SIU parking garage will open Thursday

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The SIU parking garage will officially open Thursday, Clarence G. Dougherty, director of campus services, said Tuesday.

Inspectors for the Physical Plant and members of the architectural firm, Carl Walker and Associates, will tour the $875,000 structure Wednesday.

No official ceremonies have been set, although Dougherty said he hopes to have the first car drive into the building about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Cars with red parking decals will use the top level and cars with blue stickers will use the lower level, he said.

At the request of the Specialized Student Services Office, three spaces at the northwest and southwest corners of the lower level have been reserved for handicapped students, Dougherty said. There are 356 spaces in the parking garage, he said.

Dougherty said there is a "counter" at the entrance to the garage, which will show what spaces are open at each level. He added that users of the parking garage are subject to the same rules that apply to other parking lots on campus.

He said the parking garage "will cause some added congestion in the middle of the campus." An SIU Security Police officer will be on duty before 8 a.m. and after 5 p.m. to help direct traffic, Dougherty said.

"The officer will be used until we establish what we need to do to speed up the traffic flow," he said.

Asked why the opening of the parking garage was set for April Fools Day, Dougherty said. "Well, it's purely happenstance. I've just been pushing and pushing to get it done. When you set a date for things like this (construction projects) it's easier to go for the first (of the month) rather than the 12th."

Dougherty anticipates that he may be teased about the opening date. "We haven't lost our sense of humor," he said.

Callaway officially quits Ford campaign post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Howard H. "Bo" Callaway ended his troubled tenure as President Ford's campaign manager Tuesday. Political handyman Rogers C.B. Morton was appointed to succeed him.

Ford announced the change in campaign management, saying that Callaway resigned "in his typically unselfish way" to avoid any cloud of controversy while the government investigates his role in pushing for expansion of a Colorado ski resort he owns.

Callaway said in an interview that he quit rather than subject the campaign to rumor and innuendo during the Justice Department inquiry.

"I'm confident there will be complete exoneration," Callaway said.

Ford said the same thing. "I know very deeply in my own heart that Bo Callaway is an absolutely honest person and one who would not undertake anything improper," he added.

Callaway submitted his letter of resignation Monday. "In view of recent publicity, I do not feel it is in your best interest, nor in the interest of the campaign committee, for me to continue," he wrote Ford.

Callaway also told the President "your nomination is virtually assured."

Ford said he accepted the resignation reluctantly. But Callaway and Richard B. Cheney, the White House chief of staff, had wanted it about 10 days ago. Callaway said he asked then for more time to exonerate himself. He said he stepped aside when it became clear the investigation would not be concluded quickly.

The resignation is effective Friday, but Callaway left the campaign more than two weeks ago, suspended at his own request.

Callaway said he did not believe the controversy had hurt Ford's campaign against Republican challenger Ronald Reagan.

The shakeup had been expected. Callaway, a Georgia textile heir who had served as secretary of the Army, was suspended March 13 amid the controversy over the ski area expansion, would be on government land.

He said in a telephone interview that he decided to quit when the Justice Department advised the White House that it would take up to two weeks longer for it to complete an FBI inquiry into the ski resort matter. "You can't subject a campaign to that..." he said.

Callaway said he is returning to Atlanta and will have no further role in the Ford campaign.

Morton, 61, is a former Maryland congressman and Republican national chairman who held two Cabinet positions before joining Ford's staff in January with the title of counselor to the President, and the job of resident politician at the White House.

Callaway, 49, had been a controversial campaigner almost from the day he took the job, July 18, 1975. He had suggested that Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller was a political liability for Ford. Two top campaign aides quit last fall, criticizing the way he was running the operation.

Republican critics had urged that he be ousted then, but Ford defended his performance.

At issue is Callaway's role in seeking U.S. Forest Service approval to expand a ski resort at Crested Butte, Colo., into 2,000 additional acres of federally owned land. The resort, like most of its competitors in the Rocky Mountains, is on federal land and pays royalties to the government.

Committee OKs funding scholarships

SPRINGFIELD, (AP)—College students receiving state scholarship aid would get the full amount they were promised for this year under legislation approved Tuesday by an Illinois House Committee.

A $6.25 million appropriation for full-time scholarships was approved on a 20 to 0 vote by a House appropriations committee.

The appropriation, if approved by the full House and the Senate, would add money to the scholarship program for the current school year.

Gov. Daniel Walker has said he favors an additional appropriation for scholarships this year.

The committee, however, rejected 15 to 5 an amendment proposed by Rep. Joseph Lundy, D-Evanston, to provide an additional $4.5 million for summer school grants.

Lundy said summer school scholarships were discontinued this year for the first time in 13 years, but opponents said the state cannot afford to spend the extra money.

Illinois State Scholarship Commission officials testified that a higher than normal percentage of students who qualified for scholarship assistance this year enrolled in school.

They said that in the past some 80 per cent of those awarded scholarship aid registered for classes, but that this year the percentage was 84 per cent.

As a result, the $58.9 million appropriation enacted for full-time scholarships includes what now appears to be $6.25 million less than is needed for full-time scholarship grants.

Mary Brady, spokesperson for the Association of Illinois Student Governments, said that if the extra appropriation were not approved, full-time students on scholarship would have to sacrifice "a month in food bills or half a month's rent"—some $36.

Lundy argued that the cancellation of the summer school scholarship program would hurt the poorest students.

He said $4.5 million is a "drop in the bucket" compared to deficiencies in other areas of government which are occurring this year.

"We are telling them the neediest students spend your summer in idleness," he said.

But Rep. Eugene Barnes, D-Chicago, who handled the bill for sponsor Rep. Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, said students who thought about attending summer school on scholarships already have made other plans.

Soviet-American nuclear treaty in sight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet and American negotiators, meeting in Moscow, have reached basic agreement on the need for on-site inspection of each country's nuclear test sites, a high administration official said Tuesday.

The accord would, for the first time, allow American inspectors to check Soviet nuclear facilities to see that treaty provisions are not being violated. Soviet officials could do the same in the United States.

Some technical details remain unresolved and negotiators will be unable to complete a treaty setting limits on peaceful nuclear explosions in time to meet their deadline, the U.S.

official told The Associated Press.

The United States had hoped to complete the treaty by Wednesday when a companion agreement limiting nuclear weapons test explosions to a magnitude of 150 kilotons—the equivalent of 150,000 tons of dynamite—is to go into effect.

The negotiations to set limits on peaceful nuclear explosions began after the weapons test treaty was concluded on a visit by former President Richard M. Nixon to Moscow in 1974.

The high administration official, who has been following developments closely and asked that his name not be divulged, stressed that the differences are basically technical and failure to complete the accord is not expected to have a negative impact on U.S.-Soviet relations.

The administration, meanwhile, will not submit the weapons treaty for ratification by the Senate, but U.S. officials said weapons tests will not be conducted above that size in any event.

In another, and more difficult category, is the lagging effort to negotiate a treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons development until 1985.

The Soviets have not responded to the latest American proposals for resolving differences conveyed to the Kremlin more than a month ago.

Arab students to stage silent protest Wednesday

By John O'Brien
Student Writer

The president of the SIU Arab Student Association announced at a press conference Tuesday morning that Arab students would stage a "peaceful and silent" demonstration Wednesday to correspond with the general Arab strike declared by Israeli Communists living under Israeli military rule.

Marwan Barqan said the purpose of the strike, scheduled for 11:30 a.m. in front of Morris Library, is "to show the people of America what is really going on in Israel today."

"We appeal to the American people to look more rationally at the situation," said Barqan. "Palestinians under Israeli rule are tortured in prisons, thousands of them are still detained in prison without charges or even a trial. Many of them are tortured to death, thousands of houses have been blown up and hundreds of villages have been totally demolished.

Former SIU history professor C. Harvey Gardner, assistant professor of history Harlod McFarlin, professor of political science Earl Hanson and John Seldin, assistant professor of mathematics, also delivered statements condemning Israeli treatment of Arabs living under Israeli rule.

Gardner said the American public is "not only grossly ignorant of affairs in the Mid East, but is also 'victimized' by two extreme viewpoints. One is that the United States must stand 100 per cent behind Israel, and the other is that 'our gas guzzling autos' and economic interests should incline the U.S. toward a pro-Arab position. The former, he said, should occur to Americans as 'political rubbish.'"

"The solution," said Gardner, lies somewhere in between and should be based upon humanitarian considerations and he urged a solution to the problem before "the day comes when the Holy Land will be an unholy blood bath."

McFarlin, addressing himself to the American people, said, "We are being manipulated as a country, in part by our religious traditions." He said it is difficult to get through to Americans with simple facts because their minds are clouded and their opinions are skewed by a very false and abusive interpretation of Judeo-Christian religion."

McFarlin said Zionism should be a humane concept with which the whole world should be able to identify. If activities under the name of Zionism are not humane then such activities bear no relationship to Judaism and should not be supported, he said.

"We have a very fanatical minority group in the United States which is dominating and I think terrorizing American Jews into a monolithic bloc which it is not," said McFarlin.

He said a movement toward peace will come much faster "once the American people separate dogmatic and false interpretations of Judaism and Christianity from international Zionism."

McFarlin characterized international Zionism as a movement which is not concerned with world peace and one "quite willing to provoke a global war." He said as the 1973 Middle East war brought the U.S. and Russia "as close to the final holocaust as you can get," the Israeli-Zionist interest was completely indifferent. "They will send every American to death in the interests of Zionism. What they are doing to the Palestinians, they will unhesitatingly do to us."

He said the power of international Zionism is "grossly underestimated." He described it as a highly secret organization whose membership and sources of funding are impossible to determine.

"He suggested that the movement has somehow infiltrated the American media, 'systematically indoctrinating' the American people toward a pro-Israel position. He said the broadcast networks, newspapers and particularly the movie industry are guilty of promoting international Zionism.

Gardner illustrated the indoctrination system within the United States' political system by citing the presidential campaign of Sen. Henry Jackson. By concentrating his campaign efforts in the Florida and New York primary races in Miami and Manhattan, he said Jackson is making a "pitch for money which implies political clout for those that support him."

Gardner said Jackson's campaign implies that "the survival of Israel is an absolute necessity in terms of American foreign policy."

Hanson urged Americans to speak out against the situation in Israel but pointed out that it is unfashionable to criticize Zionism.

"When you criticize Zionism, you are regarded as anti-semitic, when you are considered anti-semitic, you are assumed to condone the holocaust."

Calling the legitimacy of Israel's existence "questionable," Hanson suggested that the Israelis solve the problem by reestablishing their borders as they were before the 1967 war.

