Female enrollment increases 1.4%

By Paul Buckner
Staff Writer

Traditional sayings that there are twice as many men as women at SIU-C might be obsolete soon, according to enrollment figures released Thursday by the Office of Admissions and Records.

The University has 1.4 percent more women enrolled this year than last, according to the figures. A total of 37.4 percent, or about 8,700, women are enrolled for the fall semester.

The University records 23,261 students enrolled this year, an increase of 589 students from fall semester last year. It is the largest attendance figure since a fall 1981 count of 23,921 students, according to a University News Service release.

Roland Keim, associate director of the office, said Thursday the increase reflects an increase nationwide in university enrollments. He also attributed the increase to an intensified effort at recruiting new students.

Keim said that of 589 additional new or transfer students who enrolled this fall, 230 were men and 359 were women. The total is 248 more than last year, about an 8.8 percent jump.

Terry Mathias, director for new student admissions, was unavailable Thursday for comment.

Overall on-campus enrollment increased about 2 percent, from 20,012 to 20,422 students. On-campus student enrollment, primarily through SIU-C's degree programs at military bases, increased about 7 percent from 2,660 last year to 2,846 students this year.

Total student enrollments are highest for the College of Engineering and Technology, with 2,544 students. The College of Business and Administration follows with 2,439 and the associate degree program offered by the School of Technical Careers ranks third with 2,297 students.

Graduate school enrollments increased 2.5 percent and combined increases for the schools of law and medicine are 1.4 percent.

Students seeking advanced degrees are listed as: 2,634 in master's programs, 911 in doctoral programs, 308 law students and 271 medical students.

Saluki tailgate offers food, fun, bizarre bazaar

By Bill Ruminski
Staff Writer

Although Saturday's Great Saluki Tailgate is fashioned after University of Illinois's Tailgater weekend, SIU's party aims to be pure Dawg Heaven.

When the tailgating begins at 10:30 Saturday morning, spectators will be able walk through a maze of bazaar-style booths beaming with Saluki spirit. Food tents, maroon-colored kegs, balloons and plenty of Saluki fans will fill the grassy area east of McAndrew Stadium.

"We're going to need a shoehorn to fit everybody in the area, but it's going to be a good time," said Bruce McCutcheon, assistant athletics director of marketing and promotions.

Student groups, campus organizations and local businesses have been assigned spots inside the tailgate area, said Jim Prowell, director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce.

"We have about 1 inch of space left," Prowell said. "Next year we will need a change. There isn't enough room."

Prowell said the idea for the Great Saluki Tailgate developed after many SIU fans traveled to Champaign for a football game between the Salukis and Illini. He said he and McCutcheon worked with University of Illinois's Tailgater coordinators to develop SIU's program.

"They came down to help us avoid some of the problems they had when they started," he said.

Jackie O'Connor, who is coordinating the Carbondale Clinic's entry, said the clinic signed up for its entry before the program began.

"Many of us were at U of I last fall and had a great time," O'Connor said.

The Carbondale Clinic has invited all of its employees, physicians, SIU head coaches, Mayor Helen Westberg and "most of Southern Illinois" she said.

The Herrin Drill Team will sponsor the tent, O'Connor said.

Ralph Edmonds and the swim team also have an entry in the Tailgate party.

"We aren't having anything extravagant," Edmonds said. "We're just going to have a lot of fun and raise a little spirit."

He said the swimmers plan to paint their faces maroon and their bodies white to match their stationwagon and keg of beer.

Tailgaters will compete in four categories: traditional Saluki, Southern Illinois pride, cut-rate tailgate and student. Prizes for the winners include a four-day trip to Tantara Resort, a weekend at the Marion Holiday, St. Louis Cardinal football tickets or a color television.

The tailgate area will be open from 10:30 a.m. until game time. Judging of the entries begins at 11 a.m.

Witness' credibility questioned

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

Opening statements in the John Paul Phillips murder trial Thursday at the Massac County Courthouse centered on the validity of testimony from Phillips' former cell mate at Menard Correctional Center.

Thomas Mocabey will testify that Phillips told him he committed the 1981 murder of Carbondale waitress Joan Wetherall, the prosecutor said.

Wetherall, a waitress at Holiday Inn, was found dead Nov. 11, 1981, in a strip mine pit about a half mile north of Elkhaville blacktop road. Police reports said that Wetherall had been sexually assaulted and strangled.

Jackson County Public Defender John Benham said evidence will show that Mocabey fabricated the story in order to gain reward money offered for information in the case to pay back a drug debt while at Menard and to get a transfer from Menard.

Assistant Attorney General Matthew Schneider, the prosecuting attorney, said Mocabey and Phillips built a trust between them while they were inmates at Williamson County Jail in 1982, and while they later were cell mates at Menard in 1984. Schneider said Mocabey's testimony would show that Phillips is guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt."

Mocabey will testify today or Monday, according to the State's Attorneys Office.

Jackson County Circuit Judge Donald Lowery is presiding. He told jurors that opening statements were not to be regarded as evidence in the case.

Schneider said testimony from a former SIU-C student who identified Phillips as the man who raped her 46 days after the Wetherall murder,

Thompson-Stevenson debate gets hot

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. James R. Thompson called Adlai E. Stevenson III one of the most "naive" men he knows when it comes to crime, and Stevenson accused Thompson of selling Illinois government for campaign contributions in the second of three debates between the two on Thursday.

Thompson immediately went on the attack during a brief opening statement and kept up the charges throughout the hour-long debate. Stevenson made counter charges, but he said he was on the defensive during much of the debate. One Stevenson aide called the debate a "public mugging" of Stevenson.

Stevenson, a Democrat-turned-Illinois Solidarity Party candidate for governor, is challenging the Republican governor in his effort for an unprecedented fourth consecutive term in office.

"The people of Illinois took you at face value in the last debate and we got taken," Thompson told Stevenson.

Stevenson countered by repeating his charge that Thompson was trying to cover up reports giving unfavorable views of the state and its economy.

"That X-rated report was redrafted until it could be rated 'R,' suitable for viewing by citizens over 18 years of age in an election year," Stevenson said. "If only it were so easy. If only we could meet our challenges by tampering with the facts and the figures that disturb us."

Stevenson accused Thompson of putting hiring freezes into place for reasons of patronage over fiscal considerations, but Thompson denied the charge, saying the freezes helped him "keep a handle" on state employment during tough economic times.

France dispatching planes, soldiers to west Africa

LOME, Togo (UPI) — France said Thursday it was dispatching planes and soldiers to Togo to help the west African government. Gunfire erupted in the capital one day after a coup attempt. In Lome, security forces stalked remaining members of a commando team that tried to topple the government, capturing three more Thursday for a total of 22.

Troops search militant slum for arms caches

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Army troops with blackened faces sealed off a militant Santiago slum before dawn Thursday and searched house to house for arms caches allegedly stashed by leftist rebels. Roman Catholic Church workers said. It was the second raid in less than three weeks on the south side shanty of La Victoria where three French missionaries were arrested by troops Sept. 8 and expelled from Chile by the military government.

China's stock exchange experiment opens

PEKING (UPI) — Chinese citizens can buy and sell stocks issued by two Shanghai companies beginning Friday in the first stock-trading experiment since the 1949 communist revolution, the Xinhua news agency said Thursday. The report said the limited exchange opens Friday at the Shanghai branch of the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China. "Shareholders will trade their stocks freely on the market according to the prices quoted and pay a certain amount of commission after transactions are concluded," the official news agency said.

Guerrillas demand $12,000 for remains

KOKE SOONG, Thailand (UPI) — Cambodian guerrillas Thursday demanded $12,000 for "expenses" before turning over remains and identification they claim belonged to three U.S. soldiers killed in Vietnam. The guerrillas met with reporters near the Thai-Cambodian border 135 miles east of Bangkok to publicize their demands but produced no physical evidence to support their claim.

Shultz expected to discuss Daniloff case again

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz said Thursday there is a "genuine effort on both sides" to resolve the Daniloff case and that he expects to meet Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze again. A Soviet spokesman said that next Tuesday, when Shevardnadze leaves for Canada, is a "kind of deadline" for resolving the dispute over American reporter Nicholas Daniloff. And Shultz said it is possible the dispute will not be resolved by then.

Catchall spending bill nearing House passage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House moved toward passage Thursday of a massive catchall spending bill that needs to pass by midnight Tuesday to keep the government running, but faced a veto threat from President Reagan over defense. The $58 billion spending bill, to pay for nearly every aspect of federal government in the next fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, is necessary because Congress has not approved its 13 regular appropriations bills. Among its many provisions, the bill allocates $2.1 billion for the anti-drug program passed by the House earlier this month.

FBI issues national alert for bearded convict

WRIGHT CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The more than 100 lawmen searching for a former convict suspected of killing three people pressed their manhunt Thursday, but the FBI issued a nationwide alert on the possibility he had eluded the dragnet around this farming community. Michael Wayne Jackson had not been seen since 9:30 p.m. Monday — when he wrecked a stolen Cadillac following a shootout with police in eastern Missouri. The bearded former mental patient, his bearded face streaked with silver paint, took off on a three state crime spree early Monday from Indiana, across Illinois and into Missouri.

