3 to Speak On Man, His Past

DAILY EGYPTIAN

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

Volume 46

Carbondale, Ill. Friday, February 26, 1965

Number 98

How man has adapted to his surroundings and how his environment and culture in turn, have moulded him physically will be the theme of the annual Sperry Foundation Lectures beginning Monday at Southern.

Three noted scholars of human biology will discuss different aspects of "Human Ecology: The Evolution of Man and Culture" during the three-night series at Morris Library Auditorium. After each of the 8 p.m. public lectures, the speakers will examine each others' views in a panel discussion.

J.T. Robinson, University of Wisconsin zoologist, will lead off Monday with "Earliest Evidences of Man and Culture." He is a specialist on the early man-apes of East Africa, particularly their physical characteristics.

Tuesday night, naturalist Marston Bates of the University of Michigan will discuss "Man's Early Ecological Problems." Bates is the author of several books on people, evolution and ecology, including "The Forest and the Sea," 1960 winner of Phi Beta Kappa's science writing award.

F.S. Hulse, anthropologist at the University of Arizona, will give Wednesday's concluding lecture on "The Effects of Social and Cultural Behavior on Man's Biology."

Weather Snows

Deans, Makes 'List' With 4.25 (Inches)

University workers were busy early Thursday morning, clearing paths through 4.25 inches of snow that had covered the campus Wednesday.

In addition to the ankle-high blanket of snow on the ground, strong winds throughout the night had caused considerable drifts, some of them over a foot high.

The downfall of snow Wednesday brought the total for 1965 to nearly an inch above the seasonal normal, according to the climatology laboratory.

Officials report 8 inches this year, including .25 inches that fell Monday.

The record snowfall for this period was set in 1910, when 14.3 inches was recorded.

SIU 'King Lear' Production Opens at Playhouse Tonight

Presentation of the Southern Players' production of "King Lear" will begin at 8 tonight in the Southern Playhouse. Presentations will also be given at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Two members of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival Theater in Canada have worked with 28 Southern Players to arrange the play, Eric Christmas, director of the play, and Mervyn Blake, who plays the title role, have been in the Stratford Theater since 1957.

Members of the cast include Frank J. Krefe as King of France; Michael Harty as Burgundy; Richard Johnson as Cornwall; William Weyerstrahs as Albany; Leon Bennett as Kent; Paul Roland as Gloucester; Joseph A. Robinette as Edgar; and James Lash as Edmund;

William F. McHughes as Curan; Victor L. Corder as Oswald; Macy Dorf as the old man; Kenneth F. Marsich as the doctor; Don Russell as the fool; Barry G. Fohrman as the gentleman; Ken Whitener as messenger; and John A. Farrell as Cornwall's servant;

Marta Harrison as Goneril; Lynn Leonard as Regan; Helen M. Seitz and Yvonne Westbrook as Cordelia; Paul G. Ramirez, Naggy N. Faltas and

Thomas W. Stowell as the knights; Dick Barton and Richard D. Westlake as the servants; and Leni Collyer, Marilyn L. Koch, Julie K. Engmann and Roxanne Christensen as the servant girls.

Setting for "King Lear" is designed by Darwin Payne, costumes by Eelin S. Harrison, and technical direction by Charles W. Zoeckler. They are staff members of the Department of Theater.

Single admission tickets are on sale at the box office in the Playhouse for $1.25.

At Least 5,000 Tickets Short Of Demand, Boydston Says

WSIU-TV, Channel 8, will televise the basketball game between Evansville and Southern Saturday night, the Athletics Department has announced.

The decision to televise the game was announced shortly after 2:30 p.m. Thursday when the last ticket was sold, assuring a capacity crowd of 10,014 for the game.

Eager students had formed a line outside the Arena Wednesday afternoon and by 8 a.m. Thursday morning there were more than 600 waiting in line for tickets.

"We have agreed to live coverage of the game as it is obvious that we are at least 5,000 seats short for the game," Donald Boydston, athletics director, said.

"We hope the opportunity to see the game will make more fans for our fine team and encourage more to buy season tickets next year,"

Saturday's coverage will mark only the second time that WSIU-TV has televised a basketball game live. An earlier game this season against North Dakota State was televised by the station.

Dallas Thompson will handle the play by play and Joe Hall will do the color.

In addition to the live coverage, the game will also be taped to be shown on Channel 7 in Evansville Saturday night at 10:30 p.m.

The horns that have been causing a great deal of controversy this week have not been banned for the game.

W. D. Justice, Arena manager, said he has not made any policy banning horns but hopes that the students themselves use some self-control so that they do not interfere with the broadcasting or the actual playing of the game.

The lone banner currently hanging up in the Arena will be allowed to remain, but any others must first be approved by the Arena manager.

A ticket to the Evansville game was found Thursday in the vicinity of the IGA Foodliner. The loser can claim it by calling Don R. Moss, an SIU student, at 457-4824 and providing identification.

Icy Streets Cause

Rash of Accidents

Despite a rash of minor accidents on the snow-slick Carbondale streets, police reported Thursday that no SIU students were involved in any serious mishaps.

The only injury noted in a check of Carbondale Police reports was a reportedly minor case of neck whiplash. It occurred when one car slid into the rear end of another stopped at a stop sign. Police said motorists were apparently exercising caution on the hazardous streets.

Dialing Service Links Southern's Campus System

SIU has been brought closer to the "one university" concept with an inter-campus direct dial service linking all campuses.

The system, which is available for business calls between the campuses and through university business phones only, is comprised of four lines between the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses. The other campuses are linked with trunk lines between these two points.

The inter-campus service is a joint effort of the General and Bell Telephone Companies, a spokesman for the Auxiliary Enterprises said.

