Soviets say plant mishap is first ever

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union said Monday the incident at the giant Chernobyl power plant was the nation's first nuclear accident, but Western officials believe otherwise, and one previous major disaster has been documented.

In an unprecedented statement, the official news agency Tass acknowledged one of the reactors at the plant, 80 miles north of Kiev in the western Soviet Ukraine Republic, had been damaged, but the report revealed no details.

Although Tass said that "the accident is the first one in the Soviet Union," radioactive leaks, shutdowns and reports of a disastrous explosion almost three decades ago have been reported.

Many of the Soviet Union's 15 nuclear plants and 30 reactors also have been plagued by quality-control problems, and many have been built without containment walls around reactors, diplomats said.

A Western expert on Soviet nuclear energy speculated that a possible lack of containment walls around the Chernobyl atomic power plant could have allowed the radioactive cloud to leak into the atmosphere.

Other diplomats and Kremlin watchers said the accident would surely prompt a thorough investigation, but would not lead to a scaling down of the ambitious Soviet nuclear program.

The current Soviet five-year economic plan calls for a tripling of Soviet nuclear power generating capacity by the year 2000.

Although Tass reported that aid was being given to people injured by the accident in the lush "breadbasket" region of the Ukraine, no numbers of casualties were released.

The extent of damage, deaths and injuries from a 1957 nuclear accident, considered the worst in Soviet history, is still not known.

In that disaster, an explosion of nuclear waste killed or injured thousands of people and contaminated the Techa River Valley and surrounding Ural mountains region, according to Soviet emigres.

Known as the "Kyshtym Disaster," the explosion has been documented by a U.S. Energy department study and by Zhores Medvedev, a Soviet geneticist now living in London.

In February 1980, the Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee, using CIA data and Soviet scientific publications, corroborated Medvedev's claims that a wide area of the central Soviet Union was contaminated by the accident near Kasli on the eastern side of the Ural mountains.

City Council eyes can ban

By Tricia Yocum
Staff Writer

A majority of City Council members support an ordinance prohibiting people from climbing on rooftops and street signs during Halloween weekend, as well as closing liquor establishments at 1 a.m. instead of 2 a.m. during the festival.

A possible resolution stating the council's intent to enact a can ban, assuming alternative means may be found for effective distribution of alcohol at a reasonable price, was also discussed.

The suggestions will be voted on at next week's meeting.

City Manager Bill Dixon told the council that if a can ban ordinance were to be voted on, it would not come before the council before the beginning of the University's fall semester.

Councilman Neil Dillard voiced opposition to the early closing of liquor establishments. Dillard said he would support the ordinance only to avoid the extra hour when the festival falls on the time-change weekend and suggested that the establishments instead close at 1:55 a.m. during those weekends.

Tuxhorn opposed both the early closing of liquor establishments as well as the can ban, saying that if the city were going to allow the Halloween festival to continue, it should "do it right."

"There is no utopia in banning Halloween," he said. It's "one of the good things Carbondale has going for it," he said. It brings a lot of notoriety to the area.

Tuxhorn said many people seemed to not like Halloween, but they liked the money it brought in. If that's the case, he said, the city must be willing to accept the festival as a reality and accent the positive aspects.

The council considered comments from liquor store owners Doag Diggle, of Old Town Liquors, 514 S. Illinois Ave.; and Steve Hoffman, of ABC Liquor Mart, 109 N. Washington. The two told the council the ban would cause more problems with outraged crowds fighting for available beer than it would solve.

However, Diggle offered to assist the city administration in its search for alternate ways of providing beer to revelers.

Basketball scandal findings released

By Tom Mangan
Staff Writer

Former SIU-C basketball star Kenny Perry received three payments of $300 each from assistant coach Stafford Stephenson, who resigned in the wake of the scandal last spring.

Reports on the investigation into the payoff scandal, released for the first time by the University after a request through the Illinois Freedom of Information Act, state that Stephenson made the payments from his own funds because former Carbondale chiropractor Roy S. White had requested financial help in making $900-per-month payments to Perry.

The first investigation into the scandal was conducted by Dean Stuck, formerly President Albert Somit's special assistant for athletics. The investigation supported initial statements that Stephenson helped arrange payments to Perry and that Allen Van Winkle, the head coach who also resigned after the scandal broke, had no knowledge of the payoffs.

In a letter dated April 18, 1985, Stuck reported the findings of his investigation to the Missouri Valley Conference and the NCAA. According to the report, Stephenson withdrew money from his savings account to make the payments and provided withdrawal slips proving the money was withdrawn.

Stuck further reported that White not only paid Perry $900 per month over two years beginning in August 1982, but also provided Perry with free rent in a trailer and paid some of the star center's medical bills.

Also contained in Stuck's report was a handwritten outline of a proposed agreement between White and Perry. Stuck said in a recent interview that White accused Van Winkle of writing the agreement and arranging the payoffs, but it was later found that the handwriting on the agreement belonged to White.

The agreement stated Perry would receive free rent, "taken care of wherever you live within reason." Perry moved into a trailer belonging to White.

The agreement began Aug. 15, 1982, and would have continued for three years, but Perry and White had a falling-out and no more payments were made after May 1984. Rent would be provided for the full period of the agreement, and the $900-per-month payments would have run from Aug. 15 to May 15 during the three years of the agreement.

In addition, the agreement stated, "Regardless of playing situation or future problems you think you may have, if it should ever come up that I am doing these things, I will say

NO." The agreement said no further meetings on the payments would be necessary, and that the "coaching staff does not know what I am doing and this should not be shared with anyone else."

