Trade, arms curb summit talks hit snag

MOSCOW (AP)—President Nixon's summit talks snagged Thursday on difficult trade negotiations, and an apparent hitch developed in the drive to sign a historic accord to curb the nuclear arms race.

The President took a night off to the ballet, where he heard a woman shout in Italian, "Via dal Vietnam"—Get out of Vietnam. The protest against Nixon's war policy sounded through the Bolshoi Theater between acts as he sat with Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin for a performance of "Swan Lake."

An eyewitness said the protester was removed from the theater by Soviet security agents. Later reports said the woman was released after denying any part in the incident.

The summit talks produced a fifth prearranged agreement—this one to prevent incidents involving the two nations' warships on the high seas.

Before going through a rainy spring night to the ballet, the American chief executive held his seventh session with Soviet leaders. They talked for two hours about complex trade issues, and sources said economic differences may not be fully resolved during the week-long summit.

There were signs also that hopes were dashed for a Friday signing of the two-step accord to limit strategic weapon stockpiles.

Although sources said the missile agreement would be signed before the summit ended, chief U.S. negotiator Gerard Smith delayed his flight from Helsinki to Moscow. Arms conference sources in Helsinki indicated the delay was due to "some little sticky last-minute problem."

The top Kremlin leader, Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, did not participate in Thursday talks with Nixon on trade, nor did he go to the ballet where the Vietnam protest was shouted by the unidentified female.

The shout, in the semidarkened theater before the final act, was the first public incident during the President's visit reflecting disapproval

Eckert admits clearing Free Forum

By Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale Mayor Neal Eckert has disclosed that he was responsible for the controversial decision to clear the Free Forum area during an antiwar demonstration May 11.

Eckert told student senators at the senate meeting Wednesday that the decision was made after he had declared a curfew in Carbondale.

"I requested the SIU president to do what he did concerning the Free Forum area," said Eckert. "I wanted the curfew extended to the campus because I felt it was unfair to disperse students in town while others were allowed to remain on campus."

The decision to which Eckert was referring drew considerable criticism from students at the time because Ed Hammond, assistant to the president for student relations, had promised the demonstrators they could remain in the area all night as long as they remained peaceful. Nearly 70 protesters were arrested when the crowd was finally dispersed with tear gas.

Hammond, after the meeting, said he had known all along it was Eckert's decision. He said he respected the mayor for telling the truth.

SIU President David R. Derge said Thursday he could not comment on the mayor's remarks until he had a chance to talk it over with him.

"It's bad communications," Derge said.

Derge had previously said final orders to disperse the crowd were given because of "incipient danger to persons or University buildings." The president said he first heard of Eckert's decision to call a curfew while watching television at his home.

Mayor Eckert's role in the incident was not made known at that time.

Eckert spoke to the senate in connection with a proposed bill calling for Student Government to pay for property damages suffered by Carbondale merchants during an antiwar protest on May 10.

The senators debated nearly an hour on the issue and added several amendments before approving it by a 15-6 vote. The bill calls for the senate to hold a campus referendum on the issue Tuesday and for Eckert to assume responsibility for the May 11 arrests and to use his persuasive power to have charges dropped against those arrested.

Other senate actions included a recommendation that three full-time VD and birth control information centers be set up on campus and a recommendation that all future buildings on campus be constructed with windows that open.

George Camille, student body president, vetoed a bill passed last week concerning an improved campus health service. Camille charged that the coverage outlined in the bill was too extensive and too expensive.

Several senators protested the veto and called for a vote to override the president's decision. The veto override vote is scheduled to take place Wednesday.

In other action, the senate voted against a bill calling for the removal of chain link fences from campus walkways and also against the restoration of a campus bus system.

Udall says McGovern will win race

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Sen. George McGovern is in the process of becoming the mainstream of the Democratic Party."

So said Stewart Udall, former Secretary of the Interior and current cochairman of the Citizen's Committee for McGovern in a speech at the Student Center Thursday night.

Udall said he has assumed McGovern will take the Democratic nomination for president and begin a political avalanche showing more "clear contrast between Nixon and McGovern toward November" than ever before in campaigns of this century.

Udall pinch-hit for Frank Mankiewicz, cochairman of the McGovern campaign when he learned Mankiewicz was ill and could not make the talk. He centered his speech around the campaign for McGovern who he termed would be "winning the nomination the hard way."

"His extra year as a candidate helped him," Udall said. McGovern spent that year going around the country talking to people and setting up his forces for the big campaign later, he said.

Before New Hampshire, the press had said McGovern was going nowhere, Udall said. But McGovern won admiration for his durability in the early campaigning.

"Sixty days later he was the front runner," he said. Udall, who served with McGovern during two terms in Washington, D.C., listed three principal factors favoring McGovern's nomination and future election: the new rules of the Democratic Party—McGovern knew them well since he helped compose them, Udall said—his credibility and the fact that he was the only hopeful to lay down position papers on specific issues.

"His directness, honesty, brace under pressure—all these have come across," Udall said.

One important aspect of McGovern, Udall said, is that he has the ability to create trust among people. By creating trust, "he has produced enthusiasm and followers."

Udall said he is almost certain of a McGovern nomination and ventures of his policies. Some English members of the audience mistook the Italian phrase for the English words, "Freedom for Vietnam."

The President's box was floodlighted after the shout and the audience applauded. Podgorny whispered something to Nixon, perhaps an apology, and the President nodded, smiled and shrugged.

Asked about Brezhnev's absence from the ballet, a Soviet spokesman said under current protocol only President Podgorny should accompany Nixon to the theater. This was the case when French President Georges Pompidou was on a state visit here in 1970. The spokesman offered no explanation for Brezhnev's absence from the trade talks, but

Kosygin is considered the Kremlin's chief trade expert "On the Prevention of Incidents On and Over the High Seas" was signed in Kremlin ceremonies by the secretary of the U.S. Navy, John W. Warner, and the commander of the Soviet Navy, Fleet Adm. Sergei G. Gorshkov, and was hailed by Warner as a "landmark occasion."

It is the first high-level military-to-military agreement between the two nations since World War II. Details had been ironed out 10 days ago during Washington negotiations.

The pact, which does not require Senate ratification, expands upon the multination 1958 Geneva convention and is aimed at reducing the risk of high seas accidents or incidents.

that a "presidential campaign of this type has not been seen in this century.

"The clearcutness of different issues will really show up in this campaign," Udall said.

Udall related McGovern's popularity with the people to his credibility a second time. He said Robert Kennedy once termed McGovern the "most decent man in the Senate." The people are hungry for honesty and directness and credence," he said. "They want someone to trust."

Udall said the McGovern campaign is "quite remarkable." He said Mankiewicz told him that 50,000 campaign workers would be out in the precincts in California this weekend for McGovern.

"One key factor is McGovern's intensity of being able to get people," Udall said. The McGovern organization is made up of many people who have been delegated responsibility and trust.

"The organization can't be just the decisions of one man. McGovern finds a good worker and gives him responsibility," Udall said.

Wallace has minor surgery to stop abdominal infection

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace had minor surgery Thursday to remove infection which had accumulated near a place where a bullet had been removed earlier.

Doctors at Holy Cross Hospital said Wallace felt a "marked reduction" of abdominal pain after the incision was made to drain the pus from under the skin. They said the incision was made in the left lateral side of the abdomen under the skin.

Another accumulation of infection drained through stitches made when Wallace was operated on the night he was shot.

Let's communicate

"What we have here is a failure to communicate."

That line from "Cool Hand Luke" was usually followed by those in positions of authority lashing out at those who could do nothing but take it.

The situation at SIU in recent weeks, though not identical, has been essentially similar to that portrayed in the movie. There has most definitely been a failure to communicate.

First, there has been a lack of communication within the administration.

Two weeks ago, antiwar demonstrators, who had been peaceful, were told by Ed Hammond, assistant to the president for student relations, that they could spend the night in peaceful protest in the Free Forum Area south of Anthony Hall. Later that night, however, SIU President David R. Derge ordered the area cleared, ostensibly to prevent violence, such as the crowd tearing down a chain fence near the area. Ed McCue, assistant security officer, said, however, later that no fences were torn down until after Derge had given the order to disperse the crowd.

Administration officials should have discussed the matter together before any decision was made. A good deal of violence might have been avoided.

A similar incident occurred a few days later when Hammond again gave the okay to demonstrators to spend the night in the Free Forum Area. This time it was Derge's administrative assistant, Dan Orescanin, who gave the students the boot. The administration seems to be asking for trouble.

The most important lack of communication, however, has been between the administration, notably Derge, and the students.

Derge seems to be making a grave mistake early in his administration that Delyte Morris made at the very end of his. That mistake is a fear to face students in a time of crisis.

One example of this was Derge's absence from the violent demonstrations. He said that he learned of Mayor Neal Eckert's curfew, for example, while he was at home watching television.

Another, and probably the most prominent, example was Derge's quick departure following the delivery of his state-of-the-campus address. The president seems to be quite adept at avoiding issues. He did not even deliver his entire prepared speech, omitting references to the Vietnamese Studies Center.

At the same time, students at the president's speech did not create an atmosphere conducive to a free exchange of ideas. Many of them call for free speech, but are willing to shout down someone who disagrees with their point of view. Tolerance is at its lowest point at SIU.

What is the answer?

The first step toward a solution of the uneasiness on campus would be open communication between administration, faculty and students. Former President Robert G. Laver spent most of his short term opening doors of communication. Derge has spent most of his term to date slamming those doors shut.

While there may not be agreement from open discussion and peaceful confrontation, there may be understanding. And when understanding comes to SIU, there is hope for a freer atmosphere for the exchange of ideas and the advancement of education.

Letters to the editor Solving problems

To the Daily Egyptian:

The recent escalation of the Vietnam War by the President is a clear example to all American youth that the way to solve problems or differences is through violence.

War is violence, and anyone who supports the president's Vietnam policy has no logical recourse but to also support the violence of the American youth in their attempts to solve their differences and problems.

The parent who preaches non-violence and then fights with his or her spouse, or the parent who uses violence to punish his or her child is, through example, teaching the child to practice violence.

A society that preaches peace and then glorifies the John Wayne method of solving differences by displaying this example through the most effective and personally involving forms of mass media is in effect teaching violence to its members.

A church that preaches Christianity and does not openly oppose war is, by its silence, inconsistent with its own doctrine.

It is nothing less than bullshit to condone war and condemn violence.

This dichotomy between what is preached and what is practiced by our "leaders" is the cause of much of the frustration felt by the American youth.

Ralph Nader, where are you?

