Scott Air Force Base receives grant

By Casey Hampton
General Assignment Writer

Money to help construction of civilian runway

Scott Air Force Base near Belleville has received a $5 million grant to help construct a second runway to allow civilian aircraft to use the base.

The grant brings the total Scott AFB has received from the Military Airports program to $10 million. The federal program promotes development of military and civilian joint-use airports. The base also received $2 million from the federal Airport Improvement Program last year.

John Baricevic, chairman of the St. Clair County Board, said the new grant is for land acquisition and begins the second phase of the expansion.

"This will give us the property we need to begin construction," he said.

The expansion, which has been discussed since 1984 and was announced by the Air Force last year, is an effort to make Scott AFB a midway airport between St. Louis and Chicago, Baricevic said.

"(The second runway) would allow Scott Air Force Base to be a reliever airport to Lambert in St. Louis," he said. "We're not trying to build an O'Hare, we're trying to build a midway airport to St. Louis."

The base is about 15 miles east of St. Louis.

The status of Scott AFB will be reviewed, as will all military installations and facilities, by the Department of Defense for additional cuts in bases. The conversion into a joint-use airport will help keep the base open if it was to be cut, Baricevic said.

"Scott Air Force Base only has one runway," he said. "The joint use will give the base better arguments to keep it open."

If the project continues to be funded next year, the set schedule calls for operation in 1997.

Faculty could vote to accept collective bargaining

By Christine Leniger
and Brandi Tipps
Administration Writers

SIUC faculty are gearing up for a possible election that would allow collective bargaining for negotiating such things as salary and health benefits.

Collective bargaining would allow the faculty a unified voice in matters concerning the University.

Faculty received a letter earlier this month from the Illinois Education Association/National Education Association explaining collective bargaining. Included with the letter was a card to be mailed to the IEA/NEA allowing representation if faculty members vote for representation.

At least 30 percent of the cards must be returned to IEA/NEA by April 27 before an election can happen.

The IEA/NEA are labor unions that fight for the freedom of education and the rights of teachers. The NEA was founded in 1853 and is the oldest and largest professional association in the United States.

James Sullivan, SIUC president of IEA/NEA, said more than half of the 360 cards needed have been returned.

But Sullivan said he has had a problem with faculty not returning the cards because they think it is a sign-up card for the IEA/NEA.

"The card simply means that in the event of a positive vote, those who sent in a card would be represented by the IEA/NEA in collective bargaining procedures," Sullivan

Groups prepare for celebrations honoring Earth

By Annette Holder
General Assignment Writer

The Southern Illinois community will celebrate Earth Day Sunday with festivals and activities designed to bring people closer to Mother Earth.

The Shawnee Earth Day is noon to 5 p.m. Sunday at Evergreen Park.

The Southern Illinois community is waiting until this weekend to celebrate Earth Day because more people will be out of school and can attend the celebration, said Margaret Ellis, Shawnee Earth Day chairwoman.

The Shawnee Earth Day group has been planning the event since October.

Children will make the difference for the future, said Tom Clark, Shawnee Earth Day celebration coordinator.

"Our celebration at Evergreen Park will focus on children and the family," Clark said. "We believe children are going to influence their parents."

Rescuers in Mexico still searching for explosion survivors

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (UPI) — Rescue teams searched through the night Thursday for survivors of a series of gas explosions that ripped through Guadalajara, killing 190 people and injuring hundreds more, officials said.

The explosions, the first of which hit the downtown area at 10 a.m. Wednesday, continued well into the night. Fresh blasts were felt in the east of the city as late as 9:20 p.m., bringing the total to 17 in 12 hours.

The Jalisco state governor's office said 190 persons died and more than 750 were injured.

Authorities immediately evacuated the area and made an urgent call for blood donors. More than 4,500 rescue workers launched a massive operation to save people trapped in cars and under streets and rubble.

Defense officials said the military began an emergency plan and that 400 soldiers had assumed control of the

Virginia admits financial violations

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — The University of Virginia, which boasts a rigid student honor code, Thursday admitted financial and administrative violations that occurred while the current head of the NCAA was the school's athletic director.

The private fund-raising arm for the athletic department long ran a loan operation for Virginia athletes, and NCAA rules prohibit athletes from getting benefits not available to other students.

The loans occurred under three athletic directors, including Dick Schultz, the current NCAA executive director, and the sport said Schultz should have known what was going on.

"This is a sad day for the university," said John Casteen, the university president. "We are determined to learn from this experience. We are committed from this experience today to exercise institutional control."

Casteen said one person involved has volunteered to resign, two others are being fired, and an assistant football coach was reprimanded. The school also will hire a full-time NCAA compliance officer and combine all booster groups under one umbrella to increase administrative oversight.

Casteen and other university officials made public the findings of the 11-month in-house inquiry in the Rotunda of the university that Thomas Jefferson founded.

The report was simultaneously forwarded to the NCAA.

Schultz, Virginia athletic director from 1981 to 1987, said in a telephone conference call from Mission, Kan., that he had no intention of resigning because the affair has had "no impact on my effectiveness at the NCAA."

"I readily admit I should have known about the loans," he said. "But I didn't."

The 11-month, $210,000 inquiry zeroed in on 36 interest-free loans, totaling $12,500, that the Virginia Student Aid Foundation (VSAF) made to athletes. The VSAF is the fund-raising arm of U.Va.'s athletic department; the players were identified only by codes for privacy reasons.

The affair was painstakingly catalogued in a 550-page, 5-pound document, and the investigators who compiled the report said Schultz denied knowing about the

SIU athletes find 'ultimate' sport

By Karyn Viverito
Sports Writer

Once the thought of a frisbee created a picture of throwing around a flying disc that was reserved for the beach and picnics.

Members and supporters of SIUC's ultimate frisbee team Full Tilt will beg to differ.

Tony Ianno, faculty advisor of SIUC's Full Tilt, said that it is not to be related with everyday disc throwing.

"Ultimate frisbee is definitely not throwing to a dog at a beach," he said. "Anyone who has played the sport or has even experienced watching it, knows it is taken seriously on a competitive level."

Ultimate frisbee is a sport that was developed in 1968 and has been played at SIUC since 1977.

The action of the game combines the passing and scoring of football, the cutting and guarding of basketball, and the non-stop field movement of soccer.

Each team fields seven players, and all members of the team act as an offensive or defensive player during the game.

A goal is scored when the disc is thrown to a team member and is successfully caught in the opponent's goal zone.

The unique aspect of ultimate frisbee is that the games are played without referees.

The players themselves control the game and use the honor system when calling fouls or rule violations. Sportsmanship sets ultimate frisbee apart from other sports.

There is an understanding of the spirit of the game between teams, Ianno said.

"If a situation occurs where two people are at odds about a call an argument won't occur," he said. "An agreement takes place between the two and this is known as 'honor the call.'"

Mike Higgins, an alumni of SIUC who played ultimate frisbee from 1986-90, said the competitive aspect does not override the fun involved.

"Overall the team is competitive to a large degree, but they do not take themselves too seriously," he said. "They remember the spirit is to have fun."

Higgins is just one of many alumni who will be back to participate in the Sixth Annual Dennis Drazba Memorial Tournament Saturday and Sunday.

