University opens; no snow predicted

By Anne Flaska and Phil Milano
Staff Writers

Barring a midnight blizzard, classes will be held and all University services will be provided in full Wednesday, Clarence Dougherty, vice president for campus services, said late Tuesday afternoon.

With one exception, all parking lots and walkways should be cleared of most snow in time for morning classes, he said.

The upper floor of the parking garage near Faner Hall will not be open until later this week, Dougherty said. Too much snow has accumulated on the upper level, and he said crews will wait until some has melted before moving in with small equipment.

"Some lots and walks will be spotty," Dougherty said.

The walkway designated for handicapped individuals will be given high priority, he said.

Decisions regarding the loss of class time due to the University closing on Monday and Tuesday will be handled through the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Research, Susan Rehwaldt, assistant to President Albert Somit, said Tuesday.

John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs and research, could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

The University last closed in 1979 for two days, also because of a snow storm.

The National Weather Service Office in Chicago predicted winds from 10 to 20 mph through Wednesday morning, with a high of 30 degrees predicted for Wednesday. No new snowfall was predicted.

Physical Plant employees have been clearing campus drives almost continuously since 3 a.m. Monday, Dougherty said.

By 5 a.m. Monday, a full staff of 35 snowplow drivers and laborers were working in rotating shifts, he said. Some employees had put in over 20 hours since the beginning of the operation, and a few were stranded by the storm and forced to sleep on campus, he said.

All Carbondale main roads were passable early Tuesday evening, and many side streets were expected to be passable by Wednesday evening barring further snow. The Carbondale Public Works Department had seven snowplows clearing roads Tuesday. No cars had been towed from snow routes for snow-clearing purposes as of late Tuesday afternoon, a department spokesman said.

Many county highways were impassable Tuesday with drifts from two to six feet, according to a spokeswoman for the superintendent of highways for Jackson County.

Governors propose tax increase, budget cuts

By Evans Witt
Of the Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's governors on Tuesday recommended a combination of tax increases and spending cuts that would chop the federal deficit by $460 billion over the next five years.

While the debate over the plan often took on partisan tones, the overall sentiment was that federal red ink running nearly $200 billion a year must be reduced.

"There is a time bomb out there and it is urgent that we act," said Vermont Gov. Richard A. Snelling, a Republican.

If adopted by Congress, the proposal would raise taxes and cut back on projected spending increases for both defense and social programs. Its effect over the first three years, cutting the deficit $143 billion, was about the magnitude of changes backed by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker.

"The figure I have thrown out is aiming at an annual rate in the neighborhood of $50 billion," Volcker told the closing session of the National Governors Association winter meeting.

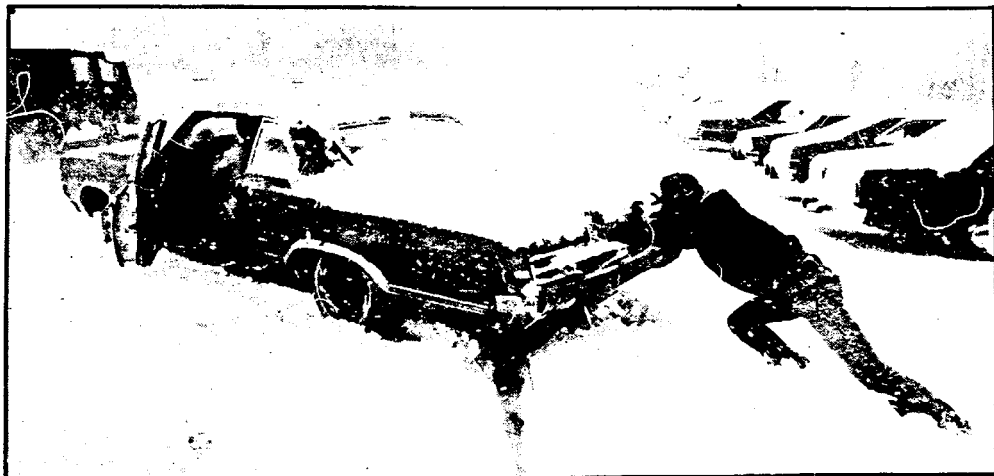

"This is a catch-22 situation to which there is a solution," he said. "The place to enter into this gridlock is through the budgetary situation."

The "catch-22," Volcker said, involves the need to reduce the deficits to prevent long-term harm to the economic recovery while making sure those deficit-reduction efforts do not choke off the recovery in the short-term.

The budget proposal was approved after two hours debate on a 28-10 vote, with Republicans Snelling, Thomas H. Kean of New Jersey and William Janklow of South Dakota backing the measure. All the negative votes came from Republican governors.

The governors' plan would cut defense spending by $60 billion and non-defense spend-

Snowbound students find holiday entertainment

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

Partying and wintertime games kept students busy Monday and Tuesday, as school was out for the serendipitous winter holiday caused by 12 inches of snow.

About 4,500 students, 1,000 more than usual, crowded the Recreation Center both days to swim, lift, run, play and hang out. On South Illinois Avenue the bars were reportedly doing a brisk business, as many likened the large Monday crowds to those common on weekends.

Two snowball fights took place at Greek Row Monday. The first exchange was a fun, light-hearted battle between fraternity members and Thompson Point residents. But a second fight, which involved an estimated 500 residents from Thompson Point, University Park and Brush Towers resulted in eight broken windows at various fraternity houses, according to Mark Styninger, president of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Students ordered out food in droves, too. Quatro's Pizza on University Avenue sold over 120 pizzas Monday night, and was as busy as on Halloween, manager Damen Osborne said. Domino's Pizza in the Eastgate Shopping Center was not open Monday because of the heavy snow, but was triple-staffed Tuesday to accommodate the increased phone-in orders, a store manager said.

Booby's, 406 S. Illinois Ave., made about 40 deliveries Monday, twice the usual business. Tuesday orders were up too, according to manager Fred Redtke.

way 64 were down to one lane of traffic in many places, according to Lt. John Richier of the State Police in Du Quoin.

The Illinois Department of Transportation warned against unnecessary travel. Visibility was down to 10 feet on some state highways.

