CIA considers SPC funds, structure

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

The creation of a new $5 to $6 student fee to support the Student Programming Council may be placed on the April election ballot as a referendum if the Undergraduate Student Government approves it.

The USG will vote on creating the referendum in Wednesday's meeting.

The council was faced with the possibility of a budget freeze when student government officials accused it of not following registered student organization guidelines of allowing open elections and having members vote.

The new student fee is one possible solution offered by the student government to hammer out SPC's continuous fluctuating funding problems.

Brian Wood, SPC executive chairperson, said the organization needs to have assurance of having money in order to plan future events.

"Other universities have their events planned six or seven months in advance," Wood said. "We need to plan ahead too, but we have to count on a certain amount of money to do it."

Wood said the $9.55 student activity fee, which funds all registered student organizations including SPC, has not increased since 1982 and the lack of funding has created cutbacks in programming.

The suggested new fee is estimated to bring in about $150,000 for SPC's use, a figure he said would "provide strong programming."

Chris Fabian, USG senator, said the creation of a new fee would relieve funding stress on smaller student organizations that have experienced cutbacks in their budget requests.

Any new student fee or increase would have to be placed before the Board of Trustees for approval.

Officials at the USG are waiting for the results of the referendum before proposing the new student fee. If approved by the student vote, the student government will consider the new fee in May.

Rod Hughes, USG senator, said if the SPC receives the special fee it will not receive any additional funding "for a long time." Hughes was considering placing a bill that would request increasing the student activity fee by 75 cents.

However, the organization still has constitutional problems that must be worked out.

The Undergraduate Student Government Committee for Internal Affairs has examined the constitution issue since last year, suggesting a variety of solutions from merging SPC with the student government,

Carterville firefighters and ambulance personnel work to remove Kathleen Angstman, 61, of Marion, after she was involved in a two car collision on Illinois Rt. 13 and Spillway Road Monday afternoon. Reportedly Angstman ran a red light and struck another vehicle, driven by Angela Baroni of Carbondale, which was making a left turn. Baroni was not injured. Angstman and her 89-year-old mother were both transported to Marion Memorial Hospital. Angstman was listed in stable condition and Katherine Keating, the mother, was listed in fair condition Monday evening.

Immigration agents operate on tips, arrest 79 suspected illegal aliens

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal agents arrested 79 suspected illegal aliens Monday on an Eastern Airlines "red-eye" flight in what officials describe as a scheme to transport the refugees in "package deals" that cost them up to $4,000.

Immigration and Naturalization Service agents, acting on tips from a regular business commuter and undercover agents, greeted Los Angeles to New York Flight 80 shortly after its 5:30 a.m. arrival on a stopover at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport.

"We believe this is one of the largest operations we've conducted that involves illegal aliens on board a commercial aircraft in the United States," said Thomas P. Fischer, district director of the Atlanta INS office. "This may be part of a massive alien smuggling operation."

Some admitted paying up to $4,000 for a package deal that included the flight, a greeting in New York, false papers and possibly a job, said Tom Thomas, a spokesman for the INS in Atlanta.

SIU officials plan director's job outline

By Mark Barnett
Staff Writer

In the wake of a win for collective bargaining at SIU-E, SIU officials are developing the job qualifications for a new director of employee relations.

Thomas Britton, vice chancellor for administration, said Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit and he are completing the job description for the position. The position has been in the central administration's budget for two years, but it has never been funded, Britton said.

"We have a need for additional personnel to support employee relations at the University (SIU)," Britton said. The administration has recognized the need for three years, he said.

Britton expects the job description will be completed later this week so SIU can advertise for the position. "We are seeking to fill the position as soon as we are able," he said.

Plans to fill the position are moving forward after the administrative-professional staff at SIU-E voted Wednesday to be represented by the Illinois Education Association in a collective bargaining runoff election while the faculty voted not to be represented by a union.

Robert Perkovich, executive director of the Illinois Education Labor Relations Board, said the administrative-professional staff voted 129 to 85 in the runoff election for representation by IEA. The faculty voted 220 to 207 against union representation.

If no one has any objections to the election, the results will

Bush: South Korea to keep U.S. troops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush returned home Monday after concluding his trip to the Far East with a stop in South Korea, where he told lawmakers he plans to sustain U.S. military manpower in their country.

But on the last leg of his five-day Asian journey, Bush informed leaders in Seoul they must do "much more" economically to strengthen their relationship with the United States.

After arriving at Andrews Air Force Base, Bush read a brief statement saying that his meetings in Japan, China and Korea were "productive and rewarding." Bush placed special emphasis on the "thoughtful and candid conversations with world leaders — more than 20 of them" that occurred during two days in Tokyo.

"I return tonight pleased with the progress made. Of course differences yet remain," Bush said. But, he added, "Common ground was found."

Simon, Dixon give reasons for voting down Tower bid

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Sens. Paul Simon and Alan Dixon of Illinois say they have reasons other than rumored alcohol abuse for voting against the nomination of former Texas senator John Tower as Defense Secretary.

Tower pledged Sunday to, if confirmed, "not consume beverage alcohol of any type or form, including wine, beer or spirits of any kind."

The Senate Armed Services Committee voted 11-9 last Thursday to ask for the full Senate to reject the nomination. The committee was divided along party lines with Democrats favoring the rejection.

Sam Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the committee, said the main reason for the committee's vote was the allegations of excessive drinking by Tower contained in an FBI report.

Christopher Ryan, a press assistant for Simon, D-Makanda, said the senator believes that Tower's nomination has two problems.

