Reds Demand Apology for Pueblo

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Korea responded to a U.S. call for immediate release of the USS Pueblo and its crew by demanding an American apology and severe punishment for those it said committed criminal acts against North Korea.

This was shown in a transcript released by the State Department Thursday of the exchange between U.S. and North Korean representatives at Panmunjom Wednesday in the wake of the Red seizure of the Navy intelligence vessel.

The North Korean demand followed by several hours a directive from President Johnson ordering

No SIU Men Called

Apparently no SIU students are being affected by the call-up of air force and naval reservists announced Thursday by President Lyndon Johnson.

Telephone calls to various living areas and other efforts by the Egyptian revealed no one who has been called up.

Col. Edward Murphy of the ROTC division at SIU said the reserve call-up will in no way affect his division.

to active duty more than 14,700
Air National Guardsmen, Air Force

reservists and Navy air reservists.
Press officer Robert J. Mc-

Closkey said a general reading of the invective-laden North Korean reply indicates the Reds "rejected the U.S. presentation."

No further meeting of the military armistice commission at Panmunjom on the Pueblo issue has been scheduled so far, the State Department spokesman added.

The U.S. representative at the truce commission meeting was Rear Adm. John V. Smith, senior officer of the U.N. Command. North Korea's chief delegate was Maj. Gen. Park Choong-Kook.

Lenzi Asks Justification

'Interest' Charge Restated

Ray Lenzi, student body president, has asserted that housing restrictions planned for next fall are unnecessary and has asked the administration publicly to justify them.

Speaking before the Student Senate Wednesday, Lenzi said that "The powers that be have hurled another lightning bolt from Mt. Olympus at the students."

"The only reason I can think of to restrict underclassmen to a certain type of dormitory is that someone in the administration must have an interest in this type of housing and by creating an artificial supply of students will guarantee full occupancy for his personal gain," Lenzi said.

Lenzi estimated that if all underclassmen were required to live in conventional housing, or dormitories, there would be a shortage of some 2,000 beds. Therefore, he said, new restrictions are unrealistic.

He also said he believes that University housing will be filled easily, because most freshmen will prefer to live there.

Wilbur Moulton, dean of students, said his office is currently making "a precise analysis" of the situation. He said the figures underestimate he has seen to date have "too many uncertainties" to be "adequate for use in decision-making."

Moulton declined to comment on Lenzi's charges that administrators have interests which influence their policy making decisions.

John Rendleman, vice president for business affairs, also declined to comment on Lenzi's statements.

Problems Solved Through Change, Reverend Coffin

By George M. Killenberg

Civil rights activist and Vietnam war critic Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr. told a responsive Convocation audience Thursday that mankind must "actively will change" if the problems facing the world are to be solved.

Punctuating his remarks with chopping hand gestures, the outspoken minister told the near capacity crowd at Shryock Auditorium that there could be peace and brotherhood throughout the world only if enough people broke with the shackles of the past and accepted the "inevitable" changes which are to come.

The Rev. Coffin, who was one of seven "Freedom Riders" arrested in Montgomery, Ala. in 1961, recently attracted national headlines when he and pediatrician-turned-war protester Dr. Benjamin Spock were indicted for allegedly abetting violation of the draft law.

In yesterday's address, which was part of Religion in Life Week, Rev. Coffin sidestepped the draft question and stuck close to the religious week theme of a "time for changing." But outside the auditorium, members of the Southern Illinois Peace Committee paraded with homemade anti-draft placards.

Rev. Coffin, who has served as chaplain of the Church of Christ at Yale University for 10 years, did stray from his religious discussion long enough to touch upon some practical applications of his appeal for "change," including the Vietnam war.

"Right now we're betraying our ideals by being in Vietnam," Coffin told his audience, which responded with the heartiest applause of the whole talk.

Speaking in rapid bursts Coffin also called for the National Council of Churches and other religious groups to throw their support behind the United Nations.

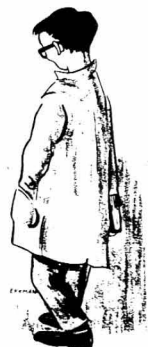

"I may not fight for other things, but I'll fight for the U.N.," Sloan said, explaining that he believes that a strengthened U.N. can prevent war and promote world peace.

Coffin hit upon other current subjects, including Dick Gregory, whom the minister described as a prophet, and the Pueblo, the U.S. intelligence ship which was captured by North Korea this week.

"I hope we're not so mindlessly militant that we'd go to war over one intelligence ship," Coffin said, but if we do, he feels it will be because of unsound ideological differences.

"You know," he said, "we have much more in common than we do in conflict."

Reserve Book Fines Doubled To Provide Greater Access

Fines for overdue reserve books will be increased Monday to 50 cents for the first hour and 25 cents for each additional hour, according to Robert Keel, circulation librarian.

The overdue rate has been increased in the hope that books will not be checked out for such long periods so that more persons will have access to reserve readings when books are in demand.

Rates previously were 25 cents for the first hour and 15 cents for each additional hour.

Review Board Considered

A review board for student disciplinary cases is being studied by the Student Senate. Members of the Senate internal affairs committee are to meet soon with Ralph W. Ruffner, vice president for student affairs.

Meeting Delayed Board Seeks Aid

A meeting between Unity Point school officials and SIU administrators has been postponed until the end of the month. The meeting was to discuss effects on enrollment of the opening of new SIU family housing quarters at Reservoir Road and McLafferty Lane. The school board is seeking more state aid to cope with the anticipated enrollment boost.

The board, as proposed, would be made up of four faculty members, one graduate student, and four undergraduates.

A professor would be chairman, and there would be an associate professor, an assistant professor, a faculty member at large, the graduate student, a senior, a junior, a sophomore and a freshman.

The board would advise Ruffner on cases appealed from the Dean of Students. The board's involvement could be requested by Ruffner, the dean, or the student.

The board also could act on requests made through the Dean of Students for changes in or additions to rules on student non-academic conduct.

Richard Karr, student body vice president and a supporter of the proposal, believes the latter duties of the board dealing with rules could give the students a voice in codifying regulations affecting them.