Seldin said gross ignorance of the facts and the interference of emotions make dispassionate discussion of the problem nearly impossible. He suggested that the Israelis come to view a settlement as politically and ultimately behooving to the welfare of Israel. The problem, he said, should not be viewed as right versus wrong but as two rights that can be settled to the satisfaction and welfare of both parties.

Barqan said the Arabs would be willing to live in co-existence with the Jews as they have done in the past.

Udall's eligibility to be decided by three-judge panel

INDIANAPOLIA (AP)—A quick decision is expected from a three-judge federal panel on whether Rep. Morris K. Udall will join four other Democrats in Indiana's May 4 presidential primary.

The U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago overruled U.S. District Judge Cale J. Holder and ordered the Udall question to be settled promptly by the three-judge panel.

At issue is the constitutionality of state law requiring candidates to gather signatures of 500 voters in each of the 11 congressional districts to qualify for the primary. Udall was kept off the Indiana ballot after his backers accidentally filed 35 too few signatures in one district. Udall had more than the 5,000 total signatures required.

Beg your pardon

The Daily Egyptian incorrectly reported Tuesday that Richard Morris, manager of the Carbondale office of the Illinois State Employment Service, announced a discrimination complaint filed against the SIU Security Department by a former security officer, Thomas McDaniel.

The complaint was reported to the Daily Egyptian by McDaniel himself. Morris confirmed that it had been filed.

Five Israeli Arabs killed during riots

NAZARETH, Israel (AP)—Security forces shot and killed five rioting Israeli Arabs Tuesday as violent clashes shattered years of calm between Israel's three million Jews and 500,000 Arabs. The Arab rioters were killed in day-long skirmishes with police and army troops during a general Arab strike called by Israeli Communists, Police Minister Shlomo Hillel said. He said one Arab teen-ager, found dead in an alleyway near a demonstration and at first believed killed by police gunfire, apparently was shot in a family feud.

Most of the violence flared in the biblical Galilee district, where rioters fought troops and police with stones and flaming kerosene bombs. Towns in occupied west Jordan—already swept by anti-Israeli riots for more than a month—joined the strike in sympathy. Police reports said 38 policemen were injured and 31 Arabs hospitalized. Police arrested 285 demonstrators. After the deaths Hillel ordered security forces not to shoot again unless lives were threatened. By nightfall, the battles were over and a fragile calm prevailed. Police lifted a curfew imposed on three Galilee villages.

Lebanese politicians fear Syrian intervention

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Leftist Moslem and Palestinian guerrillas thrust closer to Christian headquarters in savage fighting Tuesday and some Lebanese politicians expressed fears that Syria might send troops to force an end to the civil war. U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, in an unusual move, alerted the Security Council to the situation, saying it carries "obvious potential dangers for international peace."

A sevenship U.S. task group from the 6th Fleet was moved to within 24 hours steaming time of Lebanon for the possible evacuation of 1,450 American civilians, Pentagon sources said. The force carries a Marine battalion of about 1,700 men. A Soviet cruiser was reported to have moved from the Egyptian coast to a point where it can observe the U.S. ships. There was intense house-to-house fighting as the leftist Moslem and Palestinian forces advanced to within 500 yards of the headquarters of the Phalange, the right-wing Christian party that leads the Christian forces.

Supreme Court hears death penalty arguments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court heard arguments on the question of whether the death penalty is such cruel and unusual punishment that it should be banned.

The lives of 468 people on death rows in 30 states depend on the answers based on arguments heard by the court Tuesday and Wednesday.

In urging the Supreme Court not to reinstate capital punishment, Anthony G. Amsterdam, a Stanford University law professor said 34 new laws enacted by states violate the Constitution because:—The new laws are so indistinguishable from the old ones that they are invalid under the reasoning adopted by the majority of the justices in the 1972 decision.—The death penalty under any circumstances is a cruel and unusual punishment forbidden by the Constitution.

Amsterdam, representing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) Legal Defense Fund, made his arguments as the justices heard cases about two men condemned to death in Texas and Louisiana. Capital punishment cases from Georgia, Florida and North Carolina will be argued on Wednesday for the states, the condemned men and the federal government.

Senators say no-fault insurance bill may pass

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new attempt to force states to adopt no-fault automobile insurance was given a good chance of success in the Senate Tuesday by two Senate leaders. The measure would give states four years in which to require motorists to purchase such insurance. Sixteen states now have such laws. The bill is basically the same as one which passed the Senate 53 to 42 in 1974 but which died in the House.

Prior to the scheduled start of debate Tuesday, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said he thought there were enough votes in the Senate to pass the bill. But he told reporters there was a chance that opponents would attempt a filibuster. With many large insurance companies now favoring the legislation—including some that once fought it—the main opposition to the bill comes from the Senate conservatives and from trial lawyers. A motorist who is insured under no-fault collects benefits from his own insurance company when he has an accident, regardless of who is to blame.

House bill OK's federal workers in politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Facing a promised veto, the House on Tuesday passed a bill to allow the 2.8 million federal workers to run for office and otherwise engage in partisan politics. There appeared to be little chance that a veto could be overridden. The 241-164 vote was 29 short of the two-thirds that would be required. The House then opened debate on the controversial measure to reconstitute the Federal Election Commission and restore its power to disburse public funds for presidential campaigns.

The funds have been cut off since March 22 under a Supreme Court ruling that the commission may not handle the money unless it is set up as a body entirely of presidential appointees. The final vote on that measure, which contains other provisions strongly opposed by the administration, was not expected before Wednesday at the earliest. Shortly before the House voted on the bill to greatly modify the 37-year-old Hatch act banning most political activity on the part of government workers, Republican Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona told his colleagues he had been in touch with the White House and "the President has said he will veto it if it is passed."

Latest Newsweek sells out in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Magazine distributors report that the current issue of Newsweek, containing excerpts from a book describing former President Richard M. Nixon's final days in office, is becoming an all-time best seller in the city. The Charles Levy Circulating Co., one of the city's largest magazine distributors, reported that some 13,700 issues of Newsweek it delivered to newsstands early Monday were gone by the end of the day.

More copies of the magazine were being rushed to vendors. Reportedly, no issue of Newsweek or its rival publication, Time Magazine, ever has sold out in the Chicago area before. The current Newsweek issue carries several installments from "The Final Days," by Washington Post reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward, describing the former chief executive as emotionally unstable, drinking heavily and allegedly talking about suicide in his last days before he resigned the presidency. Woodward and Bernstein are authors of the best-selling "All the President's Men," an account of their efforts in breaking open the story of the Watergate scandal. The book "The Final Days" is expected to be released in Chicago next week.

Talks intensify to avert trucking strike

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS (AP)—Top federal labor officials intensified efforts Tuesday for a "peaceful, reasonable and responsible settlement" before a national trucking contract expires.

However, "a lot of negotiating" is ahead before a threatened strike deadline of midnight Wednesday, they said.

Before talks resumed Tuesday, Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. said they were at a critical stage. But he refused to divulge details from the highly secret sessions that will decide whether 400,000 Teamsters stop their trucks from rolling when the contract expires.

Issues reportedly still on the table are improved wages, benefits, mileage pay for long-haul drivers and a cost-of-living clause.

A work stoppage by the Teamsters, whose trucks move about 60 per cent of the nation's manufactured goods, would be "most unfortunate for the trucking industry, for the union and certainly for the nation," Usery said.

The labor secretary and James Scarce, acting head of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, talked with representatives of Trucking Employers Inc., the industry bargaining agent, and Teamsters negotiators until past midnight Monday.

The trucking contract is the first big labor pact to be negotiated this year. The Ford administration fears the crippling effect a strike could have on the nation's economic recovery but also is wary that a hefty settlement will trigger another round of inflation if it is reflected in other major industries.

Jury finds Illiopolis man guilty of delivering drugs

By Debbie Absher
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 25-year-old Illiopolis man was found guilty in a jury trial Tuesday in Jackson County Circuit Court of illegal delivery of a controlled substance.

Two Illinois Bureau of Investigation agents testified in court that Paul Dunn sold them 26.2 grams of cocaine for $1,400 in Carbondale Feb. 19, 1974.

One of the agents said she had previously met Dunn in Springfield, where she worked, and that she and Dunn arranged for him to sell her the cocaine on that date.

Dan LeCocq, an IBI lab agent in DeSoto, testified that tests conducted on the substance showed it to be cocaine.

Circuit Judge Richard Richman set Dunn's sentencing date as May 3. Illegal delivery of a controlled substance is a Class II felony punishable by one to 20 years in a penitentiary.

Roger Taylor, 23, of Murphysboro, was charged Tuesday with forgery. He is alleged to have signed the name of Shirley Yearian, a Murphysboro resident, to a bill receipt from Best Trucking Service of Murphysboro, which had delivered coal to Taylor's house Feb. 5.

Richman set a $1,500 recognizance bond for Taylor returnable April 13 for a preliminary hearing at 1:30 p.m.

Two other cases scheduled for preliminary hearings were continued Tuesday after witnesses failed to appear.

The hearing for Edward Mitcheff, 21, R.R. 7, was continued to April 23 at 9:30 a.m. after a Carbondale police officer failed to appear as a state's witness. Richman reduced Mitcheff's bond from $5,000 to $1,000.

Mitcheff is charged with theft over $150. He is alleged to have stolen a guitar and some tapes from John Hughes, No. 312, 600 W. Mill St.

The preliminary hearing for Thomas D. Berry, 22, of Coulterville, was continued to April 14 at 1:30 p.m. after two Southern Illinois Enforcement Group (MEG) agents failed to appear as witnesses for the state.

Berry's bond on two charges of illegal delivery of a controlled substance was reduced from $30,000 to $1,500 to cover both charges. Berry is alleged to have sold heroin to MEG agents in November.

A charge of illegal delivery of heroin to a federal Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) agent was dismissed for lack of probable cause against John Fought, no address given.

A DEA agent testified in the preliminary hearing that he saw money being exchanged between Fought and another Carbondale man charged with the same offense.

One agent said he waited in a car in front of Pizza King, 308 S. Illinois Ave., while his source left to obtain the drug, and the other agent waited in the alley behind Pizza King to observe the transaction.

Students protest tenure recommendations

By Tom Latonis
Student Writer

About 60 students met Tuesday with the dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts to discuss negative tenure recommendations given two members of the School of Journalism faculty.

Students were protesting the emphasis placed on scholarly productivity and the fact that the favorable recommendation of the School of Journalism was overturned.

Dean Charles B. Hunt fielded questions for an hour on general tenure policies and procedures but declined to discuss specific reasons for recommending that journalism instructors William Harmon and Wendell Crow not be given tenure.

