No LSD Problem Exists at SIU, Dr. Clarke Says

By Margaret Perez

If there is a problem with LSD, it is not that LSD itself is a problem, but that some people misuse it. Dr. Walter C. Clarke, the director, says. But at the same time, he acknowledged that such drugs are being used on campus, apparently to a minor degree.

"We have seen one, possibly two, students who have had side effects from LSD," Dr. Clarke said. "In this way, we know that the drug is being used. It is my guess, however, that student use of this and other drugs is very insignificant."

The federal government became concerned with the widespread use of LSD and other hallucinatory drugs or narcotics last spring when the U.S. Senate reported that the University of California at Berkeley estimated 2,500 cases on that campus alone.

A recent article in the Michigan State University newspaper stated that the Senate distributed questionnaires in April that were returned by 62 colleges and universities across the nation. These questionnaires, with a total enrollment of 750,000 students, indicated that around 3,800 students have experimented with mind drugs. The article quoted Dr. James S. Feirgir, director of the Michigan State Health Center, as saying, "We have no drug problem here.

No cases of the drug use were listed on Michigan State's records to the Senate questionnaire.

The article said that Dr. Feirgir credits MSU's lack of a widespread drug use partly to his conscience of the student body. He said, "Certain student bodies are quite prone to the use of drugs. It is an escape from reality, a temporary escape that is almost a social pattern for some groups.

Send the report. SIU did not receive the Senate questionnaire, according to Dr. Clarke. He said, however, that he thought SIU's findings would be comparable to Michigan State's.

"At certain places, like LSD a drug became more of a fad than at other places," he said. "And I don't believe that the use of drugs is found in these places."

If questionnaires are completed and students come to us for help, we will assist them in a medical capacity," Dr. Clarke said. "We will work with the individual; we are not going to try to break up these groups. This is the job of the security force," he said.

Don F. Ragdale, assistant director of the security office, said that no cases of drug "pushing" or use have been reported to the Security Office.

"If the problem arises, we will investigate it and take preventive measures," Ragdale said. "However, we have no reports as yet."

Ragdale agreed with Dr. Clarke, that LSD and other hallucinatory drugs are being used at SIU, but no specific cases have been reported.

E. Claude Coleman, professor of English, delegates to the National Student Association conference Wednesday. Problems in areas that are only achieved by fighting for them.

"We have student engagements want more rights, is said, and student administrators with bills of particularity, not just declarations of independence," said Coleman. Coleman spoke to the conference delegates at the University of Illinois in Urbana. Bob Drinan, student body president, and four other SIU student government officials are attending the two-week conference which began Aug. 1.

Coleman for the past year has headed a University committee on the school's role in society and participation of student rights.

Beach Will Close Sept. 5 for Break

The beach on Lake on the Campus will be closed Sept. 5 until Sept. 18 because of a lack of lifeguards during the break.

The boat dock will be closed Sept. 5 and 6. It will remain open during October. The beach will be closed for the season on Oct. 3.

On-Campus Dorms to House 4,565 Students;
About 9,000 to Live Off-Campus This Fall

By Rose Astorino

New sidewalks are being completed around Old Main; the technology building is in its final stages, and the campus is just about ready for the start of a record number of students in September.

Housing facilities on and off campus are also in the final stages of construction for the students. There will be plenty of housing available to accommodate all students," said Robert A. McGrath, registrar.

According to Joseph W. Grasser of the housing office, on-campus dormitories will house 4,565 students, about half men and half women. These students will be housed at Thompson Point, University Park, Woody Hall and Small Group Housing. No new dormitories will be opened on campus this year.

Most of the housing available this fall will be off-campus. "We're still primarily an off-campus university," said Anita Ku, supervisor of off-campus housing. "We have more than twice as many students off-campus than on-campus."

"This is one year when students will be selecting their choice of housing off-campus," said Mrs. Ku.

