Heavy Traffic

Linda Adkins, freshman from Shelbyville, processes some of the applications submitted by students seeking admission to SIU this fall. Robert McGrath, registrar, said that as of July 1 the University had accepted 2,000 more freshman applicants than it had at the same date a year ago.

U.S. Increases Vigil

N. Viets Forced to Boat War Supplies Southward

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes have damaged roads and bridges so badly in North Vietnam's panhandle that the enemy is stepping up attempts to move war supplies south by boat, American sources reported Friday.

As a result, fighter-bombers have been increasing their efforts to knock out the water traffic.

Pilots returning from 107 strike missions over the panhandle Thursday reported they destroyed or damaged 80 supply boats along with 32 trucks.

Pilot reports for the past week have listed sizable numbers of boats and barges hit each day. A U.S. headquarters communique said: "Interdiction of road and river traffic remained the top priority among targets."

The raids on the North cost one more American plane, headquarters said. A Navy A7 Corsair was knocked down by ground fire Wednesday night. The loss was the 870th announced in combat over the North so far in the war. The pilot was listed as missing after an unsuccessful search and rescue operation.

In South Vietnam, U.S. Air Force B52 bombers flew 10 missions late Thursday and early Friday with targets ranging from the Cambodian border area northwest of Saigon to provinces in the far north.

Little major ground fighting was reported, but it was disclosed that troops of the 101st Air Cavalry Division had fought a 14-hour battle Thursday against North Vietnamese troops near the Cambodian border 27 miles northwest of Saigon.

In an updated report, the U.S. Command said 26 enemy were killed while the Americans lost 13 men killed and 27 wounded.

The U.S. troops were supported by artillery, helicopter gunships and tactical aircraft.

The U.S. Command also announced a new Marine operation near Hoi An, just south of Da Nang the big military base in the north, but said it ended after two days of minor contact. Called "Swift Play," the operation involved amphibious and helicopter lands beginning Tuesday. It ended Wednesday with nine enemy reported killed and no Marine casualties.

In Saigon, an explosion blamed on Viet Cong terrorists wrecked the office of the capital's largest Chinese-language newspaper Friday. No casualties were reported but damage was heavy to the three-story building housing the A Chau Van Quo Asia Daily News.

Moscow Pressures Czechs for Return to 'Soviet-Style' Rule

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda attacked Czechoslovakia Friday for allowing "democratic socialism" to get a foothold and insisted on a return to Soviet-style rule. There was no indication of a willingness on the part of Moscow to compromise with Prague.

Pravda charged that Czechoslovak leaders had allowed opposition to the Communist party and criticism of its rule. It derided this as the kind of "democratic socialism" favored by Western Marxist parties which do not follow the Kremlin.

Pravda declared that deviations from the Soviet type of government, with the Communist party ruling absolutely, will never be tolerated.

Warning against complacency, the newspaper also insisted that a danger existed of U.S. intervention in Czechoslovakia on the side of the liberals.

But the Moscow press continued to assert the right of the Soviet Union to intervene if necessary to insure a government satisfactory to the Kremlin.

One of the constant themes in Soviet propaganda on the crisis is that Western countries—mainly the United States—are supporting the "counterrevolutionaries" in Czechoslovakia. This could serve as a pretext for Soviet military intervention.

The press here has never reported the denial by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk of any American intention to interfere in Czechoslovak affairs.

Clark Defense Of Fortas Meets Angry Response

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark's criticism of senators opposing confirmation of Abe Fortas as chief justice drew angry response Friday.

And Fortas came under fresh attack on the Senate floor for his rulings in obscenity cases. This was coupled with a demand that his nomination be withdrawn.

Three senators who have not previously joined in the opposition to the promotion of Justice Fortas sharply challenged Clark's assertion that this opposition is dominated by political partisanship and opposition to civil rights legislation. Sen. Edward W. Brooke, Massachusetts Republican and only Negro in the Senate, said Clark's views were given "improperly and without justification" in a Thursday press interview. And he demanded that the Cabinet member apologize for what Brooke called an attack on the integrity and voting records of Republicans opposing Fortas.

