Draftees May Get Term's Credit

The Faculty Council has adopted a policy to give partial or full credit to students who enter military service in the middle of a term.

The amount of credit recognized depends on which week of the term the student withdraws.

The policy on "military withdrawal benefits," as initially drafted by Robert McGrath, registrar, was adopted by the Faculty Council last week to be forwarded to appropriate administrative agencies.

The heart of the new policy consists of the following three points:

1. Students withdrawing during the first four weeks will receive full refund of tuition but no credit.
2. Those withdrawing between fifth and eighth week will receive one-half credit without letter grade or refund of one-half tuition.
3. Those withdrawing after the eighth week will receive full credit with no letter grade and no refund.

The policy applies to cases of induction or enlistment for an extended period. Excluded are withdrawals for short-term, National Guard, reserve duty or annual active duty.

Those planning to withdraw are required to attend classes up to 10 days before their reporting date for active duty with written verification from an appropriate official.

YMCA Drive In 4th Day Of Campaign

The Jackson County Y.M.C.A. Building Fund Campaign is now in its 4th day in its quest of its $472,990 goal.

Each campaign worker has been given a list of prospective donors, as recorded on campaign cards. The worker calls on these prospects, explains the objectives of the drive, and seeks the donor's participation.

The campaign began with a kick-off dinner Tuesday at University Center and will continue for 16 more days.

Six "Report Dinners" are scheduled throughout the campaign for each Thursday and Monday evening. They began Thursday and will continue through Feb. 13 and will be held from 6 to 7:15 p.m. in the Fellowship Room of the First Methodist Church, Carbondale.

David Rendleman, M.D., and John Stotlar, instructor at University School, are the general cochairmen of the campaign.

Three ROTC Grads Get New Posts

Three graduates of the SIU Air Force ROTC program have been given new assignments.

Capt. Roland E. Meyer, a graduate of Southern in 1961, has entered the Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, Ala. Capt. Meyer, a member of the Delta Chi fraternity, will receive 14 weeks of instruction at the Air Force's professional school.

Jerry V. Marcinek, 1st Lt. and graduate of Southern in 1963, has entered the Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, Ala. Lt. Marcinek, a psychology major at Southern, will study military leadership, management and use of aerospace forces.

Michael L. Patton, 2nd Lt. who graduated from SIU in 1965, has been graduated from the training course at Shepard AFB, Tex., and will become a member of the Air Force Systems Command. Patton was named a distinguished military graduate of Southern's AFROTC program, and is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, business fraternity.

HEADED FOR GREENLAND--Members of an SIU troupe will leave Wednesday for a tour of northern military bases, where they will present the comedy, "Come Blow Your

Departure Scheduled for Wednesday

Players Hope to Warm U. S. Servicemen Stationed at Cold Allied Northern Bases

By Wanda Barras

Carrying the warm humor of Neil Simon's comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn," to the service men in the cold Northeast Command is the immediate mission of the Southern Players under the direction of Christian Moe, associate professor of theater.

The players and Moe will leave Wednesday for Greenland, Iceland, Labrador and Newfoundland.

Moe said one of the main obstacles of preparing the play for the tour was to create simple scenery and lighting

Professor Schilpp To Talk in Dakota

Paul Arthur Schilpp, professor of philosophy at SIU, will present the 1967 "Franklin Stark Lectures" at Dakota Wesleyan University in Mitchell, S.D.

Schilpp is the author of five books and editor and contributor to 27 more. He is the founder, editor and president of the "Library of Living Philosophers." He has taught and lectured at leading universities in Europe, Asia and America.

Schilpp will lecture Jan. 31 on "Existentialism: Freedom and Responsibility," and on "Existentialism to Depersonalization," Feb. 1.

equipment which would weigh not more than 500 pounds and fit into six footlockers. He said the use of aluminum pipe helped to solve this problem.

The pipes for the scenery were joined together into large squares and draped with cloth to simulate the walls, Moe explained. Peter Goetz, the lighting supervisor, created the lighting equipment out of the pipes which fit on top of the company's footlockers, Moe continued.

Since personal baggage has been limited to 65 pounds the problem of getting the costumes from place to place will be solved by each member wearing part of his costume while traveling, Moe said.

An unpleasant preparation for the tour was the taking of 12 immunizations by each of the company, Moe said.

In anticipation of the sub-zero temperatures, each member of the company has provided himself with a pair of thermal underwear, Moe added. Parkas and boots will be provided by the Northeast Command.

Moe said this play, with its theme of "There is a time to sow wild oats and a time to assume responsibility," is a good one for the military camps.

The Southern Players were appointed for the tour by a selection committee of the American Educational Theater Association and sponsored by the association and the USO.

Moe said the players will present the comedy between 30 and 40 times before they return on March 8.

Members of the cast are Z. J. Hymel as Alan Baker, Charlotte Owens as Peggy Evans, John Callahan as Buddy Baker, Peter Goetz as Mr. Baker, Judith Sink as Connie Dayton, Constance Brennen as Mrs. Baker and Marilyn Nix as a visitor.

Each member of the cast has learned not only his own part but other parts in the play in order to fill in if one player can not perform, Moe said.

