The end of Springfest '86 was near, but these revelers weren't ready to quit celebrating just yet. As the sun fell behind Shryock Auditorium, Sugar Blue and his band began per-forming for a greatly appreciative crowd.

Cardboard chaos hits Campus Lake

Some boats glided through the water effortlessly, while others disintegrated and sank just as easily. When it was all said and done, several tons of sopping cardboard lined Campus Lake, the victims of the 13th annual Great Cardboard Boat Regatta.

Yeah, we got some floaters and we got some sinkers," said Richard Archer, an SIU-C design professor and Tounder of the regatta.

"This must be the event the movie 'Up the Creek' is based on," said Tim Bachman, bass player of Bachman-Turner Overdrive, Bachman put in an appearance between races at the regatta.

Roger Brummett, an in-dustrial arts teacher from Odin, won first place in the Class I finals for the seventh straight year. Class I boats are powered by oars or paddles.

"We tried a few different designs – flat bottom boats and long boats," Brummett said after the race. "Building and projectioning the boat was and redesigning the boat was the key." About 15,000 spectators lined the shore of the lake to watch the competition.

"We've got well over 150 boats," Archer said. "There's more of everything this year. along with the normal amount of chaos.

Police call killing of British tourist a 'terrorist act'

JERUSALEM (UPI) British tourist was shot to death Sunday outside the Garden Tomb, a Christian holy site in Jerusalem's Arab sector, in what police called a "terrorist act."

Police spokesman Rafi Levy identified the dead man as Paul Appleby, 28, of Bristol, England, who arrived in Jerusalem about a month ago with several friends. Appleby was apparently on a pilgrimage to the Garden pilgrimage to the Garden Tomb, which is closed on Sunday

Authorities said they could not determine whether the killing was related to anti-British sentiment in the Middle East, sparked by Britain's role in the U.S. air raid on Libya on April 15.

No group or individual immediately claimed responsibility for the shooting, but police said the slaying appeared to be a "terrorist act."

Israeli troops and police sealed off the area after the

The shooting, the fourth reported attack against a against a Westerner this year in predominantly Palestinian predominantly Palestinian east Jerusalem, occurred about 1 p.m. outside the Garden Tomb, which some Protestants believe is the burial site of Christ.

Caretaker William White said his wife rushed outside after hearing a gunshot and found the man lying on the sidewalk, bleeding from a bullet wound in the back of his head.

"As he stood at the gate, someone shot him in the back of the head," White said.

The victim, wearing blue jeans and sandals, was shot with a small-caliber handgun. He was pronounced dead on arrival at a Jerusalem hospital.

Israel radio reported that several people were detained as suspects, but Levy said no one was arrested. One Palestinian source said the Garden Tomb area is well known locally as a haven for drug dealers

The slaying came at the height of Israel's tourist season, a time of the year when Christian faithful from around the world make pilgrimages to the holy city of Jerusalem.

Hot sun and cold beer was the order of the day as thousands of thirsty, tanned and otherwise party-oriented folks jammed Old Main Mall and the shores of Campus Lake Saturday during Springfest

By shortly after noon, the mail was filling up with coolerd partiers with the jamming Piranha equipped along with the Piranha Brothers, who took time out to urge the crowd not to be duped into believing the bombing of Libya was an acceptable act. The crowd, however, was not

Davis and Cobin took an early lead in their zany entry, which they walked inside to propel, much like a mouse runs on an exercise wheel. Problems arose at the first pylon, because the craft had no steering system and drifted toward the shore. Attempts to right such problems were foiled when the wheel, a victim of too much wind and water, of too much wind and water, collapsed around its pilots. Don't change laws to benefit one man GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE Adlai Stevenson is going it alone, having resigned last Wednesday from the state Democratic ticket. And now he's filed a lawsuit asking that the state election laws be struck down because he thinks it is unfair that independent candidates must file for election months before a third-party candidate has to.

These election laws didn't seem to concern Stevenson before the March 18 primary election. It was only after Lyndon LaRouchites Mark Fairchild and Janice Hart won spots on the Democratic slate that Stevenson decided election reform was Maybe it is unfair that independent candidates are required to file the December before an election, whereas third-party candidates have until August to file.