Mrs. Ku estimates about 9,000 single undergraduate students will live off-campus in September. However, several students who are planning to live off-campus in supervised housing may be affected by the strict regulations.

With the completion of several supervised off-campus dormitories this fall, most students probably won't be forced to live in housing which may have been overfilled. This is the first year we've had enough to house everyone," said Mrs. Ku.

The new off-campus housing areas that will open in September include Stevenson Avenue, Aramark Housing, and Poplar Street; Park Place on East Park Street.; Pyramids on Campus Street; and Wall Street Quadrangles will open two additions building buildings. Two buildings called Aurora and Oxford will open on Wall Street.

The remaining 3,000 or so students will be attending SIU this fall will be commuters.

Kathryn Grimmer to Represent Music Chapter at Convention

Kathryn Grimmer will represent the SIU chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon music sorority at its international convention, to be held Aug. 28-Sept. 1 in Portland, Ore.

Delegates for 181 chapters, representing more than 5,000 members in 30 states, the District of Columbia and the Philippines Islands, are expected to attend the second international gathering, Janet Adams Wilkie of Seattle, national president of the sorority will preside.

A highlight of the convention will be a concert by the winner of the second biennial Sterling staff contest audit., a contest sponsored by the sorority to give its young members an opportunity.

During the past two years more than 30 concerts have been sponsored by chapters which featured pianists Lynne Lewis of Los Angeles and Virginia Marks of New York, the winners of the 1964 contest.

Each delegate will receive a complimentary copy of "To Music," a suite of three songs by Leslie Bassett, a 1966 Pulitzer Prize winner. This work was commissioned by Mu Phi Epsilon in 1962 and performed at the sorority's 1966 convention, was published this month.

Several outstanding members who will perform at the convention are Diana Steinert, violinist, and Vladimir Panteleev, cellist, from Los Angeles; Janine Dawson and Norene Emerson, pianists, from Bloomington, Ind., and Salt Lake City, Utah, respectively; and Eva Heinitz, viola da gamba, from Seattle.

21 Music Events Scheduled in Fall

Andre Watts, pianist, will open the Department of Music fall season of concerts on Oct. 3 in Shryock Auditorium.

Two other events of the season will include a Homecoming concert by the SIU Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Warren van Bronkhorst, with Gary Karr, double bass, and first artist, on Oct. 29.

A new form of opera excerpt directed by Marjorie Lawrence, will be presented on Nov. 13.

Two presentations of Handel's "Messiah" will be performed during the Christmas season by the University Choir, Orchestra Choir, and the SIU Orchestra, conducted by Robert W. King.

Completing the fall concert series will be chamber music programs, piano and organ concerts, student, graduate, and faculty recitals, and a Young People's concert.

Glenn Emlor Wills (left), adult education supervisor in the Division of Technical and Adult Education, was honored for five years of service to the Youth World program. Coleman Says Rights Must Be Won

(Continued from Page 1) "We must remember that the young man or young woman who is ready for the university is not yet trained wholly to take care of himself," Coleman said. "The University in its role of 'in loco parentis' takes over the responsibilities for providing shelter, good and, to some degree, entertainment and counseling services. Some young people get along with a minimum of services, and for these the university is grateful. Others, frequently from less orderly and responsible homes, need maximum extension of 'in loco parentis.' "There is nothing sinister or repressive or dictatorial or totalitarian about it... The way to fight for greater academic freedom does not consist in setting upon a phrase that has had clear legal understanding for 200 years and trying to make it mean something it does not mean."

Touring Play Will Portray Problems of Mental Health

For the seventh year, the Department of Music-Aug. 31 has received a grant from the State Department of Mental Health to present a touring play on a phase of mental health, to be taken to area communities without charge.

This year's play will be "The All-States," a 30-minute dramatization, by Jerome Alden, on the opportunities for employment available to the mentally handicapped and of the problems which their employment creates for their families.

