The first of a series of motions to drop allegations was beaten 28 to 10 in a vote indicating the second article might have even more support than the first. Article One was approved Saturday night on a vote of 27 to 11. Six Republicans joined all 21 Democrats in the final vote on Satur-

For Egyptian Student editor to be appointed

A student editor of the Daily Egyp-tian will be appointed for the first time since 1965 under a plan that includes a seven-member board of students, seven-member board of students, faculty and Southern Illinois editors to make policy and oversee performance of the newspaper. Application forms and statements of Application forms and statements of the criteria and duties for the student editor post are being distributed this week. They may be obtained at the School of Journalism office, Com-munications 1202.

George C. Brown, director of the School of Journalism, will appoint the editor for the fall semester after the applications are reviewed by the policy board, which set the criteria for the job.

Establishment of a student editor post and a policy making board were among the recommendations made by a committee of professional journalists appointed by former, SIU president David R. Derge to study the Daily Egyptian and its relationship to the School of Journalism.

The student editor must have a grade point average of at least 4.0 in his major field and 3.5 overall at SIU and must agree to follow policies established by the policy and review board

The editorship is not limited to jour-nalism students, but applicants must have at least one term of experience in the DE newsroom either as a paid staff member, a volunteer working without pay or student working on the newspaper for course credit.

The student editor, who will be paid The student editor, who will be paid as a student supervision, will work un-der the general supervision of a faculty managing editor. The Daily Egyptian has not had a student editor but has been under direction of a faculty editor.

In addition, the student, editor will work with the managing editor in selec-tion of student staff members, including a number of sub-editors who will be named—editorial page editor, sports editor, news editor, entertainment editor, and others as needed.

The student editor also will be a voting member of the policy and review board.

Four members of the newly established policy and review board have been named. They are Brown, an exofficio member as director of the School of Journalism; Edward L. Horn, School of Journalism; Edward L. Horn, ex-officio as faculty managing editor; William M. Harmon, journalism in-structor, elected by the journalism faculty, and Harrison M. Crouse, Car-bondale, student elected by journalism graduate and undergraduate students. Two Southern Illinois editors have been nominated for board seats and their necemberge being environ their acceptances are being awaited to complete the membership.

In addition to the seven voting mem-bers, the Daily Egyptian business manager, Adrian Combs, will par-ticipate in board meetings to provide information and advice on the spaper's financial affairs.

The newspaper editors appointed by Derge to study the Daily Egyptian-School of Journalism relationship made School of Journaism relationship made their report to the president's office in March. Among their recommendations were more key positions and more responsibilities for students in the newspaper's operation and closer coor-dination of the newspaper and jour-relime closers. nalism classes.

Under direction of Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost Keith Leasure, a journalism school commit-tee of faculty and students drew up plans during spring quarter for im-plementing the editor's recommendations.

The aim of the plans is to open the Daily Egyptian to more student participation and increase its use as a teaching aid while continuing to publish it as a service to the University and to retain faculty supervision and guidance in the operation.

The sacred cow

The majority of readers of this page probably never give farm articles more than a second glance. Those dealing with livestock are most likely the first to be abandoned by the non-farmer reader's eye. Yet, the livestock industry is facing a situation today that will directly affect every consumer and perhaps our entire economy in the months to come.

Over the past 15 months the price of cattle has been falling at an alarming rate-$100 to $200 per head. At the same time the cattle producers costs have nearly doubled.

There are several factors contributing to this con-dition. First, the market is being flooded with foreign beef which has a direct effect on the domestic prices. For two years the U.S. has been without quota protection for American beef as a result of the President's decision to lift import quotas. This in it-the function of the American market with recen-President's decision to lift import quotas. This in it-self did not affect the American market until recen-uly, when in the face of decreasing demand and in-creasing production, several countries instituted im-port quotas on foreign beef. Thus, with the U.S. having the only open market, foreign producers have begun to export large quantities of beef to the U.S. The result is that the United States is quickly becoming the dumping ground for the world's beef producers. producers.

Added to increase supplies of foreign beef is a tremendous production increase by American far-mers. Reacting to American consumer pressures in 1972 cattlemen rapidly increased the numbers of their animals.