Sens. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., promptly associated themselves with Brooke's indictment of Clark.

Pearson called Clark's remarks "unfair and unworthy...press relations blackmail, an attack on the integrity of the Senate."

Similarly, Cooper described Clark's assessment as "wholly unfair... a most reprehensible method of attack."

Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, told the Senate Fortas has joined in court decisions on obscenity which Miller said are destructive of moral standards. And he called on President Johnson to withdraw his nomination of Fortas to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren.

One of the decisions Miller cited overturned a lower court ruling that three strip-tease films were hard-core pornography.

Clark said "quite clearly there is dominant in the opposition a highly partisan strain that's unfortunate." He added "those who oppose securing equal rights and civil rights are opposing the nomination." And he called this the true basis for the fight against Fortas.

Kennedy Quells Talk Of 1968 Nomination

BOSTON (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, still grieving the assassination of his brother Robert, cut off Friday any consideration of himself for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination.

Kennedy had been prominently mentioned as a potential vice presidential candidate ever since Robert was killed last month in California just after he had won the state's Democratic presidential primary.

Kennedy's action intensified consideration of other possibilities for the nomination and put added pressure on the presidential campaign of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The statement, issued by Kennedy's Boston office, said: "Over the last few weeks, many prominent Democrats have raised the possibility of my running for vice-president on the Democratic ticket this fall. I deeply appreciate their confidence. Under normal circumstances such a possibility would be a high honor and a challenge to further public service. But for me, this year, it is impossible.

"My reasons are purely personal. They arise from the change in my personal situation and responsibilities as a result of the events of last month."

Gus Bode

Gus says vending machines on the SIU campus seem to be programmed: "It's better to receive than to give."

Trapped in the elevator are Linda Sublett and Joe Robinette, lead performers in "Sweet Charity," the Summer Music Theatre Company's latest production. The musical comedy will be performed tonight and Sunday in Muckelrey Auditorium in the Agriculture Building.

Motivation Expert David Ehrenfreund Resumes SIU Job

David Ehrenfreund, chairman of the SIU Department of Psychology has returned to his duties following a one year sabbatical leave for research in England.

Ehrenfreund studied at the animal psychology laboratory of Bethlem Royal Hospital in London, a branch of the University of London's Institute of Psychiatry.

He worked with a specially bred strain of white rats useful in his studies of motivational drives such as hunger. While abroad he was invited to speak at Oxford and Cambridge Universities concerning his research at SIU.

Gordon Pitz, associate professor, served as acting chairman during Ehrenfreund's leave.

Business Workshop Planned

A two-day Vocational Business Education Workshop will be held at SIU, Aug. 5-6.

Approximately 70 school teachers, graduate students, and professional secretaries will attend, starting at 10 a.m., Aug. 5, in Davis Auditorium, Wham Education Building. The workshop participants will be welcomed by Harveys Rahe, chairman of SIU's Department of Secretarial and Business Education.

Featured on the program will be Mrs. Eileen Coleman, business education teacher at Shawnee Community High School, Wolf Lake; Mrs. Violet Davis, Casey High School; Bernard Ohm, Chief of Business & Office Occupations of the State Board of Vocational Education and Rehabilitation, and Miss Fern Harris, Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

The workshop is sponsored by Illinois State Board of Vocational Education and Rehabilitation at Springfield and SIU department of secretarial and business education in cooperation with the University Extension Services. H.B. Bauernfeind, SIU professor of secretarial and business education, is the workshop chairman.

Mrs. Morris Hosts Group

Mrs. Delyte W. Morris, Honorary President of the Southern Illinois University Women's Clubs to Carbondale and Edwardsville, entertained the officers and standing committee chairmen of the two organizations at their joint meeting Tuesday.

After a discussion of the organizations' plans for the 1968-69 programs, there followed an exchange of ideas and experiences in club affairs.

Following the discussions and informal tour of campus, Mrs. Morris entertained the club members at a luncheon in her home. In addition to the SIU Women's Clubs' officers and committee chairmen, special guests were Mrs. Charles Tenney, Mrs. Robert MacVicar, and Mrs. John S. Rendleman.

