Council approves FY 1992 budget for Carbondale

By Leslie Colp Staff Writer

Despite financial problems for Illinois, Carbondale City Manager Steve Hoffner said the city's finances are relatively strong.

The City Council approved the fiscal year
1992 budget of $24,236,846 Tuesday night, but Hoffner said he thinks the city can again spend less than the budgeted amount to help keep the city in the black. The city spent about $2 million dollars less during fiscal year 1991 than was budgeted. But he said additional revenue sources are needed.

'We can't continue maintaining existing services without additional revenue, Hoffner said the financial status of the city has been getting progressively worse because parts of reserve funds have been used.

"It's been a trend," he said. "We're at the point now where we need to investigate alternatives.

A way to help prevent future budget problems is to begin to watch expenditures now, he said. Requests for training and conferences will be considered more carefully and additional personnel may not be added.

City personnel has been cut back, he said. In the mid-1980s, 340 people were employed by Carbondale. Now, 265 people are

Additional rescission feared

University prefers sacrificing classes in summer to cutting budgets—dean

By John Patterson Staff Writer

As Illinois economic woes continue, University administrators are making provisions in case another rescission is Although officials believe the outlook is slim that Gov. Jim Edgar would ask for more money back from universities as he did Feb.

11, administrators aren't taking any chances. In a meeting with SIUC deans, President John C. Guyon briefly mentioned the possibility of another rescission, said College of Liberal Arts Dean John Jackson. If Edgar were to call for one, the plan would be to cancel a substantial part of summer session, Jackson said.

The plan is so the University would not be ught off guard if the unlikely measure were taken he said.

Guyon said budget problems at the state level have administrators looking out for what could happen.

"The budget we're looking at might not be the one we get," he said.

Guyon did not say what specifically would happen if another rescission were called, but said he hopes one isn't.

said he hopes one isn't.

The likelihood of Edgar calling for a rescission before fiscal year 1991 ends June 30 is very unlikely, said Keith Snavely, professor of political science.

"I think the Legislature and governor are focusing on 1992. We'll probably be able to squeak by with this budget." Snavely said.

Gary Mack, spokesman for the governor, agreed the chances of a rescission are small. "The governor is not inclined to ask universities to give any more money back this year," Mack said.

The future of all state funding will depend

Profs first to create gas in pure form

Two University assistant professors have discovered a piece of the universe.

The professors, Rick Gaston and Wyn Lewis-

Bevan, are the first scientists to create Formyl Cyanide gas in its pure form.

Formyl Cyanide gas is thought only to exist in interstellar space.

Scientists have been working for about 25 years to develop a pure form of Formyl Cyanide gas on earth, Lewis-Bevan said.

Other experiments, which have failed, always resulted in forming the gas as well as a byproduct which caused the gas to decompose within 30 minutes, so the gas was thought to be unstable, he said.

By generating the pure form of the gas, Gaston and Lewis-Bevan have learned the gas is more stable than previously thought, Gaston said. Now the gas lasts about 45 to 46 hours.

Professors Rick Gaston, left, and Wyn Lewis-Bevan work to create Formyl Cyanide gas in its pure form Wednesday in Neckers Building.

The gas contains carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen which are all the atoms necessary to form amino acids which are the building blocks of proteins, Gaston said.

Gaston also is responsible for creating a new compound called Cinnamyloxyacetonitrile, which was necessary for the formation of the

The compound is heated to 400 to 700 degrees Celsius, Gaston said. The by-product, Allyl Benzene, is solid at room temperature, so Anyl Benzene, it solled at footn temperature, so it is filtered out and the pure form of Formyl Cyanide gas is left, he said.

Lewis-Bevan said Allyloxyacetonitrile was used in the previous experiments and the byproduct was propeae and Formyl Cyanide gas. Because propene is a gas at room temperature, it is impossible to separate the propene for the Formyl Cyanide which is the reason the pure form has never been made.

After the by-product was filtered out of the as, the scientist shot a laser through the gas and changed the wavelength of the laser at the same time, Lewis-Bevan said

Students owe millions in SIUC bills

By Amy Cooper Staff Writer

Students at SIUC owe the University more than $11.6 million.

Jeff Holder, SIUC Controller, said $6.9 million of the money is owed for tuition and $2.1 million is for miscellaneous items including parking and library fines.

The money owed, as of March 15, is for accounts receivable, Holder said.

The remainder of the money is owed for housing, fees and short term loans, he said.

Students at the SIU campus at Edwardsville also are in the red for the University.
SIUE Controller Arnold Meyer said students owe SIUE about $1.4 million in accounts receivable.

Meyer said students owe for tuition, fees and housing, in addition to parking and library

Unlike SIUC, students at Edwardsville also owe for text book rentals.