"The play may be scheduled free of charge by any area club or organization," said Archibald McLeod, chairman of the Nov. 15, 1962, meeting. It will be staged with a minimum of stage properties, and can be presented in schoolrooms, library auditoriums, club halls or even private homes.

McLeod has designated Nancy Sue Lowe, a graduate student and graduate assistant in the department, as director of the 30-minute play.

Some ‘Actionists’ Don’t Want Restrictions on Any Vehicles

The action Kids are at it again, and this time the action is, to the Action Party. The Action Kids I am referring to aren’t Dick Clark’s television gang, although there seems to be some similarity between them. Both groups move a lot, but neither seems to get any place in the end.

The Action Kids are members of the Action Party, by definition, I suppose, a political wing of the SIU Student government.

As a wing, the party is rather far out. Not that its members advocate free love or public flogging, they’re not that radical, but just ideas, none of them at least, scare me.

The motor vehicle restrictions, of late the motor vehicle restrictions, have swept party members from the wait to the locomotion, the latter recently performed in grand fashion just the other night. As a matter of fact, the group was having so much fun doing the locomotion that they didn’t stop when they were supposed to, leaving their chaperones, the Security Police, a bit worried for a while. But then, as they would say, that’s their business.

Unless I am mistaken, if

White Power ‘Heave-in’ Tosses Brickbats at Racial Problems

By Arthur Hoppe (San Francisco Chronicle)

"White Power!" As you know, this has become the new battle cry this summer in Negro ghettos.

In order to clear up any confusion over what "White Power!" means to those who formulated the concept, an exclusive interview by hand with Homer T. (Knuckles) Pettibone, head of the Violent No-No-Slugs Coordinating Committee.

Mr. Pettibone graciously consented to the interview during one of the almost-daily demonstrations his group has been holding to make their views known.

"By ‘White Power’, Mr. Pettibone," he was asked, "are you referring to economic and political power in order to guaranty the Caucasian his rightful place in our society?"

"Huh! Sure, you bet," said Mr. Pettibone, hefting a brick, "that’s what we want, our rightful place,"

"Then, in the finest American tradition, you are demonstrating in favor of equality, justice and freedom?"

"Yep, that’s right. We want more equality, more justice and more freedom."

"More?"

"Yeah, more than they got."

"In your militant struggle for more equality, justice and freedom, you seem to have evolved some new techniques to place the alligator, the lizard, and the prairie-run, in it."

"Yeh, we kind of found the heave-in works better."

"The heave-in?"

"You pick up a brick, see? A car goes by with the windows open and we throw the heave-in."

"Don’t you feel such tactics will make a pretty good deal of public sympathy?"

"We ain’t looking for public sympathy, mac. We’re looking to crack a few heads."

"Over the past hundred years, Mr. Pettibone, Negroes have gradually achieved a little more equality, a little more justice, a little more freedom. Would you say your ‘White Power’ movement is a shot against this gradation?"

"Now you hit the nail on the head there. Mr. Pettibone enthusiastically. He then explained to the demonstrators in a rousing rendition of “We Shall Overturn the Walls of Segregation” and turned and set off with the bricks and a Good Humor truck.

Thus we see that there are many different formulas between advocates of Black Power in the South and advocates of White Power in the North. Of course, there’s one thing they have in common. They’re all still children.

Motorcycles, especially those carrying their riders from the parking lot near the Security Office to the very center of the administration complex, create minor traffic problems, which the Major jams.

"Let our people go," some of the action Kids are bellowing. You speak in phrases that cluch deep to the heart, do you?”

"Where are our God-given privileges?" and sometimes you get downright hostile, say in effect, to the administration.

"You can’t do this to us!"

Instead of instantly opposing the decisions handed down by those who are paid, and paid quite well, to run this University and immediately backing up your pipes, why don’t you call in a few simple solutions to the problems at hand and present them in an orderly fashion to those you constantly condemn?

