Cardboard chaos hits Campus Lake
By Ken Seebor
Staff Writer
Some boats glided through the water effortlessly, while others disintegrated and sank. Just last Sunday, during the 24th annual Great Cardboard Boat Regatta, the victims of the flimsy vessels could easily be found. "Yeah, we got some floaters and we got some sinks," said Richard Archer, an SIU-C design professor and sounder of the regatta.
"This must be the event the movie "Up the Creek" is based on," said Tim Bachman, bass player of Bachman-Turner Overdrive. Bachman placed in an appearance between races at the regatta.
Roger Brummett, an industrial arts teacher from Odell, won first place in the Class I finals for the seventh straight year. Class I boats are powered by oars or paddles.
"We tried a few different designs for the bottom boats and long boats," Brummett said after the race. "Building and redesigning the boat was the key."
About 15,000 spectators lined the shore of the lake to watch the competition.

It's goodbye Pell Grants for some students
By David Sheets
Staff Writer
Some University students will have to forgo all or part of their Pell Grant award for the 1986-87 academic year to help pay for the grant program's federal funding shortfall. The loss in Pell Grant funding at SIUC will amount to just over $1 million, said Joseph Camille, Student Work and Financial Assistance director.

"We will employ a 'linear reduction' formula as a cure for the problem, he said.

"The formula, Martin explained, was designed to maintain Pell awards to the most needy students and reduce awards to the least needy when Congress does not provide enough money."

Camille said the formula would mean a reduction in awards for the 1,844 students on campus who receive Pell Grants in the $904 to $1,850 range. The 991 students in the least needy category, with awards of $250 to $850, would have their awards canceled.

Another 3,115 University students, categorized as most needy, with awards ranging from $1,950 to $2,100, will see no change in their grants, he said.

"This option is growing more and more unlikely because the Reagan administration is coming favorably at supplemental funding in the wake of other federal fiscal constraints," he added.

"That option is growing more unlikely because the Reagan administration is coming favorably at supplemental funding in the wake of other federal fiscal constraints," he added.

JERUSALEM (UPI) - A British tourist was shot to death Sunday outside the Garden Tomb, a Christian holy site in Jerusalem's Arab sector, in what police called a "terrorist act."

Police spokesman Rafi Levy identified the dead man as Paul Appleby, 29, of Bristol, England, who arrived in Jerusalem about a month ago with several friends. Appleby was apparently on a pilgrimage to the Garden Tomb, which is closed on Sunday.

Authorities said they could not determine whether the killing was related to anti-British sentiment in the Middle East, sparked by Britain's role in the U.S. air raids on Libya on April 15.

No group or individual immediately claimed responsibility for the shooting, but police said the slaying appeared to be a "terrorist act."

Israeli troops and police sealed off the area after the shooting.

The shooting, the fourth reported attack against a Westerner this year in predominantly Palestinian east Jerusalem, occurred about 1 p.m. outside the Garden Tomb, which is closed most of the year.

Israel radio reported that several police were detained as suspects, but Levy said no one was arrested. One Palestinian source said the Garden Tomb area is well known locally as a haven for drug dealers.

The slaying came at the height of Israel's tourist season, a time of the year when Christian faithful from around the world make pilgrimages to the holy city of Jerusalem.

Weekend death toll up to 5 in latest S. African violence

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A black man was beheaded Sunday by a crowd in Durban's violence. Police in Pretoria said officials shot and wounded two men in clashes with rioters in Cape Town and outside Grahamstown, a white university town north of Port Elizabeth. The killings brought the death toll in weekend racial violence to five.

Shultz urges covert action against terrorists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz argued Sunday that the United must engage in "disruptive" covert actions against sources of terrorism but said the assassination of Moamar Kadhafi would not "fit our way of thinking." Speaking from Hawaii during a rest stop on the trip to Japan, Shultz said on CNN's "Face the Nation," "On April 13 U.S. air strike against Libya is just one example of how terrorism must be battled.

French police probe Libyan ship, follow crew

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) — A Libyan cargo ship docked here at repairs in Marseille has been placed under maximum police supervision, with crew members told by undercover officers, a police official said Sunday. The official said the measures were taken because three vessels from the U.S. Sixth Fleet were stationed just outside Marseille harbor.

