Senate criticism

Elections Commissioner Spencer Reese, center, listens to a question from the floor of the Student Senate Wednesday, during which his re-apportionment plan for 31 Senate seats was criticized. Later the Senate voted to remove the election commissioner's power to re-apportion.

Campaign buoy

Senate criticizes appeals board, administration

By Wayne Markham

Criticism of administration action came Wednesday night during Student Senate del to over an ad hoc Appeals Board set up by Chancellor Robert W. Max, Vicar.

Chief among the complaints voiced by various senators was skepticism over the temporary nature of the Appeals Board and fear that it could well become a permanent judicial body.

Re-apportionment of Senate seats also came in for an attack in earlier action and ended up with the Senate voting to remove the power over apportionments from the elections commissioner.

On the issue of the Chancellor's Appeals Board Senate opinion was split, with some senators attacking the administration while others just urged caution in accepting the Board.

Paul Wheeler, commuter senator was blunt in his criticism of the administration. He called the Appeals Board a farce and added "any meaningful students participation would be a farce."

"Things have a way of becoming permanent down here," Dale Boatright, west side dorm senator, told the Senate after submitting a motion which outlined definite limits to the ad hoc Board's power.

Student Body President Sam Panayotovich clarified the status of the ad hoc board and told the Senate it was set up solely to hear the cases of four students involved in a demonstration last spring against recruiters in the University Center.

IBM Computer slows queen election returns

Some 6,000 students cast their votes for Homecoming Queen Wednesday in an election that also included a mock presidential race.

Results of the voting will not be tabulated until sometime today, according to Tony Gianelli, Director of Student Activities, who said the turnout was about the same as last year.

In the past, results were made available hours after the polls closed, but a new system inaugurated this year requires IBM tabulation.

The delay in counting returns is caused by the added time needed to send the ballots to Data Processing, according to Gianelli.

A Student Senate election which will involve 15 senate seats in a run-off race November 13 is also scheduled to employ the IBM system.

Governor to be here

Governor Samuel H. Shapiro will make a special stop in Carbondale Friday, according to his campaign headquarters here.

The Governor will arrive at 4 p.m. and meet with campaign personnel and the public at the Citizens for Shapiro headquarters, 207 W. Main. He is expected to remain 45 minutes before leaving for a rally in Vienna Friday night.

According to Robert J. Brooks, co-chairman of the Citizens for Shapiro in Carbondale, the Governor has expressed a special desire to meet with students here.

Gus says he favors making love, not war but his girl has a different slogan.

Parents' Day advanced

The date for the annual Parents' Day weekend has been moved up from Nov. 23 to Nov. 9, according to Dana Feed and Janice Seibert, co-chairman of the event.

All living areas and University organizations planning to host a reception for parents at 3 p.m. Nov. 9 should contact the co-chairmen, as soon as possible.

Events scheduled for the weekend include registration at 8 a.m. Nov. 9 in Ballroom A of the University Center, followed by a coffee hour and slide program at 9 p.m. in the Center. Campus tours will follow.

At 10:30 a.m. the next day George W. Beadle, a Nobel Laureate, will address parents during cornerstone ceremonies for the Life Science Building addition.

The SIU-Northern Michigan University football game is set for 1:30 p.m., followed by residential and organizational receptions at 3 p.m.

A letter of invitation to participate in Parents' Day has been mailed to the parents of SIU students.

Mailing deadlines set

Deadlines for Christmas mailing have been announced by the SIU Post Office.

To insure delivery before Christmas "surface mail," such as parcel post and packages, should be mailed no later than Nov. 9; "space available" mail—sent by air if there is room—by Nov. 23; package air lift by Nov. 30; and air mail by Dec. 11.

The post office doesn't anticipate a significant postal increase for Christmas that cannot be compensated for with minimal effort, explained Richard King, mailing service foreman, because most students will not be in Carbondale during the Christmas vacation.

Personal stamp sales are expected to increase, he said, but this can be provided for by increasing the stamp orders and shifting the student workers at the window during the peak hours.

Convo schedule available

A complete schedule of Convocation is available in the Convocation Office in Room 202 of Shryock Auditorium, according to Registrar H.W. Wohlwend.

Students attending the regular Convocations held at 1 p.m. Thursdays in the Arena are reminded that the doors open at 12:30 p.m. No card will be issued after 1:05 p.m. or collected before 1:45 p.m.

Questions regarding attendance record-keeping for the Convocations and handled by Harral Hall or Pat Tepley in the Registration Area on the second floor of the University Center.

Travelers Quartet to perform

The Travelers Quartet will be featured at the First Church of the Nazarene at 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

The Carbondale group will sing gospel music as part of a special visitors' day service.

The service is being held in conjunction with ecumenical movement. Free gifts will be awarded to those who have invited and brought people to the church, located at the corner of Poplar and Monroe.

For further information call 457-4806.

Thanksgiving break Nov. 26 - Dec. 3

The SIU Thanksgiving holiday will begin this year at 10 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 26, and classes will resume at 8 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 3.

Vacation dates previously were reported incorrectly.