"My concerns are two fold. His (Tower's) closeness to the defense industry and the reoccurring reports of the drinking problem. Doubts in

British minesweepers taken from Persian Gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Britain withdrew its last three minesweepers from the Persian Gulf Monday, leaving the United States virtually alone to clear hundreds of mines still floating in the strategic waterway as a result of the suspended Iran-Iraq war. A Defense Ministry spokesman in London said the HMS Chiddingfold, HMS Berkeley and HMS Cottessmore left the gulf early Monday and would take about a month to reach their home port of Rosyth, near the Scottish capital of Edinburgh.

Government pulls tanks, troops from streets

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — The government pulled out many tanks and troops from the streets of Kabul Monday amid signs of a diminished security threat, but travelers arriving in the capital said Moslem rebels were in full control of a key road to the city. Afghan officials acknowledged traffic is not flowing along the road from Jalalabad near the Pakistan border.

Indian uproar over 'Verses' leaves one dead

United Press International
 A bombing and renewed rioting by hundreds of Moslems in India sparked by "The Satanic Verses" left one dead and 30 injured Monday, and in a small counter-protest in Moscow, Soviet activists denounced Iran's threat to kill author Salman Rushdie. The latest protests over the novel, which is considered blasphemous by Moslems, came on the eve of a vote by the Iranian parliament on severing Iran's relations with Britain.

Prime minister declares possible resignation

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — Prime Minister Sadiq al mahdi said Monday he will resign unless he receives a pledge of support from the military, which had threatened a coup unless he formed a more moderate government by midnight. The armed forces, suffering a series of losses to the black, Christian-led rebels of the Sudan People's Liberation Army in southern Sudan, handed Sadiq an ultimatum last week.

Jury shown tape of aircraft being blown-up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal prosecutors, opening the landmark trial of accused hijacker Fawaz Yunis, showed the jury a videotape Monday of an airliner being blown up on June 12, 1985, 30 hours after it was seized by the 26-year-old Lebanese and his accomplices. Assistant U.S. Attorney J. Ramsey Johnson told a jury that although all of the 50 to 60 hostages, including two Americans, were evacuated and freed before the Royal Jordanian Boeing 737 was destroyed, Yunis endangered their lives in violation of air piracy and anti-terrorism laws.

Environmentalists threaten to sue government

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Environmentalists, saying pesticides pose an intolerable risk to U.S. children, threatened to sue the government Monday unless stronger steps are taken to protect youngsters from chemical residues on food. In a report sharply criticized by the food industry and the Environmental Protection Agency, the National Resources Defense Council estimated that a typical American pre-schooler consumes about four times more cancer-causing pesticides than an adult for each pound of body weight.

Judge in Iran-Contra trial sends jury home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Iran-Contra judge stopped Oliver North's trial Monday and cleared the courtroom to hear the first major argument in the proceedings over the release of state secrets that could be crucial to the case. U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell, with profuse apologies, sent the jury home at mid-afternoon.

Court refuses to hear gunman's case review

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday refused to become involved in the controversial Bernhard Goetz "subway vigilante" case. The court refused to hear the case brought by Goetz seeking review of New York court rulings that upheld his conviction on illegal weapons charges and his one-year prison sentence. Lawyers for Goetz asked the Supreme Court to review the conviction, charging that Goetz's constitutional rights were violated when the trial judge told the jury it "must" convict Goetz if it found the elements of the crime to have been proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

'Broadway' triumphs despite lack of props

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

The cast members of "Bound For Broadway" had no orchestra pit to protect them from the audience.

In fact, these nine young singers and dancers from the Lab Theater were often only inches away from the people they were entertaining, with only a piano to accompany them.

There were no sets, props or flashy costumes to distract the audience if someone missed a dance step or belted out an off-key note. Any mistake would be all too obvious.

Under these enormous pressures, raw talent is the only element that could have carried a show like "Bound For Broadway," and raw talent is exactly what made this musical revue such a triumph.

The performers, collectively called Encore, essentially played themselves, a group of young Broadway hopefuls looking for their first big breaks in show biz.

More than 30 glorious show tunes from Broadway and Hollywood told the story as these singers and dancers went from one audition to the next, until finally hitting the big time.

Nothing new here, but the enthusiastic Encore players took a comical approach in depicting the setbacks of the struggling young artist. Their light-hearted look at the world of casting calls and "Don't quit your day job" proved quite refreshing.

Why do actors torture themselves so horrendously just for the opportunity to sing and dance in public? Encore offered a musical answer to this age-old question with "Applause" and "There's No Business Like Show Business," two Broadway production numbers.

Production highlights included Amy Spies' tap dance to "Let Me Entertain You" and Heather Currie's sizzling version of the same song. Currie also delivered a just performance of "How Lucky Can You Get" from "Funny Girl."

Elizabeth Howerton, Heather Burdick and Suzette Baecklandt joined Currie and Spies to deliver the sultry "Big Spender," one of the evening's biggest crowd-pleasers.

Kevin Easterwood, Ken Traynor, Chris Mitchell and Kirk Surry formed a chorus of gamblers at a crap game to sing "Luck Be a Lady Tonight" from "Guys and Dolls," in another of the show's best numbers.

Some of the loveliest singing in "Bound For Broadway" came from Howerton and Surry, who teamed on "My Funny Valentine."

3 candidates not concerned about being present for tally

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

With voter turnout at Carbondale's primary election typically light, three of the five candidates for City Council are not too concerned with keeping an eye on tonight's election results.

Carbondale ELECTION '89

Candidates Carl Flowers, Kyle Englert and Keith Tuxhorn said they do not intend to be at the Jackson County Courthouse in Murphysboro for the tallying of the votes.

Tuxhorn, who is running for his seventh year on the council, said he expects an early night since turnout at the primary is usually "light-weight."

He added, "I don't expect the top candidate to get more than 500 votes."