Group admits to U.S. Embassy bomb attempt

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A previously unknown guerrilla organization claimed responsibility for planting a powerful car bomb next to the U.S. Embassy, a day after it was defused by police before it exploded, officials said Sunday. A caller identifying himself as a member of the Simon Bolivar International Command called the newspaper La Jornada at 4 p.m. Saturday saying a bomb in a car parked next to the embassy was set to explode 50 minutes later.

Thatcher supports U.S. anti-terrorism action

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, saying the U.S. bombing of Libya forced other nations to realize they must do more to combat terrorism, warned Sunday that Britain might support future military actions against terrorists. In a related development, the Sunday Times reported that Thatcher at the May 4-6 economic summit in Tokyo plans to press for the creation of a "blacklist" of suspected Libyan terrorists.

Oscar winner Broderick Crawford, 74, dies

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — Broderick Crawford, who won an Oscar for his performance as a ruthless Southern political boss in "All the King's Men," but was better known as the highway patrol captain on the television series "Highway Patrol" that has died. He was 74. Crawford died Saturday at Eisenhower Medical Center at 1:40 p.m. of complications from previous strokes, hospital spokesman Mike McFadden said. Crawford was admitted to the hospital April 5.

Stevenson offers to debate Thompson, educate voters

SOUTH BELoit (UPI) — Gubernatorial candidate Atlas Stevenson III Sunday chose Gen. James Thompson to a debate and said his campaign will be a process of informing the voters about the candidates and government. Stevenson, whose Democratic party failed in alerting voters followers of extremist Lyndon LaRouche were on the primary ticket for statewide posts, addressed the Illinois News Broadcasters Association Sunday.

Video pirate strikes HBO movie, airs threat

CHICAGO (UPI) — A video pirate calling himself "Captain Midnight" struck at the hour of his namesake and broke into a Home Box Office movie early Sunday with a nationwide televised protest against scrambling of satellite transmissions. In an apparently unprecedented and "scary" interference with satellite transmissions, the pirate interrupted HBO's movie, "The Falcon and the Snowman," with a multicolor test pattern and a five-line message printed in white letters: "Good evening HBO — How's a Captain Midnight's program $25 a month? No way! Showtime and Movie Channel beware."

Revelers by the thousands take in fun, sun, cold ones

By Tom Mangan

Hot sun and cold beer was the order of the day as thousands of thrasy, tanned and otherwise party-oriented folks jammed Old Main Mall and the shores of Campus Lake Saturday during Springfest '86.

By shortly after noon, the mall was filled up with cooler-equipped partiers jamming along with the Piranha Brothers, who took time out to urge the crowd not to be duped into believing the bombing of Libya was an acceptable act.

The crowd, however, was not much inclined toward politics, and generally ignored the band's appeals for peace in our time and so forth. As long as the music was playing and the boozing went on, people were enjoying themselves.

Over at Campus Lake, hundreds of corrugated-cardboard contraptions took to the water in the 13th annual Great Cardboard Boat Regatta. In a competition where the sinkings are every bit as much fun as the actual races, the highlight was a giant white water wheel designed by Laura Davis, a design student from Du Quoin, and Bryan Cohn, her boyfriend and engineering major, along with Greg Wolf, a student at John A. Logan College.

Davis and Cohn took an early lead in their zany entry, which they walked inside to propel, much like a mouse runs on an exercise wheel. Problems arose at the first pylon, because the craft had no steering system and drifted toward the shore. Attempts to right such problems were halted when the wheel, a victim of too much wind and water, collapsed around its pilots.

The Davis-Cohen team had to abandon ship but won the Titanic Award for most spectacular sinking.

Meanwhile, back at Old Main, things were really heating up as fans jammed the main stage at the Shryock steps to enjoy ska-reggae tunes blasted out by Eide Guest.

Elsewhere, members of the Gamma Phi Circus from Illinois State University could be seen moving throughout the fest, some of them juggling tennis racquets and another perched high atop a unicycle precariously pedaling around people and discarded beer cans. Others performed dazzling acrobatic feats, flipping through the air as if defying gravity.

Billed as the place to find "wild things," the partiers were probably the wildest "things" at Springfest, as the Indian elephant that ferried riders around a small ring looked to be tamer than its passengers.

The crowd began to thin out as the day wore on, leaving some bottle-and-can littered areas looking as though pilaging armies had just passed through.

As the sun fell behind Shryock Auditorium and dusk approached, Sugar Blue and his band brought the blues to a greatly appreciative crowd of mostly mired-at-head fans.

