SIU tuition hike reduced, delayed 'til winter term

By Rich Davis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Tuition will be hiked at state universities next year, but the increases will be reduced and delayed until January of 1971, according to Sen. John R. Gilbert, R-Carbondale, vice-chairman of the legislative Liaison Commission on Higher Education.

Gilbert said negotiations between Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and the governing boards of state universities on the higher education budget, are making "substantial gains."

He said a compromise is expected by early next week. House Appropriations Committee hearings on the budget, delayed once last week and rescheduled Wednesday, were postponed again until sometime next week.

Ogilvie cut $17.9 million from the higher education budget April 1 in his budget message and proposed doubling tuition at state universities.

He also recommended salary increases of 4.5 per cent for state employees after the Higher Board of Education had recommended a 7.1 per cent increase.

The Liaison Commission, made up of members of the Senate and House of Representatives, has backed the Board of Higher Education in its budget recommendations.

Gilbert said that moving the hikes to January will give students who have already been accepted at state universities for next fall a quarter or semester before paying the increased rates.

Under Ogilvie's plan, SIU rates would jump from $206 to $397 for tuition for Illinois students, and from $720 to $1,194 for out-of-state residents under the plan.

Gilbert said the negotiations should also work out the differences in state employee salary increases.

Ogilvie recommended a 4.5 per cent salary increase for employees and the Higher Board a 7.1 per cent adjustment, causing many legislators and state employees to speculate on cutbacks in personnel at universities if Ogilvie's proposal was approved by the Legislature.

Once a compromise has been reached, Gilbert said, amendments similar to ones prepared in protest of Ogilvie's budget would be introduced.

Rep. Clyde Choate, R-Anna, minority whip in the House of Representatives, has prepared an amendment which would restore all the Ogilvie cuts in SIU's budget, eliminating tuition increases and providing $3.1 million more for salary increases.

Other amendments had been prepared for other state universities, according to Gilbert, and have a great deal of support.

Gilbert, Rep. Gale Williams, R-Murphysboro and Choate all indicated the support for these amendments prompted negotiations because Ogilvie didn't have the support he needed to approve his budget.

Student's Party takes top two

By Terry Peters and Bob Carr
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

The Student's Party Ticket took the two top student government executive positions in a hotly contested election Wednesday, while the third member of the slate withdrew because he does not meet the qualifications for vice president of student activities.

Action Party dominated the voting for Student Senate seats, winning 12 of the 27 seats up for election. Majority Party took six seats, Student's Party five and Unity Party three. One unaffiliated candidate was elected.

Thomas P. Scherschel, a junior from Chicago, won the student body presidential post with 2,084, 28.2 per cent of the votes cast for the office. Tom Busch of Action Party was second with 1,653, Ellis J. May of Unity Party polled 1,467 votes and Majority Party standard-bearer Michael F. Ellis drew 1,326.

David L. Kite, an unaffiliated candidate for the post, tallied 714 votes; Terry A. Piediscalzzy, Reform Party's lone candidate, received 78 votes, and Michael P. McGrail, an independent candidate, polled 72.

John W. McCaffrey, a junior from Wilmette, was elected student body vice president with 2,208 votes, 31 per cent of the total. Running second in the race was Michael L. Ashby of Action Party, with 1,802 votes. Cass Jones of Unity Party ran third with 1,583 votes, and Majority Party's James W. Darras was fourth with 1,480.

Totals for the vice president for student activities spot were: David M. Zutler, Student's, 2,137; Franklin M. (Buzz) Spector, Action, 1,980; Patricia J. (Pat) Handlin, Unity, 1,591; and Michael C. Williams, Majority, 1,438.

The race for vice president for student activities was complicated by Zutler's revelation that he does not have enough credit hours to qualify for the post. Spector was declared the winner by Rhonda Starnes, elections commissioner.

Results of the senatorial elections are as follows:

California fest problems told at trial

By Marty Francis, Rich Davis and Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

A California state policeman testified in Jackson County Circuit Court Wednesday on traffic, sanitation and safety problems connected with a rock fest held in California as the second day of hearings on Carbondale's May-fest continued.

The first significant development in the case began when William Bradshaw took the stand as a plaintiff witness at 4 p.m.

Bradshaw is a captain with the California Highway Patrol who participated in traffic control during the Altamont festival held in December.

Bradshaw testified that traffic was backed up for 20 miles on the major expressway access route as early as 18 hours before the festival began.

Many people, he said, abandoned their cars on the highway. The only police units which could move effectively, he continued, were officers on motorcycles.

Bradshaw said many festival-attendees crossed private land to get to the site on foot and in cars.

Litter was also a major problem at the fest, he said, so much so, that 24 hours after the festival was over, the area was still covered with debris.