To the Daily Egyptian:

During the two years we have owned our 1970 GS 455 Stage 1 Buick it has become very apparent that GM unloaded a classic lemon on our doorstep. Our car is more at home behind a tow truck headed for the shop than under its own power on the street.

The car's first big problem after five months of T.L.C. was to blow an engine. After that all hell broke loose. The upper water hose gave up, then the water pump failed. I am only mentioning the major problems. There have been numerous minor problems that would fill the paper. Last Christmas day we were dealt the crowning blow. On the way to Kentucky Lake on our first vacation in two years, our lemon struck again, badly polluting our highways with oil. The engine had blown again.

After thirty-two days of repairs in the shop, the car came home clanking, spitting and coughing. McDermott, our Carbondale Buick dealer, made it plain that he was allergic to lemons, forcing us to take our problems elsewhere. To give Mayer Brothers in Marion credit, they have tried to undo all the damage done by previous "repairs", but a lemon is a lemon. Finally, April 29, we heard the familiar clanking that generally precedes making an oily mess of the street. This occurred three blocks from our house.

Now GM is refusing to honor our warranty stating that the car has been "abused". Since it has only been used for around town driving since the new engine was put in, they apparently feel that any normal use of the car is "abuse". GM appears to have trouble making an engine that will hold together. Possibly they could negotiate a contract with the Epoxy Glue Company.

So, here we sit making car payments on GM's "finest" stage 1 engine while it sits, a useless pile of metal, which GM refuses to repair.

Is there no person who has had a similar problem and found a solution? Ralph Nader, Where Are You?

Politicians become stuffed shirts

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

With the attempt on Governor Wallace's life in May, fears were expressed that the other candidates would henceforth avoid campaigning in crowds.

Gone forever would be such traditional American political techniques as ribbon cuttings and motorcades, shaking hands at factory gates and shopping centers and appearing at wakes and bar mitzvahs.

Should the public thus be deprived of seeing and touching the candidates in the flesh, the experts all gloomily agreed, it would spell the end of the democratic system as we have come to know and love it.

But such fears initially appeared groundless.

There was President Nixon moving into a crowd of tourists in front of The White House, shaking hands, inquiring where each visitor was from and asking what they thought of the New York Mets.

There was Mr. Humphrey tying up traffic for half an hour while he said hello to a policeman in an intersection.

There was Sam Yorty greeting his enthusiastic admirers in phone booths throughout Southern California.

The Nation breathed a collective sigh of relief. Then, on June 2, came The Incident at The Lucky-Ducky Shopping Plaza.

Senator McGovern, winding up his California campaign, had just stepped into the crowd to deliver the usual cogent remarks expected on such occasions, such as, "Hi! Hi, there. How are you today? Nice to see you. I'd appreciate your support."

At this point, an overly enthusiastic admirer, Mrs. Margaret Frisbee of Chula Vista, reached out, seized his hand and wrung it heartily.

And it fell off.

Mrs. Frisbee stood staring dazedly at the hand, the wires still protruding from it, until an angry aide rushed up and demanded: "Give the Senator his hand back!"

But it was too late. The secret was out. The Senator McGovern who had been so actively campaigning in crowds during the past three weeks was actually stuffed.

From his headquarters, where he'd been busy studying the issues, the real Senator McGovern issued a statement saying he felt it more important to study the issues than go around shaking hands and murmuring banalities. "After all," he said, "not one American if fifty ever sees a live candidate anyway."

The other candidates were strangely silent on the subject. The matter might have been forgotten had not Senator Humphrey short-circuited in a rainstorm in the Catskills the following week. He promptly delivered 32 different stands on busing in 47 minutes—a new record.

When Mr. Nixon malfunctioned at a rally and asked a 10-year-old boy how he thought Willie Mays would do on the L.A. Rams, and when a reporter carefully examined Senator Muskie, who had been sitting quietly on the sidelines, and discovered a button under his chin reading, "In case of deadlock, please activate," the truth was out.

All the candidates were stuffed.

At first, the Nation was stunned. But the American public, which had long since proved its ability to accept anything, soon came to accept and love stuffed candidates.

The live candidates, spared ten hours a day of hand-shaking, devoted the time to studying the facts, conceiving possible solutions, and delivering their well-thought-out positions in speeches and debates. Ever since democracy has flourished.

Monkey business

To the Daily Egyptian:

The response or lack of response on the part of President Derge should be directly attributed to his wise caution in not wanting to play up the past week's minor fracas as if it were the beginning of the destruction of the earth.

I believe he realizes that "kids" react to many things in many ways, sometimes (as in last week's stupidity) only to get their names in print, or to just join the crowd and maybe "liven" up this dead city.

If blame is placed upon anyone's shoulders, should not it be directed to those administrative persons who evidently have not learned to make mature and accurate decisions in how to react in adverse situations.

To the Daily Egyptian:

I find it necessary to comment at this time on an intolerable situation here at the "great" school of SIU.

On Monday, I was walking home through Thompson Point Woods when much to my dismay I saw in front of me, sitting on a rock, smoking cigarettes, hats off, talking to each other, two Southern Illinois University security officers. I had to wonder if maybe they were afraid of this gigantic rock being ripped off. Elizabeth steals show in 'Mary, Queen of Scots'

By Glenn Amato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Mary, Queen of Scots" is a lovely, old-fashioned popularization of the battles between Mary Stuart and Elizabeth of England. The Hal Wallis production, which is at the Fox, is bound to find great and justifiable favor with anyone who found his "Anne of a Thousand Days" or Zeffirelli's "Romeo and Juliet" to their liking.

John Hale's screenplay, which has been filmed in what is best described as storybook color, begins weakly, with too much of the dialogue crammed with historical background information. Hale seems to be afraid that one won't be able to pick up these expository bits by indirect means; everything is laid out very plainly. This is a recurring problem, but as the film, which runs 2 1/2 hours including intermission, picks up and the two queens' conflicts become more involving, it is not as irritating to those who want to opt for entertainment in addition to a simplified history lesson.

Vanessa Redgrave, eternally knowing and sophisticated, is cast against type as Mary, the queen who put being a woman first. Ms. Redgrave makes it obvious that she can handle the most romantically conceived of roles, and handle it with flavor and conviction.

"Mary, Queen of Scots," however, belongs to Glenda Jackson's regal Elizabeth, the woman who put being a queen first. It takes an untrained ear a while to grow accustomed to her rapid, clipped delivery, with sudden high jumps and rolling of eyeballs used to signify anger, but Ms. Jackson leaves no doubt as to who is in command.

The others—Trevor Howard's William Cecil, Daniel Massey's Dudley, Timothy Dalton's Darnley, Patrick McGeehan's John Stuart and Nigel Davenport's Bothwell—obviously enjoy the derring-do and elements of political chicanery that have been worked into their characters.

One uses words like "derring-do" and "political chicanery" when describing historical figures in films like this. What one finds in "Mary, Queen of Scots" as opposed to, say, Robert Bolt's "Vivat! Vivat Regina!" or Stephen Schiller's "Mary Stuart," which also concern Mary and Elizabeth, is softer and more tragic, but still immensely gratifying.

"Fritz the Cat"

The level of liberated wit in "Fritz the Cat," an animated feature based on Robert Crumb's Zap Comix creations and in its second week at the Saluki, is established in the opening sequence.

Three hardhats are eating lunch atop the skeleton of a New York skyscraper. One of them turns his back, unzips his fly and begins to urinate. This, since it is so fresh and funny, goes on through the credits. Once they conclude, the yellow stream flattens a passing hippie on the sidewalk below.

A Review

All the characters are played by animals. The time is the late '60's, and Fritz is a New York University dropout. He has vague ideas about being a writer, poet and political activist. The film follows him through an orgy in the bathtub, a chase through a synagogue, a trip west and so on, until he winds up in a hospital, the victim of a power plant explosion he helped rig.

The film is by no means contemporary in tone, nor was it meant to be. It is, perhaps, the ultimate put-down of radical chic and phony liberalism, where unbecomingly self-conscious whites surround a black and coo on and on about James Baldwin being a terrific writer. The people look not so much foolish as they do hopelessly naive. Could anyone have once believed intellectual catch-phrases would bring

Trustee speaks at awards dinner

How liberal should a liberal education be? Enough to allow a student to develop his individual uniqueness, said Board of Trustees member Earl E. Walker at Wednesday's annual Illinois Beta Association of Phi Beta Kappa awards dinner.

Walker, guest speaker at the affair in which 30 seniors and six juniors were inducted into the Liberal Arts and Sciences Honor Society, spoke briefly avoiding mention of board business.

"What is wrong with a liberal policy of allowing students to study what they want?" Walker asked.

He said the usual answer is it must be made sure that students are properly trained for the profession they want to enter, and therefore a guided curriculum is needed.

But then there is the statement, Walker said, made by philosopher John Stuart Mills, who once said the purpose of education is "to lay open the accumulated knowledge of mankind."

about social change? Of course, and therein lies half the sadness and inadvertent humor of this film.

Some of it, especially when Fritz, having seduced a lady animal with endless drivel about man's search for the truth, approaches orgasm and moans, "Here comes the truth," brings about a kind of lopsided shock of recognition. A lot of it is dirty without being witty or clever, which is something Crumb's cartoons never were. The adapter-director is Ralph Bakshi, and Crumb recently asked that his credit be removed from the film, which is perhaps its best—or worst—advertisement.

"The Body"

"The Body," the late show Friday and Saturday at the Fox, is an X-rated study of the human body. One trusts that even though there is nudity, the film, which is narrated by Vanessa Redgrave, is not in a league with "Fritz the Cat."

The press release describes it as a "look at bodies in the world today, and a celebration of the uniqueness of our existence. It traces the human life-cycle from conception to death, and in doing so utilizes photographic techniques never previously seen by cinema audiences."

To obtain full-screen, color pictures inside the human body, the producers had to use a highly specialized medical photographic technique known as endoscopy. This is a way of viewing internal cavities with the aid of tubular optical systems.

Students today, he said, are no different from the day in 1952 when he first stepped onto the SIU campus as an undergraduate.

"They want to be able to give of themselves," Walker said.

To do this education must be based upon the assumption that "every human is unique," Walker said. "That education which neglects this is inadequate."

Traditional education, Walker said, has ignored letting the student be himself.

A relevant education is one which trains the student to use his mind after he graduates from the university when he will learn a thousand times more than he learned in school, Walker said.

Students deliver Senate resolution to SIU president

By Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Six students delivered a Student Senate resolution to David Derge, SIU president, Thursday, censuring him for actions which the Senate believes caused the disruption of a peaceful antiwar demonstration May 11.

Specifically the resolution, which was unanimously passed by the Senate May 17, called for Derge to admit his mistake in clearing out the Free Forum area and to do all in his powers to have the charges dropped against the students arrested and all bail bond money returned.

