Leasing task force to scale down for break

TIM CAMERON
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

A pair of task force meetings Monday as a smaller group will continue to work during the summer.

The task force will meet during the summer in order to identify specific solutions and strategies to address different leasing problems, according to Undergraduate Student Government President Jack Smith.

One of the goals for a smaller group is to create a plan for the future, Smith said. The task force will have their busiest season for repairs and maintenance during the summer months.

Another reason, Smith said, is that smaller groups tend to have easier and quicker teaching decisions.

According to Graduate and Professional Student Council President Michael Speck, leasing education was deemed as an important part of resolving many issues before the task force.

"This summer, the task force will be working on attempting to improve the city, to handle the students and the university to better serve the city," Speck said. "We want to set up a system where we are ensured that, as people live and go from student to government, tenants will still get the information they need.

"So that every distribution of information for prospective renters was properly addressed by the draft of a fly-by-walk brought to the meeting by local property owner Kevin Williams, University Housing Director Jim Allen, a task force member.

Recruitment efforts pay off
Admissions, enrollment see increase from previous year

J. MICHAEL RODRIGUEZ

Admissions and enrollment for undergraduates are up 58 persons, according to this time last year — a number current Provost Jim Jackson attributes to an addition of recruiters and an increased campus-wide awareness of recruitment and retention.

SIUC has added eight more recruiters to its 20 sites according to Jackson, making it easier to cover more high schools and community colleges across the state.

"There's been talk that recruitment and retention is very important to our campus," Jackson said.

Jackson also added that some personal calls Jackson made to him. Jackson said one faculty and administrators are doing the same thing.

"It's not like a cold call like from a small card company," he said. "They show more interest in what we were following up on." Jackson said the University has used the Student Advantage and Anthill Advantage programs to market to students.

Student Advantage pays income freshmen a $500 stipend and same major and same living arrangements together in order to make the transition to the University seems a bit smoother. This month's program poses different questions with incoming freshmen as well as the same question as the Anthill Advantage.

Jackson said he made a decision that helps and retention are more important the same time.

SARA BEAN
DAILY EGYPTIAN

Yen said that Lambert's style is characterized by diplomacy and a tactful approach to working with others.

"I believe your agenda to be agenda as well," Yen praised the senate for its accomplishments throughout the last year and said he plans to build on that during his term.

"I think the senate is far more vocal and passionate than was the case five years ago, and I believe that is evident in an increase in shared governance," Yen said.

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is a great University," Lambert said in a platform statement. "And each of us feels strongly and cares about the University as part of the Carbondale community."

The senate also elected College of Education representative Sarah Romain as vice president. The initial senate was reconstituted in a tie between President and College of Science representative Randy Hughes. Ten and nine both were elected to fill the position.

Pritchard said the appointment is a great honor and she plans to use her position to help facilitate the work of the president.

The Faculty Senate met again May 11.

Outstanding students recognized

Rhonda Sciarrara
DAILY EAGLE REPORTER

Troy Compaore’s four years of dedication and Will Shaner’s guidance have resulted in the achievement of a national award.

The William N. Wasson Award is given to student leaders who are active participants in the Recreation Sports Association.

Since his freshmen year at SIUC, Compaore has served in almost every student worker position possible at the Recreation Center. He has worked as a student custodian, greeter, equipment desk supervisor, and supervisor of family programs.

All the hard work you put in for four years sometimes causes you to lack, “Am I going to get anything out of this?” Compaore said. “Besides just seeing everyone happy with the programs that are going on, it’s nice to see the people who are above you recognize you.”

Shaner, as a graduate assistant in faculty operations, oversees greeters and equipment desk workers. He also manages Recreation Center facilities.

He said he is pleased to see his efforts recognized at such a prestigious level.

“I think it’s quite an honor to be recognized,” Shaner said. “I think that if you put hard work into your education, as well as your line of work, things can happen.”

Habitat for Humanity gives hope to needy

Lauren Spring ’99 House Moving.

At one time, the flowers blossomed in the garden yard, and two young trees are beginning to bloom buds, symbolizing the hope of a new start.

The house, which is already at 8662 S. Giant City Road, will be moved in three weeks to the Lake Hills subdivision in Carbondale, where a Habitat for Humanity family will reside.