"I saw numerous cases of pot smoking and some sort of narcotic use taken by injection," he said, as well as several cases of nudity in the crowd and various sexual activity throughout the day.

Under cross examination by Harpettle attorney J.C. Mitchell, Bradshaw said he had never had experience with a rock festival before, and that it was quite possible that advanced planning between promoters and police in the area could have "substantially reduced" the traffic problem.

Bradshaw also conceded that he observed only 500 cases of drug usage, representing approximately one-half of one percent of the total people at the festival.

Earlier in the proceedings, W. L. Brandon, supervisor of Carbondale Township, testified as a witness for the plaintiff.

Brandon, who has spent 20 years on the Jackson County Board of Supervisors said no license was ever applied for by Harpettle.

The Jackson County Board of Supervisors suspended licensing of entertainment Jan. 14 under a county ordinance until a new resolution could be formulated.

The Board adopted a new resolution with detailed procedure but Harpettle has not submitted another application. Mitchell asked Brandon if the revised entertainment policy revisions were "aimed at preventing rock festivals of 100,000 people." Bradshaw replied, "It could have been."

Student attends conference

All campaign literature for Wednesday's student government election must be cleaned up within 24 hours after the election ends, according to the student government office.

The restrictions on campaign materials provided for in the by-laws of student elections state; each party is responsible for picking up discarded campaign materials around campus within 24 hours after the election.

The University Maintenance Service will pick up any campaign literature left around the campus after the 24-hour period. However, the names of those parties ignoring the restriction will be turned into the student government office and will be subject to a fine. Rhonda Starnes, election commissioner, said she plans to enforce this regulation on campaign literature.

A tea, sponsored by the School of Home Economics, in honor of Chancellor and Mrs. Robert W. MacVicar will be held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Friday in the Family Living Laboratory in the Home Economics Building.

FCA will hold loyalty parade

The Carbondale branch of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes is planning a parade and rally Saturday. The parade is to be a display in support of the "Silent Majority," according to Britt Aaron, coordinator of the parade.

"Our group has been disturbed by the disrespect for America by certain protest groups. We feel that it is time to speak up and give America the support it needs," Aaron said. He added that the members weren't against peaceful dissent but against radicalism and they felt that they should make their views known.

Aaron said the parade is not to be pro Viet Nam, it isn't against blacks and it isn't against long hair whites, in fact, representatives from just about all of these factions will participate in the parade, he said.

Carbondale's "All America Day" falls on a national day of support for the nation. Last year President Nixon proclaimed May 2 as "Loyalty Day." This was to offset the May Day celebration which is held annually in Moscow.

The parade will start at 1 p.m. in the parking lot northeast of University School.

Chicago resident drowned in lake

An 18-year-old Chicago resident drowned shortly after noon Wednesday at Cambria Neck on Crab Orchard Lake.

The victim was identified as Edward A. Kozial of 6938 Woolfran, Chicago, by a spokesman in the Williamson County sheriff's office.

The spokesman said Kozial apparently drowned while swimming.

The SIU Registrar's Office had no record of Kozial being an SIU student.

His body has been taken to Riggin Funeral Home in Carverville.

Young Democrats to realign today

The possibility of affiliating with College Democrats of Illinois will be discussed along with the visit of State Senator Alan Dixon, who is a candidate for state treasurer of Illinois.

The date for club elections for the coming school year will be determined at tonight's meeting.

Carbondale may suffer during American Day

To the Daily Egyptian:

Bruce L. Johnson's April 23 letter concerning the value of "All-American Day" is an inspiration to all. He clearly outlines the need for genuine displays of patriotism in this time of turmoil. Every red-blooded American should be proud to stand up and be counted on Saturday. Only in this great country can one openly declare his heritage of freedom . . . in the name of such freedom I pledge my whole-hearted support of "All-American Day."

However, I am a "concerned" member of the Carbondale community as well as a lover of freedom. For this reason I sincerely believe the promoters of "All-American Day" should consider the possible dangers.

Obviously, the promise of "balloons, bands and parades" will attract thousands from all 50 states to Carbondale. . . the dedicated people behind "All-American Day" should make preparations and answer certain questions.

For example, who will feed and shelter the multitude? Are there enough toilet facilities? Is there a danger some ever-enthusiastic Americans may inadvertently damage Carbondale property? Will the patriotic brass bands disturb many of the city's senior citizens at night?

I support the "right" and "freedom" to have the event. But we must protect ourselves first.

Proposal for volunteer army

Recently a commission headed by former Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates handed President Nixon a plan to end the draft and implement an all-volunteer army.