"Derge did not really reply to the censure," said Jim Peters, vice president of the Student body. "When we asked him if he'd consider dropping the criminal charges, he said he'd think about it. When we asked him if he'd think about it seriously he said, 'Everything I think about, I take seriously.'"

Peters said the president's attitude was extremely negative. He said what displeased him most was that Derge said he was considering the possibility of prosecuting the students arrested on campus for violations of University regulations.

"It made me think he wasn't too serious about dropping the criminal charges," said Peters.

The group also questioned the president about allowing students to take part in major administrative decisions such as the ones during the recent antiwar protests. Peters said Derge replied the Student Senate could appoint a marshal to go around with Ed Hammond, assistant to the president for student relations, to provide student input into these decisions.

"When you get down to the nitty gritty," said Peters, "Derge doesn't say students will be directly involved in any decision-making processes. No doubt he'd use a student marshal for a window display."

Others present at the meeting with Derge included student senators Tom Miller, Owen Battenton, Judy Shain, Grant Holliman, and Bill Clark, presidential assistant to John Taylor, newly elected president of the student body.

Freighter burns off Florida coast

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Burning oil spewed through a Liberian freighter off Florida's Atlantic coast Thursday, quickly consuming the 537-foot vessel and forcing 100 crewmen and passengers to scramble overboard in lifeboats.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman in Miami said all persons aboard the ship were rescued safely by another cargo vessel which answered the distress call of the Oriental Warrior.

"There were no injuries whatsoever," said Coast Guard spokesman Ron Wright. "That's a miracle in itself."

Wright said the SS Warrior spotted smoke rising from the Oriental Warrior and was at the distressed ship's side within minutes.

"There wasn't even a mayday message sent," he said.

"The evacuation was conducted in an orderly and efficient manner." The stricken ship, carrying a cargo of cement, was still sending flames shooting 20 feet in the air four hours after it caught fire about 55 miles northeast of Daytona Beach in the Atlantic Ocean, witnesses said.

Wright said officials would not know whether they could save the ship from sinking until the first of three Coast Guard cutters arrived on the scene later Thursday.

Committee reconsiders actions

The general studies joint standing committee Wednesday reconsidered its previous action on GSA 345, Plants for Man, and GSC 206, Fundamentals of Music.

GSA 345 was moved to area E with the recommendation that the course be modified to emphasize the health aspect. Previously, the committee decided to return the course to the botany department.

GSC 206 was retained, but GSC 370, Folk Music, was dropped. Previously, it had been decided to retain 370 and return 206 to the department.

The committee heard objections to, but did not reconsider, the number of philosophy courses dropped from area C. A total of 10 philosophy courses were returned to the department.

The committee will meet again at 9 a.m. Friday in Communication 1062 to hear objections to its action on GSD 107, Algebra. The decision was made to drop the course and require students to satisfy the knowledge equivalence of GSD 106, a non-credit math course.

SIU seeks teachers' opinions on length of summer quarter

By Richard Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A questionnaire which will try to determine teacher opinion on the length of SIU's summer quarter has been mailed to about 3,000 teachers across Illinois.

Roger Robinson, head of the educational research bureau, said Thursday the questionnaires were mailed Wednesday.

The questionnaires were sent to both elementary and high school teachers, with special emphasis on the Southern Illinois area. "We are trying to get opinions from teachers in each county. We sent questionnaires to teachers from Chicago to Cairo, from the east part of the state to the west," Robinson said.

The questionnaire is the same as the one 6,000 SIU students recently answered. The objective of both questionnaires is to provide information for the University Senate's calendar and scheduling subcommittee. The subcommittee is trying to determine what would constitute the most effective summer quarter. Robinson said about 3,000 or 4,000 student questionnaires were received. "We tabulated about 500," Robinson said. "They take a long time."

The questionnaire asks a person to make a choice between a full quarter of approximately 11 weeks, an eight-week summer quarter or two successive terms of equal length. Persons are asked to list their preferences on a one to three scale.

Previously, the subcommittee sent questionnaires to all deans and department heads. Roughly ten per cent of the deans and chairmen favored the present system. About 45 per cent favored two equal sessions and about 45 per cent favored one, eight-week session.

Under a six-week plan, the class periods would probably be extended to 75 minutes and classes would meet more often than they do during the other three quarters.

SIU used to have an eight-week summer session, but switched to a full 11-week term for freshmen in 1962. The following year, sophomores were included in the full quarter and in 1964, the Board of Trustees formally changed the summer format to a regular full quarter for all students.

Crab Orchard offers movies, guided tours

Wildlife movies and guided tours are part of a new public program which begins Saturday at the Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge.

Arch Mehrhoff, project manager, announced that the tours will continue through Sept. 2.

The tours will be conducted through closed areas of the refuge and will last approximately two hours. They will include several stops demonstrating the compatibility of wildlife, agriculture, recreation and industry.

After the tour, wildlife films will be shown in an open air amphitheatre as soon as darkness permits.

Films scheduled for Saturday include "The Great Swamp," "Grizzly" and "Nature's Engineers."

Family cars will be used for the tours which will start at 5 p.m. from the Charnesstown School Trail parking lot west of the refuge fire station off Rt. 148.

Items suggested to bring by Mehrhoff include: shoes, long slacks or trousers, binoculars, cameras, insect repellent and lawn chairs for the wildlife films.

Copies of the film schedule for the summer months are available at the refuge headquarters, south on Rt. 148, or from the tour guide.

SIU Security Police arrest three antiwar protesters

By Pat Nussman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Three antiwar protesters who were sitting on the lawn of the Center for Vietnamese Studies Thursday were arrested by SIU Security Police on charges of criminal trespass.

The three—Ilze Petersons, Peggy Curran and George Krutz—were arrested after more than a half-hour of demonstrations in and around the Center for Vietnamese Studies by about 18 protesters.

At about 2:45 p.m. the protesters, clad in bandages daubed in red paint and covered in red, black and white spray paint entered College Square on S. Graham Street by the back entrance and climbed to the third floor, which houses the Viet Center.

There they sprawled on the floor of the hall, emitting loud groans and occasionally screaming.

According to Nathan Gardels, spokesman for the group and member of the Southern Illinois Peace Committee (SIPC), the protesters represented dead Vietnamese.

"Look at us," Gardels read from a statement. "We are what dead, imprisoned, and tortured people look like. We happen daily throughout Indochina. Please, remember us. Please in the name of humanity, stop killing us."

At 2:50 p.m. an SIU Security officer asked the demonstrators to leave.

Tom Busch, an assistant for student relations, appeared on the scene at about 3:55 and read from the Interim Policy for Demonstrations, informing the protesters that they had five minutes to leave.

The students started to leave immediately down the back stairway, with four SIU Security Police following.

"You can get us out of your building" yelled a demonstrator upon leaving the building. "but you can't get us out of your consciences."

The demonstrators circled the building and laid down in front of the entrance to the Center for Vietnamese Studies. Police requested that they move and the demonstrators moved to the lawn alongside the walk.

A few minutes later, protesters were warned by police to move from the lawn, which is University property, or face charges of criminal trespass. Police gave the students five minutes to move.

Most of the protesters moved a few feet to land owned by an off-campus dormitory, but three remained. A few minutes later, they were arrested.

Gardels said after the arrests that the demonstrations had served the purpose of attempting to project the reality of Vietnamese deaths.

"Somewhere," he read from the statement, "making the connection between researching and planning U.S. policy on a University campus and slaughtered peasants and imprisoned and tortured students, the American imagination breaks down."

"It refuses to believe that alongside us, the Nazis were simply crude. Goebbels could learn lessons from Nixon, and there's no comparison between the Blitzkrieg and total war against the ecology, the culture, the helpless and even the unborn. We refuse to believe the reality of dead Vietnamese people."

"We represent all Indochinese whose death and destruction our government is responsible for, for we are responsible to our government," the statement said.

Robber holds housewife hostage before surrender

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A robbery fugitive took a young housewife hostage Thursday and forced her to drive him more than 100 miles to Dallas, where he demanded a jet airplane "to get out of the U.S.A."

But after four hours of negotiations he drove downtown and surrendered to the police chief.

The chain of events, lasting about nine hours, began in Waco, 110 miles south of Dallas, about midnight and stretched first to Meacham Field in Fort Worth, then to Love Field in Dallas and ended in the office of Dallas Police Chief Frank Dyson.

Mrs. Roberts is the wife of James Roberts, the grocery store attendant. He was struck on the head but drove to Dallas after a brief hospital stop.

More than four hours of the ordeal—3:45 a.m. to 8 a.m.—took place at Love Field, first in front of the Braniff terminal and then behind the terminal on a runway ramp about 50 yards from the boarding gates.

Until Fuqua arrived at Dyson's office, Mrs. Roberts and Fuqua had remained inside Mrs. Roberts' foreign car, with him holding her at gunpoint.

Mrs. Roberts, about 5 feet tall, said at a news conference later the man never threatened her directly.

Her abductor, she said, decided to leave Fort Worth and come to Dallas because "none of the planes were big enough" at Meacham Field at the time.

Cultural events, speakers conclude African celebration

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Africa Day Celebration ended Wednesday night after four days of cultural events, intellectual discussion, informative dialogue and African-style fun.

Each year, African students at SIU celebrate Africa Day which is commemorated on May 25 in recognition of the independence of African countries.

The celebration for 1972 began Sunday with an African-style buffet. Following the buffet which consisted of African-style food prepared at Thomas School, 805 N. Wall, the Kataranga Dance Troupe and Lynn Leonard's Calypso Theater Group provided cultural entertainment.

Later, a St. Louis musical group, "Drums of Fire," presented a dance—high life and soul music.

Africa Day Celebration is designed for fun and gaiety but it is also designed to be informative for Africans and Americans.

According to the chairman of the Africa Day Celebration, Hassan Sisay, graduate student in history from Sierra Leone, Africa Day celebration is designed to reawaken the American community to the problems of the liberation struggle in Africa as well as to share the African culture with the American communities.

"During the celebration," he said, "we hope to present first hand information on what has been going on in Africa in terms of the African Liberation Movement."

First hand information was provided by three speakers representing different aspects of the African Liberation struggle. One viewpoint was that of an economist, who was formerly ambassador to the UN from Tanzania. Another viewpoint was that of an educational attaché who is a member of the Embassy of Sierra Leone and the third contribution was that of an African liberationist, who actually participated in the liberation movement in South Africa.