Forest Service wants war on pot growers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Forest Service is asking Congress for sweeping police powers against marijuana growers who have made 1 million acres of national forests too dangerous for the public to visit, officials said Thursday. F. Dale Robertson, associate chief of the Agriculture Department agency, estimated that 400 Forest Service employees out of a permanent work force of 30,000 would be trained to deal with trip wires, shotguns, booby traps, land mines and attack dogs increasingly used to protect marijuana plants.

Prof says public officials' image bad

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

People feel that the ethics of public officials are not very good, says Stanley Tyler, professor of finance.

Tyler spoke to a group of local politicians and business persons in the Student Center Thursday as part of a public seminar, "Managing Public Funds in Illinois Local Governments." The seminar was sponsored by the Illinois Office of the Comptroller, SIUC, and the Southern Illinois Mayor's Association.

"Clearly the public perception is that ethical behavior is declining throughout society," Tyler said.

"ALL OF us need to be sensitized, or perhaps resensitized, to the ethical component in our lives," he said.

Tyler passed out a "test" of ten ethics questions to the group. The test first appeared in the May 1982 issue of "Public Management."

One of the questions on the test was:

"A woman is a valued employee. She has worked for you for years and she is the kind of worker you can depend upon to put in extra time and effort when it is needed. She is always there in a crisis and several times she has handled situations that would have been uncomfortable for you. You really owe her a lot.

"RECENTLY, SHE came to you and admitted that for some time she has been 'borrowing' money from the petty cash fund, writing false receipts to cover it. It was never much, usually $10 or $15, and she always repaid it. But her conscience has bothered her so much that she had to confess.

"Under your personnel policies, her action is clearly a cause for dismissal. Do you fire her?"

Tyler said the correct answer, "according to the experts who made up this test," is to fire her. "If you excuse her, what does that say to other employees? How has she repaid the 'trust and value' in which you held her?"

State Rep. Bruce Richmond, who also spoke at the seminar, discussed state mandates to local governments.

"WHAT STATE mandates basically get down to is state governments telling local governments what to do and how to do it," he said, which can sometimes create problems.

"I think anytime you tell someone they have to do something and they have to pay for it, a conflict will ensue," Richmond said.

He also said that because some local officials "have found ways around it," the open meetings act has been updated four times.

Osbin Ervin, public administration associate professor, presented the seminar introduction.

Other speakers included Thomas Pekras and Sam Stiles, from the office of the comptroller, and Laurel Prussing, Champaign County auditor, on making reports; Roland Wright, accounting professor, on new accounting practices; Bill Morris, a vice president of Continental Bank of Chicago, and Paul Sorgen, director of finance for Carbondale, on investment opportunities; Jeff Johnson, manager of state mandates review program, on state mandates; Shawn Denney, of the Attorney General's office, Kurt P. Froehlich, from Evans and Froehlich law firm, and John Stevens, legal counsel for the state comptroller, on where to go for legal help.

OK given to NASA for shuttle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House gave NASA permission Thursday to build a replacement for the Challenger space shuttle, whatever it costs, and said the space agency can accept gifts from the public to help underwrite a new orbiter.

The action came in the House's 407-8 approval of a $7.7 billion authorization bill for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration operations next year.

The bill, which does not specify an amount for a new shuttle but says NASA has permission for "such ... sums as are necessary," was sent to the Senate.

Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., head of a House space subcommittee and a passenger on the last successful shuttle flight before the Challenger disaster, said no cost was specified to give NASA flexibility to use whatever figure emerges later in a catch-all spending bill.

The Senate bill gives the Air Force permission to spend $2.96 billion on a replacement, and the House bill gives NASA $272 million for shuttle work next year.

The bill also requires NASA to move toward finding a second builder for the shuttle's huge solid-propellant booster rockets, now built only by Morton Thiokol. The provision's sponsor, Rep. Robert Torcelli, D-N.J., said it will introduce competition in the rocket program and marks a new aspect of Congress's relationship with NASA.

Idea is good but it took long enough

WHAT CAN YOU SAY but "better late than never?" University administrators finally yanked their collective heads out of the sand long enough to help dissatisfied students' by creating an Early Warning System program.

Administered and staffed by the Office of Student Affairs, EWS uses volunteers who work with academic advisers, counselors and instructors to find students bent on dropping out before graduating.

Student Affairs officials say about 800 students each semester go this route, but not before exhibiting warning signs beforehand such as skipping too many classes, not preregistering and showing extreme emotional changes.

CERTAINLY, TEACHERS ABSENT from their own classes probably don't help matters much because they're never around when you need to talk to them.

But the program's selling point goes beyond mere availability. Its overseers' attitude is encouraging.

Jean Paratore, assistant to the vice president for Student Affairs, said she realizes not all the students who need help will want it, but she hopes students will keep it in the back of their minds that it's there when they need it.

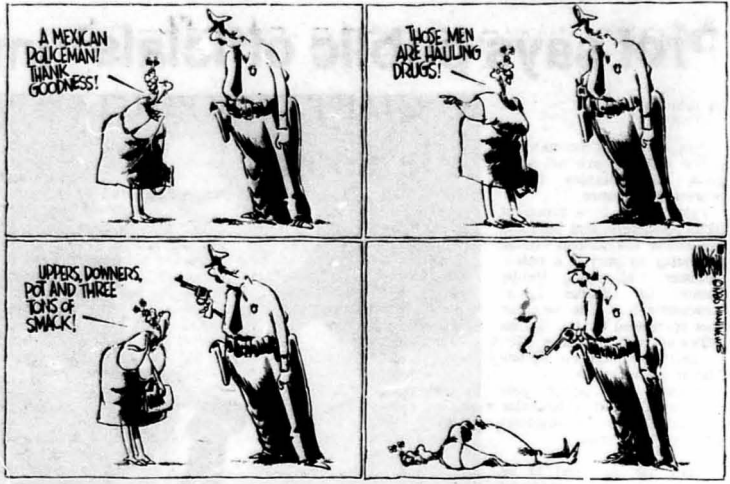

That's a healthy approach. Nothing kills a program faster than shoving it down students' throats. Frequent, subtle promotion should work. Being effective would help too because many counseling programs here aren't.

HOWEVER, IT SEEMS ODD that this concept hadn't materialized long before now. Student discontent is nothing new and it would be pretty ignorant of the University administration to think so.

To that end, the program could be baloney. Losing 800 students each semester could be an embarrassment for University administrators. EWS could be just a ploy for the administration to save face in the eyes of university administrators elsewhere.

But the administration is often the last place you can get a straight answer.

College isn't easy and it isn't for everyone. But everyone who wants a decent career needs some higher education. EWS should help smooth out some rough spots for students and heighten the University's responsibility for its charges.

Letters

Where does Mazurek live? Must not be in America

I am responding to Edward Mazurek's Sept. 16 letter. Let me first say that I found it very sophomoric. I'd really like to know just where you live because it can't be in America. This great country is not a melting pot. This fact is certain just from the tone of your letter.

Secondly, Mr. Mazurek, I was not speaking of the "poor" blacks, as you nicely put it, because blacks are not poor; they are disadvantaged. If this is indeed our country, we should be allowed a voice in their media. Who is more capable than we are to tell our story? I'd hate to see what happens in the media when you join the work force, Mr. Journalism Major.

Thirdly, Mr. Mazurek, blacks, as well as any ethnic group in America, have a "special" history and yes, I want young blacks to learn their own. From the day we are enrolled in the one-sided educational system, we are forced to learn every history save our own.

In my classes, I am still meeting young blacks who think Abraham Lincoln freed us, Columbus discovered America and they have to get a job instead of create one! The history of blacks in America is a saga that must never be forgotten by anyone in this country for it was on the backs of the slaves this nation became wealthy.

I am not denying the contributions of others to American history; I am bigger than you are, but I am saying this land is our land too. It is obvious you need to see several more television mini-series on slavery so that you can accept your legacy. Blacks were not the only ones in bondage during that time. If blacks do not have a special history, why were they not free on July 4, 1776?

Finally, Eddie, I think you need to study harder and change your definition of racism. Perhaps the "dark problem" you spoke about in your letter will clear up when you become a senior. — Shirlene Holmes, graduate student, Speech Communication.

Opinions from elsewhere

War toy profits rising

St. Louis Post-Dispatch
Some parents cringe, while others merely shrug at shouts of, "Bang! Bang! You're dead!" But what about a computer game that puts a child into the cockpit of an F-15 for a bombing raid on Libya?

Swelling profits from war toys have caught the eye of toy designers and software programmers, and they are going after that market with high-tech war games.

The dollars involved are tempting. The National Coalition on Television Violence estimated early this year that sales of war toys had jumped 350 percent since 1982, to $842 million a year. The fall in war toys' popularity in the 1970s reflected the pain spawned by the Vietnam War. Their resurgence reflects an increase in society's tolerance for violence in entertainment — and even foreign policy.

The toys' defenders argue that high-tech war games provide just another way for children to let off steam through fantasy. But letting children pretend to take the controls of an F-15 to wipe out political targets injects a level of realism into play that fighting with tin soldiers can never approach.

