Neely incident

Dwight Campbell, student body president, and Ellis John May, student senator, entered Neely Hall last night along with the rest of the Student Senate to conduct their meeting there. Both were later suspended by Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton. (Photo by John Lopinot)

Campbell, 5 others are suspended by Moulton

By Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

At least six members of student government, including president Dwight Campbell and vice president Rich Wallace were suspended from the University Wednesday night by Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton.

Campbell, Wallace, Bob Thomas, Willie Tranquilli, Ellis John May and Mike Bowman were suspended after taking part in a demonstration at Neely Hall involving an estimated 300-400 male students who were protesting the SIU Board of Trustees' denial of Senate bill G-17, which deals with co-educational study hours.

The senate members were to assemble on the 17th floor at the residence hall where the regular meeting of the senate had been transferred. The bulk of the senators were met at the elevators by Moulton who told them that they could not hold a senate meeting in the building.

After suspending Campbell and Wallace, Moulton threatened to have them arrested and charged with trespassing if they did not immediately leave the building. The senators left under protest.

The protest began when male students decided to enter Neely Hall under the guidelines of the bill. They were told at that time by Asst. Area Dean John Evans, that the Neely lobby would be closed to male students.

They were then met at the door by Evans, who told the students that they must turn over their identification cards and sign a list upon entering the building.

Males who went up into coeds' rooms were met at the elevators where they had to sign another list.

The taking of ID's and the signing of the list were done as a sign of disciplinary action according to Evans.

Evans told the students that they should take what they've got now and negotiate for the rest. He said that all IDs would be available this morning at the Trueblood Hall information desk.

Moulton arrived at Neely at approximately 9:20. He reconfirmed what Evans had previously told the students that the building was closed to all males.

In the meantime, Bob Thomas, student lobbyist, made a motion to adjourn the Student Senate meeting to Neely Hall.

The motion was passed unanimously.

Bowman, student senator, said, "Our people are in trouble and we have to back them."

Wallace said that it was the duty of the Senate to implement G-17.

The Senate, as a body, then went to Neely.

At approximately 9:20, Moulton said that they could not hold the meeting. He then met with Campbell.

Campbell asked Moulton if members of the Senate could go upstairs and get the males out. Moulton apparently shook his head negatively. Campbell and another student senator, however, proceeded upstairs.

When they came back people were either leaving the building or had been told to. It was shortly after this that the suspensions occurred.

Student Senate reconvened their meeting at approximately 10:30 in the University Center Ballroom. About 600 students were present.

In Tuesday night's protest walk-in, students left at the specified time of 10:45 with no further action in accordance with the rules of G-17.

At the Senate meeting a student strike was called for Friday and a rally was set for today in front of the University Center.

Keene wants list of SIU 'benefits'

By Nathan Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The list which President Delyte W. Morris said he has been compiling on the different things SIU has done for Carbondale has been requested by Mayor David Keene.

Keene wrote to Lindell Sturgis, chairman of the SIU Board of Trustees, requesting a copy of the list "for future reference." The list is already four pages long.

Keene's request came after the Board denied annexing the remaining parts of campus into the city. Keene then commented on Morris' request to meet informally with the Council to discuss programs of assistance to the city. The programs included having a bill before every legislative session asking for cooperative assistance to towns such as Carbondale which are impacted by state universities.

"The first thing for Carbondale to do is annex," Keene said, "and then solutions like Morris suggested might work."

"I'm not interested in conducting informal breakfast meetings with Morris as a solution to the problems," Keene continued.

"I've made up my mind and a breakfast meeting with Morris won't change it," Keene added.

The people of Carbondale are not going to stand for the University to use the services they are presently using without being annexed, Keene said. "And I'm going to do everything in my power to make the citizens aware of this."

Pressure to force the Board to rehear the matter may build if the people are shown the cost of the University to the city, the mayor continued. "An example is what it cost Carbondale last weekend in extra manpower."

"Furthermore I am taking a look at what is causing the problem" through the University administration and the students, Keene said, "and I am starting to agree with Roger Leisner's thinking."

Leisner is student government representative on the Council. Keene was referring to the charges of unresponsiveness on the part of the SIU Board of Trustees to student demands presented by student government.

These demands included the coeducational study hour proposal which was also defeated at the Friday Board meeting.

Quints all OK, doctors report

NEW YORK (AP)—The first quintuplets ever born alive in this city were reported "doing fine" in incubators at Babies Hospital Wednesday.

So was their mother, Mrs. William G. Kienast, 27, Liberty Corner, N.J., wife of a plastics salesman and daughter of a supermarket chain executive.

She had taken a fertility drug because she wanted a third child, doctors said. She also had taken the drug before the birth of her daughter, now 4 1/2, and her son, now 18 months.

The quintets—three girls and two boys—were born over a 10-minute span Tuesday night at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center. Their weights ranged from 3 pounds, 4 ounces to 4 pounds, 6 ounces.

Nationalism causes wars, says Wright

By James Hoel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"The major cause of war is the absence of the causes of peace," said Quincy Wright in a talk at Morris Library Auditorium Tuesday night.

Wright, professor emeritus in political science at the University of Chicago, spoke on the causes of peace and the role of the university in bringing these causes about. He has taught at dozens of universities during his career and is an authority on international law, the causes of war and peace, and was a consultant to the U. S. Department of State and the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

Wright spoke about how the causes of peace can be brought about.

One cause would be to educate the people to be more "mankind-minded."

"People have to give their loyalties to the human race and less to their nation," he said.

Wright pointed out that the Civil War was caused by people giving their loyalties to the state above the nation. Likewise, wars today are caused by people giving their loyalties to a nation above mankind.

He said there should always be some nationalism, but that our first loyalties should go to mankind.

Another cause of peace would be to have less power politics and more international law.

"We have had international law for four centuries,"

Woman nominated

The Woodrow Wilson nomination for graduate work has been given to Mrs. Karen Turner, a senior majoring in history.

The nomination, which is a national award for excellence in academic life, nominates the student for fellowship offers from various schools for graduate work.

Mrs. Turner plans to enter Chinese studies.

Gloria Boteman, also a history major, has received an honorable mention.

Wright said. "However, nobody obeys it."

"People think security depends on having enough military power to hold off the enemy. So both sides have an arms race and finally war."

"However, Bruce Richardson wrote on the subject of arms and insecurity. The more you arm, the less secure you feel. Mathematical logic proves this."

Another cause of peace, said Wright, was to have a tolerance for a great number of ideologies.

"Before John F. Kennedy died, he said 'what we want is a world safe for diversity,'" Wright stated. "We must, in order to be world minded, have a tolerance for a wide variety of different ideologies."

Wright also said we must have less unilateralism and more cooperation.

He stated that one state's intervention in the affairs of others leads to resentment and charges of imperialism. We must rely more on organizations like the United Nations and less on the unilateralism practiced by the state.

The role of the Universities in the creation of the causes of peace would be to foster world-mindedness among the people of the world, Wright said.

The universities, by nature, are world-minded, he stated. All departments of the university should deal with international relations and be interested in how to deal with peace and justice.

However, Wright warned against getting caught up in immediate controversies.

"The university should be able to criticize the government, business and the church. There should not be any ties between them," he stated.

Wright closed by saying mankind has great problems in the four Ps: power politics, population, pollution and poverty.

"If we can handle the first," Wright said, "we can handle the others."

Following his talk, Wright fielded questions from the audience.

Quincy Wright

One student asked if government projects in the University may make them less independent.

Wright answered, "Yes, they may. The university should be independent. If they live on grants, how can they?"

Another person in the audience asked about the ABM as a possible threat to world peace.

"Congress should vote it down," Wright said. "It is a waste of money and only stimulates the arms race. The Soviets will think we want a first strike capability, and will arm more. The money could be better spent on the problems of poverty and pollution."

One student asked about SIU's "famous" Vietnam Center as making the University less independent.

Wright answered "It ought not be developed in the university as an adjunct of the government. However knowing more about Vietnam is necessary. As I understand it, it will be studying the nation of Vietnam."

"I hope it won't be used for the government. But I think it is a good thing to study this problem."

Congressman Gray to speak

Kenneth Gray, Representative from the 21st Congressional District, will be the featured speaker at the third Annual Meeting of the Shawnee Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Project.

The meeting will be held at 5:30 p.m. March 13 at the Holiday Inn in Marion. A social hour, dinner and business-meeting are on the agenda. The RC&D Project is a locally sponsored program that encompasses all of the 14 counties in Southern Illinois. The project's main purpose according to William E. Weber, project coordinator, is to develop Southern Illinois' resources and stimulate its economy. Reservations are $4 each and may be obtained by contacting Weber at P.O. Box 998, 606G East Main, Carbondale.

Thompson Woods is both home and playground for the fox squirrel.

Thompson squirrels studied

By Greg Banning
Student Writer

Thompson Woods provides more than just a short cut to the Agriculture Building. It also serves as a playground for the fox squirrel. The Cooperative Wildlife Research Lab has more than a casual interest in the "playtime" antics of the fox squirrel, though. Its members are busy setting traps, baited with corn, to lure the hungry squirrels into captivity.

"We're interested in the population dynamics of the fox squirrel in a protected area," said W. D. Klimstra, director of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Lab, "and that's why Thompson Woods was chosen."