Until then, why don’t you sit down, some members advocate, and get it all together. It’s getting congested behind the line, and we’re not even tried in a rush hour scheduled for a little under 10 minutes.

U. of Michigan Gives Pre-Dissertation Credit

Is the doctoral dissertation becoming a meaningless academic ritual or is it not?

The answer, it seems, is yes and no, which is why the continued debate on the topic wherever doctoral philosophy degrees are issued. At least one major university has adjusted its doctoral program in what appears to be a realistic and constructive manner.

The University of Michigan is issuing diploma-style certificates to graduate students who have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. except for the dissertation. Other institutions might follow suit.

Here Is Tip on How to Get Job at Crab Orchard Lake

To the editor:

"Yesterday afternoon I worked four hours, and I’m going to do the same for the next two Monday mornings in a row.

"That’s a pretty tough work schedule. What do you do?"

"I’m a part-time park ranger at Crab Orchard National Wildlife Reserve."

"Yeah? How did you get the job, a civil service test or something?"

"No,"

"Does your father know the head of it all?"

"No."

"Well, how did you get the job?"

"I went for a swim at the spillway."

"And they gave you a job for that."

"Well, in a roundabout way. First they gave me a ticket, then came the job. It was during that real hot spell in July, remember?"

"Yeah."

"And you didn’t take the test?"

"No, I did, but I failed."

"Are you going to work there?"

"I am gonna try it!"

But I didn’t say that, I just said ‘you try it’ and ‘no sir’. He told us his rights, when the maximum penalty was, and asked us to enter a plea."

"A $500 fine and/or six months in jail."

"Were you scared?"

"No, I did feel a little weak, and a thought occurred as to how President Johnson would look upon this crime, the officer who arrested us told us what he made no fuss. When the commissioner said. "In view of this fact I’m only going to fine you boys $50 and $15 court cost."

THE THEORY OF WALL STREET QUADRANGLES

Wall Street Quadrangles is owned and managed by a student for the benefit of students and is established upon the following principles:

1. Respect and protect the privacy and individuality of each and every resident.
2. Provide each student with 250% more living space than maximum competing standards.
3. Furnish the finest in interior residential furnishings—not cheap, lifeless carpeting and drab institutional decor.
4. Make living at Wall Street Quadrangles so attractive that a prospective tenant might even think about cutting down on his drinking in order to pay the rent.

In fact, the Wall Street Quadrangles residences reflect this theoretical framework:

1. Co-educational living on a sensible basis.
2. Unusual bi-level suites—not 7×10 cubicles
3. Plush wall to wall carpeting, deep walnut paneling, complete commissary and recreational opportunities.

WALL STREET QUADRANGLES Winner of national acclaim for excellence in design and the proud possessor of an unmatched local reputation.

WALL STREET QUADRANGLES is superior in every respect to Carbondale’s norms—but don’t ask us; talk to the student who lives there.

What Constitutes Valid Research?

By Jack McClintock

SIU scholars produce about 900 "research-oriented publications" in fiscal 1964-65, according to a survey compiled annually by the Office of Research and Projects.

They included such titles as these:

- "Maternal Behavior in the Albino Rat as a Function of Self Licking Depression"
- "Spacing Behavior as a Function of the Reinforcement Schedule on Another Manipulation"
- "What Does Drinking Mean to a Teenager?"
- "An Unguarded Moment"
- "Suite for Six Violins" (a musical composition)
- "Fungi as a Potential Source of Edible Protein"

The list is published in a supplement of the Research and Projects Review, a joint report issued by the SIU Foundation and the Office of Research and Projects.

The Review and supplement are sent to "Friends of the University," according to Ronald G. Hansen, coordinator of Research Projects.

They include commercial organizations which might be interested in endorsing the university. The list is also used in compiling data for federal agencies and foundations when applying for grants.