Moyer's Inquest Set After Feb. 1

The coroner's inquest into the death of Martin E. Moyer, a sophomore from Decatur, will not be held until sometime after Feb. 1.

Jackson county Coroner Harry Flynn said Thursday that three other inquests have to be held before the inquest into the 20-year-old Moyer's death.

Moyer was killed at approximately 3 p.m. Thursday when a motorcycle he was riding struck a truck belonging to Prosperity Cleaners. The accident occurred at the intersection of Tower Road and Old Rt. 13 west of Carbondale.

Program's Future To Be Dealt With

SIU's study commission for intercollegiate athletics will mail out about 65,000 questionnaires Feb. 8 to sound out students, faculty and staff, alumni and the public on the future of University athletics.

Twenty-eight questions will make up the questionnaire which will cover the athletic program in general as well as individual sports.

Questions will be on the order of "Does basketball receive proper emphasis at SIU?"

Space will also be provided for comment.

The questionnaire will hopefully indicate a consensus as to whether the athletic program should be expanded or reduced, according to John W. Voigt, dean of the General Studies program and chairman of the commission.

The nine-member commission was established in early August, 1966, by President Delyte W. Morris.

Represented on it are alumni, students and faculty from both the Edwardsville and Carbondale campuses, and the public.

"The commission was charged with making a study of the development and direction intercollegiate athletics will take in the future. It will make recommendations to President Morris based heavily on the results of the questionnaire," Voigt said.

Morris will in turn relay the recommendations to the Board of Trustees.

Students, faculty, staff and alumni on both campuses will receive the questionnaire shortly after the Feb. 8 mailing date. About 5,000 forms

HERMAN HAAG

Haag Writes First Mexican Ag Book

Agriculture students in the Technological Institute of Monterrey, Mexico, for the first time have a Spanish language textbook on agricultural marketing in Mexico. The author is Herman M. Haag, professor of agricultural industries.

The book, "El Mercadeo de los Productos Agropecuarios" (The Marketing of Agricultural Products), has just been issued in mimeographed form as 298 pages of text, tables and graphs and is in use at the Institute. Haag spent seven months at the Monterrey Institute last year teaching agricultural marketing courses and advising graduate students on research programs during his year's sabbatical leave in Mexico.

Haag says the need for a native-tongue textbook based on agricultural marketing in Mexico was evident when he found Institute agricultural economics students struggling with English-language textbooks based on United States marketing.

Economy Healthy Despite War Costs

The growth of America's total output by 5.4 percent in 1966 (it was 8.5 percent if one uses inflated dollars) was sensational for a nation as rich and as highly developed as the United States. This is true even when one takes into account that some 40 percent of this was owed to increased military purchases and to the upping of business inventories.

When military purchases and inventories are left out, America's gross national product last year still rose by some $22,000,000,000 as figured in true or uninflated currency. This is clearly an immense yearly addition to any one nation's national wealth. Furthermore, not all of the military and inventory purchases can be written off as unconnected with the expansion of wealth.

Although America's current economic growth rate does not approach that of some of those lands which might be said to occupy second-rank positions among the advanced nations (Japan, for example), it is gratifying in an economy already so far advanced and so complex as that of the United States. It is evidence of the immense forward thrust and self-generating power which such an economy contains within itself.

Last year's real growth is also particularly heartening in view of the cost of the Vietnamese war. It would indicate that the national economy can support the war without major cuts in the rate at which the country has been meeting civilian needs. This is particularly so since the current Washington estimate is that military spending in 1967 will tend to level off rather than to rise as sharply as it did in the past twelvemonth. —Christian Science Monitor

Gymnasts Merit More Attendance

In the past few years SIU has been recognized as the gymnastics capital of the United States because of the outstanding performance of both men's and the women's teams.

In view of this, it is difficult to understand why there is not more spectator support. With a school as large as SIU and with the best gymnastics teams in the country, there would seem to be no excuse for not filling half of the Arena at least.

The gymnasts train long and hard to develop their outstanding skill and it is most disappointing for them to look out towards the crowd and see the Arena only a quarter full.

I was fortunate enough to have been on SIU's gymnastics team for two years and I know what a tremendous difference it can make to a competitor to perform before a large audience, particularly when that audience is on his side.

It always was extremely exciting to compete at Penn State where six to eight thousand spectators would attend a meet. The NCAA championship meet was held there last year and people were standing to watch the final night's competition.

Our record has proven that SIU has as outstanding team as does Penn State. The gymnastics season is now in full swing, and SIU will meet the best teams in the country here in our Arena in the early spring. As national champions SIU will be host to the NCAA gymnastics meet for the second time in the past three years.

Support your teams and treat yourself to an unusually entertaining experience. If you have never seen a gymnastics meet you will be amazed at the skill of the performers.

The rest of the home meets for the season are Feb. 3—University of Colorado, 7:30 p.m.; Feb. 18, Louisiana State University 2 p.m.; Feb. 25, Air Force Academy, 2 p.m.; March 3, Indiana State University, 7:30 p.m.