Payments would be sent to Perry's family in Rockport, Ind., who would then send the Study program in Greece canceled

By John Tindall
Staff Writer

Fear of hard feelings between Greeks and Americans prompted the cancellation of an overseas studies program in Greece, says Robert Hahn, philosophy professor and faculty director of the course.

Hahn said he was told of "raw feelings" against Americans in Greece and that those feelings could "cause disappointments" among the people going on the trip. Greeks have a reputation of being warm and friendly and the mood changes in Greece could affect the reception of American travelers, he said.

"A certain kind of hysteria has swept through America," he said, creating a negative anxiety about travel abroad. The people involved in the trip to Greece project would also feel some negative anxiety, he said, and that anxiety would be contrary to the objectives of the course.

Hahn said about 12 people were signed up for the class. People who booked their trip through the University are being refunded their money, he said. Some people, however, booked their trip to Greece via other charter services and are being charged penalties for cancellations, Hahn said.

SIU-C is not alone in cancellation of overseas trips. According to wire service reports, the threat of terrorists vengeance for the recent air attack on Libya has prompted school officials nationwide to cancel student trips overseas and within the United States as well.

Ex-Austrian official says U.S. rejected Libya talks

VIENNA (UPI) — A former Austrian chancellor — said to be the Western leader closest to Col. Moammar Khadafy — said Monday the Libyan leader asked him to mediate the Gulf of Sidra dispute with the United States. Bruno Kreisky, chancellor of Austria from 1970 to 1983 and still active in Austrian politics, said the Reagan administration rejected negotiating with Khadafy.

Reagan urged to confront reports of torture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 100 members of Congress urged President Reagan Monday to confront Indonesian President Suharto about reports of torture, execution and hidden political prisons on the tiny Pacific island of East Timor. Reagan will spend three days in Indonesia this week at an Asian summit, and the congressional group hopes to increase pressure on him to address alleged human rights abuse under Suharto's 20-year reign.

USS Enterprise heads for Mediterranean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise inched northward through the Suez Canal Monday on orders to leave its Indian Ocean station and join two other carriers in the Mediterranean, Pentagon sources said. The flattop and its five escorts were expected to enter the Mediterranean Tuesday, bringing to three the number of carrier battle groups in the area for the first time since late March when flight operations were conducted off Libya, the sources said.

Meese rules out his role in Deaver inquiry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese, citing his 20-year ties with Michael Deaver, removed himself Monday from Justice Department action on requests — including Deaver's own — for a special investigation of President Reagan's former aide. In a surprise move, Deaver's lawyer, Herbert Miller, asked in a letter to Meese for the appointment of an independent counsel "at the earliest appropriate time" to resolve whether Deaver had violated ethics laws by doing lobbying work for Canada.

Satellite pirates threaten cable companies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Officials Monday warned that cable pirates such as the "Captain Midnight" hacker who broke into a Home Box Office broadcast are a threat to all satellite users — including the federal government. Attorney General Edwin Meese said a complaint had been made to the Justice Department's criminal division and "they're looking into that."

Crew remains readied for trip to mortuary

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The remains of the seven Challenger crew members were readied Monday for a solemn journey to a military mortuary in Delaware Tuesday for final burial preparations, 13 weeks to the day after the shuttle was destroyed. Kennedy Space Center employees were expected to line portions of the route of an ambulance convoy carrying flag-draped caskets from a NASA medical facility to the 3-mile-long shuttle landing strip where Challenger's crew once planned to close out a successful mission.

Suspensions up drastically for initial DUI offenders

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Nearly all first-time drunken driving offenders are losing their licenses under tough new DUI laws, Secretary of State Jim Edgar said Monday. Ninety-three percent of first-time drunken drivers lost their driving privileges from Jan. 1 — when the new law took effect — through April 10. Under the old law, only 10 percent of first offenders lost their drivers licenses, he said.

WIU student arrested on dorm arson charge

MACOMB (UPI) — A resident of a fire-plagued Western Illinois University dormitory has been arrested on an arson charge in an October fire but officials Monday had not found a link to last week's fires at the high-rise building. William DeGryse III, 22, who resides at 1809 Higgins Hall, was arrested on the dorm's 18th floor by officers of the WIU Office of Public Safety and the state fire marshal's office early Sunday.

Reservoir Road gets signs after car crash injures 5

By John Tindali
Staff Writer

A car accident Sunday night involving five SIU-C students prompted Murphysboro Township Monday to put road signs urging drivers to slow down near the crest of a hill on Reservoir Road.

According to the Jackson County Sheriff's Department, Ernest Zambrano, 20, was driving east bound on Reservoir Road, also known as Evergreen Terrace Road, when the car reached the crest of the hill 2.5 miles from Route 51.

The sheriff's report said Zambrano lost control of the car in loose gravel. The car skidded into an embankment and rolled twice before coming to rest on the driver's side of the car.

A supplementary report filed by SIU-C police said one of the passengers was thrown about 30 feet from the car.

Zambrano was taken to Memorial Hospital with the four passengers — Mark Kunkel, 21; Joseph Zielinski, 20; Kimberly J. Bryan, 21; and Margaret Wudi, 19. A hospital source said Bryan was admitted Sunday night and released Monday. The others were treated and released, according to hospital records.

Zambrano was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions, a sheriff's department spokesperson said.

David Lingle of Lingle Trucking, located at the crest of the hill where the accident occurred, said he had been trying for a while to get either Carbondale or Murphysboro townships to put up signs to warn drivers of the steep hill.

Even the truck entrance onto Reservoir Road had been unmarked, he said.

Lingle credits Jim West, owner of Jim West's Bus Service, for getting action on the placement of signs on both sides of the hill. Lingle said West owns three school buses that stop on the hill twice a day and, thanks to petitioning by West, Murphysboro Township installed the two signs.