Thompson Woods is the center of the first "island" study of the fox squirrel in the United States, Klimstra said. "Island" study refers to the fox squirrel population being cut off from any other suitable wooded area by the many buildings and man-made artifacts surrounding Thompson Woods, he said.

"We look upon it as being a total project on the fox squirrel," said Klimstra. The squirrel's general life activity is important and emphasis is placed on its behavioral aspects, Klimstra said.

This program, in its second year of operation, requires trapping as many squirrels as possible during each quarter break of the year, Klimstra said. Most of the squirrels are caught in the winter and spring, when the need for food is greatest, and the foliage is sparse, he added.

"After the squirrels are captured, they are ear-tagged and given a collar, noting their sex and approximate age," said Klimstra. "In this manner, an individual animal can be identified precisely, if recaptured later."

This program, which is one of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Lab's 10 major programs, will last for an extended period of time, Klimstra said. It is presently being supervised by Charles G. Eveland, a graduate student from Roxana, Ill.

Women's speaker

Trustees taxing, not representing

The SIU Board of Trustees appears to be a single-minded, never-disagreeing body. A unanimous vote was recorded for every decision made at the Board meeting Friday. Very little discussion between Board members was observed relating to these decisions.

For example, the city of Carbondale requested the Board to annex the balance of the SIU campus. The two sides of the proposal were presented by City Councilman William Eaton and Richard Gruny, University legal council.

After the two 20-minute discussions were heard, Harold Fischer, Board member, moved that the request be denied. The Board did not discuss the proposal among themselves before a unanimous vote against annexation was given.

The Board also voted unanimously to reject a coeducational study hours proposal presented by a representative of student government.

Copies of the proposal were presented to each member of the Board by Nick Fera, author of the original Student Senate bill, which was previously rejected by Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar.

Ivan Elliott, Board member from Carmi, asked that a vote be put off until he had time to study the proposal.

After further discussion—not between Board members but between students and Board members—E. T. Simonds asked that a vote be taken.

The first three Board members voted against the proposal. When the vote got to Elliott, he also voted against it, but only after a long pause.

Elliott, who had just stated that he needed more time to study the proposal, made an on-the-spot decision against it. Why? Wouldn't an abstention have been better?

Or had each Board member decided the outcome of this proposal—and all proposals—before the Board had convened?

An appointed body such as the Board has the responsibility of representing their constituencies. This constituency, the taxpayers of the state of Illinois, cannot be represented if the Board members do not participate in thoughtful discussions among themselves. Such discussions have not been observed at public meetings. Therefore, either the Board members must talk privately among themselves to arrive at decisions or are not having such discussions at all.

Either way, the public is the loser.

What does it take to close Viet Center?

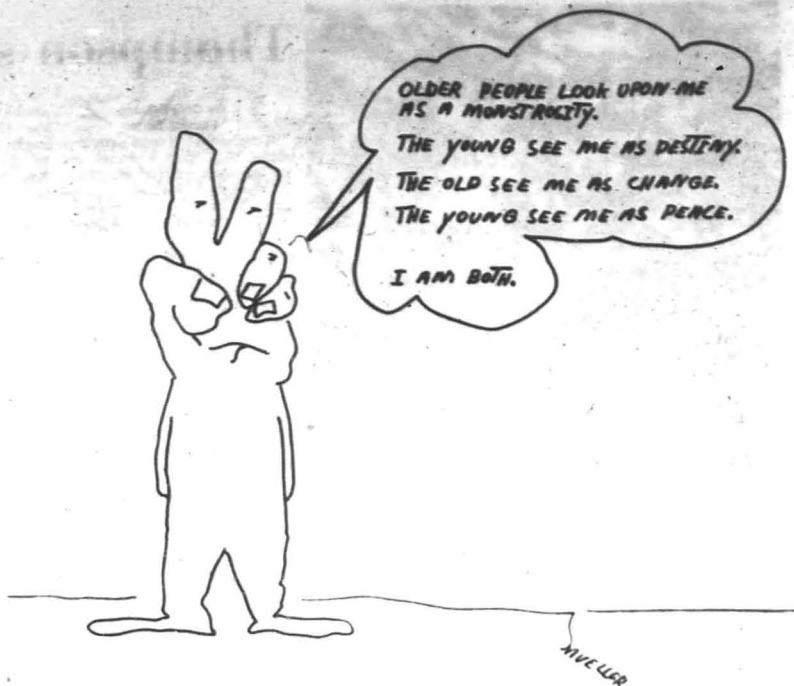

To the Daily Egyptian:

I think some of the confusion surrounding the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs can be cleared through a dialogue of sorts and that is the purpose of this letter. I have a question I would like answered.

What if Mao-Tse-tung is suddenly heard reciting his quotations in Cholon District's Social Center, Kossygn and Brezhnev are found conducting clandestine meetings in the long forgotten tunnels of Khe-Sanh, Castro is cigar chomping his way through the P. X. at Cam-Ranh Bay, Caechoslovakian children are seen daily planting "defoliant proof daisies" in previously fire free zones and the heads of Thieu and Ky are settling on Eldridge Cleaver's "Preferred Platter List." Will the center here at SIU remain open?

In short, what I'm asking is this, if Walt Rostow and Dean Rusk's worst fears materialize, and the United States is faced with a solid, unified, monolithic threat of communism in Vietnam, "my fellow Americans...they want what we got, but they ain't gonna get it." Will the center continue its present "academic endeavors?"

Society, individual are one

To the Daily Egyptian:

People around the world have finally realized that each and every individual is responsible for his social attitudes governing his relationships with his fellow man.

Activists misled

To the Daily Egyptian:

You, the middle class students, are now engaged in a crusade to save our ecology. Commentators say it has become more important to you than such issues as peace, poverty and racism. President Nixon supports you. Isn't it nice to receive the establishment's paternal pats and still pose as "student activists?"

If we of the poor fail to applaud, forgive us. You cry for clean air. My people in the slums live and die in a rat-infested, hunger-ridden ecology with the air polluted by the stench of urine, garbage and filth. You cry out for pure water. The poor drink water from rusted pipes and wells polluted by nearby outhouses.

You are promised a comprehensive program and victory at any cost. Your class's representatives have denied the poor a comprehensive program and unbearably burdened programs to alleviate our misery with the cross of economy.

The middle class supported the war in Vietnam until it found the price too high. This war not only robbed the poor of needed programs, but it also assaulted the ecological balances in Vietnam by napalm and saturation bombing and defoliation. Weapons testing and its industrial support use not only dollars needed to fight poverty, but endanger our ecological existence.

The movement for ecological survival is irrevocably interlocked with the antiwar, antipoverty, antiracist fight. To deny this and to seek sanctuary in a safe ivory tower is not only to become dupes of the establishment, but traitors to ecological salvation.

lems on "society" or talk of them as social problems because he realizes he and society are one.

Every man feels an equal responsibility toward every other man and the human species as a whole.

The great brain of man which advanced technology so far has, at last, assumed the responsibility for its advancements. At last, balance with environment has been achieved within the human species. Finally the human species has realized it can control itself. It realizes that these controls can not be forced by leaders but are completely and only within the realm of the individual.

A classless world society has been produced in which no person dominates or is dependent on any other person to the extent that neither feels his self identity is being lost. (A person feels his identity is being lost if he feels he is trying to make someone behave in a particular way without expressing it verbally or if he feels someone is trying to force him to behave in a certain way without expressing it verbally.)

Everyone has true peace of mind because he realizes there are parts of his personality which are not to be used in domination or are not to be given up in dependency. This he has found is the basis of all tension.

In fact, once he has found his identity he will not allow himself to be dominated by or be dependent to another individual. In other words he will not allow himself to be tense.

As everyone finds his identity he will feel equally "friendly" (for want of a better word) to everyone else because he will realize that there is no need for a dominant-dependent relationship to occur.

Everyone feels a close alliance with everyone else because he has accepted the responsibilities which his technology has allowed to occur. He finally realized that a balance must be made with his environment and it has finally become a reality. He would have forced a treacherous balance to occur in the long run (accompanied by great individual suffering and extreme environmental disintegration) through the forces of over population which were, in turn, released by technological advancements without the necessary social adjustments of responsible management of lives on the individual basis.

Every individual on earth is proud and pleased to report that this has occurred.

Government policies annoy some students

To the Daily Egyptian:

This is in response to the letter by Ed Levato which appeared in the Daily Egyptian Feb. 5.

Mr. Levato's letter shows that he is an individual and also a follower. He stated he was under the impression that radical elements at this University scorned the President when he said this country has been fighting for peace for over 40 years.

Mr. Levato's observation was correct, but he failed to be impressed by the liberals, conservatives, racists, blacks, whites, pinks and blues and other such labeled groups who also scorned the President.

It appeared to Mr. Levato that radical elements were also the instigators of the happening at Woody Hall, Jan. 30; here he was again correct. The instigator was a University security "pig" with a big stick—obviously a radical.

"It seems to me that certain people have finally realized that in order to achieve a 'peaceful society,' you have to use violence. Then why do they scorn the President for similar tactics?"

This quote is hilarious, the President is not working for a peaceful society, he is working to create a rich society. Our imperialistic government is not moral, it is interested only in increasing its world power and having more control over those it governs.