The Marion Truck Plaza on Illinois Route 13 reported that 250 semi-trucks camped out in its lot, waiting for conditions to improve on northbound Interstate Highway 57.

Illinois Route 13 was closed between Coulterville and Tilden in Randolph County late Tuesday afternoon, a DOT spokesperson said, as well as Illinois Highway 154 between U.S. Highway 51 and Pinckneyville. Conditions on state highways were expected to improve by Thursday morning if winds died down by Wednesday morning.

One hundred DOT snowplows were operating Tuesday, although no salt was being spread due to high winds.

Lt. Amos Covington of SIU Security said a snowball fight at Small Group Housing, which resulted in broken windows in several fraternity houses, was the only major incident on campus.

SIU Security aided Williamson and Union County Sheriff's departments in rescuing about 16 people stranded at Panther Den Hollow near Little Grassy Lake, Covington said. The group, part of a rehabilitation program for young adults, was taken from where it was picked up in Jonesboro to the main camps at Little Grassy Lake.

Southern Illinois Airport reported about 12 inches of snowfall late Tuesday, but no information was available on flight cancellations or service delays.

Williamson County Airport suspended all Britt Airways' outgoing flights to St. Louis, Mo., and Evansville, Ind., as of Monday morning, Doug Fry, customer service manager, said.

Fry said that although the Williamson County Airport has been working to clear the runways, drifting snow and ice forced the cancellation of about 10 flights. Fry said that depending on conditions flights should resume again tomorrow.

An Amtrak spokeswoman said trains were running on schedule. A slight increase in ticket sales has been noted, she said, as people were left stranded by interruption in airport service.

Ed James, manager of Yellow Cab in Carbondale, said the storm has created more work for his company, although it is receiving about the same number of calls due to the closing of businesses and the University Mall. James said they are trying to answer only emergency calls to free drivers. He said the added work of towing stuck or stalled cars was the main problem.

Bill Miriani, director of mail processing at the Carbondale Post Office, said two day's worth of mail for SIU-C was waiting to be delivered as a result of the University's closing. He also said mail service was operating on an hour-to-hour basis, with 50 percent service expected for Wednesday.

closed, but the Recreation Center was packed while the Student Center was nearly deserted. Banquets and meetings to be held at the Student Center Monday and Tuesday were cancelled, and food service receipts were down about 90 percent, according to staff member T.J. Rutherford. Rutherford said the bowling and billiards areas were "quite dead," and that the bookstore and check cashing service closed early Tuesday.

Senate OKs preserve on state canal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate has unanimously approved a bill designating a 92-mile federal conservation and recreation area, stretching from Chicago's Navy Pier to LaSalle-Peru, which will create about 700 jobs in the tourist industry.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., will protect the wildlife-rich strip of land and create the first federal preserve of its kind in Illinois, supporters say.

The legislation passed by the Senate on Monday includes no funds for acquisition of additional property for development. It does, however, provide publicity and educational programming assistance from the National Park Service worth about $6 million, said Gerald Adelmann, executive director of the Upper Illinois Valley Association.

The abandoned canal runs parallel to the Des Plaines River from Summit to its junction with the Illinois River south of Joliet, and then runs along that river to the central Illinois community of LaSalle.

News Roundup

Mondale concedes New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Gary Hart captured an upset lead over former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, jolting the Democratic frontrunner in New Hampshire's debut presidential primary election.

Mondale said New Hampshire voters didn't want the debate to end, and also ran John Glenn said: "I think it's a whole new ballgame."

Mondale vowed to redouble his efforts and said he was confident of winning the nomination.

Six candidates trailed far behind Hart and Mondale, several of them simply fighting for survival. Sen. Glenn said the results here "pierce that balloon of inevitability" that Mondale would win the nomination.

Nine injured in jet accident

NEW YORK (AP) — A Scandinavian Airlines jumbo jet carrying 177 people skidded off a Kennedy Airport runway into a 12-foot-deep creek while landing Tuesday in drizzle and fog. Officials said nine people suffered minor injuries.

Some passengers had to jump from a door of the DC-10 and swim to safety, according to Tom Young, spokesman for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which operates the airport. He said others jumped down chutes or walked on a wing, then down a ladder.

Young said the plane was submerged to its engines in 10 to 12 feet of water after the accident.

Suit against informant dismissed

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal appellate panel has affirmed a lower-court ruling that an FBI informant did not have a constitutional duty to prevent a killing he knew was about to take place.

The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld an earlier decision by U.S. District Judge James B. Parsons, who dismissed a lawsuit filed by family members of Jeff Beard, 22, who was slain in 1972 near Gary, Ind.

Beard's relatives brought the lawsuit against FBI informant William O'Neal, whose testimony resulted in the conviction of former Chicago police Sgt. Stanley Robinson for violating the civil rights of Beard and another man by killing them.

Parents ask Congress for missing children bill

By MARK HEINRICH
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The parents of abducted Iowa newspaperboy Johnny Gosch pleaded Tuesday for passage of a congressional missing children bill, saying families now "have to beg police to do anything" to find their children.

Noreen and John Gosch also described a series of phone calls made to their West Des Moines home Feb. 22 in which their 14-year-old son, who disappeared while delivering papers in September 1982, "sounded drugged" and "couldn't enunciate his words."
"He could say 'yes' and 'no' but as soon as we asked where he was," the phone was hung up, said Mrs. Gosch, who added that she believed "the abductor derived some sort of sadistic pleasure from this." The boy previously had been reported seen in a major southwestern city trying to escape his captors before being grabbed and dragged away.

The Gosches appeared at a news conference in Chicago with U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, who is pushing legislation to create a toll-free hotline for tips on missing children and to set up a national "resource center" offering technical and scientific help to parents and local investigating agencies.

Simon, who sponsored a 1982 law expanding computerized information-gathering by the FBI in missing children cases, said his new bill would take aim at two problems that have stymied missing children inquiries.

"They are launched too late and they are doomed by too little information," said Simon, a Democratic candidate in the March 20 U.S. Senate primary. "This (the bill) is the beginning of an early-warning system for missing children."

Also appearing at the press conference was John Walsh, father of a Florida boy whose disappearance and subsequent murder spawned a network television movie, "Adam."