Lingle said he had been given the runaround by both Carbondale and Murphysboro, each township telling him it was the other's responsibility to place the signs.

In addition to not having warning signs, Lingle said he was told by officials that no speed limit signs slower than 55 mph could be posted because of state law. He said he was told the law sets restrictions on where slower speed limits could be enforced, such as residential areas, and that section of the road did not fulfill the stipulations of the law.

Lingle said the road is used often by joggers and cyclists and that most of the time drivers are exceeding even the posted 55 mph limit. He said cars coming from the east seem to have the most trouble because the road surface over the crest is not flat, and many times cars are in the air when they come over the hill, making it difficult for drivers to maintain control.

"Two cars have turned over in the last 10 months on that hill," he said, "both of them driven by students."

Last winter, one of Lingle's truck drivers entering the roadway had to go into a ditch to avoid a collision between the truck's trailer and an oncoming car.

Additional tests OK'd for murder suspect

By William Walker
Staff Writer

Defense attorneys in the murder trial of John Paul Phillips were granted a continuance Monday to conduct additional tests to determine if the defendant is fit to stand trial.

Circuit Judge Donald Lowery set a fitness hearing for May 9 to determine if Phillips is fit to stand trial in the murder case and a separate rape case stemming from a 1981 incident in Carbondale.

Phillips completed a psychiatric examination on Wednesday, but his attorney, Dennis Waks, said he needs time to review the results and probably order new tests.

The purpose of the fitness trial will be to determine if Phillips understands all the charges against him and can participate in his own defense.

Phillips, currently serving a 45-year prison sentence for the abduction of a 23-year-old Carterville woman, is charged with the 1981 murder of Joan Wetherall.

Wetherall's nude body was found in an isolated strip mine on the Elkville to Vergennes blacktop road about 10 hours after she was last seen on Nov. 11, 1981. She had been hit on the head and strangled.

Phillips pleaded innocent to all five counts in the murder indictment Wednesday before Chief Circuit Judge Richard Richman, who excused himself from the case "for personal reasons."

At Monday's hearing, Lowery ordered that all motions in the murder case be submitted by June 10. He set a preliminary hearing for June 26 and a jury trial for July 14.

Also on Wednesday, Waks asked the judge to dismiss the rape case against Phillips, saying that the court has violated the defendant's right to a speedy trial.

However, State's Attorney John Clemons disputed Waks' claim, and Lowery said he would need time to review the case file before he made a decision.

Lowery also said he needed more time to rule on a motion by Waks to prohibit the use of Phillips' past record against him in the rape case. Waks claimed that the use of such information would unfairly bias the jury.

In another motion Wednesday, Lowery denied a request by Waks that would have allowed prosecution and defense attorneys to question prospective jurors in the rape case.

In addition to his current sentence, which he is serving at Menard Correctional Center, Phillips, in 1977, entered a negotiated plea of guilty in an aggravated battery, aggravated kidnapping and armed robbery case, from which he served a 7-to-24 year sentence in the Illinois Department of Corrections' psychiatric division.

Gun brandisher sentenced to 4.5 years

A 41-year-old Murphysboro woman accused of pulling a pellet gun on a first-grade classroom in Grand Tower was sentenced Friday to four and one-half years in prison.

Vivian Franklin, whose attorneys had planned to use an insanity defense in her behalf, opted for a negotiated plea of guilty for the schoolroom incident and a separate misdemeanor charge.

The schoolroom incident was a Class III felony with a maximum sentence of five years in prison.

In the other case, Franklin was charged with aggravated assault after she pulled a pellet gun on a man following an auto accident July 4.

The sentence for the misdemeanor will run concurrent with the felony sentence. With time already served and with good behavior, Franklin could be out of prison in 19 months.

Springfest party a swingin' success

AFTER THE LAST STRAINS OF the blues had faded from Sugar Blue's harmonica and after the last reveler had passed into the night, one thing was certain to anyone attending Springfest—it was one successful bash.

Connie LeBeau, SPC special events chair, and her staff are to be commended for pulling off a well-organized and mellow party.

Brian Elmore, who has become somewhat of a music mogul as SPC Consorts chairperson, is to be complimented on his fine taste in music. Sugar Blue, Rude Guest and the Piranha Brothers played inspired music for an inspired crowd. Certainly a festive crowd.

But for such a large and potentially rowdy bunch, there were only scattered instances of unseemly behavior. This can also be attributed to the festival's organizers, who shut down the event around 8 p.m. to head off any potential Halloween sort of situation.

THE CARDBOARD BOAT REGATTA, which has put SIU-C on the international map, played to an estimated 15,000 fans who lustily cheered every sinking entry, as well as the victors, among the 150-plus contestants entered.

In fact, there were no losers in the 13th annual regatta, which founder Richard Archer himself appily describes as less competitive and more creative this year—which is what the event was all about in the first place. Good job! Commodore Archer.

And less we forget, here is a round of applause for the partiers, who were generally on their good behavior for all the Springfest events. It was a good party, and a welcome chance to unwind before the final push into finals week.

...just like Coach Jones

RICHARD "ITCHY" JONES is known as one of the best baseball instructors around.

His Saluki baseball teams have won more than 600 games in his 17 years as head coach, or about 35 wins a year. His 603 victories rank him with the best coaches in the history of major college baseball.

He has twice been honored as collegiate coach of the year, and was inducted into the Illinois High School Baseball Coaches Association's Hall of Fame.

The Salukis are on a comeback trail after a rare off-season last year and are contending for the Missouri Valley conference title. Saturday they begin a four-game series with Indiana State that could decide the title.