Incumbent John Yow said he will be at the courthouse to receive the election results firsthand.

Yow, who was the top vote-getter in the 1985 primary election, added that he does not expect turnout at the polls to be much heavier this year.

"I was at top between 700 and 800 votes last time and I thought that was light," Yow said.

Candidate Marvin Tanner could not be reached for comment.

All but one of the five candidates will proceed to the April 4 general election.

Tanner, Flowers and Englert will have to defeat incumbents Yow and Tuxhorn for a position on the council.

The 29 precinct polling places open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

The only issue on the ballot will be the two council seats up for election.

Carbondale's primary election is non-partisan and candidates are chosen at large.

Unlike a ward system of election, at large candidates come from anywhere in the geographical region and the candidates with the most votes win.

In a ward election, the region is divided into sub units and candidates come from each sub unit.

Council reconsiders after heat subsides

THE NEXT MONTH or two will give us a look at the political squirming of the City Council as it will have to decide whether it is going to put the tax payer's money where the council's mouth is.

The council's discomfiture stems from a proposal for a 1 cent-per-gallon gasoline tax, which sprang from the hotly contested debate over the east-west couple.

The Illinois Department of Transportation proposal, approved by the council in September, drew storms of protest from residents in the West Walnut Street neighborhood. Residents said turning their street into a one-way thoroughfare will wreck their neighborhood by deflating property values and tearing the social fabric of the community.

INSTEAD, SAID the citizen groups, the council should approve what they called a "northern connector" that would skirt the northern edge of the city and connect Industrial Park with the Carbondale Clinic and the other medical offices on the west side of town. Groups opposed to the couple contended this road should be built instead of the couple. They said it would keep out unwanted trucks and other traffic with no business in the city and would make movement to and from the Industrial Park and the Carbondale Clinic area easier.

The council didn't buy it or at least the council except for Keith Tuxhorn didn't buy it. It approved the couple with, council members said, the best interests of Carbondale in mind.

BUT THE COUNCIL also passed a resolution asking IDOT for money and directing its own staff to "pursue available resources" to finance a northern bypass or connector. It is here that the council's present dilemma comes in.

The result of this resolution has been money pledged by IDOT for a "location and corridor" study and a suggestion by interim city manager Jeff Doherty to hike the gas tax for the city's half of the study.

The location and corridor study is expected to cost the city $100,000 for the first year and the 1 cent gas tax (added to the 1 cent already in place) would net the city about $155,000 in additional revenues.

BUT NOW THAT the dirty deed has been put to the council and they no longer feel the heat of an indignant citizen group breathing down their neck most of them are hedging. Tuxhorn and Mayor Neil Dillard have supported the increase and that it be used for the study, but Councilman John Mills said he is "uncomfortable" with the tax, Councilman John Yow said "don't count on my voting for it" and Councilman Richard Morris is planted astride the fence with a strong undecided.

Mills said he is waiting for the public hearing March 7 to gauge public opinion on the tax, while Morris said he wants to give city staff another year to investigate other means by which the money could be gathered.

THE COUNCIL can hardly be blamed for reconsidering the wisdom of sinking hundreds of thousands of dollars into a study that might never materialize into a road. As was pointed out by Doherty a northern bypass for Carbondale is not on the list for IDOT projects in the next five years and even with continuous work, it will be seven to eight years in the building.

What the council can be blamed for, however, is dangling the possibility of a northern connector in front of West Walnut Street citizens who think the road would lessen the impact of the couple, and the business community who believes that it would spur economic development only to jerk the carrot back when the political waters get hot.

Letters

Abortion letter forgot equality

I would like to respond to the letter submitted by Chris Hamilton on Feb. 23.

Now, speaking as an anti-abortionist, I find that you neglected to look at a series of very pertinent issues in your letter. I am a man, and being a man, I was created as equal as every man on the Supreme Court bench. Fortunately, being only one token woman on the bench, I know that, like all God-fearing Christians in the government the Supreme Court realizes that life begins at the moment of conception and ends at the moment of electrocution.

We anti-abortionists have fought long and hard to place good men in our government, so we can get this country back on the track to the Almighty. In so much as this great country was founded by great men who believed that all Christians deserved the right to live a good, solid Christian life free from the persecutions that sent them to our beloved promised land of milk and honey in the first place.

It is only correct that, being equal, we continue to enforce our right on all those poor people who have lost their way. This is our chosen mission from God, and as human beings, we must obey.

Furthermore, it is due to woman's original sin in the garden of Eden that all women are subject to the decisions of those who they themselves have led astray. In so much as women have taken it upon themselves to engage in the sexual pleasures of the mind and body outside of wedlock, and being as we engage in monogamous relationships — excepting some of our more public ministers which is only understandable and forgivable once they have repented their wayward ways — it is believed that these brazen hussies should pay for their sins by giving the miracle of life to all those children that would otherwise be lost souls. Once these children are brought into the world, we can teach them the good Christian morals their mothers missed when they were growing up.

In conclusion, Chris Hamilton, graduate student in English, perhaps you think the question of abortion is answered, but I believe I can quote the Bible in opposition: "Judge not, that you yourself be judged... For judgment is mine saith the Lord." Amen. — Kevin R. Rathunde, undergraduate, university studies.

Timber sales program beneficial

The positive economic impact of the Shawnee National Forest timber sale program is obvious if one reads the Timber Sale Program Information Reporting System. This report is a fiscal accounting process still being tested to evaluate timber sale programs.

The fiscal 1987 timber sale program generated over 295 jobs and over $7.4 million in income to local economies. Local counties received $217,200 from timber sale receipts to support roads and schools. Unemployment in local counties runs between 6.2 percent and 18.2 percent. Loss of these jobs potentially would increase unemployment by 0.4 percent. Harvest activity occurred on 0.9 percent of the total forest landbase of 263,363 acres.