Mr. Agnew's statements make this position of "our" government clear. Before a peaceful society can be obtained, our existing government must be radically changed and people who think like Mr. Levato and Mr. Nixon must change or be eliminated. Mr. Levato also failed to recognize people who oppose all violence and some who feel that a peaceful society can be obtained through peaceful means, also oppose Mr. Nixon's actions.

Mr. Levato has become blinded by the government's plea that this war is being fought to obtain world peace. But who will gain peace? The North Vietnamese are fighting for peace and freedom; so were the North Koreans. We had no purpose in Korea except a monetary interest, and we have the same interest in Vietnam. How many American citizens are going to gain by an American victory? Not many, but those who will be going to become richer. The big business machine will increase its work force and its market. American militarism will gain new Asian bases and "allies." Another part of Asia will become "Americanized." The American government gains power over its silent majority and its minorities.

Supporting Mr. Nixon is helping to sign freedom's death notice. Our government's supposed to be a tool used by its citizens, we aren't supposed to be its tools. Wake up Mr. Levato—you're being used.

Laybourn disclaims role in Center, AID

To the Daily Egyptian:

On the front page of the Daily Egyptian issue of Feb. 11, Douglas Allen is quoted as having said "John Laybourn, on the Center's Advisory Committee, was on the AID payroll on the Asian Institute which trained Vietnamese in guerilla warfare."

John Laybourn is not a member of the Vietnam Center's Advisory Committee and has never been on an AID payroll. He was on the payroll of the University of Hawaii at the Asia Training Center where Americans (not Vietnamese) were trained in languages, culture and area studies (not guerilla warfare) prior to serving as advisors in any of 13 Asian countries. Trainees were American nurses, agriculturalists, public administrators and other technical specialists.

One cop lied

To the Daily Egyptian:

In spite of an increasing public hatred toward police throughout the country, I have had a great deal of respect for the traffic cop. Few of us are perfect drivers and in spite of how much we may cuss on receiving that ticket, we should actually be thankful that the traffic cop is there to tell us what we do wrong, haul us out a bit and perhaps issue a citation. We all tend to get a bit carried-away behind the wheel, but the laws, as enforced by the traffic cops, protect us from ourselves as well as from other drivers. In short, the traffic cop keeps the driver in line.

However, an incident that took place Feb. 1 has shown me that I cannot respect all traffic cops. I was driving through the town of Paxton, obeying all signs, going at a safe speed (below the limit), when suddenly I saw the red flasher of the Paxton Police car. I pulled over, having a feeling of shock since I had absolutely no idea what I could have done wrong.

Officer Mannin of the Paxton Police walked swiftly up to my car and without answering my question of what I had done wrong, he immediately ordered me into his car and ordered my passengers to also get out of my car. He then proceeded to search the front and back seat areas of my car.

Finally, Officer Mannin allowed my passengers to get back in my car. He then returned to the squad car where I still sat waiting.

"Dan," he said, "I've received five complaints that you have been weaving along the road and running people off the road." He then had me stare into a flashlight to see if I was drunk or not. I was not. In fact I had not had a drink in months. He took me to the police station, and after a hassle over a $500 bond (I was not charged with reckless driving) he decided to let me off with a $25 bond rather than wait for my parents to come from Chicago with $500.

He let me go, stipulating that I must appear in Paxton's traffic court on Feb. 13, and that I must allow one of my passengers to drive the rest of the way to Carbondale. He also accused me of being either drunk, on some drug or drowsy, of which I was neither. He also later insisted that he'd seen me weaving in traffic. I know I broke no law and that the officer is obviously mistaken (lying?).

Is it any wonder that students have little respect for police? Think about it, and think about what happened to Fred Hampton and what is happening to Abbie Hoffman. I hope you don't have to go through what I am now going through to realize that not all police are honest, and that some are merely bigots hiding behind badges.

Positive mood needed for fest

To the Daily Egyptian:

After reading the various pros and cons of the May Day Fest, we have arrived at the following conclusion: 1. Councilman Ragsdale said that the roads were inadequate leading into the proposed site but we would like to ask Mr. Ragsdale, how many roads are adequate leading into the Carbondale area, not to mention the streets in Carbondale proper! We suggest that if Mr. Ragsdale really is concerned with the welfare of the Carbondale area residents, that he also look for the positive aspects of the fest, such as, perhaps the needed pressure in Springfield to have adequate roads built for this area. We were also under the impression that the sponsors of the fest had offered to build a three-lane highway leading to the proposed site.

2. To the woman, whose name we won't mention, who stated that she would not care to see naked hippies running outside her window, we suggest that she quietly draw her drapes and retire to her rocking chair in the basement and try to maintain her constantly increasing curiosity of what is happening in the outside world.

3. To Councilman Hans Fischer: We are certain that you are very sincere in your interest of the "health, safety and welfare of your public." As far as welfare goes, however, consider economic-wise the values of the proposed fest. Not only will this area benefit in the restaurant and hotel business, not to mention governmental gains through tax payments, but we were wondering if you were aware that according to the sponsor of the fest, Charles Notarius, "25 per cent of the profits of the May Fest, $100,000 at a minimum will be donated to charity." This donation not only helps the public welfare but also pertains indirectly to their health and safety.

4. To Councilman Archie Jones: We don't want your sympathy, we want your support and help to make this proposed May Day Fest a success that many feel it can be. Since you agree with Mr. Fischer who stated that "the results of the fest could be catastrophic," of which we assume he is making some reference to Woodstock, we would like to mention that some aspects of our space program were not successful, but through positive thinking, cooperation and learning from past mistakes the United States is the undisputed leader in space exploration. We too have learned from Woodstock and other festivals of that nature, that perhaps early preparations the problems that occurred in the past can be avoided here.

In summation, we feel that taking many aspects into consideration, the only way the May Day Fest can be a success is through thinking in a positive manner rather than holding the pessimistic views which have been held in the past. We strongly urge the public to use the powers given them through this democratic system to make the proposed festival successful. The success or failure of this enterprise rests on your shoulders. You can oppose it and the loss will be yours, or support it and make it the success which we feel it can be and also an example of what can be achieved through a unified effort.

Cartoonist hosts new TV series

A magazine ad which fired the imagination of a 14-year-old youngster in 1962 started a chain of events which has given the nation its newest educational television personality.

Charles Johnson, 21, of Evanston, Ill., who is majoring in journalism and philosophy at SIU, is that youngster. It was almost eight years ago he signed up for a mail order course in cartooning which took him a year-and-a-half to complete.

As a result, Johnson is the author of two books on cartooning and the star of a new weekly 15-minute TV series, "Charlie's Pad," which will be made available for showing throughout the Midwest by the Central Educational Network (CEN) and in the rest of the nation by ETS, the Educational Television Stations Division of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

At the beginning, it took three years of repeated effort and failure before Johnson had his first cartoon accepted for publication by a small trade paper. "I practiced and read every book in the public library on art," Johnson recalled. "My first rejection slip was the end of the world, and I accumulated boxes of them!"

By 1966, however, he had become a regular staffer on his school paper at Evanston

Township High and in that year received his first national recognition. He won two third-place awards in a nationwide cartoon contest sponsored by the Columbia Associated Press.

For the past two years as an SIU student, Johnson has been the cocreator of two cartoon strips, "God Squad" and "Trip," which have appeared in the Daily Egyptian. He also is a regular editorial cartoonist on the staff of the Southern Illinoisian, and last summer worked as a reporter and cartoonist for the Chicago Tribune.

"Charlie's Pad" started in January as a local show on SIU's two educational stations, WSIU-TV, Channel 8, Carbondale, and WUSI-TV, Channel 16, Olney. The show was accepted for syndicated distribution by GEN and ETS in mid-February.

Johnson's first book of cartoons, "Black Humor," will be published early in the spring by Johnson Publishing Co. of Chicago. His second manuscript, "Laugh On," which he has just completed, is under consideration by the publisher. His published cartoons to date number more than 500.

Insurance plan announced

By David E. Schroeder
Student Writer

A new and improved medical insurance plan has been announced by the University Benefits Committee.

The new plan, which is sponsored by the University Benefits Committee and SIU, is available to permanent faculty members and civil service staff.

The title of the policy, administered by the Continental Insurance Co., Chicago, is the SIU Medical Insurance Plan.

Under the new policy the base plan coverage entails payment of $25 deductible for each hospital confinement, then 70 full days semiprivate room coverage or intensive care room coverage. The policy will also cover 80 per cent of surgical expenses, and 100 per cent of out-patient accident charges within 72 hours after the accident occurs.

In addition to the base plan, a $25,000 major medical maximum is included in the policy. This provides for payment of 80 per cent of any cost up to $15,000, and 100 per cent of any additional costs totalling up to $10,000 more. This additional coverage goes into effect under the 70 days coverage after the base plan has expired. Payment of $100 deductible is also required at this time.

The enrollment period for the plan is open through March 10. A physical examination is not necessary for initial enrollees, but certain medical forms must be filled out and returned before the March 10 deadline.

The new plan replaces the Golden Rule Plan, but members of the plan do not have to change policies.

Additional information is available from departmental personnel offices.