At present, both telephone companies are studying traffic patterns on the four wires to determine if more lines could be used by the university.

Radio Man to Emcee Variety Show

Bob Holt, announcer for radio station KMOX in St. Louis, has been named as master of ceremonies of this year's Theta Xi Variety Show.

As creator and performer of special effects for KMOX, Holt is well-known as the station's "weather bird" and is considered one of the most gifted comedians and dialecticians in the St. Louis area.

Holt has been in show business since 1949 when he began his career as a master of ceremonies. While in the Army, Holt set a record with over 500 appearances as master of ceremonies for shows throughout Korea and Japan.

Since returning to civilian life, Holt has served as master of ceremonies of such events as Hawaii's "50th State Celebration" in Honolulu in June, 1958, and Downtown in St. Louis' "Downtown Musical." Holt was also speaker of the 1959 "Baseball Writers of America Dinner."

In addition to his on-the-air activities, Holt also acts as the producer of several of the KMOX programs.

Holt will be master of ceremonies for both performances of the Variety Show, which will be staged March 5 and 6 in Shryock Auditorium.

Tickets are now on sale in the University Center.

Academic Freedom

by Randall H. Nelson

The Southern Illinois University Administration is to be commended for its recent action in upholding the right of a campus organization to sponsor a lecture on the campus by Herbert Aptheker, described in a recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court as a top leader in the Communist Party in the U.S. Those who demanded that the University deny Aptheker a forum were, in effect, asking the University to surrender its birthright. The function of a university is the dissemination of knowledge, a function that is totally incompatible with the suppression of a free interchange of information and ideas. It is difficult to say whether the student body is any richer intellectually as a result of Aptheker's having been permitted to speak, but it is certain that the University would be much poorer had he been turned away. Judging from the question period, I would say that some students were challenged and asked some challenging and perceptive questions in turn. While many people in the audience were unquestionably sympathetic toward the cause of civil rights to which Aptheker addressed himself, and were, perhaps, attracted by the novelty of hearing an alleged Communist, I am not convinced that many, if indeed any, were enthusiastic about his Marxist ideology.

There is a very mysterious element in the main current of American thought today. The basic assumption seems to be that the malignancy of Communism will disappear provided no one, particularly a Communist, talks about the subject. History will not bear out this assumption. Inevitably, it has been the closed society which has perished and the open society that has flourished. This is the basic assumption on which our own political order was founded. It is a principle that has been emphasized and re-emphasized since the recognition of the military threat of the Soviet Union and its subversive tentacles. Some of those who have joined in this refrain of freedom must be men of little faith for they would jettison in practice that which they proclaim in theory. If we cannot, through a free exchange of ideas, demonstrate the inherent superiority of democratic freedom over Communist totalitarianism, we are in deep trouble: for we can never accomplish by suppression that which we are unable to do in the open forum. Indoctrination is no substitute for education. An indoctrinated man does not possess knowledge, for he has heard only part of the available information. Furthermore, he is in no position to defend his democratic heritage against Marxism in the world market place of ideas, because he does not know the other side of the argument. His only recourse is to dogma, thereby surrendering his greatest advantage to his Communist adversary whose mind is stultified by dogma.

The dilemma which we face is most frustrating, and simply stated, it boils down to this: "Why should we grant constitutional freedom to a group whose avowed aim is the destruction of that freedom and everything it stands for?" The answer is as obvious as castor oil and almost as difficult to swallow, because free expression is to democratic government what air is to fire, an element without which it is constantly extinguished (apologies to James Madison). If we would not be as they are, we cannot resort to their methods. Every great jurist who has sat on the Supreme Court has come down resoundingly on the side of liberty of speech and press and for those who have not read Mr. Justice Brandeis' concurring opinion in Whitney v. California, there is yet one uplifting experience in life. Even when the Court has upheld suppression of Communist or Communist Party activity, it has not been for what they have said but for what they have done or propose to do. In 1957 in Yates v. U.S., Mr. Justice Harlan, a thoroughly competent judge and perhaps the most conservative member of the Court, emphasized that a Communist could only be punished under the Smith Act for the advocacy of action as distinguished from advocacy of belief.

In another context, that is, in a case not dealing with the Communist issue Mr. Justice Jackson warned, "those who begin coercive elimination of dissent soon find themselves exterminating dissenters. Compulsory unification of opinion achieves only unanimity of the graveyard" (West Virginia State Board of Education v. Barnet, 1943). Communism can best be combated by exposure and continuous and searching criticism. Nothing could have contributed less to the image of this University or have better served the cause of Aptheker than the publicity that would have followed should he have been sent on his way without being permitted to speak.

In its defense of freedom of expression, the University demonstrated its faith in the ability of the student body to cope with the complexities of the modern world and to bear the responsibilities of citizenship in a free, democratic Republic.

On Student-Faculty Freedoms

by David Omar Born
In a recent letter to Ka, Marcia McClintock, Secretary to the Free Speech Movement, made the following statement: "Naturally, we think there is a real relation between the students on this campus (Berkeley) and students elsewhere in the country. Although we are reluctant to take any active position advocating similar movements at other universities, we are eager to see American college students everywhere taking a more serious part in the political affairs of the nation, and we feel that restrictions on speech are especially regrettable in academic communities. It is undoubtedly true that student rights are sometimes compromised in favor of expansion. We have seen it here, and offer our sympathy for the strains it is probably causing on your campus."

Southern's expansion has not resulted in a denial of political and academic freedoms, but they have withered considerably from lack of use. The strains that are beginning to show within various student and faculty groups indicate that we, students and faculty alike, are beginning to realize that in the college community, a need for these freedoms exists.

