Faculty asked to give to McFarlin fund

By Robert Green
Staff Writer

The Harold McFarlin Heart Transplant Committee is requesting that faculty and staff pitch in for "Mac" by donating 10 percent of their 3 percent salary increase, scheduled for May 1, to the transplant fund.

Committee members said Tuesday that the fund-raising drive has raised $38,900 of the $40,000 down-payment needed before McFarlin can fly to the Stanford University Medical Center for the operation, which costs a total of $80,000.

Committee spokesman Robert Gold said that if the fund drive can keep rolling, McFarlin should be en route to California by May 15.

But because no date is too near for McFarlin, an SIUC history professor with terminal heart disease, his friends on the committee are hoping that faculty and staff can once again pass the hat around.

"We have all waited a long time for our salary increases," said Gold, a faculty member in history, "but we have the time to wait. Harold has no time to wait for anything. He'll either get the transplant in the near future or die. The committee asks that you help and contribute one last time."

The small, informal committee of McFarlin's friends and colleagues has met regularly to coordinate much of the two-month-old communitywide fund drive.

A wide variety of fund-raising events from benefit basketball games to bingo nights — have helped the cause in the past two months, and committee members are hoping that upcoming events will put McFarlin on the plane to California by the end of the semester.

An event about which committee members are especially hopeful is a "Town and Gown Cocktail Party and Art Auction" from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Carbondale Holiday Inn.

The party will feature the jazz music of Gus Pappelis and complimentary drinks and hors d'oeuvres will be provided. The donation is $25 per couple and tickets are available at the ticket office in the Student Center and from the chambers of commerce of Carbondale and Murphysboro.

The art auction will feature art works donated by School of Art faculty, including works by Brent Kington and Herbert Fink. Proceeds will go to the McFarlin fund and also to Sherwood Fehm, an associate professor in art now hospitalized in Chicago with a serious heart ailment.

Hangar 9, 511 S. Illinois Ave., will be the scene of a benefit for McFarlin from 8 p.m. to closing on Sunday. Featured bands are Gus Pappelis and The New Doctor Bombay. An auction of prizes donated by local merchants will also be held. Admission is a $2.50 donation.

McDonald's, 817 S. Illinois Ave., will help McFarlin with a "Buy a Mac for Mac" day. Fifty cents from the sale of every Big Mac hamburger sold this Saturday will be donated to the McFarlin fund.

The Inter-Greek Council will announce the winners of their campus contest for McFarlin in a drawing at 4 p.m. Friday near the ride board in the Student Center. The Greeks have sold contest tickets at that location for the past three weeks. Inter-Fraternity Council President Dan Nadler said tickets will also be sold Thursday and Friday.

First prize will be a Univega Nuovo Sport bicycle worth $250.

Reagan urges boost in aid to El Salvador

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan urged the nation and a skeptical Congress on Wednesday night to embrace his Central America program on grounds that the United States has "a vital interest, a moral duty and a solemn responsibility" to protect the region from leftist revolution.

In a rare address to a joint session of Congress, Reagan said "I say to you that tonight there can be no question: the national security of all the Americas is at stake in Central America."

"If we cannot defend ourselves there," said Reagan, "we cannot expect to prevail elsewhere. Our credibility would collapse, our alliances would crumble, and the safety of our homeland would be put at jeopardy."

Reagan's nationally broadcast address was primarily an attempt to salvage a proposed $110 million in U.S. aid for the besieged regime in El Salvador. Congress so far has balked over all but $30 million of that.

But Reagan pressed Congress to approve his full request for aid for all of Central America, totaling about $600 million for 1984. "That is less than one-tenth of what Americans will spend this year on coin-operated video games," the president said.

"What the administration is asking for on behalf of freedom in Central America is so small, so minimal — considering what is at stake," he added.

Reagan said the Caribbean Basin region is "a magnet for adventurism" primarily sponsored by the Soviet Union and Cuba. "If the Nazis during World War II and the Soviets today could recognize the Caribbean and Central America as vital to our interests, should not we also?" he asked.

Reagan noted the seizure in Brazil of four Libyan cargo planes loaded with arms enroute to Nicaragua, and said "violence has been Nicaragua's most important export to the world."

In a warmup for the prime-time speech, Reagan told a newspaper publishers' meeting in New York that Americans are not accustomed "to worrying about possibly a military threat in our own hemisphere. We've almost taken for granted the friendly, independent neighbors that we have."

But "We can no longer ignore that there's a fire started and burning in our front yard," he told the newspaper executives.

Compromise posed at state pension plan

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — State Senate leaders said Wednesday they may have found a way to win approval of Governor Thompson's request to cut state pension contributions in his drive to avoid a deficit.

Democratic Senate President Philip Rock and Republican leader James "Pate" Philip said the compromise would make it clear the state intends to repay the retirement systems, with 6 percent interest.

And they hoped resistance would wane by the time the issue faces a Senate vote, expected Thursday.

Thompson's budget director, meanwhile, came out against a plan being offered quietly by Republican senators as an alternative to the governor's $1.6 billion income tax increase proposal.

On the pension cuts, Thompson had wanted to trim $85 million from the state's share of five public retirement systems. The cuts would not affect checks to pensioners this year.

Even with the compromise, the Illinois Education Association, a teachers' union, said it will continue to fight the cuts.

The move is part of Thompson's three-pronged strategy to avoid a deficit this fiscal year, ending June 30. The red ink looms because state tax revenues are $340 million below authorized spending.

To close the gap between spending and tax collections, Thompson proposed the pension cuts, $189 million in short-term borrowing from banks and dipping into the treasury's cash reserve by $37 million.

But because of lawmakers' resistance to the pension cuts, the state already has made $14 million in contributions. That means only $71 million remains available for cutting.

On the income tax, Robert Mandeville, Thompson's budget director, said the Senate Republicans' alternative would not raise enough money.

The GOP plan, by Sen. Jack

Schaffer of Crystal Lake, would raise the state's personal and corporate income tax rates for two years. It would raise less than $800 million in new revenue in the fiscal year starting July 1.

"From my perspective, it is not acceptable," Mandeville said. "It raises the tax for too short a period of time and there's not enough money."

Mandeville made the comments while taping "Illinois Press," a public television show produced by the University of Illinois' WILL-TV. The show was taped in Springfield for airing later.

Mandeville also said April income tax collections fell $40 million below estimates.

Academic priorities list not in elimination order

By Vicki Olgeaty
Staff Writer

Programs that were listed at the tail end of a summary of recommendations for program maintenance made by the Committee on Academic Priorities won't necessarily be the next on the chopping block.

The summary, which was released last week with the committee report, reflected only the general levels of voting support by the 19 voting-committee members, according to Marvin Kleinau, committee chairman.

"You can't really tell from the summary how well thought of you were as a program," Kleinau said Wednesday. "Programs in the bottom half of the list may have received the same number of votes as programs in the top half."