The timber sale program is used to achieve certain vegetative and wildlife management objectives. Some local county roads are maintained or reconstructed through the timber program thereby reducing the cost to the country road programs. Improved access to the forest is provided through the road construction and reconstruction associated with timber sales.

The timber sale program on the Shawnee National Forest is environmentally sound and provides many different benefits to the people of Southern Illinois. — Michael Janulis, public information director, Illinois Wood Products Association.

Evolution not proven as a hard fact

Some statements at the creation-evolution debate (Feb. 14) have raised some questions in my mind.

Dr. Fraunfelder (evolutionist) said several times "this is how evolution could have happened." That's fine, but why do science textbooks, National Geographic, and a host of scientific journals treat evolution as if it were a hard fact? If it is not a hard fact, why isn't an alternative viewpoint considered, or at least mentioned?

Dr. Fraunfelder also stated there is no historical evidence for the existence of Jesus Christ. How can a man of his letters and intelligence make such an ignorant statement?

Dr. Morris (creationist) said that public opinion is overwhelming for creation to be taught alongside evolution in schools. Is the evolution establishment afraid of public opinion, or is it deliberately ignoring public opinion?

For the administration at SIU: Isn't a University a place where diverse viewpoints are offered and examined? Why the close-mindedness on the issue of creation science?

Finally, for the students at SIU: Darwinian evolution is dying. I want to challenge you with a lyric from a Bob Dylan song: "...are you thinking for yourself, or are you following the pack?" — Stanley A. Tucker, Carbondale.

There are better things to do than get wasted

In the Feb. 15 edition of the DE there was an alcohol ad from Miller. As one of many people who don't drink, I think this ad was in very poor taste.

I was disgusted at the promotion of alcohol and semi-nudity. I know lots of people, maybe the majority of students, like to go out and kill their brain cells, but I can think of a lot better things to do than get wasted.

I'm not going to lecture on drinking because that's an individual choice, but I don't think the DE should promote advertisements which tell students what's "hot" and what's "not" in beer drinking and behavior. — Michelle Meredith, freshman, elementary education.

Poll: Sawyer closing the gap as campaign efforts wind up

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jesse Jackson Monday tried to give a final boost to Acting Mayor Eugene Sawyer's Democratic mayoral primary bid and a final poll showed the mayor closing the gap on challenger Richard M. Daley.

On the final full day of the primary campaign, the racial rhetoric that marred last week's campaigning dissipated, with the candidates just shaking hands and urging voters to participate in Tuesday's balloting.

Sawyer and Jackson made an appearance at Marshall High School, whose girls basketball team last week captured the state championship.

"As (Sawyer) shares with you your victory on Saturday, there are many more victories to come," Jackson told about 3,500 students.

"Let one champion meet another champion — Mayor Eugene Sawyer."

Sawyer told the students he is encouraged about his chances, despite a poll conducted by WBBM-TV, the local CBS affiliate, and the Daily Southtown Economist showing him trailing Daley by 7 percentage points.

The poll surveyed 900 registered voters late last week and showed Daley, the son of the late Mayor Richard J. Daley, who reigned over Chicago for 21 years, with 47 percent of the vote, compared with Sawyer's 40 percent.

Though polls taken by the Sawyer campaign have shown the two candidates in a dead heat, a poll taken Feb. 10-14 by the Chicago Sun-Times and WLS-TV showed Daley leading Sawyer 50 percent to 38 percent. And a recent poll taken by the Chicago Tribune showed Daley leading Sawyer, 45 percent to 37 percent.

"The mayor is poised in a very good position now to overtake Daley," said Larry Horist, a Sawyer campaign spokesman. "This race is virtually tied up."

Jackson has said he would support Alderman Timothy Evans, who is running as an independent, in the April 4 general election if Sawyer, the city's second black mayor, loses the primary to Daley.

The Cook County state's attorney greeted rush hour commuters at a Northwest Side "L" station early Monday and appeared at a senior citizens' breakfast where he was greeted with encouragement like, "You're just like your father" and "God bless you."

"I travel through the South Side. I travel through the West Side. I travel through the North Side. I have been up Lake Shore Drive. The people are asking for strong leadership," Daley said. "I think together we can provide that leadership."

At a visit to a downtown construction site, Daley said he was not surprised by the latest poll.

"I said it would be a close election," Daley said. "That's why in the last closing days I've been campaigning all around the city."

Clergymen supporting both Sawyer and Evans held a prayer vigil outside City Hall.

to creating a new category of student organizations with different guidelines.

Wood opposed the idea of the organizations merging.

"I worry about becoming part of the constituency group (USG)," Wood said. "SPC was concerned about it 12 years ago when the organization split from student government."

However, Wood supported the creation of a new internal structure for SPC that would involve a board of directors. Members would likely come from undergraduate and graduate governments, as well as SPC representatives.

Charles Hagerman, CIA

chairman, said the board could be modeled after the one at Rainbow's End, a University funded childhood development center.

Hagerman said restructuring the SPC would allow it to represent the wishes of the student population which it serves.

National Assembly, Bush urged the Koreans to reject economic protectionism and to open more markets to free trade with the West.

He discussed similar concerns with President Roh Tae Woo during private talks at the beginning of his 4 1/2-hour stop in Seoul. Bush's plane made a brief stop at Elmendorf Air Force Base outside Anchorage to refuel before continuing to Washington.

"I stand in your Assembly as Presidents Eisenhower, Johnson and Reagan have stood before me," Bush said in his speech. "I reaffirm, as they did, America's support, friendship and respect for the Republic of Korea and its people."