Women hold safety meeting on Saturday

The spring meeting of the Illinois Conference of Women Leaders for Traffic Safety (Region II), will be 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the University Center.

Among the speakers at the meeting will be Trooper Thomas McCasland, Illinois State Police Academy, who will discuss "Alcohol in Relation to Highway Safety." Miss Sadie M. Gray, an insurance broker with Jackson & Gray Company will speak on auto insurance.

The ICWLTS is a non-profit, tax exempt organization of State women's organizations, parent groups and local safety councils with an interest in traffic accident prevention.

Women wishing to attend the meeting should write to the president, Miss Dorothy Paddock, 108 West Elm St., Alton, Ill., 62002. There is a $3.50 charge for the luncheon and registration.

Student Activities plans shopping trip

Student Activities will sponsor a shopping trip to St. Louis Saturday. The bus will leave the University Center at 8 a.m. and return at 7 p.m.

Cost is $1.50 per person. Those interested should sign up in the Student Activities office, Barracks 1-39, by noon Friday.

Chosen for research

Irene Paulavicius, senior in microbiology from Chicago chosen for a National Science Foundation program enabling her to do research with graduate students and faculty members, is shown here with Maurice Ogur, chairman of the Department of Microbiology.

New hope for drop-outs, program provides chance

New hope for the college drop-out—and especially for the black college drop-out—appears on the horizon by way of a program inaugurated by Placement Services at SIU.

More than half of the 250 industrial firms which sent recruiters here last year have responded favorably to the program, according to Walter G. Robinson, Jr.

Simply stated, it means that Robinson is trying to get the student who has had some college training—but not a degree—together with some firm that will give him a chance.

"We find that many students who have developed some skills and talents as a result of having attended college are working in situations that offer them little or no challenge," Robinson said.

"For whatever reason they left college, we believe there are large numbers of talented young people who could become more productive and find life more fulfilling if they were pursuing meaningful careers."

In polling the industrial concerns that are recruiting graduates of SIU, Robinson and Placement Director Herall C. Largent asked these questions:

1. What positions are available with your company for persons who have some college work but who do not have a college degree? 2. What are the minimum requirements for these positions? 3. Does your company offer in-service training that allows for upward mobility from these positions? 4. Does your company offer incentives for talented persons to extend their formal education?

5. Would you be interested in having your college recruiters interview these applicants? If not, would your company assist us in planning interviews? 6. Would such a program be useful to your personnel situation?

With approximately 125 companies already interested, Robinson said, he now wishes to extend an invitation to SIU's interested drop-outs, wherever they are, to write to the Placement Services for information about the plan.

Research grant funds project

Coed studies yeast cells

Irene Paulavicius from Chicago is one of five undergraduate students participating this school year in a program which enables her to do research in microbiology with graduate students and faculty personnel.

The program is supported by National Science Foundation grants and has been carried on at SIU since 1959. Supervised by Dan O. McClary, associate professor of microbiology, this 1969-70 grant provides $7,100 for the project.

Each student works with a faculty member in the department and participates as much as his other academic studies will permit. However, during the summer, the students are required to spend eight hours a day doing research. For their time and efforts, they will receive stipends of $60 a week plus about $500 to cover supplies and equipment.

Miss Paulavicius is a senior at SIU, majoring in microbiology. She has applied for graduate work at SIU, and hopes eventually to earn a Ph.D. She said, "I've been interested in chemistry and microbiology from the time I was a child and heard my older cousins discussing their interests in the two fields."

The research Miss Paulavicius is doing is part of a project being conducted by the department chairman, Maurice Ogur. The project is indirectly related to many different types of body disorders believed caused by a failure of cells to form, or break down amino acids, Ogur explained. One such disease is a type of human leukemia.

Miss Paulavicius is trying to follow normal and abnormal growth patterns in yeast cells to find out why certain organisms lose the ability to produce an amino acid called serine.

She has been assigned research that is within her training, but not so sophisticated that she would be unable to function independently, Ogur said. Her first quarter on the project was spent acquiring basic research techniques and learning to use more complex equipment than she had been exposed to in the classroom.

A major purpose of the NSF program is to encourage students with high scholastic records and research potential to continue with graduate work and to enable undergraduates to participate in research projects, Ogur explained.

The Magic Flute

Pamina (Kathryn Gray Haney of Davenport, Iowa), pleads with her mother, the evil Queen of the Night (Charolette Moore of Marion), for the life of the good priest Sarastro in "The Magic Flute," Mozart opera to be presented at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale March 13-15. The opera is double-cast. Mrs. Haney and Miss Moore will perform Friday night and at the Sunday matinee.

Mozart opera

'The Magic Flute' to appear

"If you have never attended an opera, and didn't think you'd like opera, 'The Magic Flute' is one I am convinced you would enjoy."

This dictum came from a knowledgeable but discriminating Carbondale opera buff concerning the 200-year-old opera with SIU's Opera Workshop will present March 13-15.

The speaker, who prefers to remain anonymous, claims that the music and the story of "The Magic Flute" are perfectly situated and that they are easily comprehended and enjoyed by the most musically unlearned.

"The Magic Flute" will be produced by Marjorie Lawrence, Opera Workshop director and former Metropolitan dramatic soprano, with Elaine Wallace as stage director and James Stroud as conductor.

Miss Wallace has prepared an extensive mimeographed guide which is available for those planning to attend the opera, especially for teachers planning to bring groups of school children.

"Mozart has portrayed each individual character by using a distinctly different melodic style for each and still has orchestrated them appropriately to achieve a unified musical product," she explained.

"The humorous birdcatcher Papageno's opening number is a very simple folklike song, but Mozart's witty instrumentation has given it real artistic significance. The Queen of the Night's arias are in the Italian opera style and their elaborate, florid passages serve to characterize the blind passion of the evil Queen. The priests are given magnificent, classic choruses in French opera style, while the wicked Moor Monastatos sings his ditty to Turkish music. Sarastro, representing the forces of good, pronounces his ideas on humanity in some of the most solemn and beautiful bass arias ever written."

The story of "The Magic Flute" briefly is this: Prince Tamino falls in love with a portrait of Pamina, daughter of the Queen of the Night. Pamina, however, is under the protection of Sarastro, high priest of Isis and Osiris. The Queen attempts to use Tamino to get her daughter back.

The Moor ... stots, treacherous priest in Sarastro's temple, intrigues with the Queen, hoping to acquire Pamina for himself.

Tamino, before setting out to reach Pamina, receives a magic flute as protection against evil, and the birdcatcher Papageno, who accompanies him, is given a set of magic bells.

When Tamino is at the gates of the temple, he discovers that Sarastro is wise and good and the Queen of the Night is the evil one. Tamino and Papageno pass through several ordeals and finally Tamino and Pamina are united, the Queen of the Night and Monastatos are defeated, and Papageno is rewarded with a bride of his own, Papagena.

All performances of "The Magic Flute" will be given in the University Theater in the Communications Building. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 3 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are on sale or may be ordered from the central ticket office, University Center. Prices are $1.50 for students, $2.50 for non-students.

British mime to appear in lecture - demonstration

A British mime, Geoffrey Buckley, who has developed his own pantomime theatrical company at the Belgrade Theatre, will perform at SIU Feb. 26.

Buckley, who also tutors actors at the Belgrade Theatre, training them in mime and movement, has taught at the Royal Court Theatre and was assistant to Madame Chagrin in the National Theatre. He himself had studied under Madame Chagrin and the celebrated Jacques Le Coq of Paris.

In addition to his work at the Belgrade Theatre, Buckley also lectures at the Midlands Arts Centre, Cannon Hill Park, Birmingham, and teaches Coventry Technical College drama students. He has also done television work.

In his 45-minute "Pierrot Fantasia," based on the composition of that name by 21-year-old Ron Mancini of Rochester, N.Y., Buckley shows Pierrot's various moods—as the sad "little-boy-lost," the classical clown and the exploiter of comic situations. Other of his most popular mimes are the snake-charmer, the stripper, the suicide and the egg.

Buckley's lecture-demonstration at SIU will be presented in the Dance Studio, starting at 8 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

College graduates with industrial laundry experience are fairly rare, but SIU is doing its part to make them a little more common.

Is there a demand for such graduates? According to Brocky Childers, director of the SIU laundry, there is.

"Industrial laundry operations are common at all large factories, universities and hospitals, and there are few people qualified to run them," Childers said.

"Many high-paying jobs are available in laundry management today," Childers asserted, "due to a wide-spread lack of interest in the field."

SIU has no particular academic program for students interested in the field, but the University laundry initiated a training program in 1958 for its student workers which offers all trainees a comprehensive exercise in laundry management.

In a little more than a decade the University laundry has grown from a small plant washing physical education towels to a large operation which now fills the laundry, linen, dyeing, cleaning and mending needs of the entire Carbondale campus.

Student job and training programs at the laundry include spot removal, dyeing and garment alteration.

Students majoring in chemistry can handle the spot removal and dyeing, and students in the department of clothing and textiles work in the garment alteration department.

Such jobs offer students an excellent opportunity to apply specialized classroom knowledge to a practical vocational situation.

Students also work in the laundry's office and handle such jobs as bookkeeping and billing.

"I have long believed in self-help programs for college students, and I am glad we have added a new dimension to SIU's student work program by offering our student workers such a training program," Childers said.