Taxis Should Post Parcel Rates

The Carbondale taxicab companies appear to have a sound basis for charging additional rates to passengers with a great amount of bags, luggage or packages.

It is only common sense that if one person fills up a taxi with all his belongings, there will be no room for someone else to ride, and subsequently no room for more fares.

But they should stipulate in advance what amounts will be charged on each item. It is unfair for the taxi companies to allow the drivers arbitrarily to determine how much an individual passenger should pay for his parcels.

Specific rates listing the charges which are assessed on parcels should be posted in each taxi along with the zone rates and map of the city.

Although there is no city ordinance requiring that the parcel rates be posted, the taxicab companies would find by posting them that a greater deal of inconsistencies in fare charges would be resolved.

Since taxicabs deal in a public service, it would be wise for them to allow the community they serve to know the prices of the services they are rendering.

It would also be wise for the city council committee, which is set up to evaluate the taxicabs' plea for an increase in fares, to require that parcel rates be included in the present city ordinance.

A clear cut rate system on parcels as has been laid down for passenger zone fares would alleviate much of the grumbling among riders concerning the taxicab service in Carbondale.

It's Time To Produce

Student Body President Ray Lenzi has at least implied that current and proposed student housing policies are linked to vested interests held by SIU administrators.

In fact, Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton has said that the University is planning next year's housing regulations to help fill off-campus as well as on-campus dormitories. Some off-campus dorms have been conspicuously short of residents.

This planned policy, not yet approved, might have some moral justification, because SIU at one time encouraged such dorm development to fill a void created by too little available housing.

Whether this is enough reason to impose new restrictions on students is open to question. The more pressing issue raised by Lenzi is: Are there more devious reasons?

The allegations Lenzi has made are extremely serious. He should have some evidence to back up his statement. If such evidence exists, it should be given to the proper authorities for an immediate investigation.

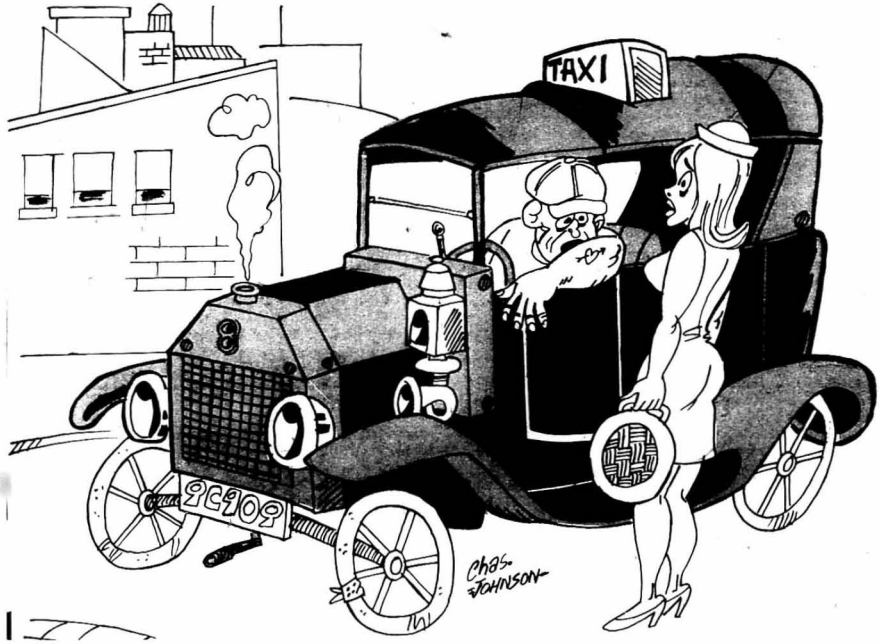

If however, Lenzi made the statements on the basis of suspicion only, he made a grave mistake. As a student official, he has a clear responsibility to be extremely careful of what he says. At the same time, he must refrain from off-the-cuff or poorly thought out comments.

Students—and the administration—deserve to know exactly what moved him to speak. His credibility and effectiveness as a student representative are at stake. The time has come to produce, Mr. Lenzi.

Letters Welcome

It is the policy of the Daily Egyptian to encourage free discussion of current problems and issues. Members of the University Community are invited to participate with members of the news staff in contributing items for this page with the understanding that acceptance for publication will depend upon the limitations of space and the apparent timeliness and relevance of the material. Letters must be signed, preferably typed, and should be no longer than 250 words. Contributors should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and the rights of others and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. It is the responsibility of the Egyptian to select the material to be used.

Letters to the Editor:

Foreigners Can Help U.S. Image

To the Editor:
I could not help answering Stan Johnson's letter of Jan. 23.

Mr. Johnson asks: "Why should we bend over backwards to assist foreign students into our state universities while thousands of Americans don't have the opportunity, either through lack of funds or lack of room in the colleges?"

The same type of question has occurred to me on different occasions, such as the time I read Sen. Joseph Clark's article about "Starvation in the Affluent Society" or the recent article by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, entitled "A Kind of Madness."

Yet, I think if the American taxpayers are able to afford weekly multi-million dollar expenditures in Vietnam, they should also be generous in helping a few more foreign students at SIU.

Or if American CIA spends a few million dollars of taxpayers' money to set a coup d'etat in my country (to bring back the running and corrupt Shah of Iran to power), they should also be able to help more foreign students.

I am not in a position to say what the American taxpayer should or should not do, but I would like to point out where Mr. Johnson has failed to achieve a sound conclusion.

A great portion of American aid has been spent merely for military purposes and very little has gone for economical and educational achievements.

These military weapons and economic aid have been handled by the unpopular regimes. Unfortunately, Americans are best known to have supported the most corrupt and unpopular governments. This kind of help would never make friends for the Americans.

Contrary to Mr. Johnson's statement, the American government has openly played the role of an imperialistic nation and not the role of Santa Claus.

Also contrary to his belief, there is gratitude and thanks for those sincere services (not governmental interventions) such as educational relations, cultural exchanges and peace corps program.

