Bomb kills 146 Marines, sailors

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A suicide terrorist drove a pickup truck packed with explosives into the barricaded lobby of Beirut airport, killing sleeping U.S. Marines early Sunday and wounding others. The Pentagon said at least 146 Marines and Navy men were killed and 59 were wounded.

Moments later another suicide terrorist drove a truck bomb into a building housing French troops. State radio quoted a military worker as saying, 25 French soldiers were killed and 59 were wounded. The French Defense Ministry in Paris said the death toll was nine soldiers and four civilians were missing.

In Washington, the State Department received a report from Beirut saying a group calling itself the Islamic Revolutionary Movement asserted responsibility for both attacks. According to the report, an anonymous caller telephoned the Beirut office of the French news agency Agence France Presse and said two of the movement's fighters, named as Abu Bazin, 35, and Abu Sijan, 24, perished in the suicide bombings.

The report said the bombings were the most savage attacks on the multinational force since it was deployed in Beirut last fall at the Lebanese government's request to help keep the peace.

The bombing at a Marine command post at Beirut airport caused the largest number of casualties suffered by American forces since the Vietnam War.

Previously, six Marines had been killed in Beirut sniper attacks and a seventh died in a land-mine explosion.

The four-story building housing a Marine battalion landing team at the airport and the Beirut was controlled by "revolutionary Muslims and the combative democratic movement in his homeland," said the caller.

The two bombings were the 11th and 12th in the Beirut area and the largest since the war began.

The 1983 State Department report explained the operation that led to the multi-national force's deployment.

The story said the U.S., Britain, France, Italy, Pakistan, and Turkey had been called in by the Lebanese to tackle a踞וצים of Assassinчеd Beirut, the Israeli occupation of Lebanon since 1967, and the threat of a second war from which it would never recover.

The story quoted a State Department official as saying that the operation was a "good example of how international cooperation can work.

The story quoted the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon as saying that the move was "a step toward peace in the Middle East."

Ex-cap faces hearing for killings

CHICAGO (AP) — A former Chicago policeman confined to a wheelchair faces a preliminary hearing Monday on charges that he shot to death a divorce court judge and his ex-wife's lawyer during a courtroom hearing.

Cook County Circuit Judge Henry A. Gentile, 63, and attorney James Pfeizer, 34, were shot to death Friday during a routine post-divorce hearing in Gentile's courtroom in the Daley Center, a gleaming high-rise next door to City Hall.

The suspect, Ritchie T. Moore, 35, who has been on disability leave from the Chicago police department since 1979, was being held in Cook County Jail after Circuit Judge Francis Reilly denied a request Saturday to set bond.

Cheating cited at air traffic center

CHICAGO (AP) — The federal government has been unable to rebuild the staff of a key air traffic center and supervisors there have been covering up serious mistakes, the Chicago Tribune reported Sunday.

The report said the giant Chicago Air Route Traffic Control Center in suburban Aurora — the crossroads of U.S. commercial air traffic — was recovering from the 1981 nationwide air controllers strike, during which President Reagan fired 11,400 controllers.

Congress to test military buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress applies its first real test this week on whether simmering anger over the Soviet Union's destruction of a South Korean airliner will boil over into stronger support for President Reagan's rearmament drive.

It was also unclear what effect, if any, the bombing attack that killed at least 120 U.S. Marines in Beirut would have on the $54.5 billion Pentagon spending bill for the budget year that began Oct. 1.

The House is expected to spend at least two days, beginning Tuesday, considering that defense spending measure.

Court allows broadcast of tapes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal appeals court cleared the way Sunday for CBS television to broadcast secret government surveillance tapes considered to be the key evidence against automaker John DeLorean, who is facing trial on drug charges.

We simply can’t let Lebanon error go on.

THE PROBLEM of Lebanon is now a horror of numbers: At least 135 dead, at least 39 wounded as the result of a swift Sunday morning bombing.

With these numbers, in mind, how can anyone remain conscious of the historic and devastating toll of Lebanon’s war?