Drazba, a former student and ultimate frisbee player at SIUC, died in a car accident

Men netters get to play host for MVC

By Thomas Gibson
Sports Writer

SIUC men's tennis team does not plan to be hospitable when it plays host for the Missouri Valley Conference Championships today through Sunday.

The netters are coming off a confidence-building 5-3 victory over defending MVC champion Wichita State.

Coach Dick LeFevre said he hopes the win Monday will give his young team some momentum going into the championship.

"Every player has to be on the top of his game, plus we'll probably need some breaks to go our way," LeFevre said.

The championships are played by individuals in their respected flight position. The players' personal records in conference play will determine their seeding in the tournament.

LeFevre said SIUC has a chance to have two singles players and one doubles team among the top four seeds in their division.

"With the other players who aren't seeded, we hope we don't get tough first round opponents," he said.

Freshman No. 3 Altif Merchant and sophomore No. 5 Kai Kramer will draw one of the top four spots in their respective slots.

Merchant has a 9-2 record in conference play, including six consecutive wins.

Kramer was the 1991 MVC champion in the No. 6 slot. This year his singles record is 17-10 overall, and he is undefeated in conference matches.

The other singles record for the netters include No. 1 junior Jay Merchant 11-18 and junior No. 2 Tim Derouin 7-23, freshman No. 4 Uwe Classen 11-16 and freshman No. 6 Andre Goransson 4-3.

In doubles play the netters have one

16 athletes race to Drake for largest women's meet

By Karyn Viverito
Sports Writer

Sixteen athletes will head out to Des Moines, Iowa, to represent the women's track team at the Drake Relays, the most prestigious track and field meet in the country.

More than 150 schools will be represented from all over the United States, and a sellout crowd of 25,000 is expected

Friday and Saturday.

Coach Don DeNoon said it is very hard for athletes to qualify, and he is happy with the number of Salukis that will be competing.

"There are high standards for individual athletes, and only the top 16 entry times will be allowed to compete in the relay events," he said. "We have some

Men's track rambles to Ga. Tech

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's track team hopes to sharpen its skills before the Missouri Valley Conference championship meet at the Georgia Tech Invitational, coach Bill Cornell said.

The meet will pit the No. 16 ranked Salukis against tough squads from Georgia Tech, South Carolina, Florida State, Alabama and North Carolina in the unscored meet, Cornell said. But his squad will maintain its season-long focus of preparing for the MVC championship.

"We're trying to use this meet as an opportunity to let people fine-tune for the conference championships (beginning May 14)," he said.

"We're the defending outdoor champs in the MVC we'd like to retain that title."

Despite the opportunity to prepare for the conference meet, the Salukis find themselves at a disadvantage because of the loss of junior distance runner Nick Schwartz.

Schwartz was injured Saturday when he stepped in a hole at the Kansas Relays. Examination revealed badly torn ligaments—an injury that will sideline him for the rest of the season, Cornell said.

"This is a serious blow to our squad," he said.

"Nick was favored to win the 1,500-meter race and expected to do well in the 800. When you add it up that comes to a loss of about 16 points for the meet. If we expect to win everyone is really going to have to step up a notch and get their individual jobs done."

TEAMS SEEK SURVIVORS OF MEXICAN BLAST — Rescue teams used special dogs Thursday in searching rubble left by a series of gas explosions that officials said killed more than 200 people and injured almost 1,000 more. Emergency workers labored through the night to find three more survivors of the blasts Wednesday in the sewer system of Mexico's second-largest city that ripped open streets and leveled buildings. They were under orders from President Carlos Salinas.

SIX KILLED IN MOLDOVA — New violence has erupted in Moldova, killing at least six, following days of mounting tension that forced government leaders to cancel Friday's Commonwealth of Independent States meeting in Kishinev, the Moldovan capital. Thursday's reports of fighting, which broke out Wednesday night, said there were clashes between Moldovan police and the separatist militia in the Russian-speaking Dniester region of eastern Moldova.

U.N. ENVOY RESUMES PEACE EFFORTS — U.N. special envoy Benon Sevan resumed his shuttle diplomacy Thursday in efforts to secure a peaceful transition of power in Afghanistan and avert an outbreak of fighting between rival guerrilla factions vying for power over the capital. Sevan has been trying to negotiate the formation of an interim governing council to take over power from the ruling Homeland Party but has been unable to achieve a compromise.

BOSNIA GROUPS DECLARE CEASE-FIRE — The leaders of Bosnia-Herzegovina's three main ethnic groups signed a declaration Thursday in an airport building to adhere to an April 12 cease-fire, but a firefight outside underscored the fragility of the agreement. The brief declaration stated that the Muslim Party of Democratic Action, the Serbian Democratic Party and the Croatian Democratic Union "have agreed to respect fully an unconditionally the cease-fire agreement."

HAITIAN REFUGEES ARRIVE AT NAVAL BASE — Navy and immigration officials Thursday processed a group of 234 Haitian refugees who bypassed the Coast Guard and arrived at the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, aboard their own vessel. The Coast Guard said the Haitians were aboard a 40-foot sailboat that arrived at the base on Wednesday and was escorted by Navy Port Control officers. The refugees were given food and medical care.

ABORTION ACTIVISTS PROTEST IN BUFFALO — Hundreds of anti-abortion activists moved their protest from the suburbs to a downtown clinic Thursday, a move their leader said was prompted by inside information on which clinics were scheduled to perform abortions on a given day. Rev. Keith Tucci, executive director of Operation Rescue, which is targeting four Buffalo abortion clinics, said his group knows which clinic to try to blockade.

QUINN WANTS INSURED INSURANCE — Insurance companies would have to insure themselves to protect policyholders in the event the companies go bankrupt under legislation proposed Thursday by state Treasurer Patrick Quinn. Quinn and Rep. Lou Lang, D-Skokie, said they have introduced a bill in the Illinois House that would require the more than 1,500 health, life and property insurance companies operating in Illinois to pay into a guaranty fund.

WETLANDS COULD LOSE PROTECTION — Environmentalists Thursday urged the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to appeal a recent federal appeals court ruling that could strip small, isolated wetlands of federal protection. The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals earlier this week ruled in a case involving a Hoffman Estates developer, saying the EPA cannot protect a wetland just because migratory birds may use it.

Last chance offered for student maturity

When the bands take the stage and the beer begins to flow Saturday, the student body of SIUC will be watched very closely. It won't be the SIUC Police or extra security scrutinizing student behavior; it will be the administrators and event organizers whose funding and sponsorship have greater influence than any law enforcement personnel.

After the 1991 fiasco that became known as "Canfest," the entire event underwent intense examination for whether it had a future at SIUC.

Springfest is not a drunken brawl devoted to injuring fellow students with flying projectiles. It is one of the last remaining events sponsored through the University that directly promotes fun for the general student population.

Too often at SIUC the words fun and party have been interchangeable. Allowing bands to play in the University's open fields and letting legal age students consume alcohol does not constitute a problem or a party school. The problem erupts when the students given these rapidly diminishing privileges ignore their maturity levels and take to destroying what is given to them.

The blame for the riotous acts that have occurred at Springfest and ended Halloween can no longer be levied on "out of towners." This year there can be no passing of guilt.

SPC and the University have come up with a very liberal and fair set of guidelines for Springfest. But in the end it will be up to the students.

With the violent nature evolving through past Springfests, any continuance of rowdy behavior almost assuredly will end the celebration. Simply: If the beer cans fly, Springfest will die.