The committee report recommended one fate — either enhancement, maintenance, reduction or elimination — for the nearly 200 University programs that generate degrees and receive state funding, and those recommendations were summarized for committee members.

The committee didn't intend, however, for the summary to be a part of its official report, Kleinau said.

"The report of the committee consists of only the document which identifies the classification for each program," Kleinau said Wednesday. "That was all the committee anticipated would be released to the general public."

The Daily Egyptian and the SIU-Courier both published reports on the summary last Friday from information released by the administration. Kleinau stated in a news release that it was understandable that the University administration assumed the summary was an official part of the report.

"The error in transmission control is totally and clearly mine," he stated.

Kleinau stated that he hoped the summary would not be seen

Security interests keep troops from withdrawing, Begin says

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz embarked on his first attempt at shuttle diplomacy Wednesday and heard Israel's explanation of why it is not ready to withdraw all its troops from Lebanon.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin told him Israel's security interests must be protected in any agreement on the withdrawal of foreign troops from southern Lebanon, Begin's spokesman Uri Porat told reporters.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir told Shultz the Lebanese army can't do the job, Israel wants no foreign peacekeeping troops on its borders, and that it demands some Israeli troops remain in southern Lebanon on joint patrol with Lebanese soldiers, a senior Israeli official said.

The official said Shamir also discussed Israel's insistence on putting security in southern Lebanon in the hands of Maj. Saad Haddad, who quit the Lebanese army and commands a militia in southern Lebanon that was armed and trained by Israel.

The deadlock facing Shultz was underlined in Beirut, where the Lebanese Parliament after a two-day secret debate voted unanimous support of President Amin Gemayel's rejection of any form of Israeli military presence in southern Lebanon. It also endorsed his refusal to take Haddad back into the Lebanese army and put him in command of a 25-mile-deep buffer zone north of the Israeli border.

Shultz on his arrival from Cairo made clear he expects Israel's leaders to agree to withdraw all their troops from Lebanon and drop their demand for a military presence there.

"Our immediate task is bringing peace to Lebanon, restoring Lebanese sovereignty, withdrawing all foreign forces and ensuring peace and security" on the Israeli-Lebanese border, he said.

"The key here is the withdrawal of all foreign forces," he said. "Any arrangement that falls short of that is not going to be the basis for a Syrian troop withdrawal."

He conceded that "a number of difficult issues remain" but said, "so much has already been accomplished in this negotiation that none of us can allow it to fail."

Auto insurance bill passes House

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Motorists would have to carry auto insurance or risk hefty fines and the loss of their licenses under legislation endorsed Wednesday by the Illinois House. The House voted 66-43 in favor of the measure, sponsored by Rep. Alired Roman, D-Chicago.

The plan represents a compromise between key House Democrats and Republican Secretary of State Jim Edgar. Edgar and his challenger in the November election — then state Treasurer Jerome Costantino — sponsored rival mandatory auto insurance plans last spring.

Program to aid jobless miners

By the Associated Press

A program to help fill the bellies of jobless United Mine Workers of America members whose unemployment benefits have expired is being organized in 74 Illinois counties.

About a third of the 5,000 laid-off miners in Illinois' District 12 have exhausted their benefits, said Mark Brothers of Harrisburg, an unemployed miner in charge of the food-giveaway program in southeastern Illinois.

In most areas of the state, the program is still in the planning stages. Brothers said he hopes to have the food pantry open in his region within the next few weeks.

Board conducting Energy inquiry

ENERGY (AP) — The Illinois State Board of Elections is conducting an inquiry into alleged voting irregularities, including a report that a candidate was also an election judge, a board spokesman said Wednesday.

Don Schultz, director of the board's elections operations division, said investigators visited this Williamson County town on Tuesday after receiving complaints about voting in the April 12 municipal election.

Job prospects expected to improve

WASHINGTON (AP) — Productivity in non-farm business rose at an annual rate of 4.8 percent in the first quarter, the best showing in two years and a fair sign of eventual improvement in the job market.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Wednesday that productivity, excluding agriculture, grew at its fastest quarterly pace in two years. The seasonally adjusted indicator had risen only 0.4 percent in the fourth quarter of 1982.

Private economists said the improving productivity performance could ultimately enhance job prospects for the nation's 11.4 million unemployed.

Murphysboro aids Women's Center

The Carbondale Women's Center was awarded $2,500 for fiscal year 1983 by the Murphysboro City Council Tuesday night to help alleviate the impact of state funding cuts.

The council approved the full amount of the request made by the budget committee with a vote of 7 to 2, Mayor Sydney Appleton said Wednesday.

"They have done a considerable amount of assistance to the City of Murphysboro and the council felt the project should be assisted," Appleton said.

The funding is to be used for the shelter program, according to Genevieve Houghton, director of the shelter. The shelter program provides abused and battered women and children with temporary housing and counseling. The program also helps these women and children apply for public aid and obtain police protection if needed, Houghton said.

"We had not previously requested money from Murphysboro because we didn't need it as much before the funding cuts at the state level," Houghton said.

The Women's Center received $10,000 from Carbondale for fiscal year 1983.

Local office burglarized

Over $2,000 worth of property was reported stolen from the Office in the Park, 1111 E. Walnut St., between 4:30 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, Carbondale police said.

The office is occupied by John T. Canton & Associates. An answering recorder, two cabinets, a brief case, and a teletype computer were reported missing.

The property was valued at $2,330. Police said they have no suspects.

Funeral set for former faculty member

A funeral mass will be held at 10 a.m. Friday for Elizabeth (Hap) Meehan, a longtime SIUC faculty member who died Tuesday at Carbondale Memorial Hospital.

The mass will be at St. Francis Xavier Church, 303 S. Poplar.

Mrs. Meehan, emeritus instructor in the College of Education, taught at the old University School. She retired in 1965 after 28 years as a faculty member.

She was born June 9, 1897, in Chicopee, Mass., and is a graduate of SIUC. She earned a master's degree from the University of Illinois in 1938.

Mrs. Meehan was a co-founder of the Newman Center on campus.

In November she was honored by the establishment of an annual award in her name by the College of Education.

A resident of Styrest Nursing Home for several years, she is survived by her son, W.F. Meehan of Cairo, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery in Carbondale. Arrangements are being handled by Huffman Funeral Home.

as meaningful to anyone but the committee members. He said that "without having access to the actual votes cast for each program, it is impossible to understand just how well supported programs were from top to bottom within classification."

"Only the committee members have that information."

Kleinau said he noticed concern created by the summary immediately after the report was released when a professor mentioned that his program was No. 25 on the maintenance list.

"The summary is not part of the report and doesn't reflect the ranking of the programs," Kleinau said.

Beg your pardon

It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian that the Faculty Senate-approved plan for individual salary adjustment negotiations deal specifically with administrator salaries.

The senate's resolution states that "this resolution speaks more directly to negotiations for retaining important faculty," whether in an academic department or administrative position.