SIUE uses a book rental system in which students pay a rental fee at the beginning of the quarter. At the end of the quarter, students must return the books or they are put on the accounts receivables list for the value of the book, Meyer said.

Salukis shut out Purple Aces twice

By Cyndi Oberle Staff Writer

The SIUC softball team is still on a roll, shutting out the University of Evansville twice Tuesday at the IAW Softball Complex. The Salukis obliterated the Purple Aces, winning 6-0 and 10-0.

This brings them to a new record of 17 straight wins, breaking the old record of 16 which was set last

"I never dreamed we would win any more games than 16 in a row,' SIUC coach Kay Bretchelsbauer said. "We are not shooting to break any records, we just take it pitch by

The Salukis also set three more records against the Aces. In the first game sophomore hurler Angie threw 12 strikeouts to tie the school record. In the second game two records for stolen bases were SIUC stole 10 bases in the second game, breaking the old record of eight in a single game. They also topped the record for stolen bases in one season.

The Salukis' record is now 29-3. Evansville drops to 14-23.

Even with these accomplishments, the Salukis were not ranked in today's NCAA Softball Poll: This is the second time they have been ignored by the Bretchelsbauer said the team is disappointed but not discouraged.

"We're not thinking about the rankings," Bretchelsbauer said. "All we want is to be there at the end to win it all. I think not being ranked is more of a motivator than anything else. It makes us want to win more and it also gives us more exposure.

The Salukis jumped out to an early lead in the first game scoring three runs on three singles with four stolen bases in the second

They came back with the same force in the third inning, bringing in two more runs. Senior third baseman Mary Jo Firnbach walked and freshman Laurie Wilson laid down a sacrifice bunt for Firnbach Junior shortstop Cheryl Venorsky singled and junior center fielder Kim Johannsen walked to fill the bases. Junior second baseman Andrea Rudanovich pulled through with a single to bring home Firnbach. Senior first baseman Angie LeMonnier grounded out to second to score Venorsky.

The Salukis' final run came in the fifth when Venorsky belted a triple and Johannsen hit a sacrifice to bring her home.

Mick was a tower of power on the mound, striking out 12 players to tie the record and allowing only one hit the entire game. This is her third shutout and 'he now posts a 11-2 mark.

"Mick pitched beautifully," Bretchelsbauer said. "She had the ballgame in her hand from start to

In this game the Salukis didn't waste any time, scoring three in the first inning. Three of the first four hatters crossed the plate.

Senior left fielder Shannon Taylor led off with a walk and stole second. Freshman second baseman Jenny Klotz followed with a single and another stolen base. Taylor stole home and Firnbach tripled to bring in Klotz. Venorsky singled to plate Fimbach.

Dawgs bite Panthers in second game

By Julie Autor Sports Editor

The Saluki baseball team thought its bad luck vas going to continue against the Eastern Illinois Panthers Wednesday, but it was wrong.

The Salukis lost the first game 5-1, but turned the tables on the Panthers in game two, taking it 7-1.

The Salukis record is 19-25 and the Panthers have a mark of 22-28.

Junior Sean Bergman threw the opener for the Salukis and was relieved in the fifth by senior hurler Phil Mehringer.
The Panthers took the lead right from the beginning, scoring three runs in the bottom of the first.

Bergman took the loss to drop his record to 3-6.

Eastern pitcher Steve Lemke went the distance, giving up only three hits to up his record to 7-6.

The Panthers scored five runs on seven hits with no errors.

In game two, the Salukis overpowered the Panthers to take the win 7-1.

Senior hurler Bob Finder started the fourth by junior Ryan McWilliams, who finished the game and got the win.

McWilliams allowed no hits, struck out three and walked only two to raise his record to 4-2.

"Good pitching in the second game finally gave us a chance to get things turned around," Riggleman said. "After not playing well against Saint Louis University Tuesday or Eastern Illinois in the first game, I was glad to see us make some mental adjustments in the second game that allowed us to fight back and win the ballgame.

It started to look hopeless for the Salukis in the bottom of the second when the Panthers jumped out ahead on a home run to left field by first baseman Keith Mierzra.

Eastern took the 1-0 lead into the fifth when the Dawgs bit the Panthers for three runs on a single and two back-to-back home runs.

After Clint Smothers singled to left, junior Derek Shelton blasted a two-run shot to left. Junior Kurt Endebrock followed with another round-tripper to the left.

"Shelton's home run was probably the clutch hit of the day because it really seemed to get us going." Riggleman said. The Salukis scored four more in the top of the sixth. Cwynar singled to right field and senior Steve Nester laid down a sacrifice bunt.

Two tracksters friends, not foes

King said. King
"We were both on Team

The pair compete in the throwing events, which are the hammer, the discus, the javelin and the shot put. Saluki head coach Bill Cornell said it normally takes a year for freshmen to adjust to the difference in weights, but Miller and King have made the change quickly. "I'm elated with their progress, Cornell said. Mos weightmen take they've stepped right in and been productive.