Walsh said many of the 1.8 million children who vanish annually in the United States are mistakenly dismissed by police as runaways, a situation he called "not only a national tragedy but a national disgrace."

Military should allow full press coverage

JUDGING FROM public opinion polls, the American public overwhelmingly approved of the U.S. invasion of Grenada last October.

The media, however, has generally remained critical of a certain aspect of the invasion — the government's decision to deny press access to the island during the early stages of the venture.

Although the military imposed the restrictions, the Reagan administration accepted them. Reagan has displayed hostility toward the media's role in military coverage before — he once said that the press was not on "our side, militarily," in Vietnam.

White House staff member James Baker, noting the necessity for secrecy in a surprise attack, said that military security was one of the major reasons for the press ban in Grenada.

HOWEVER, THE PRESS has been present at other surprise attacks — from World War I to Vietnam. In the past, a pool of reporters has been on standby notice for such operations, and has accompanied the military under the condition that no stories were to be released until the first shot is fired.

The idea of a press pool met with the approval of media representatives who recently testified before a commission of military officers reviewing the objections to the Grenada news blackout.

Earlier this month, Gen. John W. Vessey Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, set up the commission to draft guidelines on military-press relations. The commission, chaired by retired U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Winant Sidle, recently concluded four days of testimony on proposals for providing access to future military ventures without jeopardizing security.

By providing a forum to discuss such possibilities as reporter pools, the hearings helped reduce tensions between officials in the media and military and cleared up some misconceptions.

GEN. SIDLE, who was the Army's chief of information officer in Vietnam from 1967 to 1969, rejected Reagan's view that the press acted irresponsibly in Vietnam.

He said the Army's review of Vietnam coverage showed that print and television reporting was unbiased.

The hearings also gave members of the press the chance to give other examples of media responsibility. Seymour M. Topping, managing editor of the New York Times, noted that several news agencies knew that Americans were hiding in the Canadian embassy in Teheran, but held the story, until they safely escaped.

The media has proven that it can act responsibly in covering military operations. The image of "the press as the enemy," which is held among some members of the military and the Reagan administration, is unwarranted and unhealthy.

Drew Middleton, a veteran military correspondent for the New York Times recently noted that "democracies only win wars when they have public support. That support can only come from an informed public."

It is only a free press that can provide the needed information.

Ads a slap in the face

It is ironic that the day after a campus seminar dealing with women's stereotyped images in advertising (prominently advertised in the Daily Egyptian), the Daily Egyptian chose to run two particularly offensive and degrading advertisements.

We are referring to the ads on page 11 of the Feb. 16 Daily Egyptian — one for "exotic dancers" at the Chalet, complete with a sketch of a scantily clad woman encouraging people to "come out and enjoy the fun."

The other has been run before — the Flash Foto ad featuring a man spreading his overcoat, within which appears the store's logo. We suppose these ads are intended to be cute or enticing, but they are not seen that way by those of us who have experienced the exploitation and objectification of women that is rampant in our society.

This type of advertising is a slap in the face to women and encourages the kinds of attitudes that work to keep us as second-class citizens. We are sick of seeing it, and we urge the Daily Egyptian to refuse such ads in the future. — Barbara Brundage, International Services and Karen Yaple, Graduate Student, Psychology

Gray the pragmatic choice to represent Southern Illinois

KEN GRAY is the most pragmatic choice to fill the 22nd District congressional seat Rep. Paul Simon is vacating.

Gray's critics point to alleged tax evasion, his reputation as "the prince of pork," and question his motives for wanting to return to Congress after a 10-year absence.

So what? The charges of alleged wrongdoing were proven false nearly nine years ago — and Gray's reputation for bringing programs and projects to benefit Southern Illinois in his 20 years in Congress created envy among others who weren't as successful or purpose-oriented.

SOME POINT to the growing federal budget deficit and say people like Gray and their spendthrift attitudes are bringing the country down. Granted, 435 Ken Grays in Congress would present a problem, but Illinois needs him.

In 1982 only 66 cents of every dollar Illinoisans sent to Washington came back to the state in the form of federal spending. Illinois ranks behind every state and the District of Columbia in getting a return on its federal tax dollars.

Illinois needs a man like Ken Gray. Whether you like his style or not, he would be the best choice to begin bringing federal dollars to Illinois. Southern Illinois suffers from 21 percent unemployment, and Gray has been open and up front about his prime objective if elected: to create jobs. He's been promised his old seat on the House Public Works and Transportation Committee should he win the election, and he's come forward with a plan to "bring Washington to Southern Illinois" through the use of a chain of region offices.

John Stewart
Staff Writer

HIS OPPONENTS in the March 20 primary is State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee. Buzbee, far from being a backslider, would appear to offer the same esoteric style of representation that Rep. Paul Simon has for the last five terms as the 22nd District's congressman.

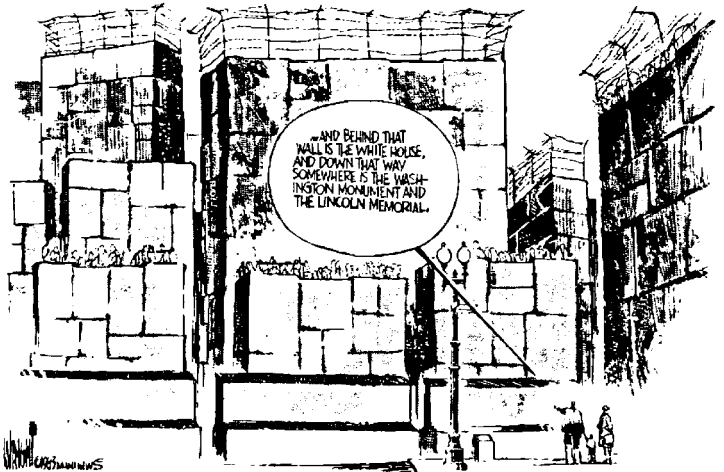

You know, lunch with the Kennedys today, think about the philosophical foundation of criminal deviance tomorrow, write a book the next day. Those things don't interest Gray in the least. He is concerned with the welfare of Southern Illinois' residents and the development of their communities.