The violence is realistic, but sanitized — the computer screen simulates the cockpit's controls, but the child never envisions the raid's consequences.

War toys aren't going to make cold-blooded killers out of children who are otherwise stable. But those entrusted with the care of children must remember that play is more than a way for children to pass the time without pestering their parents.

For children, play is serious business. It shapes their values and teaches them to solve problems. For a safe world, our children should be playing with toys that will foster the skill of solving conflicts without violence.

Children of the '80s should take a lesson from children of the '60s

A 19-year-old man hides in the thick jungle underbrush. He crawls over the bodies of his dead buddies, whose faces are no longer recognizable, because of the impact of mortar fire. With a little luck, he may make it back to his platoon. Perhaps his leg may not have to be amputated.

A young woman, with a bachelor's degree returns to her home. She's lucky, this is only the third time she has been rejected for a managerial position. Another person was selected, a young man, with slightly less experience. That's OK, he'll do well. After all, it's a man's world.

A young black man leads a demonstration. The city in which he lives has ruled that his group will not be allowed to speak at the next council meeting. He feels that without proper black representation on a controversial issue, the vote may not be in the best interest of all citizens. That's OK, he would have been arrested five years ago for doing this. Some battles have been won.

Scenes from the "A-Team," Rambo, "Falcon Crest," South Africa?

Try the 1960s, U.S.A. Sure the scene was groovy on the surface. But what was it all really about? Civil rights, equality, peace, war, love, your fellow man or woman, white or black, napalm, innocent children dying in battle, young men learning life and death, hard and fast.

What about the 1980s? The scene looks fine on the surface. But there are still many hard battles to be fought and won. Problems easy to avoid and pretend aren't there. Child abuse, sexual abuse, drug abuse, political freedom, religious freedom, hunger, illiteracy, civil rights, nuclear arms, the trade deficit, the budget deficit, terrorism.

But what can we, as children of the 80s, do? Take a lesson from the 60s and get involved! Write, picket, speak out, take notice. Come down from your Yuppie clouds and meet the real world. It's all we've got. — Kevin Caraker, graduate student, Department of Mechanical Engineering and Energy Processes.

More awareness of effects could solve drug problem

By Tom Mangan
Staff Writer

It's time to declare a truce in the war on drugs. Before we spend billions to outwit clever smugglers, send in the marines and execute drug dealers, let's pause for a moment and regain our senses.

First, remember that 1986 is an election year. In attacking drug abuse, our leaders leap atop a no-lose, risk-free soap box from which they can cry "foul!" with little fear of adverse reaction from the electorate.

LEADING THE CHARGE against illicit drugs is President Reagan, who wants to be remembered for something more than his brinkmanship with the Soviets and military forays against Libya and Grenada. So the president sounds a convenient alarm: Drugs are destroying our great nation! All of Washington joins the chorus. Vote-hungry politicians need at least one stance that won't turn against them.

U.S. News & World Report cites a study showing that drug use, with the exception of cocaine, has been nearly constant over the past 10 years. Cocaine use has doubled in the same time frame, but that's more a feature of falling prices and increasing quality than a symptom of a drug epidemic.

DESPITE EVIDENCE that our drug problems might not be as bad as Reagan and Company would like us to think, the war wages on. Drug enforcement agents pour into South Florida looking to stem the tide of cocaine and marijuana flowing into our country. Smugglers, naturally, find a more remote patch of shoreline somewhere up the coast. Placed at the disadvantage of having to outguess the drug runners, the Drug Enforcement Agency must be everywhere at once — clearly an impossible proposition.

Has drug use abated for all this concern? Probably not.

THE BEST WE CAN hope for is a heightened awareness of the problem. This is where drug education, yet another piece in the puzzle, enters the equation.

Some are calling for more drug education, thinking that an informed public will decide against drug use. Others advise against it, saying a free flow of information about drugs will only encourage non-users to experiment.

Ask yourself whether you ever, upon hearing about the effects of a given drug, considered using that drug. A tired, uninspired executive who hears about the physical and psychological boost provided by cocaine, on the other hand, might well be encouraged to give it a try.

SUCH A REACTION is understandable and probably more prevalent than the advocates of drug education might believe, particularly when that education stresses the immediate physiological and psychological effects of drugs.

People should know the effects of drugs, but they really need to know the consequences of drug abuse. They need a permanent impression of what happens to the human body and mind when they become addicted to drugs.

In the late 1970s, a program called "Scared Straight" was considered an effective deterrent to crime for the petty criminals who participated. Once juvenile offenders learned of the very-real consequences of crime — a hellish prison sentence — most of them turned away from crime, the program's coordinators said. The young criminals were, in effect, "scared straight."

THE SCARED-STRAIGHT ideal should be applied to drug education. Send grade school students to a drug rehabilitation ward where cocaine addicts are trying to pull their lives together. Let impressionable youths help nurse a heroin addict through withdrawal syndrome. Put teenagers on duty in an emergency room where drug overdoses are commonly treated. Send them out with an ambulance driver to see what happens when a stoned driver kills an innocent bystander.

If vigorously pursued, education about the damaging, often deadly, results of drug abuse can have a much greater effect than all the platitudes of politicians. Spending billions of dollars in a failing effort to foil drug smugglers will not work as long as there is a demand for their products. Channeling those billions into meaningful, lasting learning experiences is an infinitely wiser investment. Demand will decline if enough people become sufficiently appalled — not to mention scared — by the dangers of drug use and abuse.

Parent of the Day 'never gave up' on his son

By University News Service

Parents Weekend honors all parents of SIU-C students, but one parent each year receives special attention during the weekend.

This year's Parent of the Day is Ron Smith of West Frankfort. His son Gary, 30, wrote an essay about him that won first place in the Parents Day Contest.

The Smith family will be introduced during halftime at the SIU-C and Youngstown State football game and will be treated as privileged guests throughout the weekend.

The younger Smith said his dad teaches by example and "never completely gave up on me." Gary said in his essay that although he dropped out of 'It looks like I'll make it and I owe my success to one person — my father.'

— Gary Smith, Parents Day essay contest winner college twice in the early 1970s, his father quietly paid the bills and still had high hopes for him.

"He has funded my fiascos and finally my inevitable success," Gary said. He quit the University of Illinois in 1975, went back in 1977 and dropped out a year later. He said he quit the first time because "I just felt like maybe it wasn't worth it." The next time he quit, he said he felt "disillusioned with the entire process and it seemed you could maybe make more money in the real world."

Gary worked at a variety of odd jobs and worked in a West Frankfort welding shop for a few years before returning to college in 1983.

His father said Gary had too much talent to stay out of education altogether. Gary has been at SIU-C for about three years and hopes to get his bachelor's degree in University Studies next May.

He is interested in a job in public relations or sales.

Gary's father has worked in the West Frankfort schools for 27 years, with much of that time spent as dean of boys and vocational director at Frankfort Community High School. He has been principal of Denning Elementary School for the past three years.

Ron received his bachelor's degree from University of Illinois and his master's degree from SIU-C in 1986. He has since taken classes ranging from welding to computer science.

"I'm probably one of the few people that have been enrolled for 40 years," Ron said.

"When he gets his degree it will be much more meaningful because of the trials and tribulations we've had."

Gary's mother, Shirley, and youngest brother, Barry, were killed in a car accident in 1969. Gary recalled in his essay how his father came home from the hospital and "took charge with a spirit of determination." He added, "He never let us feel sorry for ourselves, as he attacked life with a new vigor."

Ron has three other children, Allen, 29; Rhona, 28; and Brett, 26.

Looking back, Ron said it was hard to raise his four children alone.

Ron says the best part of parenthood is "to see my children happy." Gary said, "It looks like I will make it and I owe my success to one person — my father."

You could have them take you to some "fancy-schmancy" motel lounge where you'll have to pay "fancy-schmancy" prices for drinks. The only problem is if you have a good time and ho-rah a little bit, people will look at you as if you've belched in church. Or you could take them down to the strip but could you really see your own mother getting "down & dirty"? The only viable alternative for both you and your parents has got to be Fred's.

Do those plastic swords and little paper umbrellas make the drink worth a dollar more? Fred's editorial comment!

New heart given to 8-day-old baby

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — An 8-day-old baby believed to be the world's youngest heart transplant recipient was in critical condition Thursday, a day after getting a plum-sized heart in surgery that lasted more than nine hours.

Doctors at Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital gave little information on the infant and would not reveal his sex until announcing Thursday that he has been dubbed "Baby Eric."

"He's now called Baby Eric," hospital spokeswoman Betty Jolly said, adding that more information might be disclosed this weekend.

"They're waiting to see how the baby progresses," Jolly said. "They're planning on calling a news conference for the weekend or maybe Monday if its condition stabilizes."

Dr. Kirk Kanter, a cardiac surgeon who was on the transplant team, said the infant was on a respirator in the hospital's neo-natal intensive care unit.

"The donor heart is about the size of a plum," said Kanter. "The other child's heart that was removed was slightly smaller."

The baby was a week old and weighed 7 pounds, 3 1/2 ounces at the time of the operation Wednesday. The child, born to a St. Louis area couple on Sept. 17, was a full-term baby who developed heart problems soon after birth.