BUT STEVENSON SHOULD stop pretending that he is a victim of the election laws or the LaRouchites. He is a victim of his own apathy — of not working to ensure that the voters of Illinois knew who his running mate was, of not working to support the overall ticket, of not investigating his opponents, no matter how inconsequential they may have seemed, of relying on his politically famous name to carry him through the election. In addition, Stevenson is a victim of the apathy of his party, which digitally think it had a premediate in linear party of the second of the party o which didn't think it had to promote its lieutenant governor and secretary of state nominees after the slating convention.

ELECTION RULES SHOULD NOT be changed because of one man's or one party's oversight. The court should take its time in examining the election regulations. Stevenson's election schedule-book should not have a role in the court's decision, and neither should his dislike of the candidates who gained a place on neither should his dislike of the candidates who gained a place on the Democratic ballot.

The court's decision should not be an anti-LaRouchite one. Like it or not, Fairchild and Hart were duly elected. This whole election situation, should instead serve as a lesson for the electorate and candidates alike to pay more attention to the democratic process, and each component of it, that we seem to have taken for granted.

Hard work to polish Contras' image?

A few weeks ago a lead story in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch described how, in the wake of scandals so severe that it had been heavily fined and denied certain defense contracts, General Dynamics Corp. was implementing a vast program to inculcate business ethics at every level of the cor-poration. There were interviews with top management and, the centerpiece of this public relations image-making, a long feature article on the professor of business ethics who had been hired to design and direct the operation.

The April 17 Post-Dispatch contained a lead story about a similar effort being carried out in another sector of the military-industrial complex, the U.S.-funded Contra insurrection against the Sandinista government of Nicaragua.

The problem for the poor sod in charge of laundering the Contra image may be a bit more difficult, lacking the bipartisan consensus that General Dynamics enjoys in Washington. 'Cotton Patch' faithful to Gospel

By Paula Buckner

"Cotton Patch Gospel," billed as the "greatest story ever retold," was well-acted, musically superb and biblically accurate as a contemporary rendition of the life of Jesus Christ.

It could be compared to "Godspell," Stephen Schwartz's 1972 musical, based on the Gospel of Matthew. In it Jesus sports a Superman T-Jesus sports and Superman T-Jesus s

Two proposals for can ban set for council

Two opposing recommendations on a proposal to ban cans from the annual Halloween celebration will be discussed by the City Council again Monday.

again Monday.
The Liquor ivisory Board has recomm used that the city not impose a can ban on the Strip this year but keep the option open for 1987.
The board suggested that stricter enforcement of existing laws would end the practice of throwing cans during the celebration.

In addition to stricter enforcement, the board suggested that local liquor dealers be provided with information to let patrons know that violations of city ordinances such as can throwing dinances, such as can throwing and underage drinking, will not be tolerated at the festival and the penalties that violators could tace

City officials have recom-mended that the council impose a weekend can ban on S. Illinois Ave. and E. Grand St. from 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. during the celebration. They also recommended that the city require all liquor establish-ments to close at 1 a.m., an hour early Both city officials and the Liquor Advisory Board recommended that the city bar revelers be kept from climbing on rooftops during the celebration.

The council considered the recommendations at its last meeting, but took no formal action on them. The City Council meets at 7 p.m. in City Council Chambers, 607 E College

During the encore, Hagar pulled a member of the audience to the stage to help sing "Jump." l Hagar quickly relinquished the spotlight as the man jumped wildly from level to level in a wildly from level to level in a fit of sudden stardom.

Hagar has always been audience-oriented, taking time to proudly display the generous offering of banners and women's underwear tossed to the stage by the fans. Although he was less talkative than he was at his per-formance here last year, he let the crowd know know he was glad to be back in Carbondale. Eddie Van Halen was quiet as usual, letting his guitar do his talking talents during extended solos. Alex Van Halen proved once and for all that he can out drum just about any rock uiroli drummer alive. And Michael Anthony proved he can do things to a bass guitar that would make your eyes water.

"Are you bringing that thing out here again?" Hagar asked Anthony as he toted a folding chair to the center of the stage 'The man's so wasted he can't even stand up for his solo, Hagar said.