Those who would like to continue to enjoy Springfest weekend in the future should accept responsibility for the event and start acting their age. Those who want to continue the "party school" should go elsewhere.

Letter to the Editor

Student pleas for responsibility; alcohol easily causes tragedy

Springfest will kick off this weekend, and I'm glad to see the city officials and SIUC students take up the alcohol issue.

The privilege of functions like Springfest is a good time to have some fun and blow off some steam, but often it is ruined by those few who take advantage of it. Much like when you would take a field trip in grade school and one person acted up and ruined the whole trip for everyone.

The result was usually no more field trips for the entire class. The Halloween celebration has pretty much been shut down because of such acts that are usually the result of an over intoxicated individual, and it only takes one to ruin it all.

Alcohol has taken its toll on society, but people just accept it and hope nothing happens to them in the process. The city and students have decided to promote responsible drinking and maybe that's a start, but personally I don't think there is such a thing as responsible drinking.

prove me wrong. There is just too many dysfunctional families, lost jobs, DUIs and deaths to convince me that there is such a thing as responsible drinking especially when driving is involved.

As many of you will be celebrating this weekend I will be returning to my home town not to celebrate, but to go to see my little brother at his grave site.

On April 28, 1991 a drunk driver drug my 15-year-old brother and two of his friends to their deaths, and then left them to die in the road.

For all of you who may feel the need to drink alcohol while partying this weekend, I hope you will also feel the need not to drive.

My 15-year-old brother had a lot to celebrate, but neither he nor I will ever have that privilege because of one person and his automobile.

Don't let another person die a senseless death before his time. Please, don't drink and drive!—Chris Reavis, sophomore, physical education.

"Governor, I have another question about your admitted use of marijuana in the past."

"I thought we had put that behind us. As I explained, I tried it once many years ago. Took two puffs, didn't inhale, didn't like it and haven't tried it since."

"Yes, Governor, but there are still some points that should be cleared up to satisfy the public's right to know what the New York media believe they have a right to know."

"Such as?"
 "Do you know if the marijuana was Maui Wowie?"

"I have no idea where it came from."

"So you cannot deny it was Maui Wowie?"

"No, but I can't confirm it either."
 "In other words, it could have been Maui Wowie."

"I suppose so. It could also have been oregano, for all I know."

"Are you now changing your position and claiming that you did not smoke marijuana, but only oregano?"

"No, I don't know if it was oregano."

"Could it have been Acapulco Gold?"

"As I said, I don't know."

"Then you aren't ruling that out?"
 "I am not ruling it out or in."

"Governor, were there any seeds in the reefer you claim to have taken only two puffs from?"

"I have no idea."

"Well, when you took the two puffs, did you hear any snap, crackle or popping noise that would indicate the presence of seeds?"

"I have not heard any snap, crackle or popping noises since I consumed Rice Krispies."
 "You say you consumed Rice Krispies? Was this a result of having the munchies at the gathering where you smoked marijuana?"

"No, I had Rice Krispies as a child."

"How old were you when you had Rice Krispies?"

"About 7 or 8. Maybe 9."

"Can you be more specific than that?"

"No, I can't."

"Then, Governor, don't you think it is inconsistent that you can remember taking only two puffs of marijuana, but you can't remember how old you were when you ate Rice Krispies?"

 "Well, L..."

"Governor, has your wife's law firm ever represented the Rice Krispies company?"

"To the best of my knowledge, no."

"But if the law firm had represented them, Governor, would not your having eaten Rice Krispies be considered a conflict of interest?"

"No, because I ate the Rice Krispies before I met my wife."

"Governor, to get back to your claim that you took only two puffs of marijuana on that one occasion in England. After taking these two puffs, do you recall using the phrase, 'Oh, wow, groovy, man?'"

"No, I don't remember saying, 'Oh, wow, groovy, man...'"

"You say you don't remember. Does that mean you could have said, 'Oh, wow, groovy, man?'"

"No, I definitely did not say that. It is not the kind of phrase I would use."

"Then you deny it?"
 "Absolutely."

"What about the work 'wow?'"
 "What about it?"

"Could you have used the work 'wow,' without the 'groovy, man?'"

"You mean just plain 'wow?'"
 "That's right, Governor."

"Well, I suppose there have been times when I have used the word 'wow.'"

"Then can you say for certain that you did not use the work 'wow' the evening you say you took only two puffs from a marijuana cigarette and did not inhale them?"

"I don't remember using the work 'wow' that evening."

"So it is possible that you did say 'wow' that evening."

"I suppose it is possible. I might have also said 'golly.' I use 'golly' more than I use 'wow.'"

"But if you did say 'wow,' Governor, could it have been while you were staring blankly at a flickering candle in a darkened room, marveling at the strange and wondrous color formations?"

"No, I did not stare blankly at any flickering candles."

"How about light bulbs?"

"No, I did not stare at any light bulbs, either."

"Governor, do you recall giggling that evening?"

"I am inclined to giggle."

"Are you saying you never giggle? Is that what you are telling the New York press, Governor, that you never giggle?"

"I didn't say I never giggle. But I am more likely to grin."

"Then is it possible that after taking those two puffs which you now claim were the only puffs you ever took, you might have grinned foolishly? While at the same time saying 'wow'?"

"If I grinned, somebody might have thought it to be a foolish grin but that foolishness would be in the eyes of the beholder."

"So you don't deny the possibility that you grinned foolishly while saying 'wow?'"

"I can't deny it because, as I told you took only two puffs from that reefer, and did not inhale them, how is it possible that those two puffs could have made you grin foolishly and say 'wow,' which you do not deny it is possible that you said?"

"Wow, that is some question."

"Governor, you just said 'wow.'"

"Yes, I guess I did."

"Yet, Governor, a few moments ago, you said you seldom said 'wow,' that you were more likely to say, 'golly.' Have you changed your position on that?"

"Golly no."

"Now you have said, golly, Governor. Isn't that an indication that you are opportunistic?"

"Gosh, I don't think so."

"You've changed positions, again, Governor. What does that say about your electability?"

"I don't think it says anything?"

"Then explain this, Governor: Why did you prefer Rice Krispies to Wheaties?"

"I like them both."

"Sorry, we're out of tape."

Russia strives for stability

By Brian Gross
Special Assignment Writer

Returning soldiers have nothing to do, the economy crashes, no outside aid is available, riots erupt in the streets, the republics fail to unite and communist leaders regain power.

The former Soviet Union is plunged into bloody revolution.

Or, the republics accept and receive help from the West, capitalism takes hold, the soldiers are absorbed and the economy begins a slow recovery.

Russia stabilizes and develops. Those are the best and worse case scenarios outlined by John C. Kimball, a writer and editor who worked as an administrator in NATO and the State Department.

"I think everybody wants to draw conclusions, but nobody knows a lot about this," Kimball said. "Thousands of people will be making millions of decisions in the next couple of years. I don't feel confident making predictions. I think you can lay out best and worst case scenarios."

One key to Russia's future is to stop exploiting ethnic differences, he said.

"During the cold war, the ethnic hatreds were frozen," Kimball said. "At the end of the cold war, all the traditional hatreds were brought out between the Ukraine and the Baltics and Russia. There was a common fear of annihilation before, but now they feel free to exploit the traditions for power. It's misguided patriotism."

Leland Stauber, an associate professor in political science at SIUC, said many political parties are springing up in the republics and the ethnic and national forces have become overwhelming.