The plan, unanimously approved by the members of the special commission, would go into effect in July, 1971, if it is approved by the President and Congress. The draft, under the plan, would end on June 30, 1971, when the present legal authority to draft ends. The plan would retain a standby draft which could be put into effect in an emergency when requested by the President and approved by Congress.

To maintain armed forces of 2.5 million men, about 325,000 men will have to volunteer each year. To attract these men, the commission has recommended a pay raise of $3.2 billion per year besides providing better living conditions. Without the huge supply of manpower now provided by the draft, the commission says manpower will be put to better use and pride, an important factor in keeping a volunteer army, will increase.

If the Gates Commission plan is put into effect, about 40 per cent more volunteers would have to be attracted. At the present time 40 per cent of the armed forces are career men on their second or subsequent enlistments and about 20 per cent of the first term men are enlistees. Whether or not the increased benefits would attract the needed 40 per cent is not known, and only an experiment in this area would tell for sure if the plan would draw the needed men.

Advantages of the all-volunteer army include, 1) an end to the unpopular draft; 2) a lower turn-over of men since more would be career soldiers; 3) less men to train and less men needed to train them; 4) more efficient and highly trained men making up the bulk of the army; 5) more effective use of manpower and a greater return for the tax dollar.

This plan, if adopted, would above all remove the threat to young men of a two-year period of involuntary servitude. This would lift a tremendous burden from the shoulders of these men and provide a more stable future for them to plan their lives.

The plan, if put into effect by Nixon, would make him a popular president with the young voters which could add up to a lot of votes in the next election. The President is probably quite aware of this fact.

If the plan is put into effect, and if it works, it could benefit everyone; the draft age young men, the President, the taxpayer, and the army.

Gym hours cited

To the Daily Egyptian:

This letter is in reply to Mr. Gordon Hutchinson's letter concerning the hours at Pulliam Hall Gym.

You are absolutely correct about the times printed in the Daily Egyptian on April 18. To offer more information, the Pulliam Hall Gymnasium and Weight Room will also be open Monday through Friday from 3:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. On Saturdays it is open from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Sundays from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

We wish to apologize to you about the gym being close but due to the uncontrollable circumstance, the tornado alert, we were instructed by the Physical Plant to close.

We appreciate your desire to play basketball, but many times throughout the year, we have to alter our printed schedule because of unforeseen events and we will unfortunately have to continue this pattern in the future.

Again, we are sorry. We make every effort to notify, when possible, the students of a change in the schedule.

Strikes benefit some, cost all

In an economy already racked by inflation, the rash of strikes that has broken out across the nation is an ill omen. The strikers will no doubt receive their demands, but at the expense of the rest of the populace.

The postal workers' strike is no doubt the most significant of the recent labor disputes, but it was only the first in the line of dominoes. In quick succession, the air traffic controllers have staged a "sick-out," a Teamster strike has spread across the country, the continuing trouble between the railroads and labor threatens to boil over again and teachers and printers from New York to California are on the verge of walking out.

With the exception of the air traffic controllers, who want lesser work loads and better job assignments, those threatening to strike want higher wages; and, in all probability, if they walk out, they'll get them. And if they get higher wages, inflation will become a little worse, and when the cycle is complete, no one will be much better off than they were before.

But the postal workers' strike opened another can of worms, and a lot of questions have come slithering out concerning the right of government employees to strike. Few persons realized how important the postal workers are until the mails stopped.

The Nixon Administration, of course, had little choice but to settle the postal strike as soon as possible or face a complete economic shutdown of the country. Finally settled, the agreement calls for a six per cent wage hike for classified government employees, retroactive to Dec. 27, and an additional eight per cent raise when the Nixon plan for turning the Post Office into a corporation is finally worked out. AFL-CIO president George Meany praised the settlement as the beginning of true collective bargaining for government workers. He could have added that it was also the beginning of increased postal rates to meet the demands and an open invitation for other government workers to strike.

Student suggests use for Old Main

To the Daily Egyptian:

I have a thought in line with "Skipper" Watson's letter concerning AFROTC's purpose on the SIU campus. Instead of wasting a complete floor of much-needed classroom space in Wheeler Hall on a military service which is utilized by only a small minority of students, I propose that the administration discontinue tearing down the remains of Old Main and immediately move the AFROTC offices there.

Think of the practical experience which could be gained by the cadets operating out of an already war-ravaged appearing building. M16 machine guns could probably be obtained from Student Activities, from which Murphy's Marauders could also gain some practical weapons experience in conjunction with their other AFROTC indoctrinations.

Take heed administration, faculty, student government and students. Here is a solution to a vexing problem.

Good points of ROTC seen

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Student Senate's overwhelming vote in favor of doing away with Air Force ROTC at SIU made me stop and analyze the program. No government, system or program is completely flawless. The best way to come up with a sensible opinion on a subject is to weigh its good points against its bad ones and base your decision on whichever comes out ahead.