Cecil said he had to tear down the house or move it because he had broken ground for a 15-lot subdivision called Bradford Peck. Instead of tearing down the house, he gave Habitat for Humanity a call.

“I told Habitat for Humanity that they could have it,” Cecil said. “We had to do something with it because it was still a nice house.”

Cecil said the cost to move the house was $13,000, so he talked to friends and local businesses to obtain donations. A total of 30 local businesses donated money to the cause.

Two students held in rapes of 13-year-old girls

Two students at St. John Fisher College in Pittsford, N.Y., have been charged with raping a 13-year-old girl in a dormitory, state police said.

School officials have told the two men they may finish the week of classes that remain before formal exams but must move out of the residence hall where police say the two men, both 19, had sex with two 13-year-old girls.

State police said the girls knew the men and had consensual sex with them willingly. The alleged encounter happened in November and December. There was no indication of any threats, investigations said that under state law the two men were too young to give their consent.

One of the girls also told police she didn’t know the men were married and the other students that she knew the students and that he knew she was younger.

School officials said whether Lizardi and Boscarino are allowed to return to school next semester depends on the outcome of the investigation.

Election results to be ratified tonight at USG meeting

Ratification of the Undergraduate Student Government’s election results is expected at tonight’s USG meeting in spite of questions surrounding campaign practices on the part of the candidates.

Internal Affairs Committee Chairman Ben Syfert said he expects the election results to be brought up for ratification tonight. If the questions surrounding the campaign practices will have to be worked out by the Election Commission or the Judicial Board.

The ratification would be part of Syfert’s IAC report.

Finance Committee Chairman Greg Host said the bills, the remnants of the RSO funding meeting held April 21.

Two of the bills needed mathematical corrections, the result of errors by the Finance Committee, according to Foote.

The amount for a third was adjusted after new information.

Southern Illinois
Students too apathetic about Kosovo strife

It’s April 1999 and that marks a big “Happy 50th Birthday to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization” party for its members who are dropping bombs on Kosovo. Unfortunately, it seems the vast majority of our campus is content to miss out on this war party.

In the past, college campuses and Universities across the nation were barbarians of social change. Now, much of us seem to care about what’s going on in the world around us. Students at Harvard University conduct protests to combat the onslaught of single-ply toilet paper in their bathrooms, but here at SLUC the student body is relatively silent while thousands of ethnic Albanians are evicted from their homes and country. Where has the collegiate youthfulness and commitment to society at large gone?

Many of these refugees are fleeing to countries that simply can’t support the charitable relief efforts needed to accommodate these people to search for a safe place to collect their lives. Meanwhile, the month-old Operation Allied Force plods on. Whether or not you agree that NATO’s bombing strategy is effective in preventing Serbian forces from committing atrocities, the ethnic cleansing and battles already drawn comparisons to World War II. It’s frightening to wake up to the international events affecting the world we live in now and care about our fellow human beings. Food, clothing and cooking are desperately needed by thousands of people being forced to live in their lives behind with little more than what they can carry while running across the borders. These are things we can supply.

Some students have family in Kosovo. Maybe you know someone involved in the military struggle. America is involved in this conflict, and if we’re willing to go to Kosovo and create destruction, we need to be willing to give aid to those whom are displaced by the cross fire. Relief operations are up and running in a variety of locations and there is no reason this effort can’t come to Carbondale.

Just by getting in touch with the world, we can touch the lives of thousands of uprooted families. Humanitarianism isn’t dead; we just need to take enough time to care.

Daily Egyptian reporter

Charles Williams walked into a wood-carving meeting about 10 years ago and saw the work others were doing. "It wasn't hard to pick up."

"I looked at them carving birds," said Williams, 93, of Murphysboro. "And I said, 'Hey, I could do that.'"

Williams joined the carving club, which meets every Monday and Tuesday night for a carving, which deals with two-dimensional images cut into slabs of wood. He then moved onto three-dimensional birds and figurines.

Williams began showcasing his work at the Carbondale Farmer's Market every Saturday, where he met Frances Swedlund, an SIUC professor of photography.

"I was really fond of the figurines," Frances said. "We struck up an friendship. He would sometimes make things with me in mind."