And it is useful in recruiting faculty, giving, as it does, an indication of the amount and quality of research activity in each department.

"It shows the depth and extent of research on the campus," Hansen said.

What it does not show are, among other things, mimeographed articles, articles in trade journals, publications in daily newspapers (except book reviews in the Sunday New York Times book section), musical compositions (unless the composition has been published), and the creative activities of such people as set designers, painters and sculptors.

If there are more items listed under chemistry than under music, more under psychology than theater, this is because the supplement is primarily research-oriented and chemistry and psychology people do more research than musicians or theater people, Hansen said.

"But if creative activity has been published, we'll be happy to consider it," he added.

Some items are on the borderline; translations are currently accepted for the list, but Hansen said they may not be in the future. Some periodicals are listed that may not be in the future.

This list—what gets in and what stays out—is a fairly good index of how a scholar's publication is viewed in general.

Hansen and Webster Ballance, who spends four months a year making up the list, are reluctant to discuss specific criteria for the inclusion of an article, but prefer to rely on general "ground rules" and the advice of appropriate department heads.

Most of the time it is relatively easy to determine what will be included. In the first place, Hansen said, the scholar himself knows what journals are in his field, and he knows that one of the list's purposes is image-building.

So if he has published a piece in, say, the "Sheepshanks' Weekly," he likely refinements for submitting it or if he does submit it, he won't bother to complain when it is not included in the supplement.

Hansen refers to this process as a natural filtering system.

It is based on the scholar's own estimation of his work and its scholarly importance. Harry T. Moore, for example, writes book reviews for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch nearly every week, but never submits these for inclusion in the Research and Projects supplement.

When he write one for the Saturday Review, however, he submits it and it appears.

In theory, the book review itself could be identical in both cases; only the publication differs. Ballance says the distinction here is that Saturday Review is for "what the Europeans call the intelligentsia."

"We try to let the editor of the publication make the judgment," he said.

More filtering takes place in the Research and Projects office. Some things, such as daily newspaper articles, are automatically excluded.

Others may be a bit more difficult to decide about. When a question arises, Ballance usually will phone the faculty member who submitted the item in question and discuss the matter with him. Usually, he says, they agree when the concept has been explained.

The concept is, essentially, this: "If we don't keep the level of the listed publications high it won't mean anything to anybody. If readers of the list see trade journals or popular magazines, the whole thing is discredited. It should reflect dignity and accomplishment on the University.

Ballance also pointed out that the faculty member, too, has an interest in maintaining the list's high level.

In the event there remains a question or disagreement which is rare Ballance says, the appropriate department chairman is consulted. He is presumed to be the best source of a qualified opinion in the field.

Of 33 submissions turned down for last year's list, 17 were mimeographed, three were submitted by faculty members who had departed, One man had merely been a contributing agency and one scholar had assisted in a translation. "At least five" had been published in daily newspapers.

While the list is primarily research-oriented, Ballance says a published novel by an English professor would likely be accepted, as would any sound book published by a reputable house. This would probably not extend to those "slender volumes" of poetry published by vanity presses, however.

This liberality does not extend to popular magazines. The Saturday Evening Post would never be acceptable except under unusual circumstances.

Recently the problem of determining what is worth including has been aggravated by technological advance, is making a film, or a video tape, considered "publication?"

It would probably depend. "If someone like National Educational Television or a commercial network or channel used it, yes," said Ballance.

"That would be like publishing?"

The creative people do not seem much upset by the fact that only research-oriented materials, for the most part, appear on the list.

For purposes of advancement, they need not worry, according to Archibald McLeod, chairman of the Department of Music. "In the early fifties an ad hoc committee was organized to set promotion policies for the creative fields," be said. "It included the recognition that creative activity, like recitals, and performances in general, is too, recognized pretty well."