War—I agree, it's a terrible, dirty thing. But looking at past history, it almost seems to be a way of life. Although the cry for peace is louder than ever, nations just aren't willing to give up their arms and start down the untrodden road for peace. Therefore, the U.S. finds it necessary to have a powerful military. When dealing with the fate of this country and possibly the world, don't you agree it should be in the ablest hands? Maybe if some leaders in our military had the same education the men in Air Force ROTC are receiving, more lives could have been saved and the road toward peace might not be so barren.

Would you rather have someone out of high school who is still fascinated by guns, explosives and realistic war movies as a leader in the military, or a man with four years of college who has learned to hate war through his education, experiences in college, and the Air Force? Most people will agree that their basic opinions were formed during college and not high school.

I believe that the men in ROTC are not "war mongers" like many people think, but men who want peace just as much as anyone. They are putting themselves right into the system as an officer and leader. The only people who can change the world are the ones with adequate power. This power is through education and not heaving rocks through windows. Our country has made many mistakes and will continue to make them, but with more educated men serving it, the number and frequency of mistakes will lessen. So before we jump on this bandwagon and decide AFROTC isn't any good for SIU (for no reason other than it's "cool" to take that position), let's look at its good points.

Yoga Society curbs pollution of the mind

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Ananda Marga Yoga Society of Carbondale and SIU practice a highly effective form of pollution control. Through Yogic meditation and physical exercises the outward going tendencies of the mind are curbed, directed inward and result in heightened concentration of thought. The process has been analogously described as exchanging a flickering 30 watt light bulb for a new 100 watt light bulb. With the increased energy all the light one needs to carry on effective task becomes readily available and unperceived straining comes to a halt.

Similarly, consciousness and thought seem to be the precedents of action. One must flick on the light switch before energy will flow through the circuit. We are now discovering that previously considered autonomic functions of the body can be voluntarily controlled. (Sci, Amer, Jan. 70) Therefore if we perceive particular times of behavior as undesirable, i.e. man polluting, we must return to the mind and thought processes and carefully examine them.

Yogic meditation and exercise strengthen the mind/body and begin the process of purifying the nervous system. In myself I perceive a greater calmness and more effective relation with the environment.

Comprehensive exams all quarter are best

To the Daily Egyptian:

I was surprised to read that the authors of the letter condemning comprehensive finals were pre-med and pre-law students. I would think that they, even more so than other students, would realize the importance of comprehensive finals.

The whole idea of a course grade is that a student learns during the whole quarter and not what he can remember for the day of an exam and later discard. If a student would keep up and review for his exams all quarter, the comprehensive is no more difficult. I think a better idea is to have every exam and quiz be comprehensive and then the final is a breeze because all the student has to do is make a quick review.

It's a little ridiculous to confine comprehensive finals to only major courses—who is to say which courses aren't important enough to remember until the end of the quarter. That idea ruins the whole concept of General Studies.

I certainly pity Mr. Stark's patients if he decided to become a doctor after he had already completed his anatomy course!

Student rents book; where is it?

Letter

To the Daily Egyptian:

I enrolled this quarter in a math course (math 301). The instructor told us that the Textbook Service had not yet received the text of the course. He said that we would either have to buy the book or read it in the reserve room of the library. As my fellow students and I discovered, neither the University Bookstore nor 710 Bookstore had the book at first.

I had not realized what a great inconvenience it would be to not have a textbook in my possession, but I found out. Even though the book has arrived at the University Bookstore, who wants to pay $8.50 for a book that your book rental fee should cover? It all boils down to this fact: I am paying a book rental fee for a book that I am not renting, and I am suffering the consequences of not having the book. I do not believe I deserve either fate.

However petty all this sounds, I contend that such practices as these lead students to wonder if the administration is particularly concerned with fair treatment of the students. It seems to me that possibly the administration is not aware of the plight of myself and others; since this school is quite large, and the number of students affected may be small. However, the members of the minority do have rights, and the administration cannot now claim that they are unaware of the problem.

Therefore, I view as only logical the conclusion that if the administration is concerned with fairness, they will rectify this elusive book situation. For the record, I do not openly advocate overthrow of the government of the United States. I do believe, however, that injustices should be discussed and corrected.

Senate criticized

To the Daily Egyptian:

Kudos are in order once again for our magnificent Student Senate.

After persuading the Board of Trustees to have construction started this quarter on the U.S. 51 overpass, our "distinguished" senators voted in support of the nationwide trucking strike, which is holding up materials needed for further construction of the crossing. Another shining example of the present "Serve the People" Senate.