Letter to the Editor

California's Clark Kerr Fired Just Two Years Late

To the editor:

The most unfortunate aspect of the recent dismissal of Clark Kerr from the presidency of the University of California System is that it occurred two years later than it should have occurred.

An administrator in President Kerr's position who repeatedly capitulates to a mob of twentieth century cavemen who use physical force as a means for attaining irrational and contradictory objectives is hardly demonstrating an ability to administer. In fact, he insures that coercion and physical force will be the methods used to obtain future demands. This is exactly what happened at Berkeley.

The moral cowardice exhibited by ex-President Kerr and other members of his administration is not surprising, considering that "liberals" have always hailed "compromise and negotiation" as a universal laxative suitable for application to any problem, and labeled men who exhibit a tendency to stand on principle as "authoritarian" or "extremist." Offering a holdup man the contents of your wallet will hardly cause him to temporize his demands.

It must be emphasized that the Free Speech Movement was indeed a group of holdup men. Advocating the right to use university property for unapproved activity and the right to an unrestricted freedom of speech on campus, the "rebel" attempted to secure their demands by violating the rights of others. Forcible occupation of university property, mob violence, assaults on the police, were all tactics which were used by the FSM.

The administration of a state university is the agent of the voters and taxpayers of that state. It acts to set the rules and terms of conduct in the university. If disagreement over such rules and terms as are set arises, then the dissenters have a perfect right to take their case to the administration or to the owners, who are the voters and taxpayers in the case of a public institution. They do not have the right to seize any handy club and substitute muscular strength for reason and argument.

Much worse than the attempts of SIU faculty members to label Kerr's ouster as a blow to "academic freedom" by "ignorant political bigots" was the statement by Professor E. Claude Coleman. To view a disintegration in law and order, led by students who are the living embodiment of modern philosophy, as amusing or "excruciatingly funny" represents the utmost in superficial appraisal. "None of it is very important," says Dr. Coleman, forgetting the riots at SIU last Spring. "This too shall pass away," says Dr. Coleman, forgetting that SIU students have formed a "Free School" in desperation from not learning how to use their minds. (Whether or not a triple dose of the same poison will cure them is another question.)

I would suggest that any thinking person who is interested in the situation at Berkeley and its implications should read "The Cashing-In: The Student 'Rebellion'" by Ayn Rand, (July, August, September issues of The Objectivist Newsletter, 1965.)

Free Speech Pushes Limits Of Good Taste

In how many countries on earth can a citizen libel the chief of state, calling him a murderer in print and on the stage, and get away with it?

Certainly not in any totalitarian state. But in the United States, apparently it can be done with impunity and to the applause of the "liberal" front.

In one of the most shameless smears ever given public utterance, Mrs. Barbara Garson, a left-winger who calls herself a "libertarian Socialist," has authored a play, "MacBird!" portraying President Lyndon B. Johnson as (a) plotting President Kennedy's assassination; (b) framing an innocent man for the murder; (c) arranging his killing two days later, and (d) ordering a whitewash report by the Chief Justice.

"MacBird!" a flimsy "satire" only 56 pages long, published in leaflet form by the author and her husband, clumsily parodies Shakespeare's "Macbeth" in plot and characterization. Besides being an incredibly vicious attack on the President of the United States and his wife, its language is that of the gutter.

Mrs. Garson, a 25-year-old alumna of the University of California at Berkeley, was a leader in the unsavory "Free Speech" movement on that campus.

Liberal "intellectual" reviewers across the country have hailed this poem of hate with predictable enthusiasm as "clever satire." Worst of all, the author of "MacBird!" has been given a $5000 grant by the Yale Drama School, and the off-color, off-Broadway production is being foisted on the public with the aid of $30,000 put up by backers. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat

200 Years Through the Looking Glass

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

It was 200 years ago this week when Betty (or was it Lizzy, Beth or Bess?) Ash went over the hill.

The ad in The South Carolina Gazette for the third week of January, 1767, was blunt:

"Ran away from the Brick Barracks, an indentured Irish servant, Elizabeth Ash, age about 17, short, lusty, ruddy-faced and remarkably slutish. Ten pounds reward."

A few days ago in the charming capital city, Columbia, I was killing a free hour in the Archives Building of the State of South Carolina. The reading room was filled with busy, elderly ladies pawing through genealogy records with enthusiasm and, perhaps, a little apprehension.

And at a microfilm recorder in a darkened alcove I scanned the state's first newspaper and listened to the dusty chatter of those whose epitaphs are generally unreadable in the live oak-shaded graveyards.

Elizabeth Ash! It would be interesting to know more about Charleston's Brick Barracks to which the poor little Irish girl had been consigned as a slavey. Maybe she was, as the ad indicated, a born tramp. But maybe she ran away because she wasn't.

Ten pounds was a hefty reward in those days. But it would have been simple enough to escape to the up-country, change her name slightly, and find some coonskin-hatted widower, harassed by half a dozen turbulent children. She could have become the ancestor of generals, senators and social lions. I thought of the ladies searching the plantation records. Perhaps one will hurry home and announce:

"We are from one of the oldest families, dear. Your great-great-great grandfather married Elizabeth Ashley up in the Waxhaw settlement in 1767. I couldn't find any more about her, but undoubtedly she was one of the Ashley's of Charleston. They named the river after them."