"It produced disintegration in the Soviet Union," Stauber said. "There are still border disputes, and no way of drawing boundaries."

Through Soviet industrialization programs, people were forced to move around. New groups were moved in to different republics and resulted in intermixing, he said.

"It's so tangling," he said. "It's a difficult process to produce any kind of unity."

Robert Edwards, an assistant professor in foreign languages, said he does not see a lot of hope for unity.

The right wing that opposes president Boris Yeltsin is a great threat because the leaders are very popular and anti-Semitic, Edwards said. The right wing would suppress minorities and restore a strong military.

St. Basil's Cathedral sits majestically on Red Square, the center of Moscow. This architectural treasure is now an antireligious museum.

Kimball said the other key is economics. Unfortunately the need for aid for the republics comes at a time when Western economies are slumping.

Five years ago, the United States and the West were in better condition to come up with economic support, Kimball said. Perhaps five years from now they will be in better shape, but Russia needs help now.

All the republics want to get into the Western market, he said, and the United States will do all it can to help them.

Stauber said the republics are changing currencies and adding tariffs as the American colonies did in the 1700s.

"It's not unlike the 13 colonies, which had different currencies and tariff barriers imposed on each other for what was really economic warfare," he said. "Many of the leaders were saying it was just intolerable, but the British never created central control."

Stauber said mammoth problems come with the transition to capitalism. New banking and property systems require new laws and an enormous shift in attitudes.

"The leaders are working with a generation of businesses not used to competition," Stauber said.

David Naftzger, a senior in international trade from Albany, worked as a salesman for a manufacturing company in Russia as part of an internship last fall. Naftzger was amazed that the company had only four salesmen to sell its lathes, machines for sharpening wood or metal, he said.

"They're trying to sell these large lathes that nobody wants and they only have four guys," he said. "They have a huge surplus because they were used to building planes and tanks for the military that are not needed now."

Under the Soviet Union, the company was controlled by a ministry that sold the products directly for them, he said.

"Selling is brand new to them," Naftzger said. "They have to develop their own sales market. I have a lot of respect for them. They are very intelligent and have good ideas. The problem is just putting them into use."

Kimball said unemployed soldiers also present a serious economic and social problem.

"They were once the most feared armed force in the world," Kimball said. "They developed a space program that was considered almost a miracle, built out of the society it was. They had great science and great engineering. They're still remarkable achievements and the proudest part of the Soviet Union."

"Now they're sent home and have to be absorbed, and society has nothing to offer," he said. "They become ordinary people, street people. There is a danger, if

Study spree: Exchange students to return to homeland with extra baggage after visit to Carbondale

By Brian Gross

Sergei Stolbov, Roman Ryabinkin and Sasha Vasionov will take more back with them to Russia than they brought to SIUC.

The three exchange students have been buying jeans, perfume for their mothers and other gifts for their families. Vasionov pointed proudly to his new CD player on a shelf in his room. And they have not had to stand in line to buy food.

Stolbov shrugged when talking about the end of communism, the break up of the Soviet Union and the attempted coup of Mikhail Gorbachev.

Stolbov was less than 150 miles from Moscow during the upheaval, but he might as well have been 5,000 miles away as he is now.

"It was not a big deal," Stolbov said. "It was far away."

Ryabinkin had the same reaction. "It was all far from us," he said.

The three students came to SIUC for the spring semester as part of an exchange program with the Vladimir Institute. They are studying automotive technology and political science, but their concerns are more with economics than politics.

The policies and politics are not important to the Russian people, Stolbov said. Having a job and money to live on, being able to buy food—these are the issues that matter.

"We have big problems," Stolbov said. "If you have a coupon, you can buy stuff. If you have no coupon, you cannot. It's much different than America. Everything is very, very expensive. It's bad."

The coupons are ration tickets used to buy food and clothes. Tracy Gast explained. She and four other SIUC students lived in Vladimir for three months last fall. Five Russian things go really badly, of riots in the streets, and one could conceive they will have a coup of the military."

Edwards visited Russia last fall just after the coup on Gorbachev. People were very enthusiastic about freedom, but by the time he left, the daily mood was changing negatively, he said.

"Parliament was arguing, everyone had a different idea, none of the problems were being solved, and there was a lack of unity," he said.

"All the old divisions and resentment of Great Russians and plant managers were still around."

Edwards made several friends at Russian schools who cannot get even basic supplies like computer paper.

Edwards could try to send some things to help, but they would probably get stolen in the mail, he said.

The ruble is equivalent to a penny in exchange, Edwards said, and the average salary is 600 to 900 rubles a month.

"Inflation is bad, but the biggest problem is they can't decide who controls the armies," Edwards said. "The republics want to develop their own armies. It's very dangerous having 14 different policies."

The traditional Russian response is to want to get the West out, Edwards said.

"They want to cleanse their society, but they've waited too long," he said.

"They need help, but with the level of corruption, the road is not going to get there."

The United States has a chance to exert its influence if it is not too preachy about it, Edwards said.

"We can help ensure more moderate leadership if we approach it right," he said. "They are proud, and we can't have a big brother attitude."

Stauber said the cold turkey approach will not work with capitalism.

People need food and the government must provide rations, so not just people who have money get the food.

"There is a potential for great disorder," he said. "Most experts agree it will not go smoothly or quickly.

"There is a huge outpouring of refugees, no consensus on economics, every variety of opinion on various social problems."

"It is a much wider spectrum than just those advocating democracy."

SIUC president John C. Guyon said he could not comment on the issue because it would be an unfair labor practice.

"The administration cannot take a position on collective bargaining because it is not legally allowed," Guyon said.

The major issue fueling the push for collective bargaining is governance, rather than bread and butter issues like salary and health care, Sullivan said.

Collective bargaining would help ensure the principal role of the University—teaching students, Sullivan said.

"I think it will help because it will ensure the faculty more than just an advisory position in the decision-making process of the University," Sullivan said. "Therefore, collective bargaining will result in a more unified voice of the University which in turn will facilitate better teaching of the students."

The last election for collective bargaining was in 1988 when the proposal failed in a 59-41 vote.

Gary Kolb, associate professor of cinema and photography, said the University was not ready for collective bargaining in 1988.

"Many things stood in the way of collective bargaining during the last election," Kolb said. "Among those are things such as the presidential election which preceded our election by two weeks and instilled a conservative view for most people because George Bush won."

"Many people on campus believed voting 'yes' to IEA/NEA would mean the union would come to the campus and tell us how to run the University, which is not the case at all," he said. "The national union would not intervene in University issues unless SIUC faculty asked them."

Kolb also said he believes many of the faculty thought voting for collective bargaining would put their jobs at risk.

"The faculty here don't trust the administration and are fearful to let it be known that they support such and effort as collective bargaining," Kolb said. "Because of this fear, an active block to collective bargaining was instituted by the faculty to oppose the movement."

David NewMyer, associate professor of aviation management, said he is opposed to unions in general and was part of the organized group of faculty who opposed the movement in 1988.

"I do not want to give up my individual rights as a teacher," NewMyer said. "The administration has been relatively good lately at involving constituency groups in decisions concerning the University. At least the situation has improved since (former) Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit left the University."

But many other faculty simply do not believe a union is needed at the university level.

David Clarke, professor in the College of Technical Careers, said now is not the time or place for a union.