Anthony Hall Work Underway

Remodeling work has begun on the unfinished portion of SIU's Anthony Hall, which is being prepared for use by the President's Office.

Willard Hart, campus architect, said the unfinished part is the wing extending southward that housed dining facilities when Anthony Hall was a dormitory.

He said this area is scheduled to be remodeled for use of the SIU Board of Trustees and the Information and Scheduling Center.

Examine Structure, Aims

By Robert M. Hutchins

Not long ago I suggested that the colleges and universities of this country should be holding constitutional conventions.

I suggested that by involving professors, administrators, trustees and students in a re-examination of the purpose and organization of the institution, and only by doing so, a university might avoid the kind of disorderly protest that has been going on all over the world.

A history professor writes that my faith in the university's ability to save itself is admirable and incredible.

He goes on: "We may well have to look outside the university for the next great historical movement and for the vital developments in the life of the mind. The insurmountable obstacle at the moment is the inertia, indifference and ignorance of faculties."

"They are frightened of their ignorance and jealous of their tidbit of departmentalized information. They are fearful of their positions, which they hide in pomposity, and desperate for security, which they buy with their integrity."

"They no more dare introduce their students to thinking by doing it in front of them than they dare cross their paymaster by calling attention to the frauds and dissimulation through which they daily walk."

Public Forum

The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters. Editorials are written by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only. Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters, which must be signed with name, address and telephone number, preferably typewritten, and be no longer than 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend upon the limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other material on pages four and five includes editorials and articles reprinted from other newspapers, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

"They hide behind lecture notes and bookish ramparts and cower before ideas. Their conversations run the gamut from lawn fertilizer to fringe benefits."

"They see their life as one of contemplation, which they translate into grumbling over anything and everything, including all proposals for changes in the university. In the end they will do nothing, unless driven to it."

My correspondent's gloom is relieved by his discovery of a new breed that is just beginning to appear: It is a very small minority, still borne down by the weight of fat and complacency.

The other ray of hope he sees is in the students.

He says, "I hope you are right, and in time I think you will be. These young people I am teaching are slowly figuring things out, and some day they will take over."

"But for the present and immediate future I cannot picture my colleagues anywhere taking the necessary initiative or showing the requisite imagination to save the colleges."

I have to admit there is a lot in what the angry historian says. I would qualify it only by saying that I have found professors individually intelligent, courageous and charming. It is when they are organized into departments, schools and faculties and when they are meeting as such that they become insufferable. Then they exhibit all the repulsive traits that my correspondent attributes to them. Then they seem united by only one desire, that of preserving the status quo.

Hence I would not hope to save the colleges and universities by faculty meetings. I propose constituent assemblies containing the representatives of all the elements that go to make up the university.

One of the prime objects of such an assembly should be to find out how to change the training of professors and the organization of departments so that faculties would no longer behave as they do.

Don't Go Columbia's Route

To the Daily Egyptian:

In his recent letter (Daily Egyptian, July 24) condemning the totalitarian policies of the SIU administration, Lawrence Lichenstein concludes by asking, "Where do we go from here?" Let's hope we don't go the way of Columbia; let's hope the lectures on our classrooms are not turned into soapboxes; let's hope that no more buildings will be sabotaged, that no more offices will be broken into, that no more recruiters will be hampered, that no more threats of arson will be made. Finally, let's hope the movement toward more student rights is continued, but at the same time let's remember that the only way for this to be accomplished is by placing a greater emphasis on student responsibility and maturity.

What Kind of World?

Education--Vanguard of Rights Movement

To the Daily Egyptian:

To question the motives of the "Black Power Movement" is to wear the label "racist." Why? Both are currently trite, 100-used expressions. The genuine push for equality, for equal inclusion and equal opportunity, is a fight for American unity. The positions of some influential blacks have, however, shifted this "goal of necessity" to one of separatist pride, hatred of the white man, and indignant segregation. His reason is this: He has been nigger boy and minority for a long, long time in the American "society" and of this he is tired. He has been shut out of American history and scoffed at in the movies. He is seeking dignity for his race and to hell with the white man.