An explanation seems essential. Steve Eisenberg, sophomore, Geography; Donald C. Summer, junior, Government; Richard Levy, junior, Government

Parade chairman, CCHS senior, defends 'All-American Day' plans

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to answer the allegations in Michael S. Treitman's letter concerning the "All-American Day" parade on May 2. I feel qualified, as chairman of the parade committee.

To think the idea that any group of over 30 people could be of the same political ideology is absurd. I assure you our group is totally divided on American involvement in Vietnam.

The length of a person's hair was long ago shown to be inconsistent in judging his beliefs or political tendencies. So has the color of skin. Any attempt to judge and exclude any group from our parade would first, be nearly impossible and second, would contradict the Christian doctrine of love, which we advocate.

Dissent is a basic right. If we wished to stamp out dissent, Mr. Treitman, we would be defeating our purpose with "All-American Day"—for we would be showing support for a system we do not believe in.

You stress the importance of all types of Americans participating in the parade. We, too, invite all Americans, but with one exclusion—those who desire an alternative to the present system of U.S. government.

This parade is to show support for America. And what is America? "America" is the system of government found here. To admit revolutionaries would be to reduce the significance of the word "America" to a piece of land. If our only purpose is to show respect for a piece of land, why not substitute Australia?

Inevitably, there have been exclusions and oversights on our part. But we have not done so intentionally. It occurred simply because of the limited supply of human resources available. I hope I have clarified "All-American Day" and hope you will join us.

Judge says Kennedy made intentional turn

BOSTON (AP) — Judge James A. Boyle said in an inquest report made public Wednesday he did not believe Sen. Edward M. Kennedy intended to leave Chappaquiddick Island with Mary Jo Kopechne at the time of the automobile accident which killed the 28-year-old secretary.

Boyle also said there is cause to believe Kennedy operated his car negligently in a manner that "appears to have contributed to the death of Mary Jo Kopechne."

But the surprise finding of his 12-page inquest report, dated Feb. 18, was this challenge to Kennedy's public account of the accident:

"I infer a reasonable and probable explanation of the totality of the above facts is that Kennedy and Kopechne did not intend to return to Edgartown at that time; that Kennedy did not intend to drive to the ferry slip and his turn onto Dike Road was intentional."

In his own televised report on the accident last July 25, Kennedy said he made a wrong turn onto a narrow bridge while driving Miss Kopechne to the ferry which links Chappaquiddick with Martha's Vineyard.

Judge Boyle said that to drive across Dike Bridge at even 20 miles an hour, as Kennedy admitted, "would at least be negligent and probably reckless."

"If Kennedy knew of this hazard, his operation of the vehicle constituted criminal conduct."

"Earlier on July 18, he had driven over Chappaquiddick Road three times and over Dike Road and Dike Bridge twice," the judge said.

In his own testimony re-

War legality bill is crushed

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A bill which would have allowed the State of Illinois to test the constitutionality of the undeclared war in Vietnam was killed Wednesday in the House Veterans Committee by a vote of 15 to 4.

After hearing eight witnesses testify for the bill and one against, the committee reached its decision.

Rep. Robert E. Mann, D-Chicago who sponsored the bill, described the defeat of his bill in committee as "confused patriotism." The committee consists of veterans, some from the first and second world wars.

Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Chicago, the only opponent to offer testimony, said the bill amounts to an "attempt to bug out" of the Vietnam war.

Hyde said the bill would be "a disastrous vote of no confidence." It would amount, he said, to saying, "we won't serve" in the Vietnam war.

leased Wednesday, Kennedy said that he had had "a portion of beer" in the afternoon and two drinks of rum and coke during the evening at the cottage party at Chappaquiddick Island.

During his questioning, Kennedy was asked by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis if he was familiar with the island of Chappaquiddick.

Q. Had you been there before?

A. Never been on Chappaquiddick Island before that day.

Q. I believe you did state in one of your prepared statements that you had been visiting this island for about 30 years?

A. Martha's Vineyard Island.

Q. But you had never been to Chappaquiddick?

A. Never been to Chappaquiddick before 1:30 on the day of July 18.

Harpette trial continues

Testimony by officers of Harpette, Inc., Harold Calhoun, Peter Kost, and Charles Notarus, Wednesday morning indicated widespread reductions in plans for the proposed May Day Fest, scheduled for May 8-9-10 in Makanda township.

Revised plans call for a maximum daily attendance of 30,000, no camping facilities at Audion Meadows (site of the fest), limited water facilities (drinking purposes only), and abandonment of food concessions.

Original plans had called for attendance of up to 100,000, a fully staffed hospital, complete lavatory and water-carried sewage systems, food service, and complete camping facilities.

Notarus was shown a copy of a circular entitled "Who's Coming" with a list of 26 rock groups by attorney John C. Feirich.