"Our operation is a very large and diversified one, and students get an excellent chance to view all aspects of an industrial laundry operation."

The laundry now boasts a linen rental service with an inventory in excess of $145,000. Shirts, jackets, pants, coats, towels, table cloths, napkins and other items are made available to all departments.

Items such as draperies are cleaned and dyed and kept in repair by the laundry's staff.

"Students get a chance to work in all the various departments to get a first hand view of the operation," Childers said.

The University laundry, which is now located in the shadow of the billowing smokestack at the physical plant, has plans for expansion in the near future as the operation continues to grow.

Blurb sheet questions excursions to Thailand

By James Hoff
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

For the past week, a blurb sheet commenting on Robert Jacobs, a professor with the Department of Education and Administration foundations, has been redistributed on campus. Titled "Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Biographical Sketches #1, Staff Members," the sheet attempts to indicate shady dealings concerning Jacobs and his trips to Thailand. According to H. B. Jacobini, director of the Vietnamese Center, the blurb sheet was nothing new. He said it was distributed for the first time several months ago outside the presentation of a lecture series he was connected with.

Jacobini said the sheet was not distributed by the center but by those outside the center.

Jacobs is currently on a leave of absence, without pay, from the University and is stationed in Bangkok, Thailand. While the blurb sheet says he does not teach at SIU, Jacobs did teach here last summer.

Jacobs has had several leaves of absence since 1967. The first, according to the "Proceedings and minutes of the meeting of the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University" for November 10, 1966, Jacobs was granted a leave of absence without pay from Jan. 23, 1967 to Jan. 22, 1969, in order for him to accept an assignment with the Agency for International Development as a regional education adviser for Southeast Asian development.

On Sept. 20, 1968, Jacobs was granted an additional leave without pay from Jan. 22 to July 1, 1969, to continue his temporary appointment with AID. This time he became Regional Education Adviser in Bangkok, Thailand.

During the summer quarter of 1969, Jacobs returned to SIU and taught "Higher Education 512-Higher Education in Selected Nations" and served as assistant to the Director of the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs in the capacity of coordinator of development. During the summer, Jacobs assisted in the center's task force committees.

On July 18, 1969, the Board of Trustees granted Jacobs another leave without pay from Sept. 1, 1969 to Sept. 1, 1970, so he could serve as Regional Education Adviser with the United States Embassy in Bangkok, Thailand. He is still serving in Thailand now.

In all cases, Jacobs was on leave without pay, so he could not have been paid by SIU for being both a professor and a center consultant as the blurb sheet said.

The blurb sheet also states that Jacobs was on the "Foreign Service List", which he is. Jacobini said Jacobs was on the list because he was serving in Thailand.

Proposal made on car rules

Elimination of the five dollar fee for automobile registrations and continuation of present auto eligibility rules for students have been recommended by SIU's Traffic and Parking Advisory Committee.

The recommendations, if approved by Chancellor Robert MacVicar, would be effective next fall.

The two proposals drew unanimous consent at the committee's meeting Tuesday.

The five dollar fee for registration includes a yellow sticker that allows the buyer to park on campus only at the University Center fee lot and at the Evergreen Terrace and Southern Hills married student residence areas. Parking on campus is permitted, however, after posted lot hours.

Committee members said they felt that cancelling the yellow sticker charge would eliminate one major source of complaints about the SIU parking program. Revenue from yellow decal sales has amounted to approximately $5,000 so far this year.

Traffic congestion and uncertainties about future permanent lot construction were reasons cited for maintaining existing student auto rules. Freshmen and sophomores are now generally excluded from privileges.

SIU and other state institutions have been told by the State Higher Board of Education to build up parking revenues to participate in a matching fund plan for future construction of parking facilities. The plan called for participation in any consecutive two-year period by 1975.

However, SIU officials met with Higher Board representatives Jan. 29 to seek clarification of the matching formulas and were told that all previously announced guidelines are being reviewed by a Board task force. Chancellor's Assistant Rino Bianchi, one of the SIU representatives at the meeting, has advised the parking group to delay participation in the plan until revised guidelines are set forth.

The board will review a first draft of 1970-71 SIU motor vehicle regulations at a meeting March 10.

Summer program goes south

A summer program of lecture, study, travel, and practicum in Mexico and in the Southwest for students who are interested in Mexican-American child behavioral problems has been announced.

The Department of Special Education will conduct the program, June 21-August 23, in cooperation with the Department of Psychology at the University of Veracruz at Xalapa, Mexico. Special emphasis will be placed on psychological problems of children resulting from conflicts between the Mexican culture and American culture, according to James Crowner, director of the program, and A. W. Bork, co-director.

The intensive nine-week program will start with a week-long orientation at SIU. After a three-day visit to Mexico City, the students will spend six weeks at the University of Xalapa, where courses in particular problems of the Spanish language group and in the culture of Mexico will be offered by faculty members from both universities.

A practicum with behavioral disordered Mexican-American children at the House of Neighborly Service at Tucson, Arizona, is scheduled for Aug. 16-23, when the participants will have an opportunity to summarize their activities and to evaluate their experience in the special training program.

The program is open to graduate students and a select group of juniors and seniors. Eight to twelve quarter hours of credits may be acquired. A noncredit course in conversational Spanish will be taken by non-Spanish speaking students. Cost for each student, including tuition and fees, room and board, and transportation, is approximated at $700.

Further information can be obtained by contacting James Crowner, chairman of the Special Education Department.

Exam registration date near

March 12 is the final date for prospective teachers who plan to take the National Teacher Examinations at SIU April 4 to be registered with the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J. It was announced by Harley Bradshaw, coordinator of national and institutional testing at SIU.

Bulletins of information describing registration and containing registration forms are available at the SIU Counseling and Testing Center or may be obtained from National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

At the one-day session a candidate may take the common examinations, which include tests in professional and general education, and one of the 17 teaching area examinations designed to evaluate his understanding of subject matter and methods applicable to the area he may be assigned to teach.

Each candidate will receive an admission ticket advising him of the exact location of the center to which he should report, Bradshaw said. Candidates for the common exams will report at 8:30 a.m. April 4 and should finish at approximately 12:30 p.m., he said. Teaching area tests will be from 1:30 to about 4:15 p.m.

Pregnancy's dangers greater than pill's

WASHINGTON (AP) — A specialist in population control said Wednesday suspected complications from birth control pills are secondary to the medical and social dangers of pregnancy.

Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, head of Planned Parenthood, told a Senate monopoly subcommittee its hearings into the safety of the pill have spread unwarranted and dangerous alarm throughout the world.

Nearly all side effects are unimportant or reversible, said Guttmacher, and the only proven complication that can be fatal is blood clotting.

But this, he said, kills only 1.5 of every 100,000 women a year aged 20-34 while pregnancy claims 22.8 lives.

Among women 34-44, 3.9

of every 100,000 die from blood clotting associated with the pill while 57.6 per 100,000 die from the complications of pregnancy, he said.

Besides reducing the risk of death, Guttmacher went on, the pill has proved to be the most effective safeguard known against "one of the gravest socio-medical ills—unwanted pregnancy."

Guttmacher testified at the sixth session of hearings by the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis. The hearings have focused on scores of suspected complications and side effects.

"The impact of these hearings has washed up on the shores of nearly every country," declared Guttmacher, whose organization counts 350,000 women at 525 centers in 130 U.S. cities.

Guttmacher cited as one example of this impact a hospital in New York's Harlem where he said growing popularity of the pill had caused a sharp drop in abortions. He said 67 percent of the women treated by the hospital's birth control clinic preferred the pill "until these hearings made headlines."

"I am afraid to estimate the Harlem Hospital figures for 1970, but it is fair to assume that the proportion of birth control pill users will decline acutely, abortion admissions will rise, abortion deaths will go up, and in 1971 deliveries also will increase," he said.

Guttmacher said these would be the effects of only one hospital at a time when nationwide up to a million abortions are performed annually, 300,000 illegitimate children are born, at least one out of six U.S. brides is pregnant when married, and 70,000 unmarried girls a year under 18 bear children.

"I don't accuse the hearings of any diabolic purpose," said Guttmacher. "But there is a tremendous amount of undigested pabulum that comes out in the daily press."

Asked by Nelson whether women should be given more information on possible side effects from the pill, Guttmacher remarked, "The dispenser of therapy should be educated, not the recipient."

Quarantines claimed unnecessary

HOUSTON (AP) — Several scientists asserted Monday that 21-day quarantines of astronauts and rocks returned from the moon are expensive and unnecessary. Other scientists warned that the danger of possible lunar germs continues.

Their comments underscored the debate that is continuing in the scientific community about the usefulness of the quarantines used in the first two manned lunar landing flights. The space agency is expected to announce next week its quarantine plans for subsequent flights.

"The question of having more quarantine is a fantastic stupidity," said Dr. G.J. Wasserburg of the California Institute of Technology, one of several scientists interviewed at the American Chemical Society convention.

"The basic question of having a quarantine is one I approve," he said, "But once we have the information in hand that we have now . . . There's not a legitimate basis to continue. And besides, it costs a lot of money."