What makes this new militant Negro any different from the bigoted exploiter who used to buy and sell humans for profit? The approach is wrong; it can't succeed. One taught racial supremacy, the other racial hatred. Unity as equals was just not desired by slave-owners and would be an odious sellout in the eyes of the Black militant. Is there a solution? Is there a way out without more polarization of extremist elements?

The answer is yes. Not through a guaranteed annual income, not through the burning of cities and not through creation of separatist Black colonies. The path is through education and persistent demonstration. And it works. Educated Black people and concerned and educated people of many colors are, right now, bringing the Negro in his equal place in society. Look around you. Huge progress is being made every day, and burning can only hinder it. Pressures are being brought to bear on legislative representatives as never before. Keep it up. Lobbying, learning and learning combined with a public concern, as never before, are straightening the crooks in the path toward true unity. They'll snap in shape with pressure from the home district. They have to. Their jobs depend on it. It takes letters, concern, peaceful demonstrations and educated interpretations of the te-nents of the constitution. This is the voice of the educated and the educators, not of the separatists and the hate-teachers.

If you are a Negro, or an Afro-American, if you prefer, just look at your position right here and now on the SIU campus. You are in huge demand for many types of jobs when you get out of here. Many of those jobs will enable you to help those of your race, and other races, learn more about helping themselves. In your last year at SIU, you will be wooed by companies and organizations who need college-trained individuals, and know and subscribe to the coming trend in a healing America. They want you! This gives you somewhat of an edge. You get more opportunities as a Negro graduate. This is where it is. It's real. The move has begun and is well on its way. Education is how it gets there. Only this is an effective and real, a respected and lasting means for the integration and betterment of the American society. The inroads are there, and where there is less racial tension, more mutual respect and compatibility than on the American college campus?

Donate Or Be - - - - - !

To the Daily Egyptian:

Our condolences to Dave Williamson for being represented by an obnoxious group of young men from the TKE organization, who, with a fellow female solicitor, proceeded to cajole and insult those who did not donate to the fund to send Dave to the Wheelchair Olympics in Israel. On the morning of July 23, this group exhibited a flagrant lack of respect for their fellow Students as well as Dave through unnecessarily rude comments on personalities, appearances, and social and economics status of random passers-by. We would, at this time, like to point out to these gentlemen and lady that during the past two weeks several funds have been collected by students who managed to conduct themselves with dignity and treat their fellow students with courtesy. It is our hope that in the future, groups displaying such crude behavior will be prevented from using University facilities.

War: Loneliness of 11,000-Mile Letters

By Gale Okey

Reginald Hickman has been in Vietnam six months—he'll be back in January.

His wife Mary Lou is a junior majoring in math education at SIU.

Ben Sanders has been in Vietnam almost a year—he'll be back in August.

His wife Karen is a senior majoring in history education.

Mary Lou and Karen are just two of the students here whose husbands are fighting in Vietnam. No one really knows how many Vietnam wives there are at SIU, but a good estimate is about 25.

"I never really thought much about it before he went. You're not really involved in something until someone you know is in it," Mary Lou said when asked how she felt about the war and about Reg's being sent.

Karen said that she was all for the war, and when Ben was sent she felt "patriotic and loyal."

Ben, however, is pessimistic. He believes the U.S. should be there, but is "doing it all wrong." He finds the war "depressing and cruel."

Ben, a combat engineer, told Karen that "they tell you to do silly things, just to keep you busy so you can't think. Like painting things and taking off the paint again."

"He said that most of the men in his group felt the same way," Karen said.

Mary Lou said that Reg too was "for the war, in favor of our policies, but he says it's hard to see any progress."

Professors Begin Teaching Research

Donald L. Beggs and George R. Mayer, both assistant professors of guidance and educational psychology, have begun research projects related to the teaching of grade school children.

One project, entitled "The Educationally Disadvantaged Elementary School Child," will last for one year under a $10,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education. The project will study children within 50 miles of Carbondale who have tendencies to show anxieties about school-related problems. New counseling techniques will be introduced in an attempt to reduce this anxiety.

Another project, "Interpreting Intelligence Tests Results to Teachers," will compare techniques with respect to teacher perception of children and with respect to student achievement and IQ test results. This project, funded by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction under an $8,700 grant, will be conducted for one year also.