Gray says he brought $4 billion to Southern Illinois during his previous tenure in Congress. There is no reason to believe he won't push just as hard to bring money here again.

AND THERE'S no reason to believe his backslapping good buddy style won't work again. His decision to come back from his Florida retirement shouldn't be questioned, it should be admired. The reason Gray was re-elected so many times before is because he knows what area residents need and want, and he delivers. His appeal and style may be foreign to non-Southern Illinoisans, but it has to have some universality to it because it got results in Washington.

Ken Gray is the pragmatic choice for the next representative from the 22nd District — and not because he's an idealist or has the right appearance. But because he has experience and demonstrated ability to bring desperately needed jobs to Southern Illinois.

Reagan sees world scene unrealistically

The Reagan administration's view of the world in terms of East vs. West has led to the unrealistic approach to resolving world problems and, in most cases, to the violation of fundamental human rights and the basic principle of democracy in many parts of the world.

This is seen by U.S. action in South Africa, Central America, the Middle East and the Caribbean. The present administration always supports the wrong side and perhaps the wrong course because a major part of its foreign policy is based on anti-communism. President Reagan sees world problems through a "Soviet lens." He seems to believe that what is morally and naturally right becomes automatically wrong when communism is mentioned.

For example, the Reagan administration preached and stressed human rights policy but didn't translate it into practical objectives. In South Africa, this administration indicated its general abhorrence of apartheid but loosened the arms embargo and other sanctions established by President Carter. This doesn't mean that President Reagan likes a policy of racial discrimination, but rather, he supports it because South Africa is pro-West and anti-communist.

Other evidence showing that this administration views world problems in terms of East vs. West is seen in Central America. In Nicaragua, the United States supported the heavy-handed Somoza dictatorship because he was pro-West. Now the United States is supporting the counter-revolutionary forces trying to overthrow the Sandinistas in Nicaragua simply because the Sandinistas are Marxists. The Reagan administration seems to support terrorism in the name of counter-terrorism and anti-communism.

Moreover, the United States has a record of supporting repressive governments and right-wing dictatorships without regard to democratic principles. I am not sure this is the way democracy works.

The Grenada invasion further displays Mr. Reagan's inconsistency. President Reagan condemned the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and now he is taking credit for the invasion of helpless Grenada just because the new leader was a Marxist.

It appears that the Reagan administration knows the right steps to solving some of the world problems but does the opposite because of the ideological and military competition between the superpowers. The United States should realize that it has a responsibility as the largest and most powerful democracy to set good examples for the rest of the world. This is the best way to deter Soviet expansionism.

America can't lead the world if it supports the wrong cause while handling the problems of this complex world.

The only solution is for the two sides to limit their competition for predominance and negotiate their differences; since there is no alternative to peaceful coexistence, I suggest that the peace loving people of America use their public opinion to prevent the politicians from encouraging human rights violations around the world in the name of anti-communism. — Ernest Achalu, Graduate Student, School of Medicine

Bar rape victim identifies two of defendants

FALL PATER, Mass. (AP) — A young, other identified two defendants Tuesday as being among those who raped her on a barroom pool table, and said a third man leaned over the table and told her to be quiet "and they won't hurt you."

Asked to identify the first man who raped her, the 22-year-old woman told defense attorney Judith Lindahl, "I don't know him by name, but it's one of the people in the other trial."

Six men are charged with aggravated rape in the case. They are being tried in two separate, simultaneous trials so the defendants do not make incriminating statements against each other before the jury.

Daniel Silva and Joseph Vieira, both 27, were being tried in an afternoon session. Until Tuesday, the woman had not identified them as members of the group that raped her.

On Monday the victim pointed out two other defendants who she said were playing pool while she had a drink with a woman in the bar. She said she went into Big Dan's tavern last March 6.

'Danny Rose' funny, 'Die Fledermaus' opens Thursday

By Joe Walter
Staff Writer

Movie Review

"Broadway Danny Rose," is a return to the sort of comedy Woody Allen did before "Annie Hall" in one sense but, in another sense, it is not.

In this film, Allen gives us a good story, offbeat characters and another ingredient — sentimentality. Sentimentality, but not the syrupy kind, is what the cinema has been lacking since the days of Leo McCarey and Frank Capra.

Allen again tells a funny story, infusing it with a few very serious ideas. He creates an interesting twist in his shlenlied character, Danny Rose.

Danny is a hustling theatrical agent with a conscience who helps out a number of weird show acts. When the acts get big, they leave him. Danny believes in personal management and not only manages his clients' careers but also gets involved in their lives. He gets so involved that he almost screws up his own life.

On an errand for one of his clients, he meets Tina (Tina Farrow), who is his personality, opposite. She is callous, cold and calculating. She looks at Danny's life and, from her perspective, figures that he lives like a loser. But, Danny knows who has the real problem and tells Tina, "You don't like yourself."

Although this film is very likeable, entertaining and beats most of the movies playing at the theaters hands down, one gets the impression that Allen is taking a breather with this film. "Broadway Danny Rose" is a very good film but it is not an excellent film when one judges it against such Allen masterpieces as "Annie Hall," "Interiors," "Manhattan," or even "Zelig."

In those films, Allen explored characters, themes, lifestyles or just an idea. Here, Allen makes film entertainment of the screwball variety in the tradition of 1930s and 1940s Hollywood. It's even shot in black and white.

Although this film may not measure up to the standards of which Allen is capable, it is a well-executed tale with realistic characters who have realistic motivations.

"Broadway Danny Rose" proves that even when Allen is coasting on film content, he is still a consummate craftsman who can deliver solid entertainment.

"Die Fledermaus," one of the world's most popular operettas, will be performed in McLeod Theater Thursday through Sunday. The comedic tale of revenge features the music of Johann Strauss, the famous "king of waltzes."

Set against a panorama of the Swiss Alps, "Die Fledermaus" is the story of a man's plan of revenge for a practical joke played on him by a friend.

McLeod's version of "Die Fledermaus" is the combined effort of several talented students and faculty members. Michael Blum of the School of Music is the show's director. He translated the operetta from German into English. The lively music will be provided by a 35-piece orchestra conducted by Michael Hanes, assistant professor of music.