Astronauts and rocks returned from the moon on

Apollo 11 and 12 were isolated to prevent the spread of any lunar germ. However, extensive tests have turned up no life on the moon and some space agency scientists have recommended dropping the quarantines, which cost millions.

Other scientists say there still is a chance of harmful moon organisms and sources said members of the National Science Academy are debating a recommendation to the space agency. Many observers expect space agency officials will announce next week that they are compromising with less stringent quarantines.

Fires follow Kunstler speech

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Students attended classes here during a night of fires and window smashing that sheriff's deputies said may be linked to a visit by a defense attorney from the Chicago 7 trial.

A spokesman for the Associated Students Lecture Committee said, however, that "these events are merely a consequence of the increasing police repression aimed at stifling political dissent in Santa Barbara and around the country," and had no connection with an afternoon lecture by William Kunstler.

Tuesday night's outbreak began in Isla Vista, a community of 13,000 adjoining the campus, which is home to 9,000 of the school's 13,700 students.

Sheriff's deputies said a patrol car came upon a gathering of 350 young people in a shopping area and it was surrounded after an officer got out to investigate. The officer's keys were snatched from his belt and air was let out of his car's tires, and deputies said.

Council considers bond for parade permits

Last weekend's violence, which caused an estimated $12,000 damage to downtown stores and campus buildings,

News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators of both parties spoke out Wednesday against increasing U.S. involvement in Laos, saying it violates congressional directives and could repeat the Vietnamese experience.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first serious test of President Nixon's new Asian policy may be shaping up in Laos where North Vietnamese troops are pushing a major offensive against retreating forces of the U.S.-backed government.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Georges Pompidou of France told Congress Wednesday a quick solution to the Middle East problem should be sought through a four-power conference at the United Nations.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court extended the one-man, one-vote rule Wednesday to all governmental bodies, including local school boards, that perform normal governmental functions.

Weekend protests' film to be shown

A film report of the weekend protests over the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs—both peaceful and destructive—will be shown at 6:30 tonight over WISU-TV, channel 8.

Also appearing on the show with host Ed Brown will be Dr. Loren E. Klaus, president of Shawnee College and William Whitnel, dean of students at Shawnee. They will discuss a $3.5 million bond referendum for their school.

St. Louis bus trip set for Saturday

The Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) will sponsor a shopping trip to St. Louis Saturday. Buses will leave at 8 a.m. at the University Center and return at 7 p.m.

Interested students are asked to sign up by noon Friday in the Student Activities Office, Barracks T-39.

Cost of the trip is $1.50.

has spurred recommendation of a bond for parade permits.

A. E. Ramsey, president of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the City Council, has asked that the council require at least a $50,000 bond for each day a group holds a parade permit, including permission to hold mass rallies and meetings.

The City Council, at its Tuesday meeting, asked City Attorney Mel Rieff to give a legal opinion on the bond proposal at next week's informal meeting.

Councilman William Eaton said he had heard rumors that police were told not to make arrests during the disturbances last weekend. Both Eaton and City Manager C. William Norman said the rumor was untrue.

Eaton said he thought the bond would protect an individual's right to speak and demonstrate, and also protect the property rights of individuals. Police, he said, would not be kept from guarding these rights.

Roger Leisner, student representative to the Council, said the proposed bond would "place an economic stipulation on those rights guaranteed to all citizens."

In other Council action:

The Council approved the hiring of a personnel director for the city and the establishment of an employee advisory committee to act in an advisory capacity to the director.

The approval was based on recommendations made by the Personnel and Pay Policy Committee, a group of four citizens and a city employee, which called for a director and advisory group.

Mayor David Keene said the city needs to employ a director "at the earliest possible date."

The salary of the director, Keene said, would be about $10,000 annually and choice would be based on an individual's background and training. Any candidate should have a college degree and two years experience in personnel work, Keene added.

A report was given by the Sidewalk Advisory Board which outlined 11 miles of new sidewalk and one mile of sidewalk improvement to be completed in the next three years.

The Council also agreed to building $90,000 worth of intersection and traffic signal improvements at the site of the new J. C. Penney store to be built on Rt. 13 east of the city.

The senior research chemist who's helping us develop a safety fuel for jet aircraft happens to be black. The one working most closely with him is white. The project couldn't go on without either of them.

Which may explain why people in the interface of companies affiliated with Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) are colorblind.

We couldn't afford to judge people by the color of their skin, or their creed, or their national origin. Even if we didn't have a deep conviction that dignity is a right, not a gift.

Because of our conviction, we gave thousands of dollars last year to the National Urban League and the United Negro College Fund. And we actively recruit and employ qualified graduates of all races, at all degree levels.

Our interface brings together some of the best minds in all engineering, scientific and business disciplines. Creates challenges and insights beyond those of a single company. And stifles petty thinking and petty minds.

Supreme Court extends one-man, one vote ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court extended the one-man, one-vote rule Wednesday to all governmental bodies, including local school boards, that perform normal governmental functions.

The 5-3 decision, given by Justice Hugo L. Black, requires that when officials are elected by districts the districts must be as nearly equal in population as practicable.

Black said there may be exceptions when the officials' duties are far removed from the usual governmental activities. But as a general rule, he said, the 14th Amendment requires that each qualified voter be given an equally weighted vote in elections.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger was one of the three dissenters. He concurred in a statement by Justice John M. Harlan that "what our court has done today seems to me to run far afield of the values embodied in the scheme of government ordained by the Constitution."

The court in earlier decisions interpreted the 14th

Amendment to require the election of congressmen, state legislators and members of county governing boards from districts that are substantially equal in population.

The new ruling dealt with the junior college district of metropolitan Kansas City. Its six trustees, all of whom were elected, oversee the three Kansas City junior college campuses in the area.

Under Missouri law, Kansas City was entitled to three trustees—half of the board—though its population ranged from 59.49 per cent to 63.55 per cent of the district.

A suit brought by four Kansas City taxpayers was dismissed by a trial court. The Missouri Supreme Court upheld the dismissal, saying the one-man, one-vote principle was not applicable.

"We reverse," said Black,

"and hold that the 14th Amendment requires that the trustees of this junior college district be apportioned in a manner which does not deprive any voter of his right to have his own vote given as much weight, as far as is practicable, as that of any other voter in the junior college district." The decision was produced by a line-up of the court's four generally liberal members—Black and Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall and Justice Byron R. White, who usually takes a conservative approach.

Police trial nears end

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—An all-white federal jury began deliberating Wednesday whether or not three white policemen and a Negro private guard should be convicted under an 1871 civil rights law of conspiring to intimidate eight black youths and two white girls at the Algiers Motel during the 1967 Detroit riot.

Deliberations began after U. S. District Court Judge Stephen Roth told the jury of six men and six women they were not to be guided by "sympathy, prejudice or public opinion" in reaching a verdict.

The defendants are the suspended Detroit police officers Ronald August, 30; Robert Paille, 34; and David Senak, 25, and a private guard, Melvin Dismukes, 26.

They were accused of conspiracy to deprive 10 occupants of the Algiers Motel of their civil rights by beating, threatening and intimidating them on July 26, 1967.

Student government officials say Moulton threatened them

Student government officials said Wednesday that Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton threatened disciplinary and legal action against them during the weekend's protests against the Center for Vietnamese Studies and Programs and Tuesday night's demonstrations favoring coeducational study hours.

Moulton declined to comment on the allegations. He said private conversations with students were not for publication.

The students involved were Rich Wallace, student body vice president; Bob Thomas, student government lobbyist; and Jon Taylor, chairman of the Unity Party.

Moulton said that any disciplinary action resulting from campus disturbances would be handled through normal University channels.

Moulton also said a statement attributed to him in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian by a student government official was false. The statement concerned the possibility of a special meeting of the SIU Board of Trustees which claimed the Board only wanted to call out the National Guard.

Concerning the walk-in Tuesday night at Neely Hall, Taylor, Thomas, Nick Fera, author of the coed hours bill, and Mike Bowman, student senator, issued the following statement Wednesday:

"We were in Neely Hall last night and we challenge the Board of Trustees to prove that we were in violation of any federal, state or local law."

Huddleston indicted of conspiracy

Taxing powers, gun laws studied

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Bill of Rights Committee Wednesday, gave tentative approval to the first Illinois constitutional language to spell out a citizen's right to possess firearms.

However, the language contained recognition of the Illinois Legislature's authority to limit the right in behalf of the general welfare.

In other Constitutional Convention activity, the Revenue Committee received testimony supporting the broad powers of cities to tax. The Executive Committee heard an advocate of a limited number of state elective officers.

The Bill of Rights Committee voted 11 to two in favor of a plank in the Bill of Rights that would say:

"Subject only to the police powers of the state, the right of the individual citizen to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

The committee decision will stand subject to the committee's and the convention's rules.

The committee can reverse itself within seven days. The convention rules permit individual proposals—which may include firearms regulation—to be submitted until March 3.

Present Illinois law requires firearms owners to register with the state.

An attempt to put such registration on a local option basis is expected in the April legislative session.

The Illinois Constitution, adopted in 1870, does not contain a rights statement concerning possession of firearms.

In the Convention's Revenue Committee, the Illinois Municipal League asked for authority for local governments to enact taxes in the same areas where the state may be empowered to tax.

League spokesmen said later this "home rule" presentation was limited to the extent that it envisaged that the state might pre-empt an area of taxation for itself alone.