Reg, she added, is not fighting, but works in an office in downtown Saigon.

Both girls said their husbands sent them pictures. Karen said, "not of people, of things. Ben hasn't made any real close friends—he's moved around too much."

She said that he tells her things like he was on guard duty or building of an airstrip, but he doesn't really say much about what they're doing or about the war.

"There's been a sort of communications breakdown," Karen said. "It's hard because from a letter you can't tell the tone of voice, and we've had some misunderstandings. There's such a delay in letters too."

Mary Lou agreed that communications are "confusing because of the delay in letters. It gets kind of bad."

"Our letters are terribly dull sometimes," she said.

"There's just not that much to say when you write every day."

Mary Lou is going to Hawaii to see Reg in September during break. She is working part time in the student teaching office, where she worked before they got married. She says she likes to keep busy, and the time has gone fast.

Karen is also working part time. She said that some of her friends whose husbands or boyfriends have been in Vietnam said they were very nervous and irritable when they got back and didn't want to talk about it.

Mary Lou said that Reg wrote her that Saigon was "filthy—really awful. They can't go outside when the sun's real hot because the garbage just stinks."

"You read that it was so pretty before," she said, "it's kind of sad to see what war's doing to that city."

"The building next to where Reg lives was bombed, and also the one next to where he works, and a sniper fired at them in a lunch line. They spend most of their time on the floor," said Mary Lou.

She said that he has his own maid service for $5 a month and his room is air conditioned.

Asked what they send to their husbands, Mary Lou said civilian clothes and souvenirs of a baseball game in St. Louis, since he is a Cardinal fan. She also has sent candy, peanuts, paperbacks and a paint-by-number oil painting.

She said the men are able to watch movies every night, and that her husband and his roommate had just painted their room, for something to do.

"Our anniversary was June 23, so I sent him half the top layer of our wedding cake," Mary Lou said. "Reg said it got there just fine." "Ben found he could get most things over there—things he wanted like chocolate and cigars," Karen said. "I sent him homemade cookies once—he said they were a little dry when they got there, but they ate them anyway."

"Mostly I send him school newspapers, Peanuts books, and other paperbacks. He passes them around. They share things."

Student Housing Should Be Academic Facility, Guest Says

"Housing is not a separate function but a support function and an integral part of the total education program," according to Harold Riker, director of housing and professor of education at the University of Florida and a guest lecturer at SIU.

Riker is on the SIU campus with 17 students participating in a summer workshop designed to train educator-administrator personnel to direct student housing programs at colleges and universities.

According to Riker, the course stresses the idea that student housing should be an educational facility to help students achieve academic success in three ways: through physical facilities, through various types of programs and through a professionally trained staff associated with the facility.

The workshop, which lasts from July 22 to August 2, will cover such topics as planning, financing, general administration and the relation of housing to other campus units.

Jack W. Graham, professor of higher education, is directing the workshop.

Ph.D. Candidate Accepts Position

Kenneth Burr Fouts of Pueblo, Colo., a doctoral degree candidate, has accepted a position as associate professor in the department of speech at Southern Colorado State College, Pueblo.

Fouts, 39, son of Mrs. Marian H. Fouts of Port Arthur, Texas, will receive his Ph.D. in speech at SIU's Summer Commencement, Aug. 30.

Road Improvements Coincide With Family Complex Opening

SIU is making road improvements in the area of its new 39-building Family Housing complex on Reservoir Road south of Carbondale, where some of the apartments are scheduled to be opened in September.

The project will extend eastward from McLafferty Road along Reservoir Road to the end of the SIU property line, and southward for 500 feet on McLafferty Road from Reservoir Road.

Completed this month by the Frost Construction Co. of Carbondale was a .6 mile road connecting Reservoir Road at the apartment group with the SIU Outer Loop Road in the area of Campus Lake Beach.

The architect's office is advertising for bids on construction of 2,160 feet of 24-foot bituminous pavement in the McLafferty-Reservoir Roads area, to be opened at 2 p.m. Aug. 13, in the campus architect's office in the Communications Building.