"Although collective bargaining has a strong historical place, I have trouble with the use of unions in professional practices," Clarke said. "I think if collective bargaining would be used at SIUC it would raise salaries slightly, but would also reduce the number of faculty members on campus and would worsen the caliber of faculty."

rescue effort. Twenty helicopters were brought in to ferry the injured to hospitals.

Temporary shelter for people made homeless in the blast was set up in the Olympic Stadium in the west of city, the Notimex, the state news agency said.

Gov. Guillermo Cosío called for calm and asked residents to help emergency workers.

"I want to ask the people to help us in any way and not to do anything that will cause any confusion," said the visibly shaken Cosío.

According to Petroleos Mexicanos, the blast occurred when the gas hexanol, an extremely volatile mixture of alcohol, chloroform and ether, escaped from the local oil-lubricant factory "La Central." The gas then reached the city's sewer system and exploded when it mixed with air.

A spokeswoman for PEMEX, the state oil company, said the firm "has absolutely no responsibility for the explosion."

Yet other Mexican officials were reluctant to assess blame.

Police chief Pedro Soto said the PEMEX version was "not confirmed," while visiting President Carlos Salinas de Gortari, who was supervising rescue efforts, refused to comment on the causes of the disaster.

The owner of the factory has not been located, but Mexican Attorney General Ignacio Morales Lechuga promised a full investigation.

coordinator, who just adopted a child with her husband, said it will be the children who have to live with whatever this generation leaves behind.

A 1990 Carbondale Earth Day survey indicated people wanted more activities for children at the 1992 celebration. With this in mind, the group has worked to coordinate a day everyone may enjoy, Barnes said.

Children and adults can observe live fish in large aquariums, animals that have been rehabilitated after being hit on the highway, and a man who has snakes.

Scott Ballard will teach the difference between venomous and nonvenomous snakes, Barnes said. He also will bring his rare two-headed snake.

"A lot of the people we found out about from word-of-mouth," Barnes said.

"Almost everyone is donating their time," she said.

Children can watch a puppet show or a play about water and pollution.

"Trees help filter out pollutants, provide windblocks and provide a natural habitat for birds, as well as providing many other benefits."

—Lisa Barnes

Arts and crafts include face painting, nature weaving and making sassafras name tags.

Nature weaving is making fabrics out of materials such as sticks, rushes and bamboo.

Sassafras, a tree, is cut in one-quarter inch slices for making name tags, said Curt Carter, an Earth Day participant. Children write their names on the slices and a hole is drilled and a string is attached.

About 500 white pine and 500 white oak trees also will be given away.

"Trees help filter out pollutants, provide windblocks and provide a natural habitat for birds, as well as providing many other benefits," Barnes said.

The trees are provided by the Department of Conservation. Members of 4-H will be handing them out as well as providing planting tips.

Music will be performed by Carter, Connelley, and Cronin, Shady Mix, The Electrics, The Dorian Brothers, Unsensored and Singalong.

"All of the musicians sought us out," Ellis said. "Almost all of them are involved environmentally in some way."

The Student Environmental Center celebrated earlier this week with music by Jimmy Salatino, Crawdaddy and Carter, Connelley and Cronin in the Free Forum area and Student Center.

"We had about 100 people out there having a good time when I left," said Mike Mittage, an SEC member.

Award-winning author lectures on storytelling

By Fatima Janvekar
General Assignment Writer

Chinese-American writer Maxine Hong Kingston is a child's dream—she can weave a story that enchants an audience, drawing it closer to herself and her world of imagination.

Kingston presented a lecture on the art of storytelling this week as part of the Charles D. Tenney Distinguished Lecturer Series.

The author of "The woman warrior: Memoirs of a girlhood among ghosts", which won the 1976 National Book Critics Circle Award for non-fiction, Kingston wove tales of childhood with stories about the women in her family. Time Magazine rated her book as one of the best written in the 1970s.

Kingston also has written "China Men", which won the 1981 National Book Award, and "Tripmaster Monkey." All her books combine myth, genealogy, poetry and stories of long-ago, her favorite sources of imagination.

Kingston now is trying to rewrite a book based on a manuscript that burned in a fire in Oakland, Calif., last year. She had been working for 6 years on the manuscript, which told about the lives of Vietnam veterans.

"After the fire, I found that I could not write the same book again," Kingston said. "That may be because a work of art is made up of all the present moments."

The subtitle of her manuscript was "Book of Peace." She intended to keep that because of a superstition.

"There is a Chinese legend about three books, all called the Books of Peace, that were lost when their sanctuary was burned to ground by fire, and I feel sort of cosmic because of the coincidence," she said.

Kingston said it had been difficult for her to start writing again after the fire, but she decided to take up the pen again after she went swimming in a river in Texas.

"I could feel the water flowing around me, and its effects after the fire brought visions to me, and a sort of enlightenment that I had to start writing again," she said.

Profs research effect 'JFK' has on student views

By Teri Lynn Carlock
City Writer
and Casey Hampton
General Assignment Writer

Nearly five months after the opening of the film, the docudrama "JFK" again is attracting attention—this time on the SIUC campus.

Academy Award-winning filmmaker Oliver Stone wanted a film that authentically would trigger public reaction to President John F. Kennedy's assassination 28 years ago.

"Oliver felt the American people had been lied to and wanted the whole thing re-opened," said "JFK" publicist Nancy Kirkpatrick. "He made the film so people would ask questions."

His plan was successful.

William Elliot, head of journalism graduate studies, and James Kelly, assistant professor of journalism, this week presented the initial results of a study on "JFK" and its effects on audiences.

The study, "Unsanctioned History and Subjective Reality: Oliver Stone's 'JFK,'" concluded students who saw the film were more likely to believe in the existence of a "shadow government" with great power and influence than those who did not see the film.

Of those polled, 74 percent said they believe there exists a small group of people in this country who have the power to do almost anything, even assassinate our leaders.

"JFK" is a movie that makes people think and feel about the assassination, Elliot said.

"Look what it did—Stone makes everything look so clear and connected," he said. "Every event seems irresistibly linked to the next one, but that is why it seems to make so much sense."

Production of Stone's film triggered the most media coverage in the last 10 years, surpassing the 20th and 25th anniversary of the assassination in 1983 and 1988, respectively, according to the study.

"JFK" began raising eyebrows even before its Dec. 20 release last year. Washington Post reporter George Lardner, Jr., in a story titled "On the Set: Dallas in Wonderland," accused Stone of both distorting and profiting from the JFK assassination.

Lardner quoted from the first draft of the script, but the film in its final form was actually the sixth draft.

The New York Times also began coverage of the movie nine months before its release and Newsweek devoted a nine-page story titled "The Twisted Truth of 'JFK,'" explaining why the public should not see or believe the film.

"Some serious journalists are going back and raising some fundamental questions about what happened," Elliot said. "We began to wonder why all the fuss over a movie? But 'JFK' wasn't just any movie."

The study included the responses of 143 students, composed of a group who had seen the film and a control group who had not. The average age of the persons sampled was 22.

"We're no theorists by any means, we're looking at the film's influence on audiences," Elliot said. "We can't ever forget this was a movie released by Warner Bros., an Academy Award nominee—it's just a movie."

The Student Programming Council will present "JFK" May 1, 2 and 3 in the Student Center Auditorium at 6 and 9:45 p.m.