Blue brought the crowd to life with a stirring rendition of the crying harmonica solo he performed with Mick Jagger and the Rolling Stones in "Miss You," from the "Some Girls" LP.

As Blue brought the show and the fest to a close at about 8 p.m., an army of Student Programming Council volunteers set out to usher folks off the grounds and pick up the mountains of debris left over from a day that saw thousands of people consume thousands of cans of beer, munch many a foot-long hot dog, and destroy quite a few Styrofoam coolers.

Don't change laws to benefit one man

GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE Adlai Stevenson is going it alone, having resigned last Wednesday from the state Democratic ticket. And now he's filed a lawsuit asking that the state election laws be struck down because he thinks it is unfair that independent candidates must file for election months before a third-party candidate has to.

These election laws didn't seem to concern Stevenson before the March 18 primary election. It was only after Lyndon B. Johnson and Jack Hart won spots on the Democratic state that Stevenson decided election reform was needed.

Maybe it is unfair that independent candidates are required to file the December before an election, whereas third-party candidates have until August to file.

But STEVENSON SHOULD stop pretending that he is a victim of the election laws or the LaRoucheites. He is a victim of his own apathy — of not working to ensure that the voters of Illinois know who his running mate was, of not working to support the overall ticket, of not investigating his opponents, no matter how inconsequential they may have seemed, of relying on his politically famous name to carry him through the election. In addition, Stevenson is a victim of the apathy of his party, which didn't think it had to promote its lieutenant governor and secretary of state nominees after the slating convention.

ELECTION RULES SHOULD NOT be changed because of one man's or one party's oversight. The court should take its time in examining the election regulations Stevenson's election scheme book should not have a role in the court's decision, and neither should his dislike of the candidates who gained a place on the Democratic ballot.

The court's decision shouldn't be an anti-LaRoucheite one. Like it or not, Fairchild and Hart were duly elected. This whole election situation, should instead serve as a lesson for the electorate to take in more about the democratic process, and each component of it, that we seem to have taken for granted.

Letters

SPC put on a good show

This letter is to thank SPC (for bringing Jake's Leg, who play Grateful Dead music) to the Student Center Wednesday night as part of the Club Caribe series. I attended, along with a crowded room of real music lovers, I heard sounds that I couldn't get enough of.

Jake's Leg played two hours of some of the best stuff ever produced on this earth. They had almost half the people dancing in a tight area, some of them only a foot away from the band members. During one song they got the crowd to sing along with tremendous enthusiasm. I had a great time and so did the other people packed into the room.

Thank you, SPC. You're doing a good job. Keep it up — Bill Emery, senior, Cinema and Photography.

I am writing in regards to the one of many negative editorial cartoons you consistently publish against the National Rifle Association.

The cartoon I mention has four so-called "Official Souvenir Targets of the NRA." Centering a child, hunter, mother, and FBI agent in a target is, I assume, supposed to be satirical, but instead they are in bad taste. I am a shame you cannot print something in your obviously biased newspaper that promotes the good things the NRA does, of which there are many.

The NRA is the foremost guardian of the American right to "keep and bear arms," and believes that every law-abiding citizen is entitled to the ownership and legal use of firearms.

The NRA is an organization made up of men and women from every aspect of our society. These are a variety of people in the NRA; seniors, police officers, teachers, reitre people, small business men, pro-athletes, and college students. The only real restrictions are that you must have no criminal record and you must be loyal to the United States of America.

The NRA promotes hunter safety courses, the establishment of proper shooting facilities and hunting land, the reduction of crime and protection against gun control advocates infringement on our constitutional right to own firearms.

The armed American citizen represents a very real deterrent to the attack on this country by a foreign nation. Please do not let your paper take away the importance of the right to own firearms.

For so clarification, realize that the NRA and its members are not gun-obsessed psychopaths. We are your next door neighbors. Friends mother, father, brothers and sisters. We are three million strong. We can establish in our own bodies in the courts. We are a vital organization in fighting for the rights we believe in.

I urge you to find out about the organization that promotes responsible gun ownership and upkeep to pay more attention to the bleeding-heart gun control people spread for what they call contro!.

For this reason, Education Secretary William Bennett is not eager to ask Congress for money. Martin said. The 3215 million shortfall is part of the 1988 Gramm-Rudman figure. Martin explained. The reason for these cuts is to divert money from the Pell Grant program as a result of the Gramm- Rudman-Hollings federal deficit reduction law.