So get out to Abe Martin Field and join the Hill Gang, another Saluki baseball tradition. You might even get your picture taken there, if it's reported that a photo of the Hill Gang will be on a promotional poster next year. Even if you don't know a sacrifice fly from a double play, you can say you were there when Itchy and his team made some history.

No student fees for RSOs ?

On April 18 the DE published a story about the Undergraduate Student Organization funding of Registered Student Organizations.

One of the goals of the USO is to keep tuition and fees at an affordable level, but when part of the fees go to organizations that represent a minimal number of the student population, then can we not draw the conclusion that the USO is not serious about these goals?

The RSOs have a legitimate right to be active for their various causes, but they have no right to be funded from our student fees.

Perhaps this letter is ill-informed. If so, I would like to be enlightened as to why our student fees support such organizations as the Non-Traditional Student Union, the Mid-America Peace Project and the Gay and Lesbian Peoples Union. — David Newell, sophomore, Political Science.

Capital punishment 'barbaric'

Now that Indiana has resumed executions, Illinois will no doubt quickly fall in line with the Hoosiers and join our socially enlightened southern states in carrying out the death sentence for capital crimes. Indiana has legislated the death penalty for children down to the age of 10 years. Not even Alabama and Mississippi have shown a willingness to place children under the age of 14 on death row.

Willingness to carry out executions is strongest in those states which have a legacy of slavery, Ku Klux Klan activity and conservative fundamentalist ruralism dominating the political scene. It is no accident that the Union of South Africa and the southern United States are now carrying out executions at the highest rate of anywhere in the industrialized free world.

The state of Indiana is the midwestern state in which the KKK was extremely active in the 1920s in nominating candidates for the legislature and for governor. H.L. Mencken wrote that "the KKK is the secular arm of the Methodist church."

While it might be a gross oversimplification to equate rural Protestantism with intolerance, there does seem to be evidence that the ability of a state legislature to pass regressive laws is strengthened to the degree that the countryside dominates over more progressive urban interests.

Unlike Illinois, California, or New York with their larger urban areas and ethnocultural diversity, Hoosiers have found it easier to wage a fundamentalist attack on evolution in the schools. The reinstitution of capital punishment is closely linked with the moralistic crusade against liberalism, humanism, and reason which is centered in the south and seeks to spread its tentacles north of the Mason-Dixon line.

A group in Warsaw, Indiana in 1977 actually engaged in a public burning of books, which is fairly common in the south. (Eve Pell, "The Big Chill," 1984).

All signs indicate that Illinois, California, or New York are likely candidates to be the urban states which will soon resume executions. When this happens, it will simply be a sign that emotion and ignorance have triumphed over reason.

It is our wiser and more humane legal scholars and philosophers who reject capital punishment. Justices Marshall and Brennan will be remembered for their vigorous dissent to the Supreme Court's decision to uphold the constitutionality of the death penalty. The great philosophers and thinkers of our times (Bertrand Russell, Sartre, Camus, Einstein) have rejected capital punishment as a barbaric ritual and a throwback to medieval times. Resuming executions in Illinois will be a step backward. — Randal C. Fulk, Law student.

Prevent graft — raise faculty pay !

According to an April news report, the Special Commission on Administration of Justice (:) in Cook County, which was set up after the Operation Greylord scandal, has decided that in order to prevent more corruption the judges should get a 56 percent pay increase, from $73,000 to $110,000.

A mere $73,000 is clearly inadequate, according to the Commission, if compared with the money which successful attorneys make, e.g. those who handle liability cases on a "share-the-profit" basis.

The commission has made its recommendation to the Compensation Review Board which determines the salaries of some 1,000 elected state officials — unless its decision is overruled by both chambers of the General Assembly. And the legislators, of course, have raised their own pay in 40 years from $3,000 to $34,000, while not voting adequate payments to the university pension funds. Between 1972 and 1984, the cost of living rose by 150 percent while the SIU pensions were raised by 45 percent.

Why don't the SIU faculty members set up an "Administration of Justice Commission" to raise salaries and pensions by 56 percent, just to make sure that faculty members are not tempted to raise the "F" of a "deserving" student to a "C" in return for a few hundred dollars under the table!

Of course, the standards of ethics are higher among faculty members than among Chicago judges — after more than 40 years in academic life, I have never heard of a case of graft — but just to be on the safe side, a 56 percent pay raise would help prevent Illinois universities from following the example of Chicago courts. — G.C. Wiegand, professor emeritus, Economics.

Confederate infantry soldiers take careful aim at the advancing Union Army.

North vs. South: A battle relived

The Rebs and the Yanks were at it again.

The drama and fury of the American Civil War unfolded once again at the Seventh Makanda Civil War Weekend held Friday and Saturday at Makanda.

The grand finale of the two-day event was an authentic re-enactment of the Civil War Battle of Champion Hill, which occurred May 16, 1863 about 20 miles east of Vicksburg, Miss.

The battle led to a major Confederate retreat to Vicksburg and the eventual surrender of thousands of Confederate troops to Union Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

Sunday's battle, however, led to a minor Confederate victory.

The Confederate victory at Sunday's battle was based on a dramatic charge by Confederate troops under Gen. John S. Bowen into the center of the Union lines at Champion Hill. The charge resulted in a retreat of Union forces and allowed the Confederates to recapture 16 pieces of artillery.

Sunday's battle began with a heavy exchange of artillery fire between the Union and Confederate forces. Dense smoke shrouded the battlefield as gun crews from both sides worked feverishly to send imaginary cannonballs into the ranks of enemy troops.

After a 10-minute exchange of artillery fire, Union cavalry advanced, sending the Confederate troops into a slight retreat. The Union troops were met by a fusillade of Confederate rifle fire and Union and Confederate cavalrymen fought a valiant saber battle in front of about 500 spectators.