Charles enjoyed Williams' work as well, although he admitted it was his wife who sparked his interest.

"It was basically Frances' thing," Charles said. "She thought they were silly. She admired the birds, while I'm more attracted to the people. They have more individuality.

"Frances and Charles thought so much of Williams' carvings they began looking for places to show it. An opening came up in the front gallery, and they took it," according to Williams, it was a pleasant surprise.

"It was their idea," Williams said.

"Frances started talking about it about a year ago. I didn't think she was that serious but she did it.

"Charles said the show was a perfect way to showcase Williams' carvings as well as teach students. "We have a whole shelf in our home filled with his figurines," Williams said.

"I thought it'd be a nice exhibit to have students see different ways to create. In my classes I try to show the importance of being a human is the need to create."

Williams' need to create stretched back long before he began carving.

Williams has worked as a maintenance engineer for SIUC, built about 100 homes in the Carbondale area and even drew up house plans. He also dabbled in oil painting. For Williams, having a hobby where he can create keeps him going.

"It's just a good hobby, and I can't just sit on my ass at my age," Williams said. "At 93, if you don't watch it you vegetate. I just don't seem to want to sit and moan about how old I am. I'm in pretty good shape."

"The gentle man has a lot of spirit," Charles said. "Being 93 and having spirit is super-unique. He's a people person. He wants to talk and meet with people. I think it takes courage to go out and put a rube up and place your stuff on it — open to people's criticism."

Williams has no plans on stopping anytime soon. In fact, he is looking for a new challenge.

"I get bored doing one thing," Williams said. "I'll see something I like, I like it. It's like a challenge. I'm going to go back to the pallet and chisel and do heads. It's a challenge to do faces and eyes."

Bridget Barth, president of SIUC's Habitat for Humanity campus chapter and a junior in philosophy and psychology, said this is the first time area businesses have contributed to the Habitat for Humanity cause. "It's good for publicity and for our future," Barth said. "It's a way to involve businesses.

Barth said a family must put in 30 hours of "sweat equity" work in building a Habitat home. Since the donated home is being moved, the family will put in 30 hours of work toward renovation.

"They will probably help paint the inside, help with the landscaping," Barth said.

Cecil said in the eighth Habitat for Humanity house in the area, and he has been working with the organization for five years helping pour concrete and landscape Habitat houses.

"It's a good choice to do this — it's a good organization," Cecil said. "It will give someone a nice house to live in."

Happens... Bill McMinn, director of the Recreation Center, said he was extremely thrilled that two people from SIUC received the Visiting Award. He has seen only one other person from SIUC win the award in 20 years at the University.

McMinn said both Companio and Shaner were nominated for the award because of their dedication and hard work.

"Because of their attitudes, how they conduct themselves in the facility, outside of the facility and in the classroom," McMinn said.

"They are great ambassadors for SIUC — they truly are," McMinn said. Companio and Shaner received the award because they represent the highest standards and deserve to be recognized for their accomplishments.

"As far as integrity, commitment, enthusiasm and loyalty, they set the standards," he said. "I think that exemplifies what the award is really about."

Steps of Removing a Tick

1. Use fine-point tweezers to grasp the tick at the place of attachment, as close to the skin as possible.
2. Gently pull the tick straight out.
3. Place the tick in a small vial labeled with the victim's name, address and date.
4. Wash your hands, disinfect the tweezers and bite site. Call your doctor to determine if treatment is warranted.
5. Have the tick identified/tested by a lab, your local health department, or veterinarian.

Preventing Tick Bites

Avoid contact with tick-infested areas.
Avoid sitting directly on the ground.
Avoid brushing or grooming pets unnecessarily.

Dress properly when in tick territory

- Wear light-colored clothing to spot ticks more easily.
- Wear a hat and pull back long hair.
- Tuck pants into socks and shirts into pants, so ticks can't crawl under your clothing.
- Wear tightly woven clothing so it's harder for a tick to attach itself.

Conduct regular tick checks.

- Do a visual inspection of exposed skin and clothing about every three to four hours.
- Check pets, especially around the ears.
- Manage your property

- Remove leaves and clear any brush or tall grass from around your house and at the edges of gardens.
- Construct physical barriers (e.g., fences, rock walls) to discourage deer and other wildlife from coming near homes.