The duo is used to success. King was the state champion in the discus while competing for Woodruff High School in Peoria and Miller finished third in the shot put at state for Marion High School.

Miller's size also allowed him to play guard on the football team in high school. He is now 6-foot-4 and 290 pounds. King is 5-foot-8 and weighs 214

Last weekend in Fayetteville, Ark., Miller won the shot put and King finished second. King then followed with a win in the discus and Miller took second. Graduate assistant Mike Geisler said the two use competition to push each other.

Lawn ordinances enforced by city

By Gregory Norfleet Staff Writer

If the grass is high, so are the fines.

The City of Carbondale is putting out the word reminding idents of city lawn-cutting

Code Enforcement Division Director Morris McDaniel said the city has three basic provisions for grass length requirements.

According to city codes, weeds and grass are to be kept cut less than six inches. Property owners are responsible for the grass length and failure to mow the property could result in fines.

McDaniel said the ordinance has been around for many years and is basically to enhance the overall community.

"In the past year about 1200 to 1300 citations have been issued regarding grass and weeds being too tall," he said. "And there will be a more aggressive approach this year."

The third provision includes the city coming out to mow the lot if the lawn is not taken care of by the owner.

McDaniel said if someone is found in violation, the city will placard the property with a sevenday notice to mow the yard. If the city sends a contractor to mow the yard, the minimum fee charged is $57.75 per lot.

The fee consists of the cost of a part-time inspector for weed surveillance, the contractor fee to mow the yard and administrative costs of code enforcement.

"Subleasers should make arrangements to have some lawn "(Cutting your lawn) is a chore that is not thought about much."

maintenance planned, so as not to be hit with surprise bills when they return from break," McDaniel said.

"(Cutting your lawn) is a chore that is not thought about much," he said. "It's just a common sense situation."

Jack Sullivan, Undergraduate Student Government director of the landlord/tenant union, warns renters to be aware of what their housing lease says regarding who is responsible for keeping the lawn mowed

"Some students will just pay the fine without bothering the landlord and not looking at their leases," he said.

Sullivan said the landlord should either take the responsibility to mow the yard or should have a mower or two to lend the residents.

Sullivan, also a renter, says that if a landlord rents out many houses, it may be difficult to track down a mower.

McDaniel said with the heat and the humidity in Carbondale, it makes it necessary to mow the lawn about once a week.

Any complaints concerning high grass or weeds may be phoned in to the Code Enforcement Division during regular working hours.

"We would rather occupants or landlords take care of that chore," McDaniel said. "But if not, the mechanism is there to take care of that problem."

Letters important to surcharge renewal

ALL SIUC STUDENTS HAVE concerns about rising tuitions, but they may not know how to voice these feelings to their legislators.

Students now, for a limited time, have a quick and easy way to do this.

University Relations and the Undergraduate Student Government recently created a letter-writing campaign to give students easy access to state representatives.

Students simply must sign their names to a pre-written letter asking the Illinois General Assembly to continue the temporary income tax surcharge created in 1989.

THE REVENUE FROM THIS SURCHARGE, which is split between education and local governments, provides the University with $15 million.

Even with this amount, SIUC still faces a 5-percent tuition increase next semester. The increase presupposes that the surcharge tax will be renewed.

Without the surcharge, however, tuition may increase by 24 percent. That's the difference between paying $1,638 for tuition or $1,935.

Students, then, can be expected to make up the money the University needs to maintain operations.

THEY ALSO MAY NEED TO PAY more if some students drop out as a result of tuition increases and the decreasing availability of financial aid.

With state and federal aid to students diminishing as tuition increases, some students may not be able to afford attending SIUC, or any other college, if the General Assembly does not renew the surcharge.

Quite simply, fewer students mean less income for the University. And remaining students again may be asked some time in the future to make up this difference.

So students must voice their support for the surcharge renewal to their legislators and the General Assembly before the surcharge expires June 30.

STOPPING BY TO READ AND SIGN a letter takes only a minute. A table has been set up in the south end of the Student Center for this purpose until May 3. This date may be extended to May 10 depending on student turnout.

USG and University Relations will be glad to provide the names and addresses of legislators at this table for those students who want to write their own letters.

Students who cannot make it to the Student Center but still want these addresses can call Dorothy Garsky, the associate director of University Relations, at 453-5306.

While one letter may not make a difference, thousands of

The band was forced to stop playing after only fifteen minutes because people would not refrain from throwing beer cans at the stage, proving that the immaturity and ignorance of a few can ruin a good show for all of us.

SPC BOOKS a variety of bands to cater to many audiences. If you don't care for a band like Too Much Joy, there are other stages to choose from.