Several soldiers on both sides were "killed" during the Union attack. One Confederate infantryman bravely dashed forward under fire to give water to two "wounded" Union infantrymen.

Two Union cavalrymen were captured during the saber battle by the Confederates, who began to reinforce their infantry ranks.

The Confederates advanced with a bloodcurdling "Rebel yell" and forced the frontline Union troops into slight

Scientist honored for plant research

John H. Yopp, associate dean of the College of Science, will receive the 1986 Sigma Xi Kaplan Research Award for significant contributions on the physiology and biochemistry of plants.

The Kaplan Award is sponsored by the Sigma Xi National Research Society and the Monsanto Chemical Co. It was established in memory of the late Leo Kaplan, a botanist at SIU-C and president of SIU-C's Sigma Xi Chapter at the time of his death in 1960. The first award was given in 1962.

Yopp is co-leader of a multi-departmental group of researchers trying to find the cause of a soybean disease called "sudden death syndrome." The group's research has isolated several organisms that are candidates for the causal bacteria.

money to Perry in Carbondale. That route, Stuck said in an interview, was not used and most of the payments were made directly to Perry.

Stuck's report also contained specifics on how the scandal emerged. Stuck said he was contacted by White the morning of April 4. White said he had information Stuck would "be very interested in."

Stuck said he went to White's office on the morning of April 4, where White informed him of the payoffs and maintained that Van Winkle not only knew about the payoffs, but was responsible for arranging them.

Contacted later that morning, Van Winkle vehemently denied any knowledge of the payoffs, according to Stuck's report.

On the evening of April 4,

because of terrorism fears, the group's director said.

About 65 glee club members were scheduled to leave for Norway May 27 for a tour including stops in Sweden, Denmark, Germany and the Netherlands.

That same fear of terrorism also has affected school trips

Stuck told Stephenson of White's accusations. Stephenson said Van Winkle had nothing to do with the payments and it was he — not Van Winkle — who had arranged the payoffs and made the $300 payments.

Further interviews with the members of the basketball team, athletics department and local community revealed that none were aware of the payments and that the scandal was an "isolated incident," Stuck reported.

Follow-up investigations by the NCAA and the Missouri Valley Conference found no further violations at SIU-C, reports stated.

The characters in the dark drama of last spring have gone their separate ways.

As of about two months ago, Stephenson was selling insurance in High Point, N.C., says Fred Huff, assistant men's athletics director in charge of sports information.

Van Winkle is still in Carbondale. When contacted recently, he said he "wouldn't care to comment on anything concerning Southern Illinois."

White moved to Fort Meyers, Fla., shortly after startling the community with his revelations and is still there.

Perry recently signed a contract with the Washington Bullets of the National Basketball Association. The contract lasts until the end of the 1986 season.

Stuck now keeps busy at the Renewal Institute, part of the School of Education. He says he's glad to be out of athletics, although he does miss working with the people there.

taken within the United States, said a principal from Maryland's Anne Arundel County.

Despite the Greece trip cancellation, SIU-C's other overseas Travel Studies Program trips to England are still going according to plan, said Thomas Saville, director of the Study Abroad Program.

A scheduled trip to Japan and Hong Kong was scrapped, but, said Saville, it was a lack of enrollment in the program and not terrorist threats that caused the cancellation. With those two exceptions, "everything is going fine," he said.

retreat. A flanking movement by Union cavalry, however, sent the Confederates reeling back to their original battle lines.

The Confederates then began a furious artillery attack which led to a massive Confederate charge. The rallying Confederates forced the Union forces to retreat, ending the hour-long battle.

What drives people to play war and shoot at each other with imaginary bullets and cannonballs?

For Ed Dirks, a Union private with the 31st Illinois Volunteer Infantry, it's a chance to relive history.

Dirks, a Petersburg native, first became interested in Civil War re-enactment after visiting New Salem State Park, the small village near Springfield where Abraham Lincoln once lived.

Some re-enactors are very serious about their hobby, he said, adding that many participants take extreme measures to ensure that their equipment is closely patterned after the original equipment used by Confederate and Union troops more than 100 years ago. Even the tents used in both camps were replicas of tents used during the war.

About 130 Confederate and 140 Union troops from Kentucky, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana participated in this year's event, said Confederate Gen. Mickey Walker, commanding general of the Army of the Tennessee.

Walker, dressed in a richly detailed Confederate general's uniform made of 100 percent Mississippi wool, said he spent $1,000 for the uniform and has participated in re-enactment battles for nearly ten years.

Walker even got his wife, Ruby, involved.

She said many women are involved in the re-enactment process, applying first aid to "wounded" soldiers and dressing in traditional costumes.

"We really enjoy it," she said. "But we don't have to cook," she adds, smiling. "That's all up to the quartermaster."

50 dedicate late artist's book

By Maureen Cavanagh
Staff Writer

About 50 friends and colleagues of Sherwood A. "Tony" Fehm Jr. gathered in the University Museum Auditorium Monday to honor the late SIU-C art professor.

Mr. Fehm, who also served as curator of art history for the University Museum, died in July 1983.

His book, "Luca Di Tomme, Fourteenth Century Siense Painter," which was published in March by the SIU Press, was dedicated at the ceremony.

Also, the first Tony Fehm Memorial Scholastic Achievement Award in Art History was presented to Alicia M. Miller, senior in art. Miller received a copy of Mr. Fehm's book and a cash award of $150, which was presented by Mr. Fehm's widow, Saide Cancar Fehm.

Miller, the daughter of School of Technical Careers Dean Harry Miller, is majoring in art history. She will graduate in May 1987 and plans to pursue a master's degree in art history.