The actors include tenor Randall Black, SIU-C graduate, as Eisenstein; Lindsey Van de Kirk, graduate student in opera, as Rosalinda, voice student Cecilia Wagner as Adele; Eric McCluskey, opera student, as Frank; and Shelley Byrd, graduate student in opera, as Prince Orlovsky. The part of Dr. Falke will be played Thursday and Saturday nights by Greg Coutts, graduate student in music. James Scott Sikon, music student, will play Falke Friday and Sunday.

"Die Fledermaus" will be performed at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $4 for the Thursday and Sunday shows and $5 for Friday and Saturday. Tickets can be purchased at the door or on weekdays from noon to 4 p.m. at the McLeod Theater Box Office.

Fabric dyeing art to be shown

A slide presentation demonstrating the techniques of Japanese and Indian methods of clothes dyeing and decoration will be given by Joan Lintault, associate professor of art, from 4 to 5 p.m. Wednesday in the University Museum Auditorium in Fanner Hall.

Several examples of the Japanese art of shibori, which combines intricate stitching and tying to create striking designs on clothing, will be displayed in the museum until March 8. The examples were created by Marilyn Coddling Boysen of rural Cobden.

Boysen, a graduate of the Ringling School of Art in Sarasota, Fla., spent three years researching the art. She uses the Japanese kimono as a "canvas."

Volcker, governors agree on deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker told the nation's governors Tuesday that the federal deficit should be cut $50 billion a year to extricate the nation from an economic gridlock.

Volcker also said President Reagan's call for a $100-billion down payment on the deficit is "not very impressive" if the changes come toward the end of the three-year period.

Volcker's position put him in step with a resolution that National Governors' Association approved calling for deficit reductions of $143 billion over the next three years and $460 billion over five years.

The resolution was approved on a 28-10 vote.

Volcker applauded the governors' attack on the deficit

although he did not endorse the proposal. Questioned about what level of deficit reduction is needed, Volcker said:

"The figure I have thrown out is an annual rate of $50 billion. If you have a $100-billion program heavily weighted to the third year ... it may not be very impressive if very little is done in the first year," he said.

Reagar gave the governors little encouragement that changes might be made this election year when he met with them at the White House on Monday.

"He very clearly stated that 1984 is not the year to start a major campaign against the deficit. It has to wait until after the election," said Florida's Gov. Bob Graham, a Democrat, after meeting with Reagan.

"That's a very serious mistake."

"The governors ought to build a fire under the president and build one under Congress as well to try to prevent them from waiting until after the election," said Michigan Gov. James Blanchard, a Democrat.

Urging adoption of some budget proposal, Illinois Gov. James Thompson, the group's chairman, said the governors "should keep the prod there."

Reagan told the governors he wanted to stay the course with his hope for a $100 billion down payment on the deficit over the next three years, to be negotiated with the Democratic leadership of Congress this year.

Lively, eclectic St. Louis duo provides easy-listenin' show

By Joe Walter
Staff Writer

Jasmine, a musical duo from St. Louis, Mo., featuring pianist Carol Schmidt and saxophonist Michele Isam, performed its cabaret style jazz to a packed house Sunday night at Mainstreet East.

The pair sang a number of pop and novelty tunes from Bruce Springsteen to Fats Waller to Gilda Radner, including a tongue-in-cheek version of "Leader of the Pack."

Isam and Schmidt maintained almost manic energy at times, keeping a good rapport with the audience and receiving warm applause.

Isam's singing and saxophone were complemented nicely by Schmidt's piano and deeper voice. But there was another element that caused the show to be worthwhile — a sense of fun.

Isam's energetic stage presence and dancing kept the stage visually, as well as aurally, interesting. Isam danced her Snoopy dance during Schmidt's playing of the late Vince Guaraldi's piano instrumental "Linus and Lucy."

The pair also sang "Tryst" and "Tuxedo Junction," written by Schmidt for their self-titled debut album. They also did their single "Telephone Line."

Though Isam and Schmidt perform some songs written by women and sing songs from a woman's point of view, they said that their first purpose is to entertain rather than to communicate specific messages.

Isam said that Jasmine has three goals in mind.

"To do the music we like, to do the music others haven't heard and to have fun," she said.

Jasmine now has one album, released in 1981, and a single out. The album, on the Sweater label, has sold 10,000 copies.

Isam said of their sound, "We try to fill it up."

By "fill it up," Schmidt explained that since only she and Isam are on the stage, she has to use the piano for the chords and the bass line. She said vocal harmonizing and saxophone add to the performance energy.

"We hope people listen," Schmidt said, "and forget there is no drum."

Women's Center is unguarded about its mission

By John Krukowski
Student Writer

Violence to women is a topic most people would rather not discuss.

"It's not the sort of subject people like to discuss over the dinner table," said Nancy Behimer, of the Carbondale Women's Center, 408 W. Freeman St.

It is also a problem many people aren't sure how to deal with once it arises, or where to turn for help.

"Even though we've been working here for 11 years, people still come up to us and say 'I didn't know you people were here,'" Behimer said.

Established in November 1972 as a community center for women, the center soon began offering services to meet the needs of women in crisis. Services now include shelter for women victimized by domestic violence, counseling for rape victims and pregnancy testing.

Delsey Higlen, one of about 28 volunteers at the center, cites one major difference between the center and other shelters for women.

"Most shelters are not out in the open, they are usually guarded and secretive for the women's protection," she says. "But we aren't, partly because we have so much community support here."

Behimer agreed, adding that the Jackson County state's attorney's office is helpful in prosecuting cases of abused women who seek help through the Illinois Domestic Violence Act.

Behimer noted that most of the women who enter the center's "Displaced Homemaker Program" — a program for women who have left an abusing spouse or lover — choose to obtain legal remedy for their problem.

"Usually when they come here they've had it," Behimer said. "We help them to do whatever they want to accomplish."

The center's staff can help an abused woman obtain an Order of Protection, a court order protecting the victim from further abuse and possibly awarding her temporary child custody or forcing the abuser to pay her court costs. A violation of the order can subject the abuser to immediate arrest.