Ignoring a weekend of protests against Roh and against what dissidents call

U.S. support of Korean "military dictatorship," the president said he has "no plans" to reduce the 43,000-strong U.S. military force stationed in the country to support a progressing democracy against North Korean communism.

He also praised the economic growth of America's seventh-largest trading partner.

be certified Wednesday.

"Any party has five working days to file any objections to the results," Perkovich said. As of Monday, no one had filed any objections, he said. However, it is typical for someone to call near the end of the last day and file an objection, he said.

Wednesday's runoff elections resulted because of disputed votes in the initial election in November 1988 at both campuses. Both SIU-C's faculty and administrative professional staff voted against union representation.

At SIU-E the administrative-professional staff's ballots were impounded because the Illinois Federation of Teachers, a second union on the ballots, disputed whether a group of staff at the East St. Louis Center fit into the IELRB's definition of "professional." Neither IEA, IFT or no representation gained a majority in the first election.

To decide the dispute, the IELRB separated the two groups of staff into "professionals" and "non-professionals." In the election, the two groups had the option to combine their votes.

A majority of the voters in both groups decided to combine their votes. In the professional group, 31 voted to combine votes while three voted not to combine the votes. In the non-professional group, 100 voted to combine their votes while 77 voted not to combine the votes.

either of these areas should be resolved in favor of the public, not the nominee," Ryan quoted Simon as saying.

The debate over the nomination will begin in the Senate on Wednesday with a vote to be taken later that day or early Thursday.

Dixon, D-Belleville, cited ties to the public sector and to defense contractors as having a negative affect on decisions Tower will have to make concerning national defense contracts, according to Bill Adams, a Dixon aide.

Adams said Dixon feels there are a number of allegations and rumors contained in the FBI's report on Tower that also will affect his decision to vote against the nomination.

Dixon, however, would not elaborate on these allegations because he is not interested in spreading the rumors contained in the report, Adams said.

International students travel United States on break trips

By Fernando Felici-Moggi
Staff Writer

International students can tour the United States through a series of trips to different cities offered by International Programs and Services, Diane Wissinger, foreign student adviser for IPS, said.

Carla Coppi, also an international student adviser, said academic life doesn't give foreign students much time to travel and know the United States.

"They will go back to their countries and all they will have seen of the United States will be Carbondale," Coppi said.

Every year, during Thanksgiving, spring and May breaks, International Programs and Services sponsors trips that take international students to places of interest for as few dollars as possible, Coppi said.

"We offer visits that range from a one day, $2 fall tour to Garden of the Gods, to a one week visit to Washington D.C. in May," Wissinger said.

Wissinger said this spring break IPS will be taking students to Chicago.

Students will spend three days in Chicago, between March 11 and 14, visiting various museums, the Sears Tower and downtown shopping areas. Students will also be able to experience Chicago's nightlife, Wissinger said.

"For $100, including transportation and accommodations in a centric hotel we can give a group of students the opportunity to make the trip. If it were done individually it would cost at least twice as much," Wissinger said.

Coppi said American students often join the internationals in these excursions.

Coppi said registration for the Chicago trip closed Thursday, and space was still available.

To sign up for the trip, call International Programs and Services at 453-5774

Collecting aluminum cans could bring R.E.M. tickets

By Nora Bentley
Staff Writer

R.E.M. tickets and backstage passes will be given away by a local radio station to the four people who bring the most cans into the Southern Recycling Center.

"WIDB requested backstage passes and they (REM) said they had to do something environmental-minded," Michelle Suarez, Arena promotions specialist, said.

People will receive a receipt when they bring their cans in and then they have until 5 p.m. Thursday to bring the receipts to the station, Tony Wilkins, general manager of WIDB, said.

The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the arena.

Agency acts fast in purchase of Lincoln's rare documents

By Brad Bushue
Student Writer

When the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency (IHPA) learned of the availability of 42 documents concerning the Springfield home of Abraham Lincoln, it had to act fast to obtain the rare historic collection.

The purchase of the largest collection of Lincoln-related documents based on a single theme, the only home ever owned by the 16th president, was being considered for investment by foreign interests as well as private collectors.

Officials from the IHPA realized that this could break up the mass of documents. Ruth Truett, Congress of Historical Societies and Museums coordinator, said, "It is important to keep these rare documents in Illinois because Abraham Lincoln and his only home are part of the historical fabric of this great state," Thompson said in a press release.

The collection was purchased for $250,000 and donated to the state by an Illinois corporation at the request of the governor. The documents are on display in the Illinois State Historical Library in Springfield.

The collection, which was gathered over a 30-year period by a Chicago book and manuscript dealer, included Lincoln's handwritten indenture transferring ownership of his home. The existence of the document was not known until IHPA representatives stumbled upon it in 1987.

The documents will make up a complete collection of such papers on the only home Lincoln owned, Truett said, with the purchase of a final existing document owned by a private collector.

Gov. James Thompson fought tirelessly to establish a state agency to protect the historical interests of Illinois, such as the Lincoln home documents, Truett said.

The agency would become the IHPA after its approval by the state legislature in 1985.

"He (Thompson) knew (the agency) needed to happen if the state was going to pursue saving some of the historical structures that were doomed to age or demolition," Truett said.

Appropriately so, the headquarters of the Illinois Historical Preservation Agency is located about 50 feet beneath the old Illinois state capitol building, which is maintained by and preserved in part by the IHPA.

As a whole, the agency invests its interest in areas of historical relevance, to preserve it for the welfare of the state, Truett said. Education is the major motive, she said, and because of the agency's efforts, Illinoisans can see and learn about the history of their state through exhibits and historical sites.

"We are here to support the work of history through collection," Truett said.