Prior to the Israeli-Arab war, President Johnson announced his full support of Israel. No fair person could judge or claim the neutrality of the U.S. government before, during, or after the crisis.

In another part of his letter, Mr. Johnson wonders why some foreigners are suspicious of Americans. It is very obvious. A peace corps trainee in my country once said that at the beginning of his arrival, everyone suspected him of being a CIA agent simply because the U.S. had operated a coup in Iran a few years back.

Isn't that enough reason for foreigners not to trust some Americans for a few months?

And finally, Mr. Johnson is bothered by the anti-American protestors throughout the world.

Mr. Johnson, don't you think it is right to let your voice be heard even though you may be wrong?

In conclusion, I should hope for more understanding among a few Americans who are still isolated from the facts. I admit that I have consistently enjoyed American hospitality and the generous educational support.

I also wish to enjoy it in years to come, so that I can demolish the "Ugly American" image in my country.

Vital Issues

To the Editor:

The Daily Egyptian ought to inform students of the vital issues concerning their welfare through regular pros and cons on subjects like women's hours.

Mark Hansen
Senator

Egyptian Too Conservative

To the Editor:
Once again, your bias as a conservative, middle class newspaper has come through.

Last Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday many concerned individuals protested the presence of Marine Corps recruiters on campus. One tiny article was granted--never mentioning that as many as 75 to 100 were there on Wednesday--many for as long as four hours.

Yet, it took just five minutes for someone with a Burma Shave sign to get his picture in the paper--hoping that this would picture the whole effort as a joke.

By ignoring the invitation to dialogue in a specific room seems to indicate the protestors unwillingness to debate.

Yet many dialogues, some very fruitful, took place as concerned students stopped to question the protestors.

Just why were we there? A faculty petition had been circulated asking the administration to bar recruiters from campus until General Hershey recalls his directive to use the draft as a punishment for those opposing present policy.

The Student Senate passed a resolution to support this petition. Yet, nothing was done--no action was taken.

So, part of our role was to act on what our representatives voted on. Behind this was, of course, a basic opposition to the whole war in Vietnam.

Thursday, a reporter from the Egyptian was given a copy of our reason for protesting. She did an extensive (and thorough) job of delving into the situation, spent over an hour wandering around listening to dialogue, trying to get different points of view. Why was her story never printed?

The Daily Egyptian is following in the footsteps of many large dailies. Maybe this is what the staff of the Egyptian sees as the purpose of a newspaper--being a propagator of a conservative, middle class don't-rock-the-boat point of view.

Guatemala: Case of the Priests

By Antero Pietila

In literal translation "guerilla" means "a small war."

The word comes from the Spanish uprising against the French in Napoleonic times, but the late Bernard B. Fall, a French underground fighter-turned-U.S.-professor and the country's foremost authority on Vietnam, once counted that in the 20th century alone there have been 48 "small wars," which have involved as many people as either of the two world wars, and caused as many casualties. Even what he termed as "mere banditry" in Colombia has killed 200,000 people.

Pundits this week concentrated on the mystery of USS Pueblo and were at odds whether its capture by North Koreans was connected in any way with an earlier raid to Seoul.

Interesting as all mystery stories are, it is worthwhile to go back to another half-mysterious incident—the murder of two American military men in Guatemala City last week. It too remains "a riddle wrapped in an enigma". There are two suspects, a Communist guerrilla organization and its right-wing competitor that has tried to weed out pro-Castroites by murder.

Army Col. John D. Webber and Lt. Comdr. Ernest A. Munro have been buried. Police are continuing investigations and will in due time publicize a report that hardly explains the incident.

But the fate of four other Americans, not directly connected with the case, also needs scrutiny.

A week ago three American missionaries working in Guatemala, Sister Marian Peter and Fathers Thomas and Arthur Melville (brothers) were suspended from their priestly functions by Maryknoll order "in view of the charges against them."

The charges: cooperation with the Communist FAR guerrilla movement, one of the suspects of the Guatemala City murders.

There is no question about the three having cooperated with the guerrillas; they themselves have admitted this.

The crucial question that arises: What made such experienced missionaries as the Melville brothers, (Thomas, 37, arrived in Guatemala in 1957; Arthur, 34, in 1961) who had tried to further reforms in the spirit of the Alliance for Progress and organized credit unions and a resettlement program for landless peasants, to cooperate with the guerillas?

Weren't these Castroites, who preached violence in their ideology, totally hostile to the Christian principles of love that the Melville brothers preached and carried out?

And why do they now, suspended from Maryknoll, in Mexico still speak about their return to Guatemala?

Several reasons have been offered. According to one, the Melvilles were too idealistic in their missionary eagerness and, so we are told, planned to Christianize the guerilla movement. But one of their co-workers commented on the Melvilles to John M. Goshko, of the Washington Post, in Guatemala City:

"These people may be misguided, but they should not be dismissed as isolated cases or neurotics who couldn't take it. Slowly, perniciously, the syndrome of despair is growing among many of us whose lives are spent in what seems fruitless effort to alleviate this terrible misery."

Because the leadership of most Latin American guerilla movements is largely composed of defectors from traditional institutions and the elite, it is no news that there are priests along, too.

In Brazil, Father Francisco Lage, who originated from a large landholding family organized the "favelados" in Belo Horizonte until his jailing in 1964. And in Colombia, the Rome-educated Father Martin Amaya Martinez was forbidden to speak, write or wear his cassock in public after this revolutionary message:

"I protest in the name of my people against the desecration of the message of our Lord Jesus Christ because his message is profoundly human, profoundly progressive, and for that reason has been mutilated and converted into an instrument of exploitation and enrichment of a handful."

Yet the involvement of American priests in these kinds of activities is new, and Maryknoll is doing everything to suppress the story.

The two priests and the nun fled to Miami after suspension, only to double back. They are now on the Mexican side of the Guatemalan border, allegedly aiding rebels.

A third Maryknoll priest, the Rev. Blase Bonpane, who apparently was not directly connected with the guerillas, was hastily summoned home and ordered not to discuss the incident.