Another factor is the soaring cost of production. Fuel, fertilizer, baling wire and feed costs have skyrocketed and continue to soar. Baling wire sold last August for about $14 a roll. Today, a roll of wire will cost from $35 to $50.

As a result, many cattlemen have lost their savings, ranches, and any equity that they had ac-

Letter Program needed

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am interested in forming an association for parents of gifted students in Illinois as soon as possible. The Illinois Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction has provided us with a depart-ment for gifted and talented students. However, with

The function has provided within a provided a ment for gifted and talented students. However, with the present funds allotted the program, little can be accomplished at present in the way of identifying and providing programs for the approximately 150,000 students in our state who would qualify. The former United States Commissioner of Education, Sidney P. Marland, presented a report to the Congress of the United States entitled Education of the Gifted and Talented: Report to the Congress of the United States, describing gifted students as "among the most neglected of those persons with special educational needs" within our school population. The Illinois Plan for Evaluation, Super-vision, and Recognition of Schools states that "every school district shall make provisions for students of different talents, intellectual capacities, and indifferent talents, intellectual capacities, and in-terests." Being denied the opportunity to develop in relation to their abilities, our gifted and talented students are in fact being cheated of the right to their education by law.

education by law. What future discovery, invention, cure, work of art, opera, or other greatness will never come about because of the lack of meeting the educational needs of our special students? So much brain and talent, if left undeveloped, go undeveloped through life. I plead and urge any parent or other person in-terested in the education of gifted and oalented students to contact me for further information at 2916 Grand Avenue, Granite City, Illinois, 62040. Please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Library director making retirement plans

Post-retirement plans to travel may be stymied for Ferris S. Ran-dall, director of Morris Library. Reason: He can't prove that he was born, hence no birth certificate, hence no memory for the travel certificate was recorded. The family returned to the U.S. when young Ferris was 3; so hi missed being counted in this country's 1910 census, and he doesn't remember where they lived when the 1920 cen-sus was taken. Mees will retire from teaching job

The man who has been called "a master teacher," Southern Illinois' "Mr. North Central" and other laudatory designations is retiring Aug. 31 after 28 years on the SIU faculty.

John David Mees, University High School principal for 19 years, has been a professor in the secondary education department since 1965. For a number of years he was assistant chairman of the depart-ment and more recently has coor-dinated the department's doctoral program.

But his services and influence have extended beyond campus boundaries. He served as regional director of the North Central Association of Secondary Schools, as president of the Illinois Association of Secondary School Principals, and as a 20-year member and former associate director of the Illinois Curriculum Council.

International recognition came to him in the late sixties when his biography was included in the Dictionary of International Biography, in the first edition of Two Thousand Men of Achievement, and the Royal Blue Book: Leaders of the English-Speaking published in London.

Mees, born in Anna and reared o a Union County farm, attributed his decision to make education his life work to a boyhood association of a great-uncle, a teacher in Milwaukee, whom he admired.

Indicative of his devotion to the Indicative of his devotion to the cause of education, Mees has channeled his non-professional activities into closely allied in-terests—his church (Our Savior Lutheran Church, serving eight years on the church council), the YMCA (president of the regional and Carbondale YS), and service projects of the Lions Club.

Lawyer assists victims of consumer fraud

By Nancy Landis Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Robert Schulhof spends a lot of hours listening to consumers com-plain that their car dealers refuses to fix their cars, they can't return items bought from a door-to-door salesman and the frames of their trailers have warped.

Schulhof is a private lawyer hired as a special assistant attorney for consumer fraud in Southern Illinois. He was hired by Attorney General William Scott to handle cases of con sumer fraud

Ten to 12 complaints are called into Schulhof's office each day. He said most cases are not cases of fraud but of poor communications.

"Sometimes everybody's talking and nobody's listening," Schulhof said. He said he often acts as a mid-dleman between consumers and merchants

Consumer fraud laws, he said, apply only to merchants who per-petrate a fruad or misrepresen-tation in selling a product to a consumer for personal or family

The maximum penalty for con-sumer fraud is a fine of $50,000 and-or an injunction prohibiting the merchant to operate a business in Illinois, he said.