The purpose of the resolution was to provide a possible procedure for such negotiations, according to Senate President Herbert Donow, and not necessarily to ask for a faculty voice as Wednesday's story implies.

The resolution states that it would be appropriate to consult faculty in the event of a salary negotiation in a department, or to consult associates or assistants in the event of a salary negotiation in an upper administrative office.

He also said that the committee made no provision for ranking programs within each classification. "Consequently any and all ranking was non-scientific at best," he said.

Hartigan, Rock battle hazardous waste

By Terry Leveche
Staff Writer

Attorney General Neil Hartigan has announced a full-scale attack on state-wide hazardous waste by forming a Nuclear Waste Task Force with Senate President Philip Rock, increasing personnel to expand investigation capabilities, and "vigorously seeking" passage of pending environmental bills. "The magnitude of the crisis is shown by the fact that the Attorney General's Office currently is prosecuting 45 hazardous and toxic waste cases, and has 15 more under investigation," Hartigan said in a news release.

The bi-partisan task force will develop a comprehensive statewide policy on the control of hazardous and toxic waste, from generation to disposal. The task force is to develop legislative, administrative and enforcement policies for the state.

Hartigan and Rock, who will co-chair the task force, have invited the governor, Speaker of the House Michael Madigan, Senate Minority Leader James Philip, and Minority Leader Lee Daniels to serve on the task force. Chairs of the House and Senate environment committees, along with representatives of major business associations, agricultural groups and persons from the scientific and academic communities, have also been invited to serve.

"It will be a monumental but essential chore to identify the depth of the problem and to find proper solutions. That is why we have made the task force diverse enough to deal with all aspects of the issue," Hartigan said.

Hartigan is forming a special unit of trial attorneys, investigators and technical personnel to expand the Attorney General's investigative capabilities "to deal with the host of other violations throughout the state that are not yet in litigation," he said.

Hartigan is seeking the passage of pending environmental bills and at his request, Sen. Vince DeMuzio, D-Chicago, has introduced an act, the Criminal Damage to the Environment Act, which would provide prison terms of up to seven years and fines up to $500,000 for willful pollution.

Another has been introduced in the House to open up the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency's hazardous waste landfill designation process to the public. Hartigan said other legislation to close loopholes in existing hazardous waste laws will be introduced.

The task force is expected to have a conclusion on the study by December in order for legislation to be drawn up and introduced in 1984.

Spring brings many things

ALONG WITH THE WARM weather and the birds chirping, spring also brings the annual rite of cleaning. And, inevitably, in a hurry to toss out the clutter, people end up regretting they threw half the stuff out.

Last week, the Committee on Academic Priorities came out with a sort of spring cleaning plan. And, we feel, it may regret some of their recommendations later on.

The report, prepared by 20 administrators, professors and constituency representatives, recommended four fates — eliminate, reduce, maintain or enhance — for the University's academic programs. While the recommendations were advisory only, they could easily become realities in light of the current fiscal uncertainties of higher education.

THAT'S WHY IT is important to treat the recommendations as real, now, before it is too late.

One problem with the report is that it is vague. It is uncertain how the recommendations were made — what criteria were used to rank one program over another. The committee members voted on the program recommendations (which, some critics are saying, may explain why some members' fields of study ranked higher than others) but what criteria were used? How did they come up with the decision to eliminate Latin American Studies BA and MA while maintaining the BS and MA in recreation? Were the programs reviewed quantitatively or qualitatively? And, since engineering is ordered at the top of the list designated for maintenance and University Studies is at the bottom, does that mean engineering will be maintained before University Studies?

THE COMMITTEE's chairman, Marvin Kleinau, has tried to clear up some of the confusion created by the report. While a summary of recommendations included in the report did reflect general committee voting levels of support for the programs, it did not necessarily list the programs in a ranked order. A program listed in the bottom half of the summary could have received the same number of votes as a program in the top half.

Another problem with the report is that it lacked any recommendations for combining programs. The report did suggest that faculty of Religious Studies, ticketed for elimination, could conceivably be moved to other departments. However, no specific proposals for combining — and thus saving — programs were offered.

AND WHAT ABOUT the other programs designated for elimination? It appears that the committee forgot one of the main missions of SIU-C — to serve the people of Southern Illinois. As the letters elsewhere on this page will attest, the elimination of such degrees as the Community Development MS and the Home Economics of Education MS could have a serious effect on the people of the area.

It was a difficult thing for the Academic Priorities Committee to review the work of their colleagues and make judgments of its relative worth. But the above questions must be answered before any action is implemented.

Letters

Respect freedom's price

This is going to be one of these flag waving, Mom, apple pie and the girl next door letters that every punk with a semester of college or every professor who think's he's got the answer to the world's problems is going to take pot-shots at.

So go ahead! Call me paranoid, conservative or just plain Redneck, but I've had it!

I'm referring to the D.E. of April 18 when the staff of the D.E., in their infinite wisdom, decided to lend credence not once, but twice to Bill Wickersham and his beliefs.

Now I'm not in favor of war, particularly a nuclear one, but those of us who are old enough to remember 70 mph speed limits know Bill Wickersham to be against everything this country stands for. If we all thought as he does we'd been eating raw fish and rice for a long time now.

This country is not the great land that it is because of the Wickershams. It's not because we as a country buy the B.S. about "strength through peace." It's because we believe in peace thru strength. And not being afraid to tell Russia to stick it where the sun doesn't shine concerning things such as Afghanistan, Poland, human rights, etc.

It's a dog eat dog world and the only real Utopia works for Todd Rundgren (or in Wickersham mind).

Bill Wickersham is not the truth. So I'm supposed to believe him when he says "We have to have some collective activity to have freedom"? And Americans should start saluting other countries flags. Well, start saluting your own flag first. Start by paying some respect for the men and women who died for "ur freedom. died for our freedom.

Start by believing in the ideals and principles of this country which make it the greatest one on earth. No, it's not perfect, but what is?

Wake up SIU-C. Wickersham says we need collective activity to free, (just like the collective activity in Poland, perhaps?)

Freedom has a price and it isn't cheap and we aren't free because of the Wickershams. We're free because we have the strength to protect our freedom. Don't take my word for it. Just look at Afghanistan, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania, etc. — A.R. Murray III, Senior, Agriculture

Families, region need home economics education program

Discontinue the Master's in Home Economics Education? Reduce the Bachelors degree?

Home Economics Education is a field composed largely of women. At the graduate level, most of these women are homemakers, have children, and teach home economics in middle schools, junior and senior high schools, and in adult education programs. In other words, these graduates have dual careers. It would be difficult for these students to take graduate courses each semester.

Currently there are 30 students enrolled in the Home Economics Education M. S. Degree program. There are 32 students enrolled in the Bachelor's program. Nine of these are dual career students. As to servicing other majors we offer two courses: Methods of teaching for Non-teaching majors offered in the fall semester and Home Economics for men and women offered each semester.