Such a display of violent disapproval is unnecessary. I tend to think there was no motivation for the can throwing, other than as a joke played upon four guys who didn't deserve it.

GUITARIST JAY Blumenfield tried to play along with the crowd by catching a few of the full beer cans flung at him and drinking the contents, but ultimately the band could not overcome the incident.

After numerous warnings to the rowd, the band was forced crowd, the band was offstage taking not only their equipment, but our money as well.

THE FEES WE PAY each semester, which we usually complain about when raised, funded SPC to pay Too Much Joy for about fifteen minutes of work.

I'm sure they would much rather have earned the money, but in a way they did earn it by putting up with fifteen minutes of ridicule that few of us would stand for.

WHEN PEOPLE stereotype SIU as an apathetic "party school," we usually try to come to its defense. But in the case there is no

It was obvious none of the canthrowing participants cared one way or another what happened to the rest of the audience.

I JUST HOPE NONE of those can-throwers complain if Springfest is seriously re-evaluated by the administration in the future, because they will have brought it upon themselves.

Even worse, they will inflict such a decision on those who did nothing to deserve it.—Meghan Gleason, sophomore, pre-major.

Writer wants apology for letter rendition

I was very upset when I saw your rendition of a letter I submitted to Daily Egyptian on April 22, 1991. Egyptian on April 22, 1991. It is my understanding that letters are to be printed verbatim, down to the puncuation, if the paper also prints the name of the writer.

The text submitted consisted of five paragraphs, each with a logical begin-ning, body and conclusion.

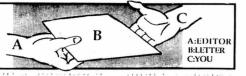

Your printed rendition revised this into 15 paragraphs, most often which consisted of only one sen-tence. You deleted the last sentences of one paragraph entirely. One of the multiple sentence paragraphs in your version consisted of two sentences that were in dif-ferent paragraphs in my copy.

Worse yet, you changed my wording. I deliberately chose the vocabulary, and am offended by the notion that someone there thought they could articulate my feelings better than I can.

The editing that was done demonstrated a conde-scending attitude. An over-confident undergraduate substituted "applauded" for "lauded." I'm sure he thought that I'd made an error, and that he's virtuous for finding and correcting it. Maybe the DE should invest in a dictionary.

Judge rejects plea bargain for Exxon, wants higher fine

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) A federal judge rejected a plea bargain Wednesday in the criminal case against Exxon, stunning a packed courtroom by declaring that a $100 million fine in the nation's worst oil spill is inadequate.

U.S. District Court Judge H. Russel Holland said the fine represented nothing more than the cost of doing business for the oil giant and failed to reflect the enormous damage caused by Exxon's 11-million-gallon oil spill in Prince William Sound in March 1989

"The damage was so great that I feel that the fines that were proposed to me were simply not adequate," Holland said.

The fine ... does not appear to adequately punish the defendants for the guilty pleas that were offered," he said in rejecting the plea agreement.

Exxon lawyers astonished, dazed and nearly speechless. Finally, lawyer James Neal told Holland, "This is a matter we need some time to consider."

Holland's rejection of the deal was a slap in the face to the U.S. Justice Department, which had offered the deal to Exxon.

Federal prosecutors marched out of court in silence, but the Justice Department issued a statement from Washington saying i was "disappointed" by Holland's cling but was prepared to go to trial.

Both prosecutors and defense lawyers had urged the judge to accept the plea bargain and sentence. Holland's only choices were to either accept or reject the

The proposed fine would have been the largest ever imposed for breaking environmental laws. Holland's action also throws into question a $1-billion civil damage settlement worked out by Exxon and the state and federal governments. A clause in that agreement permits Exxon to pull out of the deal if its criminal plea bargain was rejected.

Lawyers for Exxon, the Justice Department and the state of Alaska said Holland's rejection of the criminal deal jeopardizes the civil

The civil case also is before Holland, but Exxon and the governments have until May 3 to withdraw before that deal goes

Holland made it clear he was troubled by the size of the fine but said he was willing to accept Exxon's guilty pleas to four of the 10 charges on which it was indicted.

'I'm satisfied that the pleas that were offered ... adequately reflect the seriousness of the underlying onduct," Holland said.

In a brief speech from the bench that electrified the jammed courtroom, Holland repeatedly said he believes the $100 million fine is inchessive. inadequate.

The judge said the negotiated fine "suggested that spills are a cost of business that can be absorbed."

"If it is there it tells us about the chemistry going on in space, the evolution of interstellar dust clouds which are created from super novas and the life cycle of a star," he said.

Gaston said this discovery would be most useful to Astronomers.

Lewis-Bevan said he expects it will take another year to determine whether the gas is located in interstellar space and this can be accomplished through infrared astronomy.