State officer to show LSD movie

Clyde Weatherbee, a member of the Division of Narcotic Control in Springfield, will speak and show the film "LSD - Insight of Insanity" at 8 p.m. today in Room 123 (Lingle Hall) of the Arena.

The program is sponsored by the Pre-Professional Health Organization: A question and answer session will follow the film.

Coleman given award

David M. Coleman, president of the SIU undergraduate chemistry society Chemeka, has received an undergraduate award in analytical chemistry by the Analytical Division of the American Chemical Society.

Research results given

Cancer-cigarette ties cited

By Darrell Aherin

"Definitely, all cases of lung cancer are caused by smoking except one rare type of cancer," Dr. Alton Ochsner, president of the Alton Ochsner Medical Foundation in New Orleans, told an SIU audience Tuesday.

Dr. Ochsner spoke at a public lecture sponsored by the SIU chapter of Sigma Xi, professional society for the encouragement of scientific research.

Dr. Ochsner became interested in the smoking-lung cancer relationship in 1936, when he noticed that of nine cases of lung cancer occurring in a six-month period all involved men who smoked heavily.

He has done extensive research and has written three books on the effects of smoking.

"I predict lung cancer to constitute 40 per cent of all cancer by 1975," he said. "Although many accomplishments toward curing cancer have been made, it is still increasing. Up until the thirties, lung cancer was uncommon. Men only began smoking heavily around 1910. Then 20 years later, the results began to show."

Dr. Ochsner cited a case of 18 years ago. Men between 50-70 were interviewed on questions relating to their smoking habits. The men were again questioned every seven years. When a man died, a report on the cause of his death was obtained. The results showed that among those who smoked heavily, lung cancer was the most prevalent cause of death.

"Smoking is just as lethal as putting a gun to your head," Dr. Ochsner said, "only smoking is more painful, prolonged, and expensive." He cited numerous statistics to prove that smoking leads to lung cancer and pointed out that recent studies show teenage girls are smoking more than teenage boys. "In order to stop chances of lung cancer, the smoker must give up cigarettes completely," said Dr. Ochsner. "It may help to realize that every two minutes someone dies from lung cancer."

"One reason smoking is not completely outlawed," explained Dr. Ochsner, "is because it is a multi-billion dollar business. The federal tax alone from cigarettes is 12 million dollars a day."

800 internationals enrolled at SIU

Approximately 800 students from more than 80 countries are attending SIU, Clarence Hendershot, assistant dean of the International Student Services, reports.

To provide an exact total, all non-citizen students are asked to fill out an information form at the International Student Service's Office in Woody Hall before Nov. 1.

By showing how large the SIU family of international is, "we are hoping to develop a sense of pride" in the visitors, Hendershot explained.

Taiwan has the largest representation with approximately 100. Hong Kong is second with 80, followed by Iran with more than 60.

SIU ranked 33rd in the nation last year for the total number of international students enrolled. Of the 1967 total of 733, graduate students represented 355.

Obelisk editor needs Centennial material

The editor of the 1969 Obelisk Centennial supplement has issued a request for material concerning SIU and Carbondale during the past hundred years.

Mimi Sandifer, a senior from Greenville majoring in journalism, says "the main problem is finding pictures for the supplement. I found some in the museum and archives, and faculty members have given me some pictures."

"Right now all my thoughts are geared to the period from 1869 to 1920," Miss Sandifer said. "Information dealing with this period is hard to find."

Miss Sandifer especially needs pictures of Carbondale during the late 1800's. She also needs any written material pertinent to Carbondale and SIU during this period.

"Old letters, documents and records of any kind pertaining to SIU and Carbondale would be greatly appreciated," Miss Sandifer said. "I try to follow every lead that I can find."

Anyone having pictures or information that could be used should contact Miss Sandifer at the Obelisk office. Any material submitted would be returned as soon as copies of it could be made.

Attitude relates to testing

For 98 of the 150 years Illinois has been a state, the legislature has been working with the same constitution.

Several attempts to pass a referendum calling for a Constitutional Convention have failed. Unfortunately, the defeat has not come because of organized opposition, but from apathy or voter fatigue. But voters are being given another chance now to call a constitutional convention.

For the convention call to pass, a majority of those voting in the November election must vote favorably for the call. This means that an individual failing to cast a vote on the issue, in effect, votes against it.

It would appear that both parties have agreed on this issue. The vote to place the referendum on the ballot passed the Senate by a margin of 50-0 and the House, 150-14.

Both gubernatorial hopefuls, Democrat Samuel Shapiro and Republican Richard Ogilvie have backed the call. Former governor Otto Kerner was also a strong supporter of the con-con call. He once said, "I have done whatever I have been able to do, but I don't know how much more I can do under the current Constitution."

With members of both parties backing the need for a Constitutional Convention the issue is passed to the voter. The question is one of exercise—exercise of the right to vote.

Letter Verification

For the protection of all letter writers, authorship must be verified. Contributors are asked to bring letters in person to the Daily Egyptian or, if mailed, correct address and telephone number should be included. Letters will be withheld until authorship is verified.