Mr. Fehm pursued a long-standing interest in obscure medieval and Renaissance artists, revealing the importance of their works and effects on major figures of their periods.

A graduate of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., with a major in medieval history and a minor in fine arts, Mr. Fehm received his master's degree and doctorate from Yale University. He devoted his doctoral dissertation and several articles to Tomme.

Before Mr. Fehm came to SIU-C in 1977, he was a faculty member at the University of California-Davis, the University of Victoria, British Columbia, and the University of British Columbia.

Mr. Fehm's book examines the work of Tomme, a little known Renaissance painter, "who was instrumental in laying the philosophical and pictorial groundwork for later great artists such as Michelangelo," said James E. Sullivan, a friend and former colleague of Mr. Fehm.

"People outside the art world might look at the book as dry and academic stuff, but it's really detective work of the most elegant kind," Sullivan said, noting that Mr. Fehm visited dusty archives in Italy and perched on scaffolds to examine examples of Tomme's work.

Teacher demand up, officials say

By Patricia Edwards
Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education predicts a slow but steady increase in the demand for teachers, changing the downward trend in demand which began about 1973.

In response to the new demand, Illinois is offering teacher shortage scholarships in the areas of mathematics, science, reading, early childhood, bilingual education, social-emotional disorders, and speech and language impaired. Application forms may be obtained in Wham Education Building, Room 135.

The causes for the new increase in demand are multifaceted, say education administrators.

Many of the teachers trained in the boom period of the early 1960s are considering career changes or retirement, says Nancy Quisenberry, associate dean of the College of Education.

Decreased enrollment in teacher education during the past 10 years is also a factor, she said, because not enough teachers were trained to fill the currently needed positions.

Many teachers also have become disillusioned by the profession because of low salaries and lack of respect, Quisenberry said. A shortage in the number of minority teachers is a serious problem that increases every year, she said.

SIU-C certifies about 265 teachers annually, compared to about 900 in the 1960s and about 200 in the 1970s.

The Career Planning and Placement Center has seen the effects of the trend, says Jane Tierney, a counselor at the center. There is now a much better prospect for employment in the teacher education field, she said, but only in the fields noted by the IBHE. Placement figures for those areas are about 100 percent. Some geographical areas have a greater demand for teachers than others, says Donald Beggs, dean of the College of Education.

Beggs said SIU-C is not sufficiently equipped to handle an increase in enrollment, and that he does not expect additional funding for increased faculty employment.

"One has to be realistic. The state of Illinois will have limited funds," Beggs said, referring to the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law recently passed in Congress. "We'll just not be able to train as many students," he said.

U.S. Secretary of Education William Bennett addressed the shortage, saying that the teaching field should be opened up to college graduates in other fields, not barring them "because they do not possess this credential or that."

Women golfers dominate three of five all-GCAC team positions

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Saluki golfers dominated three of the five positions on the 1985-'86 all-Gateway Conference team.

Saluki senior Jill Bertram headed the list of honorees. Bertram highlighted the spring season by firing eight consecutive rounds in the 70's to drop her scoring average to a team- and conference-leading 78.8 strokes per round. She captured the individual title at the Stephens College Invitational and finished second, just a stroke off the winning pace in the GCAC Championship.

Bertram said she was happy to make the all-conference team, and "I'm glad I played really well all spring."

Junior Pat Putman, another all-GCAC golfer, lowered her average from 84.4 strokes per round in the fall to 81.6 in spring competition. Putman carded a career low 75 at Stephens College and tied for second, her best collegiate finish. Putman followed with a third-place at the Gateway Championship.

Saluki coach Sonya Stalberger said, "I think both Jill and Pat have worked very hard on their games and it's gratifying for them to have all that work pay off."

Sophomore Tina Kozlowski rounds out the list of all-GCAC SIU selections. Kozlowski shot 83 or better each 18 during the spring season and averaged 81.0 strokes per round with a fifth-place finish in the North-South Classic and sixth place in the GCAC championship.

"She played steady and made breakthroughs," Stalberger said. "Becoming all-conference as a sophomore may make her realize she belongs at the top of the leader board."

Jane Hawkins of Illinois State and Ann Vandermillen of Wichita State were also named to the all-conference team.

Tracksters qualify for nationals

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

Saluki men's track coach Bill Cornell has vowed all season that if middle-distance runners Mike Elliott and Bret Garrett were in the right race at the right time, they would qualify for nationals.

Elliott and Garrett followed through on Cornell's prediction Saturday by qualifying for nationals in the 800-meter run in the Springtime Invitational at Tallahassee, Fla.

Elliott, a senior from Belvidere, won the 800 with a personal best effort of one minute and 47.82 seconds.

Garrett, a sophomore from Sparta, finished second with a personal best 1:48.08.

"I'm very happy that Elliott and Garrett qualified for nationals," Cornell said. "There was good competition in the race, with a lot of 1:48 men entered."

It was the second time Elliott has qualified for nationals this season. In the indoor season, he qualified in the 1,000-yard run with a 2:08.03 effort in the Last Chance Invitational.

Cornell said he was also pleased with the first-place efforts turned in by Ron Harter in the discus and the 1,600-meter relay team.

Harter, a sophomore from Arthur, notched a personal best of 186-3 in the discus.

"I'm happy with the performance of Ron Harter but Ron is down on himself because he didn't qualify for nationals," Cornell said.

The 1,600-meter relay team of Garrett, Elliott, Connor Mason, and Gerard Horan turned in a season-best 3:13.02, easily defeating second-place finisher Louisiana State (3:17.44).