Presently research productivity is consistent with other program areas in Vocational Education Studies. Home Economics is "that field of knowledge concerned with strengthening family life through educating the individual for family living, improving the services and goods used by the families, conducting research to discover the changing needs of individuals and families and means of satisfying these needs, and furthering community, national, and world conditions favorable to family living." (American Home Economics Association).

If these goals and objectives are not related to the central mission of Southern Illinois University, it is time that the central mission is re-examined.

About three-fourths of the home economics teachers in Southern Illinois received M.S. Degrees in home economics education from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

How do you think they will accept the academics priority dichom? — Anna Carol Fults, Coordinator, Home Economics Education.

COBA, USO deserve a hand

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the College of Business and Administration Student Council on their great success with Career Enhancement Week. ## SIU-C's on its way...

We have been told by our administrators that the work of the Academic Priority Committee has been going on for two years. In fact, the actual work of the committee in evaluating all academic programs was carried out in less than four months.

Last week the Committee recommendations were made public. Only eight programs were slated for elimination, with one glaring exception, were judged to be redundant, or were paper programs with no students, or were deemed marginal in terms of centrality and quality of staff.

I cannot comment upon the validity of the committee's judgements regarding these programs, although if the justice of the committee's report regarding my program — the BA in Religious Studies — is any indication, we have all been set up as token sacrifices.

The centrality of our offerings or quality of our faculty does not seem to be in question as we are advised to continue our teaching and research in our field. Only our size is a problem, it seems. Because we are overextended in our teaching and because the Committee could not recommend enhancement, they recommended elimination. By this logic, all units in Liberal Arts should be eliminated, since we have all been subjected to teaching overloads for several years now, due to financial exigencies.

Furthermore, programs slated for reduction (rather than elimination) were subject to far more serious criticism than the BA in Religious Studies, including lack of centrality to University mission, mediocre teaching and research, and ill-defined program conceptions. With so many flaws — if the committee is to be believed — why were not these units eliminated also?

We, on the other hand, are simply small, so the committee decided we must be ineffective and inefficient. This is utter nonsense, and nothing in our external or internal review reports suggest such a thing. It is obvious that the committee was desperate for places to cut, and little programs like ours were an easy target.

This is a shotty pretense at determining at determining academic priorities when we are really talking about political and financial clout. Good faculty left at SIU-C will pay a high price indeed in order to survive with any intellectual dignity or integrity. A "major research university" that can affirm degree programs in Recreation and Allied Health (all nice folks, all good vocations, but not academic in any sense of the word) while cutting or demoting most of the Liberal Arts and Sciences at SIU-C is well on its way to becoming a major junior college.

It's past time we said it: The emperor has no clothes. — Ann-Janine Morrey-Gaines, Assistant Professor, Religious Studies.

foundation of teaching.

Through the leadership of Anna Carol Fults, the Home Economics Education program has been noted for its tremendous assistance in training and guiding us to prepare socially, economically, and mentally for the task ahead of us. It is our hope that SIU will look kindly into the matter, and reverse its decision; that it will continue to allow the existence of Home Economics Education at SIU-Carbondale. — Mary Otogunde, Graduate Student, Home Economics Education

Reconsider future of home economics

It was very shocking to read in the DE recently about the elimination of the Home Economics Education program, in the Department of Vocational Education Studies.

The program is known for its good reputation, both here in America and abroad, for the useful preparation of students to teach home economics and in preparing the youths to face all aspects of life realistically and cope with the changes in family life.

We, the International Students in Home Economics

Education, are concerned about the proposal to eliminate the MS in Home Economics Education and reduce the bachelors programs. We wonder what the outcome of our studies in this department will be. At present there are ten International students here both in the undergraduate and graduate setting. It is not enough for students who want to teach Home Economics Education to go through the subject matter alone: such as Food and Nutrition, Child and Family, Clothing and Textiles, etc. without having the basic

SIU-C United Nations chapter to deliberate plight of nations

By Sheila Washington
Staff Writer

Like the United Nations in New York, with representatives from most nations who meet to discuss ways to alleviate world problems, SIU-C has students from many nations who work together in the same manner. The SIU-C chapter of the U.N. Simulation Association, composed of representatives from about 75 countries, will assess the plights of these nations Thursday through Saturday in the Student Center.

According to Grayson Gile, secretary general of the UNSA, members of the UNSA hope the assembly will encourage cross-cultural involvement and encourage more SIU-C students to become involved in the organization.

Nuclear disarmament, a peaceful recourse for the Middle East, trade and aid to underdeveloped countries and human rights violations, especially in South Africa, will be the focus of the assembly, Gile said. Student members will vote on the issues and the votes will be passed on to the United Nations and the U.S. State Department, Gile said.

"The primary focus of the three-day program is to bring student awareness to issues and educate them on the causal factors of problems in international countries.

"The areas we are interested in approaching are the most problematic areas which prevent developing international understanding. We will learn more about the issues," he said.

Gile said the organization is encouraging the participation of both American and international students.

Charles Victor, president of the UNSA's general assembly, said that although many universities have model U.N. programs, SIU-C's is special. "What makes the model U.N. different at SIU-C is the presence and participation of students from more than 91 different countries," he said.

The assembly will be special too, he said, because some delegations will speak in their native tongues and dress in their national costumes.

"The Russian delegation promises the most color with their decision to speak in Russian," Victor said. Simultaneous English translations will be provided.

The assembly's agenda for the three days is:

Thursday — 4:30-6 p.m., registration at the Gallery Lounge located in front of the ballrooms in the Student Center.

5:00-6:00 p.m. Coffee hour for all delegates in the Gallery Lounge.

6:00-7:00 p.m. Orientation for all participants in Ballroom D.

7:00-9:00 p.m. Opening plenary session in Ballroom D which will include a welcome address by Gile. At 9 p.m., members of U.N. simulation committees will meet in separate rooms of the Student Center — the Political Security Committee in the Mississippi Room; Special Political committee in the Illinois Room; the Legal committee in the Thebes Room; and the Economic-Social committee in the Ohio Room.

Friday — 5-6 p.m. Coffee hour for all delegates will be held in the Gallery Lounge. At 6 p.m., the committees which met on Thursday will meet again in the same rooms.

Saturday's agenda includes a second plenary session from 9 a.m. to noon in Ballroom D. From noon to 12:30 p.m. lunch will be served, and from 12:30 to 2 p.m. the final plenary session will be held in Ballroom D.

Reagan praises model U.N. efforts

By Charles Victor
Staff Writer

During the final week of preparation for the 1983 Model United Nations, the United Nations Simulation Association received a shot in the arm from President Ronald Reagan Monday.

Reagan, in a two-page message to the Association, commended the organization and American students for their "strong and continuing interest" in world affairs.

The president wrote to congratulate the UNSA for setting up this year's Model U.N. at SIU-C. The Model U.N. begins at 4:30 p.m. on Thursday with registration of delegates in Ballroom D of the Student Center. The assembly will last three days with committee meetings on Friday and the final Plenary Session on Saturday morning.