Much of the historical society's time is spent seeking out and purchasing items related to Abraham Lincoln, such as letters to friends and business partners.

Recently, the IHPA bought the home of Lincoln's long-time friend and colleague, David Davis. The Bloomington home will be maintained by the IHPA.

The five-member board of the IHPA, which is appointed by the governor, is responsible for management, including financial allocation, of the divisions of the agency and overseeing their actions.

The Division of Illinois State Historical Library, also is located beneath the old state capitol building. The division is a fully functional library and houses historical documents dating back to the time before Illinois was adopted into the Union. Also, the library contains a level devoted to materials involving Abraham Lincoln, including many signed documents.

The Illinois State Historical Society, a private organization associated with the IHPA only by historical guidance, collects money for historical preservation with membership dues and fund raisers to purchase

A traveling exhibit celebrating the 125th anniversary of the Gettysburg Address and the Emancipation Proclamation will stop in Carbondale May 5.

Student intern interprets SIU-C history by buildings

Display continues through March 20 at campus museum

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

"Within These Walls: The Growth and Expansion of SIU, 1913-1989," an exhibit at the University Museum, traces the history of the University through its buildings.

The display, which will continue through March 20, includes photographs, blueprints and copies of architects' watercolor depictions of University buildings. The museum is open 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sundays. Admission is free.

JO A. NAST, the museum's history curator, said, "I think the most important thing to realize in this exhibit is that it was created by a student intern."

Lisa Kutok, who graduated in December, designed the exhibit as part of an internship course.

The internship is usually reserved for graduate students, but Kutok got the internship because of her research skills.

Nast said Kutok was the second intern to do an exhibit on the chronological history of the University.

THE INTERNS were given a time period to examine and were allowed to interpret that period as they wished.

The first intern traced the University's history from 1874 to 1913 by focusing on the first four University presidents.

Kutok's exhibit covers the period from 1913 to the present through examination of the University's buildings.

"She decided to look at the architecture of the campus as a means of telling the history and development of the University," Nast said.

KUTOK SAID, "I just thought of it as a student. As a student, I always wondered what the history was behind each building."

Kutok said one of the interesting facts she found out was that the Old Main Mall statue contains stones from the original Old Main building.

There are a lot of popular misconceptions about Faner, Kutok said.

"It was supposed to be attached to the Student Center, it was designed for another campus, it is backwards, etc. That's all false," she said.

Kutok said she considered Faner the most significant addition to the campus in recent years because it was built partly as a replacement for Old Main, which burned down in the 1960s.

"FANER IS a good building to house a lot of schools (departments) under," she said.

The campus' spread-out look was not planned as such, but instead evolved, she said.

"The (University) was planned in so many ways. (Former University President Dwight) Morris would bring in a lot of architects to do blueprints and then decide on one. He wanted to plan it, but it kind of evolved," Kutok said.

The original buildings at Old Main Mall were planned, she said.

The first part of Kutok's exhibit is a narrative overview of the University from 1874, when it opened, to 1913.

The rest of the exhibit concentrates on the early growth years, from 1913 to 1947, and the expansion years from 1948 to 1989, and includes material about the University's goals for the future.

"There were old photos at Campu; Architects, but most were from Special Collections at Morris Library," Nast said.

The architect's office also had blueprints, she said.

THE PHOTOGRAPHS are of existing buildings and those under construction. Photographs of performances at Shryock Auditorium and homecoming events at McAndrew Stadium show how buildings enhance University life.

Eye problems often caused by carelessness, bacteria

By Chris Labyk
Of the Wellness Center

Many people take their vision for granted until they experience a vision problem or eye infection. The first week in March is Save Your Vision Week and here are a few facts about eye care that may save your vision.

Sunglasses are fashionable, but also protect the eyes against ultraviolet light which contributes to the development of cataracts.

Cataracts, which usually develop over time, cause the lens of the eye to become cloudy and opaque eventually causing loss of vision.

When purchasing a pair of sunglasses, check for the UV or ultraviolet rating. The lenses should also be impact resistant so that injury to the eye itself is less likely in the event of any type of impact to the face.

Do not wear your sunglasses indoors; your eyes need to learn to accommodate to varying degrees of brightness.

Sunglasses are particularly advisable for people who wear contact lenses, use oral contraceptives, or take certain medications that are light sensitive.

Eye cosmetics can pose another possible danger to eye health.

When purchased new, most cosmetics are free of bacteria, but misusing them can cause the growth of bacteria. Don't share your cosmetics with another person. Some people's bacteria may not affect them, but may be hazardous to you.

New mascara should be purchased at least every six months or if contamination is suspected. If the mascara becomes thickened, use boiled water to thin it. Do not use saliva.

Cosmetics stored at high temperatures for prolonged periods, such as in a hot car during the summer, are more susceptible to deterioration of the preservatives in the product.

Do not use eye makeup while you have an eye infection, wait until it has cleared before resuming use. You may need to purchase a new product in the event that the old one is contaminated.

If you wear contact lenses, put them in before applying your makeup to reduce the likelihood of carrying particles and oils into your eye.

Eyestrain from reading and using video display terminals is a particular problem for students. While doing close work, take a ten minute eye exercise break every hour.

Some warning signs for eye problems in adults include: blurred or double vision, colored rings around lights, black spots or flashes of lights and difficulty adjusting to a darkened room.

Tennis winless in 4 matches in long weekend competition

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

Usually when a team loses four matches in one weekend, the coach is not happy. That is not the case with men's tennis coach Dick LeFevre.

"We did well considering our competition," LeFevre said. "We schedule the toughest teams early in the season so we are ready for conference competition."

The Salukis took on Purdue on Friday, Notre Dame and Colorado on Saturday, and Iowa on Sunday.