Behimer said the center can help a woman find an attorney, or teach her how to represent herself in court through the center's Pro Se divorce workshop and save sizable legal fees.

The center can also help abused women find work and a place to live. In the meantime, she and her children can stay at the shelter. Women staying at the shelter are kept secure from further abuse, Behimer said.

"We want it known that we won't have men in here," Behimer said. "If a woman wants to speak with her spouse, she has to go outside of the building."

The center also has a Rape Action Committee, which serves as a support group for victims of sexual assault.

Police, hospital emergency room workers or the victim will contact the center and one of the committee's trained staffers will respond by standing by the victim during the process of examination and police questioning.

"It's a time-consuming process, so some sort of moral support is good for a woman," explained Joyce Webb, a volunteer with the committee.

Webb said she has found that most authorities who deal with rape victims in the Carbondale area are cooperative, but committee members are taught to go back and talk with authorities who did not seem cooperative in a given case.

Webb said the committee's purpose reflects that of the Women's Center: putting women in charge of their lives once a major choice has been taken away.

Mark Ulmer's 9.1 mark on the rings Sunday helped the Salukis defeat No. 2-ranked Nebraska, 278.45 to 278.05, at the AIAA SIUC Coach Bill Meade said he thinks his No. 5 Salukis will move up to No. 4, behind UCLA, Penn State and Nebraska. The Salukis should know Wednesday where they will be ranked in the poll.

White Sox seek answers about Walker's fielding

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Second-year player Greg Walker will probably be a smash at the discos but, the Chicago White Sox want to know, can he play first base?

After working to improve his coordination and agility during the off-season under the guidance of Creative Sports Technology, the California-based facility, Walker reported to spring training stronger than ever.

But whether he can field the position with more consistency than he showed as a rookie in 1983 remains to be seen.

"All I can say now is that he looked gigantic when he came back — not an ounce heavier, but bigger in the arms and chest," trainer Herman Schneider said Monday. "It's too early to check his agility."

Schneider, who runs the Sox conditioning programs, found out about the California institute last summer.

"Greg was the first baseball player they'd ever had," Schneider said, "so they're as curious about how he does as we are. It's a lot of money from our budget, but if it helps Greg and maybe others, it will be worth it."

Walker's training regimen consisted of weightlifting, agility drills and constant computer analysis.

"The course has nothing to do with how you field a ball or hit one," Walker said.

"I can't say how much it helped, but at the end, they ran tests through the computer and electronic-timing devices and said I'd improved so I guess I have," he said. "We'll see."

Walker's numbers in the field were respectable last season. He handled 452 chances and made just seven errors for a fielding average of .985. However, he had a hand in just 49 double plays — almost always taking the sure out on grounders rather than making the crisp throw to second to get the force play or the double play going.

So even if his arm is stronger, the Sox will have to wait to learn whether he has the quick feet needed to make the pivot and the hard throw to second.

Giant-Expo deal shocks Cubs; spotlight focuses on pitchers

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The trade that sent Al Oliver from the Montreal Expos to the San Francisco Giants sent shock waves through the Chicago Cubs' training camp and prompted the old Abbott-and-Costello query: "Who's on first?"

"Right now," Chicago Manager Jim Frey said Monday, "I'm thinking (Bill) Buckner on first and Leon Durham in left."

But until Oliver's transfer Sunday night filled the Giants' void on the right side of the infield, the Cubs' management was planning on shipping Buckner and rookie outfielder Joe Carter to San Francisco for right-hander Bill Laskey and center fielder Chili Davis.

That trade would have given the Cubs another starting pitcher, something they badly need, and cleared first base for Durham, where the Cubs felt reduced fielding responsibilities would have resulted in a stronger performance at the plate.

"We don't gotta make a trade," General Manager

Dallas Green said. "We're not going to trade Buckner just to trade Buckner. We know what deficiencies we have."

Instead, Green said, the aborted deal only means the pitchers already in camp will have to start delivering.

"It's time for our own guys to get off their tails and do something," he said. "We've been two years now trying to get the pitching staff going in the right direction. They can't live on reputations, whether it's Steve Trout, Ferguson Jenkins or whoever."

Green on Monday also denied rumors that Keith Moreland was back on the trading block.

Big Ten leader Purdue still worried

By Keith Gave
Associated Press Writer

Purdue may have sole possession of first place in the Big Ten, but the 11th-ranked Boilermakers haven't been able to enjoy it much. Coach Gene Keady said Tuesday. Not with "a very, very mad" Indiana team on its way.

"I'm a little worried about their emotional state," Keady said of the Hoosiers, who missed a chance to take sole possession of second place when they dropped a 57-54 decision to visiting Michigan State. "When they lose, they're tougher in the next game."

"And they've got to be very, very mad about what happened with Michigan State," added Keady, whose team is 12-2 in the Big Ten and 19-5 overall.

Indiana Coach Bob Knight said after Sunday's nationally televised game he was "the most singularly disappointed I've been since I've been coaching at Indiana."

Another loss Wednesday night when they meet Purdue would virtually eliminate the Hoosiers, 11-4 and 18-7, from winning the Big Ten title. They'll also be seeking revenge against their intra-state rival for a 74-66 loss it suffered to the Boilermakers in mid-January, the first of three rare losses in Bloomington this season.

Purdue, meanwhile, is riding an 18-game home-court winning streak, which includes all seven this year.

Illner fills 2 holes with recruits

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

It's two down and two to go for SIU-C field hockey Coach Julee Illner.

Illner received verbal commitments from junior college players Dana Riedel, Mitchell Community College (New London, Conn.), and Karen Cordell from Harford Community College (Bel Air, Md.) for the 1984 season.

Previously, the only junior college player signed by Illner was Karen McHale, who played for the Salukis in the 1978 season. Illner said she plans to sign two more recruits, at the link and goalie positions.

Riedel was second in juno scoring in the nation last year with 19 goals and five assists, and was named to the Nation Junior College Athletic Association All-American team.

"I talked about getting experience at that level and Riedel will be an excellent addition to step in right away in one of those positions at link," Illner said.

Riedel will help plug a hole in the midfield, which was the Salukis' Achilles' heel last year in their disappointing 9-12-3 season.