Martin said that only supplemental funding from Congress would get the program going. The Gramm- Rudman-Hollings problems aside, Martin said that the impression that linear reduction would also take care of the deficit is a myth.

The second shortfall Martin described was a $400 million shortfall due to "borrowing from future allocations," she said.

"The DOE has suggested that it will not deal with the deficit in the upcoming fiscal year" because of DOE's efforts to pare down the $32.5 million shortfall, Martin said. "But it will in fiscal years 1988 and 1989." The DOE will take half of the $400 million from other programs available to students in 1987 and the other half in 1988. Martin said. He added that the DOE will probably use linear reduction for the larger deficit settled and not ask Congress for help.

Whether the linear reduction is used will depend on what the DOE determines will be the maximum Pell award, which is currently $2,100. "The percent of the debt to which the Pell Grant may be applied and what Congress gives to the program through normal supplemental funding will determine just what can be protected," Martin said.

"Failing the $400 million, we don't have that much effect on Pell Grant-eligible students," she said. "You must triple the program's level of funding." Martin said.

"If the funding level remains the same," at roughly $3.43 billion for the program as a whole, he said, "then the effect on the students and the program" to settle the debt. "About $63 million in Pell Grants will be distributed to SIU-C students by the end of the 1986-87 academic year," said Peligran said. "We now subtract $2 million from that and that's at least what we'll get for the next year," he said.

DOE determines Pell Grant eligibility and need for a Student Aid Index number obtained from Congress. DOE awards a student's American College Test Family Financial Statement, or ACT-FFS.

"From that information the number zero is assigned to the most needy students, while the number 999 is the largest number you can be assigned and still be slightly eligible for a Pell Grant," Camille said.

WTAR radio. "Some races have begun to demand that everything has gone free," said the Boarded Crips, a group of black engineering students, won first place in the Class II competition by crafting folders covered by paddlesheets and other propinquity. Ryan Reeder, of GDE, won first place in Class III, the Instant Boats.

But the boat that everyone walked away remembering was built by a double-designed and powered by Laura Davis, a design student and Bryan Cosgrove, an engineering student.

Although the giant white paddle wheel collapsed after rounding the first buoy, the vessel survived long enough to row over and spit out any of the competition that got in its way, including design student Laura Davis. Davis and Cobin won the Titanic Award for the most dramatic sinking of the day.

Brunnert summed up the mood of the racers and crowd alike as he stepped out of the lake with his "winning kat" design.

"Let the drinking begin!"" he said.

Belfast police defuse car bomb

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Bomb experts, tipped by a "screened for courage" caller, defused a large car bomb Saturday that was primed to explode at the assembly point for a Protestant parade in downtown Belfast, authorities said.

Authorities also reported eight policemen injured in four separate clashes late Saturday and early Sunday with rampaging youths who stoned police forces throughout the troubled British-ruled province.

2 Libyans formally arrested in Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Two Libyans suspected of planning to bomb the American military officers' Club on April 18 were formally arrested Sunday, the Anatolia news agency reported.

The arrests came after the two suspects for the first time, identifying them as Ali Ajali Ramadhan and Hiagi Muktar.

Three SIU-C students were injured in motorcycle accidents Saturday, according to police reports.

The students were injured, one seriously, Saturday afternoon, following a crash between the motorcycle they were riding on was struck by a car at the corner of Oakwood and Douglas streets, according to a police news release.

The driver of the motorcycle Todd D. Francois, Greek Row, had a "severely fractured leg," according to a police spokesperson. The driver of the car was taken to Carbondale Memorial Hospital for treatment. Francois' parents refused to allow their son, 19, to 21 S. Illinois Ave., to speak to reporters.

"I think the driver of the car that struck the motorcycle was issued a ticket for failing to yield the right of way, according to the police," according to police, the motorcycle was struck by the car and came to a parked car.

Francois has not yet undergone surgery and is in stable condition, and Connor was treated and released Saturday, according to a hospital source.

Another student was injured Saturday when the motorcycle Ruhama Tarhouni.

Both men had been in custody since April were not formally arrested until Sunday. Turkish police often hold suspects informally for questioning before their arrest is made formal.

The men were taken into custody for police questioning April 18 after they were found with a suitcase filled with hand grenades. Police had been following them for days.

The agency said two other Libyan nationals associated with the Libyan Embassy in Ankara were rearrested due to a lack of evidence of their involvement in the apparent bombing plot, the agency said.

He was driving struc the back of a van making a right turn near the Student Center, a police report says.