Maryknoll went so far as to forbid Father Bonpane from participating in even a missionary conference. He was ordered to report for a new assignment in Hawaii on the same day as a Catholic conference on Latin America opens in St. Louis, on Jan. 29.

According to a report in the New York Times, a Maryknoll spokesman had informed Father Bonpane that he would be suspended from his priestly duties (he would be forbidden to say mass or hear confession) if he attended the St. Louis meeting, which is sponsored by the Catholic Inter-American Cooperation Program.

Said Father Bonpane, "No one wants violence, but when you have American power thrown behind the two per cent of the people who own 80 per cent of the land and support a right-wing army that shoots reformers on the spot as 'Communists,' violence is already institutionalized."

It is hard to see any advantages to be gained in silencing Father Bonpane. If something he has seen and experienced is almost about to change his faith, he should have the opportunity to voice his criticism, as he has lived the maxim: "The only true method of action in this world is to be in it but not of it."

Australia's Alliance

There is complaint in international circles that Australia's new prime minister, Mr. Gorton, inclines too far toward United States policy in Asia.

It is claimed that Mr. Gorton, like his predecessor Mr. Holt, by allying his country with United States military commitments compromises Australia's self-determination.

But Australia, a nation of not quite 12 million, adjacent to a continent containing several hundred million militant inhabitants, can hardly be self-determinative in a fully independent way.

Realistically, Australian policy in recent years has been concerned that there should be to her north no development of a power vacuum into which aggressive Communism would flow.

The once dependable barrier of British strength is disappearing. London now intends to hasten its withdrawal of forces from Singapore and Malaysia. As the Yorkshire Post remarks: "Mr. Wilson, having apparently decided that the defense of his office is more important than the defense of the realm, is intent on withdrawing British military power and political influence from the Far East, leaving behind promises that he or his successors will be physically incapable of fulfilling."

The impact on Australia, "uncovered" by this procedure, is naturally profound. It must seek to join its own limited defense capabilities with those of another large state. And in common interests and friendship, Australia is drawn to the United States.

It would be difficult to see how Mr. Gorton could take any other course than to follow the sensible policy of Mr. Holt.

Understandably, the identification with United States diplomacy and the necessity for it strains the Australian sense of independence.

Elkins to Present Lecture At Adult Education Meeting

Donald Elkins, assistant professor of plant industries at SIU, will ask about crop varieties and the results of cropping experiments at SIU at a meeting of farmers in the Christopher High School Monday evening Feb. 5.

The session is one of a series of adult education weekly evening meetings on crop production problems for Christopher area farmers arranged by Leavell Swink, Christopher vocational agriculture teacher. The sessions start at 7:30 p.m. in the school's agriculture classrooms.

Elkins, a specialist on forage crops, joined the SIU School of Agriculture faculty about a year ago as a replacement for Herbert L. Portz, who is on a two-year assignment in Nepal with SIU's educational advisory team. Elkins is a native of Woodville, Alabama, and received his doctoral degree from Auburn University last summer.

Kuo to Moderate Conference on China

Ping-chia Kuo, chairman of the Department of History at Southern Illinois University, will moderate the St. Louis Conference On China, to be held Feb. 9-10, at Webster College, St. Louis.

Authorities on today's China will speak at the conference, Joseph P. Cosand, general chairman of the conference and president of the junior college district of St. Louis and St. Louis County, announced.

Speaker for the opening session will be C.P. Fitzgerald, head of the department of Far Eastern history, Australian National University at Canberra. He will discuss "The Origins of the Chinese Revolution." William H. Hinton, formerly a U.S. information officer in China, will speak on "The Chinese Revolution in an Agrarian Village." Hinton is author of "Fanshen," a documentary on land reform at a village in China.

Two other speakers will be Harald W. Jacobson, director of Asian Communist Affairs for the U.S. State Department, and James C. Thomson, Jr., assistant professor of history at Harvard University.

Kuo, formerly a professor at Wuhun University in China, holds a master's degree and the Ph.D. from Harvard University. From 1940 to 1946 he was counselor of the National Military Council and

Pueblo Talks Reach No Agreement

The transcript of the Jan. 24 meeting quotes Smith as complaining first about the North Korean assassination squad infiltrated into South Korea's capital, Seoul, and then turning to the "criminal boarding and seizure of U.S. naval vessel Pueblo in international waters" Jan. 23.

"In the interest of complying with laws and customs of nations," the U.S. delegate told the North Korean, "it is necessary that your regime do the following:

"1. Return the vessel and crew, intact, immediately.
"2. Apologize to the U.S. government for this illegal action."

Smith added that the United States "reserves the right to ask for compensation under international law" and will hold the North Korean regime responsible for the consequences from its "campaign of provocation, sabotage and assassination in violation of the Korean armistice agreement and international law."

Park began his response with a denunciation of President Johnson, calling him "war-maniac Johnson." He declared former President John F. Kennedy "is now a putrid corpse" who was "sent to hell in broad daylight by an American like you," and said Johnson "is dashing forward to meeting the same fate."

After reciting what he termed repeated illegal, hostile military actions by U.S. forces across the demilitarized zone, the Communist spokesman turned to the alleged infiltration of "a number of armed spy boats" into North Korean coastal waters in the past.

Despite previous Red demands to "stop such criminal acts," he said, on Jan. 23 "your side committed a crude aggressive act of illegally infiltrating an armed spy ship of the U.S. imperialist aggressive Navy equipped with various weapons and all kinds of equipment necessary for espionage activities into our coastal waters off Wonsan."

"The recent vicious hostile act by your side," the North Korean representative told the American, "is a link in the chain of your U.S. imperialist aggressive policy for provoking, perpetrating a new war of aggression after further aggravating tension in Korea...."

"At the same time I strongly demand you frankly admit the violations, provocations and aggressive acts committed by your side in the demilitarized zone and in our coastal waters, to apologize to our side for them, to severely punish as required by the armistice agreement the mad culprits who organized and commanded the incidents and all the criminals involved in them."

U.S. Takes Pueblo Issue to UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Diplomats expected Thursday night that the Security Council will meet in urgent session Friday on the crisis over Red North Korea's seizure of the USS Pueblo.

Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg sped from Washington conferences with President Johnson to present a letter to Pakistan's Ambassador Agha Shahi, January president of the 15-nation council, requesting a meeting.

Goldberg gave preliminary notice of the U.S. desire for a council meeting in telephone calls from Washington to Shahi and Secretary-General U Thant.

The council itself was in session Thursday afternoon to consider an appeal to South Africa to release 35 South-West Africans being tried for treason.

A statement issued in Washington by George Christian, White House press secretary, said the United States wanted the council to consider "the grave situation which has arisen in Korea by reason of North Korean aggressive action against the Republic of Korea and the illegal and wanton seizure of a United States vessel and crew in international waters."

There was speculation that the council might be asked to extend an invitation to North Korea, a nonmember of the United Nations, to take part in its proceedings. North Korea has taken a dim view in the past of General Assembly resolutions dealing with Korean issues.

Sicily Hit by Quakes

PALERMO, Sicily (AP)—Another crippling earthquake shot through western Sicily on Thursday, bringing more death and ruin to this island 10 days after its worst quake disaster in 60 years.

The new, violent tremor killed at least seven persons and injured 55 in the same impoverished, hilly region where an earthquake Jan. 15 claimed at least 224 lives.

Some rescue workers were crushed as they picked through mountains of debris for bodies. Buildings swayed and crumbled in towns relatively untouched in the earlier disaster.

The western tip of the island again became a nightmarish landscape of panic and chaos.

Soon afterward, a rainstorm swept the island, bogging down relief squads that had just returned to an emergency footing. At least 30 aftershocks rippled through the area.

The quake struck just as the island was beginning to recover from the shock and misery of the earlier tragedy.

Inefficient and wasteful relief operations of the first few days after the disaster were giving way to smoother coordination. Food and supplies were arriving in abundance.

About 12,000 of the 40,000 quake refugees were still in tents, but as many had been persuaded to enter buildings in nearby towns.

Viet Cong Continue to Shell Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP)— Communist gun crews, carrying on under heavy bombing attacks, shelled the Khe Sanh air strip Thursday in an effort to cut down the flow of supplies and reinforcements to the embattled U.S. 26th Marine Regiment.

American transport pilots braved the hazard of both explosions aground and enemy antiaircraft fire aloft to pour cargo and men to the Leatherneck base in a massive build-up against besieging elements of two North Vietnamese divisions.

Marine planes were still landing at dusk although one rocket round, scoring a direct hit on the 4,000-foot-long runway, had exploded only about 20 yards from a C-130 Hercules turboprop. Air Force planes parachuted rations, sandbags and other supplies.

While chief attention centered on that hotspot sector below the demilitarized zone, troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and South Korea's Capitol Division pressed a drive against North Vietnamese units flushed Tuesday on the central coast.

Backed by tanks and armored personnel carriers, the allied task force reported it had killed 179 of the enemy over two days in the Phu Cat area, 230 miles southeast of Khe Sanh, and remained in contact Thursday. There was no report on losses among the Americans and Koreans.

Marine artillery batteries at Khe Sanh probed the jungled slopes and ravines surrounding the base with 105mm and 155mm shells, seeking like the questing jet squadrons to knock out the enemy guns.

The American aerial counter-offensive against this latest of the enemy attempts was one of the biggest in the war.

Secretary of HEW Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Thursday the resignation of his second Cabinet officer within two months: John W. Gardner as secretary of health, education and welfare.

Gardner's resignation came amid signs he has become increasingly discouraged by the way the Vietnam war has limited domestic programs he considers essential to the nation's well-being, although the White House said Vietnam had nothing to do with it.

The resignation, which Johnson announced at the White House with "deep regret," followed the word Nov. 29 that Robert S. McNamara would leave his job as secretary of defense. Both are Republicans.

United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg reportedly will resign early this year, and other major resignations recently have included the budget director and chairmen of the Council of Economic Advisers, the Interstate Commerce Commission and Civil Aeronautics board.

Gardner, 55, said he will return March 1 to the Carnegie Corporation, whose presidency he left 2 1/2 years ago on a two-year leave of absence. He said he will serve Carnegie as a consultant on a special project involving city problems.

Government Policies

Will Hurt Grad Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — Troubles are mounting for science-minded students who want to enter graduate schools next September.

Piling atop worries about the military draft are cuts in government fellowships, which could keep the needy out of school, and a drop in federally sponsored research, which could cut the quality of education for students who aren't drafted and who conquer money problems.

All three developments are furling brows at universities. At many schools there also is concern that government research cuts will whack heavily into operating budgets already strained by rising costs.

The Defense Department and space agency combined are lopping 20 per cent this year from the $400 million they sent to universities in 1967.

Through the early and mid 1960s, annual government research spending spiraled to $1.6 billion at universities.

A private Defense Department memo, compiled after checks with 33 schools on the cuts, reported general agreement that new post doctoral fellowships and graduate student admissions would be cut in September.

Schools facing research money cuts, the memo said, are holding up on spending for new equipment and are preparing to lay off some technicians. Some summer faculty salaries may also not be covered by research money as in the past.

The memo says, "The impact on the small private non-endowed university will be much more severe than on state universities or on the bigger endowed private universities."

It said the impact will probably peak in the spring, when many contract and grant decisions will be made and schools will learn exactly how much they're losing.

Cuts in new fellowships are drastic: the National Aeronautics and Space Administration went from about 750 new fellowships in 1967 to 75 for next September. The National Science Foundation dropped from 1,200 to 700 and National Defense Education Act fellowships were halved to 3,000.

School officials across the country are unsure how much new draft deferment restrictions will cut the pool of potential graduate school newcomers in 1968. Estimates range from 10 to 25 per cent.

While defense and space cutbacks have been the most severe, other government research arms such as the National Science Foundation, National Institutes of Health and Atomic Energy Commission have been forced to hold even with last year's expenditures or expand only a bit.

Wrong Little Old Lady Grateful for $1,600

One "little old lady," but evidently not the right one, thought it would be nice to send her thanks to the Salku Currency Exchange via States Attorney Richard Richman.