Failure to exercise these freedoms in the past has cost members of the faculty and student body many of their rights as individuals. These are individuals for whom, someone seems to have forgotten, the University complex exists.

Confused as the picture may be, the primary fault would seem to lie in the fact that in the past, there has been very little interaction or coordination among the student body and the faculty.

Since neither of us seemed to care about the way things were being done within the University, the bureaucracy was all too willing to assume power.

Growing concern among students and faculty would seem to indicate that there is a need for a correction of the present situation, a correction which would guarantee consideration to the members of the college community in future planning.

We've been told we have this thing called freedom and representation, now let's see if we can put it to use, intelligently.

Herrin, Johnson City Unite Against Communists

United to oppose the speaking of Communists in public-financed schools, the city councils of Herrin and Johnson City this week took a stand in hopes of gaining support, according to a report in the Southern Illinoisan.

Herrin Mayor Fred Henderson said that their stand is a way of "letting our higher officers know we don't like Communist speeches right under our noses."

Southern Illinois University, he continued, is a place where "known Communists" have been allowed to speak and "poison our students' minds." Henderson went on to say that "we are spending millions of dollars each day to fight Communism and our boys are lying down and dying in the fight."

"I am going to ask the American Legion, VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars) and every legislative body to ask the higher officials to pass laws so we don't have to condone them and their speaking here."

The concern expressed stems from a recent speech by Herbert Aptheker, Marxist authority who has been called the top theoretician of the American Communist Party. Speaking on Feb. 15, Aptheker was invited to talk on the progress of the American Negro by the SIU Socialist Discussion Club and the Students for a Democratic Society, both recognized campus organizations.

Special Assistant to Ralph Ruffner, I. Clark Davis said that Southern has a policy of permitting recognized student groups to bring speakers to campus if background material on his topic is made available to students planning to hear the lecture.

Look up in the sky! Is it a helicopter? Is it a napalm bomb? Is it an insurgent? No, it's Supercountry. Faster than a speeding ICBM; able to leap small boundaries with a single bomb; in normal military life, stern mannered advisor about Saigon; but where incensed by the political desires of the local citizenry he becomes the monolithic counterpart of . . . SUPER-COUNTRY.

Inspired by self-righteousness, motivated to take matters into superior hands, molding the future of others, ignoring the U.N., Supercountry sweeps into, un'er, around and through, above, over and beyond the call of duty.

Supercountry, posing under the identity of I. Clark Kent, passes through the everyday monotony of life in a large metropolitan jungle spreading the philosophy of freedom, dogmatic style. Upholding the right of the individual to practice government of a certain particular and predefined nature. I. Clark throws off the mask of complacency to assume the role of Supercountry.

Sweeping down on evil wherever opposing views exist, stamping out indifference wherever a difference appears, spreading the idea of freedom as defined by the House Un-American Activities Committee, supporting the idea of self-determination, Hungarian style; singing folk songs, Pete Seeger style; Supercountry relinquishes his superior position to once again become I. Clark Kent, stern mannered advisor, advocating a new Geneva Conference and total disarmament.

The Word, Southern Style

by D.O. Volente

Book VII: The faithful will recall that it was last week that the Spring elections were held, since the followers of Max Flicker were somewhat appalled at the edicts (or commandments as they were called) which the honorable and obedient Max had fetched from the mountains. And the elections were held. It came to pass that Max was defeated by Joshua Carruthers — a former student (from Festus, Missouri) representing off-limits housing. And Joshua led his children off the prairies and headed in the direction of the Promised Land, this being Seadale. (For it would appear that Joshua had never been to that city in the muck, else he would have known better.) Verily the children hungered. And Joshua said unto them, "Fear not, we shall stop at the sit-in restaurant in Seadale, which is called the Family Frivolity." But alas, the Philistines operated the restaurant and would not serve them.

And the Lord saith unto them, "March ye for six days around the drive-in, and on the sixth, sound a mighty blast from the horn of an unauthorized car and the walls shall fall and service and employment will be yours." But on the fourth day, the Captain of the drive-in appeared unto them, saying, "I care not who it was who commanded you to do this thing. But I would say this to you — all my jobs are menial."

And on the fifth day, a demon appeared unto them, and plagued them, saying, "Thou hast no serenade permit." And the people were dismayed. But Joshua saith unto them, "Fear not, I have obtained for us a radio program in lieu of a serenade permit, and its name shall be known as Conelrad and it shall be on Sundays on WINI (1420) at 4:30."

And the sun rose and spit morning in the face of Seadale. And the horn blew, as had been commanded, and the Family Frivolity restaurant was no more.

And the children hungered. And a stranger appeared unto them, saying, "Fear not; thou mayst obtain service, such as it is, at the Hog Cafe, the only all night sty in Seadale."

And the children hungered. So it was that the Herrinites, the Annanites, and the Altonites were subdued and the Vice-Presidents became fruitful and multiplied, as did the One Campus. (Many scholars would say that the principle of Eminent Domain was also something of an assistance.)

Will all hell break loose? Join us next week to see if it too is made part of the campus.

SIU Microbiologist To Be Honored

Carl C. Lindegren, microbiologist and originator of yeast genetics studies, will be honored next September when geneticists from all over the world gather at the University of Washington, Seattle, for the opening of a new genetics building at that institution.

In preliminary announcements of the event, H.L. Roman of the Seattle Institution said, "We will use the occasion to commemorate the distinguished contribution that Carl Lindegren has rendered to genetics in general and to the area of yeast genetics in particular."

Lindegren, who has headed the SIU Biological Research Laboratory and the Department of Microbiology since 1948, retired to half-time service last fall.

However, he will spend the winter quarters of each year as professor at the University of Puerto Rico, where he is setting up a yeast genetics research program similar to the extensive one here at SIU.