To begin, Lebanon is a land of conflicting political and territorial claims, fundamental religious differences and a “straw-house government.” Many if not most people resent present outside interference in conflicts they have carried on for generations.

These conflicts are at the root of a “peacekeeping” mission. But with an end to conflict as its premise, the United States sent troops into Lebanon anyway.

THE CONDITIONS under which U.S. troops were deployed point to the most serious mistake. Though the Marines were sent to keep the peace, the event in the request of the Lebanese government — which clearly represents only part of the broad range of political, territorial, religious and secular claims for Lebanon.

We made a serious mistake — we took a side. At first, this fundamental fault was personified in the Marine deaths. America had been tricked because the Reagan administration wrote these deaths off easily as unfortunate consequences of some eventual accomplishment.

But there is no way within reason that the deaths of nearly one-tenth of all U.S. on-land troops in Lebanon can be written off as consequences of some eventual accomplishment. The only accomplishment troops like those Y. P. Weinshel contends toward is getting U.S. troops out of Lebanon immediately.

Yet some observers are already saying that prompt withdrawal will cause harm to the Marines who have been killed or wounded in vain.

It follows from this contention, though, that more Marines must die as sitting ducks in Lebanon before the initial deaths are justified. That is morbid reasoning.

The cruise ship is like this since Vietnam,” a Marine spokesman said after the bombing Sunday. It is a fitting comparison — particularly inasmuch as U.S. stubbornness hasn’t backtrack.

THE GOAL of the peacekeeping mission is unattainable under the conditions present in Lebanon. The only way that 135 deaths can be justified is if they force the Reagan administration to admit its error and get U.S. troops out of Lebanon.

The SIU community is not and never will be a dumping site for valuable human resources, in the way this nation has been shamefully characterized as a “multiple dumping ground” of varied wastes, including older people. As a by-product of the American effort to prolong the chronological age of her population, this country unfortunates places citizens develops into a weapon.

Groups of gray power have been developing. Among them is the group of retired professors, gathered together under various official or unofficial titles such as Emeritus Corp and SIU’s Emeritus College, to name a few. They appear to be alone, but never lonely. They never die. They still actively teach the young and learn.

One typical and invaluable activity relevant to young learners is that retired professors recruited motivated members on the field of their discipline and act as free tutors to students on the question of various academic courses, science subjects in particular. Thus, many students find an institution for their career preparation and look con

STEVIE GOODMAN also canceled because of illness.

S.P.C. strikes out on this one. Too bad. The line-up could have gotten good braids in Southern Illinois. Maybe his car got towed at midnight. No matter the reason, he didn’t make it.

But, unlike the previous shows, he apologized and promised a future show with discounts for next batch of tickets from the original concert. A little bit of class amounting from Chicago — for once.

The Kinks cancel! Why them? Arggh! It could have been the most perfect show. Carbondale since the last time the Heads come to town. Damn it, damn it, Strikethout No. 3 for the Arena. Apparently — or so we hear — they’re going to show up. Maybe they’re not human beings because they think the show will be canceled.

Graham Chapman played to an audience of 3,000 at PNC Arena. SIU-C, he played for 400.

You would think that Carbondale audiences would kill for a little bit of good music. Maybe Carbondale shows would have been better. It isn’t the WTOA disc jockeys asking trivia questions at intermission. Or how about giving away sexist T-shirts at the door.

Now come on, folks, we have to support our local promoters or we’re going to be faced with more cancellations and fewer shows in the future. You see, SPC and Arena Promotions are in a catch-22. They cancel a show because no one buys tickets. No one buys tickets because they think the show will be canceled. It’s a vicious circle if there ever was one, and the only way to break it is to have a successful show.

LISTEN, if Carbondale gets a reputation for cancellations, it is going to be very hard to get good shows in the future. The really hot bands won’t waste their time coming down here if they are going to play. We’ll end up having to settle for teenage noise-makers like B.E.O. and Loverboy. And, Lord knows, we get enough of that on the local radio stations. No use polluting the concert halls with them.