Students contributing to Hispanic culture to receive special honors

By Sherri L. Wilcox
General Assignment Writer

Student contributions to the growing understanding of Hispanic culture in the United States will be honored this month at an initiation ceremony for Sigma Eta, the SIUC chapter of the National Collegiate Hispanic Honor Society.

Students will be honored April 26 on the basis of academic achievement and involvement in Latin American studies. They are not necessarily of Hispanic heritage.

Odilia Leal-McBride, faculty adviser to Sigma Eta, said the purposes of the society are to honor those who seek and attain excellence in the study of Spanish language, literature and culture and have made contributions to those areas, to encourage students to acquire a greater interest and understanding of Hispanic culture and to foster friendly relations and mutual respect between Hispanic and English speaking nations.

Leal-McBride said the organization gives students solid recognition for what they have done in a broader realm than just the University.

"We honor those who are dedicated to understanding and studying the Spanish language and culture," she said, "and through the national organization they have the opportunity to receive nationwide scholarships and awards for their achievements."

Sigma Delta Pi was established Nov. 14, 1919, at the University of California at Berkeley. Among the colleges and universities that now have chapters of Sigma Delta Pi are Cornell University, the College of William and Mary, Stanford University and Columbia University.

To be eligible for membership in Sigma Eta, students must display good moral character and a genuine interest in Hispanic issues and have completed three years of college Spanish, including three semester hours of a third-year course in Hispanic literature or culture.

Each must have completed three semesters of college work, maintain a grade-point-average in Spanish courses of 3.0 and a cumulative G.P.A. of at least 2.75 or rank in the upper 35% of their class.

Those being honored include: Alexandra Baldwin, Susan Baird, Cherie Carpenter, Susan Cordier, Enid Feur, Samuel G. Fitch, Matthew Florio, Peter Hoogerwoerd, Seth C. Kinne, Barbara A. Mitchell, Kristen Morgan, Tricia Nichols, Amber M. Nicholson, Rebecca Denise Otero, Maria Elisa Paredes, Kemberly Pinto, Hilary Quinn, Ann Marie Rehlender, David Slusher and Nicholas G. Whiteside.

Honorary membership to Sigma Eta can be granted to anyone who is not a student but who has made significant contributions to promoting a greater understanding of Hispanic language and culture, Leal-McBride said. Honorary members include faculty, administrators and area high school teachers.

STUDENTS, from page 5

students traveled to SIUC to study here this spring.

Gast said people can have ration tickets, stand in line and still not get any food or clothes if the goods run out.

Stolbov said buying bread is easy, but other things are difficult. Many people keep gardens outside the city or travel to Moscow to buy things instead.

"We live in Vladimir," he said. "It is more expensive but easier to buy if you go to Moscow. It's not just me, but many people do this."

Most Russian people live in high-rise apartment buildings, Gast said. They do not have backyards, so they try to keep small gardens out in the country for growing vegetables.

But even if people have a garden, somebody may steal it, Stolbov said.

"You may go out one day and see it all gone," he said.

Stealing has become a big problem in Russia as the people become more desperate.

"Many Americans leave their car without locks," Stolbov said. "If you do it in Russia, your car will be gone very quickly. Most people try to buy a garage. It's safer."

The black market also has become prominent in Russian society, he said.

Stolbov's father designs engines at a research institute in Vladimir, and his mother works in a library. Their family does not have things as bad as many others, he said.

Some people have second jobs but usually work as janitors and make very little money.

Vasianov's father is in commercial fishing and is out at sea for many months at a time. If people just want to work, finding a job is easy, he said.

"Getting a good job is difficult," Vasianov said about a society in which workers make as much money as engineers, people with a university-level education.

"They don't need engineers now," Stolbov said. "They don't need to change products. They just need money."

Ryabinkin's father designs buildings.

"It is a good job," he said. "My mother works in a factory. Almost all the women work. You cannot live well if your wife does not work. You do not get enough money."

The Russian students are studying automotive technology. They still have two years of study to finish when they return to Vladimir.

Stolbov knows he will work in his father's institute when he graduates.

"Almost everyone knows where they're going to work," he said. "We're all going to work with engines, but we do not know exactly what."

The tone of conversation changes when the students talk about Russia and the Communist Party. Vasianov moved to Russia from Lithuania in 1986, but his family still lives in the republic.

The Communist Party is the main reason for ethnic tensions, not the republics, Vasianov said.

Stolbov thought the other Soviet republics followed Russia because it was the largest and strongest republic. Now that Russia is having a lot of problems, the republics have no reason to stick with Russia.

Stolbov and Vasianov began talking very fast in Russian. Communism was strong, not Russia, Vasianov argued.

Stolbov said many different groups made up of people who want to do different things live in the republics.

The students will have many memories to take back to Russia.

Ryabinkin said it is very difficult to live in Russia, but they love their country.

Concert Choir to perform at SIUC to end yearly tour

The SIUC Concert Choir will end the year with a concert at 8 tonight in Shryock Auditorium on the heels of a five-city tour which began last Monday.

The choir kept a hectic schedule during the tour, traveling to Dwight, Naperville, Northbrook, Libertyville and Joliet.

The 35-voice choir, under the direction of John V. Mochnick, will present a mixed program of classical and contemporary works, including Johann Sebastian Bach's "Jesu, meine Freude," two Moravian anthems, Pablo Casals' "O Vos Omnes," Kenneth Jennings' "With a Voice of Singing" and a rustic Hungarian dancing song.

Tickets for the performance are available at the door and cost $2 for students and $3 for the general public.

Proceeds support scholarships in the School of Music.

CCFA to endure effects of Illinois budget problems

By Jeremy Finley
General Assignment Writer

Students and faculty in the College of Communications and Fine Arts all have one thing in common—each will suffer together this year and perhaps for many years to come.

Budgets in all eight academic and two service units that comprise CCFA have been cut by 6 percent.

The schools and departments of art and design, cinema and photography, communication disorders and science, journalism, music, radio-television, speech communications, theater, and the Broadcasting Service and University Museum all comprise CCFA.

Gerald Stone, dean for CCFA, said CCFA has suffered in both the same and different ways than the other colleges at the University.

Stone said the college has been hurt from being caught in a 3-percent rescission in which money was sent to the departments in the college and the University administration asked for the money back to return to the state.

The college has tried to anticipate how much money the departments will get because the departments will have to give some of that money back.

"We all have fewer teachers in our classrooms and are trying to meet the same or greater enrollment demand," he said.

Stone said the college will have to close the outreach programs such as the Scholastic HiQ program.

Survey: Fresh NFL draftees naive about contracts, taxes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The millions of dollars NFL teams will pay to their first-round picks in Sunday's draft will be going to players who have no clue about taxes or the value of money.

So says Ralph Cindrich, a former NFL linebacker and one of the leading agents.

And Cindrich is not just speaking from experience. His opinion is based on a survey he conducted last winter of 100 players eligible for the draft.

The survey showed an overwhelming majority of the players had unrealistic professional expectations and little grasp of the worth of their pro contracts.

For example, 99 percent expected to have a career in professional sports, 76 percent were unaware of how much tax they must pay on $1 million and 44 percent believed their take-home pay on $1 million would range from $750,000 to $950,000.

"I'm sure some would argue that most college graduates don't know what they will have to pay in taxes, and they would probably be right," Cindrich said. "The difference is the majority of college grads begin their careers earning smaller amounts of money than pro athletes.