He is also consultant on the Puerto Rico university's agricultural experiment station yeast research program for the rum industry of that country.

joined the School of Agriculture faculty in January. Wahls, a senior and president of the Plant Industries Club, will become assistant manager of the Indiana Seed Certification Service in the Indiana Crop Improvement Association upon graduation in June.

Unique English Grad Program Will Begin at SIU This Fall

Beginning next September, SIU will inaugurate a graduate program in English as a foreign language.

Daniel Cook, associate professor of English who is directing the program, said no more than a dozen other U.S. universities at present have well-developed programs of this kind.

Cook said the SIU program, leading to a degree of master of arts, will be a rigorous one with a solid base of linguistics training. Extensive course work on teaching methods also will be included, along with practical teaching experience.

"While greatest interest in this type of training at present comes from foreign students," Cook said, "we expect also to attract a number of American students interested in teaching opportunities abroad."

Cook cited data from the Modern Language Association of America indicating a serious shortage of persons qualified to teach English as a foreign language. With a present national output of only 250 such teachers annually, U.S. government agencies alone have indicated a need for more than 3,500 within the next two years.

He said an undergraduate degree in English will not be required of those entering the program, as it will begin with basic linguistics training and work up.

Most of the courses required for the degree already are taught at Southern, primarily in the Department of English. Some are in anthropology and one in guidance. Some new courses are planned, and two new faculty members will be added.

Cook said it is expected that a limited number of fellowships or assistantships will be available to qualified candidates.

Hillsboro Farmers To Hear Kapusta

George Kapusta, supervisor of the SIU-owned Southwestern Farm experimental unit in St. Clair County, will speak on "Corn Production" at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Hillsboro High School.

The event has been arranged by Edward L. Voils, Hillsboro vocational agriculture instructor, as part of an adult education program for area farmers.

Kapusta joined the SIU faculty in July, 1964, after spending six years in agronomy research at the Williston, N.D., Experiment Station.

SIU Math Institute To Aid Teachers

More than 900 high school teachers throughout the United States have applied for the maximum of 60 openings with the Summer Institute in Mathematics at Southern, according to W. C. McDaniel, director.

Supported by a $64,800 grant from the National Science Foundation, the institute is the sixth annual math program to be held at Southern.

The eight-week program, beginning June 21, is designed to aid high school teachers in becoming better educators. The courses they will study, which include algebra, geometry, analysis and probability, can be counted toward a master of science degree in education at SIU.

WILLIAM D. GRAY
DePauw to Honor SIU's Prof. Gray

William D. Gray, professor of botany, has been named to receive a 1965 "Outstanding Alumni Award" from De Pauw University in Greencastle, Ind.

De Pauw President William E. Kerstetter said the awards are sponsored by the university's board of trustees and a alumni association, with selections made by an anonymous faculty committee.

Gray, who is a native of Jeffersonville, Ind., has attracted international attention by developing a process for producing a high-protein food supplement from waste plant products through fungal synthesis.

Now refining the process at SIU, he hopes to prove the supplement can be produced economically on a massive scale, a step which could go far in reducing world food problems.

Bombs Rain on Reds

Morale Rises in Viet Nam War ; Khanh Leaves for New York

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Bombs rained by the ton on widely separated Viet Cong positions Thursday from U.S. Air Force jets rounding out a week of active warfare. They blasted target areas in the Mekong River delta, a coastal jungle, and the central highlands.

American crewmen exulted, though effectiveness of the raids is difficult to evaluate and the Red Guerrillas seemed undeterred in a campaign to slash across central Viet Nam from the sea to the Cambodian frontier.

Typical was the reaction of Capt. Enos Chabat of Richmond, Calif. The pilot of a twin-engine B57 medium bomber, he returned beaming to Bien Hoa base from a four-plane foray against the Viet Cong.

"We just do our jobs," he said, "but you can see this has given our morale a boost."

As thrust and parry of the war went on, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh flew to Hong Kong on his way to New York to present South Viet Nam's case at the United Nations. He planned to rest at the British crown colony with his family for a week.

The new roving ambassador was dispatched with full honors by the officers who deposed him last weekend as commander of the Vietnamese armed forces. Several embraced him and wept.

Premier Phan Huy Quar wished Khanh well and again proclaimed South Viet Nam's resolve to resist Communist aggression. He said in an airport speech "We are a peace-loving people, but thoroughly determined to defend our right to survival."

Someone handed Khanh a small bag of earth.

"Clearly touched, he said: "This is the soil of Viet Nam and freedom, I shall return to Viet Nam."

Among the dignitaries on hand was U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, who has not always seen eye-to-eye with Khanh on issues of war and politics. Taylor arrived at the last moment with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Khanh departed in full uniform a few hours after formally turning over the armed forces command to Maj. Gen. Tran Van Minh at the general staff headquarters.

Felony Indictment Dismissed In Civil Rights Murder Case

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The tough felony indictment in Mississippi's case of the three murdered civil rights workers was dismissed Thursday — leaving 17 men facing a misdemeanor charge.

U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox, in granting a defense plea, said no federal law was embraced by the federal indictment and therefore his court had no jurisdiction.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman said the ruling will be studied before it is decided whether to file an appeal.

The charge thrown out by Judge Cox carried a maximum punishment of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

No charges have been filed by the state; the federal government cannot file murder charges in the case.

The Neshoba County grand jury had the case before it twice. Each time it was shelved on the ground that no investigation was possible without all FBI evidence. The Justice Department has been loath to reveal all such evidence before the federal trial.

Eighteen men were indicted. One of them — James E. Jordan — ranks as a government witness. His case was moved to Atlanta, Ga.