Other heads of creative departments agree, on the whole. "We have until recently been cultivating a practical, professional, approach," said Archibald McCord, chairman of the Department of Theater and Music. "In the early fifties an ad hoc committee was organized to set promotion policies for the creative fields," he said. "It included the recognition that creative activity, like recitals, and performances in general, is too, recognized pretty well."

"In the early fifties an ad hoc committee was organized to set promotion policies for the creative fields," he said. "It included the recognition that creative activity, like recitals, and performances in general, is too, recognized pretty well."

Other heads of creative departments agree, on the whole. "We have until recently been cultivating a practical, professional, approach," said Archibald McCord, chairman of the Department of Theater and Music. "In the early fifties an ad hoc committee was organized to set promotion policies for the creative fields," he said. "It included the recognition that creative activity, like recitals, and performances in general, is too, recognized pretty well."
Department of Music Selects Women's Ensemble Singers

Members of SIU's newest musical group, the Women's Ensemble, have been selected by the Department of Music. The group will present a series of choral programs during the 1966-67 school year featuring traditional classical music for women's ensembles as well as lighter music often performed by women's choral groups.

The Women's Ensemble will rehearse 3 days a week and will receive 1 hour of University credit.

Students selected for the ensemble include: Rebecca Hindman, Cynthia Sorrela, Barbara Walters, Judy Stabler, Lora Blackwell, Doris Sundrup, Karen Roberts, Gloria Coken, Rusty Gordon, Patricia Spears, Dorothy Zarkwch, Betty Ohlandorf, Frances Thomas.

Laurie Morgan, Vicky Kosel, Martha Schaefer, Beverly George, Regina Timczak, Judith Moeller, Laura Spudich, Jody Rylander, Sally Rask, Donna Bodeen, Susan Aschenbroemer, Joann Raubach, Linne.

Student Position
Open as Aide to Foreign Students

A position as an aide on the International Student Center will be available to an upper division or graduate student.

The job would involve helping orient foreign students and advising them on such things as social customs or who to see for information concerning academic affairs.

Initially the aide would assist in an orientation program Sept. 8-17 for foreign students beginning programs at SIU.

The aide's job will also include office work as well as informal visits to the students' living quarters. It will require about 10 hours work a week.

Clarence Hendershot, assistant director of the International Service Division, said the student aide is a "brand new idea." He said an important qualification of the aide would be a complete knowledge of the University. Hendershot compared it to the "big brother" idea of helping the students get acquainted with various proceedings.

Anyone interested in the position should contact Raymond Charnett, assistant director of the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office.

Pakistan's Paintings
On Exhibit at Center

The paintings of a Pakistani student from Pakistan who is majoring in mathematics, are on display in the Mathematics Library of the University Center. The display will continue through Aug. 29. Haider's work is distinguished by influence of Pakistan culture.

Johnson Denies Plan To Dump Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson appealed again Wednesday for voluntary restraints to keep prices, profits and wages "as stable as possible."

At a news conference which was also studied with political questions, he brushed aside speculation that he might run for re-election in 1968, which the questioner said "1b11sibility Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"The people have judged that," Johnson replied.

Nixon, among other things, has been talking about the possibility of a political ticket by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

Johnson was asked whether he had an explanation for a poll, which the questioner said, indicated Democrats would rather have Kennedy than Johnson.

"At a news conference, he replied, "No, I have no explanation."

On another matter with at least some overlap of policy, Johnson said he will leave Friday morning for Idaho, Colorado and Oklahoma—"I'm going to go home late Friday evening" and be at home Saturday and Sunday, "observing the results of 58 years of very pleasant existence."

Johnston was asked whether he would accept a loss of 41 House seats as a norm for the changeover in an off-year elections where Democrats have picked up a seat.

The questioners persisted, asking about five freshman Democratic members of the House.

"They all think they will be re-elected and I do not have evidence of that," Johnson replied.

"I do not have the feeling there will be any substantial turnover in either the House or the Senate," he said.