Feirich asked him how many of the performers were under contract with Harpette for the May Day Fest.

Notarus said only two of the 26 groups, Ian and Sylvia and the Rotary Connection, were scheduled but the contracts have not been formally signed.

Notarus also testified that Harpette does not have a Jackson County entertainment license and has not submitted an application since Dec. 29, the date of its original application.

Peter Kost testified that Harpette's officers have no plans to sell all their interest in the May Day Fest to any party or parties and that no negotiations were being held in connection with this.

Asked by Feirich whether there were any plans to hold the May Day Fest in Missouri, J.C. Mitchell, Harpette attorney, objected and Judge Rodney C. Scott, sustained the objection.

Kost gave a tentative schedule for the fest. On Friday, he said, entertainment would begin anywhere from 2-5 p.m. and end at 11:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.-11:30 p.m.; and Sunday 12 noon-6 p.m.

He said approximately 3600 tickets had been sold up to and including the day a temporary injunction was ordered halting ticket sales.

Further testimony at the hearing was given by two of the plaintiffs in the case and the superintendent of the Giant City School which is located near the proposed festival site. The hearing will resume today at 9 a.m.

Keene, Council remain firm

Burns' status still in doubt

By Ellen Matheson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The status of William Burns as commissioner of the Community Conservation Board will apparently have to be decided by someone other than the mayor or city councilmen of Carbondale.

Burns was fired as commissioner of the Community Conservation Board by Carbondale Mayor David Keene Tuesday.

Keene's decision was overturned by a 4-1 vote at the City Council meeting Tuesday night.

The question still remains whether or not Carbondale's ordinance gives such power to the mayor or to the Council.

In a letter to councilmen, Keene said, "Because of my strong feeling that Mr. Burns has acted completely irresponsibly in participating in any manner in this union effort, I am convinced that he is no longer fit to serve as department head."

The union effort referred to was a proposal submitted by Burns and his staff to join the Teamsters Union. Included in the proposal were substantial pay increases.

Burns addressed the Carbondale City Council at its Tuesday night meeting and questioned the legality of the mayor's action.

After a closed session to consider Burns' allegation, the Council voted 4-1 to overturn Keene's firing of Burns.

Carbondale's city ordinance dealing with the Community Conservation Board states under Section 3 that the Commissioner shall be designated by and serve at the pleasure of the mayor.

The ordinance later states that "Members may be dismissed by the Mayor for good cause shown. The dismissal may be set aside by two-thirds vote of the City Council."

The ordinance does not mention the commissioner under this last provision.

Councilman Hans Fischer, who made the motion to reverse Keene's decision, said the issue will have to be resolved by some higher authority (the courts).

Keene remained firm on the firing with his "no" vote. He said Wednesday "it was a rough night, but any change comes hard, I've learned."

Richard Lesher, former deputy assistant director for technology utilization at the National Aeronautical and Space Administration (NASA), will speak at 10 a.m. today in Morris Library Auditorium.

Burns' reaction to the Council's decision was that "the Council made the proper and legal decision. Having done that, the question is settled."

When asked if he would be at work Friday, the day Keene's firing is to take effect, Burns said he would follow the Council's decision.

Ex-ambassador addresses International Relations Club

By Michael J. Laughlin
Student Writer

Former U.S. Ambassador to Liberia Ben Brown told the International Relations Club here Tuesday that he does not agree with those who insist that the several new republics in Africa are not yet ready for nationhood.

"Africa's importance to the world can not be over-emphasized," Brown said. "It is the continent containing the most nations in the world. Its nations comprise one-third of the U.N. It has natural resources which we all need, and its importance as a market for goods produced in our country should not be overlooked."

Brown said that 1960 was the year of "virtual explosion of independent nations" in Africa. Seventeen new nations were formed, 14 of which were former French colonies. By the end of 1964, the number of independent nations had risen to its present total of 42.

"This rapid growth has not been, and still is not free of difficulty," Brown conceded. He said that inexperience in government and business has contributed much to the nations' problems. The nations were governed in the past by colonial powers, and the only contact they had with business affairs was on a menial level.

Lack of internal unity and identity as a nation is another problem confronting African countries, according to Brown. "Most of the nations are composed of many tribes, each with its own language, culture and inter-tribe loyalty," he said. "Arbitrary boundaries, based on administrative convenience and without regard to tribal locations, have served to antagonize those people who are more proud of their tribe than they are of their nation."

Other problems discussed by Brown included adverse climatic conditions in certain regions, governmental instability and the fact that too many of the countries' economies are similar rather than being complementary. "The various nations will have to get together on a regional basis in order to alleviate the impediments to agricultural and economic development."

Brown insisted that the African countries can take care of themselves. He added, however, that it will take much cooperation and understanding from the major powers.

