Restraining order issued in voter drive

By Robert Green Staff Writer

A temporary restraining order was issued in Jackson County Friday by a University Housing procedure which limits direct political canvassing in single student and married student housing. Associate Circuit Judge David Watt issued the order, which will allow deputy registrars to go door to door at the residence halls to register students to vote.

In issuing the restraining order Friday, Watt said University Housing Procedure 1904 should apply only to direct political canvassing of candidates, but should exclude the activities of deputy registrars.

The temporary restraining order, effective from 16 a.m. to 16 p.m. Sept. 25 to Oct. 5, was filed at the request of Jackson County Clerk Robert Harrell, who is himself a candidate for office in the upcoming election. Paragraph 3.1 of Procedure 1904 states that: "direct political canvassing of student residents by knocking on their room doors should be limited in all cases to the 30 day period immediately before the primary or regular election or student election.

State's Attorney John Bost will not appeal the decision. As county lawyer, he argued that one of the county's major functions is to register voters.

Research money main concern of new Graduate School dean

By Robert Green Staff Writer

To Barbara Hansen, assistant to the dean, said she will become dean of the School of Nursing when the associate vice president for research on Dec. 1. The roles will carry equal importance, she says.

Hansen, who is now the associate dean for graduate studies and research at the University of North Dakota School of Nursing, will replace John S. Jackson, who is stepping down as dean of the graduate school for two reasons.

While visiting SIU-C Friday, she said that finding more funding for the research will be one of her primary concerns. Hansen will see her two responsibilities as separate, except in an administrative sense.

"I see increased support for research as being separate, except in a political sense," she said.

A member of the Institute of Medicine, she holds bachelor's and master's degrees from UCLA and a Ph.D. in psychology from the University of Wisconsin Madison.

She said she has been working on supervision and psychology research from the University of North Dakota since 1983. Hansen is also a member of the Institute of Neurological Sciences at the University of Pennsylvania.

She said she has been working in the defense of human rights for most of her research career and has conducted research using rhesus monkeys.

"I'll devote 10 percent of my time to this research," she said. "But the overall project will require a great deal of effort, and that will come from the contributions of various faculty and graduate students.

Horse program shutdown criticized

By Andrew Herrmann Staff Writer

The Animal Industries Department in the School of Agriculture has a problem with its horse program.

The program, which has been in operation for over 20 years, has traditionally been "temporarily shut down" in August due to a $75,720 budget cut, said Gill Kroening, dean of the School of Agriculture.

The department is in the process of selling 24 of the program's 29 saddlebred horses, which are housed at University Farms. The move will save the department $50,000, Kroening said, and the school has a committee to study the feasibility of replacing the horses and developing the program's curriculum and marketing.

The problem is that many of the students who were affected by this decision, and some members of the Illinois horse industry, feel that the University made the wrong choice. According to figures released by the American Horse Council, the Illinois horse industry includes 600,000 animals worth $422 million. Illinois is second only to New York in revenue generated by horse racing. In all, the figures show, the horse industry in Illinois generated $1.6 million in 1981 for the general economy.

"The racing industry brings in a lot of money to the state," said Bee Nance, a sophomore in animal industries. "It's important to the state's economy. And shutting down that program is going to affect the entire industry.

"The state needs a place where people can learn about things like stable management and the raising of horses to keep the industry healthy. If they don't, and students interested in learning the business are going to have to go elsewhere. And they may not be able to do it at all," Nance said.

Peltier supporters rally, want 'his day in court'

By Juliana Anastasoff Staff Writer

Leonard Peltier is an inmate at Marion Federal Penitentiary because he is a leader of his people. Stephanie Autumn of the American Indian Movement said Saturday.

Autumn, an organizer of the Leonard Peltier Defense Committee and paralegal in his case and about 50 others participated in a rally in support of Peltier at the Federal Building in Carbondale. Following the rally, about 15 people joined in a relay run to the prison.

Peltier was convicted of aiding and abetting the deaths of two FBI agents at Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota in 1975. Peltier's defense committee said it will submit a rebuttal Friday answering the government's response to his writ of habeas corpus.

"He is not in jail because he is a murderer, but because he is strong, because he has stood up and because he has united our people," she said. "He gives us strength to keep on.