Dr. Christopher Nteta, member of the African Liberation Movement and professor at Boston State University, spoke Monday to the Black History class at Carbondale Community High School and later spoke at Lawson Hall. Following an African Liberation movie, "End of the Dialogue," Nteta said that the United States is committed to perpetuating and maintaining the system of exploitation of black people in South Africa. He said that the liberation movement was not seeking "a capitalistic bag. We do not want charity or job opportunities from whites. We want them to get the hell out of Africa because they are foreigners and represent foreign interests."

Prexy Nezbit, educator in Chicago and member of the Southern Africa Liberation Movement, also spoke. He said that American industrialists were responsible for the Apartheid that exists in Africa.

Frederick M. Henry, education attaché from Sierra Leone, spoke Tuesday to the Black History class at Carbondale Community High School.

Following a coffee hour sponsored by the SIU education department, Henry spoke in an informal address during a dinner for African Student Association members and invited guests. Henry said that there are many problems in Africa and "every time we solve one problem, we find that we have created two more. We must learn to integrate technology with the human personality."

"The Role of the UN in the Liberation Movements of Africa" was the topic discussed by Nsilo Swai, senior ambassador to the UN and secretariat and former ambassador to the UN from Tanzania. Swai said that the UN has a significant role in the African Liberation Struggle but it can only "ease and facilitate the struggle. The struggle must be carried on and won by the people themselves, because in the end, it is the people themselves who will have to build the country."

Swai visited the Department of Economics Wednesday and paid a courtesy visit to President Derge. He later visited the Black American Studies Department and took a tour of the Daily Egyptian.

Africa Day Celebration ended after Swai spoke on "the Continuing Liberation Struggle in Africa" at the Atucks Multi-Purpose Center.

Africa Day Celebration was sponsored by the African Student Association in cooperation with the Black Student Union, Black American Studies, Carbondale Urban Renewal, University Services to Carbondale, African Studies Committee, International Student Services, International Education and the International Relations Club.

Baldwin Hall phone among recent thefts

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A General Telephone pay phone was ripped off the wall in the lobby of Baldwin Hall Wednesday night, SIU security police said Thursday.

A resident fellow at the Thompson Point women's dormitory told police she saw about six men standing around the phone booth at 9 p.m. She noticed the phone missing at 9:30 p.m.

Jerry M. Brown, 22, Carbondale, told police a tape player was taken from his 1969 Nova parked near the Technology Building Wednesday afternoon.

Police reported three stolen bicycles. Kent J. Rogers, 21, Wright Hall, reported the theft of his white, 10-speed Turin racer from near Morris Library. Theft of the $150 bike took place between 9:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Wednesday.

A green, three-speed women's bike valued at $80 was reported stolen from near Baldwin Hall Wednesday morning by Kristin J. Hill, 20, Baldwin Hall.

John F. Leone, 20, Schneider Hall, reported the theft of his five-speed Schwinn Collegiate from near his dormitory Sunday morning. The bike was valued at $50.

A 1969 Honda 350cc motorcycle was reported stolen Tuesday night or Wednesday morning by Fred T. Smith, Peoria.

Barry L. Kodat, 1101 S. Wall St., reported the theft of about $362 worth of stereo tapes and albums from his room Thursday morning. Entry was gained by breaking a window of his ground floor apartment.

Critics see 19-point health plan as 'financial burden on students'

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An all-student panel from the Student Health Consumer Council (SHCC) heard criticism Thursday of the proposed comprehensive health system at a public hearing in the Student Center.

Most of the criticism came from Roger Leisner, Carbondale, a former SIU graduate student.

Leisner said that the proposed student fee of $25 per quarter to finance the proposed plan would place a financial burden on students, especially those with lower incomes. He proposed instead that the fee should be assessed on either a voluntary basis or else on a graduated scale so that students with higher incomes would pay more than students with low incomes.

Leisner also criticized the paying in advance of specialist physicians for their services, saying this arises out of a feeling that health care is not a public utility but must be profitable.

Gary Dickerson, chairman of the SHCC, replied that "our system is designed to eliminate as much as possible the profit motive."

He said that a doctor paid in advance would have more incentive to effectively treat patients than he would otherwise. Dickerson said that the idea of a graduated fee structure had not yet been considered by the SHCC, but added it will be in the future.

As to the financial burden on students, Dickerson said this could be lessened if the overall university fee structure could be changed. "Our position is that the $25 health fee should not be implemented unless other fees, such as the Student Welfare and Recreation Fee, are either reduced or eliminated."

Under the proposed plan, a student would pay $25 per quarter for three quarters and be covered four quarters.

Leisner then criticized the referral of students to outside agencies for specialist care. He said that for many specialty areas, such as dermatology, there are not enough physicians available. "Even if students could pay for such care," he said, "they could never get an appointment with the appropriate doctor."

Dickerson said that the proposed plan calls for the additional hiring of specialists, including dermatologists.

Black theater group will present comic play

The Kutana Players, SIU's black theatre group, will present "Day of Absence," by Douglas Turner Ward, at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in The Well of the Wesley Community House.

The play is a comic, or minstrel, presentation in which whites in a southern community wake up one morning to find that the local blacks have disappeared.

The cast includes members of the Kutana Players, students from Carbondale Community High School and other members of the community. Director Al Boswell selected them on the basis of types rather than race.

"Day of Absence" concludes an initial season of productions that hopefully will continue to bring the black experience to the Carbondale and SIU communities," Boswell said.

Admission to the performances is free, but a 25-cent donation will be accepted.

Copy-Duplicating Service to refuse 'libelous' material

By David L. Mahsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An SIU presidential assistant announced Thursday amended Central Copy-Duplicating Service policies for dealing with "potentially libelous" material and disclosed plans for changes in the Campus Mail Service.

In a "Special Report to the University Community" signed by Gene Peebles, assistant to the president, it was announced that any work submitted to the Copy-Duplicating Service "that can be construed as being potentially libelous will not be accepted without additional administrative approval."

Carlton Rasche, director of Auxiliary Services Enterprises, explained that the new policy would allow Copy-Duplicating Service employees to consult a higher-ranking official than the person submitting the material to be duplicated if there is any question about the propriety of the material.

Also announced in the report were other policies of the Copy-Duplicating Service. Rasche said the other policies are not new, but have been reworded for clarity. He said the University wants patrons to be clear on policy so they are not surprised if certain work is not performed by the service.

Earlier this month, Dick King of Auxiliary Services Enterprises said that all policies regarding Copy-Duplicating Service were under review of the administration. His remark came after the Committee to Defend the Right to Speak (CDRS) charged that they were being discriminated against by the service. The clarified policy released in the report states that "work of a political nature will not be accepted." A CDRS spokesman said his group had no trouble getting material duplicated until recently.

Rasche also remarked that individual work at Copy-Duplicating Service is being phased out. He said that in its stead, coin-operated machines will be installed in Woody Hall within a week or two. Rasche said that the type of service has not yet been determined, adding that some of his employees are at the University of Iowa, studying methods used there to handle individual work.

The report issued by the University outlined policies of the Campus Mail Service, but Rasche expanded on that to announce a revision of the service, which he called "a rather dramatic change."

The changes will include new campus mail envelopes, which will be in some pastel color, Rasche said. To send a message through campus mail, the sender must include his name and department, as well as the recipient's name and department. If this is not done, the letter will be placed in the "dead letter" section.

Rasche emphasized that the new policy would not go into effect until after an "adequate" orientation period.

One target of the new policies are mass mailings through campus mail, Rasche said. He explained that by "mass mailings" he means "junk mail" not addressed to any individual, but sent through campus mail for general distribution.

Rasche added that for any mailing other than the usual person-to-person communication in the new envelopes, a campus mail request form must be filled out.

Rasche said the new policies are a result of the need for more prudent use of University funds and compliance with U.S. Postal Service Regulations.

Status of new college 'in limbo' dean says

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Decisions concerning life or death for the proposed College of Human Resource Development are "in limbo" according to the acting dean of the college, Guy Renzaglia, director of the Rehabilitation Institute.

One member of the Governance Council for the college said decisions and planning have been so tied down by "ambivalence by the central administration," that the council literally voted itself out of existence at its last meeting.

Renzaglia said the council is now in a "holding position" until it has a decision from the administration on plans for the college.

Only four of the original 11 departments interested in helping formulate plans for the college were still working on the Governance Council, according to Lynn Kinsell Rainey, council member, when the decision to dissolve was approved.

The idea for the college was first proposed two years ago when different departments—including Black American Studies, Community Development Services, Department of Design and the Rehabilitation Institute—decided to design a program providing new services to the society and students.

Planning began with numerous discussion groups and finally the formation of the Governance Council. The overall objective was to carry out an "educational thrust in the direction of social relevance and community service," according to the Community Development Newsletter for November, 1971.

A task force was appointed early in 1970 until formal planning could be initiated by a staff of the four main departments.

Now, after months of planning and effort by many members of the Governance Council, the group has voted to put the decision into the hands of the administration before making any further plans, Renzaglia said.

However, Renzaglia is optimistic since being notified earlier Thursday that a decision would soon be made concerning the college.

"The president and his staff will review and study the case concerning the college and then make a decision," he said.

Bill Gould, design department member of the Governance Council, felt there were two major reasons for the dissolution of the council.

"Some of us viewed it as a way to force the administration to make a decision on the college. And realistically, we were just wasting our time," he said.

Gould said he did not feel the administration was supporting the efforts of the council to formulate plans for the college but also does not think the administration was thwarting the council, either.

He said he is optimistic about a future decision approving the college. However, he said, the council had been told that administration decisions were in the offing many times but the decisions never appeared.

Dick Thomas, council member for Community Development, voiced the same feeling.

"There was mounting frustration within the council over the failure of the administration to take action to move ahead with the college," Thomas said.

Thomas said the council has repeatedly asked the administration to remove the provisional status of the college and make it a legal entity.

"It would be a shame to see the college die after all the work that has been done. There has been enough blood, sweat and tears to make this college really worthwhile with more refinement and polishing of the plans," he said.

Thomas also voiced optimism and said there was hope that the administration would act shortly. The council doesn't pin the blame on the president, but felt the delay was a composite of many different people in the administration.

North Viet forces slip inside Kontum

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops slipped inside Kontum for the first time Thursday, and enemy gunners launched an intense artillery attack, possibly signaling an all-out assault on the provincial capital in the central highlands.

Informed sources said the handful of civilian American advisers still in Kontum were flown out in late afternoon. Advisers to South Vietnamese military units in the city apparently stayed behind.

At the same time, South Vietnamese marines repulsed an attack on the northern front above the old imperial city of Hue as other marines returning from a raid into enemy-held Quang Tri Province brought out about 1,000 refugees.