Public Forum

The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters. Editorials are written by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses, and represent opinions of the author only. Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters, which must be signed with name, address and telephone number, preferably typewritten, and be no longer than 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend upon the limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other material on pages four and five includes editorials and articles reprinted from other newspapers, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

To the editor:

Recently I took a test. I won't say it was a good or bad test, since the quality of an exam lies in its use as a teaching device; thus the value is measured by the teacher's attitude, and his use and/or abuse of the device. Yet if the atmosphere in which the exam was given is any clue, there is precious little hope for the test having been "good."

It was a 30 minute exam, with 40 multiple choice and two essay questions. By the time preliminary disorganization was bridled, it was a 40 minute exam. The rub was, however, that the graduate assistants or teaching assistants made nuisances of themselves during the exam.

One noxious soul, who thought he was being helpful, would occasionally interrupt the trends of thought with sinister warnings of the passing of time, and elaborate on how far along we should be at that moment. Rather than providing inspiration or incentive (for that is the art of teaching), his barkings merely produced obstructions.

But the heights of absurdity were scaled earlier in the session when some timid being apologetically requested that I remove my sunglasses. "No sunglasses allowed during examinations" was his pleading directive.

Now normally I don't wear shades in the classroom, for they diminish the eye-to-eye contact that is essential to communication. Sometimes, however, I forget that they're on; especially in a three hundred student lecture hall, where there is no chance for communication anyway. Only monologue. Besides, what better way to keep from losing an expensive pair of shades than to store them across one's nose?

At the moment of this interruption I was pondering a response to an essay question, and my thought pattern was broken completely by the pettiness of this edict from the ruling powers. What did he think I was up to? Did he credit the possibility that I might have a transmitting recorder in my book bag, and a tiny receiver neatly packaged in the glasses? Or was he fearful of my picking up stray reflections from other test papers in the hall? I certainly wasn't going to copy from the sole person sitting next to me. I had no guarantee that she was any better prepared than I was. (I have a tendency to trust my own ignorance before that of others.)

I do not wish to focus the entire blame on these underpaid, dedicated young people administering the exam. In their quest for survival in our modern academic jungle, they have become carrier-transmitters of the procedures and policies of narrow department heads and useless administrators. But, tragically, in the process they tend to drag the students under the same stupid yoke.

I did not dump 11 years and ten grand per with the world's largest corporation to attend SIU for an exercise in bureaucratic pettiness and mis-education. And I have no intention of tolerating the authoritative stratification of the academic community with its programmed pettiness of procedure and its processed production of Ph.D's. Eleven years of corporate control and depersonalization were quite enough.

My intent here is to awaken rather than vilify the assistants. I will be one of them some day, for that is why I am on this campus, to learn so that I might teach. But I would warn the young teachers that the path they tread may well lead to the quags of mass academia: depersonalized, stripped of the sense of self-worth, corrupted by the non-human value orientation of corporate bureaucracy; they will no longer qualify as men, let alone teachers of men. For the Spirit is gone.

I leave you who aspire to teach with these thoughts:

Dispel that arbitrary classroom wall of authority that you erect between your desk and the first row of seats. If it must be physically forced then abdicate the desk/throne and sit among the students. Be one of them, for like it or not, you are!

The university is teachers and students—and no more. Administrators are a figmentation of the prevailing organized system—they contribute nothing to learning, knowledge, wisdom. The academic community is yours, teachers and students; it belongs to you.

Take it.

Out of touch

To the editor:

As a student, it is easy to see that the Democrats, led by Mayor Daley and Governor Shapiro, are out of touch with new ideas, out of touch with the college generation. "Luv and Guv" has come to mean luv the status quo.

That's why I support Richard Ogilvie for governor. He has new ideas and new solutions, not the tired ones which have been tried and tried—with failure after failure—for years. He will make state government responsive to the people.

In mourning

To the editor:

In the past few days many people have questioned me as to why I wear a black armband.

I wear a black armband because I am in mourning. Mourning the senseless murders and deaths that have occurred in and around the country of Viet Nam. Also, it is not only the deaths of American men that I wish to mourn and remind people of, but also the deaths of the Vietnamese people.

I mourn all of these people, but not as "our soldiers," "our allies," or "our enemies," but as fellow men in our world.

Czechs to observe 50th anniversary on Oct. 28

By Joseph Kuprek

What has made the Czechs and Slovaks so accident prone? What is the nature of the national spirit that has enabled them to survive centuries of disasters and will bring them through this latest catastrophe, too? It was not until 1918, 50 years ago, that most people in the West became conscious of the existence of the Czechs and Slovaks. Then, quite suddenly, among the flurry of new nation-states which sprang from the ruins of the old European empires—Tsarist Russia, Imperial Germany, above all Austria-Hungary—one, Czechoslovakia, surprisingly appeared, as a full-fledged and prosperous country.

It had splendid cities, a mature economy based on rich agriculture and advanced industry, an ancient cultural tradition with a democratic constitution. It had in its founder-President, Thomas G. Masaryk, plainly a great man and statesman who, in wisdom, moderation and tenacious adherence to principle, made his contemporaries in other lands look shallow.