"An athlete is likely to see just a lot of zeroes and therefore, doesn't feel any sense of fiscal responsibility," Cindrich said.

Most veteran NFL players know examples of financial irresponsibility, either through experience or from seeing what happens to teammates. Buffalo Bills center Kent Hull remembers a former NFL player he played with in the USFL with the New Jersey Generals. When the player was released he had $4,800 monthly payments on a five-bedroom home, two Mercedes and a Jeep Grand Wagoneer. His bank account totaled $1,200.

"There were friends of mine who've had things happen to them that, if they were better informed, wouldn't have happened," Hull said.

Mark May, a Phoenix Cardinals offensive lineman who has spent 10 years in the NFL, said players coming out of college don't realize how the odds are against them.

"One thing hasn't changed in a decade, everyone thinks they're going to play pro football," May said. "I guess that's wishful thinking."

Nuggets' 'worst coach' sacked after 2 seasons

DENVER (UPI) — Paul Westhead, who in two years led Denver to the two worst seasons in the history of the franchise, Thursday was fired as coach of the Nuggets.

"We feel it is imperative that we move in another direction," Nuggets General Manager Bernie Bickerstaff said at a news conference.

"Paul came into a very difficult situation, but was never distracted from doing his job," Bickerstaff said. "He has laid a foundation with our young players that will be significant in their development in subsequent years."

In his two years, the Nuggets finished 20-62 in 1990-91 and 25-58 this season.

Westhead, 53, met with Bickerstaff Wednesday amid speculation he would be dismissed soon.

"I did everything possible to help this team in a forward direction," Westhead said. "We made considerable strides this season with the acquisition and development of Dikembe Mutombo and Mark Macon.

"With another draft, I feel the team will be on its way to a bright future. It is unfortunate for the team and for me that I will not be a part of this positive swing now in progress."

Former coaches Don Chaney, K.C. Jones and Gene Little have been mentioned as possible replacements.

Chaney was fired earlier in the season by the Houston Rockets. The Seattle SuperSonics dismissed Jones in favor of George Karl. Little previously coached the Charlotte Hornets.

Westhead led the Los Angeles Lakers to a championship in 1979-80. The Lakers finished with a 50-18 record that year and defeated Philadelphia in the finals.

The following year, the Lakers went 54-28 but he was fired the next season after a 7-4 start and a philosophical clash with his players.

Westhead coached the Chicago Bulls the next season to a 24-58 record. He has a lifetime NBA record of 183-222.

Before joining the Nuggets, Westhead coached Loyola Marymount for five seasons and compiled a 105-48 record.

He also coached La Salle from 1970-79 and had a career coaching mark of 247-153.

Phoenix coach ousted by aide Paul Westphal

PHOENIX (UPI) — Paul Westphal will replace Cotton Fitzsimmons as coach of the Phoenix Suns next season.

Jerry Colangelo, the club's president and chief executive officer, made the announcement Thursday, a day before Phoenix opens its first-round playoff series against the San Antonio Spurs.

Fitzsimmons, who has led the Suns to a team-record 50 or more wins four straight seasons, will resume front-office duties as the club's director of player personnel. The current Suns coaching staff of Fitzsimmons, Westphal and Lionel Hollins will remain unchanged for the playoffs.

Westphal is completing his fourth year as a Suns assistant.

Rookie, Phils blast Cubbies in 8-2 victory

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rookie Kim Batiste hit his first major-league homer and Tommy Greene yielded just two hits over seven innings Thursday to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Batiste, who paved the way for both of the Cubs' runs in the first inning with his eighth error of the season, belted a two-run shot in the fourth to give the Phillies the lead for good at 4-2. Ruben Amaro kept the inning alive by drawing a two-out walk.

Greene, 2-1, walked the first three batters he faced and the Cubs took advantage when Batiste booted Andre Dawson's grounder. But that's all Chicago would get as Greene allowed just a single and double the rest of the way. He walked six and struck out five.

very good times and performances that have been put out the last couple of weeks, and that's why we are well represented."

In the track events, junior Crystallo Constantinou will try to repeat the winning performance that earned her Gateway Athlete of the Week honors, as she sprints her way into the 100-meter dash.

Constantinou is one of the best runners in the country and is ranked 11th nationally.

Junior Becky Coyne and freshman La'Tonya Morrison will try to hurdle the competition as they both qualify to compete in the 100-meter hurdles.

At the Illini Classic last week Coyne gave a career-best performance in the event with a time of 13.98.

The 4x100-meter relay team consisting of Constantinou, Coyne, Morrison, and junior Nacolia Moore also qualified to compete.

At Illinois they posted a time of 47.53 and ran away with a second place finish.

The 4x800 relay team will make an appearance with sophomore Kelly Elliott, junior Shaunrae Winfield, sophomore Christina Gabler, and junior Dawn Barefoot will try and run away from the pack.

SIUC will be represented by two top runners in the 10,000-meter run in Amie Padgett and sophomore Karen Gardner.

Even with the tough competition, DeNoon is not pressuring the Salukis, he said.

"I am asking them to go out with the attitude they do every other meet, and that is to go for a career or season-best," he said. "We are starting to peak at the end of the season, and if we keep it up, things should work out well for us."

The rest of the Saluki runners will be competing at Murray State. Two athletes have opted to compete at MSU instead of going to Drake.

Junior Cindy Grammer, who placed fourth at the Illini Classic, will go into the shot put event looking for more throws.

Instead of throwing in three trials at Drake, she will get to throw six times in the MSU Invite.

Debbie Daehler, who has been one of SIUC's better runners this outdoor season, also opted to go to MSU and will run in the 3,000-meter and 5,000-meter events.

The Salukis will head to Murray, Ken., for the invite Saturday.

team that will be seeded in the top four. The matchup of No. 2 doubles Classen and Goransson has gone 5-0 in league play since Goransson's debut.

No. 1 Jay Merchant and Tim Derouin were 3-9 and No.3 Aluf Merchant and Kai Kramer were 2-1.

Wichita State coach Bill Nichols said in the tournament Drake 19-9 is the odds on favorite to win championship.

"Unless the wheels come off no one is beating Drake," Nichols said.

Classen said in the tournament anything is possible and the Salukis have the motivation to compete with all the teams in the conference.

The championships will be played at SIUC University Courts.

The tournament starts at 8 a.m. Friday with preliminary single and double matches.

In case of bad weather, the tournament will be conducted at Oak Hill Racquet Club in Belleville and the Kettle Racquet Club in Edwardsville.

in September 1986. In March 1987 the first tournament in his name took place.

Drazba introduced ultimate frisbee to many, including Higgins, who said they play in memory of his spirit.

"It's great time for all who knew him to get together and remember him," he said. "For those who did not know him, they take part in play the game he loved to play."

Teams from all across the country will take part in the 16-team tourney.

Spin-itch, representing Rockford, achieved the number one seed as two teams from St. Louis, Teamo and Outside Loop, received the second and third seeds.

SIUC's Full Tilt expects to be seeded sixth in a competitive field of teams.

Full Tilt is comprised of both SIUC students and members of the community as well as alumni that return to participate.

The club is coed and currently consists of 18 members. Anyone is welcome to get involved.

There are no requirements to participate except having the desire to play, however it is the ability of the player that decides how much playing time will be allowed, Ianno said.