On the southern front, where the government appeared on the verge of a major victory a week ago, a relief column trying to reach the beleaguered provincial capital of An Loc battled enemy forces throughout the day. Delayed reports said the government troops had suffered as many as 200 casualties since their planned final push to break the 49-day-old siege bogged down along Highway 13.

Associated Press correspondent David J. Paine reported from the highlands that a well-placed American source said it appeared the North Vietnamese were about to launch a full-scale attack on Kontum. Allied officers have said repeatedly that the city of more than 25,000 is a key target of the eight-week-old North Vietnamese offensive.

The outer defense lines around Kontum have been probed daily for a week, but Thursday was the first time that enemy troops had penetrated the city.

On the northern front, Associated Press correspondent Mort Rosenblum reported that South Vietnamese marines drove back enemy attackers who got to within 300 yards of a command post in a Roman Catholic church in the village of My Chanh. The village is on the south side of the My Chanh River, which marks the government's northernmost defense line, 20 miles above Hue.

A marine raid into Quang Tri Province, captured by North Vietnamese May 1, fell short of its objective of clearing a North Vietnamese regiment from the "Street Without Joy" but demonstrated the marines' offensive capability, said one senior American military adviser.

Two marine battalions that landed by helicopter and amphibious landing craft four or five miles behind enemy lines Wednesday returned to government-held territory Thursday, bringing about 1,800 refugees with them. A third battalion that was to sweep north to meet the other two was reported still fighting the enemy on the coastal end of the defense line.

The adviser told Rosenblum the two battalions had to sweep down the beach instead of coming down the inland Route 555, named the Street Without Joy by French forces who suffered heavy casualties there 20 years ago.

On the southern front, field reports said up to 4,000 civilians, mostly old people, women and children, got out of An Loc Thursday and walked to a government-held village nine miles south of the besieged town. The refugees had tried to escape the fighting several times but were forced back each time, the report said. Many were killed or wounded.

It was not known how many civilians remained in An Loc, which had been reduced to rubble by daily North Vietnamese shelling and allied air strikes. Advance elements of the relief column were within a mile of the town, but the North Vietnamese cut the road behind them and kept up attacks on flanking units five to seven miles south along the highway.

Government headquarters reported 757 South Vietnamese troops killed last week, 2,351 wounded and 214 missing.

Explosions damage American buildings

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) — Bombings in France and West Germany prompted authorities to begin investigating Thursday whether the attacks on American buildings and installations were part of a coordinated terrorist campaign against U.S. war policies in Vietnam.

Explosions damaged the U.S. consulate and American Legion headquarters in Paris early Thursday, about eight hours after two huge bombs went off at the U.S. Army's European headquarters in Heidelberg.

No casualties were reported in Paris, but the Heidelberg blasts killed three American soldiers and injured five other persons.

Strict security regulations were ordered tightened still further at U.S. and West German facilities amid indications that more terrorist acts were in the offing. A Frankfurt daily newspaper, Frankfurter Rundschau, reported it received an anonymous letter threatening further undefined action against "U.S. imperialism" on June 2.

The letter, signed by the "Red Army Faction," said those who support the revolution in Indochina must begin the class struggle in their own land. It did not, however, claim responsibility for the Heidelberg blasts.

California campaign underway

Lockheed loan issue debated

By The Associated Press

Democratic presidential contenders Sens. George S. McGovern and Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigning in California Thursday for the June 6 primary, debated the government-guaranteed $250-million loan to Lockheed Aircraft Corp., one of the state's big employers.

McGovern, in San Diego after primary victories Tuesday in Oregon and Rhode Island, contended the government's financial backing of Lockheed was detrimental to California aerospace workers.

"What the loan has really done," McGovern told a news conference, "is to guarantee that Lockheed workers will continue under the kind of incompetent management which has caused Congress to crack down on the company above all others."

He reasoned that "if the loan had not gone through, Lockheed would have gotten a new manager. There's no evidence that workers would have lost their jobs."

Humphrey, campaigning in Los Angeles and Anaheim, defended the Lockheed guarantee, which he voted for in the Senate and McGovern against.

More than 71,000 persons work for Lockheed and its subcontractors, most of them Californians, Humphrey stressed in a luncheon speech at the Town Hall in Anaheim. He argued that the loan saved the workers' jobs.

Congress approved the Lockheed loan for continued development of the Tristar airliner after Rolls Royce of England—supplier of engines for the plane—ran into financial troubles.

Humphrey also denounced McGovern's program for $32 billion in defense cuts, calling it "a serious threat to the security of our nation."

"Not only are Sen. McGovern's proposals a serious threat to the security of the nation, but they are indeed a direct threat to the economic security of working families and the economic viability of the state of California," Humphrey said.

Humphrey added that if he were elected president he would maintain "a middle ground of responsibility with security by trimming waste in the defense system, but without severe cuts unless there are corresponding arms reductions by the Soviet Union."

McGovern defended his proposed defense budget of $54.8 billion and accused the Minnesota senator of saying two years ago he saw no reason why the defense budget couldn't be cut to $50 billion.

The senators will be debating their differences on three nationally televised debates, May 28, May 30 and June 4.

Economy looking better, say 7 of 8 indicators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The direction of the nation's economy is strongly upward, the government's leading economic indicators signaled Thursday.

The Commerce Department's monthly composite index of indicators gained 1.4 per cent in April on top of an upward-revised 1.9 per cent in March. The March increase, earlier reported to be 0.9 per cent, proved the biggest in a year.

The indicators are designed to foretell general economic movements, but their reliability as a precise measure of the economy's strength has been questioned both within and outside of government.

A spokesman for President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said the report supplied new evidence that the economy is expanding strongly.

"We think it probably will become even stronger," the spokesman said.

The Commerce Department said the April increase was broadly based, meaning that virtually all areas of the economy that the indicators are supposed to measure looked good.

Of the eight indicators available for April, only one declined, that measuring the ratio of prices to labor costs. Labor costs have increased more than prices in manufacturing in recent months.

Otherwise, indicators were up for average work weeks, claims for unemployment insurance, durable goods orders, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, building permits, industrial materials prices, and stock prices.

The index climbed to 140.2 per cent of the 1967 average. It has risen in 17 of the last 18 months and by an average of 1.3 per cent since last September, the time the economy started accelerating.

In other economic developments Thursday:

—Retail food prices dropped for the second straight month, the Agriculture Department said. An average year's supply of groceries cost consumers $9 less in April as a result of a $6 price cutback among middlemen and a $3 reduction for farmers.

—George P. Shultz told the Senate Finance Committee the upturn in the economy brings with it a need to start curtailing federal spending. Without opposition, the committee approved Shultz' nomination to be secretary of the Treasury.

Another Commerce Department report showed that while the economy is going up, so is the debt owed by people, businesses and governments at all levels.

The net public and private debt increased to almost $2 trillion at the end of 1971. The debt increased $152.5 billion in 1971 compared with $120.7 billion in 1970.

Thus, debt at all levels increased substantially last year.

Loss of privacy termed 'day to day'

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"We're losing our privacy day by day."

That's the message Jerry Rosenberg, author of the "Death of Privacy," told a Convocation audience Thursday afternoon.

He discussed surveillance and data banks saying, "We are living in a very complex age which has magic computers, wire tapping devices and modern surveillance techniques."

Rosenberg said he thinks these things threaten the privacy of Americans, but cautioned that "we can also become overly suspicious." He said once he was speaking with Ralph Nader when a student came forward and said an FBI agent was in the back of the room. The "agent" turned out to be a college trustee.

Rosenberg said he doesn't object to surveillance as such, but since the 1960's, surveillance has taken on a different meaning.

He said that during the Johnson administration, the Pentagon and the FBI had instructions to watch anyone who might be a potential assassin, rioter, protester or building bomber.

"It gives me shivers when I think of the phrase they use for protection, because the people under investigation are supposed a 'serious threat to national security,'" he said.

Falling into this category are such famous people as Paul Newman, Coretta King, Jane Fonda, Ossie Davis and other celebrities, he said.

"They even have Groucho Marx listed as a potential assassin because he once jokingly stated that the only hope for this country was to assassinate Richard Nixon," Rosenberg said.

Rosenberg said the oddest thing about the list of dangerous people, which at one time contained over 200,000 names, was that people like Lee Harvey Oswald and Arthur Bremer, the accused assassin of Gov. George Wallace, were never on it.

"The people who are unstable, and would commit the types of crimes the FBI is investigating, are too unpredictable to ever do anything to make the list. Those who get on the list are involved in normal, predictable activities," he said.

Rosenberg said Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., was even a victim of the FBI surveillance campaign. A photo in which Jesse Jackson is whispering in Stevenson's ear, was sent to FBI agents with instructions to find out the relationship between them he said.

Rosenberg said the FBI and the Pentagon then went to the nation's campuses. He said during one investigation of the Black Studies program at New York University, a story broke on the surveillance. "Of course the FBI first denied it. Later they said they would stop all such investigations," he said.

"Two questions still remain from that incident—have they stopped and what have they done with all the information they collected?" he asked.

"Statistics," Rosenberg said, "can also be damaging. Hitler used to week out potential threats to his organization."

Rosenberg said such statistics can be collected through income tax records, insurance companies, match making services, credit card accounts, schools and other institutions.

He said when he was working on his book a member of the Mafia told him (Rosenberg) his organization couldn't wait until the central data bank was started.

The Mafia member explained that if the records were kept in a central file then all it have to do would be to bribe someone working in the data bank.

"People resent this, but at the same time they are resigning themselves to it, and just conforming," he said emphatically.

Rosenberg asked the audience how many people had heard of the Fair Credit Act. Five people raised their hands.

He explained that the act allows citizens to demand they be shown their credit ratings at credit bureaus, and any information which cannot be immediately justified, or is at least seven years old, must be thrown away.

Rosenberg gave a description of a man who could be a potential threat to the country's national security.

"This man," he said, "has been photographed with known communists, he has been called for a new revolution, he has been seen talking to peace protesters, he has changed jobs several times in the last 10 years, he has an unlisted phone number, he surrounds himself with armed men.

"This man," Rosenberg said, "is the President of the United States."

He closed by telling the audience to read the book "1984" and to speak up and protect their right to privacy. "But the critical thing is to make sure that '1984' stays the fantasy it was meant to be," he said.

High illegitimacy

WELLINGTON (AP)—Every eighth New Zealand baby is illegitimate and one in five is conceived out of wedlock, according to latest Health Department statistics.

Almost 38 per cent of unwed mothers are teenagers.

Alleged Wallace attacker to face state charge first

BALTIMORE (AP) — Arthur H. Bremer, facing dual indictments in connection with the shooting of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and three other persons, apparently will be tried first in state court.