"I just don't think it's appropriate to discuss the particular qualifications of a person in a group. They can discuss those with you if they want," Hunt said.

Of nine people under consideration for tenure in the College of Communications and Fine Arts, five were recommended for tenure by Hunt. Four, including Crow and Harmon, were given negative recommendations. The final decision to grant tenure will be made within a week by Frank Horton, vice president for academic affairs and research.

The students noted that no one from the School of Journalism is on the committee that Hunt appointed to assist him in making the tenure decisions. Hunt said the committee consisted of tenured full professors and the only tenured full professor in journalism is the school's director. Hunt said he had decided not to use any department heads on the committee.

Hunt told the students that teaching ability, scholarly research and service to the University and community are considered in tenure decisions but would not say how much emphasis was placed on each category.

Hunt told the students his decision had not been a snap decision and it had been made following University guidelines. He assured the students that Horton would be informed about the meeting and that he would discuss the matter with the vice president.

"The fact that so many of you are here has indicated to me your interest in these two gentlemen," Hunt said. He did not say whether he would change his recommendations.

Representatives of the Journalism Students Association are attempting to set up a meeting with Horton Friday to further discuss the negative tenure recommendations.

Caballero running for student president

By Mike Springston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ricardo Caballero, a graduate student in history, has announced his candidacy for student president.

Caballero, who was chairman of the International Student Council last year, said the aim of his candidacy is to increase the participation of international students in Student Government affairs.

"I would like to see more international students get involved in Student Government," he said, "because we need a high voter turn out if we want Student Government to have any power at all."

"When only seven or eight per cent of the student population vote, it helps the administration say that Student Government doesn't really represent the students," he said.

Caballero said students play a major role in Carbondale but are generally ignored by the community.

"I'm very realistic about the relationship between Carbondale and the University," Caballero said. "The Carbondale community views the students as both the ultimate source of evil and income. Without students Carbondale would be a godforsaken place." Caballero said he plans to make Carbondale aware of the role students play in the community by excluding Student Government from Carbondale activities.

Caballero said he plans to ignore all invitations to take part in city government and devote Student Government personnel resources to defending students who are abused by Carbondale businesses, especially landlords.

Caballero said he would ask students who have grievances to come to Student Government where his office would publish the condemnations and recommend that students avoid patronizing that particular business.

Caballero, who received a Fulbright scholarship while attending the National University at Paraguay, said he thought the Student Center fees were too high for the services offered to students. Caballero said it was wrong for student organizations to have to pay to use rooms in the Student Center when fees were as high as they were.

"We'll try legal means to get things done," Caballero said. "But Student Government is so powerless, I'm pessimistic of any success."

Caballero said that he would allow Student Governmental resources to be used to make sure that students get enough parking in the parking garage.

Caballero said that one day a week he would make a Student Government phone available to students to use to voice their grievances to administrators about the parking garage.

Caballero said with a smile that he would bring the Chicago Symphony Orchestra to SIU if he was elected.

"If you're going to promise something, you might as well get the best," Caballero said.

Nationalize rails for social profit

By Robert Morley
Student Writer

The American railroad system, once a national resource, has become a national blight. A product of mismanagement and general ineptitude, the railroad system is in need of immediate overhaul, perhaps to the extent of nationalization.

U.S. rail officials are correct when they say all nationalized railroads in the world now operate at a loss, while only the privately owned U.S. railroads operate at a profit (3 per cent in 1972). But, the U.S. rail officials fail to mention that they serve only the routes they've found to be profitable, while operating little or no passenger service. By contrast, foreign nationalized railroads are operated not to make money, but to serve the entire nation, whether or not the particular run is profitable. In the United States, the rails are in effect asking the people they refuse to serve to subsidize the rails through their taxes. Another misleading point about U.S. rail profits is that the rails, anticipating federal subsidies, have neglected to maintain their equipment. By the industry's own estimate, it will take $35-50 billion over the next 10 years to replace the aging equipment. Had the rails been properly maintaining their equipment, they would have operated at a loss just like the world's nationalized railroads, but serving far fewer people.

We now have to stop and ask ourselves: "Are the national railroads in existence solely to make money, or do they exist because there is a national need for them?" If rails exist solely for profit, then you can justify the rails refusal to serve manufacturers and commuters in unprofitable areas. But, if the function of rails is to serve the public, then rails should be forced to operate in all areas, not just ones that are profitable. Because railroads have refused to do this unless they receive massive subsidies, the alternative appears to be nationalization. Either way the public is going to subsidize a national and comprehensive rail system. But, nationalization may offer a more efficient and socially responsive system than the ridiculous system we now are using.

Nationalization of the rails affords the U.S. an excellent opportunity to begin a realistic effort towards ecological and fuel conservation.

We need some means of dealing with the increasing demand to transport people and goods. Most highways are now operating close to capacity. To increase truck traffic will necessitate more highway building, increased costs, and even more pollution and congestion. Planes are notoriously inefficient fuel users, carry limited weight, and smaller sized freight.

But, railroads can handle up to three times their present freight traffic without building more railbeds. Also, with the possibility of electrified rails, railroads could not only be the cheapest transportation, but also the cleanest and most efficient.

If the people of America are going to heavily subsidize a private rail system which is inept and poorly managed, why not just turn full control over to the government which supports the rail system? This would allow greater efficiency by eliminating the present 38 separate rail systems, (which often try to make things difficult for each other), and combining them into one system. This would eliminate all the red tape and delay encountered when a train moves from its tracks to that of a competing rail system.

Another attractive sidelight to nationalization is labor's support. Organized labor, including George Meany of the A.F.L.-C.I.O., has publicly stated they would support nationalization.

It now appears that we must view railroads differently than the profitable monopoly of 100 years ago. Railroads should now be nationalized and managed in a manner similar to public utilities. In the end we must decide whether we want private profit or social profit.

Down to earth life difficult after UFO experience

By The Associated Press

Travis Walton was cutting trees for $6 an hour in the forests of northern Arizona when he saw the light, a bluish-green ray that he and six witnesses say knocked him to the ground.

Five months after what he says was an encounter with an unidentified flying object, Walton says it is still difficult to lead a normal life.

At dusk last Nov. 5, as Walton tells the story, he was struck by the ray of light from a UFO in the forest and taken off in the spacecraft by strange creatures. He was missing for five days until, his family said, they found him slumped in a phone booth in Heber, Ariz., pale and shaken.

In the days that followed, reporters from as far away as Australia pursued the Walton story; psychiatrists interviewed him; UFO groups studied the incident; and Navajo County Sheriff Marlin Gillespie, whose men had combed the woods in vain for Walton, confessed he found the case the "most exasperating" in his 18 years with the sheriff's department.

Walton, 23, now unemployed and living alone in a rented house in Snowflake, Ariz., says that he's barely existing financially. He has considered finishing his college education at Northern Arizona University, where he completed one year, or seeking a job in electronics.

But the tall, slender young man says he has kept busy. In recent weeks, he said, he has: "Been working with an artist to reproduce some of the things I've seen and writing a book" about the incident, tentatively entitled "The Walton Experience."

—Traveled to Toronto for a "news quiz show" on television and to Hollywood to film a TV pilot called "The Unexplained," in which he was interviewed by Leonard Nimoy, the pointy-eared Mr. Spock of "Star Trek" fame.

—Passed a lie-detector test about the UFO incident. Five of the six young men who were with him Nov. 5 passed a polygraph test about what they saw; the test on the sixth man proved inconclusive.

Mike Rogers, 28, who passed the test, is one of Walton's closest friends. Rogers still insists he saw the UFO. He says he and the others saw it as they drove along a bumpy mountain road about 12 miles south of Heber. Walton jumped out of the moving truck, ran toward the brightly glowing object hovering about 15 feet above the ground in a small clearing. He was knocked down by a ray of bluish-green light, Rogers said.

Rogers, who said he and the other men were still sitting the truck about 25 yards away, drove off in flight. When the men returned 15 minutes later, there was no trace of Walton or the UFO, Rogers said.

Rogers, a father of four who was the foreman of the woodcutting crew, said in words similar to Walton's: "I would prefer people to believe me, but there's nothing I can do about it if they don't."

Walton's story—he says he remembers only about two hours of the five days he was missing—is that he woke up on a table in a white room and found himself being examined by several creatures with bulging eyes and no fingernails. He said he seized a piece of plastic pipe and swung at the creatures, who backed out of the room.

Walton said he walked down a hallway into another room where he saw a chair with buttons on the side. He began playing with the buttons and saw a large screen filled with stars.

Next, says Walton, a human-like creature entered the room, took him by the elbow and led him into another room where three men and a woman were standing, he said.

Walton said the creatures placed him in a chair, and from that point on he could remember nothing until he woke up in the phone booth.

Sheriff Gillespie said he became skeptical when Walton failed to show up for a lie-detector test the sheriff had arranged with the Arizona Department of Public Safety.

"I do think that Walton along with the other six people did see something they thought was a UFO. From that point on, I don't believe anything else occurred," said the sheriff.

Walton says he didn't appear for the polygraph test because his emotional state would have produced misleading responses. He said the sheriff didn't keep his word that the test would be held "in private, not with the press around."

In February, Walton did pass a polygraph test in Phoenix, according to George Pfeifer of Ezell & Polygraph Institute, who said he administered it. The test was paid for by Aerial Phenomena Research Organization Inc., a Tucson UFO group, Pfeifer said.

Walton and his brother Duane, 26, who has been Walton's most outspoken supporter since the UFO incident, were tested for two hours each and both passed, Pfeifer said.

Walton denies suggestions that he and other members of the family were UFO buffs before the incident.

The sheriff says both Travis, Duane and their mother, Mrs. Mary Kellel, "have on numerous occasions indicated to me they have been UFO buffs. In fact, Duane and Travis had made a pact between each other that if either of them was picked up by a UFO, he would attempt to return to earth to pick up the other."

Are black brothers given a fair chance?

To the Daily Egyptian:

The question was asked by Miss Beverlyn Grace and Miss Cassie Neason, "Where is my black brother?" Sister, your black brothers are in front of you trying to speak to you every day with no reply. When I go to Merlins, I have to go by myself. You might say it's my fault I don't have a young lady to escort to Merlins. But let's be realistic, how many of you sisters really give a black brother a fair chance? Miss Grace and Company, do you really know what humiliation is? Humiliation is when a black sister tells her black brother "No!" Sometimes I believe half, if not all black sisters went to the same high school. I mean this to be the "high school of No."