"With her experience and skill I hope she is the key player we need to put it all together," Illner said. "From what I know she is like a Barb Smith and that was one of the kind of players we were missing from last year."

Smith, who played from 1979-82, was a steady three-year starter at link for the Salukis. "Riedel would definitely fit in as a link in a 4-2 system, and she is very fast and quick," Illner said. "She has excellent defensive skills as well."

Cordell is expected to replace Dore Weil at left fullback. Weil is one of three seniors who were on last year's team.

"Primarily, I'm looking at Cordell as a replacement for Dore and she is capable of playing at sweeper if we go that route," Illner said. "If we go with two fullbacks, which is my preference, Cordell will team with right halfback Nancy McAuley."

Cordell was a Region 20 and all-state selection for two years at Harford, which finished third in the country in 1982 and was runner-up in 1983.

"Cordell definitely has the speed and quickness Dore gave us back there," Illner said. "She is real steady, which we need back at that position. Melinda Foe will be a reserve and will back up both Karen and Nancy at the fullback positions."

Warring nabs GCAC award; closes in on scoring record

Saluki forward Char Warring was named the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference Player of the Week for basketball.

Warring led the Salukis to two wins in three outings last week, scored 64 points and grabbed 35 rebounds. She was 22 of 43 (51 percent) from the field and 20 of 26 (77 percent).

"Char's been playing very well for us," Saluki Coach Cindy Scott said. "She gets tough when the going gets tough. Char's playing hard on both ends of the floor."

Warring has scored 1,461 points during her SIU-C career. She ranks second on the all-time Saluki scoring charts, just 46 points behind Sue Faber's 1,507.

Scott said Warring has a "very good chance" to break the record.

"I'd be surprised if she didn't," Scott said.

Warring has at least three games left to break the record. If the Salukis, 20-5 overall and 13-2 in the GCAC, win the Gateway crown, then they will receive an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament.

After the first round, flights will be determined on players' scratch scores. They will be placed into four different groups, from advanced to

"It is the first time we have offered the golf tournament," Craven said. "If we can get individuals to bring their friends we can promote this sport on campus."

Court rules in Raiders' favor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal appeals court ruled today in a case involving the Los Angeles Raiders that the National Football League cannot block a franchise from moving from one city to another.

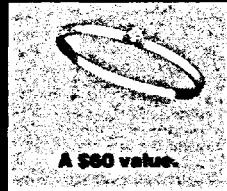

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 2-1 vote, upheld a ruling by a federal jury in Los Angeles that decided the NFL had violated U.S. antitrust laws by conspiring to block the Raiders' move from Oakland to Los Angeles in 1982.

The court said it would rule at a later date on the jury's decision to award the Raiders and the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum more than $48 million in damages for conspiring to block the move.

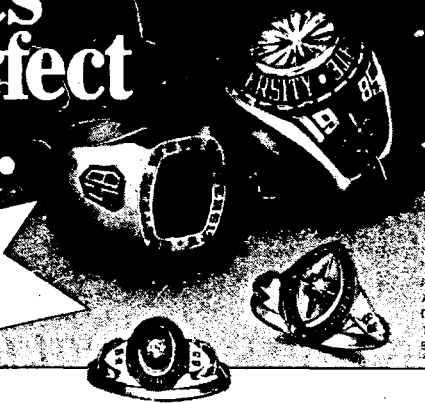

The court rejected a claim by the NFL that it is a single entity and thus not subject to U.S. antitrust law.

MVC cage races coming to a close

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

The chips will be down for the Salukis men's basketball team in its regular-season finale Thursday at Drake, and they may have to show a winning hand to the suddenly resurgent Bulldogs if they hope to garner a home berth in the Missouri Valley Conference tournament.

As has been well-publicized, the first four teams in the MVC host home games in the opening round of the tournament, which starts Tuesday. Here's how the race for fourth stands up:

— Creighton (7-7). The Bluejays play host to 10-4 Wichita State Thursday before closing out at Bradley Saturday.

— SIU-C (7-8). The Salukis, who pulled themselves back into the race by upsetting Illinois State last week, finish at Drake Thursday.

— Bradley (6-8). The Braves play at Illinois State Thursday and play Creighton at home Saturday.

— Indiana State (5-9). The Sycamores, who beat Illinois State Saturday in Terre Haute, have a slim chance. If they win at Tulsa and West Texas State, while SIU-C loses, Creighton loses twice, and Bradley splits, they'll finish in a four-way tie.

In the event of a two-way tie, the deciding factor is head-to-head competition between the teams. Since the four teams have all split with each other, a coin toss will determine the final standings.

If more than one team is tied, a drawing will be the deciding factor.

The fourth-through seventh-place positions aren't the only spots up for grabs. Tulsa, 12-2, Illinois State, 11-3, and Wichita State, 10-4 going into Tuesday's game at Drake, are assured of finishing in the top three, but the order of finish could go several different ways.

The home-court advantage is important, based on road records of MVC teams in conference play this season: 21-43. It could be particularly important to the Salukis, who are 1-6 in the Valley and 1-8 overall on enemy territory.

Drake, meanwhile, is suddenly alive after losing 10 of its first 11 MVC games. The Bulldogs, 3-11 in the MVC, pulled off back-to-back upsets last week against Bradley at home and at Indiana State before losing by five points to Bradley on the road Saturday.

Decimated by injuries earlier in the season, Drake has caught fire in the final weeks and has passed West Texas, 3-12, by a half game in the fight for the final berth in the tournament.

Bad weather to hinder men, but Hartzog's squads used to it

By David Wilhelm
Staff Writer

The weather plaguing Carbondale has once again created problems for the men's track team, but Coach Lew Hartzog said that the snow and wind is something he is used to dealing with.

"I wasn't happy when I woke up and saw it," Hartzog said. "But it's something I've put up with throughout my career at SIU."

Whenever bad weather strikes during the indoor or outdoor seasons, the track team is forced to train in the bad conditions outside or in the Arena, where the facilities are not ideal.

Hartzog said that his distance runners "tried to run on the road" Monday, but the footing was treacherous. The sprinters trained in the upper concourse area at the Arena.