Members of the executive committee of the UNSA were thrilled with the President's message. "This is a real morale booster," said Grayson Gile, secretary general of the Model U.N. "I hope this will encourage all the delegates to participate fully and other people to attend the proceedings," he added.

In his note the President recapitulated the founding of the U.N. "After the suffering of World War II, the goals announced in the U.N. Charter — to end the scourge of war, to reaffirm human dignity, and to bring justice and progress to all nations — were an inspiration to all of us," he said. "Your participation in this Model United Nations shows that Americans are still motivated by these goals," he added.

The President also lamented the lack of success of the United Nations. "Many people are still the victims of tyranny and aggression by governments who refuse to accept the principles of the U.N. Charter." He stressed the need for bilateral ties with the allies "to protect our interests, freedom and security."

The president reiterated America's commitment to the United Nations and to working "within its framework for improved multilateral efforts for peace." To stress this commitment, Reagan wrote, "As a founding nation, a permanent member of the Security Council and as the major financial contributor, we have a strong interest in strengthening the United Nations and in working hard with other friendly nations to make it more efficient."

Radio show is national winner

By Cynthia Rector
Staff Writer

The pulse of Mercy, a Carbondale jazz band, was the topic of a locally produced radio show which won first place in a national competition.

"The Jazz Spotlight," placed first in the variety-music category of the annual Alpha Epsilon Rho competition. The program's creator, Alexis Valk described AER as a liaison between the academic and the business part of the radio-television industry. The competition was open to all AER members or any college or university with a radio-television department.

According to Valk the music-variety category is the most crowded of 18 categories.

The SIU-C group usually walks away from competition with eight or twelve awards. Dwayne Krager, AER member said, "Some are second and third place, of course, but there are usually a good deal of first place winners too."

Galanti and Peter DeBenny, both radio and television seniors at the time, co-produced the two hour Jazz Spotlight. Mercy bass player Valk, who says he has never worked in radio-television before, wrote the entire show as well as some of the originals that lead into songs. Valk's script called for live interviews, live music recorded on location and narrated bridges.

Narration was provided by Jack Tichner, staff announcer for WSIU. Most of the interview questions were initiated by Valk, but the producers came up with specifics as well.

The tape begins with an introduction to what it calls the only truly American musical genre, jazz, giving its history and citing current national trends. Next, members of Mercy are introduced and the program continues as a kind of "checkerboard" of music and live interviews. The listener should feel thoroughly acquainted with the personalities of Mercy members and their music by the program's end, producers say.

The term "on location" meant recording the group as they performed on a typical Sunday night at Pinch Penny Pub, the same night-spot they've enjoyed every Sunday for the past seven years.

The co-producers wanted to capture the group's live sound. At first they set up their equipment in a corner of the bar. Soon however, they found it impossible to differentiate what was being taped from ambient noise.

"We needed an isolated location," DeBenny explained. The problem forced them to take themselves and their equipment outside behind Pinch Penny and into a horse trailer. The two laughed about it later. "We even considered naming our label Horse Shit Records," Galanti said on the phone from his Chicago office.

Some of the equipment used for production was Galanti's own and some was borrowed from the WSIU radio station. Galanti credited Jane Fisher, under the direction of Jane Fisher, for the use of equipment and support.

The producer: ended up with five hours of music and interviews, which they edited down to two hours. The project, which was finished in late May, kept them at SIU-C after graduation. The most time-consuming part for DeBenny, however, was pre-production, obtaining copyrights and following up on questions.

DeBenny and Galanti consider themselves lucky, not only to have produced this tape but to be working in their fields.

Sounding informed important for job interview, director says

By Duane Schombert
Staff Writer

Since employers interview many applicants for a job, it is important to present oneself well during an interview, according to Richard Morris, director of Job Service.

In order to achieve this, a certain amount of homework should be done, Morris said Tuesday at St. Frances Xavier Church in the fifth of a series of discussions dealing with the unemployed. The discussions are sponsored by the Interchurch Council.

"A person should never go to an interview without knowing what the company does and what they can offer," he said. "Knowing the company will enable a person to talk intelligently and show he is responsible."

Morris said his role at Job Service is "to be an intermediate between persons seeking employment and employers seeking employees."

He added that Job Service, located at 441 E. Willow in Carbondale, will do an assessment of a person's capabilities and skills and then match the person with an available job.

Job Service, a federally funded program established in 1933, also provides workshops to prepare individuals for a job search, Morris said. The workshops are held bi-monthly and about 15 individuals are allowed to participate.

"Eighty to 90 percent of the people who have gone through the workshop have received jobs by employers," Morris explained. "Employers from the community who have come to the workshops have actually hired individuals who participated in the workshop."

Morris said the workshops offer necessary strategies and tips to make an individual more aware of the job market and the techniques they need to break into the job market again.

An area the workshops explores, Morris said, is how to read want ads.

Several important things to remember about want ads include calling immediately when a telephone number is listed in an ad; sending a cover letter when a resume is requested; seeking ads that are concrete and specific about the position available; avoiding attractive phrasing such as public contact or outside ordertaking; and being clear, pleasant and prepared to answer questions about one's qualifications when talking on the phone with a possible future employer, according to Morris.

Interviewing for a job is a two-way process, Morris said. Therefore, an interviewee should ask some questions about the job that will demonstrate one's interest in the company.

Morris said facets of the available position that can be addressed include the working hours, how the position became available, opportunities for advancement, whether a uniform is provided and if an employee is expected to join a union.

Facets of the job that Morris advised not to discuss include wages, possibility of a raise, vacations and "Do I have the job?"

But are there jobs available nowadays?

"There is some recovery, but the everyday person will not see that recovery for another eight or nine months. There are more companies who are hiring, so it's beginning to break a little," Morris said.

Betty Mitchell, assistant professor of English, ... peak of 3,000 students. Students today are more career oriented.

English professor has seen 38 years of change at SIU-C

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

Betty Mitchell, assistant professor of English, has been on this campus as student and teacher for 38 years.

Mitchell said the biggest change she has seen since coming to SIU-C is its size. A native of Benton, she came here as a freshman in 1945. The campus — of what was then a teachers' college — occupied one square block. Enrollment stood at 750.

Three years later, when young men returned home from World War II, "We thought we had hit the post-war peak of 3,000 students," she said with a smile.

They were wrong, of course. The students themselves have changed over time as well as their numbers, Mitchell said. During the 1960s, Mitchell said, many students "felt all the problems of the world were on their shoulders."

But she never had any discipline problems with her students, even during the worst of the campus rioting in the early 1970s.

"A gradual swing back" from "rebellion for the sake of rebellion" is what Mitchell has seen since then.

Mitchell, who teaches composition to undergraduates, said she believes students today are more career-oriented.

"It's a chore, but it's an enjoyable chore. I really enjoy teaching composition," she said. "I try to educate the whole student."