Most predictions, he said, fall to point to any specific district that the Republicans are going to take.

When the questioning turned to the Viet Nam war, Johnson said:

"I see no overall development that would be of significance at this time."

He reiterated his position, willing to "go to a conference anywhere that might be helpful."

Asked about suggestions that House seats as a norm for the President's Club, a Democratic fund-raising group, were considered in available government contracts, Johnson said: "No they do not influence the district that the Republicans can impact on political charges of this kind until another November."

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. Marines clashed Wednesday with Communist forces Wednesday in South Viet Nam's northern sectors, where the enemy had generally avoided combat since more than 800 of Hanoi's regulars were cut down during Operation Hastings last month.

The Marines and supporting aircraft were reported to have killed 211 Communists in two engagements 90 miles apart. Spokesmen said U.S. casualties in both cases were light.

Federal Aid Viewed as Big City Ill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The mayor of Oakland, Calif., charged Wednesday that federal programs are the cause of some of the problems—and complained that government bureaus had not made rapid and hampering efforts to cure them.

"I believe that the federal government has a real responsibility of aiding cities with their problems," he said.

"Justification for this comes from the fact that so many federal programs have been at the root of our cities' ills."

For one thing, he contended the Federal Housing Administration's mortgage insurance program has encouraged a mass migration to the suburbs and pushed up the cost of housing. For another, he said federal aid, aimed at improving the cities, have hamstrung the movement while taking taxable land off the assessment rolls.

"The present welfare programs, he said, "robs the citizens and throw the burden of decent housing upon the core city," Reader this view is that the FHA program has done little to rehabilitate the poverty areas of the city.

Reading said Oakland was among the cities in which a lack of manpower and equipment has been a major problem in the fight against crime and drug abuse.

"We have been unable to get enough girls to work out solutions," he said.

Asked about the outcome of the recent trial which awarded federal, state and municipal authorities as a son of Oakland over North and South Vietnam, an Oakland group formed recently to protect veterans who have been awarded a pension from federal, state and municipal authorities, which started in 1965.

The complaints were brought to light by a civil rights group which filed suit to defend the rights of U.S. prisoners of war and begged for the publication of Press interviews with a number of veterans.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman described the problems of the Department as "normal things that must be put up with when a man is missing or captured." He said that "anyone with someone missing in action or captured will hit him with the same force.

However, the spokesman said, each case is handled on its merits and has a casualty assistance office whose function is to help dependents work out solutions.

Families of POWs Report Hardships

NEW YORK (AP) — Dependent families of some American servicemen missing or captured in Viet Nam complain that they feel they are being neglected and subjected to suffering in a survival of the fittest.

The lost husband and father, some wives say, is often treated as a non-person by federal, state and municipal authorities as a son of war and in association.

Demonstrators to Enter Cicero; Kerner Plans to Activate Guard

SPRINGFIELD (AP) -- Gov. Otto Kerner said Wednesday he will activate the Illinois National Guard this week in preparation for a scheduled march of civil rights demonstrators into Cicero Sunday.

Kerner said he will probably issue an executive order Friday to move the troops onto the street Saturday or Saturday night, but did not say how many troops would be activated.

The governor made the announcement after a meeting with Cicero officials, Sheriff Richard Ogilvie of Cook County and National Guard commanders.

Kerner said he was told Cicero does not have adequate police to maintain order. Cicero has 98 policemen.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has said civil rights demonstrators will move into Cicero, considered the most hostile white community in the Chicago area, on Sunday.

Cicero, the headquarters of the old AI Capone gang during the prohibition era, was the scene of intense rioting in 1951 when a Negro family rented an apartment there.

"We have been discussing a plan of action for the protection of the marchers," the governor told a news conference. "It is obvious that the official word there will be a march in Cicero."

CHICAGO - (AP) -- The Chicago Real Estate Board would go out of existence if it ordered members to rent as advertised, the board chairman said Wednesday.