So let’s sell out the Arena next weekend for Jackson Browne. OK, OK, Jackson Browne is not The Rolling Stones. But he’s not Van Halen, and he’s all we have. Think about all those out-of-town guests coming in for Halloween who think Carbondale is Party City, U.S.A.

What are they going to think when they only people to show up at the Halloween gig are four freshmen and Helen Westberg?
Ensemble performance needed

Key element missing in play

McLeod Theater contained an air of controversy this weekend as the Department of Theater presented its most risque play in several seasons.

"Fifth of July" by Lanford Wilson dealt with the personal conflicts of four political activists of the '60s who are reunited in Lebanon, Mo., in 1977 to fulfill Aunt Sally's late husband's wishes — to have his ashes dumped in the lake near a boathouse where the two fell in love.

Wilson, who also wrote "Hot L. Baltimore," examines many issues in this play — the morality of draft evasion, the striving for personal goals and accomplishing those goals, and change of each person away from their college-day concerns — but he does not seem to project an underlying theme.

Homosexuality and promiscuity take a back seat to these issues, but are nevertheless present and bring about much of the humor of the play.

Ken Talley (Doug Blines), a paraplegic, lives in the Lebanon home with his lover, Jed J-odkins (Randy Reeves), a botanist. Talley lost both his legs in the Vietnam War. He is now trying to overcome self-pity and deal with facing a classroom of high school English students as a teacher.

Berkeley cohort John Landis (Peter Ellis) fled to Europe with his wife, Gwen (Julie Potts), to avoid the draft. It is later revealed that Talley was once Gwen's lover, but John lied about the trip to Europe in order to have Gwen to himself. Ken reminds John for his injury and secretly holds him to blame.

John thinks of himself as being really hip in the music world and lives in the fast lane. Pachoud effectively develops Gwen's overbearing personality. She deluges everyone with her drug experiences and her zest for sex.

Cindy Totten plays June, Ken's sister, whose life has no direction except to deal with Shirley, her eccentric 12-year-old illegitimate daughter.

Rebecca O'Bleness gave one of the best performances as Shirley, an inspired, peculiar girl determined to make a name for the Talley family by becoming someone great in the arts — though who she hasn't determined.

Aunt Sally, a sassy personality, was poignantly portrayed by Faith Potts. Wallowing in the memory of her husband, who died a year before, she inspires hilarity.

SIU may finally have a concert

By Terry Levecke
Entertainment Editor

Cancellation has become Carbondale concert-goers ugliest profanity.

First it was Asia, but that was no big deal. They were the first concert of the semester. But when students weren't really prepared to shell out $12 for a concert, and didn't even show up when they canceled. A concert show -- or lack of one. Television is a much more prestigious venture for the group anyway.

Analysis

Then Neil Young canceled as people were hozing to the liquor store for concert supplies. Tour management said it was due to illness. He did play in Madison, Wis., the night before, and according to Young's manager Elliot Roberts, that performance physically wore Young down to a point that caused the Carbondale cancellation. Carbondale isn't the only place Young got sick over, however. Roberts said he canceled four dates of the tour -- he collapsed at the Louisville performance and had canceled in Baltimore and Denver earlier in the tour.

Next Dave Davies, lead guitarist for the Kinks, lost it physically and mentally, which caused the cancellation. He collapsed at the Louisville performance and had canceled in Baltimore and Denver earlier in the tour.

The concert situation is becoming unbelievable. The Kinks and Neil Young yielded some devoted fans who went to extremes to get the best seats -- some paid scalper prices only to be left with a ticket worth $10 that was already spent in aggravation.

In addition to Arena concert cancellations, SPC and Shryock suffered one apiece too. Angela Beloff, sponsored by SPC, was canceled because of a lack of ticket sales. Steve Goodman was truly ill and had to cancel his scheduled appearance with John Prine. At least he said he'd try to make it here some time later in the year and his replacement proved to be successful. Jackson Browne is topical conversation these days. People are taking bets as to whether he will actually provide the first Arena concert of the year. For all those who have bet in favor of Jackson Browne appearing, good news is forthcoming. A few phone calls have determined that, yes folks, the Arena is going to see its first concert Oct. 27. The group left a week ago on tour and is now on the East Coast, according to Debbie Meister of Peter Golden & Associates, the management firm for Jackson Browne.