Richman received a letter Thursday which said, "I would be most grateful if you would convey to the currency exchange my sincerest thanks.

"Their voluntary contribution of $1,600 was a most generous act and is deeply appreciated. Thank you."

The note was apparently in- Mid-East Resolution Topics of Talks

The speakers are Jawad Barghothi, doctoral student in government from Jordan, and Ishai Satat, doctoral student in chemistry from Israel.

Senator Suggests Committee Study Housing, Vehicles

The investigation of SIU housing and vehicle rules proposed by Jerry Finney before the Student Senate Wednesday night was turned over to the Student Rights and Responsibilities committee to carry out. It was erroneously reported earlier that the committee was to study the proposal.

Another proposal for a $1,000 appropriation to finance the study was sent to the Senate Finance committee for a report.

spired by one which was reported to have been handed to the exchange's clerk by a person who walked away with $1,600 last week.

Reportedly, the handwriting is not similar. It was signed, "Little Old Lady."

Carbondale Police Chief Jack Hazel and Richman said earlier this week that since there was no threat involved nor evidence of her having a weapon it raises a legal question as to what crime has been committed.

Hazel said Thursday that the case is still being investigated but the question of what the person, if caught, could be charged with remains unanswered.

Two Plead Guilty, Fined Following Terminal Incident

Two men pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct Thursday in Jackson County Circuit Court.

R. M. Roop, 25, Nelson Trailer Court, an SIU student, and Joseph Domko, 22, Roselle, were fined $10 each plus $15 each court costs.

The charge was made after an incident at the Illinois Central Depot at 1 a.m. Thursday morning, according to States Attorney Richard Richman.

H. Narasimhaiah

Indian Instructor Studies at SIU

'Character Comes First'

"I am an educator before I consider myself a physicist," said H. Narasimhaiah from India. For 22 years he has devoted himself to the education of young people in his native land, except for the three years he spent in America for his graduate work.

Narasimhaiah is a visiting professor of physics at SIU. In India he heads a college in the Mysore State, The National College of which he is the principal (or president) is a co-ed science college with an enrollment of 1,300 students. Narasimhaiah started teaching there one year after the school was founded 22 years ago.

In addition to being an educator and physicist, he is a bachelor, a nationalist, a vegetarian, a pacifist, a moralist, and an advocate of simple life.

Narasimhaiah has been elected the principal of the college for three consecutive terms by the faculty members. Except for the three years of study at Ohio State University where he received his doctoral degree in physics in 1960, he has devoted his time and energy to guiding the young college into a top-notch science school.

In 1942, Narasimhaiah joined Gandhi's "Quit India Movement" and was jailed for eight months for his nationalist activities. Although Gandhi is gone and India has her independence, he still lives in his master's spirit. "For more than 25 years I have worn 'Khadi' — homespun and handwoven clothes," he said.

He firmly believes the village or cottage industry as advocated by Gandhi is one of the solutions to the problem of unemployment in Indian villages. "Even after India is industrialized on a large scale," said the physicist, "the village industry should be preserved so that leisure time can gainfully be employed."

"If I didn't like the American people and didn't believe in the superiority of the American educational system, I would not have come to America for the second time," Narasimhaiah said. "My primary objective in coming to teach at SIU was to keep myself well informed about the progress being made in education and physics in this country."

Narasimhaiah created a sensation in India by introducing the first honor system in the country, in 1966. "This honor system still in effect" he said, "is nothing but a realization of my ideal of education." Under the system, the students at this college take examinations without faculty supervision, he said.

One of the changes he was glad to see take place in this country after seven years of absence is the hippie movement. "I like their spiritual values, search for simple life, attempts to find new value in life, but I must strongly oppose their use of drugs and advocacy of free love."

When his term at SIU expires in June, he will return to his post as the principal and chairman of the physics department at the National College.

Ava Chamber Head Leads Group For Area Economic Development

Bert Shemwell, president of the Ava Chamber of Commerce, heads the new executive committee of a 32-county council that is working for economic development of southern Illinois.

Shemwell, executive committee member who represents Franklin, Jackson, Jefferson, Perry, and Williamson Counties, was elected chairman of the executive committee of the RETAP (Regional Economic Technical Assistance Program) at a meeting held on the SIU campus.

Instructor Elected

Church President

John Baker, assistant professor of government, was recently elected president of the Good Shepherd United Church of Christ in Carbondale.

Other officers elected were: George Garoian, vice president; Gerrit Kloek, secretary; E. Robert Ashworth, treasurer; and Mrs. Elsie Wood, financial secretary.

Mrs. Catherine Martinsek and Dale Ritzel were elected to the church council.

The church will celebrate its 10th anniversary during May. Speakers, special events and projects are planned, according to the Rev. Roy Griebel.

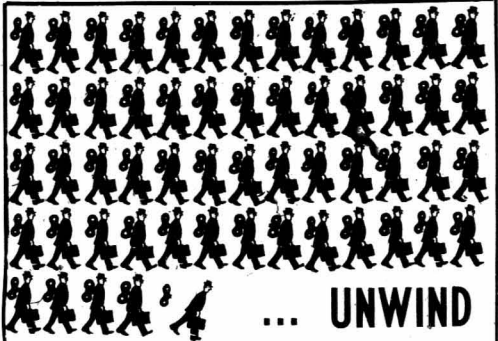

Under the RETAP project, operated by the Business Research Bureau of the SIU School of Business with funds granted by the Economic Development Administration, University resources are made available to assist public and private economic development efforts, primarily in economically lagging areas.

During the meeting Robert Ellis, Jr., RETAP director, said 44 requests from groups in counties involved have been made for assistance from the time RETAP was started last summer until Jan. 18. Projects range from help to obtain industry to water studies.