Nasser Warms To Ulbricht, $78 Million

CAIRO (AP) — East German President Walter Ulbricht plunged into talks Thursday with President Gamal Abdel Nasser after a well-cheered visit to a textile plant during which he promised increased economic aid to this country.

"You are marching boldly toward industrialization," the 72-year-old Red leader told a cheering throng at the factory.

"We have given you a helping hand already, but there is room for more cooperation between our two countries and we plan bigger and better contributions for your second five-year plan."

During his controversial six-day visit here, which has precipitated a crisis in relations between the United Arab Republic and West Germany, Ulbricht is expected to initial a $78-million loan to Nasser.

West Germany, which claims to be the only legitimate representative of divided Germany, has cut off economic aid to the United Arab Republic. Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his Cabinet also were considering political reprisals, which could produce a diplomatic break.

However, Nasser made it clear in a speech Wednesday night that unless provoked, he does not plan to extend diplomatic recognition to East Germany.

Informed sources also said that other than the $78-million loan to Nasser, negotiated before Ulbricht's arrival, no major economic or political results were expected. East German sources conceded that major financial aid to the United Arab Republic "is beyond our means."

East Germany has so far contributed only $25 million in economic aid to Nasser compared to more than $400 million the Bonn government has extended to the United Arab Republic.

Ulbricht's regime, however, is expected to gain prestige from his warm welcome here.

School Aid Bill

Runs Into Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's $1.2-billion school aid bill ran into trouble Thursday in a dispute over means of getting the money to the schools that need it.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Education Committee, put the key section of the bill aside when the problem arose and the members went on to other provisions.

Over unanimous Republican opposition, the committee then quickly gave tentative approval to a provision making $100 million available for the purchase of text books and library books for distribution to both public and private schools.

Grand Jury Slaps Indictment On U.S. Communist Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government renewed its long legal battle with the U.S. Communist party Thursday. A grand jury indicted the party again for failing to register as a Communist action group.

This time, however, the Justice Department took pains to avoid the loopholes that brought about an appeals court reversal of a 1962 conviction on the same charge.

The party's spokesman, Gus Hall, told a New York news conference the indictment is a move to silence opposition to U.S. military involvement in South Viet Nam. "Red smog, mixed with Texas dust," he called it.

The 12-count indictment returned by a federal grand jury, have specified that the party not only failed to register, but did so in the full knowledge that a volunteer was available and willing to register on behalf of the party.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in reversing the 1962 conviction, ruled on Dec. 17, 1963.

Theft of Dynamite Followed by Call Threatening King

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A burglar stole 1,400 pounds of high explosives from a powder magazine early Thursday, police reported.

Three hours later an anonymous caller told a newspaper the explosives would be used to kill Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and to blow up Black Muslim temples.

A powder company official said the explosives—dynamite and a nitrate compound — were powerful enough "to demolish any building — and to damage buildings a block in any direction."

King was to address a meeting at the Hollywood Palladium on Thursday and later was to attend a movie in Hollywood.

Police ordered tightened security precautions at both places. One hundred officers guarded the Palladium meeting.

Muslim facilities in the Los Angeles area already were under police scrutiny, following violence between Negro nationalist sects in other cities.

On Viet Nam

Washington Squelches Negotiation Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second day in a row, President Johnson publicly dumped cold water Thursday on recurrent talk about negotiating with the Communists on Viet Nam.

And on the military side, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara defended on Capitol Hill the broadened American combat role in the Southeast Asia conflict.

McNamara said after testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee that the new U.S. jet bombings in South Viet Nam are a change of tactics and equipment, not policy.

He noted that the House and Senate had voted virtually unanimously last August for the Southeast Asia resolution giving Johnson broad backing for the use of armed force.

The congressional debaters again divided, with Acting Senate Republican Leader Thomas H. Kuchel of California defending Johnson while two of the President's own Democratic party members, Sens. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Stephen M. Young of Ohio, attacked administration policy.

Johnson's dim view of any negotiating with the Reds at this time was underlined again by presidential press secretary George E. Reedy when reporters wanted to know about U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's efforts. Thant said Wednesday he has made concrete proposals aimed at bringing peace to Viet Nam.

Reedy said he is standing on Wednesday's White House statement that, "There are no meaningful proposals for negotiations before our government."

"The President has not authorized any negotiations," he added. "We are not contemplating any negotiations. There are no proposals before the President for negotiations. The United States has not authorized anybody to make any contacts."

The White House disclaimer applied also to other diplomatic probes by the British, French, Russians and others aimed at bring the Viet Nam conflict to the conference table.

Reedy reasserted Johnson's position that the conflict would disappear if the Communists started living up to their 1954 Geneva conference commitment not to interfere in South Viet Nam. Since neither Peking nor Hanoi has shown signs of abandoning its drive to the south, and the United States is not willing to pull out, in the U.S. view there is no basis for negotiations now.

Students Differ on Pass or Fail System

Caltech Grading System Favored by Many at SIU

Reactions of SIU students to the elimination of a grading system for freshman at the California Institute of Technology were generally favorable, according to an informal survey conducted by the Daily Egyptian.

Of the two dozen students interviewed, 12 favored the idea, eight were against it, and four had mixed reactions.

Under the new system, Caltech freshman will receive merely a pass or fail, rather than the conventional A-B-C-D-E grades on a quarterly or yearly basis.

Ernest H. Swift, chairman of the Caltech faculty, said the policy does not imply changes in the nature of handling the courses or in the teaching methods. Assignments and tests will continue to be given to the students.

In giving reasons for the new policy, Swift said:

"Highly competitive, they (the freshmen) struggle to maintain status and self-esteem in the form of high grade point averages, often to the extent that the grades, rather than the process of learning, become a major pre-occupation."