Mitchell said students coming to her class have to work and be interested in writing. She said she likes teaching composition because, as the semester progresses, she can actually see whether her students are improving.

Mitchell's career at SIU-C has included administrative work since the time she was a student worker.

As a freshman, she was the English Department's only student worker at a time when the department offices were contained in one corner room of the Old Main Building, which burned in 1969.

Now, as department secretary, she is in charge of records, bookkeeping and scheduling and works out of a small, well-lit office on the second floor of the Faner.

Mitchell said she has no trouble keeping administrative duties from interfering with teaching.

"I do that (secretary) work with my left hand," she said.

She has also managed to serve as president of the Carbondale Library Board. In February of 1982, Carbondale voters passed a referendum to begin construction of a new library on West Main Street.

Mitchell worked on the referendum campaign over the 1981 Christmas break.

Along with her other duties, Mitchell served eight years on the SIU-C Athletic Committee, and is adviser for Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. She won the Student Affairs Service Award in 1982 for her work.

Recalling the days when Delyte Morris, the man largely credited with making SIU-C a major university, was president, she noted the school was once more personal in its treatment of students.

"He used to have watermelon feasts at his home on campus," Mitchell said.

The University is now too large for that much of a personal touch, she said. But she added, "I think we're making a real effort to get back to the personal aspect through longer orientation programs."

Mitchell began to work on a biography of Morris in 1979 by taping interviews with people who knew Morris.

Mitchell also served as executrix of the Robert Faner estate. Faner, who the humanities building is named after, was a longtime faculty member and chairman of the English Department.

'Journalism 1983' to help students with job hunting tips

By Alan Cockrell
Staff Writer

The School of Journalism and the Southern Illinois Editorial Association will sponsor "Journalism Days 1983" Thursday and Friday.

Events on Thursday include a panel discussion, "Job Searches in Journalism in the '80's," at 3 p.m. in McLeod Theater in the Communications Building. Panel members will discuss job applications, resumes and cover letters and follow-up procedures. The program is arranged by student chapters of the Society of Professional Journalists - Sigma Delta Chi and Women in Communications Inc.

The SIEA will hold a buffet dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Ramada; Ina Virginia Marmaduke, a former Chicago newswoman, will speak on "Life and Loves of a Chicago News Veteran."

Friday's activities begin with a speech titled "The Up-to-date Absolutes on Legal" by Edward Eberspacher, a Shelbyville attorney, at 9 a.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

William Branan, editor and publisher of the Standard Press in Burlington, Wis., will speak on "All About Postals:

Techniques, Rulings, Alternatives" at 10 a.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

Winners of the yearly Better Newspaper Contest will be announced and awards presented at the SIEA luncheon at 12:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms. Journalism School Director Vernon Stone will present the "Golden em" awards to Southern Illinois journalists named Master Editors by SIU-C.

Clyde Wills, SIEA president, will be emcee at the luncheon.

Branan will give another presentation titled "How to Run a Newspaper and Make Money: Management Insights" at 2 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

The School of Journalism - SIEA banquet will conclude the activities. It will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Old Main Room of the Student Center. Keynote speaker will be Deborah Singer Peterson, an SIU-C alumna and member of the Kansas City Star-Kansas City Times news team sharing a Pulitzer Prize for investigative coverage of the Hyatt-Regency Hotel disaster.

Peterson will be presented with the SIU-C Journalism Alumna of the Year Award at the banquet, and SIU-C journalism scholarship winners will be recognized.

More basic subjects needed in high schools, Institute says

By Dianne Meyer
Student Writer

The American public is becoming increasingly dissatisfied with the American education system and feels powerless to do anything about it, said Manuel J. Justiz, director of the National Institute of Education, at the sixth annual Post-Doctoral Academy of Higher Education meeting. "We are now in the position through research and development to do something about this problem," said Justiz, a 1976 doctoral graduate of SIU-C. "Research has shown that high school students are spending less time on academic classes. General track classes are dominant in the curriculum," he said. "The students are not learning the needed math, science and foreign languages before they go to college."

The National Institute of Education (NIE) is suggesting a return to basic subjects in high school, he said.

"This program would be a partnership between the government, schools and teachers along with the community," Justiz said. "This should be the first barrier broken down. This will bring the American public into the education process."

Following his speech, Justiz was honored by the Alumni Association for his work in the Post-Doctoral Academy. The Post-Doctoral Academy was started at SIU-C in 1977 and is unique in Higher Education, said John E. King, chairman of Higher Education.

Its purpose is to serve the students and professional staff in Higher Education and assist them to become more effective leaders in their various areas.

Justiz was appointed to his position after serving with the Reagan administration as a member of the Intergovernmental Advisory Council on Education.

Sculpture exhibit is planned

"Roomages," a mixed media sculpture exhibit by Sonya Baysinger will open Friday and run through May 12 at Mitchell Gallery in Quigley Hall.

Baysinger is a master of fine arts candidate, and the exhibit is presented in partial completion of two years of study at SIU-C.

She uses rooms as familiar images which serve as containers for the colors, surface treatments and symbols

Special Olympics set for Thursday

About 1,100 people will compete for Olympic gold Thursday at the 15th annual Southern Illinois Special Olympics.

Handicapped people aged eight and over from throughout the area will gather at Bleyer Field to compete in 10 events.

Jim Hart, back-up quarterback of the St. Louis Cardinals football team, will attend the Olympics as head coach, said Amos Black, director of Southern Illinois Special Olympics. The SIU-C parachute team will make a jump at the games, and the basketball, football, equestrian, men and women's rugby teams will hold sports clinics for the participants. William Freeburg, former recreation professor at SIU-C and a co-founder of Special Olympics, will also attend.

Entrants compete for a gold first place medal and ribbons. Everyone gets a ribbon, Tom Woods, assistant professor in the Recreation Department and coordinator for the track and field events, said.

Wood said he expects about 500 volunteers to assist in the games.

The Recreation Department is cancelling its classes

Thursday so its students can work at the games. A van operating from the Student Center will ferry volunteers to and from the field hourly beginning at 9 a.m. The games last from 9 until 4 p.m.

The events, divided into eight age divisions, male and female, are: softball throw; standing long jump; high jump, frisbee throw; 50, 220 and 440 yard dashes; a wheelchair race, a mile run and 440 yard relays.

ISC election held

The International Student Council will hold elections for president, first vice president and second vice president at 7 p.m. Thursday in Activity Rooms C and D of the Student Center.

Salukis lack momentum after doubleheader split

By Brian Higgins Staff Writer

It was a dog and cat fight with university pride at stake, and when the dust had cleared neither the Cougars nor the Salukis could lay claim to being SIU's finest. SIU-E, however, claimed the season series 2-1. SIU-C and SIU-E split a two-night doubleheader in Edwardsville Tuesday, leaving the Salukis in the unenviable position of assaulting their final games of the season, this weekend's Indiana Invitational, with the momentum of a stalled truck behind them.

Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer's squad took the first contest as Sunny Clark ended a personal two-game losing streak and improved her record to 5-4 with a superlative pitching performance, allowing but a single hit over the last six innings. Sandy Montgomery was tagged with the loss in the 3-2 defeat, offsetting her win over Clark two weeks ago in which the Saluki hurler suffered a 1-0 defeat despite posting a one-hitter.

The Cougars scored both their runs in the bottom of the first, but SIU-C garnered all the runs it needed in the third. After Val Upchurch and Pam Flens sandwiched singles around a Kelly Nelis strikeout, Kathy Richert doubled Upchurch home. Flens then scored on the first of Montgomery's two wild pitches in the inning. Toni Grounds followed with a single to put runners on the corners, and Richert completed the scoring when she stroled home on Montgomery's second errant pitch.

The cats had it their way in the nightcap, however, as the Salukis came up on the short end of a 5-0 count. Both clubs collected six hits, but it was errors once again that came back to haunt SIU-C, as three of the Cougar runs crossed the plate unearned. For the twin-bill, the Salukis managed six errors, par for the only category in which they have been consistent in all year.

Eileen Maloney (5-3) fell to her third straight defeat, giving up four runs in two innings before being replaced by Meredith Stengel.

"Considering our injuries, I'm really not dissatisfied with the split," Brechtelsbauer said, referring to the fact that her starting second baseman, shortstop and third baseman currently are listed on the injury roster. "We could have used both wins, though."

That is an understatement. Heading into this weekend's tourney in Bloomington, Ind., the Salukis stand at 16-11, having lost five of their last eight games. The Indiana classic will prove to be SIU-C's last chance to gain momentum heading into the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference Championship Tournament on May 7-8 in Macomb.

Hopes high for golfers' weekend

Mary Beth McGirr's men's and women's golf teams have their work cut out for them.

The men's team comes off an impressive fourth place finish at the Missouri Valley Conference tournament last weekend and will try to carry that momentum over to the Drake Relays Invitational Golf tournament this weekend.

The women's squad is eyeing the title at the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference championship, a tournament the Salukis are definitely frontrunners in.

The men gave themselves a hard act to follow by their showing at the MVC tournament. The Salukis turned in their best conference finish since 1977, carding only two individual rounds over 80 in the three-day tournament.

McGirr said she thinks the team can bring its momentum into the Drake tournament without letting down.

"The guys are really excited about the way they played at the conference championship," she said. "It's an extremely long drive up to Drake, so fatigue might be a factor, but with their excitement it's entirely possible for them to finish in the top five this weekend."

Missouri figures as the favorite in the 25-team field at Drake, along with Iowa, Ferris State, Kansas, Kansas State and SIU-Edwardsville.

McGirr said SIU-C will still field a strong team despite the loss of John Schaefer, the team leader and all-conference selection. Schaefer had his best tournament of the year at the MVC match, but suffered a severely sprained ankle in a physical education class and will be off the golf course for three to four weeks.

Mike Steh, a transfer from Logan College, will take Schaefer's spot at Drake. Senior Jan Jansco, who missed the all-conference team by two strokes, will play at the No. 1 spot, followed by Scott Briggs at No. 2, Tom Jones at the third spot, and Rob Hammond at No. 4.

The women's squad shares tournament-favorite honors at the GCAC showdown at Northern Iowa with Illinois State, Southwest Missouri, Northern Iowa and Wichita State round out the field, all teams that SIU-C has clobbered by at least 39 strokes earlier in the season.

McGirr said the Saluki-Redbird matchup is the ultimate rivalry for her team, and first place at the GCAC championship is do-or-die.

"Second place in this tournament doesn't mean much to us at all," she said. "I don't consider there to be much glory in beating the other three teams, just Illinois State. We either get it or we don't, and we're planning on going for all the glory."

"We have an intense rivalry going with ISU. The girls are really excited to play them, and it's a toss-up — either team can come out on top."

SIU-C has met ISU three times already, with the Salukis coming out on top twice, by four strokes at the Kentucky Dam Invitational and by seven at the Purdue Invitational, while the Redbirds pasted the Salukis by 30 strokes at the Illini tournament.

Sue Arbogast heads the Saluki lineup for the tournament, carrying a 78.9 stroke average. Arbogast, a junior, is a favorite to win the individual conference title, along with ISU's Karen Schulthes.

Arbogast has a strong supporting cast in juniors Barb Anderson and Lisa Bremer, sophomore Lisa Kartheiser, and freshman Jill Bertram.

McGirr said SIU-C's fate rests in the play of its underclassmen, since the team will need good scores across the board to come home as conference champions.

Netters host MVC championship

By George Pappas

Some of the region's best tennis players will battle it out on the Arena Courts Thursday-Saturday as the SIU-C men's team hosts the Missouri Valley Conference Championships.

Competing will be Wichita State, ranked 14th in the country, Tulsa, Bradley, Creighton, Illinois State, West Texas State and Indiana State.

"This is it," said Saluki Coach Dick LeFevre. "This is what we've worked for all season."

And the work has not stopped for the 11-13 Salukis. They'll be up against some tough players, with Wichita State and Tulsa the teams to beat, according to LeFevre.

"Wichita State is especially tough," LeFevre said. "They have some superb players, especially Roberto Saad, one of the best collegiate players in the nation."

Not far from Wichita State, powerhouse Tulsa is ranked second in the Valley. The Golden Hurricane have played well all season and should finish in the top three.

"According to our records, Wichita and Tulsa should place one-two and we should capture third," LeFevre said. "But you never can tell. We have the talent to win it all if our whole team plays well."

The tournament will be divided into flights, with No. 1 singles playing against each other, and continuing down the line. Each championship win will be worth three points, with those winning in consolation matches will receive one point.

Olympics bind swimmer with home

By Sheila Washington
Staff Writer

Giovanni Frigo isn't one to cause trouble, but he makes waves when it comes to swimming.

After swimming with SIU-C's team for the past semester, the Venezuelan native, who pushes his towering 6-5, 190-pound frame through water with the greatest of ease, has hopes to share the glory of Olympic competition this summer in a Venezuelan uniform.

Although Frigo has been in the United States since last August and is receptive to American life, his patriotic commitment to Venezuela made him decide to work for a spot in the 1984 Olympics with Venezuela instead of the U.S. "I enjoy swimming here in the United States, but to swim for this country would mean changing my citizenship," he said. "I like the United States, but I'd rather swim for my home country."

As an Olympic hopeful and well-established swimmer in Venezuela, Frigo won't make any pre-Olympic promises or speculations.

"I don't like to count my chickens before they're hatched. There's so much happening before then. I'm just going to do the best I can."

Doing the best he can also means attaining a college education and having a chance to swim at the same time. As a recipient of a swimming scholarship to SIU-C, Frigo is lucky to have the best of both worlds at SIU-C.