Doctors began a search for a heart donor.

A 3 1/2-month-old boy who suffered brain trauma in a traffic accident Sunday was found Tuesday in Knoxville, Tenn. The boy, Jeffrey Pobanz Jr., was declared brain dead, but his circulation and breathing were supported by artificial means because his parents had decided to offer his organs for transplant.

The mother, Lois Pobanz, 32, said her grandfather in Ohio was the oldest transplant recipient when he received a cornea at the age of 100, so she did not hesitate to offer the organ of her baby, nicknamed Rider.

"I get depressed and sad, but all of a sudden a strong calm comes over," she said. "We know this is what Rider was meant for."

Parents' Association offers new benefits

By Nola J. Cowser
Staff Writer

The Parents' Association is getting bigger and better, according to Burr Burrell, chairman of the organization.

The Parents' Association was organized to help parents get involved with the University in other ways than just paying tuition. Burrell said. A committee has recently been formed to help improve the Parents' Association, he said.

One of the improvements is the number of benefits offered through membership. The group now offers twice as many benefits to members than in previous years, and Burrell said there are still more benefits to come.

New benefits will include discounts at certain Carbondale hotels and restaurants and discounts for Celebrity Series performances at Shryock Auditorium.

Saturday the Parents' Association will have a hospitality tent set up for members and for parents who are interested in becoming members. The tent will be part of the tailgate party festivities for the SIU-C vs. Youngstown State football game.

A year's membership is $10 and can be purchased in the Gallery Lounge during Parents Weekend, at the hospitality tent.

Sickness caused by stress costly, deadly, experts say

By Paula Kurtzweil
Staff Writer

Stressful situations today can lead to a variety of illnesses tomorrow, say three SIU-C stress authorities.

"If you don't stop stress, you get sick," says Beverly Stitt, project director in the Department of Vocational Education Studies who began studying stress four years ago.

Stitt said she was surprised to learn that 750,000 people die each year from stress-related illnesses and that $150 billion is spent annually on treating these diseases.

IN ADDITION, said Stitt, the American Medical Association estimates that two-thirds of all visits to the doctor are due to stress-related factors.

Dr. Jerry Goddard, of the Health Service, said although he thinks that figure may be high, the Health Service treats its share of stress-related illnesses.

One of the most frequent disorders diagnosed at the Health Service is irritable bowel syndrome, said Goddard. The syndrome is associated with varying degrees of abdominal pain, constipation and diarrhea. The symptoms are apparently a reaction to stress, he said. Goddard noted that the condition tends to worsen during test times.

ATED condition often treated at the Health Service is chest pain secondary to hyper-ventilation syndrome, said Goddard and added that the condition can be acute or chronic.

If acute, Goddard said the person experiences rapid breathing, shortness of breath and pressure pain in the chest.

The symptoms of the chronic phase are not as obvious except that the person may breathe twice as fast as he normally does, said Goddard. As a result, too much carbon dioxide is blown out of the blood, which causes the person to feel lightheaded and chest pressure, Goddard said.

THE HEALTH Service also treats students suffering from tension headaches and gastritis. Gastritis is a disorder caused by an increased production of stomach acid that leads to stomach irritability, said Goddard.

Smoking and alcohol abuse, habits often begun in response to stress, can subsequently lead to health problems, said Goddard. He noted that bronchitis is associated with cigarette smoking and that gastritis results from excessive alcohol intake.

According to Marc Cohen, program director for the Wellness Center, stress-related illnesses result when a person faces day-to-day problems, which the body perceives as life threatening. In response, the body releases adrenalin and other hormones to ready itself for "fight or flight."

"THE HEART rate increases, the blood pressure goes up, and the muscles become tense," said Cohen. He added that these changes can lead to health problems if the stressful condition continues.

Cohen, who conducts the Wellness Center's stress management workshop, said because of the new environment, international students often experience a great deal of stress. Also in the high-stress category are medical, law and engineering students who face demanding professional curriculums.

"We really see students from every major," said Cohen.

The Wellness Center is offering a Stress Management Workshop from 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 14 in the Student Center Mississippi Room. The workshop will be given again from 7 to 9 p.m. Dec. 3 in the Student Center Illinois Room. An advanced stress-management group, Attuning the Mind to Health, will meet for three consecutive Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. in Student Center Ohio Room beginning Oct. 15. To register for the advanced group, students may call 536-4441.

Columnist called to Oval Office

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan summoned syndicated columnist George Will, his sometimes confidant and recent critic, to the Oval Office and they chatted for more than half an hour Thursday.

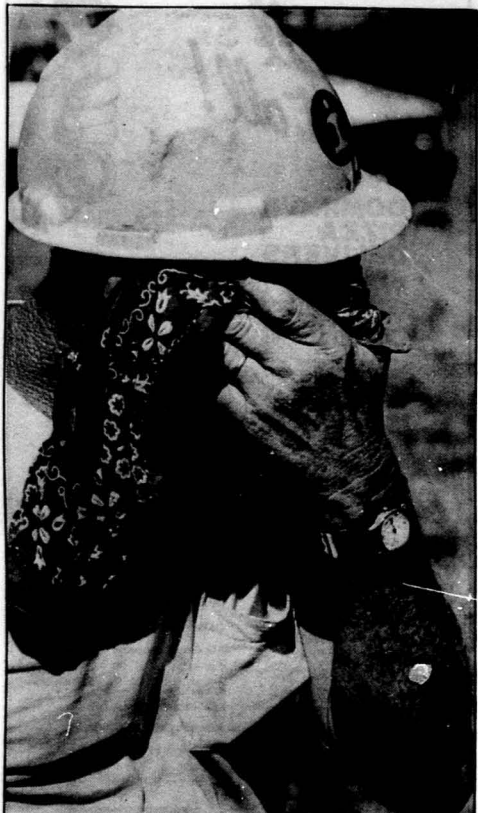

Will, who wrote a stinging critique of Reagan's handling of the negotiations for the release of American journalist Nicholas Daniloff from the Soviet Union, has had Reagan to his house for dinner on occasion and has lunched frequently with Nancy Reagan.

The conservative columnist said after the Oval Office meeting, "You will have to wait to find out" what he and Reagan discussed.

Last week, in a scathing column that aides said angered the president and the first lady, Will said the administration collapsed "like a punctured balloon" in its dealing with the Soviets and he likened Reagan to former President Jimmy Carter.

"Reagan's instinct has prevailed and has been wrong," Will wrote. "It has been identical to Carter's instinct in the Iranian hostage crisis."

Will and other conservatives have denounced the swap arrangement permitting Daniloff, held on what Reagan called "trumped-up" spy charges, to be turned over to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow in exchange for the transfer of accused Soviet spy Gennadi Zakharov.

Movie Guide

The Boy Who Could Fly — (Saluki, PG) When a young girl and her recently widowed mother move into a new city, the girl befriends an autistic boy with magical powers.

Crocodile Dundee — (Fox Eastgate, PG-13) Comedy about a New York reporter who interviews a crocodile fighter in the Australian outback. To promote her story, the reporter takes the Australian to New York where he gets his first taste of civilization.

Desert Hearts — (University 4, R) Intelligent, brilliant-acted film about a professor who falls in love with a lesbian sculptor 10 years her junior. The movie is set in 1959 in Reno, Nev., and uses the gambling in the Nevada casinos as a strong metaphor for the gamblers lovers must make with each other.

Extremities — (Varsity, R) Farris Fawcett plays an attempted rape victim who takes revenge on her assailant with a violence that surpasses his. The movie deals with many issues about women and rape, including the often callous or accusatory attitudes of the law toward rape victims.

Ferris Bueller's Day Off — (Fox Eastgate, PG-13) An extraordinary young man cuts school and heads for downtown Chicago in a friend's father's Ferrari.

The Fly — (University 4, R) Called the "gross-out movie of the year" by Newsweek magazine, "The Fly" is based on a 1958 movie of the same title in which a scientist experimenting with matter transmission accidentally mingles his genes with those of a housefly. Jeff Goldblum and Geena Davis star.

The Gods Must Be Crazy — (Friday and Saturday, Student Center Auditorium) A very odd, very funny movie about a tribe of African bushmen who find a Coke bottle in their primitive village. When the bottle becomes a source of jealousy and culture shock, one of the tribesmen volunteers to return it to the gods.

Karate Kid II — (Liberty, PG) Noriyuki Morita, the karate master of the first "Karate Kid," must return to Japan for his father's funeral. Accompanied by the "Kid," Ralph Macchio, the two soon run into some troublesome family history.

Mona Lisa — (University 4, R) Bob Hoskins plays an ex-con who is hired as a chauffeur by a high-priced prostitute. The prostitute then enlists his help in a search for a young teen-age drug addict. Director Neil Jordan calls Mona Lisa "a love story without sex told in a world surrounded by sex."

Room With a View — (Varsity) This masterful film, based on an E. M. Forster novel, tells the story of a genteel young English woman who learns how to admit to her own passions. The movie is really about the relationship between those who have the view to beauty and those who need it.

Ruthless People — (Varsity, R) A vicious comedy that does a retake on the O'Henry story, "Ransom of Red Chief." A couple of crooks kidnap a nagging wife, only to discover that her husband doesn't want her back. Bette Midler and Danny DeVito star.