The tour is rather short and consists entirely of college dates. Meister said.

Halloween picture on T-shirt promotes violence, women say

By John Schrag
Staff Writer

About 40 people braved the soggy weather Friday to march in protest of the sale of Halloween T-shirts, which they believe promote violence against women.

The T-shirt, which is being sold by the Southern Illinois chapter of Delta Chi fraternity, depicts the Grim Reaper brandishing a scythe blade across the breasted breasts of a scantily-clad woman.

The predominantly-female group met at noon in Quigley Hall and marched across campus to the Agriculture building, where fraternity members were selling the shirts.

The marchers carried signs which had messages such as "Grim Reaper and woman, which they are selling for $5 for the fraternity's lounge area, which had grown to more than 40 members, Kurt Hyzy said that although the group "is against rape and increased the "feelings of vulnerability" of many women.

"For men and women to successfully relate to one another," she said, "men cannot hood women as victims of their violent fantasies."

After the crowd dispersed, a woman, who said she was a rape victim, said the shirts deeply disturbed her.

"Halloween has been raped at knife point," she said. "I find these shirts extremely offensive."

During the confrontation between protesters and fraternity members, Kurt Hyzy, fraternity president, defended his group's actions.

He said that the group in no way was promoting violence of any type and did not intend to offend anyone.

"The group would not afford the financial loss of not selling the shirts, he said, and is planning to use profits from the sale to make improvements in the fraternity house.

"When it comes down to it, we have to sell these shirts or eat them," the crowd, which had grown to more than 50 people, responded, "Eating them!"

The fraternity has more than $5,000 invested in the 2,000 shirts which they are selling for $5 each, he said. One of the shirts is the logo of Stroh's Brewing Co., which paid for the printing costs of the shirts.

The protesters suggested several alternatives to selling the shirts with their present design. Some people suggested adding a red circle with a slash through it over the Grim Reaper and woman, which they said would promote the concept of a non-violent Halloween celebration.

It was also suggested that the fraternity contact Stroh's Brewing Co. and ask company officials to absorb the financial loss of taking the shirts off the market.

Hyzy said the fraternity is having a meeting Monday night to discuss the T-shirt issue and consider the possibility of donating time to one of the women's groups on campus.

Memorial service held for flight crew

By John Racker
Staff Writer

About 200 hundred friends, family members and fellow employees gathered Saturday to pay tribute to the three Air Illinois crew members who died Oct. 11 when the plane they were aboard crashed.

During the two-hour service, held in McLeod Theatre in the Communications Building, co-workers, airline executives and long-time passengers eulogized Capt. Lester Smith, First Officer Frank Tudor and Flight Attendant Barbara Huffman, for having been "true professionals and friends."

Roger Street, president of the 16-year-old Carbondale-based commuter airline, shared some of his memories of the three. "I am here today as a friend and admirer of three remarkable people," he said.

Street remembered Lester Smith, a 28-year-old captain, as "a man who had a love and talent for the profession" and, "for his good sense of humor."

He described 28-year-old Frank Tudor as "a quiet professional with both proficient and pleasant-like."

"She was Air Illinois," Street said referring to 28-year-old Barbara Huffman. "Barbie will always be remembered as the spirit of our company. For that and many other things we owe her a huge debt of gratitude and love."

Street announced that commemorative plaques had been made and would be hung in the lobby of the Carbondale administrative offices. Another set of the plaques was presented to the three crew members' families.

Capt. Jim George, Air Illinois pilot who was Capt. Smith's initial flight instructor at the SIU-C Air Institute, from which Smith graduated in 1975, said "each of our friends was a living memorial."

He remembered Smith as a man who always gave 100 percent. "He always knew what his goals were, in every bug that he did," he said.

A co-worker and close friend to Smith, Wendy Henderson, said that the pilot had two sides. "There was Capt. Lester R. Smith and then there was just good ole Les," she said.