R. Buckminster Fuller On National Television

R. Buckminster Fuller, research professor in the department of Design, will be featured in an interview on the national television program "21st Century."

The program, narrated by Walter Cronkite, and spot-lighting "Cities of the Future," will be telecast at 5 p.m. Sunday on Channel 12.

Summer School

This modern resort, whose name in English would be "The Dunes," is the temporary home this summer of a number of SIU students on a special European tour. It is located on the Gulf of Finland near Leningrad, Russia. Altogether 160 students are on the tour which is divided into several groups for study in England, Germany, France, Italy, Russia and Czechoslovakia. Several faculty members are accompanying the group as instructors.

Fast Talking Salesmen Prompt Complaints Over Books, Bibles

Students approached by fast-talking door-to-door salesmen should remember the old adage, "You never get something for nothing."

But perhaps a better safeguard is to call the Chamber of Commerce to check the reliability of any questionable salesman, according to Harry Weeks, executive director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce.

Solicitors are required to register with City Hall before they sell. City Hall, in turn, sends the salesman to the Chamber of Commerce but he is not compelled to go, Weeks said.

The Chamber checks the credentials of any solicitor or company that seems unreliable.

Weeks thinks the best safeguard is to buy locally from a well-known company.

"Many people have been taken by house-siding salesmen as well as itinerant workers peddling driveway sealing," he said. "It's much safer to contract this work from local companies who aren't likely to leave town."

Anyone suspecting a racket or unfair practices should get the name and address of the company and license number of the salesman's car and report it to the Chamber of Commerce.

The most recent complaints have dealt with book and bible salesmen, said Weeks.

C. Richard Grunty, SIU legal counsel, said he hasn't received any complaints about salesmen recently. They are most prevalent in the spring with encyclopedia and aluminum cookware salesmen the most troublesome.

The most effective safeguard is a little known statute which went into effect Jan. 1, according to Grunty.

It allows the purchaser three days in which to cancel an unwanted contract for purchases under $50 and grants an indefinite time period if the salesman fails to give the name and address of his firm.

Grunty stressed that the statute only applies to uninvited solicitors.

"There is one company that will call a prospective customer before he makes his visit and is, therefore, invited," he said.

The best advice Grunty can give the public is "to think the purchase over."

"They are the best salesmen in the world. Nine out of 10 people will tell you 'I don't know why I bought a product' five minutes after he did."

SIU Trackmen Earn Position With Canadians; Eye Olympics

Ross MacKenzie and Bryan MacClaren, both products of SIU's track team, have earned berths on the Canadian track team currently on a Scandinavian tour in preparation for the 1968 Olympic Games this fall.

Softball Leaders

Immanuel Lutheran and Elm Street Baptist, both of Murphysboro, are out in front of competition with undefeated records in the Jackson County YMCA slow-pitch softball league.

Immanuel Lutheran has posted a 6-0 record and Elm Street Baptist is undefeated in four starts.

The league is made up of many SIU students in addition to members of the respective churches in Carbondale and Murphysboro. All players are required to be at least 21 years old.

Tied for third place with 3-3 records are United Methodist of Carbondale and United Methodist of Murphysboro.

The trials for the Olympics will not officially be held until sometime in August. Earning a spot on the team is almost a prerequisite for making the trip to Mexico. MacKenzie, who was graduated from Southern last spring, placed second in the team trials with a clocking of 47.7 in the 400-meter.

MacClaren, who is working towards his masters degree, is running the 200-meter. Both he and MacKenzie will also run two of the four legs in the 1500-meter relay.

The Canadian team was scheduled to meet with such teams as Norway, Sweden and Denmark.

John Vernon, another SIU graduate, is trying to earn an Olympic berth with the team entry from England. Before getting sick around the time of the Drake Relays, the outstanding triple-jumper was ranked as the number two collegiate jumper in the U.S.

Intramural Handball Tourney Semi-Finals Set For Weekend

The semi-finals of the Intramural Handball Tournament will be held this weekend on the handball courts east of the Arena. The matches will be scheduled at the players' convenience.