"As a voluntary association, we can't dictate policy in social matters to its members, and certainly not to the customers of its members," Chairman Ross Beatty said in an address.

"The end of our line is to expel a member," he added. "Members are not subject to the board's control. Each individual broker conducts his business in the framework of his role as an agent under contract and his local situation."

As to what would happen if the board's policy committee required the member to cease taking agencies to rent and sell to Negroes, Beatty responded:

"We would be out of existence."

The board-a private association which represents one-eighth of Chicago's 8,325 real estate agencies and about 50,000 brokers-has been a prime target of civil rights groups demonstrating against alleged housing discrimination.

Red China Uncovers New Face

TOKYO-(AP)-Red China's rulers lifted slightly Wednesday the curtain covering their backstage power contest and disclosed a change that seems to be heading the nation toward the most rigid military-police state rule.

The shadowy Kang Sheng, long a secret-police figure who once was the object of admiration by Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin, has been elevated to the ruling Politburo, a position he lost 10 years ago after falling into disfavor.

Kang's new eminence, along with the obvious commanding position of Defense Minister Lin Piao, seemed added evidence that the current nationwide purge was aimed at a total regimentation of Red China which would attempt to shut out completely all things foreign, including all Soviet influence.

The restoration of Kang to the 20-member Politburo, headed by party chairman Mao Tse-tung, was disclosed in a routine report of the official New China News Agency.

The agency, monitored in Tokyo, broadcast a report listing Kang as a Politburo member for the first time since the 1912-1914 period and during the May 1965 session of the party Central Committee.

Kang, 63, is an expert on army affairs and has long been associated with Communist party intelligence activities. A party member since the 1920s, he was on the Politburo from 1945 to 1956. He fell into disfavor probably because of failures of his intelligence service.

He began his comeback in 1962 with elevation to the secretariat of the Central Committee.
Silas Improving Cardinals Cut Hart, But Battle Hangs On

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in a story on the Wednesday morning edition, included former SIU football players Jim Hart and Jim Battle among the 13 members of the Cardinal squad.

Apparantly someone ocean the cat out of the bag a bit too soon, and the report was not completely reliable.

Charley Winner, head coach of the Big Red, commented Wednesday on the information from the training camp at Lake Forest, Ill.

"There was apparently a news leak somewhere," said Winner when informed of the Globe article. The information was not for release until late today.

"Hart has been cut from the squad," said Winner, "but as of now, Battle is still with us.

"Hart, the rookie quarterback who signed as a free agent, said he dropped on the second-to-last cut."

Battle will still try to land a berth as an offensive lineman with the Cardinals.

Although Hart was dropped, there is still a chance that he may land on the "taxi squad" and stick with the Cardinals in that capacity, if the members of the taxi squad work out with the regulars and receive a salary.

"We will not take any chance," said Winner, pointing out that they are ineligible to play in any league competition unless they are reactivated.

The Cards must get down to the 40 player limit before the Sept. 11 opener.

Winner has been impressed with the improvement of Sam Silas, an all-pro defensive tackle last season and an SIU graduate.

"Sam has been coming right along," said Winner, "and I think he played his finest game of the exhibition season last week in the Baltimore game."

The powerful Silas bombed the Cardinals in St. Louis last week in a clash of two unbeaten exhibition foes.

"The Colts were just too much for us," said Winner, "They just outplayed us, and they've got a great team."

7 Foreign Officials to Train at Southern

Seven police and corrections officials from Somalia, the Phillipines and Sierra Leone will begin an 18-week training program here Sept. 18.

Sponsored by the Agency for International Development, U.S. State Department, they will be enrolled in Southern's Center for the Study of Delinquency, and Corrections.

Their training will include both classroom study and on-site inspection trips to state and federal penal institutions, according to Robert J. Brooks, head of the center's international training programs.

Further details will be made available at a later date.