The South Carolina Gazette was a lousy newspaper. It was filled with dull articles about how to raise indigo and preserve pork. It printed long quarrelsome letters from "Agricola" and "Patrioticus" and "Populi." It carried precious little South Carolina news, for the editor probably figured that by the time he heard it everyone else had, too.

So its columns were largely devoted to items lifted without credit from distant and stale journals, to scuttlebutt, rumors and garrulous garblings by visiting ship captains.

There was an amazing preoccupation with nobility. London and Paris letters were concerned with obsequious petitions to kings and the goings and comings of counts and duchesses.

If the editors of 1767 had had the clear light of two centuries of hindsight, what stories would they have covered?

They might have sent reporters to interview a non-conformist English preacher, one Joseph Priestley, who that year had accepted a parish at Mill Hill near Leeds. Priestley's house was next door to a brewery and he became fascinated by the gas bubbling from the vats. He soon discovered that by pouring acid on chalk he could make the same gas (carbon dioxide) and this led him to the isolation of oxygen. In 1767 alchemy was dying and chemistry was about to be born.

A crafty, deceptively simple-looking agent of Pennsylvania, soon to be hired also by Georgia, New Jersey and Massachusetts, was lobbying against the stamp tax in the British Parliament. Benjamin Franklin would have been delighted to have a fellow journalist call on him.

A Virginia planter up at Alexandria was already famous as a host. But about this time guests like James Mason and Patrick Henry began to appear more frequently, and the conversation over the wine was deeper. An alert reporter might have concluded that something was stirring at Mount Vernon.

Back in England, James Hargreaves' spinning jenny was three years old, and Richard Arkwright was perfecting the water frame. The cheap cloth would vastly expand the market for cotton. Slavery in 1767 was confined chiefly to coastal southern plantations, with all prospects of dying a natural death. But inventions 3,000 miles away were about to impel the expansion of the slave system and lead the South to tragedy.

Instead, what news did the Gazette editor find?

A noble lord was wagering that he could ride 183 miles from London to Chester in 14 hours. Four members of a French family fell down the same well. Catherine of Russia was said to have 800 personal servants.

It is humbling for a modern American editor to read the old Gazette. Our product is vastly superior. The teletypes clatter with fresh news from 130 nations. We know something of the art of depth-reporting and forecast. But how many of the big stories are still born unattended?

If we could only spin the microfilms of the newspapers of 2167, we'd make a lot more sense.

European Commission

Settles Citizen Suits

Against Government

By Robert M. Hutchins

If an American believes he has a grievance against his government, and the American courts rule against him, there is nothing he can do about it.

Not so with the citizens of the 15 nations which are members of the Council of Europe. Since 1950 they have been able to appeal to the European Commission on Human Rights and the court associated with it.

The most recent case to come before the court is that of a German who was detained without a trial for four years while the German Federal Republic investigated his connection with a large and complicated embezzlement.

He was finally tried, convicted and sentenced to six and a half years in the penitentiary.

He brought his case to the European Commission on Human Rights, relying on the provision of the convention signed by his government that says the accused must be tried in a reasonable time or must be released during the investigation.

The West German government claims the case was so involved as to require four years of inquiry—checks for millions of marks went through 56 banks—and that the prisoner prolonged the investigation himself by making 177 motions pending trial.

The commission treads softly, for it wants to retain the confidence of the nations that have accepted its jurisdiction. It receives 300 complaints a year and acts on only six of them. It first tries to effect a friendly settlement. In order not to embarrass the government concerned it keeps all early discussions private. It conducts an elaborate investigation of its own.

In the case of the accused German embezzler the commission put three separate panels to work. When their reports came in, and all negotiations with the West-German government failed, the commission formally accused that government of violating the European convention on human rights.

The members of the Council of Europe do not have to sign that convention or submit to the jurisdiction of the commission and its court. They may if they choose consent to be investigated or sued in only one case or for a year or a period of years. It is significant that no government that has once agreed to this supranational supervision has ever declined to renew its agreement at the end of the specified period.

The member nations retain all the attributes of sovereignty, but voluntarily surrender one of them, the right to treat their citizens as they please. There is every sign that this attribute of sovereignty will eventually disappear.

Although the United States has signed the Declaration of Human Rights proposed by the United Nations, it has agreed to nothing that will make that noble statement really effective.

The declaration, like the European convention, proclaims that no nation may impose racial or other barriers to marriage. If the Supreme Court of the United States upholds the convictions for miscegenation that are coming before it, Americans will be less free than Europeans.

High Tourist Rates Bog Ninth Crusade

By Arthur Hoppe
(San Francisco Chronicle)

Miami Beach

The glorious, historic Ninth Crusade, which seeks to save Christendom from the infidel, has been, I'm sorry to say, temporarily postponed.

It isn't for lack of enthusiasm. After all, it's been close to 700 years since we've had a decently organized crusade. Nor is it for lack of infidels, nor with that infidel Fidel Castro so handy.