Bernard G. Cunningham, mayor of Park Forest and president of the league, said in his prepared statement:

"The vital role of a city, village or incorporated town can be effective only with both adequate governmental and revenue generating powers.

"The Illinois Municipal League hereby requests both the power to organize local governments effectively and the power to finance them."

Other specifics of the proposal included: allowing local governments to cooperate in special assessments for joint projects, removing the five percent debt limit, eliminating requirements that debts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury Wednesday, indicted Silas Huddleston, a Tennessee official of the United Mine Workers, on charges of conspiracy in connection with the slaying of UMW leader Joseph A. Yablonski, December 31.

Shortly after the indictment was returned by a jury in Cleveland, Ohio, Huddleston, 62, was taken into custody by FBI agents.

Huddleston, of LaFollette, Tenn., was accused of interfering with the rights of a union member by force or violence, obstruction of justice and conspiring to interfere with the rights of a union member by force or violence.

Huddleston is the father of Annette Lucy Gilly, already under indictment in the Yablonski slaying. Her husband, Paul Eugene Gilly, of Cleveland, also is charged in the same offense.

Yablonski, his wife and daughter, were apparently slain last December 31, although their bodies were not discovered until Jan. 5.

Gilly, and two other Cleveland men, Aubran Wayne Martin and Claude Edward Vealy, face murder charges in Pennsylvania as well as being accused under the federal statute with conspiring to kill Yablonski.

The indictment against Huddleston charged him with possessing a fund which would be used to finance a conspiracy to kill Yablonski. Yablonski lost a bid early last December to unseat W. A. "Tony" Boyle as union president.

be paid in 20 years; authorizing fund sharing with state and federal governments; and providing state aid for local governments with multiple state facilities.

In the Executive Committee, Illinois Supreme Court Justice Walter V. Schaefer said the governor and lieutenant governor should be the only elective officers in the executive branch. They should be chosen as a team, he said.

Games are strategy in 'Need to Know'

By Rob Armbruster
Student Writer

Games are going to be the new strategy of the "Need to Know" workshop for new student leaders, March 6-8.

Sharon L. Naylor, coordinator of programs, along with the steering committee, will head the program.

According to Mrs. Naylor, each prospective student leader will receive a packet containing questions that new students might ask. These prospective leaders just answer the questions individually and then in groups, using the group dynamics method of learning.

Approximately 65 students, ranging from seniors to freshmen, who have a "C" average and an interest in becoming student leaders next fall, will travel to the Little Grassy Campus for the program. Questions about the student work and financial assistance office, housing, fraternities and sororities, selective service, administration and the registration process are just a few of the many questions that will be answered.

The questions deal with how these services can benefit the student as well as where the services are offered.

After the question and answer session is over, representatives of the different offices and services will speak to the students and answer any other questions.

Selected leaders who show a continued interest may later become members of the activities steering committee.

The buses will leave the University Center at 6:30 p.m. Friday and will return Sunday at 11 a.m.

Jean Adams to speak

Jean Adams, nationally syndicated columnist and world lecturer, will be the Convocation guest speaker at 1 p.m. today in the SIU Arena.

Mrs. Adams has lectured extensively before a wide cross-section of groups throughout the United States and has created and coordinated numerous self-improvement forums. Her lectures primarily deal with fashion beauty, charm and human relations.

Mrs. Adams gathers most of her material through personal contact with fashion and beauty authorities around the world. She has recently returned from a lecture and research tour of Scandinavia, where in addition to lecturing she interviewed parents, students, teens and clergy.

Mrs. Adams graduated from the University of Texas and received her Master's Degree from the University of Colorado.

Her columns and clinics are syndicated by United Feature Syndicate and appear in approximately 125 newspapers throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Often referred to as an "emerged woman," Mrs. Adams and her husband, Martin, have two children and reside in Bangor, Maine. Her office is in Houston, Tex. and her columns originate in New York City.

After the Convocation a coffee hour for Mrs. Adams will be held in the Home Economics Lounge.

Thomas Jones to give lecture

Opportunities for Black Americans in the finance and investment business will be the topic of a public lecture at 7 p.m. today, in Morris Library Auditorium.

The speaker will be Thomas B. Jones, vice president of Lionel D. Edie and Co., investment counselors, New York. Jones is also author of the book, "How a Negro Can Start His Own Business."

Carbondale's Volunteer Bureau seeks increased recruitment

Following the recruiting campaign at the beginning of January, the number of volunteers for Carbondale's Volunteer Bureau has picked up tremendously, according to David Rafter, head of the Bureau and graduate student in SIU's Community Development Services.

Sixty-five persons have volunteered so far and the bureau hopes to reach its goal of 150.

The bureau is a volunteer placement service, a go-between for agencies in need of help and individuals who offer it. Local public agencies send in request forms to the bureau stating the type of job that has to be done and the qualifications needed in a volunteer.

The agency has been in existence since 1968. It was created by a group of graduate students who had experience in Volunteers in Service to America and the Peace Corps. These students organized the Committee of Volunteers and with the aid of Richard Thomas, an instructor in Community Development at SIU, formalized their ideas and presented their plan to the Carbondale City Council. The City Council donated an office in City Hall and temporary operating expenses.

State grant applications due soon

The deadline for Illinois State Grant applications is March 1. There are only 200 more applications left, reports Charles E. Gray, counselor at Student Work and Financial Assistance. They will be given out on a first come, first serve basis, he said.

To be eligible for the grant, the student must:

1. be a citizen of the United States,
2. be a resident of Illinois,
3. be enrolled as a full-time student at the time the award is given,
4. demonstrate financial need as determined by the Illinois State Grant Foundation.

Those classified as self-supporting are:

1. orphans with no court-appointed guardian or wards of the state of Illinois,
2. honorably discharged U.S. veterans with one year of service,
3. anyone 23 years of age by Sept. 1970 who has been claimed as a tax dependent by either parent during the past 12 months.

School teaches with TV

Brazilian university aided by SIU

Deep in the southern valleys of Brazil is a six-year-old university that has a million-volume library, a 45,000-seat soccer stadium, one of the finest herds of Charolais cattle outside of France and an extension "campus" 4,000 miles away in the steaming bowels of the Amazon basin.

It has a ceramics plant to make bricks for its own buildings and a woodworking factory to finish its own furniture. With close to 9,000 students, it has suddenly become one of Brazil's largest universities and it is the first school in South America to teach classes via closed-circuit television.

If the Federal University of Santa Maria is unusual for its setting, its rector is even more so. Dr. Mariano da Rocha is a surgeon, cattle-rancher and patriarch (12 children) who has made the development of Santa Maria U. something of a one-man crusade.

He is proud of the fact that the young institution has been built entirely with cruzeros, the currency of Brazil. He is equally proud of a new development path opened up in a three-way pact between the United Nations, Santa Maria and a school whose growth closely parallels that of his own—SIU.

The U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization has approved a $1,340,000 contract with SIU to provide a four-year agricultural education and research project at da Rocha's campus. It will cover field and classroom programs ranging from animal husbandry to irrigation. SIU was chosen by the U. N. organization from contract applicants throughout the U. S., Great Britain, and Australia.

Rector da Rocha, unequivocally happy over the arrangement, went to philosophy to describe his feelings. Speaking at the end of a three-day round of conferences and get-acquainted sessions on the SIU campus, da Rocha said:

"There are people with few lands and much population—the 'rat people.' There are the others with much land and fewer people—the 'elephant' people. Brazil and the United States are elephants, we are two giants. Brazil is changing quickly to a well-developed nation, but it is necessary for one elephant to follow in the path of another. It can't walk along a sheep's path. I preferred to follow the trail to rights and liberty, which is yours."

Although Santa Maria is a "comprehensive" university, with five aggregated schools, it is pushing hard in agricultural programs. Of 12,000 acres in land (2,600 at the main campus), much is devoted to livestock pasture and plantings of rice, soybeans, corn, potatoes, sesame. Da Rocha says possibilities for stock and crop production in the region are "unlimited." He hopes the SIU field teams will help realize the potential.

The 53-year-old rector got into education while serving as professor at a Santa Maria pharmacy school founded by his father and uncle. He practiced surgery in the United States and other countries before assuming his university chair.

Counselors provide variety of services

By Tony Moore
Student Writer

The Counseling and Testing Center has been part of SIU for many years. Yet, many faculty members and students are not clear about its functions.

The center works with students experiencing a wide variety of conflicts. Difficulties centering around academic achievement, vocational goals or selection of a college program are frequent concerns.

There are also those who are having trouble in establishing or maintaining satisfactory relationships with other people—roommates, friends, instructors, etc.

SIU provides a staff of experienced psychologists to talk with any member of the SIU community who needs assistance in making a decision pertaining to personal or educational difficulty. Most services are free. All services are performed in a professional and completely confidential manner.

The center is not only for counseling. A variety of testing, scoring and measurement consulting services are also provided.

A student and a counselor will decide whether or not tests would be useful in securing information that will assist the student in solving his problem or making a decision. The tests available at the center are specifically selected to fit the particular needs from a wide range of interests, abilities, personalities and special aptitude tests.

The center is also responsible for the university-wide testing program which includes various national testing programs such as: ACT, Graduate Record Examination and Miller Analogy Test.