A 5-4 loss to Purdue was a bitter pill for the team to swallow. No. 1 singles player Jose Demeterco had to forfeit his singles match due to an injured back. Also, Jairo Aldana had triple match point in his singles but was unable to get the victory.

Mickey Maule and Juan Martinez added to the Salukis point total against Purdue with singles wins.

Saturday the Salukis were defeated by Notre Dame 6-3 in the afternoon and were later ousted by Colorado 9-3.

Against Notre Dame Maule and Martinez continued their winning ways by taking their singles matches 7-5, 6-3, and 1-6, 7-5, 6-3, respectively.

The strong doubles performances of Colorado spelled defeat for the Salukis in Saturday night's match. One promising point of the Colorado match was the return to form of Jose Demeterco, who won his singles match 6-1, 6-3.

"Jose was hurting during the Colorado match but he was still able to pull out the victory," LeFevre said. "Jose is going to rest until our spring break matches, by then his back should be much better."

Fabiano Ramos and George Hime notched singles wins in the Colorado meet to chip in on the Saluki scoring.

The team finished Saturday's Colorado match at 1:00 a.m. and had to be on the courts at 9:00 a.m. Sunday.

The lack of rest affected the team, LeFevre said.

"We didn't get much sleep at all after Colorado. It affected our play some, but wasn't the factor in losing to Iowa on Sunday."

The factor that overshadowed the lack of sleep was the Salukis' lack of ability to convert on match points.

Against Iowa, which the Salukis lost 5-4, the Salukis had four match points and failed to turn any of them into wins.

"We take one match point and we beat Iowa 5-4, same with Purdue one match point and we go home 2-2 on the weekend," LeFevre said.

LeFevre was impressed with a number of individual performances but said that a total team effort is needed to win.

"We are playing tough teams and giving them a run. We almost beat Iowa, the best team here this weekend," LeFevre said.

"Aldana had a big win against Iowa and so did Demeterco. When we pull more good performances together the wins will start to come."

SIU-C hosts recreational games

By Marc Blumer
Staff Writer

Students from 22 Illinois and Indiana universities competed in the regional finals of five recreational games at the Student Center this weekend.

SIU-C hosted the Region 9 finals for the Association of College Unions International. Some 225 students participated in the ACUI tournament, which included competitions in bowling, billiards, table tennis, backgammon and chess.

Each school in the region held individual competitions last semester to determine its representatives for the regional.

Some of the winners qualified to move on to the national finals of their respective activities. Intercollegiate bowling, billiards and table tennis have national finals slated for late April.

In men's bowling, Vincennes (Ind.) University, won the team title. Brian Cole of Indiana State (Terre Haute, Ind.) won the single event and Chad Secrist of Indiana University (Bloomington, Ind.) won the combined event.

The team from Indiana University won the woman's team title in bowling and Linda Nobel of Ball State University (Muncie, Ind.) won both the combined and single events.

In billiards, Jenkes Wroten of SIU-E won the men's title while Tracy Kropp placed first among women.

Sam Imbo of Purdue University (West Lafayette, Ind.) took first in the singles division of men's table tennis. Imbo teamed up with Bernard Thezenin to win the doubles title.

On the woman's side, Julie Delia of SIU-C won the singles crown.

Backgammon and chess are presently without a national competition and are only contested on the regional level. The ACUI tournament also included a recreational division of bowling which does not have a national tournament.

Darin Reuter of SIU-C won the backgammon tournament, while David Mote of SIU-C placed first in the chess competition.

flooring, and the removal of 4-inch thick concrete locker platforms.

However, Haake said his priority is converting Lingle for use by athletics.

"We're getting additional training and locker room facilities in lower level," Haake said. "That's going to mean cutting through concrete and plumbing. We're not sure yet what's required totally.

We're still waiting for additional information."

Lingle Hall was built in conjunction with the Arena in 1964. Davies Gym, which is 64 years old, underwent a $3.5 million renovation in 1982.

Last-second basket sinks Salukis — again

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

After 11 years at Illinois State, coach Bob Donewald knows something about these one point games.

Lucky for him, his players do exactly what they are told.

Down 82-80, Ricky Jackson buried an off-balance three-pointer with three second left to give the Redbirds an 83-82 victory over the Salukis Monday night.

"Coach said since we were down by two we should get the ball out and get screens from the inside guys," Jackson said. "If that did not work, they were supposed to get it to me to take the shot. It turned out to have been a three."

Donewald said his instructions were even less specific.

"I said just get the best shot we can, I did not care if it was two or three," Donewald said. "Whoever gets it, just let it go."

Saluki coach Rich Herrin said his team did everything they could to prevent the game-winner.

"It was a tremendous three-point play," Herrin said. "Sterling was all over him, he just could not shut him down."

The loss drops the Salukis to 6-8 in the Missouri Valley, good for a fifth-place tie with the Redbirds and Drake.

As a result of Tulsa's 62-54 win over Bradley Monday and Creighton's 69-60 win over Drake, the Salukis will open the MVC tournament March 4 against the Braves.

SIU-C called a timeout after Jackson's shot, and had the ball in the hands of sharpshooter Kai Nurnberger who came up empty at the buzzer. Despite cries of foul after the final horn sounded, Nurnberger said no call was needed.

"It was nothing," said Nurnberger, who finished the game with 18 points, second to Freddie McSwain's 23.

"It was another home loss which shouldn't have happened anyway," Nurnberger said.

Donewald said he planned on Nurnberger taking the last shot, and set up his team accordingly.

"We had (Derek) Stokes over the 10-second line, and at 6-foot-6 and with his mobility, plus chasing (Nurnberger) with one (player), he still got the ball off," Donewald said. "It would have been as unique a shot as Ricky's."