But stand up he did, after relaxing only long enough to take a few galps of Jack Daniels whiskey. He showcred the front row with the whiskey and went head first into a 10minute solo on his custom Jack Daniels base

Men golfers good at Drake; meet pretournament goals

Posting better scores as the event switched courses, the Saluki men golfers finished in fifth place among a 24-team field at the Drake Relays.

At Des Moines, Iowa last At Des Moines, Iowa last week, the 54-hole event featured 18 holes on Wakonda golf course followed by 18 on Echo Valley golf course Thursday. Echo Valley remained the site for the final round, played Friday.

Saluki coach Darren Vaughn said he felt pleased with the Salukis' escape from the tougher Wakonda course in eighth place with 316 strokes. From that position, the Salukis fired 298 to move into sixth.

Iowa captured the tour-nament with 890 strokes. Kansas and Wighita State tied for second place with 890 totals. Bradley finished fourth with 905 strokes.

Vaughn had set a team goal for the top five and said he was very happy with the way his squad battled up the standings each round.

"That builds confidence, that we can move up in the standings instead of just trying to stay above water," Vaughn said.

Errors costly as softball team gets swept in four

By Steve Merritt Sports Editor

T e Saluki softball team was swept in a pair of weekend doubleheaders, droppping their record to 6-8, 17-19.

23 hits produced only five runs while 11 errors allowed Illinois State and Indiana State to send the Salukis home winless. Illinois State won by scores of 2-0 and 3-1 while Indiana State won with scores of 4-3 and 2-1

Assistant coach Anne Campbell said the team was frustrated but was not giving up and have now set their sights on the conference

"They're not giving up," Campbell said. "Take away the errors and we could've won all four games."

The biggest loss of weekend may have been the 4-3 loss to the Sycamores, who scored in the bottom of the seventh to take the game away from the Salukis

School-record time set at Drake by women's 1600-meter relayers

By Toby Eckert

The Saluki women's 1600meter relay team achieved a long-awaited goal at the Drake Relays in Des Moines, lowa, Friday, qualifying for the Friday, qualifying for the NCAA finals with a time of 3:36.15.

The relay team — composed of Dora Kyriacou, Carlon Blackman, Angie Nunn and Denise Blackman — came in Denise Blackman — came in first in the trial heat of the event, setting a new school record. The team finished seventh in the final heat with a time of 3:40.20.

"By the time we got to the finals, I think I just overran my kids," Saluki Coach Don DeNoon said Sunday. "I th'nk we went into that event ...h great expectations. If the weather had been right and all the girls had been competing as they have been competing, I we would have done think much better

The qualification of the 1600 relay team for the NCAAs was a first ever for the Salukis. Earlier this season, senior sprinter Denise Blackman qualified in the 200-meter dash (23.43), and throwing specialist Rhonda McCausland qualified in the shot put (51-1).

De Noon termed McCausland's performance in the discus at Drake "the highlight of the meet." McCausland placed second in the event with a throw of 167-0, a new team record.

The Saluki sprint medley relay team — consisting of Darcie Stinson, Kathy Raske and the Blackman sisters also turned in a strong per-formance at Drake, finishing thiro with a time of 132.77, a new school record. The Salukis lost to Texas Southern (139.23)

Looking across Campus Lake to Thompson Point Dorms.

Using A Day in the Life of Japan by Rick Scholan and David Cohen as our guide, we wanted to capture the people and events that make up normal, everyday life in and around the university. The 24-hour shoot date was set for March 25, 1986.

Twenty-nine students answered our campus-wide call for photographers. Each was given a specific assignment and asked to search out the usual and the unusual on the campus and in Carbondale.

March 25 dawned a spectacular, blue-skied spring day. The -1-5-apners were everywho hour By midnight, 103 rolls of film had been shot.

The challenge of photo editing began as the first contact sheets came in. We spent evenings as well as class hours staring at the sheets and prints. Doc Horrell devoted many of his waking hours to tieing up loose ends. The final selection of 53 photos was chosen from 106 prints.

We worked on the design and layout feeling the pressure of the publication deadline. As photo editors, we had a variety of photography, media, and production experience among our group. We called upon everyone's particular strengths throughout the course of the project. Working together in this way, we met our deadline.

A Day in the Life of SIU-C was good experience. We hope the next malism 413 class will have a similar opportunity.