Do we black brothers have to be subjected to this uncanny display of hostility? Then, you speak of catering to the white females. Isn't it time you look at yourselves first to see what's wrong? By the same token, isn't it just as bad when we have to play Santa Claus to you? Christmas only comes to this country once a year, dig! So, let us regroup and deal with this thing from a positive aspect. You speak of your sisters feeling like wall flowers but brothers are also wall flowers on various occasions. Does this truly display racist and discriminatory actions? Think about it sisters, think about it. It works both way, so let's deal with it before it's too late.

It is written, "We can not all enjoy the domains of heaven." It is also said, "One can make his/her heaven or hell right on Earth." My black sisters, I could further my unsympathetic rap toward you, but I will give you respect. I hope you can give the brothers the same.

Thought for the day

To the Daily Egyptian:

As I dragged myself to the verge of consciousness Monday morning to the sounds of WCIL, I heard the voice of Dick Hunter. He was advertising the inexpensive prices of carpeting at Hunter Boy's. He ended the ad with a thought for the day, "The best way to get a women's undivided attention is to tell her something that's none of her business."

It is statements like Mr. Hunter's that only perpetuate the degradation of women in this country.

If I feel that Mr. Hunter's thought for the day could have been more constructive and I feel a public apology is necessary and appropriate.

Safety precautions essential for rappellers

To the Daily Egyptian:

Spring is in the air. Everyone feels it.

People want to be outside and one of the best places to be outside is in Giant City. The park is a beautiful place to hike, play, party, to just be alone or with someone you get off on.

Every year, though, the number of accidents in the park increases, primarily in the Shelter One area by the Makanda bluffs. Last year the first fatality occurred in the park's history. All of these accidents were unnecessary and characterized by extreme carelessness. Most of these accidents occurred while the person involved was under the influence of one drug or another. It is not my intention to get down on drinking or doing dope, but people should be acutely aware of their capabilities and limitations while under the influence. Being high is one thing, but being high while high is another gig altogether.

The Makanda bluffs are one of the Midwest's finest climbing spots. Those of us that do climb there would like to maintain that privilege. In order to do so, we maintain a high level of awareness of safety. There are however, those that do not. I am speaking particularly of rappellers. Rappelling is one facet of climbing and in this area is grossly taken out of its original context.

Rappelling is very dangerous but can be done safely for those that insist on a cheap thrill. Safety means knowing what you are doing. It means rappelling on a climbing rope and not a clothesline. It means tucking in loose clothing and long hair. It especially means having a belay in the form of a safety rope, or at the very least, having a person at the bottom of the rope to perform a braking belay. Failure to do these things have resulted in many accidents.

It is also very hard to enjoy a beautiful day in the park when an untold number of drunks insist upon turning the park into one huge waste receptacle.

In short, if we wish to have the privilege of enjoying the park, we will have to accept responsibility for its continued survival, as well as our own.

Attention pet owners

To the Daily Egyptian:

There certainly are many irresponsible animal owners! While walking down Illinois Avenue on a Saturday evening, I saw a dog without its owner barely escaping traffic. Then there are cats following anyone who will give them some sort of attention.

I am a great animal lover, but it really saddens me to see all these animals running loose. I would love to have a dog, but living in a trailer prevents me from giving it the proper attention and freedom an animal deserves. I recently went to the Jackson County Humane Society to inquire about dogs. I must admit when you look at their innocent faces, it is hard to accept seeing them all cooped up together. It is hard to think that they are there because of negligent people.

Sure dogs are nice to have around, but there are several questions one should consider:

—Can I really afford an animal? By this, I mean food, shots and other medical expenses.

—Do I have appropriate surroundings? Or will the dog be running loose when I'm gone during the day.

—Am I willing to work with it and train it?

—Why do I really want an animal? It seems many people adore pets when they are young, but begin to lose interest after they grow older.

And of course there are the dead animals along roads. Perhaps this could be limited if owners took more interest in the security of their pets.

I hope people will consider these questions before they invest in a pet. I praise the owners who accept responsibility for their pets. Those are the people who really care about animals and isn't this the way it should be?

"Chosen People of God" have become oppressors

To the Daily Egyptian:

First, I would like to say that I am not an Arab, Jew or Christian. While I am generally unsympathetic to all religions, I am not quite yet hostile to any one in particular. When I am so bold as to judge another person, I try to judge that person on their own merits, not on their religious or ethnic background. Even though I am not acquainted with Marty Matin, I must admit that I am becoming very hostile towards the pompous, paranoid and narrow-minded type of attitude which Mr. Matin displayed in a letter to the Daily Egyptian on March 25.

To Marty Matin and anyone else who feels as he does, I must say that you have not contributed in the least to the demise of the Egyptians or the Romans or the Crusaders, least of all the Nazis. No one is trying to force you into the ocean. The Palestinians certainly did not merely "desert" their country. Your country is only surrounded because that is what you seem to want. You have not "taught all the great civilizations of history the beauty of knowledge." Aristotle, Confucius, Galileo, Shakespeare, Descartes, Newton, Edison, Franklin, Jefferson, and perhaps a few others, all managed quite well without your "light unto the world." You haven't suffered any more than the Incas, Vietnamese, Cherokees, Pakistanis or the Blacks or anyone else for that matter. We all have a rough road to travel, my friend.

Marty, you must have read a great deal more about suffering than you have actually experienced, otherwise you wouldn't be threatening and sabre-rattling and encouraging a bad situation to get worse. A lot of people are going to get hurt. Go and teach the world about the evils of ethnocentrism, and practice what you preach. Shalom, brother.

Teach world about evils of ethnocentrism

To the Daily Egyptian:

In his article "Anti-Israeli Slogans Won't Fool Them" Marty Matin said that Palestine was "deserted" 28 years ago by the Palestinians. That's like saying that the Indians of America "deserted" their land when the white man arrived. Christianity was used to justify the slaughter of almost the entire American Indian race, on the pretense that they were "heathen savages." The Zionists have tried to justify driving the Palestinians off the land where they were born, as well as murdering thousands of them because the land called Israel is the historic Biblical homeland of the Jewish people. Once again, a Western religion attempts to cover the gangrene of violence with the cloak of deception!

Through such actions the Zionist movement has demonstrated that it is a racist organization, where only Jews are welcome. It is not unlike the white supremacy syndrome in America, where all minority groups are oppressed and prejudiced against. The Palestinians, having been forcibly driven from their homeland, have no choice but to retaliate, which is, universally, the right of the oppressed. You, the "Chosen People of God," so long oppressed and abused in every country you entered, have now become the oppressor, and your doctrine of "only Jews are welcome" is no different than the Aryan ideology of Hitler.

Clarification

It has come to my attention that one of my cartoons which was published last week in the Daily Egyptian has offended a number of the Korean students here at SIU. The cartoon in question concerns the statement of one dog as he relates to another, "Last week, I mailed a case of Alpo to a Korean family."

The people who have been offended by the cartoon feel that I have somehow unfavorably compared the Korean people with dogs. Not so. Rather, I was attempting to parody the standard cliché which was used as a guilt device intended to make us (as children) eat our tepid TV dinners. Also in conjunction with the parody of a cliché, I wanted to express the gross inequity of our priorities which allow us to over feed our dogs while Asia starves.

I am sorry that the cartoon has been misinterpreted (and even sorer that I received no hate mail from dog lovers).

Academy Awards go 'Cuckoo,' Fletcher, Nicholson winners

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jack Nicholson, the rebel ring-leader of a mental hospital, and Louise Fletcher, his film-hearted antagonist, won 1975's best actor and actress Oscars at the 48th annual Academy Awards Monday night for their roles in "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest."

A tale of life inside a state mental hospital, "Cuckoo's Nest" also won as best picture of 1975 and for best direction by Milos Forman and for writers Lawrence Hauben and Bo Goldman.

It was the first time since "It Happened One Night" in 1934 that one picture swept all the major awards.

The awards for best supporting performers went to Lee Grant, the adultress Hollywood wife in "Shampoo" and George Burns, the vaudevillian comic brought out of retirement in "The Sunshine Boy."

Burns, 80, the oldest actor ever to win an Oscar, was the victor for the role which he inherited after the death of his closest friend for 50 years, Jack Benny.

On stage, the comedian proved his usual suave self, remarking that his last film prior to "Sunshine Boys," "Honolulu" - in which he appeared with his late wife, Gracie Allen-was made 37 years ago.

"Making 'Sunshine Boys' was so exciting that I've decided to make a picture every 37 years," he cracked.

For Miss Grant it was a special triumph in light of the failure of her NBC television series, "Fay," earlier this season.

Director Forman, 44, won cheers for his directorial award from an audience aware that he had chosen to leave his native land to work in America.

"It's a very beautiful, hospitable and open country," he remarked.

The evening's warmest moment came with the presentation of a special Oscar to Mary Pickford, the first superstar of films and a founder of the Academy. As expected, the 82-year-old actress did not appear but was seen in a filmed portion with academy president Walter Mirisch.

Her remarks were brief and haltering, but there was unmistakable joy in her voice when she commented, "You've made me very, very happy."

"The Man Who Skied Down Everest," the saga of Japanese adventurer Yuichiro Miura who made an incredible descent of the world's highest mountain, won as best documentary feature.

"Dersu Uzala," a Mossfilms Studio production directed by the great Japanese filmmaker Akira Kurosawa, was selected best foreign language film. It is the story of the friendship of a hunter and a scholar.

The movie is a Russian-language film.

Best song was a popular choice, "I'm Easy," written and sung by Keith Carradine in "Neville."

"Cuckoo's Nest" won five big awards, but nothing else.

"Jaws," the biggest money-making film of all time, scored for sound, original score and film editing. "Barry Lyndon" scored with four Oscars for art direction, costume design, score adaptation and cinematography. "Dog Day Afternoon" was the winner of best original screenplay for Frank Pierson.

Weekend mime show to portray Hesse novel

Mick Sgroi, a mime artist who studied under Marcelle Marceau in Paris, will present his masters of fine arts thesis show, "An Evening Of Mime," at 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday in the Laboratory Theater, Communications Building.

Sgroi and the cast of ten will do a "mimo-drama," or novel put to motion of Herman Hesse's "Siddhartha." "Siddhartha" is Hesse's story of a young man in search of the truth.

"Siddhartha," the main character of Hesse's novel, leaves his parents and home to journey through India. During his travels he becomes acquainted with many different disciplines, and finds happiness on the banks of Ganges River.

Under the direction of Sgroi, the cast, used in improvisational techniques to devise a script for mime from the novel, Paul Feldman, a junior in theater and

Regional students expected at SIU for language day

More than 1600 area high school and junior high students are expected to attend the fifth annual Foreign Language Day at SIU. Next Monday in the Student Center Ballrooms and Auditorium.