Space Camp — (Saluki, Rated PG) A group of teenagers at an Alabama "space camp" find themselves in a real adventure when a space shuttle they are touring accidentally takes off.

Stand By Me — (University 4, R) In a movie based on a Stephen King story, four Oregon 12-year-olds during the summer of 1959 go hunting for the body of a dead boy. One of director Rob Reiner's best films.

Top Gun — (Fox Eastgate, R) Tom Cruise plays a Navy cadet pilot who zips around in an F-14 Tomcat jet between passes at female flight instructor Kelly McGillis. The movie knows more about planes than it does about love, but on planes rests its enormous popularity.

ISC strives to unite members

By Brett Yates
Staff Writer

There are 16 international student associations that belong to the International Student Council, but only six officers were present at the latest ISC meeting.

ISC President Fabian DeRozario would like to change that.

"I think there is an initial problem getting them (the ISAs) involved, and there was some reflection of that in the attendance at the last ISC meeting," he said. "That may not necessarily indicate that they are not willing to help, but more than that they are not informed of us enough."

To remedy this, DeRozario said he has attended ISA meetings and informed ISA members of the council. He said that, as a result, he has sparked some interest among the associations.

The ISC is an umbrella organization that encompasses the ISAs on campus. DeRozario says the main purpose of the council is to represent the interests of international students and to promote interaction among the international cultures on campus.

DeRozario, however, said many international students are not involved in the council or the student associations because the students are only concerned with getting an education, and believe becoming involved with extracurricular activities is a waste of time.

He said that many international students who are not involved in extracurricular activities feel "outside of what

Stoneciphers' endowment creates journalism award

By Michael Cavanagh
Staff Writer

When a retired journalism professor and his wife set up a $10,000 endowed scholarship, they saw it as way to further their interests in journalism.

Harry W. and Helen M. Stonecipher established the endowment through the SIU Foundation in August so that the scholarship would annually benefit at least one student who shows a professed interest in journalism, which they have worked hard to promote.

"It's a natural extension of both my wife's and my interests in publishing and my interest in teaching," Stonecipher said. "My wife worked for about 10 years on her hometown newspaper before I ever got involved.

Harry W. Stonecipher

STONECIPHER RETIRED in 1984 after 15 years of teaching and extensive research in the field.

He wrote, "Editorial and Persuasive Writing: Opinion Functions of the News Media," a textbook in the journalism sequence. He also co-authored "Electronic Age News Editing" with Douglas Anderson and "The Mass Media and the Law in Illinois," with Robert Trager.

Stonecipher, a specialist in editorial and persuasive writing and an authority on media law, has written numerous articles for professional journals such as Journalism Quarterly, The Masthead and Grassroots Editor. In addition, he has spoken and presented papers at a seemingly endless list of conferences, workshops and meetings.

ANOTHER REASON he gave for establishing the scholarship is philanthropic.

"The scholarship is a way of paying back some of the assistance that I've gotten in the past," he said. "I would never have been able to go to college without some kind of assistance."

Stonecipher says that he was out of high school for 12 years on military tours of duty before he was able to go to college. "I didn't go to college until I was 30 years old, and then it was on something called the GI Bill of Rights."

HE RECEIVED bachelor's and master's degrees in the four years he studied at the University of Missouri. He left Missouri in 1965.

In the interim between graduation and his coming to SIU, both Stoneciphers edited and published the Washington Citizen in Missouri from 1955 to 1956 and the Arcola Record-Herald in Illinois from 1957 to 1967.

After coming to SIU in 1968, Stonecipher worked on the Daily Egyptian for the first year and taught on a teaching assistantship for the second. He said this allowed him to get his doctorate in 1971.

He became an assistant professor in September 1971 and full professor from 1982 until he retired in 1984.

ALTHOUGH HE is retired, he is as interested as ever in keeping up with journalistic legal research, he said.

Stonecipher says now he has the time to catch up on reading and that he has taken or taught a course each semester since his retirement.

His participation in the Emeritus College started him thinking about setting up an endowed scholarship, Stonecipher said.

"THE FUTURE of the University probably depends upon their success in getting funding in other ways than the General Assembly," Stonecipher said.

The first scholarship fueled from the endowment will be awarded next fall under the direction of the School of Journalism. It will be awarded to the most worthy undergraduate applicant in the news-editorial sequence of journalism who has a stated interest in pursuing a career in journalism.

The award will be based on the applicant's academic record and perceived success in pursuing a professional career in news reporting and editing.

$10 billion for college loans OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate gave final congressional approval Thursday to compromise legislation authorizing $10.2 billion for college student loans in fiscal 1987.

Senators approved the bill by voice vote one day after the House passed it 385-25, and the measure was sent to President Reagan to be signed into law.

The bill allows students to borrow substantially more in low-interest loans while it prevents unnecessary borrowing and weeds out students who do not have great need for loans to finance their college educations, supporters said.

The legislation limits to $2,625 the amount that freshmen and sophomores can borrow each year under the Guaranteed Student Loan program, $125 more than the current level.

Juniors and seniors could borrow up to $4,000, an increase of $1,500 over the current limit.

For graduate and professional students, the bill permits $7,500 in annual borrowing, an increase of $2,500 over current law.

The legislation, a compromise of original House and Senate measures, also raises the total amount an undergraduate may borrow during four years from $12,500 to $17,250 and increases the cumulative limit for undergraduate and graduate loans to $54,750.

In the Pell Grant program for needy students, the bill authorizes a maximum grant of $2,300 for the 1987-88 school year. But there is no assurance that Congress will appropriate enough money to finance the larger grants.

The projected costs for fiscal 1987, which begins Oct. 1, are $4.6 billion for the Pell Grants and $3.2 billion for the guaranteed loan program.

Other programs funded under the bill bring its total to $10.2 billion.

The bill also expands eligibility for the campus-based programs for students attending less than half time and requires that in order to remain eligible for student aid, a student must maintain a "C" grade average by the end of the second year or otherwise be in good academic standing.

In addition, the measure requires institutions of higher education to certify they have a drug-abuse prevention program.

Plans announced to combat terrorism

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A member of the Overseas Security Advisory Council announced plans Thursday for a special intelligence service to help U.S. businesses combat international terrorism.

Terrorism is a major worry of multinational corporations and government and private security forces must work together to combat it, Joe Rosetti said in announcing formation of the special intelligence service at an American Society for Industrial Security conference.

The council was set up by Secretary of State George Shultz to curb terrorist activities aimed at U.S. corporations overseas.

Rosetti, director of corporate security at IBM and vice chairman of the council, said the number of terrorist attacks on Americans and U.S. businesses overseas will increase during the coming decade, especially since embassies and other government installations are taking precautions against terrorism.

also will be used.

He said there are "striking similarities" between the rape of the SIU-C student and the murder of Wetherall. They were of similar ages and abducted within the same three-block area on South Illinois Avenue. Both had their hands tied and were taken to Phillips' father's business in the industrial park north of town in the trunk of a car and raped, he said.

Benham told jurors that testimony in the rape case should be used for limited purposes, saying Phillip's guilt in that crime "will be decided another day by another jury."

testify that Wetherall was last seen entering Dumaroc in the company of two men, Benham said.

Schneider said that Mocabey will testify that Phillips told him in May of 1984 that Phillips saw Wetherall on South Illinois Avenue, grabbed her, choked her and put her in the trunk of his wife's car and drove to his father's business. Phillips told Mocabey he took her to the warehouse, tied her hands, raped her, hit her on the head with a hammer and used a noose to strangle her, Schneider said.

MOCABY WILL testify that Phillips said he used a hose to eliminate evidence of sexual assault and took her near some boating docks and had anal intercourse with her, Schneider said. Phillips told Mocabey he wrapped the body in plastic and dumped it, Schneider said.

Human hairs were found in the trunk and back seat of his ex-wife's car and examined by the crime lab in Marion, Schneider said. Evidence will show that a pubic hair found from the trunk line is consistent with hair samples from Wetherall but not from Phillips or his ex-wife, Schneider said.

Three hairs were also found to match samples from Wetherall's head and not samples from Phillips or his ex-wife, Schneider said.

BENHAM COUNTERED that the evidence of the hair is inconclusive.

Benham said Mocabey's knowledge of the site of the murder was available in newspapers. Benham said police talked to Mocabey in 1982 and told him details of the case, asking him to obtain information about Phillips. Mocabey refused, Benham said.

Testimony from inmates at Menard will show that two years later Mocabey agreed to help because he needed the reward money to pay off a drug debt and used it as a means to negotiate a transfer from Menard, Benham said.

Benham said there is no evidence to show that the murder took place in Jackson County, a key point in Mocabey's testimony.

Phillips is currently serving a 45-year sentence at Menard on Williamson County charges of kidnapping, aggravated battery and armed violence. He was charged last April on five counts of murder, intent to kill, kidnapping and rape.

Racial remark prompts protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A black congressman suggested Thursday U.S. minorities stop buying Japanese cars in order to protest a racial remark by Japan's Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone.

Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., urged "all blacks and minorities to stop buying Japanese-made cars. If he (Nakasone) knows that we are inferior, then we should not use his products."

Mitchell's speech to the House brought a round of applause by his colleagues, several of whom joined in protesting Nakasone's remarks.

Nakasone provoked anger among American minority leaders after he suggested in a speech Monday that while a mono-racial society had fueled academic progress in Japan, education levels in the United States were held back by "blacks, Puerto Ricans and Mexicans."

Rep. Robert Matsui, D-Calif., who as a youngster was one of the thousands of Japanese-Americans sent to internment camps during the war, endorsed Mitchell's remarks.

"What Mr. Nakasone said was absolutely outrageous. They in Japan are a very closed society. They discriminate against the Koreans, the Filipinos and a lot of other groups, and for them to make racist remarks against the people of our great country, who have made this country the great nation that it is, to me is outrageous," Matsui said.

is going on at the University." "When something happens that affects them, they have bad feelings about the University," he said. "If we can pull them into activities we have at the University, I think they will eventually become comfortable and adjust to it, become more accepting of the system and return home with a very good feeling that they got something out of it."

DeRozario said international students can learn about many different cultures and share their own culture by participating in organizations such as the ISC. "There is a lack of interaction with other cultures," he said.

Some international students "interact fine by themselves in the cafeteria, clumping together all the time, speaking their own language and having fun together," DeRozario said.

"There's nothing wrong with that, but if they don't interact with other cultures, I think their stay in America is wasted. This may be their only chance to get out of their country, and here they can meet people from 90 different countries."

DeRozario said one activity that he hopes will spark more student interest in the ISC is International Outreach Day, which will be held Oct. 21. He said the ISAs will be encouraged to provide information tables on that day about their countries and organizations. He said the event is tentatively scheduled for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom D.

Norela Mokhtar, ISC vice president of Internal Affairs, said she wants International Outreach Day to coincide with an International Dress Day when all international students would wear their native dress.

New York has the 'ugliest' baseball fans of them all

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York baseball fans can be as rough and tumble as the city they live in. They can, at times, get ugly.

Jim Rice and Wally Joyner discovered that this year. Rice climbed into the stands at Yankee Stadium and struggled with fans to retrieve his cap and Joyner had a knife thrown at him as he was leaving the field. Last year, a pregnant woman was shot in the hand while watching a game.

Recently, security guards found six spent gun shells in the upper deck at Yankee Stadium, and guards say there is at least one mugging and a couple of robberies every night inside the stadium.

SHEA STADIUM fans can be rough, too. Witness how they demolished the playing field the night the Mets clinched the division title.

"It's not just the Mets being arrogant, it's just New York and that thing that happened after they won," said St. Louis Cardinals second baseman Tommy Herr. "That's part of why no one likes the Mets — their fans."

Not only did the fans destroy the turf, but one fan jumped off the dugout and fell on Mets' pitcher Rick Aguilera, who sustained shoulder and back injuries.

AGUILERA, whose status for the remainder of the season was uncertain, said the club should impose stricter security in the future.

"I think the Mets are going to be more aggressive and do something about it during the playoffs," Aguilera said. "I certainly hope so."

Clint Hurdle of the Cards, a former Met, said: "They must do something if the Mets win the championship series at home, and I believe they will. They can't have that happen again. The fans are enthusiastic here and they really back the Mets, but that's too much."

ONE METS FAN who attended the clinching said you could attribute the wildness partly to New York going without a pennant since 1973. He added that was no excuse to tear up the field.

"I can see taking a little dirt, but don't mess up the field like that," he said. "What would have happened if Dwight Gooden had gotten hurt?"

Mets fans don't confine their rowdiness to New York. On Sept. 13, hundreds of fans traveled to Philadelphia in anticipation of a clinching party. When New York lost, Mets fans responded by breaking 60 seats in Veterans Stadium. Security people ejected 100 people and police made one arrest.

ONE PHILLIE recommended that police dogs and mounted horses be used to control the fans during the playoffs. Those measures were taken at Veterans Stadium in 1980 when the Phillies won the World Series.

Yankee fans don't have a lot of fans among visiting ballplayers around the American League. But whether their behavior is worse than that of fans in other big cities is a matter of argument.

"It's wild, but it's not too different from some of the other parks, like Detroit, Chicago, Boston and Cleveland," says Yankees first baseman Don Mattingly. "They get a little loud, but they're harmless. A player likes to have somebody on him."

CLEVELAND'S Joe Carter said: "I don't think New York fans are that much more unruly than fans elsewhere. They're just louder and their language a bit more colorful. Players should expect to get insulted on the road."

"Of course, no player should be subjected to fans throwing things at them, like the knife they threw at Joyner. That's just plain stupid."

Some fans think New Yorkers are naturally competitive. They set high standards for their teams and they hate to see them lose. One transit cop who patrols the subway station outside Yankee Stadium says some fans can be unbearable after a loss.

"If the Yankees lose, they drown their sorrows in alcohol," the cop said. "If I tell them to calm down, they curse me."

FRED LYNN OF the Baltimore Orioles says Yankee fans should be barred from the stadium.

"What's going to eventually happen is that they're going to play in front of no one," Lynn said. "They're going to wait until someone gets hurt. Then they'll say, 'Oh gee, we should have done something earlier.' If I were the commissioner, after that (Joyner) incident, I would not let any (fans) come here. You're talking about people's lives here. For what, a baseball game. Somewhere, somebody's priorities are messed up."

LYNN HAS BAD memories of playing at Yankee Stadium when he was with the Red Sox.

"When I was with Boston, the rivalry was so intense that I never looked into the stands," Lynn said. "I'd always have my head down and my hands in my face. I've seen darts, grapefruits, whiskey bottles, batteries and golf balls thrown. I've seen everything except the knife. That was the worst. I didn't hear anything about it. To me, that shouldn't be hushed up. The guy, or woman, who did that should be behind bars. They could have done it for any number of reasons, but none of them would be a good one."

"It's very dangerous. You can get hit in the eye or the face. If the security isn't upgraded, someone could kill you. I thought about it every time I was on the field. I always got off as quickly as possible."

Ultimate frisbee tourney features finest of 2 states

By Ellen Cook
Staff Writer

Although ultimate frisbee may sound like a child's game involving tossing a disc back-and-forth between players, it is really an adult sport involving speed, skill and precision.

Members of the Full Tilt ultimate frisbee team will show their skills at an invitational tournament Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. behind Abe Martin Field. Teams from the St. Louis and Chicago areas, Champaign, Normal and Macomb will compete against the Carbondale team.

"All the teams that we've invited are pretty much on the same level of competition, so nobody's going to run away with this thing," said Full Tilt co-captain Bill Byrnes.

The informal tournament is basically a tune-up for the sectional tournament in Indianapolis Oct. 4-5, Byrnes said.

Eighteen teams from Illinois and Indiana will compete in the sectionals. Teams are divided into A and B divisions. Full Tilt will compete in the A division, which requires membership in the Ultimate Players Association. The top three teams in that division will advance to the regionals in Chicago Nov. 1-2.

The Full Tilt team consists of about 20 players, one-quarter of which are women. Interest in ultimate frisbee is growing among both sexes, and although tournament play is directed mainly towards men, there are several women's teams who compete, Byrnes said.

"There's going to be two women's teams there next weekend, and if we can get enough interest, we're going to combine our girls with some girls from the University of Illinois," Byrnes said.

Many Full Tilt members became interested in ultimate frisbee through intramural sports. Men's, women's and co-rec teams are offered through intramural sports during the spring and summer semesters.

Unlike the intramural games, which have a time limit, most ultimate games are played to 15 points and must be won by two, Byrnes said. Other than that, the game is similar to that offered by intramural sports.

Ultimate frisbee is played on a football field, but uses no end-markers or referees. Seven players compete one-on-one against each other in the all-passing game. Players cannot run with the disc, and when a pass is incomplete, a turnover occurs. Offense becomes defense, and play continues until a point is scored or a time out is called.

Camacho, Bramble set to show changed styles, harder punches

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Livingstone Bramble and Hector Camacho say they will show different styles Friday night in their lightweight title defenses.

Bramble, 24-1-1, promises to punch harder and Camacho, 30-0, says he will return to the lateral movement he abandoned in his last fight.

In a double-header at the Able Holtz tennis stadium, Bramble defends his World Boxing Association title in a 15-round bout against Edwin Rosario, and Camacho defends his World Boxing Council crown against Cornelius Boza-Edwards in a 12-round bout.

"There's going to be a big difference in Bramble," Bramble said. "I will win by knockout, definitely before the 10th round."

Bramble has gone 13 rounds or more in each of his three title fights. He stopped Ray Mancini in 14 rounds to win the title June 1, 1984, and won a 15-round decision in a rematch with Mancini the following February. Last Feb. 16, Bramble stopped Tyrone Crawford in 13 rounds.

"This time I'm not going to hit a guy 10 times to make up for one, when I hit him once it's going to make up for 10 punches," he said.

Rosario, 23-2 with 19 knockouts, was a punch or two from knocking out Camacho in June. Camacho survived rocky fifth and 11th rounds to win a split 12-round decision. Rosario says he should have won and is looking for a rematch.