The four players vying for the championship are Bob Spackman, SIU's athletic trainer, Andy Vaughn, assistant dean of General Studies, and two students, David Rife and Michael Burke.

In the quarterfinals, Spackman beat Cliff Jackson, Vaughn downed Joe Polizzano, Burke won over Larry Good and Rife beat Tony Parola.

Brown, Toscano Lead Field In Minnesota Golf Contest

ST. PAUL, MINN. (AP) — Pete Brown and Harry Toscano both charged over Keller course playing the best golf of their careers Friday to remain tied for the lead after two rounds in the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic.

Brown and Toscano added 67s to their first-day 66s for 36-hole totals of 133, nine strokes under par on the 6,702-yard, par 71 Keller layout.

One stroke back was Jim

Colbert, who shot a 68 after being locked in the five-way tie for first Thursday.

At 136 were Tom Weiskopf, Ken Still and Joel Goldstrand. Still and Goldstrand shot 67s, while Weiskopf had a 69.

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, with a 72, after an opening 74, missed the cut at 146. The talkative and popular Texan took it in stride, quipping to his gallery, "Now I can go fishing."

Farewell

Industry, Ability Recognized At Annual Awards Banquet

Thirty-three awards were given at the annual banquet Friday night in the University Ballroom. Parents and workshopers witnessed the presentation of medals, cash prizes and scholarships in Journalism, Theater, Speech, and Oral Interpretation.

The President Delyte Morris Scholarship Award was presented in each of the four divisions. Scholarship recipients were chosen on the basis of their excellence in class, citizenship and potential in their chosen field. As winners of this renewable award, they are entitled to one year's tuition.

In addition to the scholarship, journalism awards included three cash prizes for the hardest workers and two medals for each of the advanced, beginning and year-book divisions. Dr. W. Manion Rice, workshop director, made the presentations.

Mr. Charles Zoekler's theater awards consisted of recognition of the best actress, the best actor and the male and female contributing the greatest service. Mr. Zoekler also made the theater scholarship presentation.

Speech awards covered a wide range of categories. The 15 presentations included three medals for the best original oratory and three medals for the best original extemporaneous speakers. The top four novice debaters were recognized, as well as the top experienced team of two members. Dr. Marvin D.

Kleinau included the speech divisions scholarship in his presentations.

Miss Janet Larsen, oral interpretation director, gave five awards. She recognized the most improved reader, the best performer in their show "Thurber and Spice" and the best performance in classroom studies. The workshopers who contributed the most received a service award. One student also received the oral interpretation one-year scholarship.

Six citizenship citations were presented at the banquet. Winners of these awards were chosen by the workshop and dormitory supervisors on the basis of their cooperation, attendance and eagerness to work.

Cuts from Seven Plays Included in Finale Of Theater Group Directed by Zoekler

By Pat Hill and Mary Herring

The lights dimmed and the audience became hushed as the Theater Workshop presented its second production Thursday night in Furr Auditorium. The program included sequences from seven plays—four dramas and three comedies.

Directed by Charles

Zoekler, with assistance from Ron Travis and members of the Theater Department classes, the scenes included:

"Salt Water," a humorous clash between a landlubber with a desire to sail and his nagging wife; "Riders to the Sea," a tragedy which occurred on the Irish coastline and was accented by a strong brogue; "Out of the Frying Pan," a repetitious attempt at comedy, with staged interruptions which became frustrating to the audience.

"The Maids," a suspenseful murder; "The Diary of Anne Frank," a well-done World War II drama; "The Madwoman of Chailiot," a clever job at custom and conformity; and the evening's longest production, four scenes from "Charley's Aunt," a quick-moving piece of hilarity and chaotic confusion.

The students did an exceptional job although they were handicapped by a lack of props, costumes and male actors.

The program displayed the varied facets of the young performers. Humorous actors convincingly portrayed parts of a more dramatic nature, while serious performers became witty characters.

Debaters Vie for Honor, Recognition

"Gun Legislation" and "The Devaluation of the Pound" were the topics with which Clifton Gerring and Bill Tecku, respectively, won first place honors in the Speech Tournament last Monday night in Davis Auditorium.