"There is a high level of athletic ability that is demonstrated, and if a player demonstrates that ability more playing time will be allowed," he said. "The second most important aspect is the desire and motivation, and that is not to be forgotten."

Ianno said he encourages anyone interested to come to practice and get involved with the team.

The fields south of Abe Martin Field is where Full Tilt practices and will be the tournament site as well.

The tourney will last from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days.

Saluki baseball team decides fate with series at Illinois State

By Scott Wuerz Sports Writer

The baseball Salukis travel to Illinois State today for a three-game battle with the Redbirds, coach Sam Riggelman said.

The winner will likely advance to the Missouri Valley Conference baseball tournament, and the loser will gain some extra study time for finals.

Unlike previous seasons, the MVC tournament will host only the top six team in the conference, leaving two at home. The Salukis currently hold the sixth and last qualifying position with a 4-6 record in the Valley. The Dawgs are 14-22 overall. The Redbirds, 16-22 overall, hold fifth position with a 5-7 MVC mark. Southwest Missouri trails by one game with a 4-8 record.

The close competition for the final two slots puts pressure on the Salukis to shore up their chances this weekend before taking on the defending national champions from Wichita State for a three-game series starting May 1, Riggelman said.

"We have to win two out of three

"It is imperative we do things consistently for three games, not just one."

to realistically have a chance to make the MVC tournament," he said. "It is imperative we do things consistently for three games, not just one."

Illinois State coach Jeff Stewart said his team has suffered from injuries and inexperience throughout the season, but it has come together down the stretch, winning 11 of its last 15 games.

"We play with the perspective that any minor accomplishment would be great after the problems we've faced this season," Stewart said.

"We know things aren't always going to go our way, but we have to avoid the big mistakes that cost us victories."

Riggelman said the Dawgs will be led this weekend by pitcher

Mike Van Gilder, but hopes the rest of the pitching staff can follow the senior's example.

Van Gilder holds a 4-0 record this season against MVC competition with a 1.09 ERA. In his last start against Northern Iowa he gave up only three hits and allowed no one to reach second base in a complete game shut out. The game was called because of rain in the top of the eighth.

"Van Gilder has done a tremendous job for us," Riggelman said. "He's the type of player who can reach back for the extra effort when the game is on the line, but someone else needs to take charge for us on the mound."

The Salukis are paced offensively by senior designated hitter Ed Janke, who tied the SIUC single game record of three doubles in a contest Tuesday at Missouri. He also hit his fifth home run of the season in the game, which ties him for the team leadership with senior third baseman Brian Heather. Janke is hitting .291 on the season—good for third best among Saluki starters. First baseman Darrin Barton is first with a .315 mark, Heather is second at .305.

loans — and that he would have stopped them if he knew.

However, three others interviewed for the report contradicted Schultz's version.

"In many ways the most elusive factual issue confronted during this inquiry concern: Mr. (Ted) Davenport's testimony that at one point, Mr. Schultz ordered him to stop making further loans to student athletes," the report said. Davenport was a VSAF administrator who signed the loan checks.

The report concluded — Davenport's testimony notwithstanding — that Schultz did not participate in making the loans.

"He was," the report said, "in no case a willful participant. ... His guilt at the time was at most a guilt of inadvertence." The report added: "The worst that can be said of Mr. Schultz is that there were signals during his tenure as athletic director which, in hindsight, should have alerted his antennae."

1992 Spring Semester Final Exam Schedule

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 T H
09:00-10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of the entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T H", and therefore are in the category "Only T or H or T H". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Spring '92 Final Examination Schedule to be Friday, May 15 at 10:10 a.m. - 12:10 p.m. Please note that University policy indicates that exams are not to be given prior to exam week, or at times other than those scheduled.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide adequate notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

1. Classes with a special exam time.	Exam Date	Exam Period

4. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

5. Individualized Learning Program classes will be administered at the SIUC Student Center throughout final exam week. Students wishing to sit for an exam must contact the Division of Continuing Education at Washington Square "C" (536-7751) at least three days in advance in order to reserve a time-slot and receive a room assignment.

2. One credit hour courses ordinarily will have their examination during the last regularly scheduled class period prior to the formal final examination week.

3. Other classes (not those for 1 credit)

Trio honored for scholarship as athletes by Booster Club

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

Three SIUC student athletes were honored by the Booster Club for their academic excellence and their individual leadership Thursday.

The Saluki Booster Club annually present an award entitled "Scholar Athlete of the Year." The 1992 recipients are Gina Giacone, women's golf, Mark Stuart, men's track, and Jon Manley, football.

The Booster Club chooses an athlete on the basis of the student's academic as well as athletic performance.

Giacone, an accounting major with an economics minor, is on track to graduate this May, and for a student, athlete to graduate on time in four years is outstanding, golf coach Diane Daugherty said.

"The team is really proud of her,"

Stuart

Manley

Giacone

Daugherty said. "We take pride in the fact that the golf team has the highest GPA of all of the sports. Gina's individual GPA helps us maintain it."

Giacone has a 3.9 GPA.

In the fall of 1991, she received the Gateway Conference President's Academic Excellence Award.

She was also a National Golf Coaches Association All-American in 1990 and 91. On the golf team, Giacone has served as tri-captain for two years.

Stuart is an electrical engineering major. He was cross country team captain in 1991 and was a member of the Missouri Valley Conference all-conference academic team.

He also made the MVC's Commissioner's List in 1989 and 1991.

Manley also is an electrical engineering major.

He received the Gateway Conference Commissioner's award in the fall of 1987, 88 and 89 and also in the spring of 1989 and 90.

He was a GTE All-American first team for Division I Universities in 1991.

The awards were presented at the aluki Booster Club luncheon at the Pasta House at University Mall.

Backers: Fat or skinny Lasorda?

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI) — As the nation wrestles with which image of Elvis Presley to use on a postage stamp, the city where Tom Lasorda began his pro baseball career faces a similar dilemma.

City fathers hoping to build a statue of the Los Angeles Dodgers manager, who got his start with the Schenectady Blue Jays of the old Canadian-American League, are wondering whether the statue should depict the trim 21-year-old who once struck out 25 men in a game or the more rotund, lasagana-loving Tommy.

Lasorda, through a liquid diet that he hawks on television, has since returned to his svelter form.

"A lot of people are saying, 'We like the chunky Tommy Lasorda,'" said city Councilman Augustus Bessinger, who remembers Lasorda's playing days in a time when live minor league pro baseball was a far bigger part of the day to day lives of residents of the city of 150,000 than it is today.

"But a lot are saying, 'We like the slim Tommy Lasorda.' Some people say, 'Give us the Tommy Lasorda who played for the Blue Jays,'" Bessinger said.

Radio station WPYX of Albany, 10 miles from Schenectady, has been helping gauge public feeling on the subject. Its morning deejays, "Greggo and Barrow," have been conducting a phone-in survey and have gotten more than 600 calls, said spokesman Jeff Gillis.

"Fat Tommy is leading skinny Tommy by about 1 1/2 to 1," Gillis said.

Lasorda played for Schenectady in 1948, and the left-hander set a record, since broken, when he struck out 25 players in a 15-inning game against the Rugmakers from nearby Amsterdam, N.Y. Lasorda struck out 15 in his next appearance and 13 in his next game after that.

He spent most of his career with Montreal, a Dodgers farm team.