The Salukis trained in ideal weather conditions for two weeks in preparing for the Missouri Valley Conference meet last weekend, which they won for the fifth consecutive year. Saturday the team travels to Murfreesboro, Tenn., to participate in the Last Chance Invitational in an effort to get more individuals to qualify for the nationals.

Hartzog said he was "glad" the bad weather came this week instead of last week, when the squad was training for the MVC meet.

The bad weather will hurt the squad in training for the nationals, but Hartzog said that there are just six athletes going there instead of the entire team.

The Salukis have not appeared to be hurt too much throughout the indoor season, despite some poor training conditions outside and the lack of a good indoor facility.

In winning the MVC title, the Salukis scored a record 179 points. Their closest opponent, Illinois State, was far off the mark with 123 points. Also, the mile relay team set a world's best time Jan. 28 in Bloomington, Ind., with a 3:08.94.

"You have to admire kids that have a national ranking with no indoor facility," Hartzog said.

Despite the bad weather, Hartzog said the team will be ready.

Salukis move back indoors

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

The snow has dispatched the Saluki baseball team back indoors, but it won't have any serious ramifications, assistant coach Jerry Green says.

The Salukis worked out at the Arena until two weeks ago when spring-like weather arrived in Southern Illinois. Green said the team accomplished things outdoors that it hasn't been able to do this early in the season for the past couple of years.

"We haven't been able to get outside as early as we did this year, and we were able to get some things done," Green said. "The outfielders got a better perspective on fly balls and the pitchers threw off the mound."

The snow probably isn't much worse than rain, Green said.

"We're just trying to keep the pitchers' arms in shape," he said. "Inside, we can do the basic things — hit and pitch."

The squad took Monday off and practiced Tuesday afternoon on the Arena ramp, where the pitchers threw and the hitters took batting practice in the batting cage.

The Salukis are preparing for their spring trip March 9-17 at Coral Gables, Fla., where they will play all 10 games at the University of Miami.

Included on the 10-game slate is Miami, South Carolina, Georgetown, Rutgers, Fordham, Lewis and Montclair State. SIU-C will play Miami three times, Lewis twice and the other teams once.

The Salukis return home March 20 for a doubleheader with Kentucky, to be followed by a home date with Greenville March 21. In all, SIU-C has 53 games scheduled, running through May 12, the first day of the Missouri Valley Conference tournament.

Joe Hamilton (52) played a key role in Carbondale's undefeated season. The Terriers play Tuesday night in the Marion Regionals.

Terriers resting, waiting for Marion Regional

By Jim Lexa
Sports Editor

Although the snowstorm that struck Carbondale Monday has hampered many activities, don't look for Doug Woolard, coach of the Carbondale Terriers' boys' basketball team, to complain.

"We were planning on taking a couple of days off anyhow," Woolard said.

The Terriers, 14-0 in the South Seven Conference and 25-0 overall, play Marion Tuesday night in the first round of the Marion Regional. Marion, 0-13 in the South Seven and 0-21 overall, has one game left in its regular season. The Terriers have beaten Marion twice by lopsided scores this season, 82-48 and 77-31.

Woolard and his Class AA No. 4-ranked Terriers wrapped up their regular season with a non-conference win Saturday over Collinsville, 80-72. The win was especially important, as it capped the team's first undefeated regular season in school history.

Woolard, though, isn't predicting another game like the first two.

"In tournament time, anything can happen," Woolard said. "It's the second season, and records aren't important."

Carbondale was planning on taking Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday off from practice even without help from Mother Nature.

"This group really enjoyed this season," Woolard said. "I'm very proud of this group. It's something that you'll always remember."

"But we want to make sure that this group recognizes that there is a difference between the regular season and the IHSA (Illinois High School Association) playoffs."

Guard Glenn Martin and center Joe Hamilton were named all-state honorable mention Monday. Woolard said that the recognition is "important," but his players realize the job that is in front of them.

"All have done a nice job," Woolard said. "They know what they are doing."

Carbondale needs to win the Marion Regional in order to advance to the Benton Sectional. Talk toward the end of the season centered quite a bit on the possibility of meeting Benton for the third time. After beating Benton 69-67 at Carbondale's Bowen Gymnasium Feb. 10, Woolard said if indeed there was a third matchup this season between the two schools, it would be another tough game.

IM sports to heat up in March

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Intramural sports will be busy in March at the Recreation Center.

Two spring sports — softball and Ultimate Frisbee — and a swimming meet will be offered.

A captains' meeting for 16-inch softball will be held Monday. The meeting was supposed to be Feb. 27, but it was delayed because of the weather.

Participants can compete in men's, women's, and co-rec leagues in advanced or intermediate skill divisions. The season will start shortly after spring break and will conclude in the last week of April.

All games will be held at the softball fields near the Arena. The deadline for signing up is 5 p.m. Monday.

A captains' meeting on March 19 will determine when the Ultimate Frisbee league starts its season. Joyce Craven, coordinator of Intramural Sports, said it should start the following weekend or the following Monday of the meeting.

Teams can compete in men's, women's, and co-rec leagues in advanced or intermediate skill divisions. The regular season consists of about five matches before a single-elimination playoff tournament, which will be held before final exam week. The matches will be held at the fields across from the Recreation Center.

The one-day swimming and diving meet is scheduled for noon March 24 in the Recreation Center pool, and will have 16 events.

Participants can compete as individuals as part of a team in the men's and women's competition. In co-rec, two men and two women will compete as a team and they can participate only in relay events.

"The swimming tournament is offered every spring semester and we typically have a good turnout," Craven said. "Not many people compete as a team, most compete as individuals."

Current SIU-C swimmers and divers, and swimmers who competed intercollegiate since January, 1983, are not eligible. Teams are limited to one swimmer or diver who competed before January, 1983. More than 60 people competed in the swimming tournament last year.

"SIU students have set national swimming records in intramural sports," Craven said. "They have good times, considering they don't swim competitively."

All entries must be received by 5 p.m. March 22 at the Recreation Center information desk. T-shirts will be awarded to first place finishers, and awards will be given to first- and second-place finishers for men's and women's teams.

The 54-hole disc golf pairs tournament will start March 21 and run for three consecutive Wednesdays. Two players