The new state was not perfect in all its dealings, but it shone like a beacon of sanity and comparative decency for just 20 years. Rumania, Yugoslavia, Hungary, the new Poland, too, unable to sustain the strain of unfamiliar democratic procedures, sooner or later subsided into authoritarianism or a fascist or crypto-fascist kind. Czechoslovakia alone held out protected by its association with France in the Little Entente of small states designed to assist in the containment of Germany. Held out until, in 1938, Hitler broke the bounds and France and Britain threw the Nazi wolves that "far away country of which we know little."

When the war was over and the government-in-exile returned in triumph to Prague, there was only one choice: close friendship with the Russians, the fellow-Slavs to whom they were dominated by Austro-Hungary, had always looked as their natural cousins. But Russia was now the Soviet Union, ruled over by a Georgian dictator, Stalin, who did not believe in friendship or the kinship of Slavs, only in power.

He was to be content with nothing less than the incorporation of the country in the Soviet bloc, and the installation of a Communist puppet Government.

After three years of unremitting pressure the coup d'etat of 1948 was staged. For the next 20 years Czechoslovakia was to present itself to the world as the most obedient and rigidly run Soviet satellite, scarcely stirred by the great upheavals which followed Khrushchev's destruction in 1956 of the Stalin idol until this year's miracle of resurrection when Czechoslovakia reappeared with all its spirit, its character, its ideals intact.

The Czechoslovakia which emerged from the First World War consisted basically of the old kingdom of Bohemia (which included Moravia) ruled directly by the Habsburg emperor in Vienna, and Slovakia, which had been incorporated into the Hungarian part of the Empire of Austria-Hungary, the dual monarchy. A glance at the map shows that these small countries, embedded in the very heart of Europe, were unlikely to survive as independent entities in a world of expansive great powers. If the Czechs and Slovaks had not been swallowed up by the Habsburgs, they would have been engulfed by the Russians—or the Prussians. The only other course would have been for the Czechs to turn Bohemia into the headquarters of a Czech empire, itself swallowing up adjacent lands until it was strong enough to stand on its own feet as one imperial power among others.

This, in fact, once nearly happened. After a number of false starts the medieval kings of Bohemia achieved great power and extensive territorial gains. There was a moment when Bohemia held sway from the Baltic to the Adriatic—"Shakespeare's sea coast of Illyria." The Bohemians, then, far from being an oppressed people, were themselves the colonizers. The Bohemians kept their independence for long after the defeat of Ottokar; all they lost then was their chance to impose on Central Europe a Slav imperium as opposed to a Germanic one. And, indeed, they stubbornly preserved their identity, under Austrian rule, right through to 1918. But the struggle involved in this feat was bitter, sustained and frequently bloody in the extreme.

The Slovaks in their Carpathian mountains had a different history. The Great Moravian Empire—of which Slovakia indisputably was the territorial nucleus and whose inhabitants were the forefathers of present-day Slovaks, existed from the ninth century. Early in the 10th century Slovaks were defeated by the Magyars of Hungary. Integrated within the kingdom of Saint-Stephen, Slovakia constituted in the 11th and 12th centuries an administrative principality forming the appanage of the heir to the throne. It was called Upper Hungary. Thus, within the framework of Hungary, Slovakia remained more or less an independent administrative unit, with its own administration and military and financial autonomy.

"It is the tragic fate of certain peoples to fight out terrible struggles for the advantage of all mankind, but by the sacrifice of their whole strength and blood."

We begin to see the foundations of the powerful, enduring, undemonstrative culture which was to expand rapidly, still under Austro-Hungarian rule, with the rise of the nationalistic spirit in the 19th century and to show so briefly in the open during two short decades of the 20th. The revolution, when it came, was no more than the triumphant and somewhat dazed emergence of the sober middle class into an arena from which the monarch and his court had been swept away by war. It was the intellectuals who took over. Most of them had been educated in Vienna.

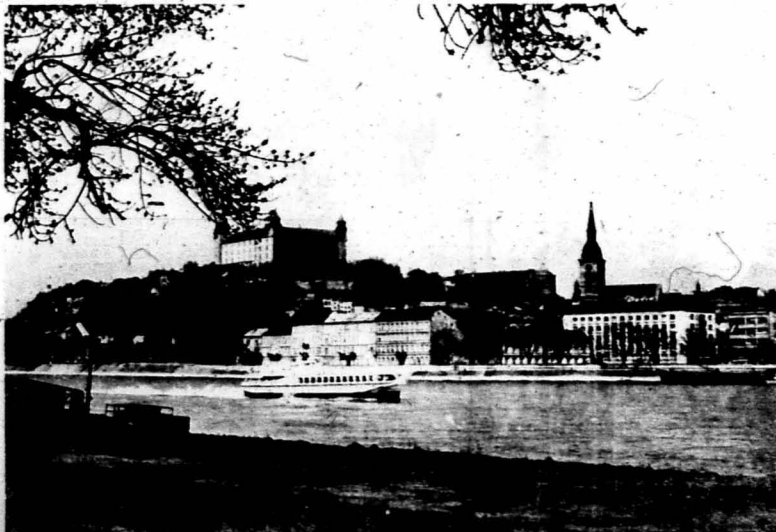

For nationalism, even the modest, dour, enduring Czech kind of nationalism, has its seamy side. One of the failures of the Republic of Czechoslovakia was embodied in the attitude of the Czechs to their brothers, the Slovaks, who, engulfed by the Hungarians, did not share in the advanced culture and industrial standards of the Czechs under Austrians. Prague looked down on Bratislava, the capital of Slovakia and Hitler knew how to exploit this weakness. So, later, did Stalin.