Kenneth M. Focett, 22, 501 St. W., was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment, and was given a ticket for failing to stop to avoid an accident, the report says.

Arrests lead to discovery of drugs

SIU-C police arrested three students Saturday for walking on cars in the parking lot near the Arena, and a search of the suspects' car turned up cocaine and more than 30 grams of cannabis, according to police.

Jeffrey S. Baygoud, 20, of Willimette; Jay D. Blanken- bury, 19, of Neely Hall, and Michael F. Kramar, 22, of Neely Hall, were taken into

Decadence prevails at Van Halen concert

By Ken Seeger
Staff Writer

Van Halen, singer Sammy Hagar and drummer Alex Van Halen, drummer Michael Anthony, offered little in the way of older songs. Other than a handful of Van Halen and Hagar hits, the band stuck to material from the new album. The crowd didn't seem to mind much, sitting down only during "Love Walks In," a slickly sweet keyboard romp from "5150."

But when Van Halen returned to better tunes from the album, or older songs such as "Panama" and "I Can'T Drive 55," the crowd showed renewed interest and appreciation. Van Halen returned the favor with two encore one more encore than their recent Chicago concert.

‘Cotton Patch’ faithful to Gospel

By Paula Buckner

"Cotton Patch Gospel," billed as the "greatest story ever retold," was well-acted, musically superb and biblically accurate as a contemporary rendition of the life of Jesus Christ.

It could be compared to "Godspell," Stephen Schwartz's 1972 musical, based on the Gospel of Matthew. In it Jesus has a Superhero T-shirt and an 'nzo, and trapezes around New York City with 12 followers proclaiming the gospel.

And like "Godspell," which was not favorably received by most who saw it, "Cotton Patch Gospel" did not sit well with all who came to Shreve Auditorium Friday to see the last Celebrity Series performance for the 1986 season. "Cotton Patch Gospel" is based on the book, "The Cotton Patch Version of Matthew and John," by Lawrence Jordan, a Baptist Bible scholar. Harry Chapin wrote the production's music and lyrics, considered to be his finest work, before he died in 1981.

Russell Leander, who has been doing the show since last August, performed a virtual one-man show with great vigor and enthusiasm. He made one think that, contrary to popular belief, Jesus actually laughed.

Leander has appeared on "Edge of Night," "As the World Turns," and 85 other theatrical productions throughout America and New York City.

Special Consensus, a four-man acoustic bluegrass band—banjoist Greg Cahill, bassist Scott Salak, fiddler Tim Wilson and guitarist Dennis White—that has been doing the show with Leander since February, only complemented Chapin's work with its four-part harmonies and excellent musicianship.

The band has been performing throughout the Midwest since 1977 and has two albums to its credit.

"Cotton Patch Gospel" is set in Georgia. Joe and Mary Davidson, from Gainesville, are on their way to Atlanta for a six-week tour. Mary gives birth to Jesus two miles from Gainesville in an abandoned trailer behind the Dixie Delight Motor Lodge.

In the first half-hour of the show, Leander portrays John the Baptist, who is baptizing people in the Chattahoochee River.

John tells those who have come "not to tell me you're good church-going folks," and gets on the floor. About 10 people left the auditorium and about 40 others did not return after intermission.

Leander said that when he sees people walk out of the performance, he knows he's hit a nerve. "'Gutsy gets guts. It gets them to think," he said.

"Cotton Patch" continues to follow the Bible in its modern interpretation, from the calling of the 12 disciples—accompanied Simon who is called "Rock"—his brother Andy, Matthew, an Internal Revenue Service auditor; and Judi, who betrays Jesus as he is Jesus' lynching in Atlanta and his resurrection from the dead.

In the Bible, Jesus appears to the disciples in Jerusalem and says "Peace." Leander's Jesus also meets them, but on a Georgia mountainside and says, "It worked."

In the same way, "Cotton Patch Gospel" works. Leander, Special Consensus and banjoist Russell Treyz make the performance an often humorous and always accurate interpretation of Matthew's and John's gospels.
Student crashes into orchard, gets DUI charge

Jackson County Sheriff's deputies arrested an SIU-C student shortly after 7 a.m. Saturday on charges of driving under the influence and having a invalid automobile registration, according to a sheriff's report.

Edward McNamara, Westchester, was arrested after the car he was driving hit apple trees off Grammer's Orchard Road, west of Carbondale, according to the report.