Infrared light is the light that is below the visible spectrum, said Zack Stork, a graduate student in

Infrared light comes from a star and passes through the Formyi Cyanide gas, if it is present in outer space, and the gas absorbs the infrared light which can be seen by scientists in an observatory, Gaston

During March state revenue dropped possibly because of the Persian Gulf war, but Mack said he hopes wary consumers will end cautious spending now that the crisis is over.

Dianna King, Financial Aid Office coordinator, said some 2,000 student employees could be affected by a rescission during the summer session, but how much would depend upon what extent summer session was affected.

Already 26 summer class sections have been cancelled because of budget problems. Although the actual summer budgets won't be cut, other costs such as salary increases and covering the 1-percent rescission will absorb some funding.

The February 1-percent rescission cost SIU over $2 million. SIU received about $236.5 million in general revenue for the 1991 fiscal year.

Holder said SIU uses diligence in collecting student debts, including using University and Southern Illinois collection agencies.

"We make every attempt to collect," Meyer said. "We don't just keep track.

Meyer said students can't register for the next quarter at SIUE or get their transcripts if they owe the University money.

The University also has the option to use the state comptroller's offset system. Through the system, if a student owes money to the University, the University can have any money the student would be entitled to from the comptroller, Meyer said.

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) - The Food and Drug Administration Wednesday asked a federal magistrate to authorize the seizure of Citrus Hill orange juice stored in a Minnesota warehouse, saying the juice was falsely labeled as "fresh."

Jeff Nesbit, an FDA spokesman against Citrus Hill, marketed by

"The seizure action was initiated after Procter & Gamble failed to heed repeated warnings by the FDA that the use of the term 'fresh' for processed products violated long-standing FDA policy on food labeling," he said.

The seizure involves two orange juice products sold in cartons: Citrus Hill Fresh Choice Pure Squeezed 100 percent Orange Juice from Concentrate and Citrus Hill Fresh Choice Classic Style Pure Squeezed 100 percent Orange Juice from Concentrate.

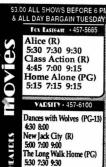

Both are manufactured in Frostproof, Fla., by Citrus Hill Manufacturing Co., and are marketed by P&G.

"Use of the word fresh on these (Citrus Hill) products is false and misleading, and it is confusing to consumers, "FDA Commissioner David Kessler told a Food and Drug Law Institute conference Wednesday in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.
Since 1969, it has been the

Producer overrules audience, selects student for TV show

Nashville is just a song away for a SIUC student.

Tom Brierton, graduate student in music composition from Carbondale, said he was surprised when he received a letter telling him he was chosen to perform on a local Nashville television program.

Brierton, who plays guitar, performed at Coo Coo's on their Friday night talent show called "Next Stop Nashville" with eight other contestants.

"They chose five winners by judging how loud the audience claps," he said. "I was not chosen that night, but later received a letter asking me to perform."

The "Next Stop Nashville" show is videotaped by Mac Thomas of

K-Mac Productions and the tape is viewed by Thomas after the live performance

Brierton said he later learned his tape was submitted to Nashville by Thomas.

Thomas said he chose Brierton anyway because he has the ability to make music interesting and that is not always easy to do. Thomas said he looks for performers, not musicians.

"Tom came across very accomplished on the video tape," Thomas said. "He took blue grass music and mixed it with his classical background."

The local television program Brierton will perform on is called Nashville Review T.V. Talent Showcase.

The show plays on Channel 27 and Cable Channel 13 and will be taped on April 28 to be broadcast at a later date.

Brierton plays showtime songs on a guitar. The songs he plays are music originally arranged by his father.

"My father is an accomplished guitarist and arranger who has arranged Cole Porter and Chet Atkins songs," he said.
An arranger transfers music played on one kind of instrument into another form so it can be played on other instruments.

The only song he plays that is not original is "The Last Steam Engine Train" by John Fahey.

"I like this one because it is a good, upbeat song," he said. "It represents a lot of technical things you can do on a guitar."

The "Next Stop Nashville" program at Coo Coo's ends May 17.

The band, which describes its music as "alternative classic rock," performs a long list of originals as well as songs by a range of artists including The Rolling Stones, Led

Although the group plays covers of many rock bands, its own music resembles a mixture of R.E.M. with an edge and Pink Floyd, and can be sampled on its self-titled cassette released in February.

Several songs on the tape stand-

"Second Sight" is a driving rock song with raw vocals and catchy ZZ Top-like guitar work, a combination that resembles something by The Smithereens. Another is "Stay The Blade," with forceful vocals reminiscent of Jane's Addiction and metallic guitar licks very similar to The Edge from U2.

On the down side are the annoying off-key harmonies on "Only You'll Remain," and the somewhat repetitious and uninspiring instrumentals "Warm Sun" and "Green Room."

The live nature of the band is also evident on the cassette. The music could be performed the way it was written only better on stage.