- Spray insect repellent containing DEET on clothes and exposed skin other than the face.
- Treat clothing (especially pants, socks and shoes) with permethrin, which kills ticks on contact.

Thinks Williams’ brochure will help in education efforts.

"The key components in the brochure," Jones said. "I think Kevin’s brochure is a step in the right direction."

William said the task force could make whatever changes they deem necessary in the brochure but would not comment further on the subject.

Mediation of landlord/tenant disputes through the Alternate Dispute Resolution Clinic at the SIU School of Law was another subject that needed attention Monday night, Speck said.

Speck said the task force will be examining ways to direct more students and property owners with problems to the ADR Clinic as opposed to litigation.

"This is not arbitration," Schmitz said. "We provide an opportunity for people to talk out their problems and work them out themselves."

Arbitration would require participants to abide by the arbitrator’s decision. The mediation in the ADR Clinic simply provides structure and civility to disputes, according to Schmitz.

"We’re really there to summarize and clarify," she said.

Discussion at the last two task force meetings has been much more open and productive, according to Speck. However, he said property owners are still adamantly opposed to further regulation.

"It’s a shame because we still stand behind the proposed ordinances," he said. "Hopefully, the new City Council will look at them again."
Life: is it a comedy, or a drama?

TIM SANGER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

"Life" is a bodgepot of better films trying to masquerade in the role as a comedy and a drama. The two genres never really get the chance to take over the film. A fast-talking city boy named Ray (Eddie Murphy) drags Claude (Martin Lawrence), a dimwit bank teller, into a bootlegging run that winds the two of them into a frame-up. The two are accused of murder and arrive on a Mississippi prison farm in 1932. The film chronicles their time in prison, through various escape attempts, as they begin to realize the bonds of their friendship.

We've gone from the cathode ray tube to the Internet to the microlith, so it's vital that journalists embrace change and new ideas for a changing environment.

In addition to his experience as a media educator, Foote has also proven himself in other areas of the media business. He served as Press Secretary to United States Senator Carl Albert and served as Assistant to Congressman Dave McCurdy. Furthermore, Foote has been involved with the BEA for 10 years and has served as its president. "I believe there will always be a need for someone who can tell stories and make sense of the day's events," Foote said. "What I don't know is how valued these people will be in the economy." Foote believes that the industry has become much more competitive because of new innovations such as the Internet, a trend that he thinks will continue.

Paper circulation is down because of a lot more risk as well.

Footage from the film's elaborate sets filled with great actors such as Clarence Williams III and B. K. Johnson, they have no more significance than scenery does. The supporting characters come and go - it's a shame. Some of them are interesting (keep an eye on comedian Guy Torry, who has a small role in the film. His stunt work here and his excellent performance as the straight man are a great highlight of the movie). "Life" is far from being a comedy or a drama.

Spear's success is Sweet... and Spicy

GEOFF BOURNE

LOS ANGELES TIMES

It took a busted knee for Britney Spears to realize that she has the world at her feet.

In the whirlwind three months since her debut album's release, the 17-year-old singer hit No. 1 on both the native's album and singles charts. Pain met her, national magazine covers are devoted to her and Catholic school skins have become a mini-fashion craze thanks to her hit video.

But caught up in a blur of interviews, hotel rooms and airports, Spears found that none of it seemed real.

Then in early March, Spears returned to her tiny hometown of Kentwood, La., to nurse a cartilage injury suffered during a Los Angeles video shoot.

"When I went home, that's the first time it all started to sink in," Spears said last week on a return trip to Los Angeles to finish the beach-scene video for her next single, "Sometimes."

"Not that long ago, I was going to basketball practice every day and doing homework, just being completely normal... When I went back home, I realized how much everything had changed from that."

At home, the limping Spears did chores, gabbed on the phone and stayed up for late-night walks with her mother. The big local topic was: "Someday..."

If it is any consolation to the Salukis, who have dropped 16 of 18 games, the Saint Louis University Billikens are just a little bit worse.

At 12-30 overall and 2-16 in Conference USA, SLU has had more than its share of problems this season.