One of the most heartening aspects of the Czechoslovakian revolt against the invasion of Russians and Warsaw pact members was the fact that it was fomented in the first place by Slovak intellectuals and led to its climax by the Slovak politician, Dubcek, speaking for the country as a whole. Thus, in the midst of heartbreak, one more necessary step forward has been taken. Czechs and Slovaks are unified as never before.

On October 28, 1968, the 50th anniversary of the formation of Czechoslovakia, the occasion will be marked by the proclamation of the country as Federal Republic of Czechs and Slovaks.

The Czechoslovaks will come through. They are not brittle. They are never extravagant in their demands. They have lessons for us all. It is only the brutal selfishness of Mr. Brezhnev and his friends that has driven the Czechoslovaks to defiance. They know they had to live with the Soviet Union and be her ally; they asked only to be allowed to organize their own lives.

Czechoslovakia may yet be given the chance to show the world how small nations can combine with large without losing their autonomy. But they cannot do this when powerful nations strike out blindly at the best sign of independent thinking. In doing this, of course, the powerful nations are digging their own graves, but they are in a very long run, as dying.

Buyer education cited as necessity

By Carole L. Roberts

Those who attended a consumer's conference at SIU on Wednesday were told that both legislation and education must be used to help the buyer make more intelligent choices.

David Schoenfeld, of the President's Committee on Consumer Affairs, keynote speaker for the Consumer Problems Conference, said legislation deals with the surface problems at the time, but education is more permanent and practical.

Schoenfeld outlined the basic elements influencing the market-place. The economic aspect deals with the buyer-seller relationship. Individual taste and necessity are seen in the psychological element. The third aspect, sociological, deals with patterns of environment and the family.

Schoenfeld also said the drive for status is very basic for "fulfillment in life." People tend to buy national brands rather than individual store brands because of how it will look to others. They fear looking cheap to their friends.

"It is necessary to expose to the individual the opportunity available to him," he stated. It is important to know how to make rational choices.

Schoenfeld added that there are two main ingredients for education. First, adequately trained educators and second the development of guides in programs telling what the basic needs are.

As an example of consumer education, Schoenfeld cited a phase of "Operation Headstart" programs. Children one to three are taken on a tour through the supermarket. They try to relate the items to themselves as consumers.

New stenographic system

By Larry Haley

Quick, easy and inexpensive describes a new "quick copy" system of the Stenographic Service.

The quick copy service is a duplicating system which is easier and less expensive than other copying methods, according to Mrs. Letty Metcalf, supervisor of the Stenographic Service.

The system saves time because the master copy is prepared by a photographic process, she said. In the new system, the master copy can be made directly from the original typewritten paper, which is easier than the old method of making a direct image master into a stencil for offset printing, Mrs. Metcalf explained.

The Stenographic Service considers the maximum quick copy order as 500 or less total copies which can be finished in four hours. Orders over 500 copies are on a first come-first serve basis, she said, and usually require a day or two.

A quick copy order is for 8 1/2 x 11-inch paper duplicated on one side only, Mrs. Metcalf said. The quick copy system, which was installed the first of May, has a 75 cent minimum for each original page and the average cost is less than 1-cent per page.

Quick copy orders can be brought to Stenographic Service according to the following schedule: in at 10 a.m., ready by 2 p.m.; in at 2 p.m., ready by 4 p.m.; and in at 4 p.m., ready by 10 a.m.

The Stenographic Service

comes under the jurisdiction of Auxiliary Enterprises, Business Affairs-Services. Mrs. Metcalf said there are 40 part-time student workers under the supervision of seven full-time civil service staff members.

No peace in Paris negotiations

U.S. and North Vietnamese envoys clashed Wednesday on the key peacemaking issue of who has the right to speak for the South Vietnamese people at the negotiating table. Speculation about an agreement on a bombing halt remained speculation.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman challenged Hanoi's claim that the National Liberation Front (NLF) was anything more than North

Vietnam's "agent in the south."

Ambassador Xuan Thuy assailed the Saigon government of President Nguyen Van Thieu as "U.S. paid" and said it had been installed by "fraud and force."

Though the two sides urgently argued for a move to pierce the deadlock at the 27th session of the Paris peace talks, they separated without making any visible advance toward a solution.

The fact that both Harriman and Thuy concentrated their arguments on the legality of U.S. allies in the South seemed to confirm that this issue is a stumbling block in secret exchanges between Hanoi and Washington.

A recent U.S. peace initiative linked a total halt in American air attacks on North Vietnam to an agreement on how South Vietnam should be represented at the bargaining table, allied diplomats have reported.

U.S. officials were reported still awaiting Hanoi's reply to bombing halt proposal.

In Washington, White House press secretary George Christian reiterated a statement of Oct. 16 that there has been no basic change in the Vietnam situation.

But Secretary of State Dean Rusk met in Washington with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin amid speculation that the Soviet Union is actively involved in the peacemaking activities.