The tape is available from the band for $5 or can be purchased at Appletree Records, 1754 Wabash Ave., Springfield.

KISLOVODSK, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — Secretary of State James Baker flew Wednesday to the Soviet Union after reporting some progress in talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad but no breakthrough on a proposed Middle East peace

MOSCOW (UPI) - Mikhail Gorbachev defeated a challenge to his leadership of the Communist Party at a crucial Central Commit-tee meeting Wednesday and told the gathering it was essential that he remain head of both the party and the government.

Gorbachev opened the two-day closed meeting with a 40-minute speech in which he attacked both radical reformers and conservative Communists who have called for his resignation, saying his opponents on both sides were intent on destroying the country.

"There are attempts to push the country from the road of reforms, either throwing it into another ultra-revolutionary venture that ultra-revolutionary venture that threatens to destroy our state system or return it to the past to a totalitarian regime," Gorbachev said, according to a text carried by the official news agency Tass. The independent news agency Interfax said the meeting began with a move by Gorbachev's hard-line detractors to include on the

Gorbachev has asserted in the past that although the Communist Party gave up its constitutional only organization capable of running the country. "I have not changed my position," he said Wednesday.

Gorbachev also proudly cited a oint statement with Russian leader Boris Yeltsin and heads of eight other republics, saying "it may be the beginning of a turn ag point" in solving the economic and political crisis in the country.

In their first sign of cooperation since August, Gorbachev and his rival Yeltsin joined in the statement urging coal miners and other workers to end strikes demanding Gorbachev's resignation in addition to economic concessions

Yeltsin quit the party last year and still runs the Russian Federation, largest of the 15 Soviet republics. As leader of the opposition to the Communist central government he is was a key backer of the strikers' demands.

The strikes continued Wednesday despite the joint appeal, and reports from the western republic of Byelorussia said 10,000 strikers in the town of Orsha blocked a major railway junction for several hours to press demands for a special session of the republic's legislature to consider radical reforms.

Byelorussian government leaders refused to call the special session, and the strike committee said it would resume the railroad blockade Thursday morning.

The opening hours of the Central Committee meeting included a report by Soviet Premier Valentin Pavlov on the economic crisis in the country and his Cabinet's plan for recovery.

Soviet journalism improving with changes - administrator

Kylie Robertson Staff Writer

An era of openness in the Soviet Union has changed Soviet journalism for the better, said the director of the SIUC School of Journalism. Walter B. Jaehnig recently returned from a 17-day visit to the Soviet Union. He was part of a 24person delegation of the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication

Media censorship within the Soviet Union was lifted last August by the Mikhail Gorbachev administration and has caused confusion in the Soviet journalism industry,

It would be a mistake to say all Soviet press has been censored in the past, Jaehnig said. Criticism is not new to Soviet journalism, but they now have the ability to become what they term more objective.

Journalists are dealing with a new found freedom and are finding it difficult to deal with the democratic running of a newspaper with-out turning to anarchy, he said.

Police Blotter

The Soviet-controlled newspapers of Pavada and Izvestia known to the western world — are losing their readership as thousands of privately-owned publications are being started, he said.

"One newspaper we visited based in Moscow has a readership of 34.5 million and is sent to 55 major cities," Jaehnig said. "A group of 15 journalists run it."

As the industry increases, newsprint is becoming scarce and the government hasn't had to deal with this before, he said.

The Soviet Union press is not unlike the press in America, Jaehnig said, although politics is the main fodder on which they feed, Jachnig said.

Soviet news is based less on facts than news in America as Soviet journalists tend to write more commentaries and feature stories, he said.

Journalism schools also are changing as the teaching of news writing skills has become more important than education on Marxism and Stalinism, Jaehnig

The Soviet is changing so rapidly that some people want to slow down, Jaehnig said. "But journalists like the new changes so much that it is going to be very difficult to put Soviet journalism back where it was," he

In the past, the press in the Soviet Union has relied on subscription for financial support,

Now they are beginning to consider advertising for revenue.

"However, almost every paper owner I spoke to said they thought the use of advertising in capitalist nations affected the content of newspapers," he said. "They want to find a way to use advertising ithout this influence

Americans may think that these changes in the Soviet Union are leading them closer to capitalism, Jaehnig said, but the Soviets don't think this is true.

They don't believe the United States is an admirable model, he

"We think of the U.S.S.R. as a dark and sinister place, but all Soviets show such national pride I find it inspiring," Jaehnig said.

Playboy expands foreign editions to Czechoslavakia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Playboy magazine inaugurated its 15th foreign edition Wednesday with the introduction of a Czechoslovak version that features a home-grown playmate who wants "to help hard-working men relax."

Czechoslovak Publisher Wladimir Tichy was aided in launching the venture at a news conference by its first playmates of the month — Cristy Thom from the United States and Sarka Lukacom from Carebolouskia. Lukesova from Czechoslovakia.