Students from more than 30 school districts throughout Southern Illinois will participate in a variety of activities including learning the tango from an SIU South American student and touring Germany via a multi-media program.

The program is designed to encourage the study of foreign languages, according to Judith Aydt, an instructor in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature.

"It is an attempt to acquaint students with the broadening aspects of foreign language study, as well as the opportunities both vocational and otherwise available to persons capable of speaking more than one language," said Mrs. Aydt.

The program will include side-tape presentations on China, Japan, ancient Rome, Germany and Mexico, mini-lessons in various languages, a discussion of the role of women in France, folk songs of several nationalities, presentation on Soviet education and culture, and a session on the tango and other Spanish dances.

A luncheon meeting for teachers is scheduled for noon in the Student Center Illinois Room.

member of the cast said that "mimo-drama" basically consists of taking the literary metaphors in Hesse's novel and adapting them to visual metaphors for the mime show.

Chinese touring group gives potpourri of China's culture

Twelve Chinese college students and two Chinese staff members from the province of Taiwan, China, will be visiting SIU and presenting a Chinese Cultural Variety Show 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium. The college students are the western part of the "Youth Goodwill Mission of the Republic of China" which is touring the United States from the West coast to the Midwest. A second group is touring from the East coast to the Midwest, said Y. Lee, a member of the Club of SIU students from the Republic of China.

The program is being sponsored by the SIU club and the University Convocations Series.

"The 'Youth Goodwill Mission' is aimed at promoting a mutual understanding for college students between the United States and the Republic of China," Lee said.

The Chinese students, seven men and seven women, were selected through try-outs and come from many colleges throughout Taiwan. The mission is sponsored by the Chinese Television Service, which is picking up the bill for the group's expenses. CTS is partially funded through the Chinese government.

The show will include a master's of ceremonies to explain the action on stage, Lee said. The songs will be in Chinese.

The two-hour variety show will include 16 different acts covering a wide range of the traditional Chinese folklore. Dances, songs and instrumental music will be performed as well as a Kung Fu demonstration and a Chinese costumes parade including costumes from 1112 B. C. to 1932 A. D.

The Convocations and SIU Students from the Republic of China program is free and open to the public.

A reception is planned from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Home Economics Lounge for interested students to meet the touring group.

Crafts exhibit comes to SIU

The University Museum and Art Gallery will open a Traditional and Contemporary Crafts Exhibit with a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Entrance 12 and 13 at Paner Hall.

The exhibit will remain open from April 4 to the 30, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

The exhibit has been brought to the University Museum by the Illinois Ozarks Craft Guild (IOCG), and the Southern Highland Handicraft Guild (SHHG).

Included in the exhibit will be examples of weaving, wood carving, quilting, ceramics, metalsmithing, glassblowing, and blacksmithing.

Darrell Harrison, museum curator of Education and Exhibits, explained that the exhibit is really two shows in one. "The IOCG asked all their members to submit works for the exhibit and the SHHG exhibit is a traveling show which comes from Asheville, North Carolina," Harrison said. "This is the first time we've had a crafts exhibit and it is all high quality work."

All the works in both shows were submitted to a judging committee before they were approved to be included in the exhibit. "Some of the work in the IOCG show was done by students," Harrison said, "but the majority of it was done by area residents." "Almost all the pieces in the traveling show and about half the pieces in the local show will be for sale. The museum is not selling the pieces, the artists are."

Harrison said that some of the artists will be present at Sunday's reception, which is open to the public. Admission to the reception and exhibit is free.

Disabled student 'presses on' to fulfill dream

By Ray Urechel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Coiled on the checkered bedspread, his head bobbed back and forth, like a chicken plucking at corn. He read the American government textbook, his back propped against the Shamrock green pillowcase. The breathing and concentration became heavy.

The Rolls Wheelchair, a trusty companion over the last decade, was at the foot of the bed on his right side ready and waiting. Foot flaps up and brakes on to inhibit movement.

Tom Rafferty spoke slowly. The vocal cords pushed hard and the speech came jagged.

"I was disappointed," he said. "But I always bounced back."

Tom, 39, likes to write. And he is quite good at it. But because of the severity of his cerebral palsy, which makes his arms and legs stiff like boards, he has not had the opportunity to develop his talent.

Although he graduated from Spalding High School in Chicago "Raff" didn't get to SIU until fall semester of 1974.

"DVR (the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation) claimed that I was too handicapped," he explained, spelling out the last word for my convenience.

The days of longing were long and hard. "I was a member of everything I could do. All the gimp groups and clubs. And I read and typed."

A new Rehabilitation Act, approved in 1973, broadened the educational opportunity for disabled persons. It was Tom Rafferty's emancipation into society.

"I was never in the real world before and handicapped tend to lead very protective and sheltered lives," Rafferty, who is a sophomore taking general studies courses, said.

"Even in grade school you (disabled persons) are brought on a bus for an hour or two in the morning and evening. And when Friday comes you are sent home to your family," he said.

"You socialize with your peers better than your own...handicapped understand their speech problems better, that's only natural. We have all had similar problems."

Some people ignore him because they can't—or won't—understand his slurred speech. However, Tom met two of his best friends when he attended summer camp at Little Grassy Lake. Bev Henderson and John Childs regularly treat Raff to one of his favorite pastimes—drinking beer at one of the South Illinois Avenue pubs.

He likes his nocturnal beer or two, which he guzzles through a plastic straw.

Despite his previous Carbondale connections, he says it was hard adjusting to college after being away from the educational process for two decades. He had to prove to DVR that he could cope by spending a semester at Mayfair Junior College in Chicago before enrolling here two years ago.

"Nobody has the opportunity for employment without an educational background and it is compounded for those who are disabled. I know it would be easier if I had gotten in sooner, both in an educational and social advantage."

Rafferty said his parents are pleased with his accomplishments, although he is still uncertain he has really succeeded. "I don't believe they ever thought I'd leave home unless I went into a nursing home."

His grade-point-average is 3.2. "It's going down," he moaned. Up on the wall above the bed there is a faded orange poster entitled "Press On."

"Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not. Nothing is more common than unsuccessful men with talent. Genius will not. Unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Education alone will not: The world is full of educated derelicts. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent."

Tom Rafferty is uncertain about his future. He says he might go into journalism. He wonders if he will graduate and if the diploma will change his life. "I don't know," he says. "One of my friends told me that in these days nobody can be certain about anything."

Local parks attract students seeking outdoor recreation

By Debbie Sneath
Student Writer

For SIU students, spring means more than occasionally skipping a class. It is a time to participate in outdoor activities. Some popular retreats are the local parks.

Giant City State Park contains 3,050 acres of picnic and camping areas and hiking and horse trails. In addition, Giant City has boating, fishing and repelling facilities, permanent showers, a lodge and cabins.

A nature information center also is located here and a full-time naturalist is employed. Another attraction at Giant City is an observation deck which is part of the water tower that won a design award several years ago.

Lake Murphysboro, another state park, features three campgrounds. One is for primitive camping, one for self-sufficient campers, and one for campers that need electrical and sewage hook-ups.

Canoes, rowboats and small motor boats can be rented; however, no motors over six horsepower are allowed. Swimming also is prohibited.

Crab Orchard Recreational Area has five beaches and six campgrounds. The campgrounds are located on the edge of finger-shaped pieces of land that protrude into the lake. Three of the campgrounds have electrical hook-ups and each has a hot house.

A fish cleaning station is available to prevent fish cleaning on the picnic tables. A 24 station self-guiding nature trail is available to hikers.

Located in the Shawnee National Forest, Lake of Egypt was made as a water cooling source for a power plant. Camping, picnicking, hunting, boating, fishing, skiing and swimming are allowed at this lake. Bass tournaments are held here every spring.

Devil's Kitchen, a conservation area, has a primitive campground and one beach designated for swimming. Despite its high quality of water, swimming is dangerous in the other areas because of the lake's depth and rock formation. Paddle boats and canoes are available to rent.

FUNNY CIGAR SMOKER

MODESTO, Calif. (AP)—Joseph Jefferson Floyd, who celebrates his 100th birthday next Sept. 14, is a regular cigar smoker. When asked whether he has smoked cigars all his life, he answered: "No," with a hint of annoyance, "I'm not through yet."

Graduate student receives Young Career Woman title

Carolyn Cobe, a Ph.D. candidate in political science at SIU, has been named Young Career Woman by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Carbondale and District 16 of the Southern Illinois area.

Cobe is an instructor at John A. Logan College and Carbondale Community High School. She is nearing completion of her dissertation, entitled, "Public Policy Formation: The Role of Survey Research."

The selection was based on the candidate's career achievements and ability to project an image reflecting the role of today's young women in society. Cobe represented the Carbondale Club in District 16 competition on March 21, which includes 16 clubs in the district. She will participate in the state-wide competition at the Illinois Federation convention in Chicago April 22 to 24.

In addition to her teaching assignments, Cobe is involved in a manpower analysis survey, coaches girl's athletic teams, co-sponsors the junior class and prom activities and participates annually in the Youth Legislature Program.

Cobe taught at SIU for four years in the Political Science Department.

Beg your pardon

It was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian that the ticket price for the 50 keg beer party at Giant City will be $1. Tickets are $1 dollar in advance and an additional dollar at the gate. The music group "Mesa" will play and prizes amounting to $200 will be given to winners in various contests such as three legged race, balloon throw and wheelbarrow race. The 50 kegs publicized are a minimum. It was incorrectly reported that tickets were still available for the Elizabeth Kubler-Ross workshop entitled "On Death and Dying." All tickets at the Newman Center have been given away.

Free School—Stop Smoking Clinic, 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., Student Center Illinois Room. Origami, 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., Student Center Sangamon. Landlord-Tenant Course, 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., Student Center Kaskaskia Room. Acting Through Improvisation, 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., Student Center Video Lounge.

Campus Briefs

Rep. Paul Simon (D-Carbondale) will address the Lincoln Junior High Parent-Teacher-Student Association at 7:45 p.m. Thursday at the school gym. Simon's topic will be "A Look at Education in the U.S." followed by a question-and-answer session. The public is invited.

Kenneth Telschow of the University of Massachusetts will present a seminar on "Third Sound and Superfluid Helium Films" at 4 p.m. Thursday in Necker's Building, Room A-Physics and Astronomy.

The Ivies of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority will visit the Carbondale Senior Citizens Center at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday and the New Haven Center at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Phi Sigma Kappa will hold its annual Parents Day activities Saturday and Sunday. Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, will attend the Sunday buffet for parents, alumni, active members and pledges. Reservation information can be obtained by calling 453-2205.