"In a statement by Autumn, Peltier warned that native Americans will no longer be passive to oppression.

"The people of this country must understand that we Indian people will no longer tolerate the murders of our people, nor will we tolerate the abuse of them, or of our religious beliefs, our natural rights or our treaties," Peltier said.

"We will no longer tolerate the political denial of our sovereignty, for it is solidly connected to our future economic and social survival. Maintaining control over our own lands is the key to our survival as native people.

Peltier's lawyer, Bruce Ellison, was scheduled to attend the event Saturday, but was detained at Yellow Thunder Camp, S.D., where he is counseling another group of native Americans being held responsible for the death of a trespasser found on reservation land last summer.

Jim Roberts, a Carbondale attorney and member of the Leonard Peltier Support Group, called Peltier's case a "gross display of cynical misuse of the criminal justice system.

He said the defense committee is charging that the FBI fabricated and withheld evidence, coerced testimony, and people interested in learning the business are going to have to go elsewhere. And they may not be able to do it at all," Nance said.

City on watch for fake bills

By Jennifer Phillips

The discovery of three counterfeit $100 bills in Carbondale over the past month has caused businesses to use caution when handling large bills.

When the first counterfeit bill was found Aug. 24 at a local bank, "we took all kinds of steps to improve control," of such bills entering the Bursar's Office, said Bob Brewer, assistant bursar.

The second fake bill was discovered at the same bank on Sept. 13. The most recent was discovered Tuesday in the Bursar's Office in a deposit by the University Bookstore, he said.

Because the bookstore accepted the bill and included it in its deposit, the bookstore loses its deposit, the bookstore loses its deposit, the bookstore loses.

"If you find a counterfeit bill, turn it in to the police," Brewer said.

"We also have the serial numbers of the ones discovered," he said, "and check large bills against those.

The Arena Special Events Ticket Office is also watching for fake bills, said Lorraine Siener, ticket control supervisor. Some Israelis to leave Beirut

The Israeli military command said Sunday its forces will be out of west Beirut and the international airport by Wednesday, but no date was announced for complying with President Reagan's demand for a total pullout from the Lebanese capital before U.S. Marines enter the besieged city.

The announcement Sunday in Tel Aviv pointedly stated that the withdrawal Wednesday was being worked out in coordination with the Lebanese army and involved no other parties.

Talks resume in teacher strikes

Springfield (AP) — With the high drama of Academy Awards night, Illinois has capped a long search for a new state prison site by announcing it will be built in the recession-ravaged city of Danville.

More than 200 communities had bid for the 756-bed penitentiary and the nourishment it will bring to a local economy. It is estimated the $34 million prison will produce $425 permanent jobs and about 300 construction jobs.

Danville picked as new prison site

Bargaining resumed Sunday in some of the nation's 20 teachers strikes, and a new walkout was threatened in southeastern Pennsylvania district.

About 14,400 public school teachers were on strike in Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois and New Jersey, affecting about 391,000 students.

The 2-week-old walkout by Detroit's 11,000 teachers has forced cancellation of classes for 200,000 public school students. Both sides were calling back to the bargaining table by a state factfinder, said Carol Thomas, executive vice president of the Detroit Federation of Teachers.

HEARING SLATED ON SUN DAY WINE SALES

By Mike Nelson
Staff Writer

Holiday Inn owner Stan Hoye's request to serve wine on Sunday mornings will be the subject of a public hearing Monday night at the City Council chambers, 609 E. College St.

The public hearing will follow a town meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. According to a notice filed by City Clerk Janet Vaught, the town meeting will last no more than one hour.

Mayor Hans Fischer has said that he anticipates strong reaction to Hoye's request.

"I believe there is a large number of people in this community who have negative feelings about serving liquor on Sundays," he said. "If I think that we should listen to what these citizens have to say about the issue and the council should act accordingly." Fischer himself has publicly voiced his disapproval of the request, saying he is "flat-out opposed" to early Sunday wine sales and consumption.

Under the present city liquor ordinance, no alcohol may be sold or consumed in licensed premises between 2 a.m. and 1 a.m. on Sundays. Hoye has asked the council to amend the ordinance to allow the Holiday Inn to serve wine or champagne with its Sunday morning brunch, beginning at 10 a.m.