Lukesova said she was paid $3,500 plus travel expenses to Chicago for her Playboy photo session.
"Our family lawyer checked out

"Our family lawyer checked out the offer carefully before we agreed. There are too many commen wanting to have my pictures," said Lukesova, an ethnography student. "It was my wish to help hard-working men relax while going through the new magazine."

The Czechoslovak edition is the light yerson of the magazine.

It is Playboy's second edition in Eastern Europe, coming after the Hungarian version launched in

The main task is to convince the public that Playboy is not a decadent erotic magazine as it used to be described in the past," said editor in chief, Jaroslav Mateika.

Drug, alcohol influence causes rising jail counts

Narcotic offenses result in big increase of convicted felons

WASHINGTON (UPI) America's local jails are bursting at the seams because of crimes committed while people consumed drugs, alcohol or both, the government reported Wednesday.

More than half of all convicted jail prisoners committed crimes while taking drugs or alcohol, the government said, and drug offenses caused an almost 80 percent increase in the number of people in America's jails between 1983 and

The Justice Department study showed that drug offenses accounted for 23 percent of the charges against the almost 400,000 men and women held in local jails during 1989 - up from 9 percent in 1983

The Bureau of Justice Statistics also reported that the number of prisoners in America's 3,312 local jails jumped by 77 percent from 1983 to 1989. More than 40 percent of the growth was caused by people held on, or convicted of, drug charges.

"The dramatic increase in the imber of persons in jails on drug charges occurred both among those awaiting trial and those already convicted of crimes," said Steven Dillingham, head of the Bureau of Justice Statistics

More than one-half of all convicted jail inmates said they had committed the offense for which they were incarcerated under the influence of drugs or alcohol or both," Dillingham said in a statement.

The new figures are based on interviews in 1989 with a nationally representative sample of more than 5,600 prisoners in 424 jails. Similar surveys were conducted in 1972, 1978 and 1983.

The survey included both convicts and people being held for trial, although unconvicted prisoners were not asked to answer questions about recent drug use.

Among convicted inmates, 29 percent said they committed their crimes while under the influence of alcohol, 15 percent said they had taken drugs and 12 percent said they were affected by both alcohol reported use of drugs declined or remained stable between 1983 and 1989. But the reported use of cocaine and crack rose sharply from 38 percent in 1983 to more than 50 percent in 1989.

Women and Hispanic prisoners were the most likely to be held on drug charges — about one-third of each group. The new study also showed that the number of blacks and Hispanics in local jails rose sharply between 1983 and 1989.

The number of blacks in the prisoner population rose from 38 percent to 42 percent. The number percent to 17 percent. Meanwhile, the number of white non-Hispanics dropped - from 46 percent to 39

Drinkers should contemplate alcohol effects before driving

By Joe Baker

As the spring semester begins to wind down and the end of this challenging year approaches, the pressure is on.

Getting together with friends and having a few drinks can be a relaxing activity.

After all, alcohol in small quantities can give a mild tranquilizing effect.

In larger amounts, however, alcohol can be a problem even if it doesn't seem that way.

Consider the choice to drive home after a night out when drinking has been an activity:

- Peripheral vision, the ability to see to the side, will be reduced.
- The ability to identify and follow moving objects or sense the position of an object may be decreased.
- The ability to recover vision after facing blinding oncoming headlights may be decreased.

To Your Health

- Color blindness may be exaggerated.

 Blurred or double vision may
- be experienced.

 Depth perception may be impaired.

Additional negative effects of alcohol abuse also include more obvious signs, such as an impaired ability to concentrate, diminished ability to comprehend situations and assess potential dangers, and

At what point does one become an unsafe driver? A "one-time drinking and driving adventure" can result in a potentially lethal accident

Consider also:

- The effects of a drinking and driving accident or arrest are costly and embarrassing.
- Insurance companies require much higher premiums after convictions for alcohol-related accidents.

As the year winds down, enjoy - but remember to set limits.

Alcohol effects on drivers may include reduced peripheral vision, blurred or double vision, impaired depth perception and the decreased ability to recover vision after facing oncoming headlights.

The revelation came from Mark Von Nida, an administrative assistant to Madison County State's Attorney William Haine.

Felicia Ann Horton, 21, of Alton was charged Tuesday in Madison County Circuit Court with the Class 3 felony of attempted criminal transmission of the HIV virus. The charge carries a sentence of two to five years in prison.

Horton was tested Tuesday at Wood River Township Hospital, and the test results confirmed she was about two months' pregnant, Von Nida said.

Meanwhile, it appeared Horton would remain in custody until next week when a hearing on Haine's request to deny bail for her was delayed Wednesday to give the woman's public defender more time to prepare her case. A Madison County judge rescheduled the hearing for next Thursday. Horton was transferred Vednesday from the East Alton jail to the Madison County jail in dwardsville, where she was held without bail.