Prince Georges County State's Attorney Arthur A. Marshall Jr. says the trial is tentatively set for July 12.

Deputy U.S. Attorney Paul R. Kramer said trial in federal court probably will not begin until September.

The 21-year-old Milwaukee man was indicted by federal and state grand juries Tuesday.

A federal grand jury indicted Bremer for assaulting Wallace, a presidential candidate, and assault of Nicholas Zarvos, a Secret Service agent and part of Wallace's security force. Bremer was also charged with violating federal gun control laws.

Czechs film 'Taking Off' set for Friday showing

"Taking Off," the first American film by Milos Forman, Czechoslovakian film director, will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. in Furr Auditorium Friday.

The film is sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council. Admission is 75 cents.

Premysl K. Kralik, graduate student in physical education, submitted an article written by A.J. Liehm, former Czech film reviewer and translator of the movie. In the article, Liehm said that the film depicts, through "truthful detail," the "grotesque reality" of the Czech people.

The film, Liehm said, "went before the public, barely missing the Great Prize of the Cannes Film Festival, receiving only a special prize of the Festival." The film's success, Liehm added, was due to its ability to excite not only intellectual critics but also a great amount of the general public.

Liehm's article also noted that John Simon, critic who wrote about the movie in the "Sunday New York Times," warned the public of the movie's hidden implications. In the review, Simon said, "Everybody thinks that what they saw was lovely, grotesque comedy, but they were not able to recognize the movie's hidden sarcastic attack on the values on which the stability of at least a certain part of American society is based.

"Of Czech film-makers, Forman alone was able to break the myths about beauty and goodness through his expressions of reality," Liehm said.

Report on book rental not ready

Ralph McCoy, chairman of an ad hoc University Senate committee studying the textbook rental service, said Thursday he thinks the committee will have its report ready for Thursday's senate meeting.

McCoy said the committee has not completed its work on recommendations. The committee will meet again Tuesday to try to put the final touches on the report. McCoy said the committee decided not to release the contents of the report until the senate receives it.

The senate approved the formation of the committee in March, in unanimous voice vote. The committee was to study the advisability of abolishing the rental service for upper division textbooks (juniors and seniors).

Members of the committee are McCoy, dean of library affairs; Dorothy Keenan, associate professor in home economics; Jon A. Booker, assistant professor in accounting; George McClure, professor in philosophy; Antone L. Forneris, senior in economics; Joel Blake, junior in sociology; and Ken Walk, junior in business.

Governors State to sponsor show by SIU graduate

Governors State University at Park Forest South will sponsor SIU sculptor Benjamin Burton in an art exhibit entitled "The Black Struggles," May 30-June 2 in the North Rotunda of its mini-campus. Admission is free.

Coordinated through the Black Studies program under Dr. Lorenzo Merritt, Burton and his exhibit will be at GSU from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. throughout the week.

Burton, an SIU graduate, is currently a staff assistant with the Black American Studies program at SIU as well as coordinator of the Black Culture Society at the Marion federal prison.

The bronze sculptures will be for sale at the mini-campus located off U.S. 54 and 57 at Central Avenue and Bond Road in Park Forest South.

Graduate student presents recital

A graduate recital by baritone John McFadden, SIU graduate student at Carbondale, will be presented by the School of Music at 8 p.m. Friday in the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel.

McFadden, a native of Seaford, N.Y., will perform the recital as part of the requirement for his master's degree.

The recital, with accompaniment by pianist Brett Gibbs, will include numbers by Antonio Vivaldi, Gustav Mahler, Benjamin Britten, Karl Goldmark, Alban Berg, Francis Poulenc, Cesar Cui and Georges Bizet.

Admission to the recital is free and open to the public.

Spring final exam schedule announced

The 1972 Spring Quarter examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Some questions might develop for which answers can be provided at this time.

1. Classes that meet longer than one hour on Tuesday and Thursday, such as four quarter hour classes, should use the examination period established for the earlier of the hours. (For example, a class meeting from 1 to 2:50 on Tuesday and Thursday would hold its examination at 7:50 a.m. Saturday, June 3.)

2. Some classes meeting only on Tuesday and Thursday may not use a lecture instructional technique but do hold final examinations. For example, a laboratory or seminar type class may meet on Tuesday and Thursday from 3 to 4:50. Such a class would have its examination at 6 p.m. on Monday, June 5.

3. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination week to provide sufficient notice for all.

The following points are also pertinent relative to the final examination schedule:

1. One and two credit hour courses have their examinations during the last regularly scheduled class period prior to the formal final examination week.

2. A student who finds he has more than three examinations on one day may petition, and a student who has two examinations scheduled at one time should petition his academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up period. This period is to be used only for a student whose petition has been approved by his dean.

3. A student who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given a student who misses a final examination and is not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

4. A special note needs to be made relative to examinations for evening sections for those classes which have been granted a special time for examining all sections. As some students attending at night may not be able to attend the special examination period scheduled for the daytime, each department involved will have to arrange special examination periods for such students. This problem involves those night students who are fully employed during the day and who are fully employed during the day and who are taking night courses because it is the only time they are able to do so.

Saturday, June 3

Keeps money at home

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor William Donald Schaefer wants his department heads to hire city residents for city jobs.

"Giving preference to city residents, as long as they are qualified, makes good sense," the mayor said. "We retain their salaries in the city and thus increase our tax base." About $85 million of the city payroll now goes to persons living outside the city limits.

Apartments, mobile homes plentiful

Housing supply temporarily equalizes demand

By Jim Pokin
Student Writer

The supply of housing in Carbondale has temporarily caught up with demand, according to John Randall Parrish, Carbondale Township assessor.

"Apartments were a wide open market, now they're plentiful. Mobile homes are plentiful, too. Many are empty. Many are renting at half price just to keep a little income coming in," he said.

Figures compiled by John Yow, acting code enforcement director, show that 866 new apartment units have been built within the city limits between 1970 through mid-May of this year. In addition, over 900 other new apartments are proposed or under construction.

However, Parrish still thinks that residential housing is a good investment in Carbondale.

"It's still a growing community. I think within a year or two we will need still more apartments. The University is moving toward more older, graduate students. A medical school and a law school are planned. These older students will need apartment housing.

"Dorms are obsolete. They're going to have to be made into apartments," Parrish said.

Parrish does not think that University Housing will be able to meet the needs of these future students.

"I don't think those in the University themselves feel like they should be in the housing business. Everybody thinks a landlord has got it made. It's a lot of headaches.

"Eventually, I think you'll see the University get out of the housing business," he predicted.

In addition to apartments, 2,264 mobile homes exist within the city limits or within one and one-half mile of the city limits. Another 858 mobile homes are planned for this area, according to the survey conducted by Yow in October.

"We're just about at the point where we might have enough housing," Yow said.

Yow's figures showed that 4,683 off-campus dormitory units had been constructed from 1963-1966. He estimated that 40 per cent of these units have been converted to apartments or leased to SIU for office space. He estimated that the remainder have about 75 per cent occupancy.

There is a chronic need in the Carbondale housing market for single family homes, according to Gayla Forby, saleswoman for the Paul Brown Agency.

"There's always a shortage of good $20,000-$25,000 homes. There just aren't enough, at least not with any variety," she said.

Parrish reported that the market now for private homes is good. He said the market is normally good at this time of year, attributing this to the influx and change of people joining and leaving the University. Many homes sell for as much as $35,000 to $40,000, he said.

Bad siding, rotten flooring in porches and attics, bad plumbing, outside deterioration such as unused lumber and old refrigerators and too many people crowding into too small a space are common problems in single family homes in Carbondale, Inspector Yow said.

He estimated that not more than five per cent of the single family homes in Carbondale are delapidated. Thirty-four homes were demolished in 1969, 94 in 1970 and 94 in 1971. Many of these were not delapidated, but were destroyed in urban renewal projects and school expansion, Yow said. In addition, warnings to "renovate, repair or demolish" were sent by his department in 20 cases in 1971.

During 1969-1971, when 162 homes were demolished, 122 new homes were constructed. This loss of 40 single family residences may have some bearing upon the shortage of such homes on the market, Yow said.

He said that, if there is one main problem with the Carbondale housing market, it is price. "Many people are saying that the rates are high. We do have plenty of housing," he noted.

Mrs. Forby of the agency attributed high prices of single family homes to a desire on the part of University personnel who leave Carbondale to turn a profit on their homes. This cycle of professors selling their homes at a small profit tends to inflate considerably the price of homes in the long run, she said.

Parrish, however, discounted this theory in explaining the high cost of homes in Carbondale.

"A lot of new homes have been built. Building costs and labor costs have gone way up. Where it used to cost $15 a square foot to build a house, it now costs $25 a square foot.

"The market for older homes automatically follows, to some extent, the market for new homes.

People do add enough to cover the broker's commission. I can understand that. But not everybody gets money back on a home. I can remember people taking a loss around here.

"What happens is that people end up buying instead of building. Older homes, three, four and five years old have not caught up completely to the new market and are cheaper," Parrish said.

Parrish said that off-campus dorms are currently the worst investment in real estate in Carbondale because of their unpopularity with students. Mrs. Forby also listed single home rentals as questionable investments.

Area attorney explains tenant-landlord relations

By Ed Weise
Student Writer

In tenant-landlord relations, misunderstanding arises from what each party expects of the other, says Earl Hendricks, an attorney from Murphysboro, who is teaching a course on tenant-landlord relations in cooperation with the SIU Student Tenant Union.

Hendricks said that repairs made to maintain the continuing service of household furnishings such as water pipes and faucets, light fixtures and water heaters should be the responsibility of the tenant.

"Tenants seem to think that the landlord has the responsibility to fix everything that goes wrong in a dwelling," Hendricks said. "The landlord is responsible only for making major adjustments or replacements.

"A tenant is even responsible for damages caused by a trespasser if he cannot be found. It is also the tenant's responsibility to find the trespasser," Hendricks said.

He also discussed the tenants need to understand everything that is written in his lease before he signs.

"The law states that by signing a lease, a person concedes that he understands everything that is in the contract.

"Don't ever accept any explanation of the lease from the person who hands you the contract. If you have any questions, try to get an objective third party to answer them," Hendricks said.

"Make sure that the designated area you are renting has been properly defined in the lease.

"If you rent a house, make sure there's a way to get to the house included in the contract," Hendricks added smiling.

"Remember, when the landlord makes a mutual agreement of tenancy with you, he is renting the absolute rights of possession for the property."

Coffee hour set for internationals

An International Coffee Hour will be held on June 1 for all graduating international students. The event is scheduled for 3-5 p.m. in the International Center lounge.