John R. Willis, an SIU senior from Charleston majoring in animal industries, feels strongly that the system is an excellent one.

"If you don't compete, you will take a course for knowledge," he said. "There are courses here that I'd like to take for knowledge, but it would lower my grade point. If you are truly interested you will work just as hard without grades."

Carol R. Polcyn, a junior majoring in speech correction, said she would like to see the pass or fail system used in the General Studies program. But, as students move into their major, they should be given a letter grade so as to better display their proficiency in that field.

"If the change in grading system represents a de-emphasis on the student 'making the grade,' said David O. Born, 'then I believe it is probably good.'"

Born, a junior majoring in English from Cleveland, Ohio, continued: "The purpose of an institution is to provide education and knowledge and this is being abused under the existing system."

Jean Claude De Mesmaeker, graduate assistant in marketing, from Brussels, Belgium, likened the new system to the European system and said the conventional grading system is bad, in her opinion, because students are classified as people mainly because of their grades.

"To me," she said, "there

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WHY OF COURSE I'D BE HAPPY TO ALLOW YOU TO TAKE THE FINAL YOU DIDN'T SHOW UP FOR— I'LL BE GIVING IT AGAIN NEXT TERM."

are many 'c' values that must be considered."

On the other hand, Bob J. Wright, a junior majoring in design from Chicago, is against the "no grade" system because "it doesn't tell you enough about the individual."

Martha L. Coker, a junior from Harrisburg majoring in business education and English, favors the conventional system because grades are needed for advisement purposes and to instill students with a competitive spirit.

She added: "The 'no grade' system is not fair to good students who have earned good grades and have a right to show them."

Sandy M. Tomlin, a freshman majoring in education from Argo Park, also opposes the Caltech system. "Kids who aren't working could just get by," she said, "and the other kids who are, wouldn't get credit for it."

Of the same general opinion is Fred R. Habermell, a business management major from Dupu, Ill.

Habermell said the system would take away the student's incentive and would make Southern more of a play school than it already is.

One student exhibited a bit of freshman logic when he said:

"I wish Southern had it, but I don't think it is a good policy."

John H. Huck, a senior from Blue Island, took a philosophical approach when he said:

"There are two sides to education, the impartment of knowledge and the evaluation. If the manner of presenting and the manner of testing are correct then any system will be a valid indicator. If the methods are no good then no system will be correct."

Smith to Address Faculty Seminar

Keith W. Smith, administrative assistant to the University president, will discuss "Concepts of Institutional Cost Analysis" at the Faculty Club luncheon today.

The meeting will be held in the River Rooms of the University Center.

'Learning to Pray' Is Panel's Topic

"Learning to Pray" will be the subject of a panel discussion sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship at 7 p.m. today in Room D of the University Center.

Student leader of the panel will be Mrs. Sandy Morriss. Participating faculty members are Ronald H. Meyer, entomologist at the Illinois Natural History Survey, and William C. Knuckles, assistant football coach.

Saluki Trackmen to Compete On 2 Fronts This Weekend

SIU trackmen will be competing on two fronts this weekend as the Saluki track club travels to the Illinois Federation Indoor Championships at Champaign tonight and five varsitymen head for the Central Collegiate Conference Championships at South Bend, Ind., Saturday.

Two Big Ten schools, Illinois and Purdue, will have complete teams entered in the Federation meet, probably along with the Chicago Track Club and the Illini freshman team.

Saturday's meet at Notre Dame will be a qualifying event for the first national indoor championships to be held March 12 and 13 at Detroit, Mich. Best bet for the Salukis at the big meet appears to be veteran distance ace Bill Cornell in the 1,000-yard run and the Salukis' highly regarded mile relay team.

Also competing for Coach Lew Hartzog's squad, which was scheduled to have left this morning for South Bend, will be Alan Ackman in the mile, Gary Carr in the 440, Robin Coventry in the 300, and Jerry Fendrich in the 600. Coventry, Cornell, Fendrich, and Carr will combine for the relay race in which they are the favorites.

At Champaign tonight the Track Club may also have some competitors right in the thick of things. Shot-putter George Woods will be making his first appearance of the season after being declared academically ineligible to compete with the varsity during the indoor season.

Woods placed second in the NCAA track championships last June.

It Takes More Than 5

Over 300 Helpers Getting Ready For Cage Spectacular Saturday

By Stan Nicpon

It takes more than five Saluki cagers to play a 40-minute game. In fact, approximately 300 people either prepare or help in the process of one basketball game.

And with a game like Evansville, problems are only multiplied.

Randal McBride, captain of the Security Police, was given the assignment of handling the expected crowd. "We have mobilized the entire force which includes 30 security and Saluki patrolmen."

The ushers needed are many. The normal number of ushers that participate is usually 65, all of whom are athletes.

George Davis, supervisor of athletic equipment, said, "We didn't have enough to handle the crowd expected for the Evansville game. The ROTC department was nice enough to offer their assistance. With them we will have a crew of about 125."

Joe E. Johnson, assistant professor of air science, said, "I approached the Arnold Air Society and they were more than willing to help. In addition, we have the Honor Guard who presents the colors at every game. And also we are sending our pep band of about 40 members."

William Justice, Arena manager, commented on his preparations.

"We have a regular maintenance staff of four people and a student work force of about 48," commented William D. Justice, Arena manager, two referees, five official scorers and have eight ticket sellers available. As for concessions, I would say 45 people are engaged in that." Robert R. Spackman, athletics trainer, finds that basketball is not as difficult as football.

"The only preparation for the game that I have is only to tape a few ankles," he said. "The training room is not very busy. Also there is the security police ambulance that is always stationed outside for every game."

Most of the people making comments are optimistic about Saturday's outcome. The physical education office buzzes with excitement and has one thought in mind - beat Evansville.