After long hours of research and study, Bill Tecku, Paul Leibson and Mike McKeeman took first, second and third place in extemporaneous speaking. In the original oration division, speakers and their places were Clifton Gerring, first; Mary Galbreath, second; and David Sims, third.

Brian Alexander, Marty Mulhall, Michael Thompson, Kathleen Linsley, Carol Wernecke and Gerald Bartashius were the other competitors in the two events.

Winners received medals at the conclusion of the program and novice speakers received certificates. Winners were Nancy Johnson, Janis Deselms, oratory and Kathy Krupp and Nobel Dowell, extemporaneous speaking.

All debate workshop students participated in the preliminary and semi-final rounds held at Giant City State Park Friday, July 19. From these competitions, the six best in each category were chosen to participate in Monday's presentation.

'Thurber and Spice' Revived

Start with a lively script and a talented cast, add young, exuberant humor—and what have you got? "Thurber and Spice," a delightful interpretation of James Thurber's famous Carnival.

A word dance similar to those seen on "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" was effectively used to open and close the show, bombarding the audience with snappy one time jokes.

Four of Thurber's famous animal fables were interpreted by members of the cast. Beth Willet presented "The Shrike and the Chipmunk." Jean Arensman did a memorable interpretation of "The Very Proper Gander." Gaye Cardwell read "The Owl Who Was God," and Patti Pace presented "The Little Girl and the Wolf."

"Here Lies Miss Groby," a hilarious selection read by Linda Steiner, was especially enhanced by Jean Arensman as Miss Groby, a dedicated English teacher. Linda Steiner was also a participant in "Mr. Prebble Gets Rid of His Wife," a macabre comedy in the best Thurber tradition. Sandi Graham and Joe Paldo were very convincing in their roles of a beautiful secretary and harassed business man.

Linda Steiner and Joe Paldo were together again in "The Unicorn in the Garden," a black-comedy concerning a man who sees a unicorn.

Keith Parker was excellent in his role as veterinarian in "The Pet Department," an amusing series of short conversations between the doctor and his patients: Sue Crain, Pamela Barnett, Gaye Cardwell, Debbie Daniel, Sue Woll, Sandi Graham, Jenness Clark, Tina Thuerwacher, Linda Neudecker and Beth Willett. A selection of line drawings added an amusing touch of humor to the production.

TV Spoof Entertains Workshop Audience

The varied talents of communication workshopers were in evidence Monday, July 22, during the annual workshop talent show.

This year's program, a delightful take-off on the "Carol Burnett Show," provided a balanced mixture of drama and comedy for the many workshopers who assembled in the University Theater to view the 11 a.m. production.

Jean Arensman bounced, bubbled, and sang her way through as mistress of ceremonies and substitute for Carol Burnett. She also appeared in the final act, an amusing (but somewhat confusing) skit concerning the trials of a pregnant woman and her family.

Musical talent was present in abundance. Steve Lee, amateur pianist, presented a lively and enjoyable medley of ragtime favorites. He also provided accompaniment for Becky Schilling's convincing rendition of "I Enjoy Being A Girl."

Peanuts and the gang (journalism workshopers) Mary Herring, Susie Vogt, Harriet Zipfel, Pat Hill, and Sue Kommarow) presented a delightful song and skit entitled "Happiness."

Michael Reeder, theater workshoper, displayed his talents as a dancer by performing a short ballet.

In the humorous vein, Pam Barnett fascinated the audience with her uproarious portrayal of a dispirited camel. Tina Thuerwacher's memorable interpretation of Somerset Maugham's "The Luncheon" evoked both amusement and pity from the thoroughly attentive audience.

Director of the talent show was Mike Scott, a senior majoring in speech. Mr. Scott, an assistant to Mr. Kleinau, handled the show quite well despite his apparent concern for the many problems encountered by the talent show participants.

Although the entire production was plagued by functional difficulties and a disrupted cast, this year's talent show provided a memorable experience for both audience and performers.

Spice of Thurber

During the Oral Interpretation presentation, "Thurber and Spice," July 24 and 25, Linda Steiner and Joe Paldo wowed the audience with their enactment of "The Unicorn in the Garden."