International students are also requested to arrange predeparture consultations with their advisers, according to International Student Services. Counselors may be contacted at 453-3774, extension 241.

Prof's, staff will speak for public

By University News Service

More than 250 faculty and staff members are ready to take the University's educational resources and services to the people in area communities.

They are working through the SIU Speakers' Referral Service and are prepared to speak on a variety of educational topics and subjects of personal interest. Arrangements for appearances should be made through the SIU Information and Scheduling Service, which extends organizations the invitation to take advantage of the wide range of talent and information available in planning their programs. The service can be obtained by writing or calling Information and Scheduling Service, phone (618) 453-5351.

Available to interested groups is a booklet that lists the speakers by area of interest. Also available at the Information and Scheduling Service office is a booklet made available to the University speakers. Called the Speaker's Resource Guide, it has pertinent information that will help speakers answer many of the questions that arise at area meetings.

The Speakers' Referral Service is the first reactivation of a speaker's program since 1964-65. No fees are established by the University and, as a general rule, honorariums are not required. However, it was pointed out by Information and Scheduling Service, any remuneration is decided by the speaker and the individual or organization arranging the program and should be clarified ahead of time.

Spring quarter is busy time for SIU housing office

By Joel Raeber
Student Writer

It's spring and a young man's (and woman's) fancy turns to thoughts of housing for summer and fall quarters.

"Before the end of spring quarter about 90 per cent of the students who will return in the fall and 99 per cent of those will stay the summer will have found a place to live in the Carbondale area," James Osberg, coordinator of housing information at SIU, said. "Students like to get it out of the way before they go home for vacation," Osberg said. "A few will wait until the last minute, there are always a few. Most of them will settle it now, though."

Elizabeth Miller, an employee of Parrish Realty in Carbondale, agrees with Osberg that spring is the busiest time. "We get a few inquiries all year," Ms. Miller said. "But the busiest time is the last part of April and into June."

Charles Wallace, another Carbondale landlord, disagrees with this appraisal of the rush for housing. According to Wallace, the time when students are most actively looking for housing is at the end of summer. "Most of our units (trailers) are rented in the months of July and August," Wallace said. "We get a few renters in the spring but most of them come in summer."

Osberg explained that the difference in opinion about the peak time could be due to the fact that many landlords, Wallace included, prefer a year's lease on the living space. Students wait until the summer and call the landlords when they no longer have a full year to rent, and landlords are more willing to rent only for the nine-month school year.

"We have a list of all available housing for all year round," Osberg said. "We get more inquiries than most of the landlords put together. The people who go to landlords probably came here first, so we get a better picture of when most students are looking."

The center also gets a good idea of trends in rental habits. Osberg said that this year, for instance, fewer students are looking than in previous years. He attributes this to the fact that more housing is available this year than before. "Most of the extra housing is due to new construction," Osberg said. "It's a buyer's market this year, and the students know it. They are waiting for the rates to come down."

A check of local realty firms confirmed this statement by Osberg. "The number of students looking for housing this spring is slightly behind last spring," Marilyn Hisgen, an employee of Benning Realty said. "There are more spaces available and the kids seem to be waiting for something to happen." Ms. Hisgen added that their rates have been lowered from last year. She would make no comment as to whether or not they will lower the rates farther. Ms. Miller at Parrish Realty also confirmed the slight drop in students looking for housing and said their rates were lower than last year also.

Benning said 90 per cent of their tenants are students and 99 per cent of Parrish's tenants are students, also reflect this anticipation of prices. Allen Gould, a junior majoring in journalism from Chicago, said he has been looking for several weeks for a place to live next fall, but wanted to see if the rates come down when the new apartments are opened. "Prices are too high," Gould said. "With all the new construction there should be a surplus of places to live and the greedy landlords will have to lower their rents to get their places full. I'm going to wait and see."

Activities coordinator job involves much work

By David McCoy
Student Writer

Mark Meyer, newly elected Thompson Point activities coordinator, said that he thinks of all the student offices at T. P., his job is probably the most difficult after the president's.

The activities coordinator's responsibility is to schedule and supervise all activities which include movies, dances, tournaments and intramurals between the dorms.

"I'm also in charge of the publicity for all the activities," Meyer said. "Next year we plan to advertise activities more by broadcasting recorded commercials into the Lantz Hall dining rooms in addition to using signs."

Meyer said that one bad part about the job is that he has to stay at Thompson Point nearly every weekend to make sure everything goes all right at the activities.

"There's really more work involved than there appears to be," Meyer said. "When we have a street dance I have to see that the stage is set up, hook up the electricity, notify the security police and make sure the band's check is ready."

Meyer said there also have been problems with showing movies.

"Earlier this year we had scheduled '2001: A Space Odyssey.' Three hours before the showing we received a telegram from the distributor saying that we couldn't show it because the Saluki Cinema had a contract to show it a week later and were threatening legal action if we showed it."

Meyer said that he has a meeting scheduled with the social chairmen from all the dorms to select the films to be shown next year.

"I'm glad we do it this way," Meyer said. "I wouldn't want all the responsibility for selecting the films."

Meyer said that since the films have to be ordered so far in advance, sometimes conflicts with other University activities arise.

The job doesn't stop completely when school is out. Meyer said he plans to spend some time this summer working on a new students week at Thompson Point which will be held at the beginning of fall quarter.

Folk singers set for Big Muddy Room

Two evenings of folk and folk-rock music have been scheduled for the Student Center's Big Muddy Room this weekend.

Daniel Justin Doty will perform folk-rock music from 8 to 12 p.m. Friday. He will be accompanied by his friend, Lee Rothman. Doty has previously played in small coffee houses in Chicago.

Saturday night will feature folk artist Pia Raggi from 8 to 12 p.m. Ms. Raggi has participated in folk festivals at the New River in Winnetka, Ill., and outdoor festivals in California.

No entertainment is scheduled for Sunday night due to the closing of the Student Center at 8 p.m.

First Ladies eye Moscow fashion show

MOSCOW (AP) — America's First Lady got a glimpse Thursday of a field in which the Russians are still trying very hard to catch up: high fashion.

Pat Nixon oohed and aahed and offered numerous compliments to her hosts as model after model paraded before her in Moscow's All-Union House of Fashion.

But the pants suits, sporty knitwear and luxurious furs were a sharp contrast to the baggy, poorly tailored shifts most Russian women wear.

"I think they're splendid," Mrs. Nixon whispered to her host, Viktoria Petrovna Brezhnev, of the collection of summer and spring clothes. "The models are beautiful. They're so graceful."

The outfits shown at the House of Fashion are not for sale—at least in the near future. A Russian woman can come to the House of Fashion, buy a pattern, try to find some decent fabric in a shop, and then sew it herself or take it to a neighborhood tailor shop.

Mrs. Nixon appeared to like particularly a lush, hooded coat of Siberian red fox fur, but she told reporters afterward she didn't think she'd wear it well. "I'm too small. I'd disappear in it..."

"I liked all of them very much," she added. "But the thing I would wear best is that black coat with the print dress."

Many of the outfits were designed by Lyudmila Turcha Iskaya, Vyacheslav Zaitzev and Lina Telegina, top stylists of the House of Fashion's staff of 60.

BR wins softball title, four golfers place first

Bonapartes has done it again! The intramural softball team won its second straight 16-inch championship Wednesday, crushing runner-up Merlins, 12-1.

Bonapartes and Merlins had both entered the finals this year after close shaves in the semifinals. Merlins defeated Mambo 8-7 in an extra-inning playoff while Bonapartes outscored Windy City, 15-13.

The winners began the final game by reeling off six and three runs in the first two innings, respectively, while holding Merlins to their lone tally in the second frame.

Bonapartes' other three runs came in the fourth, highlighted by a solo homerun by Bob Ferkaluk.

Meanwhile in golf, Jeff Davis fired a two-day 18-hole score of 76, good enough for first place in the championship flight of the intramural golf tournament held last weekend at Midland Hills Country Club.

Davis shot a sizzling 34 in the first nine holes of competition Saturday, then came back with a 42 Sunday. Carter Notkue was runnerup in the championship division with an 85 score.

Randy Chester won the "A" division with an 18-hole score of 76, Dick LeFevre won the "B" division with an 85 and "C" flight was captured by Ray Hughes with a 95.

In addition, Tau Kappa Epsilon placed first in the Fraternity division while Delta Chi and Sigma Tau Gamma finished second and third, respectively.

First-place titlists were awarded an individual trophy, 27 holes of golf at Midland Hills and three new golf balls. Second-place finishers received 18 holes of golf and third-place got nine holes of golf.

Award blanks due Wednesday

Nomination blanks for the Glenn "Abe" Martin Intramural Athlete-of-the-Year Award are still available in the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, Room 128 of the SIU Arena.

Students should make their nominations for the award through Wednesday.

Students may submit nominations of individuals they feel are deserving of the award, according to Larry Schaake, acting director of Recreation and Intramurals.

An intramural student board will make the final selection from those nominated.

The award was created in honor of Martin who served as Coordinator of Intramurals at SIU for the past 18 years. He retired from the position last September.

Armetta takes heavyweight title in judo tourney

The Armetta Brothers led SIU's representation in Sunday's Belleville Judo Tournament.

Henry Armetta, only first-place winner for Southern, won the heavyweight black belt title while brother Paul finished second.

In other divisions, Drew Wickham and Scott Davy placed second and third, respectively, in the lightweight black belt class. Steve Palmer finished fourth in the lightweight brown belt division.

Other team members that attended the one-day affair but did not place were Vince Dentamaro, Gary Novata and Ed Kaizer.

Brewers blank Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — Skip Lockwood fired a six-hitter and Ellie Rodriguez hit a two-run homer to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 2-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers Thursday and snap Mick Lolich's seven-game winning streak.

Lockwood, who picked up his first triumph against four losses, gave up an infield single to Mickey Stanley in the third inning, singles to Ed Brinkman in the sixth and eighth, plus a pinch single to Gates Brown in the eighth.

The loss was only the second for Lolich against eight victories, and only the second incomplete game in his 10 starts.

Mike Ferraro, who collected three of the Brewers' five hits opened the fourth with a double before Rodriguez slammed a drive into the upper deck in left field, his first homer of the season.

Lolich and five relievers walked 10 batters, making 18 bases on balls Detroit pitchers have given up in the last two games.

Milwaukee's Billy Conigliaro was thrown out of the game in the ninth inning during a fight with Detroit's Phil Meeler. Both benches emptied before order was restored.

Conigliaro and Meeler started swinging after running into each other as Meeler made a tag on a close play at first base.