A State Department spokesman said that Dobrynin conferred with Rusk last Saturday and again Monday night.

There have been reports the Soviet Union was using its influence in Hanoi in an effort to bring about a deal.

Cardinal denied advice to halt Kennedy union

Richard Cardinal Cushing says he rejected requests from persons identified with the late President Kennedy's administration and "others intimately related" with the Kennedy family that he try to stop the marriage of Jacqueline Kennedy and Aristotle Onassis.

"I would have no part" of the requests, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston and close friend of the Kennedy family said in urging that "caritas, charity" be shown toward the late president's widow.

Apollo crew returns home

Apollo 7's smiling astronauts flew back to this spaceport Wednesday, thanked their launch crew for the "great send-off" and retired to seclusion to report to engineers and doctors the fine details of their eleven day space mission.

What they tell the experts in three days of debriefings here and another week at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston will have a bearing on whether the three-man Apollo 8 crew will make a trip around the moon in December.

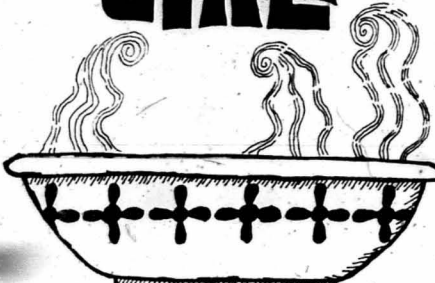

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration expects to make a decision on Apollo 8 by mid-November.

Looking relaxed after a night aboard the aircraft carrier Essex, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham alighted from two planes that ferried them from the carrier.

Eisele learned Wednesday that President Johnson had approved his promotion to lieutenant colonel. The Air Force had submitted it before the flight.

"Only God knows who is a sinner, who is not. There are so many ramifications with regard to anything that might be considered as sinful that only God Almighty could really interpret that and manifest His infinite love for the sinner, while at the same time despising the sin," Cushing added.

Payoff attempts unproved in Mexican olympic games

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An investigation by the United States Olympic Committee has not turned up any confirmation of reports that American athletes were paid for wearing certain brands of athletic equipment, a USOC spokesman said Wednesday.

Everett Barnes, acting executive director for the USOC, said in a statement that "at this time we have nothing to substantiate the rumors with respect to athletes subject to our jurisdiction."

However, famed track and field expert Dan Ferris of New York said earlier that virtually every country—and not just the United States—is involved in the equipment scandal, with payoffs ranging from $500 to $6,000.

The investigation centers around those athletes who did not see fit to notify their superiors of the payments.

Ferris said he understood the matter first was brought to light when an athlete told his officials of a payoff by a company, and turned the money back.

The acting executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, Everett Barnes, said his executive board was investigating the reports.

No particular athletes have been named in the reports circulating at the Olympics site.

If a medal-winning athlete were found to have accepted money, his name could be deleted from the record books and his medals taken away.

Such was the case with Jim Thorpe, America's famed decathlon winner in 1912. Thorpe was stripped of his medals because he was reported to have played semi-professional baseball before his participation in the Olympics.

A similar stir over equipment arose at the winter Olympics in Grenoble, France, when skiers appeared with skis bearing brand names. The athletes were ordered to have all brand names painted over on the threat of disqualification.

The reports of the equipment scandal came on the heels of the black power demonstrations that previously rocked the Olympics.

Two U.S. track stars, Tommie Smith and John Carlos, were suspended and sent home after a demonstration on the victory stand.

Cancer Society plans attack on advertising

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Cancer Society, facing what it called unchanged social acceptance of cigarette smoking and zealous advertising, said Wednesday it will try anew to change the nation's smoking habits.

The society's national board, assembled from 50 states, adopted a nine-point program that will stress "giving up cigarette smoking is immediately rewarding and offers a more pleasurable and longer life."

Two key aspects of the program are:

"We should strive to secure the elimination of cigarette advertising in all media. It is hoped that this can be achieved by voluntary self-regulation and that governmental action will not be necessary."

NLRB rules on McDonnell election votes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ruled Wednesday a labor representation election at the giant McDonnell Douglas Corp. aerospace plant this month was a tie. The company and the two unions involved agreed to a new election Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

The International Association of Machinists (IAM) apparently had won the first election by a single vote of the nearly 18,000 cast but two ballots were challenged.

Tom Sellar, a regional NLRB representative, said one of the two contested votes was ruled void and the other was awarded to Technical Employees of Aerospace Manufacturers (TEAM).

"We should . . . support federal legislation . . . including proposals to make the warning label on cigarette packages more accurate, to place warnings on all cigarette advertising and to require the industry to list on packages and in advertising the tar and nicotine content in cigarettes."

In 1960, the society said, when it began its public education program, there were 36,320 lung cancer deaths. This year, the society said, 55,000 are expected; next year, 59,000.

The society said cigarettes also have been linked to oral cancer and cancer of the larynx, esophagus and bladder and to cardiovascular disease, chronic bronchitis and emphysema.

"While medical research has produced a clear picture of the threat of cigarettes," the society said, "their social acceptability and the energy with which they are promoted have not been essentially reduced."