No, the Ninth Crusade has come a cropper on the problem that so plagued Christendom's previous eight crusades—high tourist rates.

I quickly became aware of the problem when reached Miami Beach to check on its desirability as a staging area.

Looking for a humble room I stopped at the Eden Roc hotel, mainly because I was attracted by the three lovely statues out front—the Winged Victory of Samothrace and what I took to be Diana or Apollo.

"Is that Diana or Apollo?" I asked the doorman.

"Darned if I know," he said.

"Are they the originals?"

"I don't think so," he said. "But you could ask the desk clerk."

The desk clerk said he was certain they weren't. Well, what the heck, I said, I'd take a room anyway—just a single room, but overlooking the ocean so I could watch for invaders and things.

He said he had a nice one for $64. I said I couldn't stay a week. He said that was the rate per day, but if it was too much he had a room in the back for only $41.

I said I'd have a drink and think it over. So I had a drink ($1.55) in Harry's American bar which was filled with elderly gentlemen and buxom young ladies. It was good to see fathers having so much fun with their daughters.

I decided to check the hotel next door, which turned out to be the Fountainbleu, pronounced fountain blue, but their rates were similar. I thought maybe we crusaders could just pitch out tents on the beach, but you can't use the beach unless you're staying in the hotel. Of course, we could buy a little stretch of beach for $5000, but it would only be a foot wide.

Well, I finally found a $10 motel room six miles inland for which I had to pay only $20.

I've discovered a little-out-of-the-way restaurant where you can get cracked crab for $5. (What comes with it?) I asked the waiter. "The plate," he said.

And I've found a fellow who will rent a fishing boat suitable for transporting six crusaders for only $50. For the first four hours.

So you can see why the glorious, historic Ninth Crusade has to be temporarily postponed. At least until March 1 when the tourist season ends.

You also get a deeper understanding of how our predecessors in the earlier crusades felt when they got to Venice and were hijacked for transportation and provisions by the locals. It's no wonder they went off angrily to sack Constantinople and such places.

Personally, I think I'll go to Washington and then sack Fort Knox. If I'm successful I plan to come back here and stay a whole week.

Athletic Query Mailing Planned

will be mailed to a sample of the public in both areas. The form itself will be of the machine-tabulated type. It will be mailed with a stamped, self-addressed envelope enclosed.

"Questionnaires will be mailed to students at their campus addresses. Because of movings, we will not be able to reach all of them," Voigt said.

"It is all convenient and simple; we are looking for a substantial return," he said.

Voigt urged that the questionnaires be returned by Feb. 20.

"We hope to have the results tabulated by March or April," he said.

Kathleen M. Vaughn, a former student of English at SIU, recently graduated from a VISTA training program at the University of Maryland.

Miss Vaughn will spend one year working with the Housing Authority of Baltimore, Md.

She interrupted her studies at SIU to join VISTA. During the six-week training program, she completed classroom studies and gained field experience by working near the training site on a project similar to the one to which she has now been assigned.

College Entrance Demands Getting Stricter; Emphasis on High School Rank Increases

Increasing emphasis on high school class ranking is a major trend in college admissions policies throughout the nation, according to an SIU educator.

Writing in the current edition of the Association of College Admissions Counselors Journal, Admissions Director Leslie Chamberlin says that high school graduation rank requirements are gradually moving upward.

At SIU, new students must have been graduated in the upper half of their high school class to be admitted in the fall term. Those in the upper two thirds can register in the winter and others may enter in the spring and summer, on probation.

Chamberlin also says "more and more colleges are giving greater attention to personal qualities of candidates in the admissions process." Admissions officers want information on character traits, emotional stability, attitudes and leadership qualities.

Other trends noted by Chamberlin:

--Class rank must be reinforced by national test scores;

--Admissions requirements are higher for out-of-state students;

--More schools are requiring specific patterns of high school coursework as prerequisites.

Chamberlin says that in general, college admissions policies are becoming more restrictive, with national test scores playing a greater part in the admissions decision.

Mc Namarara Says Arms Race Costly

WASHINGTON, (AP) - Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Thursday night the Soviet antimissile deployment has compelled billion-dollar improvements in U.S. missile forces. He warned a further push in the arms race by the Soviets would be "dangerous and expensive."

McNamara spelled out for Congress his case against building an antimissile defense at this time, but indicated one might be desirable later for protection of U.S. landbased missiles.

President Johnson has said he is withholding a decision to build a costly antimissile system, which would be designed to fend off oncoming enemy warheads, pending talks with the Soviet Union on possible arms limitation.

McNamara's annual military posture report, just made public, laid out heretofore secret figures on relative Soviet - American missile strength, and emphasized that the United States will rely on offensive weapons, not defensive, to prevent nuclear war.

"It is our ability to destroy an attacker as a viable 20th century nation that provides the deterrent, not our ability to partially limit damage to ourselves," he said.

The Soviets should be aware, he said, that "all we would accomplish by deploying antiballistic missile systems against one another would be to greatly increase our respective defense expenditures without any gain in real security for either side."

McNamara's remarks came in a 210 page censored version of his voluminous report, presented before the Senate Armed Services Committee sub-committee.