Assistance has announced that students who are seeking Federal Work Study funds beginning July 1 must have a 1976-77 ACT Family Financial Statement on file by that date. The office requests that all student workers file a new form as soon as possible.

Arnold J. Auerbach, chairman of the department of Social Welfare, presented a paper on "The Influence of the Emergence of BSW Programs on the Educational Forms and Practices in Social Work Education" at the Annual Program Meeting, held March 2 in Philadelphia.

David M. Vieth, professor of English, will lead a discussion on "Swift's Poetry" at the annual meeting of the Language Association of America to be held in December in City. Vieth published a note on "Swift: Poetical Works" in a recent edition of Notes and Queries.

Robert Harris, assistant director of security at SIU, will lecture at a law enforcement seminar to be held April 8 and 9 at Triton College in River Grove. Harris will lecture on "Administration of the In-Service Training" at the seminar, which is sponsored by Triton College and the Illinois Association of College and University Security Directors.

Science Club plans gem show

The Southern Illinois Earth Science Club will present their annual Gem and Mineral Show, April 3 and 4, at the Carterville High School Gym. This year's theme is "Discovering Nature's Treasures."

Team researches forestry projects

Forestry research projects at SIU are being reviewed by a four-man team of the Cooperative State's Research Service, Washington, D.C., Tuesday through Thursday. Members of the reviewing team are Allen F. Horn, Washington, D.C., Kenneth Davis, Yale University emeritus professor of forestry, Stephen Boyce of the Southeastern Forest Experiment Station, Asheville, N.C., and Thomas Ripley of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The review program will include departmental staff reports on research projects and progress, scope of the studies, research interests and needs, and funding for research in forestry.

Over 25 different projects will be reviewed and rated as to the quality of the research and the topic chosen according to Albert Meyer, university news service.

Displays will include jewelry made from natural stones by members, exhibits of minerals, Indian artifacts and fossils, and rocks that glow in the dark. Special movies will be shown at intervals during the day and demonstrations will include how to make arrowheads and how gemstones are faceted. Guides will be provided for any group desiring one, and selected dealers will sell jewelry and all rockhound needs.

Show times are Saturday, April 3 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday, April 4 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission and parking are free. The Bucks and Does Square Dance Club will manage the food concession, and will also present a performance on the gym stage Saturday evening.

Hypertension, heart attack discussed at recent seminar

By Terri Bradford
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

High blood pressure is the single most important identifiable factor contributing to heart attack, stroke and kidney disease. Known as the silent killer, hypertension annually strikes 23 million Americans, often causing premature death and disability unless blood pressure is reduced.

Speaking to a recent "Heart Disease 1976" seminar at the Holiday Inn in Marion, Dr. Leon I. Goldberg of Chicago discussed methods of treatment available for hypertensive individuals.

"I think patients' compliance in taking drugs prescribed by their physicians is the most important part of treatment," Goldberg said.

"The first thing I do when hypertension is discovered in a person is talk to the patient, tell him about the disease and advise him to take the prescribed medication."

Goldberg said one-third of hypertensive patients are not adequately treated; one-third are adequately treated, and the remaining one-third of hypertensive patients do not comply with recommended treatment.

Anyone with high blood pressure can effectively be treated by trying various drugs until the best combination suited to the particular patient is found, he said.

Goldberg said the problem with all drugs is that they may decrease sympathetic activities, decrease cardiac output and rate and patients may experience nasal congestion or sexual problems.

Some drugs may cause central nervous system depression; increase gastric secretions or cause muscle fatigue, depression, drowsiness, headaches, nausea, asthmatic attacks or diarrhea.

Goldberg reminded his audience of doctors and nurses that "side effects do not happen very often."

A major factor in 500,000 of the nearly 900,000 deaths in America each year from heart attack and stroke, hypertension can occur at any age.

Risk factors which work with hypertension to increase probability of heart attack or stroke include improper diet, cigarette smoking, lack of exercise and obesity. Persons whose parents have high blood pressure are also more likely to have it themselves.

In 90 per cent of all cases, doctors can not determine the exact cause of hypertension, Goldberg said. However, the disease can be effectively treated, if the patient attains the proper medical aid.

Awards banquet to highlight Journalism Week schedule

By Chris Gronkiewicz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The featured speaker at the annual Journalism Week banquet Friday night will be Gloria Anderson, features editor for the Charlotte, N.C. Observer. Her topic will be "What Journalists Need Are Standards."

The banquet, sponsored jointly by SIU Journalism Students Association and the Southern Illinois Editorial Association, is the final event of the Journalism Week program. The program, which will be held Thursday and Friday, will feature addresses by marketing representatives, a career panel discussion and the banquet.

Four SIU journalism students will be awarded scholarships at the banquet, which starts at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

Recipients of two SIEA scholarships for $300 each will be Jan Spinghetti Taylor, of Rapid City, S.D., and Bonnie Gamble, of Carmi, Ill.

The $250 Paisley Family Award winner is Debra Ann Sneathen of Fairfield, Ill. David Bender, of Skokie, will receive the Bill Lyons Scholarship for $150.

"How to survive a Communications Explosion in the Marketplace," is the theme of Advertising, Marketing and Public Relations Day set for Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium as part of Journalism Week.

Registration, for the purpose of a head count, will be at 8 a.m. at the entrance of the auditorium.

Opening remarks will be made at 8:45 a.m. by George Brown, director of the SIU School of Journalism. At 9 a.m. Robert J. Hardt, sales research supervisor for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., will present a marketing case study for the company.

"Follow the Litter: The Uncola goes Metric," is the title of the 10:30 a.m. presentation by Joseph M. McDonough, assistant to the public relations director for the Seven-Up company.

After lunch, the afternoon session will begin at 1:15 p.m. with "Pet Food Advertising: Strategy and Execution," by Jack L. Forcellede, product group director for the Ralston Purina Co.

Frank L. Dobyns, chairman of the advertising department at the

Gloria Anderson

University of Missouri School of Journalism, will speak on "Media Shock-What's Ahead (or Who's Afraid of Alvin Toffler?)" at the 3 p.m. session.

The 1975 Clio award winning 10 best television commercials will be shown at 4:15 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium and at 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. in Lawson 171. The showing is free and open to the public.

Friday activities begin at 2 p.m. with a career panel discussion in Lawson 131. Representatives include Frank L. Dobyns, advertising agencies and newspaper advertising; Jan Grupp, SIU News Service reporter; Robert Grupp, Southern Illinoisian reporter; Richard Ebel, vice president for public relations of Specialty Advertising Association International and Daniel Robertson, advertising salesman for WMIX radio in Mount Vernon. Each panelist, except Dobyns, is an SIU graduate.

Gloria Anderson, guest speaker for the Friday night banquet, received her B.J. from the University of Texas in 1967 and her M.A. in journalism from the University of Wisconsin in 1969.

She has worked for the Cincinnati Enquirer. She has been a correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor and the National Observer.

The Texas native was an Associated Press reporter in Sioux

Banquet tickets are available for ($4 for students) in the Journalism Department Offices, Communications Building Room 1202.

The workshops are open to all faculty and students.

COLONIAL TAX EVASION.

NEW YORK (AP)—Income tax payment during the colonial days tended to be a hit or miss affair with tax evasion seeming to be the rule, not the exception.

Taxing the income of citizens has been a part of American life since the first New England settlers and its equity has been questioned ever since, says the World Book Encyclopedia.

One of the first income taxes was called a "faculty tax," levied to equalize the tax burden of landholders and nonlandholders.

Beg your pardon

A story on Page 12 of the Daily Egyptian of Tuesday, March 30, was in error in stating that a woman now on the sales staff of the Jim Pearl Inc. Cadillac-Pontiac-Oldsmobile dealership is the first woman to sell cars in Southern Illinois.

John Arnold, sales manager of Vic Koenig Chevrolet, said a woman had worked at Koenig as a salesperson in 1972.

Arnold said the story also was in error in implying that because the woman now employed at Jim Pearl Inc. had applied unsuccessfully for a job at Koenig, Koenig had discriminated against her.

"We do not discriminate against women or minorities," Arnold said.

World War II idea comes alive today

In our fast-paced society the word "instant" has been coined to describe many time-saving products and ideas.

And now, joining the ranks of convenience items along with instant coffee and automatic dishwashers is the instant dress.

The idea of an instant dress is the brain child of Teresa Von Zircz Zitter, teacher of a continuing education class at SIU, "Creative Art and Dress Design."

With a few pieces of cloth of various lengths and widths, Zitter can create a complete wardrobe from evening gowns to leisure wear, and none of the dresses take more than five minutes to make. All it takes is the know-how.

Zitter was born in Turkeve, Hungary, 90 miles southwest of Budapest. Her father was a wallpaper designer and her mother was a fashion designer.

Because of their part-Jewish background, Zitter and her mother were put in a concentration camp by the Germans during World War II.

There, as a slave laborer, Zitter made her first instant dress in 1945.

"We were sent there with only the clothes on our backs and some bread that we carried in a tablecloth. I felt as if I had to have something pretty to make me feel like a human being so I put the tablecloth around me and wore it as a dress," Zitter recalls.

When the Russian Army got close to the camp where they were being held, the German guards left.

Zitter and her mother were able to leave the camp and make their way back home. But when they arrived, they learned that her father had committed suicide three days earlier when he was falsely told that his wife and daughter had been killed by the Germans.

After the war, Zitter finished her education in designing at Puzonany Peter University in Budapest and embarked on her designing career by passing a Designing Guild exam in her home town.

During the Hungarian Revolution of 1956, Zitter and her mother were forced to abandon Turkeve for Vienna, Austria. They came to the United States with a group of refugees in 1957.

"We had 10 dollars in our pockets when we arrived and knew only four words of English—'hello,' 'boss,' 'hands up' and 'shut up,' which we had learned from American movies."

Starting in a small apartment, with the bathtub in the kitchen, Zitter and her mother began to make blouses on a wooden board laid over the bathtub. This eventually developed into Ilona Creations, a family company with over 200 employees.

In 1962 she married SIU physics professor Robert Zitter, who was then employed as a physicist for New Jersey Bell Laboratories.

She said the idea of the instant dress was reborn in 1964. She was having guests over for dinner one night and couldn't decide on what to wear.

"Setting the table brought back another time and another tablecloth." That night before her guests arrived, she made her second instant dress.

Since then Zitter has developed a presentation and gives lectures and demonstrations on the instant dress. She has also made a number of television appearances including one on the Mike Douglas Show.

In 1967 her husband was offered a job at SIU. "Bob was so afraid I wouldn't want to leave New York, but he knew I hated the cold winters so he told me Carbondale had a tropical climate to convince me to come," she said.