First, he must beat Bramble.

"I don't predict a knockout," said Rosario, a former WBC lightweight champ. "But I will be there and he will be surprised because I'm ready for 15 rounds."

Bramble, 26, of Hampton, N.J., has already signed to fight Camacho if he defeats Rosario and one more opponent. Rosario, 23, of Puerto Rico, will get that shot instead if he wins.

Camacho of New York said he he will not make the mistake of abandoning his lateral moves.

"I was right in front of Rosario, right there for that right hand," Camacho said.

"You'll see the same 'Macho Man' as for Jose Luis Ramirez."

Camacho, 24, won his title with a masterful 12-round decision over Ramirez on Aug. 10, 1985. Camacho said he trained himself for the Rosario bout, but hired Chuck Thalhami to prepare him for Boza-Edwards.

Boza-Edwards, a Ugandan native living in Las Vegas, is a former WBC super featherweight champ. His last fight was a 10-round draw against Terrence Alli in March. Boza-Edwards, 44-5-1, has not lost in seven fights going back to a decision defeat against Rocky Lockridge in 1983.

"All he has is that belt, and that's all I'm interested in," Boza-Edwards said of Camacho. "Nothing else."

A work of Mammoth Proportions

The 1987 edition of the Obelisk II Yearbook is going to be bigger and better than ever. We've unleashed the largest staff in over a decade to cover more stories about what's happening on and off campus, with more photos documenting the 1987 school year—in a style that's made the Obelisk II Yearbook a Southern tradition.

To help make this edition available to everyone at SIUC, we're now offering two ways to get your copy. Mail $23.50 now, and we'll pay all shipping and handling costs. (a $5 value)—or try our new Installment Purchase Option. With just $5 now, plus three small monthly payments, before you can say "mammothian gestation period," your Yearbook will be paid for. Either way, ordering your copy now assures earliest possible delivery. It's a deal of mammoth proportions.

Yes, I want a copy. Send it to this mailing address in Sept. 1987:

11th-ranked UNI plays against Southwest Missouri; EIU idle

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

In this week's Gateway football action, Northern Iowa will finally play a league game in a battle with Southwest Missouri.

UNI (0-0, 1-0-1) started the season ranked No. 3 in the NCAA I-AA preseason football poll, but has since dropped to No. 11 after tying Division II opponent Mankato State to open the season. Idle last week, UNI rebounded from the tie by defeating Kansas State 35-7 on Sept. 13.

Southwest Missouri (1-2, 1-2), on the last leg of a season-opening stretch of four straight Gateway matchups, lost to Western Illinois last week. The Bears' split the other two games, losing to Indiana State 14-10 and beating Illinois State in a 17-16 contest.

Both Indiana State and Western Illinois, both with 1-0 conference records, are involved in nonconference matchups this weekend.

The Sycamores (1-0, 2-1) will be trying to rebound from a 64-9 thrashing last week at Iowa State, while Western (1-0, 2-1) will go for three in a row at Northern Illinois. The Sycamores will be squaring off against a Big Eight opponent — Kansas (1-1) — for the second straight week.

Illinois State (1-1, 1-2) travels to Stillwater, Okla., for battle against Oklahoma State (1-2) in the second Gateway-Big Eight matchup of the weekend. After beating Eastern Illinois 23-20 in the season-opener, the Redbirds have lost the last two games by a combined total of five points — 17-13 to Wayne State and 17-16 to Southwest Missouri.

Eastern Illinois (1-1, 3-1), ranked No. 15 in the I-AA polls this week, will be idle this week after winning three straight. The Panthers will shoot for four straight next weekend against Illinois State.

Rams sign quarterback of future; Everett may solve passing woes

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams secured their long-awaited quarterback of the future Thursday, signing Jim Everett to a four-year deal that could earn the former Purdue star an estimated $3 million.

"This is a great thing for us," Rams Coach John Robinson said. "What the organization has accomplished is a magnificent stroke. I'm not sure we'd ever get another opportunity to do it."

Everett, 23, was drafted by the Oilers as the third overall pick in the NFL draft but was unable to come to terms with Houston. Last Thursday, the Rams outbid the Packers, 49ers and Raiders to acquire his rights for All-Pro guard Kent Hill, defensive end William Fuller and three draft choices — including first-round selections in 1987 and

"I couldn't ask for a better situation," Everett said at a news conference. "Everything is very favorable as compared to what Houston was like. The coaching staff is better, the players, the winning record. And (incumbent quarterback) Steve Bartkowski is here. I couldn't ask for a better teacher."

"If I had to hand-pick a team, the LA Rams would be the one I'd probably take."

The Rams have received a two-game roster exemption for Everett, who last season with the Boilermakers completed 63 percent of his passes for 3,651 yards and 23 touchdowns. He will be eligible for the Oct. 12 game at Atlanta, though Robinson indicated it should be some time before Everett plays.

The Rams have made the playoff the last three seasons despite erratic play at quarterback. And over the last decade, the position has been a merry-go-round.

"He has a real future in terms of a franchise-type player," Robinson said. "He's a unique type. Jim gives us a great player in an area that has not come of fruition lately."

Said All-Pro running back Eric Dickerson: "Maybe we can go to the Super Bowl with him."

Everett, 6-foot-5 and 215 pounds, finished sixth in the Heisman Trophy balloting last year. In his college career, he completed 572 of 965 passes (59 percent) for 7,411 yards, 43 TDs and 33 interceptions. He had 21 200-yard games, 10 300-yard games and two 400-yard games passing.

LYNN SAYS THE fans tend to become more rambunctious when a team like the Red Sox or a contending club is playing. Toronto's Jesse Barfield said Yankees fans were abusive last September during a crucial series.

"The fans want to win so bad, they try and intimidate you," Barfield said. "If they can't intimidate you, they throw things at you."

Saluki kicker Ron Miller boots an extra point in the Salukis' defeat of Murray State. Miller has resumed kicking duties lost to John Brda earlier this season.

THE PENGUINS' leading offensive producer is wide receiver Rick Shepas, an Associated Press honorable mention All-American last season who's caught 14 passes for 249 yards this year.

The Penguin defense is adjusting to a wide-tackle six lineup — the same defense Murray State used against the Salukis — installed by first-year coach Jim Tressel. The transition has been a rough one, though, as Northeastern carved out 440 yards on the ground last week from a wishbone formation.

In the first three games, the YSU defense has been tattooed for 499.3 yards per game while allowing 25 points per contest.

FROM THE WAY the Penguin defense stacks up on paper, the Saluki ground game should have a good day.

Against Murray State's wide tackle six, the Salukis ground out 287 yards on the ground while throwing for 193 more. Last weekend, Eastern shut down the Saluki ground game by allowing only 126 yards.

The Saluki defense, which allowed 52 points and 22 plays that netted 20 yards or more at Eastern, should be in better form this week. Both Dorr and defensive coordinator Larry McDaniel felt last week's practice intensity was lacking because of all the injuries.

"IT CERTAINLY wasn't our best effort," McDaniel said of the Eastern game. "We have to have more contact drills this week and our intensity at practice was better this week but we still have some injuries."

McDaniel said it "wasn't the system that was lacking against Eastern" and added that the defensive alignment would not be changing for the Penguins.

"We prepared for Eastern the same way we did for Murray State," McDaniel said, comparing the outcomes of SIU's last two games. "You can't change your philosophy just because you had a bad week."

the name Penguins began to become common among the local media outlets, and it was used in the beginning of the 1933-'34 season.

The name stuck. Impromptu polls taken on campus during the '33-'34 school year showed that students had accepted the name so well that a formal polling would not be needed.

Up until the early 1970s, YSU home football games featured appearances by Pete the Penguin, a real live penguin who was said to enjoy the hoopla of a Saturday afternoon football game.

Greg Gulas, YSU's sports information director, said the team had several penguins during the 1940s, including one that was a gift from the famous Arctic explorer Admiral Bryd to Dike Beede, YSU's first football coach.

Beede, as college football trivia fanatics know, invented the penalty flag. An exhibit accompanies Pete the Penguin at the College Football Hall of Fame in Cincinnati explaining the invention of the penalty flag.

Scott fires Astro no hitter to clinch title for Houston

By United Press International

Mike Scott, cheered on by pennant-hungry fans waving Texas flags, pitched the second no-hitter in the last week and brought the Houston Astros their second National League West title in six years Thursday by stopping the San Francisco Giants 2-0.

Scott, the major league's strikeout leader, fanned 13 to raise his season total to 298 and he was so overpowering that he needed no exceptional plays behind him. The 31-year-old right-hander walked two and hit a batter in posting the first no-hitter since Nolan Ryan beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-0, on Sept. 26, 1981. It was the eighth no-hitter in Houston history.

It also marked the first time in baseball history a team had clinched a title with a no-hitter.

"It's fantastic," Scott said in the jubilant Houston dressing room. "We wanted to make sure we won it here. This team kept fighting all year long. We never had a bad streak."

Scott's no-hitter came seven days after Joe Cowley of the Chicago White Sox pitched a no-hitter against the California Angels at Anaheim, Calif. The two no-hitters were the first in the major leagues since 1984.