McNamara and passenger William Donovan, Oak Park, were taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Murphysboro for treatment, Donovan is also an SIU-C student.

The car was destroyed, the report says, and Grammer's Orchard suffered about $500 in damages.

Competency trial set for accused Wetherall killer

A fitness hearing is scheduled Monday for John Paul Phillips, the man accused of the 1981 murder of Joan Wetherall and sexual assault charged from a separate December 1981 incident, to determine if he is competent to stand trial, according to Chief Circuit Judge Richard Richman.

Circuit Judge Donald Lowery will reside over the case beginning at 10 a.m. If Phillips is found to be incompetent to stand trial, he will be referred to the Department of Mental Health in Cincinnati. If he is competent, providing he was competent at the time he committed the alleged offenses occurred, said Richman.

Phillips was arrested at Marbury Correctional Center on April 8 for the 1981 Corbin homicide of Wetherall. Phillips is serving a 45-year prison term at Menard Correctional Center for the abduction of a 23-year-old Cartville woman.

Phillips pleaded not guilty Wednesday to each of the five counts of murder handed down in a grand jury indictment.

During the encore, Hagar pulled a member of the audience to the stage to help him sing “Jump.” Hagar quickly relinearized the spotlight as the man jumped wildly from level to level in a fit of sudden stardom. Hagar has always been an audience-oriented, taking time to proudly display the generous offerings of banners and women’s underwear tossed to the stage by the fans. Although he was less talkative than he was at his performance here last year, he let the crowd know he was glad to be back in Carbondale. Eddie Van Halen was quiet as usual, letting his guitar do the talking. Each band member took center stage to display their talents during extended solos. Alex Van Halen proved once again that he can cut drum just about any rock ’n’ roll drummer alive. Michael Anthony proved he can do things to a bass guitar that would make your eyes water. "Are you bringing that thing on the road again?" Hagar asked Anthony as he toted a folding chair to the center of the stage. "The man’s so wasted he can’t even stand up for his solo,” Hagar said.

But stand up he did, after relaxing only long enough to take a few gobs of Jack Daniels whiskey. He showed the stage with the whiskey and went head first into a 10-minute solo on his custom Jack Daniels bass. Jumping from the upper level of the stage, Anthony nearly fell, but steadied himself with a microphone stand and then improvised, using the stand as a guitar pick, making it sound like he’d thrown a cat into a piano and slammed the lid.

But it was Eddie Van Halen’s epic solo that really proved who the musical genius is behind the band. He nearly strangled his custom red, white and black Kramer guitar to death, playing all of his best known solos, from “Eruption” to “Cathedral.”

The band’s only fool up was with the beginning of “Why Can’t This Be Love.” as Eddie Van Halen started the keyboard in the wrong key. It didn’t take long for Hagar to notice the song sounded repulsive.

“Oh, boy! Hold it! That’s way off key, let me tell you.” Hagar joked, as Eddie Van Halen sheepishly reset the keyboards. “This is the first time that’s happened and it had to happen in Carbondale.”

But the audience didn’t mind the mistake, and Van Halen quickly recaptured the hearts of the crowd.
Men golfers at Drake; meet pretournament goals

Posting better scores as the event switched courses, the Saluki men golfers finished in fifth place among a 24-team field at the Drake Relays.

At Des Moines, Iowa last week, the 34-hole event featured 18 holes on Wakonda golf course followed by 18 on Echo Valley golf course Thursday. Echo Valley remained the site for the final round, played Friday.

Saluki coach Dan Vaughn said he felt pleased with the Salukis' escape from the tees. Wakonda course in eighth place with 316 strokes. From that position, the Salukis fired 298 to move into sixth. They finished with 299 strokes to take the fifth position with a 911 total.

Iowa captured the tournament with 890 strokes. Kansas and Wichita State tied for second place with 890 total. Bradley finished fourth with 905 strokes.

Vaughn had set a team goal for the top five and said he was very happy with the way his squad battled up the standings each round.

"That builds confidence, that we can move up in the standings instead of just trying to stay above water," Vaughn said.

Junior Jay Sala led the Salukis and tied for eighth in individual competition. Sala shot 73, 73 and 76 for a 224 total — but the scores did not highlight his play.

On the 186-yard 14th hole at Wakonda, Sala used an 8-iron to record a hole-in-one. Vaughn said Sala's playing partners described the shot as "perfect, because it had to be. The other place in individual competition, Sala shot 75, 73 and 76 for a 224 total — but the scores did not highlight his play.