"When we first moved out here we lived in Cartersville and it was just like my town in Hungary. I loved it, and the people were all so nice."

The Zitters now live in a home in Union Hill which has a little bit of everything, from antique furniture to modern paintings to Pre-Columbian artifacts. And there's always a dash of her Hungarian heritage in a room.

Besides teaching a continuing education class and lecturing on the instant dress and other topics, Teresa is writing a book "to teach women to do it (make instant dresses) for themselves."

The book will contain about 100 different instant dress ideas, she said.

"What is really fantastic about this type of dress is that it's different and original on each person. Nobody puts it on exactly the same way," Zitter said.

The book will give the types and dimensions of cloth to be used and explain how to wrap and fasten the material.

"Another great thing about the instant dress is that it looks good on almost any group and size," Teresa said. "If you're over size 14 you can't buy an elegant dress on the regular market."

"With the draping you do for the instant dress you can hide what is not to be seen and accentuate the best features of your body," she said.

Clothing should be easy to move in and easy to buy, said Zitter. "Dresses like these that are made by the fashion industry can cost from $200 to $2,000. I'm showing people how to make the same dress for six, maybe ten dollars if you splurge on material."

Zitter is a "Renaissance woman." Besides being a fashion designer, she is also a gourmet chef, and dabbles in embroidery, painting and gardening.

She has taught a class in Hungarian cooking at the Jackson County YMCA and can prepare 12 gourmet dishes in 45 minutes.

"I have lived a full life," Zitter said, smiling. Some times happy, some times not so happy. But recently very happy.

Zitter makes a few tucks in the material she has designed on model Kris Runyon.

Greeks plan marathon dance for muscular dystrophy fund

Members of the SIU Inter-Greek Council will sponsor a dance marathon for the Muscular Dystrophy Association on April 9 and 10 at Merlin's.

Co-chairpersons Peggy Hay, a junior in early childhood education and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, and Kathy Merten, a sophomore in accounting and a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, are completing plans for the event.

Hay said, "Our goal this year is $10,000. This will be the first time Greeks will be dancing for a national charity organization."

SIU Design Department challenges other schools to cardboard boat race

Those mad young students in their cardboard boats will challenge each other and the chilly waters of SIU's Lake-on-the-Campus May 1.

That is the date set for the third annual Cardboard Boat Race, sponsored by the University's Design Department, in which SIU students race their craft around a 150-yard course.

This year, the contest is being thrown open to all comers—particularly hardy souls from other colleges and universities.

"We're not just inviting other schools," said Richard Archer, design instructor. "We're challenging them."

The University of Tennessee at Martin has already indicated it may for the campus' 25 national social fraternities and sororities. Each year IGC undertakes a number of fund-raising activities for both the campus and the community.

Merten said, "We were approached by the Muscular Dystrophy Association during the late fall semester. We are looking forward to one of the most enjoyable fund-raisers the Southern Illinois area has seen in a long time."

Hay said, "The marathon will kick-off at 10 p.m. Friday at Merlin's and continue for 24 hours. We have also invited various state, local and university officials to dance as our celebrity couples."

A $200 cash award for the first place couple, and second and third-places will be awarded, Merten said. The first place couple will be determined by the amount of money received from pledges solicited by the dancers. "There are still applications available to the 'dance marathon,'" said Hay.

A parade on Saturday has tentatively been scheduled. "We will be having the dancers dance down Illinois Avenue, as well as marching bands, floats, clowns and decorated cars. Our attempt is to get maximum exposure for this event," said Bob Ramsey, a freshman in radio and television a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Archer originated the race three years ago as a fun way of getting his students to learn about properties of various materials and their relation to design.

But the race is also a crowd-pleaser, said Archer.

The contest is one of the few which gives an award for disaster. The skippers and crews choose the boat that sank the most spectacularly for—what else—the Titanic Award.

The Titanic Award came last year in the form of a sterling silver cup. Fittingly, the cup leaked like a sieve when the winner tried it out.

Livestock judging team ranked first

The SIU livestock judging team, directed by James Males, assistant professor in the Department of Animal Industries, ranked first overall in the national intercollegiate senior college livestock and daily cattle judging contests at Canyon, Tex., last weekend.

The team, which was among seven senior college teams in the contest, placed first in cattle judging, first in presenting judging reasons orally, and second in the swine and sheep judging divisions.

The contest was sponsored by the National Association of College Teachers of Agriculture (NACTA).

All team members received one or more performance awards. Dale Ben Wessels, had the highest individual judging score in the contest, was first in presenting oral reasons, second in judging beef cattle and fifth in swine judging.

SIU's dairy cattle judging team, directed by animal industries graduate student Standley Henderson, also placed first in the NACTA contest. The four man team of Darryl McLaughlin, Robert Van Iseghem, Dale Wolters, and Dee Jay Martin, placed first overall in the contest, first in representing oral reasons, first in the Brown Swiss cattle breed division and second in the Holstein cattle division.

SIU had a No. 2 livestock judging team entered unofficially in the contest. The team's total scores could have ranked fifth in the contest, Males said. The No. 2 team included: Joyce Ann Blank, Theresa Burkhart, Jerone Schmidt, Philip Titus, and Wayne Wedekind.

Dogs, cold wind greet SIU baseball opener

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Saturday was a two-dog afternoon as the Salukis ushered in baseball season for Southern Illinois.

Baseball tradition always involves a dog scampering on the field for the opening day game but, The Salukis had two canines frolicking on the field as cold fans huddled in the stands.

The wind kept the warm weather spectators away for the SIU doubleheader against Evansville, but the true die-hard fan was in evidence.

Spectators ranged from the fan with the friendly radio plugged into his earhole, to the young lady present for her first baseball game, who said to a friend, "I'll bet the outfielders really feel bad when they drop things that come to them."

Raymond McCluskey, a retired coal miner from Carterville, didn't miss a single home game last year, and he was present for the opener. "I suport the whole sport curriculum at SIU," McCluskey said, keeping his eye on the field as an Evansville out-fielder tumbled over the left field fence.

McCluskey said he is friends with coach Itchy Jones because their wives work together.

"I know one thing that could be different here," McCluskey said, "and that is the team could use more support. They should fill these stands."

By this time a good group of "hill" fans had gathered on their grassy knoll close to first base. Beer cans were being emptied faster than home runs were flying out of the park. While the cold wind kept the group down to a tidy size, the vocal comments were still being directed towards the field in full force.

Evansville Coach Tom Hendricks didn't mind the vocal banter from the ever-present cheering force on the hill. "It doesn't bother most of the guys, although it might bother some of the young guys on the team," said Hendricks, with the traditional chaw of tobacco disfiguring his face.

"When we come to Southern, we know we have our hands full and that we'll face good pitching and good sticks," Hendricks said between spits. "The facilities are much nicer here than other college fields. At our place we have portable bleachers."

One part of the baseball ceremonies was being handled by public address announcer Ron Daun. A former "Cactus Pete," Daun has been the announcer for the last three years.

Daun was fighting the cold wind in the bleachers behind home plate. "Everything comes out chattering when the wind gets to me, and I forget to look at the numbers," Daun admitted.

Even the PA announcer gets into the spirit of the game, but not too much.

Weekend road rally held by Auto Club

A time, speed and distance rally was held by the Grand Touring Auto Club Sunday which ran through much of the local Southern Illinois area.

The driver-navigator team of John Schneider and Robert Bates won, followed by Takis Hinoftotis and Norm Bates.

At the start of the rally, the participants were given a copy of instructions to guide them through the route. An instruction example was "right at stop sign" or "left after bridge."

The rallyists had to maintain a given speed as long as the instructions said. A simple electronic calculator kept the car on time with the instructions.

Besides sports cars, a number of American and import sedans rallied. In a rally of this kind, the type of car run is not very important since the rally is run on public roads at legal speeds.

Sunday's course took the rallyists through the Devil's Kitchen area and Cobden. They then went along the Alto Pass Road into the La Rue-Pine Hills section of the Shawnee National Forest.

The Grand Touring Auto Club will sponsor an autocross at noon Sunday at the Arena. There will be different classes for all cars. Further information, can be obtained by calling either 549-8057 or 549-8628.

Ruggers to host Illinois State after loss

The SIU Rugby Club split two games Saturday against Evansville. The "A" team lost the first game, and the "B" team won the second. Two quick scores in the first two minutes of the "A" game put SIU down 8-0 before they realized what had happened. Southern soon got organized and came back to make the score 8-7 on a try by Mike Dailly, and a field goal by Jim Elderton.

But SIU couldn't take the lead, and they gave up a try and two extra points, to make the final score 14-7. All scoring came in the first half. The "A" team is now 1-2.

"In the second half, we were knocking on the door, but we just couldn't find the handle," Elderton said.

SIU had better luck in the second game, clobbering Evansville 26-8. SIU's high scorer was Scott McLain, who tallied 12 points on two tries and two extra points.

The "B" team is now 1-0-1 for the season.

SIU hosts Illinois State Saturday on the field east of Abe Martin Field. Game time is noon.

SIU split with ISU last fall. "It should be a good game," Elderton said. "I'm hoping that we have a lot of fans at the game."

Soccer Club loses to SEMO

The SIU Soccer Club opened their season in Cape Girardeau last weekend, bowing 6-3 to a persistent Southeast Missouri State (SEMO) team.

SEMO attacked early in the game, taking advantage of a penalty shot in the first minute. SIU treated many times, but SEMO capitalized on many SIU errors and remained in control throughout the first half, leading 2-0 at halftime.

The SIU offense went into action early in the second period when Xenophon Xenophontos shot one past the SEMO goalie. But SEMO quickly retaliated to lead by two, 3-1.

SIU's player-coach, Ibrahim Adel, brought his team within one goal of their opponents, 3-2, with a head shot.

Abbas kept the SIU hopes alive late in the game when he took advantage of Kavouth Huy's rebound shot for a score, making it 4-3.

But SIU's defense was tired, and SEMO capitalized on it to the end of the game and won 6-3.

Wisconsin sails to win in Saluki Regatta

By Scott Caldwell
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The University of Wisconsin at Madison was the overall winner of the Saluki '76 Spring Regatta hosted by the Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club (SICSC) last weekend at Crab Orchard lake.

"It was great, nine schools were able to come down from four states and the weather really cooperated so that we could run all 20 scheduled races in the time that we had available to race," Bill Wright, SICSC commodore said.

Purdue University took second place with the University of Wisconsin at Oshkosh third, the University of Illinois fourth and the SICSC took fifth.

The regatta was sanctioned by the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association (MCSA) and the results will be used in tabulating school and skipper rankings at the end of the season.