Brown was Ambassador to Liberia from 1964-69. Prior to that, he had been to Africa twice, in 1943 and 1959. He is currently assigned as Diplomat and Resident at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Club hosts kite flying meet

Eighteen persons participated in the Recreation Club's kite flying contest south of the Arena Saturday. Aided by damp weather and little wind, all 18 won the Charlie Brown prize for worst kite flier.

Awards were given for several categories of kites. The smallest kite was named the 4 Ts. The Ts were toothpicks, tissue paper, tape and thread. The kite was two and one-half inches in size. According to Jim Ball, a member of the Recreation Club, the tail was too long and the kite would not fly.

The highest flying kite was aided by more than the wind; it was pulled by a motorcycle.

The prizes for the contest were gift certificates from MacDonalds.

Next year the Recreation Club will have another contest called a kite coordination, Ball said. The contest will be held on the same day as the contests at Eastern Illinois University, Western Illinois University and the University of Illinois.

Guests scheduled

The Department of Chemistry has scheduled two speakers for Thursday and Friday.

A luncheon with Ross will be held in the Illinois Room of the University Center at noon.

Both seminars will be held in the Physical Science Building C, Room 218.

Projected surplus dwindles

Nixon's budget endangered

By James Cary
CapeMay News Service

WASHINGTON—A postal strike, an overzealous Congress and a revenue-slashing tax reform bill have teamed up to present President Nixon with the first serious budget crisis of his administration. A surplus of $5.8 billion once projected for the current fiscal year 1970—fourth largest in U.S. history—has now dwindled to a paper-thin $300 million that could very easily be turned into a deficit.

The expected $1.3 billion surplus for fiscal 1971 is also in serious danger.

If both financial plans slip into the red any further progress in fighting inflation will be endangered.

The upshot of this financial squeeze, given the present mood of Congress and status of the economy, is that more sources of federal revenue will have to be found.

This could include—administration denials to the contrary—an extension of the 5 per cent income surtax now scheduled to die on June 30.

Gyrating federal budget situations are not new, but the ups and downs of the fiscal 1970 plan have been more erratic than most.

For this budget year of July 1, 1969, to June 30, 1970, former President Lyndon Johnson left Nixon a program calling for expenditures of $195.3 billion, receipts of $198.7 billion and an expected surplus of $3.4 billion.

After Nixon took office an extensive budget review showed miscalculations on federal debt interest, farm price support payments and other variables would add $2 billion to the original spending total.

From this new $196.9 billion in expenditures, Nixon's budget bureau cut $4 billion in April, 1969, and forecast a $5.8 billion surplus, the largest in 18 years. The only higher ones have been $7.6 billion in fiscal 1951; $8.9 billion in 1948 and $6.6 billion in 1947.

But rising governmental costs, helped along by congressional appropriations exceeding budgetary proposals, plus a further expansion in uncontrollable interest and other expenditures, cut the projected surplus.

It shrank from the once healthy $5.8 billion to $1.3 billion.

Now, as part of the overall proposed settlement of the recent postal strike, that $1.3 billion surplus is to dwindle even further to an almost nonexistent $300 million. This will be caused by absorbing the full first six-month cost of a 6 per cent government-wide pay increase retroactive to Jan. 1, 1970.

A $300 million surplus is virtually no surplus at all. It could be wiped out completely by a minor variation in projected expenditures or revenue.

except for pitchers gloves. Hitters may use their own bat.

All men enrolled in the university are eligible to participate except students who have lettered in baseball in a four-year college and students who are currently members of the SIU varsity or freshman teams or working out with the teams.

Trophies will be awarded. Equipment will be furnished.

Merritt wins fifth

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jim Merritt, Cincinnati's winningest pitcher last year, needed relief help but he became the major league's first five-game winner of the season as the Reds whipped the Houston Astros 3-3 Wednesday.

The sixth double off Merritt, registered in the eighth inning, was the blow that brought Clay Carroll in to relieve.

The Reds profited heavily from wildness by Tom Griffin, the Astro starter. They broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth without a hit as Griffin walked the bese Bernie Carbo with the bases loaded.

Cincinnati locked it up in the seventh on a double by Bobby Tolan, an intentional walk to Tony Perez and a two-run double by Johnny Bench.

Walks by Griffin in the third and fourth also led to the first two Cincinnati runs.

their second match of the season this weekend in the Sectional Tournament at Eastern Illinois University.

Two singles and one doubles team will represent SIU. Kathy Rowlett, freshman from Murray, Ky., will be looking for her second win of the season. She won in both doubles and singles play at Murray State.

Judy Auld in position number two will be after her first singles victory of the young season. The doubles team has not yet been selected.