Dave Lee, Southern's ballhawk, when asked to comment on his preparations for the game, said: "All the players eat a good meal at TP at 4 p.m. before every game. When we are finished, we go home to rest. And if you want my opinion on the Evansville game, I'll tell you right now, we're ready for them."

Dodge City, Kan., is ranked No. 1 in the final basketball coaches poll of the season in the national junior college athletic association.

The Kansas team, with a 21-1 record, held the top spot for seven weeks.

RON JOHNSON

HERB WILLIAMS

Rates Game as Tossup

'We Won't Go Eight Minutes Without a Basket,' Ace Says

By Roy Franke

"I can tell you one thing, we won't go eight minutes without a basket." Ron Johnson lay sprawled across the bed in his small dormitory room. He spoke with determination and confidence.

The subject was basketball, specifically how Evansville College would fare when they meet Southern at the Arena Saturday night.

It was about 11 p.m. January 20. An hour and a half earlier the former all-state basketball player from Centralia had almost seen his powerful Evansville basketball team stub its toe for the first time in 14 games.

Johnson had been right in the thick of things although he hadn't entered the game until late in the final half. Almost too much in the thick of things in fact. With 14 seconds remaining and Evansville leading by a lone point the 5-11 youngster had fumbled a pass from teammate Sam Watkins and lost the ball to Saluki forward Randy Goin.

Goin proceeded to score to put the Salukis ahead by one. A last second twisting layup by Evansville's fabulous Larry Humes pulled the game back out of the fire for the Aces and gave them an 81-80 victory. It also took about a thousand pounds of weight off Johnson's shoulders.

"I thought it was going to be another Carver game," said the 5-11 sophomore as his memory traced back two years to the 1963 Illinois High School State Championship game. Johnson's Centralia team had lost the state title to Chicago Carver by one point on almost a similar last second steal.

Intramural Finals Scheduled Tonight

The Transfers, Kappa Alpha Psi and Pierce Phantoms advanced to the second round of the intramural basketball playoffs as each scored victories Wednesday night.

The transfers edged Tuffy's Tigers 52-45. Kappa Alpha Psi, Pierce Phantoms and Glover's Violators had easier times as Kappa Alpha Psi beat the travelers 57-45, the Phantoms defeated the Studs 34-23 and Glover's Violators slammed El Conips 64-51.

Tonight's playoff games will find Kappa Alpha Psi playing the Transfers, Green Backers against the Phantoms and the Springfield Caps against Glover's Violators. Games will be played in the University School Gym.

Only then it was Johnson's high school teammate Heri Williams who had the ball swiped. The question of whether Williams was fouled raged for weeks after the contest. Johnson recalled the play almost as if it had happened the day before, as did Williams who now is No. 1 rebounder on the Ace's squad No. 1 team in small college basketball.

Many things are similar to the way they were at Centralia High School. Williams is pulling off rebounds at a fabulous pace considering his 6-5 stature and Johnson still can shoot the eyes out of the basket. But now Williams is playing alongside an All-American in every respect Jerry Sloan, which has freed him to concentrate more on improving his scoring, his only weakness if he had one in high school.

Johnson has also found college ball more demanding. His 5-11 height is proving a disadvantage especially when he runs up against guards 6-6 and 6-5. But Evansville is expecting great things of the little sharpshooter in a year or two.

As a freshman he averaged 25 points last year and in one game dumped in 42. This year his best effort came against George Washington when he scored 16 points.

Did Johnson feel the Ace's first performance against the Salukis was below par? "We just started slow tonight," he said. "A team reaches the point of having one game where a lot goes wrong. That's what happened to us."

"We got cold one other time this season but came out of it sooner. We were up pretty high for this one. I guess we almost got up too high. We finally settled down though and started playing like we can," he said.

But the 19-year-old didn't want to give the wrong impression, as he quickly added "that's not taking anything away from you guys. You're able to handle the ball and keep it without turnovers and you work for good shots. You've a real good ball clut all the way around."

"We expected you to be the best we'd played. You were," he added.

Who will win Saturday night "I'd rate it as a tossup," the former high school president of his senior class said. "We might even be the underdogs."

How did the speech major feel after the Ace's first win? "I wanted to beat you guys I live in Illinois. I couldn't even live there if we'd have lost."

Salukis Keep 4th-Place Hold In This Week's AP Top 10

Southern held on to its fourth-place ranking in this week's Associated Press small college basketball poll while Evansville remains atop the Top 10.

There were relatively few changes in the rankings this week with only one newcomer making the list. The new member is North Dakota, which sports a 21-4 record. The Sioux's only setbacks this year have come at the hands of major opponents - Bradley, DePaul, Chicago Loyola and Iowa.

Southern polled 92 points this week to come within two points of third-place High Point. Evansville was a near-unanimous choice for the top spot as it collected 14 of the 15 first-place ballots.

The Top 10 are:

- Evansville
- Central State
- High Point
- SOUTHERN ILLINOIS
- Fairmont
- Gannon
- Augsburg
- Grambling (tie with North Dakota)
- Philadelphia Textile

SIU Set With Full House Against Aces

Salukis Face Power Team

The game of the year for SIU basketball fans takes place Saturday night when the Salukis meet the Evansville Purple Aces at 8 o'clock before a full house in the SIU Arena.

The game also shapes up as a showdown between two of the nation's finest small college quintets. Evansville is ranked as the No. 1 small college team by both major wire services while the Salukis are third in the UPI and fourth in the AP.

The Aces have earned the top spot by racking up a 23-0 record for the season, and they will be shooting for No. 30 in a row when they wind up their season tomorrow night. Evansville won its last six games last year en route to the NCAA college division championship.