Down 42-39 at halftime, the Salukis scored the first four points of the second period to take a one point lead. Neither team led by more than four points in the second half.

The Redbirds lived on hot shooting throughout the game. Illinois State nailed 36 of 62 from the floor for 58.1 percent.

Herrin said the loss is a disappointing one, but the Salukis again played competitively.

"We have never dominated at home like we need to," Herrin said. "Illinois State did a heck of a job coming out ready to play. Early in the year we could win the close ones, now we seem to lose the close ones."

"We came out ready to play and had a great opportunity to win the game. It's been a hard month, but the only time we got our tail kicked was at Wichita last game. I think we gave the crowd their money's worth in enthusiasm."

McSwain said the Salukis rash of close losses hasn't done much for team morale.

"It is hard to stay motivated when you lose tight games," McSwain said. "We will try to pull together and overcome those losses. It is a motivator in a way because we can go out and show we really are better than the way we played in the second half."

Design plans for facilities at Lingle submitted

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Preliminary architectural plans outlining realignment of office space at Lingle Hall have been submitted to Campus Services, which is supervising the accommodation of the entire athletics department at Lingle and the adjacent Arena.

Allen Haake, a supervising architect at the physical plant, drew up the plans and preliminary estimates, which fell within the $200,000 guideline suggested by University President John C. Guyon last week.

The plans are being reviewed by Clarence "Doc" Dougherty, vice president for Campus Services, who reports directly to Guyon.

"Nothing's been finalized, we're still talking with the athletics department," Dougherty said. "The estimates and figures are not at a point where we can really talk specifically about them. There are a few different ways we can do it, and each one has a different price tag."

Since his appointment in July, Athletics Director Jim Hart has lobbied Guyon for a unification of the athletics department. Hart said earlier that he had hoped to have the move completed by the start of the fall semester, but that he was not counting on it.

At present, Saluki Athletics is housed in two locations. Most of the men's sports are at Lingle-Arena, while the women's teams are at Davies Gymnasium.

The move includes the health education department, which has the brunt of its offices and classrooms at Lingle. Health education would move to Davies, which also is shared by physical education.

Donald Beggs, dean of the College of Education, and John Evans, associate dean, submitted to Guyon a "lengthy request" of space and facility needs that would entail the move to Davies, which currently has only one classroom.

"Our concern is that our faculty and staff is adequately housed and there is sufficient classroom space," Evans said.

Although no plans have yet been drawn up to alter Davies, Haake said a locker room would probably have to be changed into a classroom. Most of the work would involve removal of plumbing.

Haake anticipates that turning the locker room into a classroom would also require installation of adequate lighting, air conditioning, tile

Coaches poll says DeNoon league's best

After the Saluki women's track team won the Gateway Conference this weekend, its next task will be to find a place to put all its trophies.

Coach Don DeNoon took home conference Coach of the Year honors, while 11 of his athletes qualified for all-conference honors.

"I don't have any room in my office to put the championship trophy," DeNoon said. "We have so many from the past. I want to keep filling up this office with future trophies."

DeNoon was picked as coach of the year by a coaches poll following the conference meet Sunday. DeNoon's team dominated the competition by scoring 132 points. The nearest competitor had 90.

Dora Kyriacou led the Salukis in all-conference honors, receiving awards in four events.

The first three finishers in each event are named all-conference. Kyriacou finished in the top three in the 200-meter dash, 400, 4 X 200 relay and the 4 X 400 relay.

Kathy Raske and Rosanne Vincent won honors in three events. Raske qualified for the NCAA championships in the 55-meter hurdles and won the event. She also was all-conference in the 200 and 4 X 200 relay.

Vincent met the standards in the 600 and 4 X 400 and 4 X 800

Improved all-around scores not enough to capture wins

By Tricia Jording
Staff Writer

Another loss on Bill Meade's gymnastics record isn't what is important to him.

"How they (the team) perform is what I look for," Meade said.

"If a guy is going through his routine and he's doing well and then all of the sudden at the end he falls, I just hope he learns from his mistake. Learning is what is important in anything we do in life."

"The team is looking better longer before they crash. Hopefully as the season goes on they'll get better, that's all that I ask for," Meade said.

The Saluki gymnastics team went into a busy weekend on the road as they first traveled to Kent State for a triangular meet with Michigan State and then traveled to Penn State for yet another tri-meet with Houston Baptist.

In both of these meets SIU-C was defeated, by an 8.30 margin in the first meet and a 20.65 margin in the second.

At Kent State, the final gymnasts from SIU-C to place were Brent Reed with an all-around score of 50.7, Rick Armstrong with an all-around score of 48.7, Jeff Jones with an all-around score of 46.85.

Reed placed second to Michigan State's Richie Rulstorf. Armstrong placed sixth and Jones placed seventh.

The Salukis had the highest team scores in the vault with a 43.6.

According to Meade the meet in Ohio was a rather casual but very friendly meet so the team wasn't completely worn out for the meet the next day in Pennsylvania.

The top scores in the Penn State meet from SIU-C were once again Reed Jones and Armstrong.

Reed scored his all-time high of 54.40. His strengths were on the rings and the pommel horse. On the rings he scored a total score of 128.65 and on the horse he scored 215.80 total points.

With strength on the floor exercise, rings, horse and high bar, Armstrong scored a high score of 51.15.

Jones scored a high score of 50.10. His high scoring exercises were on the floor exercise, the rings and on the high bar.

Erik Hanson tied his all-time high score on the rings with an average score of 9.25.

On the parallel bars Scott Belanger scored a high average of 9.2.

The Salukis will be competing this weekend in a home meet against University of Oklahoma in the Arena at 7:30 p.m.