Senior Tom Portner scored an 83 on the Wakonda course, but did not let that phase him as he burned the par-72 Echo Valley course with rounds of 79, 74 and 76 for a 229 total. Vaughn said Kolisek has made steady improvement in his ball-striking all year, and it carried him throughout the event.

"Tom's the kind of person who sees out of the picture, but comes back because he's a fighter," Vaughn said.

Bob Treash, a junior, improved round by round, with an 80, 79 and 72 for a 231 total. "Bob didn't play the first couple rounds, he just didn't score. But he shot the good score when we needed it," Vaughn said.

Jeff Landskroener, eligible as a junior, did not play up to his standards with rounds of 82, 78 and 81.

"Jeff certainly didn't play as well as he'd like — he hit the ball well but just couldn't score with his short game," Vaughn said. "He's played consistently all year, so I'm sure he'll come back and play well next week.

The Salukis play next at the Missouri Valley Conference Championship scheduled May 1, 2 and 3 at Hickory Creek golf course in Poria. Vaughn expects a tight race among MVC rivals Wichita State and host Bradley which placed better at the Drake Relays. SIU and Illinois State should also contend for the title, with an edge for the Salukis since they defeated ISU, Drake, and Creighton this weekend.

Errors costly as softball team gets swept in four

By Steve Merritt

The Saluki softball team was swept in a pair of weekend doubleheaders, dropping their record to 18-17-19.

23 hits produced only five runs while 11 errors all遏制 Illinois State and Indiana State to send the Salukas home winners. Illinois State won by scores of 2-0 and 3-1 while Indiana State won with scores of 4-3 and 2-1.

Assistant coach Anne Campbell said the team was frustrated but was not giving up and have now set their sights on the conference tournament on May 8-10.

"They're not giving up," Campbell said. "Take away the errors and we could've won all four games."

The biggest loss of the weekend may have been the 4-3 loss to the Yellowjackets, who scored in the bottom of the seventh to take the game away from the Salukas.

SIU-Edwardsville will try to get back on the winning track Tuesday with a non-conference twinbill with SIU-E, scheduled for a 2 p.m. start at the IAW fields across from the Student Rec Center.

School-time set at Drake by women's 1600-meter relayers

By Toby Eckert

The Saluki women's 1600-meter relay team achieved a long, awaited goal at the Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa, Friday, qualifying for the NCAA finals with a time of 3:38.13.

The relay team—composed of Dora Kyriakou, Carol Blackman,ologie Nunn and Denise Blackman—came in first in the trial heat of the event, setting a new school record. The team finished seventh in the final heat with a time of 3:40.20.

"By the time we got to the finals, I think I just overran my kids," Saluki Coach Don DeNoon said Sunday. "I think we went into that event ... a great expectation. If the weather had been right and all the girls had been competing as they have been comping, I think we would have done much better.

"I wish I could've lowered my scores all year, but consistency has been a reward, too," Kyriakou said.

Sophomore Vicki Higgins carded 81 and 84 for a 249 total in her final appearance as a Saluki. Higgins will leave the team in order to have more time to concentrate on her studies in electrical engineering.

Freshman Peggy Ellsworth shot 89, 92 and 94 for a 275 total as the Saluki's No. 3 player. Kelly Mason scored 90, 88 and 93 for a 271 total in individual competition for the Salukis.

"They've all made tremendous improvements and I'm proud of all the work they put in -- they definitely deserve it," Stabler said. "It reinforces my philosophy that if you work hard, have faith and never give up, good things happen and you will succeed!"

Saluki junior Pat Putman fired scores of 79, 79 and 83 to grab third place with a 231 total, edging Shockoe Ann Vanderzee's 230 and Bear Cindy Shook's 241.

Putman said she felt "pretty cool" under pressure, and the team attitude helped.

"We were all pulled up—we've been really determined all semester and our scores showed that," Putman said. "For me it was just seeing my confidence come through a change in things in my swing, and I came back stronger.

Sophomore Tina Korzowski continued her steady scores for the Salukis, with rounds of 80, 80 and 83 for a 243 total.

"I wish I could've lowered my scores all year, but consistency has been a reward, too," Korzowski said.

Women netters 7th at Gateway tourney

The SIU-C women's tennis team finished in disappointing seventh this weekend at the Gateway Conference championships in Terre Haute, Ind.