Also turning in a season-best performance for the Salukis was junior Felipe Martin, who finished second in the triple jump at 48-4.25.

The Salukis' 400-meter relay team of Tim Mayhorn, Mason, David Wallace, and Brian Bradley finished third at 42.46.

Adding fifth-place efforts were Mason in the 200-meter dash (21.86), David Lamont in the 5,000-meter run (14:33.02), Mike Michels in the pole vault (15-6), and Scott Szczech in the hammer (139-9).

The Salukis return to action this weekend in a dual meet at Illinois.

Positioning key in NFL draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a draft with few blue chip players available, positioning is everything for teams with a definite need.

For that reason, trades could be as common as running backs and offensive linemen in the first round of Tuesday's NFL draft. Nothing is certain entering the draft, although it is almost definite that the Tampa Bay Buccaneers will use the first pick on Auburn running back Bo Jackson and Atlanta will follow with the selection of Oklahoma nose tackle Tony Casillas.

Position has the third pick, and is at least even money to deal it to one of a growing group of teams looking to move up. The third pick should enable a club to take the best quarterback or defensive lineman available. Those positions are thin ones in the draft.

"I think there will be a lot of activity the morning of the draft," said Chargers owner Alex Spanos, whose club has the 13th and 14th picks of the first round. "I still believe someone will give us a chance to say yes or no to a deal."

San Diego covets defensive end Jon Hand, Philadelphia

Pro teams want Saluki gridder

Saluki center and All-American candidate Tom Baugh said Monday that a number of NFL teams have shown interest in obtaining his skills.

Among the team's that have contacted Baugh's agent, Peter Goplerud, are: Dallas, Philadelphia, Kansas City, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, San Diego, Cincinnati, Tampa Bay, Denver and the New York Jets.

Baugh said he would be meeting with an agent from Dallas Monday night and would be awaiting the 7 a.m. draft initiation.

wants running back Keith Byars, San Francisco wants a defensive lineman, Chicago wants a running back and Minnesota, Detroit and the Los Angeles Rams want quarterbacks.

None are expected to get what they want in their current drafting spot and have been looking to trade up. Conversely, Philadelphia (10th pick) and the New York Giants (19th pick) are willing to trade down if they get the right offer.

The Buccaneers have had ample offers to deal the first pick, and will keep listening up until 8 a.m. But there is little chance they will trade that pick although they might be willing to deal one of their other three picks among the top 40 in the draft.

Jackson is a 220-pounder who has been clocked in a 4.12, which would make him the fastest player in the NFL. Many scouts regard him the best running back prospect since O.J. Simpson.

Cummins ended her career with 3,249 assists and holds the school record for the most assists in a match, with 78 against Illinois-Chicago during the 1984 season.

"Lisa is one of the most unselfish people I've ever known," Coach Debbie Hunter said. "She motivates other people to do their best. Even in the most trying and stressful times, Lisa has always been able to sustain good will toward others. Whether it is academics, volleyball, SAAB or religion, Lisa takes her pursuits to the hilt and has become a very well-rounded person."

Zierold, a senior swimmer from Lugano, Switzerland, received the Alumni Scholar-Athlete Award, presented to the graduating senior with the highest grade point average. Zierold majors in food and nutrition, with a 3.82 GPA.

Zierold earned All-America honors at the NCAA Nationals last March and helped SIU to a fifth-place finish. At the NCAA's, she swam on three Top 10 relays, including the 400-yard freestyle relay which set a school record (3:24.04) and whose fifth-place finish ahead of UCLA enabled the Salukis to take fifth in the nation by a point over the Bruins.

Men netters face St. Louis for finale

The Saluki men netters close out the regular season at 2 p.m. Tuesday against the St. Louis University Billikens at the Arena courts.

The Salukis, 9-16, are playing for their eighth consecutive win.

No. 2 singles player Chris Visconti will return to the courts after sitting out the last meet against Tennessee-Martin and the doubles match versus Southeast Missouri with an injured wrist.

No. 3 singles player Jairo Aldana brings a nine-game winning streak onto the court with him.

The Salukis hope to end the season with a victory before playing in the Missouri Valley Conference Championships at Canyon, Texas, May 1-3, Coach Dick LeFevre said.

"Claudia had a real significant role on the team this year," Coach Bailey Weathers said. "You don't become an exceptional athlete overnight, nor do you become a superior student overnight. Both athletic and academic accomplishment require a commitment over the long haul, and since this award is representative of sustained academic success by an athlete, it is a very fitting award for Claudia."

In 1983, Zierold was an NCAA All-American on the 800-free relay and won the 200 free at the National Independents Championship.

Zierold leaves among an elite group of graduating seniors who have spent their entire collegiate careers in a Top-10 program — with SIU one of only five Division I women's swimming programs to have done so for four consecutive years. In the past three years, just three schools — Texas, Stanford and SIU — have qualified all five relays for the finals at Nationals each year.

IAW names woman cager Athlete of Year; swimmer, spiker honored

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Intercollegiate Athletics for Women named basketball's clutch player, Petra Jackson, Female Athlete of the Year at the 10th annual awards banquet Sunday.

Lisa Cummins, an Academic All-American setter, and Claudia Zierold, a Top-10 relay swimmer, took home three other major awards.

As the only senior starter, "Pistol Pete" Jackson led the Salukis to a 25-4 record, a first-ever Gateway Conference title and NCAA tournament appearance. She averaged the team-high 15.8 points, while leading in steals (62) and free throw shooting (82.9 percent). A 5-8 guard from St. Louis, Jackson also ranked as runner-up in rebounding with 7.2 per game.