The center operates in accordance with the provisions of the ethical code of the American Psychological Association. This source indicates that confidential communications between counselor and client are privileged and are to be safeguarded. Such information may be given to a third party with a legitimate interest and with the written consent of the client.

Any regularly enrolled student, faculty member or staff member at SIU may use the counseling services without charge. Adult dependants are also eligible for all services without charge.

Counselors are available for appointments Monday through Friday from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Appointments can be made by contacting the receptionist in Building A of Washington Square or by calling 453-5371.

Ecuadorian student works at swimming and scholarship

By Bob Richards
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

When speaking about swimming either in the South American Republic of Ecuador or on the campus of SIU, one name not to forget is that of SIU freshman Fernando Gonzales.

Having turned in some outstanding times this year for Coach Ray Essick's Saluki swimming team in almost all freestyle events, Gonzales took time out from classes Feb. 7-14 to compete in the South American swimming championships in Lima, Peru.

Named Ecuador's Athlete of the Year in both 1966 and 1968, Fernando joined eight fellow countrymen on the Ecuador team with the best swimmers of South America.

Although Fernando was not able to return to his native Guayaquil, Ecuador, his mother made the one-hour twenty minute flight to Lima to see the week long competition. Neither his father nor his younger sister could make the homecoming.

With the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships March 26-28 at the University of Utah, Gonzales spent much of his time working out between events while in Lima. This admittedly put Fernando at a disadvantage to the other swimmers who were able to taper down their training programs prior to the championships held every two years.

"I didn't rest," says Gonzales of his seven day stint in Lima.

"I kept myself working out between events. I didn't shave down, but I just did my best in the condition I was in."

Gonzales wasn't kidding as he logged as many as 6000 yards a day of long distance swimming in addition to daily competition.

In between Coach Essick's training prescription, Fernando competed in eight events for Ecuador, winning three bronze medals. Ecuador's team placed fifth in the meet which was won by Brazil.

While not winning either event, Gonzales established two new Ecuadorian national records in the 100-meter freestyle and the 200-meter freestyle. Fernando placed third in the 100 with a 55.9 and fifth in the 200 at 2:03.9.

The 19-year-old chemistry major churned to a fourth place finish in the 400-meter freestyle in 4:23.4, narrowly missing another Ecuadorian record. He also swam to a fourth place in the 1500-meter freestyle in a somewhat slower time of 17:58.

But Fernando wasn't through helping his eight other male team mates and five female counterparts. Next, he finished fifth in the 200-meter individual medley (four strokes-50 meters each) and then helped the 400-meter and 800-meter relays to third places, accounting for two more bronze medals. He also swam on the fifth place 400-meter medley relay.

Besides being an excellent swimmer with great potential, Gonzales is extremely serious about his studies. He hopes to apply his knowledge learned in organic chemistry to the economic and industrial progress of his country. Occupational goals will definitely bring Gonzales back to Ecuador following his education.

"I want to give my country what I know, helping however I can," he says.

Athletics and academics play equal roles with Gonzales.

"The major goal is to get into the Olympics and to get a degree, 50 per cent for each one," says Gonzales who plans to stay in the United States to earn a master's degree.

"I didn't start swimming seriously until I was nine," Gonzales relates, "but I started going to the pool for workouts and enjoyed it."

Prior to his enrollment at SIU, Fernando was the Ecuadorian national swimming champion in the 200, 400, 800 and 1500-meter freestyle races.

American swimming is the model all countries try to achieve, says Fernando.

Four sophs start

Salukis 90, Sycamores 81; Powles, Brooks-33 rebounds

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Stan Powles, Marvin Brooks, Greg Starrick, John Garrett and L. C. Brasfield do a lot of things well with a basketball.

Wednesday night the five Salukis all scored in double figures, accounting for 86 of SIU's points in a 90-81 victory over Indiana State.

Coach Jack Hartman made a surprise move in starting the four sophomores and Brasfield, a junior. The recent lineup has consisted of Rex Barker, Juarez Rosborough, Starrick, Brasfield and Brooks.

And especially in light of the fact that Tuesday Indiana State coach Gordon Stauffer said he had been told his Sycamore team still rated a possible National Invitational Tournament bid.

The youthful group of Salukis never left a doubt that they intended to win.

"I thought they did a heck of a job," said Hartman. "It was an important game to us," he continued. "These kids have a lot of pride."

Powles scored a career high 20 points and grabbed 18 rebounds for an SIU season high by an individual. Brooks, appearing in his fourth start, wasn't far behind, also breaking the previous individual high, 14, with 15 rebounds. The 6-5 sophomore forward contributed 11 points.

"I thought Stan and Marvin did an outstanding job," Hartman said. The Saluki coach said this was SIU's best effort on the offensive boards of the season.

Garrett, in his first start in the last seven games, collected 16 points.

Starrick made the best reversal of the season, scoring 22 points in the second half after a two point first half performance. Brasfield hit six field goals and three free throws for 15 points.

The Sycamores provided a brief scare late in the second half when they reduced an 80-61 SIU lead to 82-77.

"I was a little disappointed that they didn't handle it as they should have," coach Jack Hartman said. "I think they lost their poise momentarily."

The second half seasawed between five and three point SIU leads until the Salukis broke it wide open with a 21-7 scoring binge midway in the second half.

"I think when we changed defenses it allowed us to get the momentum," Hartman said.

The Salukis changed from a straight man to man defense into a half court pressure zone with approximately 11 minutes remaining in the contest.

But with 4:43 remaining, the Sycamores reversed the momentum and outpointed SIU 16-2.

The Saluki victory snaps a seven game Sycamore winning streak and five consecutive victories over members of the new athletic conference.

On Feb. 2, the Sycamores began their streak with an 82-73 victory over the Salukis on the Indiana State court in Terre Haute.

The Sycamores had also defeated Illinois State, Northern Illinois University and Ball State University, twice.

NIT adds four teams, two opponents invited

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Of yesterday's four announced National Invitational Tournament teams, two defeated the Salukis this year. Nationally eighth ranked Marquette University will return to the SIU Arena next Tuesday night for the Salukis season finale.

Georgia Tech, 1970 Saluki opponent, Louisiana State University and St. John's of New York round out the four teams that have been named thus far.

In meetings earlier this season, the Salukis were defeated by both Georgia Tech and the Marquette Warriors.

Rich Yunkus, All-America candidate, scored 28 points to lead the Georgia Tech Yellowjackets to an impressive 100-71 Jan. 5 victory over the Salukis.

The Yellowjackets possess a 16-8 season record and close their regular season tonight in a home game with NCAA tournament bound Jacksonville.

Marquette accepted the NIT bid amid a storm of controversy concerning their invitation to the prestigious NCAA tournament. Ten initial NCAA bids were released and all schools but Marquette quickly jumped at the opportunity.

Warrior coach Al McGuire blasted the NCAA request that his team play in the Midwest Regional in Texas rather than the Midwest Regional in Dayton, Ohio.

Ranked ahead of Marquette in the Midwest were Jacksonville and Notre Dame.

Villanova, St. Bonaventure, Niagara, Western Kentucky, Houston, Dayton, New Mexico State, Weber State, Long Beach State and Utah State make up the remainder of the incomplete NCAA field.

Indiana State, Wednesday night 90-81 victim of the Salukis, had been mentioned as an NIT possibility. The loss dropped the Sycamores record to 16-8. Remaining Indiana State games will be played away at Southwest Missouri State and Northern Illinois.

SIU records are broken on land, sea and in the air

By Bob Richards
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Saluki winter athletes made a major onslaught on the record book over the weekend and by Saturday nights, 10 SIU records in three sports had fallen.

Southern's swimmers were also responsible for seven meet records in the Southern Intercollegiate Championships held at Notre Dame. Both track records were held previous Saluki athletes.

Wrestler Bob Underwood won his heavyweight match Saturday against Miami of Ohio's Jack Goas 26-0. The match was the largest point margin by a Saluki during coach Linn Long's two year tenure at SIU. Ironically, Rich Casey has the highest margin total known when he won a 32-3 decision against Colorado's Jay Ortega in 1968. Ortega's coach was Long.

Freshman triumph

The Saluki freshman basketball team held off a stiff challenge from Paducah Junior College Wednesday to defeat the Kentucky team 76-74 in the SIU Arena.

Nate Hawthorne led the SIU scoring with 24 points. The 6-7 guard from Mt. Vernon connected on eight out of eight floor shots in the second half.

Larry Lingle bagged 16 points for the frosh cagers while Don Portugal had 13. Center Mar Seip scored 12 points.

The win for coach Jim Smeiser's team gives the Saluki freshmen an 11-3 record.

SIU scored on 26 of 59 shots from the floor for a .441 field goal percentage while the visitors hit at a torrid .550, hitting 33 of 60. SIU led at the half 37-36.

The Saluki frosh had a 74-70 lead with less than a minute left to play but Paducah came back to score. Leading 76-72, SIU once again gave up a basket but time ran out.

John Marker had six points for the yearlings, while Charles Johnson had 3 and Ray Burkiewicz had two.

Hawthorne had 12 rebounds and Don Portugal had 11 as SIU outrebounced the visitors, 42-29.