With pre-tournament goals of finishing in the top half of the 10 Gateway teams, the Salukis went 6-8 in singles play and 3-4 in doubles, as Wichita State won the title with a total of 36 points.

Western Illinois came in a close second (66 points), with Drake, Indiana State and Indiana State University rounding out the top five.

Southwest Missouri finished sixth, with Illinois State, Northern Iowa and Eastern filling out the bottom half.

Coach Judy Auld said there were a lot of close matches but the Salukis "let a lot of close points slip away."

This was a young team that has shown a lot of improvement since fall," Auld said. "It's a good foundation to start with for next year."

Auld said she was pleased with the team's overall performance in what she considered a rebuilding year after losing her No. 1, No. 2, No. 5 and No. 6 singles players to graduation last year.

The heat is on.

Saluki broke the 80's barrier Saturday, but they coasted anyway, shooting a 322 for a 968 total and 30 stroke victory. Saluki coach Sonya Stalberger said, "Team-wise, I knew they could hold up - they'd have to break a leg not to with a 24 stroke lead. We'd set individual goals, and I think the scores were higher (Saturday) because of self-imposed pressure, trying too hard for perfection."

The loss was the seventh in a row for the Cardinals, marking the first time they have lost seven consecutive games since April 1984. The Mets, 11-3, are off to their best start in history.

Mets solve Tudor, sweep 4 from Cards

Dubbed as the “Best Against the Rest” by coach Ray Dorr, the annual Maroon and White football game didn’t turn out exactly as Dorr had pictured it. Playing under a sweltering sun Saturday, the “rest” — clad in maroon — beat the “best” by a final of 19-6, but only after Dorr shook up his lineups to give the Maroons some help in a big game. About 600 fans showed up at McAudrey Stadium to watch the final scrimmage of the spring season and to see if they could help a lackluster offensive performance by the White team in the opening half. The White offense managed to gain just 12 yards in 19 plays in the first half and did not collect a first down. Byron Mitchell, who has been listed as a potential All-American candidate at running back, fumbled three times as a best of mistakes thwarted the No. 1 unit.

Quarterback Kevin Brown, who started most of last season as a freshman, completed just 30-of-92 passes for a total of eight first-half yards. The Maroons led 6-0 at the half on field goals of 25 and 56 yards by kicker John Sdra, who transferred here when Drake dropped football.

A two-yard run by Ben Washington for a touchdown made it 12-6 for the Maroons in the third quarter. Attempting a late comeback, the White squad scored on a one-yard run by John Moore to narrow the gap to 12-6 in the fourth quarter. Moore had blasted through tacklers for 13 yards on a play that set up the touchdown.

The “rest” struck again, however, when freshman running back Ron Lewis hit wide receiver Joe Cook on a 61-yard halfback option pass for the touchdown to complete the scoring. A highlight of the day was provided by the foot of Brda, a junior, who was considered the No. 2 kicker behind Ron Miller. Brda booted his two field goals with the aid of a breeze. Miller, kicking into the wind, missed from 49 yards in his only attempt.

The game, Dorr singled out Washington and Moore, both seniors, for compliments for hard play but was critical of the starting White unit for being inconsistent and of the White defense for allowing the big-play touchdown.

At halftime, Tom Baugh, standout center last season who’s awaiting the NFL draft, was given a plaque as winner of the Harry Bobbitt Spirit Award.
A Day in the Life of SIU-C

Tuesday, March 25, 1986

Using A Day in the Life of Japan by Rick Scholan and David Cohen as our guide, we wanted to capture the people and events that make up normal, everyday life in and around the university. The 24-hour shoot date was set for March 25, 1986.

Twenty-nine students answered our campus-wide call for photographers. Each was given a specific assignment and asked to search out the usual and the unusual on the campus and in Carbondale.

March 25 dawned a spectacular, blue-skied spring day. The students were everywhere. By midnight, 103 rolls of film had been shot.

The challenge of photo editing began as the first contact sheets came in. We spent evenings as well as class hours staring at the sheets and prints. Doc Horrell devoted many of his waking hours to tying up loose ends. The final selection of 53 photos was chosen from 106 prints.

We worked on the design and layout feeling the pressure of the publication deadline. As photo editors, we had a variety of photography, media, and production experience among our group. We called upon everyone's particular strengths throughout the course of the project. Working together in this way, we met our deadline.

A Day in the Life of SIUC was good experience. We hope the next Journalism 413 class will have a similar opportunity.