Fischer said that the Liquor Advisory Board will formally discuss the request after listening to public input at the hearing. He said he reviewed the request informally last month, but tabled formal action until after the hearing.

"In other business, the council will discuss a plan to construct a parking lot on Glenview Drive, adjacent to Lenox Turley Park. According to Donald Monty, Carbondale community development director, when the site plan for Turley Park was approved, it contained a requirement that 14 parking spaces be provided. Monty said that the Park District failed to comply with the requirement apparently because they had hoped to acquire other nearby property with parking available.

"Fischer has indicated that he wants unauthorized housing and food service, also attended the court session. Rinella said he believes most people trooping through the halls.

"Rhode said the University is not trying to infringe upon the candidates' campaign, and she pointed out that the student voter registration drive to be conducted this week at ladies set up Truthbod, Grinnell and Lents Halls, is proof that the University is encouraging students to engage in voter registration.

"Sam Rinella, director of housing and food service, also attended the court session. Rinella said he believes most students are in favor of the University Housing procedure, because we have so many pressures of people going to door to door, salesmen of all kinds," requirements that 14 parking spaces be provided. Monty said that the Park District failed to comply with the requirement apparently because they had hoped to acquire other nearby property with parking available.

"Fischer has indicated that he wants unauthorized marketing studies to be conducted so that they can plan their schedules accordingly. She said the procedure also helps ensure more security in the residence halls.

"There is a security issue here, too," Rhode said. "The Supreme Court does not require us to make greater access, and we don't want unauthorized people trooping through the halls."

There's no excuse for not voting

The right to vote is one of the most cherished freedoms in America. Is it?

Every election, many Americans do not exercise their right to vote.

What excuses are given? Everyone most commonly are: "I didn't have time," or "Who cares, my vote won't change anything," or "I didn't have time to register."

THE WORST PART of these excuses is that none of them hold water.

The polls are open from 6 a.m. until 7 p.m. in accordance with state law. It only takes a few minutes to express yourself. Because the voting booths are usually placed in easily accessible locations. There really is no validity in the excuse, "I don't have time to vote."

As far as voting not changing anything, this is true only if that vote is not cast. It is useless to simply claim something without taking action.

Voting is the way to take that action and express opinions. Our system of government is based on input from the masses via voting referendums and elections. If the masses chose not to vote, a select few have control. This is not the basis for good government.

And last, in regard to not having time to register, this is the worst excuse of all. Especially for students.

Bodybuilding contests are set up in strategic locations to encourage people to vote and allow them to register without the hassle of traveling to the Jackson County Courthouse in Murphysboro.

This election year is no exception. Beginning this week, there will be locations on campus where it will be possible to register.

So take the few moments required and register if you are currently not registered. Even if you registered last election, check the status of your registration. If you've moved since registering, your registration is most likely invalid. There are other circumstances to check also, so take the time and find out.

Most importantly, remember, your opinion will never be known if you do not take the time to express it.

Why no winner's photo in bodybuilding contest?

This letter is in reference to the article covering Mr. Novice Southern Illinois Bodybuilding Contest (DE, Sept. 13)

I feel that the event was poorly publicized. The photos selected in the article were from the two contestants who did not even place in the top three were given winners' coverage. When I contacted the photographer of the bodybuilding contest, he told them that they were the "best pictures" of the event.

I feel that when an SIU-C student achieves a feat that is a good reflection on the student and the school, he should get the recognition deserved. I felt that the article did not give me any recognition that any student athlete would or should receive if awarded honors.

On Sept. 11, I, being a student of SIU-C, would have been proud to have a photo of me in my competitive division. I'm the only student from SIU-C who won their division, yet I received no photo justice. Where is the school spirit?

For these reasons, I feel that the Daily Egyptian should give the respect of a public recognition and the recognition I so rightly deserve for my long hours of hard work and determination. - Darryl Chavers, Senior, Computer Science.