Schoenbrun to speak

David Schoenbrun, correspondent and teacher, will speak at 1 p.m., today for Convocation.

Convocation audience to hear Schoenbrun

David Schoenbrun, senior lecturer in the Columbia University Graduate School of International Affairs, will address the Convocation at 1 p.m. today in the Arena. He will discuss his experience as an international correspondent.

Schoenbrun, considered one of America's most distinguished journalist-historians, utilized every modern means of communication: radio, television, newspapers, magazines, books and classrooms.

He has interviewed leaders of 15 countries and has covered some of the most important and dramatic events of modern history, including the Indo-China and Korean wars, the Atlantic Alliance, the return to power of Charles de Gaulle and the Kennedy assassination.

In the summer of 1967 Schoenbrun obtained a visa to Hanoi. His reports from there appeared in 150 newspapers around the world. Currently, he is teaching the first one-year course on the History of Vietnam offered at Columbia University.

A coffee from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the main lounge of the Communication Building will follow convocation.

International foresters attend tree conference at Southern Approximately 60 foresters from as far away as British Columbia and Germany attended the Sixth Central States Forest Tree Conference at SIU last week.

David Funk, conference chairman, said the conference was designed "to acquaint foresters with new techniques on improved tree growth and to encourage more research and field work on decorative trees."

Following discussion sessions, many of the conference members visited the Missouri Botanical Gardens in St. Louis.

The SIU Department of Forestry, a co-sponsor of the conference, is currently "one of the fastest growing schools in the country," Funk said. "The landscape program at SIU is one of the best in the nation," and the program, with approximately 275 students, offers both a four-year curriculum and a graduate school.

Flight training at SIU relatively inexpensive

By Sheldon Helfgot

Pay $600 and get three hours credit. Outrageous?

Not to some students training for their airplane pilot's license at the Southern Illinois Airport.

This is a very reasonable price as compared with various other airports throughout the state, according to Mrs. Vida Parkhill, secretary at the Air Institute and Service Department.

"Our particular program is opened to anyone interested in learning to fly," Mrs. Parkhill said.

"The person who desires flight training gets a sectioning card at the Air Technology office, brings the card to me at the Air Institute and Service office for scheduling and then goes through the regular sectioning center at the university campus," she said.

The first program offered is the private pilot's course. A student learns to fly in one of the Cessna 150 airplanes, she said. To obtain a private pilot's license a person needs 40 hours of flying time, 20 of them solo. The first 8 to 10 hours of flying time will be with the instructor. He will teach the student the basic mechanics of the airplane, and the aero-dynamics of how and why the plane flies.

After various other phases of training and taking the FAA flight tests, the student, if he has passed everything successfully, is granted his private pilot's license.

"But your training doesn't stop here," she said. "Most students go on and take our commercial pilot's course. For this course you need 160 minimum hours of flight training. This advanced training makes a person qualified to operate an air taxi service," she said, "where the pilot can fly parcels and people to various places and charge a fee for his services."

There are other flight ratings one can add if he wants, she said, such as the instrument rating which allows the pilot to fly in any type of weather, or the multi-engine course which allows the pilot to fly a plane with more than one engine.

Finally there is the flight instructor program which most of the students take. After completing this program, some of the students are hired as flight instructors, under the student work program. "The pay isn't much," she said, "but the experience and the logging of flying time is the important thing for these student pilots, since most of the major airlines require both commercial and instrument rating courses besides 500 to 1,000 hours of flying time."

When a person finishes his courses, which can take anywhere from one to two years, he is equivalent to a professional pilot.

"We have had many comments from various airlines throughout the state complimenting us on the fine pilots we turn out," she concluded.

Bureau conducts voting research

By Linda Reiniger

A group of SIU researchers wants to know more about voting than just who won.

Members of the SIU Public Affairs Research Bureau are doing research on past voter performances, behavior and attitudes as well as legislative voting analysis.

This is just one activity of the bureau which does research in various aspects of public affairs, particularly government, politics and legislation, according to David F. Kenney, director of the bureau.

Kenney expressed much interest in the state constitutional convention. "Illinois has great need of a new constitution," he said. "The present one is full of junk and is practically unamendable. It's defective in matters of revenue and the executive and legislative branches."

No one in the bureau does official work or research concerning SIU or Carbondale governments. "We are too involved with Carbondale to be objective," Kenney explained. "We are often asked by the campus or city officials to give advice informally, which we are happy to do."

The bureau is composed of five professionals from the Department of Government, three research assistants and one student worker. A grant from the State Board of Higher Education has provided an additional full-time staff member, one research assistant and two student workers.

The two student workers are typists. The other is a coder of data for the IBM machines.

The bureau, which is affiliated with the Inter-University Consortium for Political Research, publishes its own bi-monthly bulletin series, "Public Affairs Bulletin." They also publish about 100 pages annually in a monograph series. Both of these publications are available in Room 307 of the General Classroom Building.

The research findings are also reported to the law bodies concerned. The bureau is now reporting to the state legislature on legislative procedures.

Research reports are also given in speeches by the bureau members and in articles for scholarly journals. Kenney is presently working on a book on basic Illinois government.

