the fall sport.

In 1980, a 16-member commission, formed by then-President Kiram Lesar, collected data and input from the University community in putting together the Report of the SIU-C Commission or Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Dec. 1 report, in its recommendations for the direction the SIU-C athletics program should take in the coming decade, proposed the option of replacing football as an alternative.

Salukis win in 10th on Nelson's single

By Troy Taylor Staff Writer

This one had the classic baseball cliffhanger — two outs and bases loaded in the last of the 10th.

At the plate, SIU-C's last hope lay with 262 hitter Jeff Nelson, who had struck out twice already. Missouri's top stopper, Scott Black, was on the mound.

But with a 1-1 count, Nelson took a whack at a high curve and sent a chopper up the middle that bounced over the middle that bounced over the pitcher's head and gave the Salukis a much-needed 5-4 victory over Missouri Tuesday at Abe Martin.

"That curve ball started to break out," said Nelson. "But I stuck in there and hit it."

From Saluki coach Itchy Jones' vantage point, Nelson should not have swung — even though the end result far should not have swung — even though the end result far outweighed the sophomore's hitting mechanics.

"That pitch was over his head, and that showed me he was too eager," Jones said. "I'll give him credit though, We just had very few balls find a hole today, except for that one Seeing Eye dog up the middle."

Nelson, who hits from the right and describes himself as "a dead-pull hitter," said he intended to bat the ball to the right side of the field.

Though an opposite field single was not in the cards, no argument could be found with the result.

"Jeff's the type who thinks he'll hit to the right side and end up with the ball falling just inside the third base line," Jones said.

Jones said.

The Salukis went to 22-23 with the decision while Missouri stayed at an even 23-23. Missouri coach Gene McArtor said the renewal of the 16-year-old series benefited both schools.

both schools.
"This kind of game was good for both teams," McArtor said.
"We had to deal with situations that help our level of experience. Obvisouly, SIU's happier with the experience than we were, though."
On the season, Missouri is 0-3 and SIU-C is 3-1 in extra-inning