Editor's Note: We regret that Mr. Chavers was disappointed in our coverage of the Mr. Novice Southern Illinois Bodybuilding Contest. However, the photographs selected were those the photo editor believed best reflected the event as a whole and the participation of bodybuilders from all over the area, not just SIU-C. In regard to the student athlete and school spirit issue, Mr. Chavers was not considered as a representative of SIU-C but as an individual. Mr. Chavers' accomplishment in the contest was reported in the story along with quotes from him.

Help for breast-feeding mothers

The incident that occurred to Maggie Jihan and her nursing baby (DE, Sept. 13) in a local restaurant is not unique to Carbondale.

In the summer of 1990, a woman was asked to leave a restaurant in Dubuque, Iowa, for breast-feeding her baby. She wrote the management of the restaurant a letter and fairly complained with the Human Rights Commission in her city. In the resulting notice, that local chain of restaurants agreed to allow nursing mothers at the dining tables.

In another case a Missouri mother was told by a police officer that she could not breast-feed her baby in her parked car in a parking lot because she could not be cited for indecent exposure if someone complained. The St. Louis County ordinance has now been rewritten to specifically exempt "the exposure of the breast incident to feeding a child" so that a nursing mother would be exempt from prosecution under this ruling.

A federal appeals court ruled that a woman was not entitled to a full hearing following her employer's refusal to allow her to breast-feed her baby in a private room during her daily diaper lunch. The upper court stated that "the God given right to nurse one's child is an excessive state interference a woman's decision respecting breast-feeding her child." The court elaborated by saying that breast-feeding "in a continuation between mother and child that, like marriage, is quoting a previous U.S. Supreme Court decision intimate to the degree of being sacred." The court found that the Constitution in harmony with past Supreme Court decisions establishing special constitutional protection in the areas of marriage, procreation, and family relationships.

These are a few of the cases that have been brought to the attention of La Leche League International. The league is an organization dedicated to providing breast-feeding information and support to women who wish to nurse their babies. Since April, 1986, the league has been contacted by 144 mothers requesting help relating to "legal" situations which threaten to interfere with the breast-feeding of their babies. The league does not give legal advice, but is able to give background information about similar cases and send reference material on the nutritional and immunological value of human milk, the importance of the normal feeding relationship and the need of others. By being together without lengthy and traumatic separations.

With School available, why pay for Bracy?

Why is the University spending $1.6 million for a building in Marion when the School in Carbondale can be had for the asking?

It may not be as large as the Carbondale Building, but it is still a natural, portable, SIU-C's library storage needs for the next ten years. Certainly only a small portion of 1,6 million would be needed to be spent on Bracy.

In addition, if one student worked at the School, they would spend two hours in the process. Laughing or being embarrassed is not only a sign of immaturity but stupidity and will only be seen as dirty,

Expression of love seen as dirty, lewd

After reading Mrs. Jihan's letter (DE, Sept. 13), I am amazed at the immaturity and stupidity shown by both the restaurant manager and its patrons. It is unfortunate that such a beautiful expression of love as a mother breast-feeding her baby could be seen as dirty or lewd.

It is a sad commentary on today's students that public breast-feeding is still considered obscene or would even raise an eyebrow. To my way of thinking (and I make no apologies) such expressions of human love should be encouraged in every way possible. Laughing or being embarrassed is not only a sign of immaturity but stupidity and will only be seen as dirty.

As Maggie Jihan stated in her letter, breast-feeding is a "natural affair... unsurpassed in humans for its simplicity and love." Be reassured, Maggie, that you are not alone in the knowledge of the importance of the breast-feeding relationship. Action has been taken to inform and help the general public's attitude about a natural, normal, and beautiful way of nurturing our children. - Barbara Gold, Carbondale.

October Fest to raise funds for Thompson Point residents

By Pat Petrow
Staff Writer

Thompson Point residents will celebrate the opening of October with the first annual October Fest Sunday Oct. 17. Thompson Point's Student Recreation Activities Committee will sponsor the event.

"October Fest is an activity to get the dorm to raise money and to get residents to meet each other before they have to go home," said Jayne Davis, SMU head. The event will take place at the back circle of Thompson Point.

A frisbee golf contest between residence halls will kick off the day at 11 a.m. Following this, 'Twelfth Night' will feature original score

William Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night," will open the 1982-83 season of the McLeod Playhouse on Thursday. The production, directed by Judith Lynn, will be the first Shakespeare done in this theater in four years.