Henderson recalled how Smith, an employee of Air Illinois since June 1979, loved the outdoors and loved being with friends nearly every day. "But it's only a physical loss," she said. "He's with us today."

David Overly, a friend of First Officer Tudor, remembered the Florida native as "a thoughtful and considerate."

Alice Mitchell, Air Illinois vice president for marketing, recalled Miss Huffman, a cabin员 of Carbondale, as having been fully committed to her job. "Barbie knew what she wanted it to be and she did it beautifully," she said.

Council to review land purchase draft

By Paula J. Finlay
Staff Writer

A draft of the land purchase escrow agreement for Carbondale and the Carbondale reference center project calls for the purchase of all parcels of land needed for the project to be completed by Dec. 31.

The city council will review the draft at its informal session Monday.

Sale of the land is conditioned on the refinancing of $10 million in long-term interest and the economic development revenue bonds and $1.04 million in 1981 issue convention center revenue bonds, according to an agreement and condition calls for all of the land owners agreeing to and transferring the titles to the city.

In a memo to inform City Manager Carroll Fry, City Attorney George Kriakos said that the city has "pending offers" from land owners and that a nine-member conference center project committee chaired by former City Manager Carroll Fry has approved the agreement.

The council will also consider an ordinance authorizing an exchange of city land for a tract of land owned by Hugh McGowan needed for the project.

Illinois law says that when city participates in real estate exchanges, the total value of the parcel obtained by the city must be equal to or exceed the value of the premises exchanged. For example, "taking into consideration the long term interest of the public," McGowan parcel is of an equal or greater value to the city considering the long term interest of the public despite appraisals which indicate a lower value.

Assistant City Attorney Mary Ann Middlen said in a memo to Ratter that the value specified in the Illinois law is not equivalent to the appraised value and that her legal opinion, "the McGowan parcel is of an equal or greater value to the city considering the long term interest of the public despite appraisals which indicate a lower value."

Rain shortens Clean-Up Day
By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The rain let up long enough Saturday for about 900 people to remove more than 8.5 tons of trash from the streets of Carbondale for the fourth annual Carbondale Clean-up Day. Despite the rainy weather, which measured more than five inches since it began Monday night, clean-up crews from the University and city almost matched last year's Clean-up Day figures when 1,000 participants gathered about 9 tons of trash.

The four Clean-up Days have accounted for the removal of 42.9 tons of trash from the city.

Curtis McDaniel, Clean-up Day coordinator, said, "Thanks to Mother Nature. Clean-up Day wasn't the success it would have been if it hadn't rained." However, McDaniel said he was pleased with the amount and enthusiasm of participation.

Crews representing about 60 fraternities, sororities, campus and community groups participated in the day-long event, which featured an afternoon of entertainment at Lenus Turley Park.

Oliquino twisted his knee in the Rex Cretella and had to forfeit. He and played a dual match with Vanderbilt University, which the Salukis tied 4-4.

Originally scheduled to participate in the tourney were SIU-E, Memphis State, Vanderbilt and the Salukis. Since the weekend was wet, as forecast, the Salukis were forced to play an indoor match with Vanderbilt at the Egyptian Sports Center on Saturday. Vanderbilt went on to win, 4-4.

No. 2 singles player Rollie Oliquino twisted his knee in the third set of his match against Rex Creterlia and had to forfeit. Oliquino is on crutches and will have his knee x-rayed Monday. The dual meet had eight singles matches and no doubles matches. Lars Nilsson played No. 3 singles and "looked very impressive," Saluki Coach DirK LeFevre said.

Nilsson, a freshman, played in place of injured Gabriel Coch, who has an injured left wrist and had to stoop to No. 8 singles. Nilsson battled Tom Katalog to a 5-7, 7-6, 6-7 with. No. 4 singles player Chris Viocentti easily dumped Vand­ebilt’s Scott Vowels 6-2, 6-4. No. 5 Paul Rasch beat Alan Banarroch 6-4, 6-1 and Coch beat Steve Herrzog 6-3, 64 at No. 8.