The office handles many cases The office handles many cases where consumers need help but there is no fraud, he said. Getting the consumer and the merchant together to discuss the problem solves many complaints, Schulhof said

He said there was a recent case of a convertible top that wouldn't work. Schulhof said he subpoenaed work. Schund said he subjectated three out of town representatives of the Ford Motor Co. to a hearing. Ford agreed during the hearing to get a repairman to fix the car, he said.

When faced with large companies like Ford, Schulhof said, "people feel insignificant." He said his of-fice can handle complaints with larger companies easier than in-dividuals can.

Schulhof said in the case of an out-Schulhof saud in the case of an out-of-state construction company that left Illinois with a consumer's money, he turned the matter over to the consumer protection office in the state where the company was

The procedure of investigating complaints involves paperwork, Schuhof said. He said the first step is to get the consumer's complaint and the merchant's response to the complaint into writing. He said through written communications, the consumer and merchant have an opportunity to settle the problem on their own.

Recital to feature piano, bassoon

Bassoonist Raymond Zahra will be accompanied by Karl Koesterer in a senior recital to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Home Economics auditor

In the first half of the recital the In the mist hair of the recital the two will perform Steve Koerber's "A Short Prelintude for Bassoon and Piano," Vivaldi's "Concerto in D Minor for Bassoon and Orchestra" and Mozart's "Concerto in B Flat Major for Bassoon and Orchestra."

After intermission, they will perform Mozart's "Sevenade No. 12 in C Minor" and Alec Wilder's "Sonata for Bassoon and Piano."

City to name chief

The police chief evaluation com-mittee will forward in three recom-mendations for new Carbondale chief to City Manager Carbondale the City Manager Carbondale Togethelly the charlos for new police chief would be assumed by Aug. My nexty-see month certifier than erglandly pleased, Fry said.

If the problem can not be settled by the persons involved, an in-vestigator is sent to talk to them, he said. If the investigator can not setsaid. If the investigator can not set-tle the problem, a hearing is held for the consumer and the merchant to talk to each other in his office with Schulhof presiding.

Many complaints are solved before reaching the point of a hearing, and a hearing usually set-tles the rest of the complaints, Schulhof said.

Merchants are very concerned about their reputations, Schulhof said, and do not like consumers to think they are being ripped off. Usually the merchant feels the con-sumer is demanding too much and the consumer misunderstands the merchant, he said.

When there is a case of fraud and merchant won't settle the the Schulhof has a secretary, two fulltime investigators and a part-time investigator. The full-time in-vestigators are students and will not be in the office when fall semester begins, he said.

This summer the office will han-dle 1,500 cases, he said. The office is able to handle more cases faster with the aid of the student intigators, he said

When fall begins, Schulhof said, the office will go back to a slower pace with only a part-time in-vestigator there.

Most complaints come from the more populated areas of Carbon-dale, Marion and Benton, he said.

Three former SIU students who work for the Illinois Department of Corrections were promoted last week by Director Allyn R. Sielaff. Robert A. Buchanan, 27, was named superintendent of Adult Reception and Diagnostic Services at Joliet. Buchanan received a master's from SIU in counseling and administration and has completed most of his work toward a doctorate in educational psychology. Buchanan had been warden of the Dwight Correctional Center since August 1973. Trank J. Derre, 40, was named assistant warden at the Dwight Correctional Center. Deere has completed coursework in correc-tions and law enforcement at SIU. Deere has been employed by the department since 1958. Kenneth E. Kotch, 31, was ap-pointed to assist Howard L. Skolnik, who was appointed corrections planning manager. Kotch did graduate work in administration of justice at SIU.

"The whole industry is faced with an overabundance of the produce in the freezer," said Si Stern of the Ludwig Shrimp Co. of Miami which sells shrimp for a fleet operating out of Trinidad. "There has been a backup at the wholesale level. Prices are actually below production costs," Stern said Monday.

A survey of Miami area super-markets showed medium-sized frozen shrimp were selling for about $1.50 a pound, compared to $2.50 a pound a year ago for a decline of 40 per cent.

prices were down about 15 per cent in the past four months.

"There should be some pretty good buys in seafood in the weeks ahead." said Hank McAvoy, a market specialist for the National Marine Fisheries Service in Gloucester, Mass.