The play will run at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday and at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Several persons are assisting Lynn in the production of "Twelfth Night," George Pinney is contributing to the play through his choreography of the elaborate stage combat scenes.

Since music was a vital part of the play as originally performed in Shakespeare's day, one graduate student in theater, Mark Rafan, has composed an original score to accompany Shakespeare's lyrics. The score will be performed by Marlene Schertz and the Carbondale Recorder Group.

Helping Richard Ross, McLeod Theater's costume designer and manager, to create the visually fantastic world of Illyria will be Jay Ferguson, a professional set designer from St. Louis.

Tickets for "Twelfth Night" are on sale at the McLeod Theater Box office. Tickets are $4 for the general public and $3 for students and citizens over 60 years old.

The box office is located on the south side of the Communications Building. The box office is open from 12 to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday and also one hour prior to each performance.

Goslar delights small crowd
Self-taught mime celebrates life

By Jeff Coffinet
Staff Writer

Lotte Goslar is a very silly lady.

And that's what makes her such a wonderful performer. Lotte Goslar's Pantomime Circus made for an enjoyable evening of entertainment. Goslar, a virtually self-taught mime and dancer, and her company made for a pleasing performance Saturday night in Shryock Auditorium. The 90-minute show featured mime, dance, and lots of smiles.

The show was a fairly small audience. Goslar and company displayed the amazing ability of being able to bring smiles to the faces of the audience. Nothing was ever played straight by Goslar and company. For example, the dance number "Schubert Waltzes," despite being beautiful and fluid, had numerous humorous dance steps thrown in.

The show had only two minor flaws. First, the group seemed to have problems adjusting to the large size of the Shryock stage. This problem was noticeable especially during the first number, "Bounces." However, as the show progressed, the company seemed to adjust better.

The second problem was a more technical one. The show often had a series of two or three scenes, with stage crew members setting the stage floor. However, the crew members managed for the most part to become a part of the show. Several times they even received applause from the audience.

Lotte Goslar's Pantomime Circus was definitely not a one-woman show. In fact, the company was featured in most of the numbers. "Two Collectors," for example, featured two separate scenes of dolls, was a nice showpiece for the supporting dancers. "Spice in the Grass" was also a nice feature of the show. Numerous numbers and one big bullfrog brought a special view of those late summer nights in the country.

The country. One of the strongest features of the group was its pianist, Richard Sields. Sields did a super job of providing the background music to Goslar's choreography. Sields often sounded as if he had an extra hand. The often classical music provided strong support to the company's fluid dance motions.

But the highlight of the circus was Lotte Goslar. She is, put simply, a celebration of life. Her lumpish body is still spry, and she is a performer in every sense of the word. From her expressive face to her young-looking hands, Goslar is the anchor of the show.

Goslar possesses the ability of all great performers—she can make people smile. The German-born artist was a member of Broadway musical reviews in the 1930s and '40s. From the energy she puts into the circus, it is apparent she has never tired of hearing the roar of the crowd.

Two of her solo numbers stood out in the show. The first was "Life of a Flower," which featured Goslar as a flower going through its life cycle from spring to winter. The life is complete with rain and snow falling from the ceiling above the stage. Goslar played the wet flower in a broad and beautiful way, complete with sneezes and coughs.

The second number which stood out was "Grandma Always Danced," which ended the show. This was Goslar's answer to the question of why she dances. Goslar began the piece with a view of her grandmother and a baby and progressed to the grandmother getting a halo as an angel. In between, Goslar's grandmother never stopped dancing. The scene was both vivid and poignant. It provided the perfect end for the circus.

Goslar is the show's director and choreographer. She does a good job as both. The costumes were simple and the sets pieces were virtually non-existent, but that's okay. The whole idea of pantomime is to leave some things to the viewer's imagination.

If Goslar is a celebration of life, then the circus is a celebration of youth. The company performed with energy, joy and life.

Goslar is a silly lady who seems willing to do just about anything to make the audience smile. And if being silly is what keeps her performances so much fun, may she stay silly for the rest of her life.
Program sharpens EMTs' skills

By Sheila Washington
Staff Writer

The instructors and students who closed their books to attend the Emergency Medical Services Outdoors program Saturday and Sunday agreed that hands-on experience is the best part.