Track team hopes rest on victory over Illini

If there is to be a successful outdoor track season this year, a win over the University of Illinois Saturday would be a step in the right direction.

The Salukis have done well in recent weeks, placing several individuals in the nationally prominent Kentucky Relays, Kansas Relays and Drake Relays, but have not had a formal dual meet situation since April 11, when the Salukis downed Indiana State 100-45.

Since then, many team members have been injured and have not been able to get in solid practice time. Included are Alan Robinson and Ivory Crockett, the leaders of SRU's outstanding indoor season this year.

Coach Lew Hartzog plans to invade Champaign's Memorial Stadium with a full squad of about 20 men but is cautiously optimistic about Crockett and Robinson. "They must set the example and I have enough confidence in them to believe our entire squad will compete well," he said.

SRU topped the Illini last year 79-59, but Illinois has improved in many areas.

Frazier, Garrett meet head-on in NBA Knicks-Lakers series

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Some of the best publicity the SIU basketball program has had in recent years is in this year's National Basketball Association championship playoffs.

It's Dick Garrett of the Los Angeles Lakers and Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks-erbockers.

After stardom careers at SIU, highlighted by the 1967 National Invitational Tournament championship, they are now opponents.

Frazier is a bonafide NBA star. His pro career with the Knicks is ending it's third season. The last two, NBA coaches have named him the league's Outstanding Defensive Player.

Garrett broke into a Laker lineup this year that included superstars Wilt Chamberlain, Jerry West and Elgin Baylor. The result was an 11.6 points per game average and a berth on the NBA All-Rookie Team.

This past season, Frazier was the sparkplug and floor leader of the Knicks. He dumped in 1,609 points in regular season play for a 20.9 average. He also contributed 629 assists and 465 rebounds. The Lakers did not have final stats on Garrett as of Wednesday.

Both are great passers and extremely good at penetrating, according to Jack Hartman, their former coach. But it hasn't been an easy road either. There were problems to overcome.

"Both were pretty much complete ballplayers," Hartman said. "Walt did tend to take a little too much time getting his shot off but he worked hard for a quicker release and has improved a great deal."

"Also, Walt had a tendency to not look for his shot quite enough."

Garrett's problem was of a different nature. Coming out of high school in Genralia, he was switched from forward to guard at SIU.

"Due to his playing inside in high school a great deal and consequently not getting the ballhandling experience at guard, it left him with the need for development in his ballhandling," Hartman said.

It takes a special kind of player to make it big in the NBA. He's got to have something other than physical assets.

"The thing they both have other than physical abilities is their intense determination to be outstanding basketball players. They're both winners," Hartman said.

"You can't beat Dick in any game, no matter what it is. If he missed a shot in practice, it made him mad."

Hartman said he "could tell by their junior years that they had all the qualities and had good professional potential." But potential doesn't always make a great athlete.

"We have no way of knowing what degree of success a player might achieve," Hartman said. "So much depends on his intensity, dedication and how bad he wants to be the best possible player he can be. These boys have to have competitive instincts."

Garrett and Frazier obviously have what it takes.

SIU tennis team faces Tennessee Classic

By Bob Richards

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Tennessee Classic looms as a stiff obstacle this weekend as the Saluki tennis team tries to uphold an eleven meet winning streak compiled during the regular season.

SIU's task won't be easy Friday and Saturday with the University of Georgia and Tennessee both sporting excellent teams. South Carolina is the fourth entrant in the meet at Knoxville.

Plagued by sickness during SIU's three wins last week, Australian Bill Lloyd was in the SIU health service Wednesday for mononucleosis tests. Coach Dick LeFevre said doctors suspected the disease after first diagnosis.

Coming out of the weekend undefeated could be a tough feat according to the SIU coach. "It looks like a real tough proposition," LeFevre said. "Georgia beat us last year 6-3."

In last year's contest, Lloyd lost, playing number-one singles, to an opponent now playing number-two for the Georgia setmen.

LeFevre does not take Tennessee lightly although SIU whipped the Vols 8-1 last week in Carbondale. In SIU's win against Tennessee, four matches including all the doubles matches went three sets. "Even though we beat Tennessee, we won all the close ones," LeFevre explained.

"It's a relatively slow concrete court," the Saluki coach said of the Tennessee facility. He added the speed of the court was important for players such as SIU's Jorge Ramirez, basically a clay court specialist.

Pending results of the doctor's test on Lloyd, the SIU tournament lineup will include Lloyd, Macky Dominguez, Chris Greendale, Graham Snook, Ray Briscoe and Ramirez in singles matches. Recently becoming eligible, Mike Clayton will play singles if Lloyd is unavailable for play. Doubles combinations will pit Lloyd and Ramirez, Dominguez and Greendale, and Snook and Briscoe.