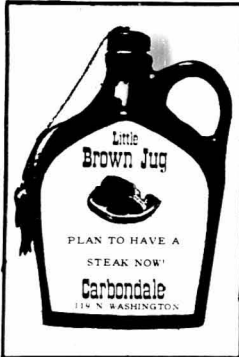

Robert J. MacVicar, SIU

vice president for academic affairs and an ex officio member of the RETAP executive committee, said it is important to realize that existing industry should not go untended and get lost in drives to attract new business. He urged council members to work together in open fashion.

Arthur Prell, director of the Business Research Bureau, said there are 18 universities in the country now participating in RETAP programs. Gene Johns, administrator of the Department of Business and Economic Development, pointed to the resources available from SIU that can provide groups with small staffs with technical aid.

Holy Places Shown

Film to Close Religion Week

The Bahá'í Club of SIU will conclude its Religion in Life Week series with the showing of a 30-minute movie on the Bahá'í Faith, "And His Name Shall Be One," Wednesday, Jan. 31, at 8 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

The movie was produced by CBS-TV for its "Lamp Unto My Feet" series. The documentary features views of the Bahá'í Shrines on Mount Carmel in Haifa, Israel, and other Bahá'í holy places in the surrounding area, with music and narration. Also featured are interviews with Bahá'ís at the Bahá'í House of Worship in Wilmette, Ill., and the Bahá'í NGO representative to the United Nations, Mrs. Mildred Mottahedeh, in New York.

The third meeting in the series will be in Morris Library on Tuesday, Jan. 30, at 8 p.m.

Theme for the week, "Times They Are A-Changin'" will be the subject of a talk to be given by the Directors of the Institute for Research in Human Behavior at Indiana State University, Dan

Grocers Charged

With Price Fixing

Three of the nation's largest grocery chains have been charged with conspiring to fix meat prices in a civil antitrust suit filed in San Francisco by meat producers.

The three are A&P, Kroger, and Safeway Stores Inc. The complaint charged that the companies conspired to pay uniform, noncompetitive, and low prices to suppliers.

Representatives of the Carbondale A&P and Kroger stores were unable to comment on the suit. The Kroger St. Louis area office declined to comment.

The producers are demanding triple damages for losses but have not specified an amount.

What the interviewers won't tell you about General Electric.

They won't tell you about all the job opportunities we have for college graduates - engineers, science, business and liberal arts majors. Not that they wouldn't like to. It's just that there are too many jobs and too little time. In a half-hour interview our man would barely have time to outline the scope and diversity of the opportunities we offer. That's why we published a brochure called "Starting Points at General Electric." In plain language it will tell you exactly how and where a person with your qualifications can start a career with General Electric. Pick up a copy at your Placement Office. Then arrange for a productive session with our interviewer. He'll be on your campus soon.

Weekend Competition to Test Southern Gymnastic Teams

Both of SIU's national champion gymnastics teams will be in action simultaneously at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Arena.

The men's team will meet both Mankato State and Northwestern Louisiana in a double dual meet, and the women will battle the Champaign Club representing the Champaign and Urbana, Ill., area.

This will be the first dual meet of the season for the women and the fourth and fifth dual meets of the season for the men.

Northwestern Louisiana is competing for the first time this year in the NCAA after winning the NIAA championships for two straight years.

"Northwestern Louisiana has one of the strongest teams in the country," Meade said. "I saw some of their team members in the USGF clinic in Florida this year while we were down there and they looked tough."

Mankato State has six returning lettermen from a squad that was 8-5 in dual meet competition last season. Heading the list is team captain Richard Lampright, the team's second leading scorer last year, who rates as one of Mankato's all around greats.

While SIU will have two teams to battle Friday and another, Oklahoma, on Saturday afternoon, Coach Meade does not think this will bother the team's performance.

"The guys consider the meets easier than practice," Meade said, "because during practice they have to do the same thing over and over again. During the meet, they have to do it just one time."

The women gymnasts enter their meet with the Champaign Club with a string of 43 consecutive dual meet victories since inception of women's gymnastics at Southern.

The Champaign gymnastics club is a newly organized team operating from Champaign-Urbana and is designed around the services of the 1967 Pan-Am four gold medal winner Linda Metheny of the University of Illinois.

"Dick Mulvihill (Champaign coach) is a tough task master, well informed, imaginative and experienced," Coach Herb Vogel said. "But even more important, he is successful."

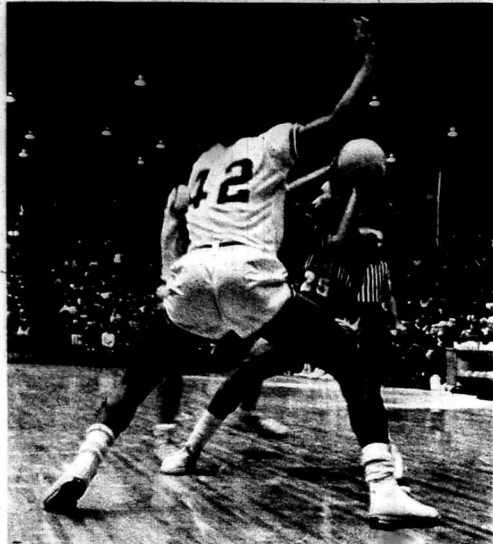

"Linda Metheny points out this success," Vogel continued, "on a good day she can beat us by as much as two points."

Since Miss Metheny has been getting all the attention by Mulvihill, Vogel said that "it's difficult to estimate how our two teams will match up."

SIU's practice has been irregular, and Coach Vogel expressed a cautious outlook.

"We are far from being as ready as we would like to be," Vogel said, "but the season has to start sometime and Friday night, ready or not, is the time."

BOTTLED UP-SIU's Bobby Jackson (24) was covered up defensively on this play by Evansville's Howard Weeks (42) during Wednesday night's game on the Aces' homecourt Evansville won, 52-45.

Swimmers Face Tough Hoosiers

The Saluki swimmers will dive into the University School pool at 2 p.m. Saturday against defending Big Ten champion Indiana University.

For Coach Ray Essick's Salukis, who breezed to a 58-45 win over Cincinnati's Bearcats last Saturday, it will be the last, and probably the toughest, home stand of the season.

"There's no question about it," said Essick. "It will be the toughest dual meet of the season for us, but it's greatly to our advantage to compete against the best in the country."