Panel discussion to be taped

The Visiting International Student Association will feature a video-taped discussion with Major-General Indarjit Rikhye at its meeting today in the International Center Offices in Woody Hall.

The discussion members, a panel question and answer group, will include Rikhye, Dean of Students Wilbur Moulton, Ralph Klingberg, professor in the Department of Government and Seymour Schwartz, a graduate student from Skokie.

The Tape was made Thursday at the WSIU-TV studios and will focus on the topic of peacekeeping by the UN.

The association will hold its business meeting at 8 p.m. and view the tape at 9 p.m. Interested persons are invited to the 9 p.m. session. Discussion will follow the program.

The program also will be shown at 9 p.m. on WSIU-TV.

Frosh football team after no. 3

Firing up for the third game of the season, the SIU freshman football coach, Mark Bollock will be following a pattern employed successfully by var-

Colts crippled by Kelly

NEW YORK (AP)—Leroy Kelly came back to Baltimore Sunday for the first time since he played with Morgan State College and the Colts won't forget him for a long, long time.

Kelly's powerful running for the Cleveland Browns was an important factor in the 30-20 upset of the Colts, their first defeat.

The defending rushing champion gained 130 yards in 30 carries against a Colt sity coach Dick Towers last week against Dayton.

The frosh backfield for the game against Memphis State, to be played at 3 p.m. Friday ground defense that ranks fourth in the league. Kelly also caught two passes and scored two touchdowns to earn recognition as the Associated Press' Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football league.

The 130 yards left Kelly in second place with 477 yards, 13 behind Mel Farr of Detroit who ran for 145 in the Lions' 14-14 tie with Green Bay. The 29 carries by Farr set a Detroit record.

in McAndrew Stadium, will sport two fullbacks.

Bollock has inserted Jose Guadalupe, a 200-pounder from Chester, N.Y., into the starting team to go along with holdover fullback Joe Stasik, wingback Mike Cochran and Tom Nottingham, quarterback.

"Guadalupe has been our best back in recent drills and we had to find a place for him," Bollock said. The switch will provide Southern with a strong inside running game as Stasik has proven to be a strong runner, racking up 4.4 yards per carry so far this season.

The Salukis will be trying to make it three in a row for the season, already having won games with the University of Evansville and Murray State freshmen.

Pom pom dancer tryouts set; 120 girls already signed up

Preliminary tryouts for SIU pom pom dancers will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30, in the Women's Gym. When fully organized, this new group will perform during the half-time at basketball games and between innings at baseball contests, according to Joe Lutz, SIU baseball coach.

"Now that we know the spirit is there, we are happy to find so many girls interested,"

Lutz said. More than 120 girls are already signed up for the tryouts.

Interested girls are encouraged to participate, and no experience is necessary. All required dance steps will be taught at the time of tryouts by Elleva Davidson, adviser of the group. Leotards or similar clothing should be worn at that time.

Elleva Davidson

Elleva Davidson, pom pom dancers' advisor, shows off some of the form necessary to become a member of the group.

Sailing Club wins over weekend

The SIU Sailing Club made it look easy Saturday as it captured top honors in the third SIU Invitational Regatta held at Crab Orchard Lake.

SIU's two-boat entry captured first and second place enabling Southern to beat second-place Northwestern University in the team competition.

Guiding the first-place boat to victory in all five of the day's races was George Beukema, Carbondale, who also captured the trophy for the top skipper of the day. Serving as crew for Beukema was Steven Elkins, Carbondale.

Robin Webb of Carbondale skippered the second-place boat, with Kathleen Beyerman of Elmhurst serving as crew.

The Sailing Club will travel to Indiana University Nov. 9 to compete in a collegiate meet with the University of Cincinnati, Ohio State University, Xavier University, Toledo, Wisconsin State University at Oshkosh, Siena Heights College of Adrian, Mich., and Indiana University.

SIU rodeo set for Sunday

Spills, hilarity, and a few minor bruises are in store for some SIU students Sunday afternoon when the SIU Block and Bridle Club stages its annual amateur rodeo at Carbondale. The club is an organization of college students interested in the animal phases of agriculture.

Block and Bridle Club President Theodore Poehler, Willow Hill, says activities will start at 1 p.m. at the SIU Horse Center about two miles southwest of SIU's Carbondale Campus. All interested persons are welcome to attend and watch the fun. The Horse Center is about a quarter mile south on the second road off the City Reservoir Road.

Competition in the rodeo events is open to any SIU student for a small entry fee. The events will include barrel riding, steer riding, roping, calf scrambles, horsemanship, and similar fun-filled events. The rodeo is the organization's major fall term activity.

Giants' Koy hurt

New York (AP) - Ernie Koy, New York Giants' regular fullback, probably will not play Sunday against the Washington Redskins in Washington. Koy suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in his left leg last week against San Francisco.

Here's how to play! Thirty plastic sticks are inserted through the holes in the plastic tower to form a kind of a nest within. The forty marbles supplied are loaded through the top of the tower and rest in the nest. Now each player, in turn withdraws one stick — carefully — to avoid causing any marbles to fall (kerplunk). A steady hand and a keen eye are a must... or down comes the avalanche!