Cubs fall to Mets, 3-2; Cards, Gibson triumph, 4-2

By the Associated Press

Willie Mays delivered his third game-winning hit since becoming a New York Met two weeks ago, slugging a run-scoring single in the 14th inning to carry his team to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday.

The 41-year-old superstar, acquired from the San Francisco Giants on May 11, ended the marathon affair with the Cubs by driving home Wayne Garrett from second base with two out.

Garrett had singled and moved up to second after pinch-hitter Jim Beauchamp walked, setting the stage for Mays' dramatic hit. He also won two other games for New York in the last two weeks on late-inning home runs.

Juco swimmer visiting campus

Randy Giefer, two time junior college All-America swimmer from El Cajon, Calif., is visiting the SIU campus as guest of SIU swimming coach Ray Essick.

Giefer finished second in the 100-yard breaststroke and third in the 200-yard breaststroke during last season's California State meet.

Essick said Giefer is "just what SIU's swimming team needs, a good breaststroke."

The Mets, shut out for the first seven innings, came back to tie the game 2-2 with a run in each of the eighth and ninth frames.

Duffy Dyer's home run in the New York eighth cut Chicago's margin to 2-1 and the Mets scored the tying run on a double by Rusty Staub and single by Cleon Jones in the ninth.

The late rallies wiped out a Chicago lead built on Carmen Fanzone's two-run double in the sixth. Jose Cardenal started the inning when he singled and stole second. Glenn Beckert drew a walk and after Billy Williams flied out for the second out, Fanzone doubled to right-center off Jon Matlack.

Meanwhile, in St. Louis, Bob Gibson won his first game of the season after five losses and Ted Sizemore hit his first home run of the year as the St. Louis Cardinals snapped Pittsburgh's nine-game winning streak with a 4-2 triumph Thursday.

Gibson scattered seven Pittsburgh hits, including a bases-empty home run by Richie Hebner in the sixth inning.

Lou Brock singled leading off the first and third innings, stole second each time and scored in both innings to give St. Louis a 2-1 lead. Matty Alou singled home Brock in the first and the Cardinal left fielder came in on Joe Torre's double play bouncer in the third.

Sizemore's home run off Pittsburgh starter Dock Ellis, 5-2, gave St. Louis a 3-1 lead in the fifth inning.

The field of the Central Collegiate Conference outdoor track championships here Friday and Saturday is so jam-packed with world-class performers it's impossible to dwell on one event of the 20-event program.

"I suppose it depends on which event you prefer to watch," said SIU track coach and meet director Lew Hartzog. "Just look at the entries," he added. "There are four 16-foot pole vaulters, six high jumpers who have cleared at least 6-11 this year. five 50-foot triple jumpers, six runners under 13:40 in the three mile..." Hartzog continued to run down the field, event by event. See breakdown of the events in separate story below.

The 47th annual collegiates begin today at 5 p.m. and at 4:30 p.m. Saturday in McAndrew Stadium. Admission for each session is $1 for students and children and $1.50 for adults.

SIU sprinter Ivory Crockett and Bowling Green's middle distance ace Dave Wottle appear to be the only performers in the 400-man entry with strong chances of capturing double victories.

The diminutive Crockett shares the fastest times in the nation this spring in the 100 (9.2) and 220 (20.3) dashes.

Wottle has a 3:58.5 mile clocking this year and owns a 1:47.7 career best in the 880 race but he may run only one race this weekend.

There are five NCAA champions—including Wottle—competing in the collegiates. The other four are pole vaulter Scott Wallick of Miami (Ohio), triple jumper Barry McClure of Middle Tennessee State, plus hammer throwers Jacques Accambay and Al Schoterman of Kent State. Wottle is the NCAA champ in the indoor 880-yard run and has been clocked below four minutes (3:58.5) in the mile.

Teamwise, Tennessee, Bowling Green, Western Michigan and SIU are the pre-meet favorites to snatch the championship away from absent defending champ Indiana. The Hoosiers are competing in the Big Ten championships this weekend at the University of Illinois.

Tennessee (Southeastern), Bowling Green (Mid-American) and SIU (Mid-western) are conference champions while Western was runnerup to Bowling Green in the Mid-American league.

Hartzog's Salukis have won five straight major team championships this year in as many tries, including the indoor collegiates title at Western Michigan last winter.

2 of 5 NCAA champions

Five NCAA champions will be competing in the Central Collegiates beginning today in McAndrew Stadium. Two of the national individual champs will be (left) hammer thrower Jacques Accambay of Kent State and (right) pole vaulter Scott Wallick of Miami (Ohio). Accambay is the NCAA record-holder (227-10) in the hammer throw and Wallick cleared 17-4 to win the NCAA title, a career best. Action in the big meet begins with the hammer throw.

Crockett heads 100, 220 entries

Here's an event by event look at the Central Collegiates track championships which begin this afternoon in McAndrew Stadium.

100 and 200—SIU's Ivory Crockett with his 9.2 and 20.3 clockings is the cream of the field. His chief competition should come from Leonard Turner (10.4 and 21.9) of Kent State, Ed Hammonds (9.4 and 21.3) of Memphis State and Lansing Holman (9.5 and 21.1) of Drake. Meet Records—9.4 and 20.7.

440—Should be a scorcher, Mike Norman of Missouri leads the field with a 46.0 effort. Illinois State's Bruce Ijirigbo has a 46.7. SIU's Terry Erickson owns a 46.8 and Trevor James of Tennessee has a 47.0 best. CCC Record—45.9

880—In addition to Dave Wottle, there's Willie Thomas of Tennessee who owns a 1:47.6 relay leg this spring and his teammate Wilbur Hawkins, who contributed a 1:47.8 relay carry. Drake's Dave Nauman was caught in 1:48.5 on a relay. CCC Record—1:48.0

Mile—Wottle is the only performer under four minutes but SIU's David Hill owns a 4:01.9 reading and Charles McMullen of Missouri is right behind at 4:03.3. CCC Record—3:59.0

3,000-Meter Steeplechase — Tennessee's Doug Brown has the 10th fastest time in the nation in this event—8:45.0. Steve Stintzi of Western Michigan also has been under 9 minutes. CCC Record—8:42.0

Three-Mile—Gary Harris of Western Michigan rates as the pre-meet favorite with his 13:31.0. Twelve others in the field have qualified for the NCAA meet with sub-14-minute times including SIU's Dave Hill (13:35.9). CCC Record—13:29.4

Six-Mile—Bowling Green's Steve Danforth has toured the 24-lapper in 28:38.2 this year and Brown of Tennessee has a 28:42.0. Eleven others are under the NCAA standard of 29:50.0. CCC Record—28:37.0

120-High Hurdles—One of the meet's tightest events. Consider Adeola Abovade-Cole (Illinois State) 13.6, Bill High (Tennessee) 13.7, Pete Mattina (Tennessee) 13.8 and Dan Jacques (Northern Illinois) 13.9. High is the defending champion and CCC record holder—13.5.

440 Intermediate Hurdles—Shapes up as another great race. Carl Wood of Richmond owns at 51.0. Three others have stepped the distance in 52.5 or under. CCC Record—50.7

Shot Put—Northern Illinois has a pole man in this event, Rich Rider (60-7) and George Tyms (60-3). Several others are capable of exceeding the CCC mark of 59-8½.

Discus—Barry Fishler of Toledo has the best heave in this event by four feet—173-8. Al Schoterman of Kent State has lurched the platter 169-5. Bilder also is a threat here. CCC Record—188-2

Hammer—Schoterman and teammate Jacques Accambay are the nation's two best collegians in this weight event. Schoterman has a 224-4½ effort and Accambay is right behind with a 223-3½. Accambay is the NCAA record-holder (227-10) and the defending CCC champ. CCC Record—212-1

Javelin—Another defending CCC champ, Rick Dowsell of Ohio has a season's best of 256-1. His competition will come from Danny Martin of Tennessee (245-0) and Dennis Leone of Bowling Green (230-10). CCC Record—266-6

Pole Vault—Scott Wallick of Miami (Ohio) is among the nation's best here. A former NCAA indoor champ, Wallick has cleared 17-4 outdoors. He is the defending CCC champ.

High Jump—Steve Cooksey of Indiana State, Eugene Hansbrough of Missouri and Mike Bernard of SIU are 7-footers. Gary Cameron of Miami (Ohio) and Bill Hancock of SIU are right behind at 6-11. CCC Record—7-1¾

Long Jump—A strong event. Tommy Haynes of Middle Tennessee heads the list of five 25-footers with his 25-11 best. Others are Charles Geter of Tennessee, Greer Radcliff of Tennessee, Kim Bellis of Arkansas State and Bill Hancock of SIU. CCC Record—25-9

Triple Jump—Haynes (51-11), Middle Tennessee teammate Barry McClure (52-3), and SIU's Jim Harris (51-8½) will be flirting with the CCC record of 52-1½. McClure is the defending champion.

440 and Mile Relays—Southern Illinois (40.1), winner of the Kansas Relays, and Tennessee (40.1) are tops in the short relay. The Salukis' 3:09.0 clocking in the mile relay is three seconds faster than Tennessee, Middle Tennessee and Murray State.

NBA all-stars slip by ABA, 106-104

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP)—The National Basketball Association, sparked by John Havlicek and Bob Lanier, rallied from a 19-point deficit and beat the American Basketball Association 106-104 Thursday night at the Nassau Coliseum in the second All-Star game between the leagues.

It was the NBA's second victory against the ABA. Last year, the NBA won 125-120 at the Houston Astrodome. This time, the ABA, led by Donnie Freeman of Dallas, Artis Gilmore of Kentucky and Julius Erving of Virginia, bolted to a 49-30 lead midway through the second quarter.

The NBA then stormed back and scored 15 consecutive points, cutting the deficit to 49-45.

The NBA finally went ahead for good midway through the third period when Boston's Havlicek hit a jump for a 75-74 advantage.

Detroit's Lanier, named the game's Most Valuable Player, followed with a hook shot and the older league went on to build its lead to a high of eight points (95-87) in the fourth quarter.

The ABA closed the gap to one point (105-104) when Rick Barry of the New York Nets connected for the game's only three-point field goal in the closing seconds.

Archie Clark of Baltimore added the final point, making one of two free throws with four seconds left. The ABA then got a final shot, but missed.

Havlicek, the leading scorer in Boston Celtic history, led the balanced winner's scoring with 17 points.

Antoine named athlete of year

Lionel Antoine has been named SIU's athlete of the year.

The football standout received the Henry Hinkley Award for the honor at Southern's all-sports banquet Wednesday night.

The Mississippi native—who was the NFL Chicago Bear's No. 1 draft choice this year—was chosen as Southern's outstanding athlete by vote of all lettermen from the University's 11 varsity sports.