The document, possibly one of the most significant government papers in years, was cleared by the State Department with full knowledge it will be carefully studied by the Soviet Union.

McNamara envisioned any U.S. antimissile defense as mainly a factor of safety in helping the nation preserve its "assured destruction" capability over any enemy.

Besides repeating the top-level decision to deploy the new multiple-warhead, submarine-launched Poseidon and the 6,000-mile Minuteman 3 as countermeasures, McNamara said the United States has started a "very comprehensive" study of a possible new missile program. He mentioned the possibility of a new Poseidon-launching submarine but did not elaborate.

Sources said McNamara was referring to no single type of missile but of a new concept.

McNamara asserted that any missile defense might be obsolescent by the time it was completed.

If the United States had bought the $14-billion Nike-Zeus system proposed by the Army in 1959, he said, "most of it would have had to be before it became operational, by the new missiles and radars of the Nike X."

By the same token, he said, forthcoming technological developments "may make obsolete or drastically degrade the Mike X system as presently envisioned."

The Pentagon chief said the United States could spend up to $40 billion in 10 years on a missile defense and still suffer millions of deaths if a nuclear attacker chose to saturate selected targets with many warheads. As a hedge against a possible Soviet refusal to halt anti-missile work, the administration has included $375 million in the fiscal 1968 budget for production of Nike X antimissiles and radar components. In addition, $421 million has been earmarked to continue advanced development of the system. Counting funds left over from last year, the United States could spend nearly a billion dollars on an antimissile system in fiscal 1968 - and the matter is certain to get heated congressional study.

U.S. Education Official Vows Fight Against Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harold Howe II, U.S. commissioner of education, said Thursday he is determined to press ahead against discriminatory school practices in the North but doubts that the effort this year will involve cutting off federal funds.

Howe said the Office of Education will concentrate on aiding Northern cities in identifying the problems and will "provide them funds to find solutions."

But if these voluntary efforts fail, he emphasized in an interview, "we would have the obligation to bring formal processes to bear."

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits federal aid to school districts which practice tice discrimination, and provides for formal hearings on such charges.

Howe said that the education office is hampered by "the lack of a broad policy approach and established legal basis" for proceeding against de facto segregation.

He cited the recent federal investigation of the Chicago school system which found indications of discrimination in teacher and pupil assignment as well as in recruitment and selection for apprenticeship programs.

Dirksen Stands Ground on Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Thursday both the State Department and the Soviet Union had sought to lobby him in connection with his views on the U.S.—Soviet consular treaty.

But Dirksen told newsmen these efforts "have not changed my views on the treaty, although these views are not yet finalized."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee awaited a reply to its formal invitation, sent through Acting Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, asking that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover testify before it on the pending treaty.

Dirksen said on Monday that he could not support the treaty in its present form, but might be able to do so if some changes were made.

After this conference, the State Department sent up a representative to talk to him about the high-propriety administration proposal, he said.

Also he revealed a "young man from the Soviet Embassy" asked for and received an appointment with him late Wednesday.

Dirksen said he used some blunt language in talking to the Russian so that this interview did not get far. He declined to give the man's name.

"His come-on was 'Yours is a big name in Moscow,'" Dirksen said.

"But I told him I only wanted to be a big name here and preferably in the State of Illinois."

"Then he started talking about my State of the Union speech and said, 'You don't trust us, do you?'"

"I told him that the answer in one word was, 'No.'"

"I said to him, 'You're always talking about cooperation, but what you want to do is hit someone on the head with a bat and then say: 'Let's cooperate.'"

"So I suppose he didn't take a very good report back to his ambassador."

Hoffa Tells Court FBI 'Bugged' Jury

WASHINGTON, (AP) — James R. Hoffa told the Supreme Court Thursday a trained FBI wiretapper "bugged" the rooms of jurors who convicted him, of jury tampering.

In a new bid to stay out of jail, the Teamsters Union president submitted 57 pages of affidavits, including one from the alleged wiretapper.

Hoffa asked reconsideration of the high court's Dec. 12 decision that upheld his 1964 jury tampering conviction and eight-year prison sentence.

"Business is for the birds!"

Who says so?

Lots of people do. Some right on your campus. And for rationale, they point an accusing finger at business and say it lacks "social commitment."

Social commitment? We wish they could visit our Kearny, N. J. plant, where we make cable and apparatus for your Bell telephone company. But we have time for other thoughts, other talents.

Like the situation in nearby Newark.

With civic and business leaders, we began buzzing with ideas. "Let's teach higher skills to some of the un-employed and under-employed. Say, machine shop practice. They could qualify for jobs that are going begging — and help themselves as well."

We lent our tool-and-die shop, evenings. We found volunteer instructors. A community group screened applicants. Another supplied hand tools. The Boys Club donated classroom facilities. Another company sent more instructors.

Some 70 trainees enrolled. Their incentive? Self-improvement. Results to date? New people at better jobs. Happier.

And this is only one of dozens of social-minded projects at Western Electric plants across the country, where our first job is making communications equipment for the Bell System.

So, you don't give up ideals when you graduate. If anything, at a company like, say, Western Electric, you add to them. And it's not just a theory. It's practice. Satisfying. Come on and find out. And watch a feathered cliché fly out the window.