The two-day program, held at the Touch of Nature Environmental Center, focused on training emergency medical technicians to apply skills to outdoor settings by simulating drownings, burns and large-area helicopter rescues.

The program examined skills EMTs need daily and demonstrated how they might be applied to outdoor settings, said Bob Marsh, instructor and program director of the emergency training program.

Judy Dickinson, EMT staff member, said reading teaches EMTs to deal with multiple-injury patients a chapter at a time, but actual experience requires the ability to carry, wrap and warm while applying basic skills.

"Traditional EMT training has been more static," she said. "In lectures EMT students take notes and practice, but in this experiential program they get to actually do it and take constructive criticism."

EMTs are trained and certified medical assistants who treat patients until more help is available.

"Touch of Nature's spacious and diversified landscape was the ideal location for the training," Marsh said.

The 47 participants were divided into two groups for a simulated search and rescue of a lost multiple injury victim.

A UH-60A Blackhawk, a 35,500-pound Army helicopter capable of carrying eight victims, landed at Touch of Nature and a tour was given.

The program, which Marsh hopes will be the first of annual ones at Touch of Nature, was a cooperative effort by the Illinois Department of Emergency Medical Services, Rescue Medical Services Inc. and the Touch of Nature Environmental Center.

Pittsburgh retailer to unload props

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If you're a sooth for ageless folks with winning smiles and shiny hair, a department store is ready to make you a match. Horne’s, one of the area’s biggest retailers, is going through its attic and getting rid of 4,000 to 5,000 props — including a construction worker mannequin that waves an orange flag when a knob is turned in its back.

The items range from ice cream parlor chairs to Christmas reindeer made of chicken wire to fake auto grilles and earthen pots.

The sale Wednesday and Thursday at the suburban Northway Mall is expected to bring in $8,000 to $10,000. The store will sell 15 to 20 dummies because they stand ramrod straight.

“New mannequins don’t stand up straight. They are kneeling, sitting, squatting or stooping,” Brown said.

Dear Colleagues in the University Community:

This is an appeal for help with Senator Ken Buckee’s campaign. This appeal is being made on behalf of Senator Buckee by several of his friends in the SIUC community. Ken Buckee holds bachelor’s and master’s degrees from SIUC, and he has been a friend and supporter of the university during his entire 10 years in the State Senate. As Chairman of the crucial Appropriations Committee, he has been in a pivotal position to help the university in particular, and education in general, and he has used that position well on our behalf.

It is now time for us to help Ken Buckee. Ken faces a tough re-election challenge. His opponent is well-financed and aggressive. These are several specific ways you can help:

(1) Volunteer your time
(2) Talk to others
(3) Give money

Ken is having a fund-raiser in DuQuoin at the First Host Restaurant on the Fairgrounds on October 14th from 6:00pm to 9:00pm. Please plan to attend. Also, there is a form attached to this ad which you can indicate the ways you can support Ken Buckee. Please do the university, the region, and yourself a favor by doing Ken a favor.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Barnes

Blacks must continue struggle for rights, BAC speakers say

By Eric Larson
Staff Writer

Black students must not give up their efforts to close the gap between racial equality and present condition, the Rev. Walter Boyce, coordinator of the Ministerial Association of Carbondale, told about 100 black students at a meeting sponsored by the Black Affairs Council.

"Great achievements do not come without struggle. We are concerned because you are our future," Bowie said Thursday.

Ten other speakers voiced concerns over issues facing black students.

"Complaints and rallies are good, but they don't get the job done," said Stan Larson, student trustee. Students need to vote in order to change the trend of reduced financial aid available to students from lower and middle income families, he said.

Black students should focus more on constructive issues both within the university and in the Carbondale community, said Martha Farris of the Carbondale chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"If you're going to be successful, most of it will come from within," said Harvey Welch, dean of Student Life. SIUC has a distinguished history of educating blacks long before it was fashionable to do so, he said.