No. 1 singles player Per Wadmark lost his third match of the fall season to Chris Huff 7-7, 6-9, 7-5. Wadmark and Huff got into a dispute over one of Wadmark’s serves in the third set. Wadmark, who was losing 34 in the third set, served to Huff who returned it. After Huff returned it, he called Wadmark’s serve out. Huff and Wadmark argued for several minutes before both coaches went onto the court to settle the dispute.

The players usually call their own games in college tennis. There are line judges in college matches, but only for important matches, like in an NCAA tournament. If, in a 2-2 tie, the players argue about a call more than once, then a line judge will take over.

“This usually doesn’t happen,” LeFevre said of having to bring in a line judge. "But Per had a right to argue because Huff should have called it out before returning it."

Regardless, Wadmark lost the dispute and the match. Also losing for the Salukis were Scott Krueger and Roeland deKort. Krueger lost to Brad Goodman 6-7, 6-4, 6-4 and deKort lost to Paul Bailey 6-4, 6-3 at No. 7.

LeFevre and Wadmark will leave for Los Angeles, Calif., next weekend to take part in the American Collegiate Tennis Tournament. Thirty-two of the top collegiate tennis players in the country have been invited to the tournament.
Spikers open-GCAC play with two losses

The conference outlook dimmed for the Saluki volleyball team after it was upset Friday night by Wichita State, which is considered to be one of the weaker teams in the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference.

Coach Debbie Hunter's team was blasted Saturday night by Southwest Missouri State, another conference foe, to put SIU-C's GCAC mark at 9-2.

The match in Wichita marked the Shockers' first conference win against three losses, to Southwest Missouri, Western Illinois and Drake.

This year, teams must qualify to play in the conference championships, on the basis of head-to-head competition. Each GCAC member must play all conference teams, and the top four will advance to the Final Four. The championships will probably be played at Illinois State. The Salukis are the defending GCAC champs and likely contenders to repeat.

Pre-season goals for the Saluki club included improving on a third-place finish in the GCAC.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — A stunning 31-point first half against Indiana State Saturday lifted the Salukis to a 34-21 victory over the Sycamores. The victory could place the No. 2-ranked Salukis, 8-3, to the top of the NCAA I-AA football poll, which will be released Monday evening.

1 Eastern Kentucky tied 10-10 Saturday with Western Kentucky when WKU kicked a last-minute field goal.

Foster said. "I think that they'll pick us down."

They were forced to punt from their 15-yard line. When he fumbled the snap, Terry Taylor hit Standford, causing him to lose control of the ball and have it spin into the end zone, where Sydney Blanchard pounced on it for a touchdown.

Blanchard's touchdown was the fourth scored by a Saluki when the opponent was in punt formation.

The victory could shoot the No. 2-ranked Salukis, 8-3, to the top of the NCAA I-AA football poll, which will be released Monday evening.

THE SALUKIS CUT off any momentum early in the game that Indiana State might have been building in its homecoming crowd of 14,111. SIU-C scored on its first five possessions of the game, starting each time in Indiana State territory.

After taking a 20-yard lead early in the first quarter, the Salukis scored two touchdowns within 57 seconds to give them a 17-0 lead.

Cornerback Donnell Daniel's fourth interception of the season returned it to the 46-yard line.

From the 34-yard line, quarterback Rick Johnson connected with split end James Stevenson on the left sideline for a 30-yard gain. Two plays later, a 5-yard touchdown run on a keeper left him with a 25-0 lead.

THE SALUKI ATTACK was not finished yet. It scored twice more on drives of 38 and 42 yards to build to lead its total to 31-0.

Indiana State stopped the Salukis for the first time in the game and took control of the ball at its 26-yard line. The Sycamores also stopped the Salukins' momentum.

On the first play from scrimmage, Sycamore quarterback Jeff Miller gave the Salukis a preview of the second half. He connected with flanker Anthony Kimball from the right sideline for a 24-yard touchdown pass with two minutes left in the half to close out the first-half scoring.

Indiana State came out running in the second half. Starting from SIU-C's 48-yard line, the Sycamores moved 55 yards on the ground, including a 21-yard run by Johnson in the fourth quarter.