"The other schools seemed happy with the regatta and we were very lucky that none of the boats sustained any damage that we couldn't repair ourselves," Wright said.

The racing started about 9:30 a.m.

on Saturday and went until 5 p.m. and started again Sunday at 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

"The MCSA allows the host school to run races until 1 p.m. Sunday and we had schools here, especially the team from Oshkosh, which haven't yet started to sail. They wanted to race right to the deadline so that's what we did," Wright said.

"We didn't finish quite as well as we had hoped but we had a lot of fun and that's what a regatta is really all about," Mark Rosenthal, SICSC member said.

The other schools attending the regatta were Notre Dame, Ball

State, University of Iowa, Millikin and Xavier.

"We still have a lot of things planned for this spring, including a canoe trip to Missouri in April," Wright said. "We hope to have time for a spring carnival on the lake. This would include races to see who can capsize a boat and right it the fastest and a race to see who can sail a boat backwards the best. The regatta was just the start of our spring activities."

The club owns seven 14-foot boats which it they store on Crab Orchard Lake by Lookout Point and teaches beginners basic sailing.

The SICSC meets Thursday at 9 p.m. in Lawson 131 and is open to all SIU students and faculty.

Soccer Club requests NCAA status

By Rich Gabbe
Student Writer

The SIU Soccer Club submitted a letter Monday to the Athletic Department and Doug Weaver, Athletic Director, requesting help in gaining status as a NCAA soccer team.

Club officers hope to meet with Weaver to discuss their reasons for approaching the department with their request, Jose Escobar, president and Joseph Chu, faculty advisor said.

Weaver was unavailable for comment on the letter.

Status with the NCAA adds certain restrictions that the club does not have.

Formal status would limit membership to students enrolled in SIU as undergraduates.

Team members would also have to be in good academic standing. This standing varies from different schools and conferences.

The club now plays with graduate students and members of the Center of English as a Second Language (CESL). These players would become ineligible if the team received NCAA status.

"We could field a team made up of all undergraduates now," Chu said. In previous years, this was not possible.

Competing as a club limits the quality of the opposition.

"Good teams in the nation don't play you if you are a club," Ricardo Caballero, a graduate student in history said.

Even though Caballero would become ineligible himself, he would still like to see the club gain NCAA status.

Weaver leaves SIU on July 1 to become Athletic Director at Georgia Tech. The University must give its approval, and funds, for the team to participate in the NCAA.

Women wrestle in meet

They were locked hand-in-hand and neither had an advantage when time was called.

That was how the first-round went in the women's intramural wrestling competition March 24. The deadlock occurred between Bonnie Burrow and Kathy Duncan, with Duncan winning the rematch. Both girls were in the first weight division which runs up to 120 pounds.

The opposite happened when Dee Stull, from the women's volleyball team, pinned her opponent in less than 15 seconds in the second division of 121 to 150 pounds.

In the 151 and over division, Marilyn Hollier, of the women's golf team, won a trophy for pinning Paula Mytych.

The next event was leg-wrestling. The winners of the three divisions were Kathy Duncan, Sandy Meyer, the head referee, and Helen Meyer, of the women's basketball team.

Jean Paratore, director of women's intramurals, said that both contests were held for fun. She didn't think there would be any problems with the contestants feeling masculine as a result of their wins.

Mighty Murray leads SIU in opener

By Dave Wieczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Power was the order of the day Tuesday during SIU's home opener as the Saluki baseballers romped to a doubleheader sweep of the Evansville Aces at Abe Martin Field.

SIU won the first game 10-5 and the second 12-5. The Salukis' record is now 7-6-1.

The big story of both games was the hitting of SIU third baseman Rick Murray. The sophomore had six hits in seven trips to the plate, including three homers—two in the second game.

Centerfielder John Hoscheidt also had a good hitting day, collecting four hits and two homers—one in each game.

"That's a new concept in hitting I'm picking up," jested Murray following the second game. "I was getting some good pitches, but I was surprised at the way the ball was jumping off the bat."

Murray is now the team homerun leader with five. He had one on the Florida trip and one at Oklahoma last weekend.

"I hit two homeruns in one day in high school, but I never did anything like this before," said the jubilant Murray. "I was just trying to make contact."

All of the Salukis were making contact. SIU had 10 hits in the first game and nine in the second. Rightfielder George Vukovich and firstbaseman Niel Fiala also had homeruns also had homeruns in the opening game.

The Salukis wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard in the opener. Bert Newman walked and went to third on Hoscheidt's single in the first inning. Hoscheidt promptly stole second and then the lefthanded-swinging Vukovich hit an 0-2 pitch over the fence in left field. The ball was just out of reach of the left fielder who rammed into the fence.

Murray's homer, aimed at the flag pole in straight-away center, in the second inning was SIU's only tally. Hoscheidt's wind-aided circuit through the right-center power ally was the lone SIU score in the third inning.

Evansville got hot in the third and fourth innings coming up with five runs aided by two Saluki errors, plus several walks and hits. Saluki hurler Rob Simond was having control problems, getting behind almost every batter and throwing a lot of pitches.

Freshman Rickey Keeton relieved Simond in the fourth inning. He finished the game, winning his third of the season without a loss. Evansville combined for eight hits off the two pitchers.

SIU picked up two more runs in the fourth and fifth innings. Fiala's two-run homer was the big blow in the fifth. As soon as the ball left Fiala's bat, the fans knew the ball was going over the right field fence.

Vukovich had three RBIs and Fiala had two in the first game.

The second game was over after the Salukis batted in the second inning. It was 8-1 after the home team took its second raps. Many fans began leaving, seeking shelter from the chilly weather.

Hoscheidt's solo homer in the second, Murray's two-run shot in the second and his three-run blast in the fourth was more than Evansville could handle. Murray wound up with five RBIs for the game and Hoscheidt had three.

Senior Tim Verpaele boosted his record to 2-1, although he was relieved by Jim Kessler in the sixth inning.

The Salukis hope to build on their two-game winning streak Wednesday at 3 p.m. when they take on McKendree in a single game at Abe Martin Field.

MVP

Glenn is top Valley player

He could get smothered in laurels. Sharpshooting Saluki guard Mike Glenn collected yet another award from the Missouri Valley Conference this week when he was named Valley player of the year.

Glenn was elected as the top player in the Valley by conference coaches and basketball writers and broadcasters. Earlier he was named to both the media and writers' first team for Missouri Valley players.

A native of Rome, Ga., Glenn finished the year with a 19.4 scoring average. He connected on 55 per cent of his field goal attempts and was the league's free throw champion. He did this despite a painful foot injury that limited his mobility through the early weeks of the season.

"Mike truly and richly deserves this honor," said SIU Coach Paul Lambert. "He went through a great deal of pain in the early season but still gamve 100 per cent. His value to this team can't be measured by points and shooting percentages. He and Corky Abrams were like having two coaches on the floor."

Saluki diamonds receive personal touch

By Dave Wieczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Leo Dailey is the 50-year-old (April 16 is his 50th birthday) groundskeeper for Abe Martin Field. About the only people aware of Dailey's presence on campus are his supervisors and the baseball team.

Since 1970 Leo has been manuring the Saluki diamond and it is generally regarded as one of the best collegiate baseball fields in the nation.

Although he has two fields (the junior varsity field south of the main field is the second one) to care for and having to do most of the work himself, Leo is not a big man for the job. He stands barely 5-foot-10 and couldn't weigh much more than 150 pounds. His face has that lean, narrow look. His hands are those of a man who has given a personal touch to the field. Leo wears the tradition gray work pants, work boots and a gray of green shirt. He tops it all off with the ever present maroon and white SIU baseball cap.

"Itchy (Jones) fakes care of me there," Leo admits in his native Southern Illinois accent. "He gives me two or three caps a year."

"I want people to know I'm a Saluki," he says proudly.

Leo sees most of the home games every year, with the exception of some weekend games and the second games and the twin bills.

The small town of Hurst, just a few miles north of Carbondale, is home for Leo, his wife of 23 years and nine-year-old son Charles. Leo and his family will be moving to Herrin by June, he says. He'll practically be neighbors with Itchy Jones, something he is anxiously looking forward to.

Although he is good friends with SIU coach, Leo gets the most enjoyment out of his relationship with the players. He works on the field with them in mind.

Wit 'n

Whiz-dom

"I always try to do what is best for the kids. I make sure there are no holes out there in the outfield. I go out there every day to check. I'd hate to be the care taker for the field and have a kids go out there and fall in a hole," Leo said.

It was the middle of the afternoon and time for Leo's coffee break. As he talked, we sat in a little shack behind the bleachers. The shack is his "office" during working hours. The only decorations on the pink plywood walls are a calendar showing the days of March and a 1976 Saluki baseball schedule. On the opposite wall hangs an old winter hat.

Scattered across the top of the plywood table that is nailed to the wall are cups, newspapers and Leo's lunch box. In the corner sets a metal bread box. Several leather baseballs and golf balls are on top of the bread box; no doubt they are souvenirs he found while working in the field.

"I like this job 'cause I'm more or less my own boss," Leo related. "I know I've got to get the inside of the field done and get out. The main thing is to make sure the grass is cut and the dirt is fixed up like it should be. If it's dusty, I have to wet it down."

"Ever since I've been at the field working, the players all know me," Leo said. "I know about half of their names. I sit around and joke with them all the time. Some of them, I don't know their names, but I get along with them all."

Larry Caluffetti, a catcher for SIU who played his last year with SIU in 1973, was one of Leo's favorites.

"I really liked Caluffetti. And I remember that Joe Wallis was pretty good. Remember that tournament we had here (NCAA regional in 1973)? Well, Caluffetti dropped that ball at home plate that lost the game for us," Leo explained. "He was so shook up. The next morning he came down here and talked with me for about 30 minutes. There was no one else here. The poor boy. He was really upset."

Leo usually has a reward for the players if they do well at the plate. "Every time someone knocks a homerun, I give them a bag of that damn ole' Red Man tobacco. I could just see those guys, like Caluffetti, grinning and rounding the bases after a homerun."

That Leo should be working and associating with people on a college campus is a little ironic considering his educational background. He only went to High school one year before joining the Army. Now he is president of the maintenance labor union on campus. That, along with his fishing, keeps him pretty busy.

"In Grand Tower I know a spot where I can catch catfish," Leo said, not too anxious to reveal the location of his favorite fishing hole. "I like to fish on weekends when I have some time."

Leo enjoys his job and plans on continuing at it for as long as he can.

"To cut a long story short," Leo said, "as long as Itchy treats me like he is now, I'll work my butt off for him."