It is important to make an impression on students at SIUC, said Kariem Sharitall, coordinator of the Black Affairs Council. Students need to decide the funding of various organizations such as the council, he said. When it was formed 11 years ago, the organization received an allocation of more than $8,000. Sharitall said last year's allocation from the Undergraduate Student Organization was just under $12,000. He said some reasons for the funding cuts are not valid, Sharitall said. One of those is the idea that BAC's programming is a duplication of the efforts of the Student Programming Council, he added. Although BAC does schedule some concerts and entertainment, it plans activities geared primarily for black audiences, an area neglected by SPC and other student groups, he said.

"How can you duplicate something that's never been?" he asked.

Netters add three to victory column

By Brian Higgins
Staff Writer

So far, so good
This is news that the SIU-C's tennis team has been progressng this season. The Lady Netters have defeated SIU-C 7-1 after rolling up easy victories over Eastern Illinois, Stephens College and Arkansas State this week in Carbondale.

"I was definitely more pleased with our doubles," Coach Dustin Blackman said. "I was winning the backhand to the Salukis problem area in the match. They played like they were communicating better. They're being a lot more aggressively." Aggressive was exactly the word that SIU-C's Lisa Warrem played EU's Kristen Peterson. After rolling off an easy victory in the opening match, Warrem began to key on Peterson's weak backhand. Warrem's power edge was beautifully exemplified at 30-9 of the final game of the match when she traded "I was definitely more single shots with Peterson. After reeling off an 7-5, 6-2 victory, Peterson said, "I'm think we're definitely made that right that Russell was probably the best finisher in 19:38, Lori Ann Bertram, 119th in 20:15. Blackman said that Russell was "awfully close," as the key on Peterson's weak opponent spectating. The next was match point, and Warrem claimed a 6-1, 6-2 set victory.

"Everything started coming together when I found out what st the team. "I found it by noticing to her backhand that I was winning I'm definitely pleased with the way the players have been progressing."

Lady harriers 17th at meet

By Dean Kirk
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's cross country finished 17th out of 23 teams at the TFAUSA Mid-America Saturday at Konoma, Ill., but Coach Claudia Blackman was "awfully close" with the Salukis' performance.

The top three of these top teams were Wisconsin-Madison with 59 points, Iowa with 36 and Purdue with 118. Illinois State's Wendy Van Meer was the meet's top finisher in 16:47, at a time Blackman said was "awfully close" to the course record. Second place went to Liz Hjalmarsdottir of Drake who finished in 16:55, while Iowa State's Margaret Davis finished third in 17:02.

Rosa Mitchell was SIU-C's top finisher with a time of 19:02 to finish 69th. Blackman said that Mitchell ran faster at this meet than any other this season.

Blackman said that Russell improved more than all the harriers since her time in this meet was the first time it had been under 20 minutes.

College sports are subject of hearing

By Jackie Rodgers
Sports Writer

An Illinois House subcommittee, headed by Dennis Hastert, R-Oswego, is conducting public hearings on intercollegiate athletics in Illinois. Hastert is the chairman of the University of Illinois in Chicago-Pilsen.

Officials from U of I in bothampaign and Chicago, SIU, and Eastern Illinois and Western Illinois are scheduled to appear.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president of student affairs and Athletics Directors Charlotte West and Lew Hartz of Stephens College and Arkansas State will also be present.

"Hastert believes that too much emphasis is put on winning and not enough on education in the universities system of Illinois."

Earlier last summer, members of the subcommittee visited each of the state college campuses and compiled reports on intercollegiate athletics at each of the campuses.

The hearing, scheduled for 10 a.m. in the EU Student Activity Center on the U of I campus, is open to the public. Hastert encourages anyone who is interested in college sports to attend.

Some of the issues the subcommittee will be examining are: the philosophy and purpose of intercollegiate athletics, the methods of funding intercollegiate athletics, and the role of tuition waivers for student-athletes. The basis for conferences, affiliation and the possibility of abolishing the non revenue sport of student-athletes.

"Naturally, everyone wants to be on the winning side, but a growing number of college coaches have been thought and some coaches may be overemphasizing winning at the expense of student sportsmanship and education. That's what this legislative subcommittee is studying," Hastert said.

Softballers second at Invite

Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer was absolutely correct.