Chicago Cubs Cite Big Money Loss

CHICAGO (AP) — The last-place Chicago Cubs have reported more than a $1 million loss from "direct baseball operation" last season, but noted a late 1966 jelling of Manager Leo Durocher's youth movement.

Actually, the club's overall deficit was $335,107, with revenue of $939,693 from radio-TV and Wrigley Field rental to the Chicago Bears substantially reducing the $1,274,800 loss listed for baseball operation.

The annual financial statement reported home Cub attendance as 635,891, a drop of 5,740 from 1965. Total receipts from baseball were $1,719,025, including $1,414,406 for home and road receipts and $304,619 from concessions.

Listed as "direct" baseball operation expense, covering the parent club, six minor league teams and a club in the Arizona Winter League, was an outlay of $2,993,825.

Owner Faces New Year With Blueblood Stock

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm horses had an off year in 1966 but the new year might be better.

The stable has in its barn at Hialeah 22 horses sired by leading stallions. Included are four by Swaps, three by Sailor and Olympia, two by Summer Tan and Hail To Reason and one by Bold Ruler, Nashua, Native Dancer, Never Bend, Princequillo, Ribot and Sir Gaylord.

time for the Saluki grapplers. While running their dual meet record to 8-1 following victorious appearances at the Miami (Ohio) quadrangular, the Southwest Missouri State quadrangular, the Central Missouri State triangular and the dual meet with Moorhead State, the Salukis gathered many small, but irritating, injuries.

Larry Baron, Saluki 130-pounder, suffered a broken hand in the Southwest Missouri quadrangular and is lost for the Salukis for an estimated six weeks.

Keith Wadell has a bad knee and has been unable to wrestle at the 137-pound class. The replacements for Baron and Wadell, Dan Ross and Dean Ohi, have also had minor injuries but have been able to compete.

Wilkinson does have several bright spots. They include the work of Sinclair Brown, Eli Carr and Tony Turek, who were't even figured in the Saluki future at the start of the season. All have proved to be talented back up men.

Another boost has been the work of Joe Domko at the 167-pound division. Domko posted only a 5-5 record last year but had to fight off injuries week after week. He has stayed away from the injury jinx this season and his record reads 18-1-1.

Rich Selover has all but eliminated Buck Deadrich from the heavyweight position. Selover has a record of 13-3 on the season and improves with every meet. Deadrich, the incumbent heavyweight at the start of the season, has been trying to oust Al Bulow from the 191-pound position but has met strong opposition. Bulow has a 14-4 record.

Three other Saluki matmen have won 10 or more matches this season. They are Terry Magoon, 13-5; Dave Pfört, 13-5; and Al Lipper, 10-2.

After this weekend and the invitational, the Salukis have dual meets with Oklahoma State, Oklahoma and Iowa State, the top three teams in the Big Eight last year. In addition, Oklahoma State is the defending NCAA champion and Oklahoma took third in the NCAA.

Swimmers to Face Hoosier Team

Southern swimmers will face Indiana University Saturday in Bloomington, Ind. Hoosier swimming teams always manage to be in the top ten in the NCAA finals and have sent swimmers all over the world competing for the United States Olympic team.

The Saluki swim team will carry a current dual meet record of 1-2 into the contest.

The Salukis have swam against this swimming power eight times before. Southern has yet to beat the Indiana team. Last season the Salukis went undefeated in dual meets except for one loss—administered by the Hoosiers, 70-25.

The average victory point spread for the Hoosiers over the Salukis has been 31.7 points.

This year's Indiana team has three bonafide Olympic gold medal winners. Ken Sitzberger was the Olympic gold medal winner in diving. Kevin Barry was the 200-yard butterfly medalist and Bob Windle was the 1500-meter freestyle champion.

In addition, the Hoosier team boasts the highest individual point man in the NCAA championships last year. Chuck Hickox won the individual championships in the 200-yard backstroke and the individual medley.

"We'll go pretty much with what we have. We will try to race with them in several events but we will look for performance and not for the score," said Saluki Coach Ray Essick.

Essick also pointed out that if you lay the Indiana lineup next to the Salukis', the Hoosiers just have too much talent and depth. He also said that their diving program is the finest in the country.

"With Sitzberger and Dick Gilbert they have depth in diving as well as in the swimming events," added Essick.

Chicago Snow Storm Detours UCLA Arrival for Weekend

CHICAGO AP—Top-ranked UCLA's basketball team, due to make a two-night stand at the Chicago Stadium Friday and Saturday, was detoured by this city's worst snowstorm of the winter to a Pittsburgh landing Thursday.

It was reported that O'Hare International Airport would be closed until early evening. Trans World Airlines said: The UCLA squad, due in Chicago at 3:30 p.m., EST, would be flown here from Pittsburgh Friday morning.

Coach Johnny Wooden's Lew Alcinder—paced UCLA's are making their longest road trip of the season, facing Illinois in a Stadium double-header Friday night and Chicago Loyola on a triple header program Saturday night.