Scott, raising his record to 18-10, lowered his major-league leading ERA to 2.25.

A former all-conference selection at Pepperdine University, Scott was signed by the Mets in 1976 after the Mets made him their second pick in the June draft. He spent the first seven years of his major-league career with the Mets' organization but failed to distinguish himself until being traded to Houston in December 1982.

In two seasons with the Mets he did not have a winning season, yet in his first season with Houston he posted a 10-6 record with a 3.72 ERA.

However, after slumping to 5-11 with a 4.68 ERA in 1984 he decided he needed another pitch if he was ever going to become a consistent winner.

In the winter of 1984 he sought out Roger Craig, then the pitching coach of the Detroit Tigers and one of the best teachers of the split-fingered fastball. Craig had taught the pitch to Detroit's Jack Morris and helped turn him into one of the American League's best pitchers.

Scott was quick to master the pitch and used it effectively last year to post an 18-8 record with a 3.29 ERA. His 18 victories led the club and he also had career bests for games (36), starts (35), complete games (4), innings (221.2), hits (194), walks (80) and strikeouts (137).

Using the split-fingered pitch even more this year, Scott became an even better pitcher and was named to the All-Star team. With a fastball consistently clocked in the 90s, Scott became baseball's premier strikeout pitcher.

Nicaraguan ball team cancels U.S. trip

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — A Nicaraguan baseball team, scheduled to play a series of college games in California, postponed the trip Thursday when two sports officials could not get U.S. visas, authorities said.

Rolando Cerda, sub-director of the Nicaraguan Sports Institute, said the U.S. Embassy denied visas to him and to Danilo Aguirre, an official of the Amateur Baseball Association who was supposed to preside over the delegation.

The team was scheduled to leave Thursday and the games start Friday. Cerda told UPI sports officials applied for visas 15 days ago for Aguirre and 25 players and coaches. All the visas were granted except for Aguirre's, who is also a congressman for the ruling Sandinista Front.

When Aguirre's visa was denied Tuesday, Cerda applied for a visa to replace Aguirre as head of the delegation, Cerda said. That visa was also denied, Cerda said.

U.S. Embassy spokesman Al Laun said in a statement the sports officials "failed to comply" with procedures for obtaining a visa and "held off applying until it was too late to process their applications."

He said in one case, apparently that of Cerda, the application was not received until 3 p.m. Wednesday for travel that was to take place Thursday.

"There is no reason why it should interfere with the games," Laun said in the statement, which he said was cleared with Washington. "All players and coaches handled their visa request in a timely manner and have received their visas. They can travel immediately and play scheduled games."

However, Cerda said the team cannot go without a sports official. He said he would reapply for a visa and the team may try to travel next week.

"It is regrettable that sports and politics get mixed up," Cerda said. "Nicaragua has been open to sports delegations from other countries."

The exhibition games were scheduled to start Friday with Sacramento State College and continue through Oct. 5. The series is being sponsored by a group called "Bats, Not Bombs." Baseball is Nicaragua's national sport. U.S. Embassy officials in Managua have to clear with Washington the visas for some members of the leftist Sandinista party and some Nicaraguan government officials.

Women netters look to extend winning streak

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The women's tennis team will be hosting three dual matches for the second straight week Friday and Saturday at the Arena courts.

The netters have a 3-0 record for the fall season, and coach Judy Auld hopes her team can keep the streak going.

Auld changed the schedule for the weekend around so that the netters first opponent will be defending Division II national champs SIU-Edwardsville. The Salukis will face the Cougars at 3 p.m.

Friday.

Auld rescheduled the Edwardsville match so it wouldn't conflict with Saturday's home football game.

"I hope by playing on Friday afternoon that we can get a lot of people out to see us play a very strong team in SIU-E," Auld said.

Although the netters are a very young team, Auld said that the players were not going to be intimidated by the Cougars.

"We should be able to play right with them," Auld said.

"There will be some close matches and all we need to do is win the right points."

"The Cougars have a solid and experienced team," Auld said, "and a win over them would help build the players' confidence and show that the tennis program at SIU-C is getting stronger."

Auld said that the Salukis need strong performances throughout their lineup to win this weekend, instead of letting one person carry the team.

At 9 a.m. Saturday the netters will face Ball State. Auld said the Cardinals should present the Salukis a stiff challenge.

The Cardinals have five seniors and two juniors on a squad that compiled a 12-6 record last spring season. This will be the fall opener for Ball State.

The third match for the Salukis will be against Arkansas State Saturday at 3 p.m. Auld said the Tomahawks are not strong at the bottom of their lineup.

"We have the potential to win all three matches if all the players give 110 percent," Auld said. "If a player gets down in a match they cannot give up."

The Salukis' No. 1 singles player, Ellen Moellering, has the longest match winning streak on the team at five. Overall, she has a 6-4 record.

Freshman Beth Boardman, No. 3 singles, has the best individual record at 9-2.

Auld said the most improved player from last year is Sue Steuby, No. 5 singles. Steuby has a 7-3 record.

Dana Cherebetiu, No. 2 singles, is 6-4. Julie Burgess, No. 4, has a record of 3-5 and Sheri Knight, No. 6, is 4-4.

Penguins are next for the Salukis

Dorr looks to go 3-0 against OVC foes for season

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

The Saluki football team will try to rebound Saturday from a 52-7 thrashing at Eastern Illinois and the hapless victims could turn out to be some Penguins from Youngstown State.

The two teams will meet at 1:30 in McAndrew Stadium to top off a day of festivity and fun. It's also Parent's Day and Saluki Tailgate Day at SIU.

The Penguins, of the Ohio Valley Conference, are 0-3 on the season and will be trying to snap a two-week case of the last minute losses. Last week again! Northeastern, YSU rallied from a 20-0 deficit only to lose 23-20 on a field goal with 55 seconds remaining. Two weeks ago, the Penguins lost 18-17 when Eastern Michigan gambled and won on a two-point conversion in the final minute of play.

THE PENGUINS opened the season with a 34-17 loss to nationally-ranked Nicholls State.

Both SIU losses have come to nationally-ranked teams — a 22-7 season-opening loss to No. 11 Arkansas State and last week's nightmare to No. 15 Eastern.

The Salukis, shooting for a sixth-straight win at McAndrew Stadium, could complete a three-game sweep of OVC foes with a win. Both of SIU's wins — 24-17 over Austin Peay and 31-0 over Murray State — have been against OVC teams.

OFFENSIVELY, the Penguins return seven starters from last season's 5-6 squad, average 17.3 points per game and run a multiple scheme based on an I-formation. The ground attack has accounted for five Penguin touchdowns and they have passed for two others.

Junior quarterback Trenton

Lykes has thrown for 540 yards this season and will be coming off a solid game last week, when he threw for 269 yards on a 20 of 28 performance. Lykes averages 180 yards per game through the air.

Rod Love, a 5-11, 175-pound tailback, leads the Penguin ground game with 199 yards in three games and a 4.9 yard per carry average.

Cold cagers gave YSU an Antarctic nickname

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

A pressing question going into Saturday's football game with Youngstown State is, "How in the heck did a city in Ohio manage to name their college football team the Penguins?"

A reasonable question it is, one that deserves a reasonable explanation.

The name supposedly originated one cold night during the 1932-33 basketball season when the YSU cage team was at West Liberty (Va.) State. A spectator, watching the cold YSU players run around the court stamping their feet and waving their arms in a desperate attempt to get warm, replied that they "looked like a bunch of Penguins."

Prior to the adoption of the nickname, the local newspapers and the school paper were using various references that apparently left some of the players dissatisfied. One such reference was the "Yocos," which stood for Youngstown College.

One can understand the dissatisfaction. Which would you rather be called — a Penguin or a Yoco?

At the beginning of the 1933-34 basketball season,

Men ruggers to visit Springfield in search of first win of season

By Peter Rechenberg
Staff Writer

The men's rugby club will try to get their first victory of the season when they travel to Springfield this weekend to play the Springfield Celts. The Salukis are 0-2 this season, dropping matches to Indiana 15-6 and St. Louis 16-4.

Danielak says that one reason for the losing record so far has been a lack of motivation. Danielak said that the team has to score more in order to be able to win.

"Our scoring is a little below average," Danielak said. "I'm pleased so far with the team, but we're a little bit behind of where we thought we would be."

"The team is starting to come together," Danielak said. "We've had a good practice this week and we've worked on playing together."

Assistant coach Bill Danielak calls the game against Springfield one of the rugby club's top rivalries.

"It's a big rivalry because about four or five of our former players now play for Springfield," Danielak said.

Danielak said that Springfield is a big, strong team and the Salukis will have to use their speed to beat them.

"They have a big size advantage over us," Danielak said. "We will have to use our speed to beat them."

Meanwhile, Mike Blank, the advisor of the club said that the controversial All Ghoul's Tournament is on for the Halloween weekend.

"The tournament is definitely on," Blank said. "There will be about 20 teams down here for the tournament," he added.

The Carbondale City Council recently expressed concern over the rugby tournament being held Halloween weekend.

Some ruggers from past Halloween tournaments allegedly have been linked with beer can throwing on the strip, a yearly activity that has injured many spectators and destroyed public property.