Last year's championship was third in the last five year's for coach Arad McCutchan's teams. The Aces' colorful pilot has written a fantastic success story in his 18 years at Evansville. In that time his teams have won 313 games while losing only 180. McCutchan has also produced seven first place finishes and three seconds for the Aces' in the last 10 years in the Indiana Collegiate Conference.

The superstitious mentor also wears red socks to every game for luck, and it certainly hasn't hurt him yet. The Aces' fans follow suit by decking themselves in red for the games. But the players aren't overlooked either. They are attired in bright orange uniforms for the road games and warm up in multicolored robes which range in color from mandarin red to robin-egg blue.

But Evansville's flash doesn't end with uniforms. They boast one of the most powerful rosters in college basketball. Heading the line-up is forward Jerry Sloan, a former Olympic player who turned down a $14,000 professional offer to finish college. At 6-6, he is a fantastic rebounder with an average of 14 a game, to go along with his average of 17 points. The senior, who played high school ball with Dave Lee at McLeansboro, was feted this week by being named an honorable mention All-American by the United Press.

Teamed with Sloan at the forward slots is Larry Humes, who also got honorable mention All-America by the UPI.

GET THE MESSAGE - The next time you see this sign the message will be much easier to get. It will be hung near the scoreboard in the SIU Arena before the Evansville basketball game Saturday night. It is a gentle reminder that there's more to being a sports fan than enthusiasm alone—like good behavior. Manly J. Andresen, lecturer in Broadcasting Services, was putting the finishing touches on the sign when this picture was taken.

Salukis to Meet SMU Swimmers

SIU's swimming squad puts its 6-1 dual meet record on the line tonight when it meets tough Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

The Salukis will then fly to Norman, Okla., Saturday morning for an afternoon meet with Oklahoma's freshman and varsity squads. The two events close the Salukis dual meet season. Meet time tonight is 7:30 p.m. Starting time Saturday is 4 p.m.

Coach Ralph Casey's squad apparently has almost recovered from the flu bug which has bothered it the last two weeks. Most members of the squad were forced to the sidelines by the "bug" which disrupted the team's practice schedule during a three-week layoff.

The team was last active Feb. 6 when it swamped Iowa State 58-36. SIU is rated No. 14 in the nation.

SIU fans remember Humes as the man who made the winning basket in the first game which the Aces won 81-80. A fantastic shot with every move in the books, Humes is averaging 32.9 points a game. He tallied 38 points in the earlier game.

At center the Aces have leap-frogging Herb Williams. Although he is only 6-3, Williams has jumped a surprising 11 feet 4 inches, and this spring makes him a tough competitor on the boards where he is averaging 12 rebounds a game.

At the guard posts are Sam Watkins and Russ Grieger. Watkins, a 6-3 junior, is averaging 17 points a game and is a deadly shot from out front. Grieger, a 6-3 senior, is averaging 9.5 points a game.

Evansville's sixth man is 5-11 guard Ron Johnson, who played high school ball with Williams at Centralia. The scrappy sophomore is a hot-shooter with a 50 per cent average from the field.

The Aces play a wide open offensive style as is evidenced by their average of 95.9 points a game. All things considered, it should be one of the best games Carbondale fans will have seen.

Saluki Gymnasts Hope to Close 3rd Straight Undefeated Season

A third straight undefeated season is the goal of the Saluki gymnasts as they close out their regular season's schedule Saturday in Chicago.

The Salukis will be meeting the University of Illinois (Chicago branch), a team that has won its last four starts and has posted a 7-2 dual meet record this season.

Coach Bill Meade will go with nine men in this meet as the Saluki performers tune up for competition to come later in the NCAA meets.

Steve Whitlock and Hutch Dvorak, two men who did not travel to Arizona, will be returning to the lineup. Whitlock will be working free exercise and Dvorak will be performing on the trampoline.

The trampoline event figures to be the most exciting event with three Southern performers battling for the top spot.

Frank Schmitz, who has been the Salukis' No. 1 trampoline man this season, has been getting strong competition from teammate Brent Williams.

Williams had been finishing third and fourth on the trampoline most of the season, but on the last road trip managed to tie Schmitz at Arizona State and beat him at Wichita.

Meanwhile Dvorak has shown steady improvement the season and promises to cause trouble for the other two.

In other events Schmitz will be working free exercise and will be trying to keep his perfect record clean in this event.

He will also be working long horse where again another close battle shapes up between him and Williams.

Rick Tucker, who worked all-around at the Wichita State meet Monday, will give way to Larry Lindauer in this event. Tucker will be working his three best events, the side horse, high bar and parallel bars.

Captain Bill Wolf, who has been slowed somewhat lately by a knee injury, should be ready to go at full strength and will be working high bar, parallel bars and rings.

Tom Cook, who has been giving Wolf his strongest competition on the rings, will be trying to end the season on a winning note.

On the side horse for the Salukis will be Mike Boegler. Boegler will be trying for his fourth straight success in this event.

Lindauer will be trying for his fifth victory of the season in the all-around competition, but will have to beat the Chikas' best performer, Bill Hall.

This is the week to do something about your future!

This week the Bell System recruiting team will be on your campus.

They're here to talk to people who want to put their educations to work in the fast-growing, fast-moving communications business.

Maybe that includes you. We're interested in engineering, business and liberal arts seniors who have done well and who expect to keep on doing well.

We want people who are acquiring the habit of success. We can strengthen it.

The Bell System is where people find solutions to exciting problems. Bell System companies are equal opportunity employers.

If you haven't done so already, you owe it to yourself to find out what the Bell System can offer you. Sign up now at the Placement Office for an appointment with our representatives.

This might be the week your future comes into focus.

We work in space ...

and under the sea ...

and over the land ...