In Venezuela, athletics and scholastics don't mix, he said.

"In Venezuela you are either a good swimmer or a good student — it's hard to be both. A lot of the Universities don't have pools, so you have to join expensive clubs that are similar to the YMCA."

On the road to '84

Frigo's aim for the 1984 Olympics with Venezuela is not a just a far-fetched idea. Last August at the Central American games in Cuba, Frigo was a member of a four-man relay team that took first place. Because of this, he believes, when the time comes to qualifying for Olympic tryouts in Venezuela, his record will speak for itself — and if it doesn't he will have no trouble recreating the winning style.

SIU-C men's swimming coach Bob Steele believes that Frigo has a good chance of making the Olympic team in Venezuela.

"I'm sure he can make his country's team for the Olympics because he's got the interest and determination to be successful internationally — he's an awfully hard worker," Steele said.

Before Olympic tryouts in Venezuela, Frigo will have a chance to compete with other first-rate swimmers during the Pan-American games in his home town of Caracas. Although he has not tried out for the Pan-American meets, he is sure his speedy 100-meter backstroke time of 59.87, acquired in the Central American games, stills holds and will qualify him for the competition in Caracas.

If he does well in the Pan-American games in August, he should easily qualify for Olympic competition with the Venezuelan team, he believes.

"I swim, sleep, eat and lift weights," the 19-year-old swimmer said about his daily activity to stay afloat with his competition. "I had gained four pounds a couple of weeks ago, but I got it off because that was four more pounds I'd have to push through the water."

"I'm not doing any special workouts now, but when finals week is over I will start working out more and prepare the best I can for the Pan-American game tryouts. If I make it, I'll go for the Olympics."

Four years ago, as a 15-year-old, Frigo didn't qualify for the Venezuelan team.

"I tried out for the Venezuelan team, but I didn't make it. Now I'm better and so are my chances with the Olympics."

For the first time in Olympic history, Frigo said, the Venezuelan swim team has a chance of being on top. The Venezuelan swimmers, he said, are aggressive contenders who have the ability and skill to take an Olympic medal home.

Last March Frigo was unable to compete in the National Independent Championship in South Carolina because of a sprained ankle. It kept him from practicing and he could not perform the more mechanical aspects of swimming such as turning. Steele said he was set back for a while, but the sprained ankle hurt his psyche more than it did his physical training.

But now, Frigo's ankle is in top shape and his psyche has taken a turn to more positive direction. He wants to prove Venezuela. He wants to split the water with strong backstrokers at devastating speeds. He wants to compete with the best swimmers in the world in the 1984 Olympics.

"I still have a lot of work to do between now and this summer. I have to practice hard because there are good swimmers in Venezuela that I will have to face this summer," Frigo said.

Frigo knows the road to the 1984 Olympics is a tough one. To make it there requires hard work — taking the extra mile, staying the course and keeping the faith. But for now, Frigo is taking advice, staying in the water and keeping a winning spirit. The rest, he believes, will come later.

Salukis split doubleheader

After blasting Eastern Illinois with 17 hits in a 13-5 opening game victory, the Saluki baseball team could manage just four hits in a 9-0 nightcap loss Wednesday in Charleston.

Tom Caulfield, 33, shored up the Saluki pitching staff with a complete game victory, but Rich Koch, 0-1, and Jay Bellissimo struggled in the second game. Freshman Marc Palmer then pitched an uneventful final inning.

SIU-C, now 18-15, will host St. Louis at 2:30 Thursday at Abe Martin Field, with Dick Wysocki listed as the probable starter.

Jim Reboulet started the Salukis' hitting rampage in the opener with his fifth home run, and later added a double.

Drake next stop for tracksters

By Ken Perkins
Staff Writer

It's an honor to be one of 62 teams invited to the prestigious Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa. It's confidence to say your team is good enough to place in the top eight.

Chalk up two for women's track and field Coach Claudia Blackman.

"Our main objective is to run with the competition," Blackman said of the Saluki six who have drawn assignments for the Relays Friday and Saturday.

"I think the 1,600-meter relay team has a chance of making the top eight."

Blackman hasn't had those sort of thoughts since 1980 when Lindy Nelson and Cathy Chiarello made a run for the finals in the 3,000- and 3,000-meters, respectively. Nelson went on to place sixth, the highest for any Saluki.

But this is 1983, the year of the dawg, the year women's track and field isn't chucked at anymore. So with all eyes upon her, Blackman is packaging her best, junior Debra Davis, freshmen Denise Blackman and Ann Lavine and sophomore Tammy Talbert, for the 1,600-meter relay.

She'll also send her field workhorse Rhonda McClausland in the shot put and javelin and junior Nina Williams in the long jump.

The remaining tracksters will head to Eastern Kentucky for the Becky Boone Relays, where they'll face a tough 20-team field made up of Midwestern foes such as Illinois State, Indiana, Eastern Illinois, Ball State, Central Michigan and Ohio University.

More Salukis have been invited this year to the Drake Relays than in any previous year. Blackman said the 1,600-meter relay, which is going into the meet ranked 11th of 24 teams, has the best chance to place high and running a good time.

Williams, the SIU-C long jump record-holder, is seeded 24th of 37. Blackman said she'll have to be in top form in order to make it to the finals. McClausland, a 5-5 freshman from Valparaiso, Ind., who has been the Salukis stronghold in the field events, is ranked 17th in the javelin and 25th in the shot put.

Sophomore Cynthia Joy, who was also extended an invitation in the javelin, won't compete, but will travel to Eastern Kentucky instead.

"She's got a very good chance to win it there," said Blackman.

The Salukis are still an unhealthy track team. After taking off a weekend from competing, Blackman figured it would help a hurting Sharon Leidy and others who were sidelined. Leidy is back in action, but distance runners Lisa Reimund and Katie Doeling and high jumper Julie Leeper are all out.

Leeper, a 5-8 junior from Carterville, may be gone for the rest of the season, according to Blackman, who added that her stress fractures may be a bit too much to return.

Regardless, Blackman said the weekend off gave her squad a chance to iron out any difficulties, tie up a few loose ends and take a breather from competition.

Ryan sets career strikeout record

MONTREAL (AP) — Nolan Ryan of the Houston Astros fanned the 3,509th batter of his career Wednesday to pass Walter Johnson as the game's all-time strikeout king.

The record, which had stood for 55 years, fell in the eighth inning when Ryan caught Brad Mills of the Montreal Expos looking at a 1-2 curveball.

Ryan had tied the record by striking out Tim Blackwell swinging on a 3-2 fastball to start the eighth inning, then passed Johnson when he slipped a breaking pitch past the next batter, Mills.

Ryan, 36, eclipsed Johnson in only his 16th full season.

Johnson, the consummate fastballer known as the "Big Train," finished his 21 seasons with the Washington Senators in 1927 with 3,508 strikeouts.

Houston won the game 4-2. Entering the game, Ryan had needed four strikeouts to tie the record.