Even though the Salukis (22-20 and 7-16 in the Missouri Valley Conference) have been complaining about their lofty 4.62 ERA, the Billikens have been hit by a long shot. Heading into today's game with the Salukis, the Billikens' ERA is 9.24.

The second sore spot for the Billikens is their offensive lead. SLU has lost three straight ballgames, so price today's 3 p.m. game in St. Louis.

For the Salukis, this type of inconsistency is a welcome site. Only scoring 74 runs (4.11 avg.) in their last 18 games, the Salukis pitchers have given up 146 runs (8.11) almost double of what their offense has been able to provide.

"We need to have some success," senior pitcher Adam Biggs said. "We just need to not press, stay relaxed and play well into the Evansville weekend."

The Salukis biggest test, however, will be whether they can beat the Billikens, but if they can do well at the University of Evansville this weekend.

SIUC is in last place in the MVC. With a less-than-perfect weekend in Evansville, Ind., the Salukis will most likely be knocked out of the conference tournament — a position they haven't been in since the 1991 season.

The leading player during the event for the Salukis was native of the Philippines, was Floro. Finished the 1999 season.

From Johnson Wood (.389) and Jen Bredenkoette (.366) to carry the offensive lead, SLU has lost three straight ballgames, so price today's 3 p.m. game in St. Louis.

Tennis players honored

The Missouri Valley Conference honored three members of the SIUC men's tennis team and two from the women's team in the wake of successful seasons.

Senior Jack Oxler and freshman Dane Santa Cruz were nominated to the MVC All-Conference first team by league coaches. Oxler earned the honor in the No. 4 singles flight, and Santa Cruz was named in the No. 5 flight.

Oxler, a native of Wichita, Kan., finished his career by leading the Salukis to a fourth-place finish in this weekend's MVC Team Championship and a 14-10 mark overall, their first winning season in 11 years.

Oxler's 70 career wins leaves him fourth best in school history. He finished this season with a 19-13 mark and a 10-3 record against MVC opponents.

Selected as a No. 5 singles flight for All-Conference, Santa Cruz earned the nickname "money" during the season after a comeback win to give his team a 4-3 win against Illinois State University, which eventually enabled the Salukis to a gain a No. 4 seed in the tournament.

Santa Cruz, a native of the Philippines, completed the season with a 18-7 record, including a stretch of winning 14 of 15 matches.

Sophomore Kenny Huizar finished No. 7 in School History. He finished this season with a 19-13 mark and a 10-3 record against MVC opponents.

Senior pitcher Adam Biggs has a few words of advice about his teammate.

"He's a weird one," Biggs said. "But I like him. He's a fun guy. A little strange, but a good guy."

Back to the story.

"My dad killed it because it was mean, and it would chase me everyday," Meeks continued. "I would shoot it full of pellets, hit it with rocks, and hit it with sticks, and it wouldn't die. It was a psycho chicken — it was the devil chicken. My dad finally killed it, but I had nightmares about that thing."

Whether this crazy tale led to Meeks' crazy demeanor on the SIUC baseball team or not, the junior from Trinidad State Junior College in Colorado has been a welcome addition to the struggling 22-20 Salukis.

"Let me think," senior pitcher Jason Frasor says. "Joe Meeks. On the field he's great. Off the field, he's kind of crazy."

For Meeks, however, his craziness is what makes him different. He dyed his hair from brown to blonde earlier in the year for no apparent reason.

"I start trends," said Meeks, who is batting .291 with 11 RBIs in 39 games. "I'll be looking in the mirror and I won't even be thinking about it. I just do it in the spur of the moment. I just want change and like to do something different than everyone else."

"The craziness doesn't end there. His four-month-old pit bull, Sage, could become the first canine Dennis Rodman," Meeks said.

"I want to pierce my dog's ears," Meeks said. "Put some hoops in her ears."

Meeks obviously can't do that to his best friend in the world. "She's my pride and joy of Carbondale, and I love her to death."

Saluki shortstop Joe Meeks and his four-month-old pit bull, Sage, have not missed a baseball game this season. Meeks is hitting .291 with 11 RBIs, while ever-friendly Sage is looking to become the team's new mascot.