Other market specialists said part of the reason for the large supply was increased consumption of fish during last year's meat boycott. People ate more fish and the people who process seafood increased imports this year to moct an ex-pected demand that never materialized pected der materialized.

Pitching in majors Ex-Saluki Pitlock at home with Sox

CHICAGO—Former Saluki southpaw pitcher Skip Pitlock, who hurled three years on the varsity baseball team, has developed into one of the mainstays of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff. Pitlock earned a spot with the White Sox mound corps after an impressive spring training. He compiled the best earned-run average on the Chisox staff during the exhibition season (1.49 in 18 innings). innings).

White Sox manager Chuck Tanner ed him in middle and late-inning relief used him in middle and late-inning relief during his early regular season ap-pearances. Pitlock's first few outings were less than spectacular, but during mid-May he found his pitching groove. On May 23, against the Texas Rangers, he hurled five innings of relief to get the win. Tanner rewarded Pitlock with a start four days later and he responded by downing the New York Yankees, 6-3. Tanner then removed Jim Kaat, the White Sox No. 3 starter, from the station and replaced him with Pitlock The Elmhurst native came through with The Eliminits have came through with several more creditable performances, including a gutsy seven inning pitching stint against the Baltimore Orioles on June 14. Pitlock allowed only three hits while striking out seven Oriole hitters, although he did not get the decision.

Pitlock, who described his role with the Sox as a "swing man", has been forced to return to the bullpen recently because of a "tender" arm incurred by Terry Forster, the White Sox southpaw Terry For relief ace.

The ex-SIU hurler said prior to a recent game against the Detroit Tigers, that he would rather start but will do whatever Tanner asks.

"I don't care what capacity I go out there," Pitlock explained, "but I can't stand sitting in the bullpen and not pitch for seven days."

Through the Sox' first 90 games, Pitlock has a 2-2 record and a 4.82 ERA for 65 innings.

One reason for Pitlock's graduation to the majors this year can be attributed to

Asher says player's losing strike

CHICAGO (AP)-A Chicago Bear veteran asserted Monday "it's getting obvious" the National Football

700th for Brock as Cards win, 11-4

CHICAGO (AP)-Lou Brock stole the CHICAGO (AF) -Lou Brock stole the 700th base of his career, singled twice and scored twice Monday while Ken Reitz and Joe Torre both homered in the St. Louis Cardinals' 11-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Brock singled in the first inning, stole his 65th base of the baseball season and scored on a single by Ted Simmons, putting the Cardinals ahead to stay.

He became the fifth man to reach the 700 mark. Ty Cobb leads the base stealing parade with 892 followed by Eddie Collins at 743, Max Carey at 738 and Honus Wagner with 701.

Ted Sizemore doubled in two runs in the fourth, and Reitz hit his fourth-homer in the fifth after he drove home a run in the third on a sacrifice fly as John Curtis, 5-10, coasted to his second complete game of the year.

Torres hit his seventh homer in the seventh, and the Cards closed out their seoring with pairs of runs in the eighth and ninth innings.

League's Player Association is losing its strike against the club owners.

"I feel Ed Garvey, the Association's executive director, is blowing it," said offensive tackle Bob Asher, still among Bear veterans who have refused to report to camp.

'He came into this thing with such hard nosed tactics, using freedom as the theme, that the good points of our stand have been disguised.

"For years players stood high in the eyes of the community. Now, by ignoring the public with the 'No Freedom, No Football' approach, probably 80 per cent of the public is against us sentimentally.

"You can't put a price tag on a loss like this. This was the reason in the past we commanded big salaries."

Asher, declaring the association should have gotten its main points across within the present pro football structure, said, "It's getting obvious we've lost the strike. The owner's aren't budging." ren't budging.

Asher said, however, that some modification of the Rozelle Rule was necessary and that many injustices in the expired player contract must be corrected.

"There are a lot of things we deserve, but won't get because we failed to con-centrate on the key issues," Asher said.

'We didn't have any alternate proposals to the freedom edict and the owners have been able to twist it around to indicate we have been wrong in the eyes of the public."

Instead of Commissioner Pete Instead of Commissioner Pete Rozelle arbitrating in the case of discontented players seeking to play for another club in playing out their option, Asher suggested a bi-partisan ar-bitration panel, perhaps consisting of players and owners.