"Before the SIU-C Fall Softball Invitational this weekend, Brechtelsbauer predicted that Missouri would be the team to contend with. After all, the Lady Tigers are traditionally national title contenders, so the prediction seemed like the obvious one to make."

After sending Illinois State and Bradley into the losers' bracket to compete for the consolation title (Illini won 7-1), SIU-C marched onto the diamond to do battle with the same Missouri ballclub that had pulled out a 10-inning, 2-1 victory against them only a day earlier.

Catcher Ginger Henley made it 2-0 moments later when she cut in front of Tonya Lindsey and couldn't come up with Mizzou's Kathi Manegre led off with a single.

"We didn't let the magic of the occasion influence our performance as we were hitting the ball well and making good contact. But we were not able to get on base. They were pitching well."

"The Missouri scoring. We were hitting the ball well but were not able to get on base. They were pitching well."

Wilson then set the Salukis down in order and the Lady Tigers had a 6-2 finals' victory.

"I brought Vicki (Stafko) in at that situation because she'd been pitching well in practice," said Brechtelsbauer. "I felt that she needed a chance to play in a game situation."

Missouri, who finished the tournament with a 3-1 slate after suffering the extra inning loss to Mizzou in its opener, defeated Bradley and ISU by identical 1-4 scores to reach the finals. In the other tournament match, the Redbirds beat Bradley 5-4 with a run run sixth inning.

"I think the kids did a super job coming back the whole weekend," said Missouri Coach Joyce Compton. "We showed now that when we're down, we can come back."

Mizzou's Kathy Manegre led off with a single.

"I'm generally pleased," Brechtelsbauer said of her squad's tournament performance. "We came a long way. Unfortunately we had one bad inning when they (Missouri) teed off on us. But we were hitting the ball with authority, and we were finally scoring some runs on our extra base hits."
Hail Mary pass strikes down Salukis

Arkansas State quarterback Rick Langford made a wild scramble and a desperate throw, wide receiver Gill Stegal took a circular route to the end zone, and just like that, a picture-book SIU-C rally was run down.

Stegal came from out of bounds to catch a 10-yard touchdown pass with less than four seconds left that gave the Indians a shocking 35-34 win at Memorial Stadium Saturday.

A crowd of 13,500 that had alternately cheered, stamped its feet, passed up girls, beat up marchers, and surreptitiously slipped from pint bottles, looked in vain for a flag.

One was finally thrown, but only because the Indians celebrated too long and too vigorously, and got charged with delay of the game. The Salukis had one more chance to come back on the field and make a catch.

The Salukis had one more chance to come back on the field and make a catch, but their game barely audible, even in a deathly quiet hallway.

"I didn't think I had the man out," he said. Then, ever so softly, "I didn't stick with him like I should have."

Stegal was running a long out pattern, but Scroggins threw him off the slot and left the Salukis with a 22-yard field goal.

"At the same time, Langford was escaping from the clusters of linebackers John Harper. He left the ball, both Stegal cast it, and John Harper had a field day while the Salukis were left in the aftermath.

During this time, the Indians defense, SIU-C's noseguard Sterling Hawgood, took the field, a two-man team, with Johnson and Johnson, who matched that withpiel throws to Marvin Runyon and Pierre Pugh.

"We'll bounce back," he said, before the Salukis trainers asked for a better performance in the future.

On Saturday's opening day, the Salukis were defeated by the Indians, 35-34, in a double dual meet at SIU-C's home course of Midland Hills. Illinois defeated Bradley 19-38.

Saluki Mike Keane finished first with a 25:50.25.

"I think we improved quite a bit, but we didn't have the best performance. But I think we improved quite a bit, but we didn't have the best performance. But I think we can improve quite a bit," said Saluki head coach Kevin Keane.

After Baas, five runners from Illinois and Bradley finished before the Salukis' Gary Munson finished 13th in 28:30.30. Munson was pleased with Munson's performance as well as that of David Behm, a walk-on freshman who finished 16th and "improved quite a bit."

Munson, he said, finished strongly and was running better at every meet.

Cornell said that the last minute addition of the Bravos, whose meet at Iowa State was cancelled due to the weather, could have affected the Salukis' performance. He added that the team had "good as the Bravos".