Chief Associate Madison County udge Michael Mechan still was unsidering a request by Haine to

Bird to have back surgery

Celtics star Larry Bird will have surgery in the offseason to relieve his back problems, the Boston Globe reported Wednesday.

Bird "is resigned to the fact he needs it," the report said, quoting a Celtics' source.

Coach Chris Ford Wednesday morning confirmed that surgery "is being considered."

Bird, 34, who has been plagued by back problems since he entered the league in 1979, has missed practice sessions the past two days as the Celtics get ready for Friday's playoff opener against the Indiana Pacers.

Bird's status for Friday's opener is unknown. He is listed as day-today.

He missed 22 games this season, including seven of the final eight in the regular season.

The newspaper reported that the Celtics are making arrangements now for the surgery, but an exact date has not been set.

The operation may take place shortly after the playoffs are over.

Holyfield wants chance against Tyson soon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Evander Holyfield, still marveling at the battle 42- yearold George Foreman waged last week, Wednesday said he wants to defend his heavyweight title against Mike Tyson "the sooner

Holyfield appeared at a news conference to announce recordbreaking pay-per-view figures for his Friday night 12-round decision over Foreman. When asked who he wants to fight next, the undefeated champion said, "Mainly Tyson."

"I'm pretty sure what people want to see is me and Tyson fight," Holyfield said. "I want to fight him when he's at his best and I'm at my best. I realize I'm at my best now, and I hope he's at his best. I want to fight him now, not in three or four years. I want to fight him the sooner the better, hopefully this year.

"I think the public would be disappointed if we didn't fight. As champion, I want to give the people what they want to see"

Holyfield has been saying all along he wanted Tyson after Foreman. The only stumbling block is hard feelings between his promoters and Tyson's promoters and tyson's promote Don King.

But King Tuesday changed his previous stance of asking for a 50-50 split in purses, which could total $50 million.

King now says he realizes Holyfield should make about $5 million or $6 million more as champion, which would put the purses at $28 million or $0 for Holyfield and about $22 million for former champion team of Lewis's test results before the draft—as per league policy—but the Bears admitted they somehow misidentified the player in their draft evaluations.

After the public disclosure, Bears management and coaching staff met to decide whether to still invite Lewis to the team's four-day minicamp, beginning Friday at Halas Hall in Lake Forest. Instead, the team issued a statement indicating, according to Lewis's agent Gene Burrough, Lewis admitted himself to a drug rehab center and will miss the mini-camp.
"We hope Darren will get well and lead a productive life." Bears president Michael McCaskey said.

"If he successfully completes his program, we intend to invite him to participate in rookie camp.

The Bears' rookie orientation camp is scheduled for June 30 in Lake Forest

Bill Tobin, the Bears vice president of player personnel, said the team received a letter from the league office with Lewis's test results, but he never saw the letter and instead was given the information verbally by an unidentified person within the organization. Tobin took the blame.

"It was told to me that someone had tested positive," hg said. "I marked the wrong player. I made a

"When we're both doing well in the discus and the shot put, there's a lot of competition," King said.
"But it's not bad competition. I figure the more we compete with each other, the farther we'll throw. It's not just that I want to beat him and he wants to beat me. It makes both of us better.

The Missouri Valley Conference Outdoor Championships are coming up for the track team and Miller and King both have their sights set on placing well in more than one event.

"Around conference time, if I'm training well and healthy, I think I can throw 170 feet this year," King said. "I plan on winning the discus at conference. I'm ranked first in the conference now. Hopefully I'll get second or third in the shot put, depending on what Brian gets.

Miller said he is shooting for second or third in both the discus and the shot put and to score points for the Salukis in the hammer

After this year, the two will be trying to reach even greater heights.

"I don't want to say I'll go for sure now," King said, "but it is in the back of my mind that someday I would like to go to the Olympics. But I have to see how good of a discus thrower I am, because right now I don't know.

Miller is not quite so optimistic.
"My first goal is qualifying for nationals next year in the shot put," Miller said. "I just want to do well in the other three events. Hopefully my discus will be a lot better. As far as down the road, I'll take it as it comes.

King and Miller spend at least three to fours hours a day throwing, running and lifting weights. In addition, the track team is gone almost every weekend to meets. with the time athletics takes up, Miller said he doesn't let it hamper his academics.

"I don't think it interferes at all," Miller said. "We have tons of time during the day and at night. I just do what I have to get done. That has nothing to do with track. It's just my habits."

Even though King and Miller have both done much more than expected of them this season, Geisler said there is plenty of room for improvement.

"They are both still weak in terms of strength compared to other throwers," Geisler said. "If they both train hard during the summer, they will continue to improve."