The competition against Indiana also marks the last time SIU seniors Ed Mossotti, a competent sprinter, and utility man Phil Tracy, will compete before a home crowd.

Indiana, third place finisher in national competition last season and undefeated in five dual meets this year, is favored to pick up its eighth straight Big Ten title. The Hoosiers recorded a decisive Big Ten Relays victory earlier this season.

Heading the list of IU tankmen is Charlie Hickox, former world record holder in the 100 and 200-meter backstroke; the NCAA, NAAU and Pan-Am backstroke champion.

Close behind Hickox are Bobby Windle, the Olympic 1500-meter freestyle champion and Fred Southward, a freestyle specialist who was a finalist in three events in the national championships and a member of the Little Olympic team in Mexico City last season.

Earlier during the campaign IU's Bill Burrell posted the fastest collegiate time in the 100-meter freestyle (:47.2) of the year.

Other Hoosiers to be considered are Bill Utley, a gold medalist in the Pan-Am, and the NAAU individual medley champ, and Ron Jacks, the 100-meter butterfly champion of the British Empire Games.

Early Meetings Set for Top Prep Cagers

CHICAGO (AP)—Top Illinois high school basketball teams may knock each other off early in the state tourney finals at Champaign March 22-23, based on pairings drawn Wednesday for the closing phases of the championship series.

A roll of dice at the office of Al Willis, who simultaneously announced his retirement as Illinois High School Association executive secretary.

Willis, 65, IHSA executive director since 1940, conducted the traditional drawings for the last time with Chicago sports writers as witnesses.

Winner at Normal vs. winner at De Kalb. Winner at Macomb vs. winner at Charleston.

ings, the upper bracket quarterfinal game between the Evanston and Peoria first-round final winners could match No. 1 Lockport Central and No. 2 Stephen Decatur.

IHSA Executive Secretary Announces Retirement Plans

Albert H. Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois High School Association, announced plans Wednesday to resign from the post he has held for the past 26 years.

But Willis claimed the game belonged to the fans on a regional basis and said that a greater number would be able to participate more actively if the tourney was divided into sections. He ultimately won his argument.

The drawings determined order of play in the four-team sectionals, March 13-15, and the quarterfinal round of the state finals at the Assembly Hall of the University of Illinois.

Before the eventual Elite Eight are established for the start of the Champaign show-down, they must hurdle district Feb. 26-March 1 or regional March 4-8 tourney play; sectional March 8-10 competition and the March 19 eliminations at eight first-round final centers.

The present form sheet would indicate Elmhurst-York, rated No. 9 and Mount Vernon, No. 14, as possible foes in the other upper bracket quarterfinal.

Action on Willis' successor will be undertaken by the IHSA board of directors soon after his resignation becomes effective June 30, according to Robert Grant, association president.

Willis attended McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill., for three years where he lettered in four sports and captained the football team.

As a result, the March 22 quarterfinals will line up this way:

Based on current AP ratings, the upper bracket quarterfinal game between the Evanston and Peoria first-round final winners could match No. 1 Lockport Central and No. 2 Stephen Decatur.

While the other lower bracket quarterfinal test could be between No. 8 Danville Schlarman and No. 11 Aurora East.

Willis came under fire in 1961 when a state legislator attempted to force the organization to return to the 16-team state basketball tournament. He was accused of being a dictator trying to take the tournament away from the fans.

In 1940, he was named assistant to IHSA executive secretary C.W. Whitten and replaced Whitten two years later when the latter retired.

Track Star Aims at Olympics

By David Palermo

A berth on the Canadian Olympic Team is the ultimate goal of SIU track star Ross MacKenzie.

"I guess the dream of every trackman is to participate in the Olympics," said MacKenzie. "Especially since there are no professional areas of track to enter."

If and when the 21-year-old senior makes the select group of olympians, he will be running the 440 or 1,500-meters. He ran in these two events while participating in the Pan Am games this summer.

run distances until later on in the season.

"I'll probably be running the 440 and mile relay during the season," he said. "I don't know about the sprints."

Turning to the prospects of the team's improvement, MacKenzie was extremely optimistic.

"I think we'll do pretty good," he said. "We'll have a good mile relay team and we've got some good sprint and middle distance men."

"The ruling allowing freshmen to participate should also help us," added MacKenzie.

The Detroit Indoor Invitational was cited by MacKenzie as being the highlight of the coming season and added that Texas, Drake and Kansas State should also offer some fine competition.

As for the future MacKenzie is undecided.

"I'll probably go back to Canada," he said. "That's Balmoral, B-a-l-m-o-r-a-l."

Starting Lineup Of MSU Unsure

Michigan State Coach John Bennington is never sure of his starting lineup until gametime.

It's not because of experimenting to find the right starting lineup. It is the improvement that the sophomores on the MSU squad have shown.

Two of the six sophs on the Spartan roster have started to make bids for a permanent berth in the lineup. They are Jim Gibbons and Lloyd Ward.

The 6-6 Gibbons has come on recently to almost assure himself a starting spot against the Salukis Saturday night in Chicago. He scored 10 points in the Spartans' 76-71 loss to Iowa Tuesday.

This was only his second starting assignment. Bibbons scored nine points and grabbed 10 rebounds in his first starting assignment against Northwestern.

Ward, who is at the opposite end of the measuring stick with Gibbons, standing only 5-9, also did a fine job against Northwestern in his reserve role. His defensive job on Dale Kelley, Wildcat ace, helped insure the Spartan victory. Ward stopped Kelley's drives through the middle and the Wildcat offense sputtered to almost a dead stop.

Overall Michigan State has a 6-7 record. In the Big 10, the Spartans are 2-3. Their only Big 10 victories have come against Michigan and Northwestern and they have lost to Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa.

The Spartans and Salukis have had only two opponents in common: Iowa and Wichita State. MSU lost to Iowa by five and Wichita by 10. SIU lost to Iowa by nine but beat Wichita by nine.

Intramurals

Fourteen intramural basketball games have been scheduled for Saturday.