In Friday night's finale, defending NIT champion Brigham Young meets Loyola. Saturday night's triple header also includes a Brigham Young opener against NCAA champion Texas Western and an Illinois-Notre Dame wind-up.

Both nights are expected to produce sellout crowds of 18,000, lured mainly by 7-foot 1 Alcinder, the nation's top collegiate scorer as a phenomenal sophomore.

Alcinder, despite frequent parttime performances, has averaged 29.9 points in pacing UCLA to its perfect skein of 14 victories.

Illinois takes an 8-4 record against the UCLA's whom Illini Coach Harry Combes said "would be great even without Alcinder."

Salukis to Play Abilene Christian

By Tom Wood

The Salukis are at home tonight to face Abilene Christian College of Abilene, Tex., after a week of inactivity. Southern's last contest was the 77-55 rout of Wichita State Saturday night.

Tonight's game is the first meeting ever between the two schools. The Wildcats bring a 7-7 record to the Arena in hopes of inflicting defeat number three on the Salukis, who have won 11 games so far.

The Wildcats are also coming out of hibernation, having spent the last week with midterm exams. They are riding a two game losing streak, falling to Hardin-Simmons 69-65 and Trinity 61-55 prior to midterms.

Abilene plays a deliberate offense and their 52 per cent from the field have accounted for an average of 69.8 points a game. They have held opponents to 68.4.

Abilene center David Wray is averaging 22.9 and is among the nation's small college leaders with a field percentage of 65. Wray is 6-8 and as a senior is in his first season as a Wildcat starter. He has grabbed 8.1 rebounds a game.

The only returning starters from last year's squad are guards John Ray Godfrey and Larry Adams, both juniors. Godfrey is the second most prolific scorer on the squad with a 14.9 average. Adams, who has been a starter for three years, is the best defensive performer on the team and is considered the team's floor general on offense.

Forwards are Wendell Stewart, 6-7, who is the leading rebounder and is scoring 11.7 points a game, and Ronnie Nicholas, a 6-3 junior college transfer, who is averaging 10.1 points.

Southern and Abilene have played one team in common this year, Texas Western. The Salukis dropped the Miners 59-54 in El Paso's Sun Carnival after Christmas and Abilene lost to Texas Western 85-46 their second game of the year. The Wildcats have also lost to New Mexico, by nine points, Howard Payne, Angelo State and Arkansas State.

They have defeated Angelo State, McMurry twice, Hardin-Simmons, Howard Payne, West Texas State and Lamar Tech.

Tonight's game is the first in a three game road trip for Abilene, which takes them to Northern Illinois and back to West Texas State.

The Salukis will take a six game winning streak into the contest. They face Steubenville Saturday night in the Arena, before embarking on a road trip next weekend which will take them to Chattanooga and Centenary, which is located in Shreveport, La.

Southern is off to the best start ever under Coach Jack Hartman, who is in his fifth year at Carbondale. Hartman could register win number 90 at SIU with a victory tonight.

Game time is 8:05. The varsity game will be preceded by a freshman game against University of Tennessee (Martin Branch) at 5:45 p.m.

Bears Sign Pickens

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Eight champion Nebraska's Bob Pickens, 258-pound offensive tackle, was signed Thursday by the Chicago Bears who made him a No. 3 "red shirt" choice in last year's National Football League player draft.

Owner-coach George Halas proudly unveiled Pickens, No. 2 future draft pick last year by the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League, at a press reception.

Pickens, from Evanston, Ill., played one season at the University of Wisconsin before transferring to Nebraska.

ABILENE STAR—Center David Wray is the leading scorer for Abilene Christian College, which faces Southern tonight in the Arena. Wray is averaging better than 22 points a game and is hitting on 65 per cent of his shots this year.

SIU Gymnasts Will Seek 54th Dual Meet Victory

By Bill Kindt

Having slipped past Michigan State last Friday night in the Arena, the Saluki gymnastics team will have a chance to take things a little easier.

Coach Bill Meade will have his gymnasts in Mankato, Minn., today to perform in a dual meet with Mankato State. The Mankato team isn't as highly regarded as the Spartans, and the Salukis should have no problem in registering their 54th dual meet victory in a row.

Meade is hoping that Rick Tucker will be available to the Salukis in full form for tonight's meet. Tucker has been sidelined the last two weeks with a dislocated elbow.

Tucker is the regular all-around man for the Salukis and while Fred Dennis, his replacement, has done well, the Salukis still miss Tucker. With Tucker back as the all-around man, Dennis would be able to concentrate on his two best events—the still rings and the high bar.

The continued improvement of Dale Hardt in the trampoline is also anticipated. Hardt, one of the better trampoline men in the nation at the start of the year, suffered a broken thumb two weeks ago and his scores have dipped. He still scores around 9.25, which is good, but not up to his average of 9.45.

Joe Polizzano has been impressive as a ring performer. Polizzano scored a 9.05 against Iowa State two weeks ago and followed that up with a 9.40 against the Spartans.

Paul Mayer has also been giving the Salukis some great many points in the long horse vault event and in the floor exercise.

The next home appearance for the gymnastics team will be Feb. 3 when the Salukis will take on the University of Colorado.