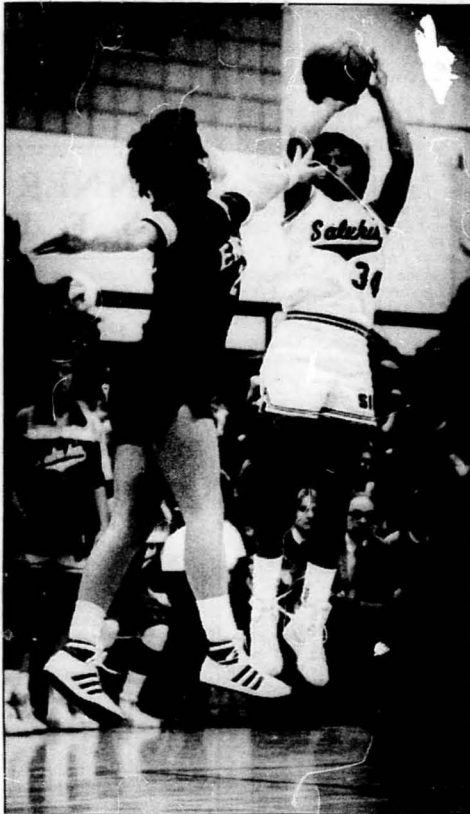

"Petie was the source of our confidence throughout the whole year, a real catalyst to our team's success," Coach Cindy Scott said.

During her career, Jackson earned two unanimous All-GCAC selections and Most Valuable Player honors in two Dial Classics. Jackson departs as the school's No. 3 all-time scorer and No. 4 all-time rebounder. She hit a school record 650 field goals and averaged 12.3 points on 48.8 percent shooting from the field and 78.5 percent from the line.

"It is almost impossible to think of watching a basketball game next year without Petie on the team," said Charlotte West, Director of IAW. "So many times we have gone to her in a crucial situation and so many times she has come through. That's the mark of a true champion."

Cummins, a 5-9 senior setter from Willard, Mo., received both the Virginia Cummins Award in memory of former Saluki athlete, and the Outstanding Leader-Athlete Award.

Cummins was one of six collegiate women nationwide named to the GTE Academic All-America Volleyball Team by the College Sports Information Directors of America. A four-year starter, Cummins had 1066 assists this season to lead the Salukis to their best GCAC finish ever.

An accounting major, Cummins toured China, Japan and Latin America with Athletes in Action, a non-denominational ministry of the Campus Crusade for Christ. She participated in the 1983 National Sports Festival, garnered two All-GCAC selections and won MVP honors at two invitationals.

Softball team to host twinbill with SIU-E

By Steve Merritt
Sports Editor

The Saluki softball team, 6-8, 16-18 for the season, will try to snap a four-game losing streak Tuesday afternoon when the Cougars of SIU-E come to the IAW Fields for a 2 p.m. non-conference doubleheader.

With just two conference twinbills remaining, getting back on the winning track is important to coach Kay Brechtelsbauer and her squad. After a very successful weekend two weeks ago in which the Salukis swept Northern Iowa and Drake, Brechtelsbauer's squad has dropped seven of eight games and plummeted from near the top of the Gateway standings to the middle of the pack.

With batting averages slipping and errors playing a prominent role in the recent losses, the Salukis need a good showing before engaging in the last two twinbills this weekend with Southwest Missouri and Wichita State.

En route to losing four games this weekend, the Salukis committed 11 errors while scoring just 5 runs on 23 hits.

"Gregory said, having to repeat the line about five times for the various reporters who asked the question once again. "He doesn't mind anything. He never turned a hair."

And while nothing seemed to bother the California-bred son of sire Reflected Glory, Gregory and trainer Mel Stute are leaving nothing to chance. After the horse and two cots for groom Miguel Hernandez and exercise rider Arturo Vilchez were unloaded, off the van came several bays of

High scoring foreseen for Murray State game

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

The final score of a 2:30 p.m. Tuesday game between the Salukis and the Murray State Thoroughbreds at Murray, Ky., may resemble a football game more than a baseball game.

Cozy Reagan Field, which measures only 360 feet in straightaway center field, is known for its homer-happy, high-scoring games.

"Their ballplayers are tailored for it," Saluki coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said. "But with the type of players we've got, we should also hit home runs."

Three weeks ago, the Thoroughbreds played host for Iowa. The Buckeyes thrashed them in their first three games 26-3, 10-0 and 14-4. The fourth game, however, was a one worthy of a windy Wrigley Field day, as Murray State won 28-15.

Coach Johnny Reagan, for whom the park is named, is experiencing his third losing year in 29 seasons. The good news is that the 16-23 Thoroughbreds have hit 49 home runs in 39 games. The bad news is their opponents have hit 77.

If the March 25 game against Murray State is any indication, which the Dogs won 13-3, it could be a long, bat-booming day at Reagan Field.

"They may have to call the game early because of lack of pitching," Jones jested.

Jones said he would probably send Robb Osborne, who has recently been inactive because of a sore elbow, to the mound for a few innings Tuesday if he is strong enough.

"If the trainer thinks it's advisable not to use him, we won't," Jones said. "Even then, we'll probably have him throw only 60 pitches."

The Thoroughbreds' likely starter is Richard Garner (3-2, 5.40 ERA), who pitched a rare no-hitter at Reagan Field against Tennessee Tech last Wednesday. He struck out six and walked two.

The Thoroughbred lineup is loaded with horses such as outfielders Steve Groehn (.320, 10 homers, 34 RBI), Danny Naughton (.281, seven homers, 32 RBI), shortstop Tom Gargiulo (.305, seven homers, 36 RBI) and third baseman David Butts (.308, four homers, 27 RBI).

Dogs, Sycamores vie for MVC season title

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

The Missouri Valley Conference baseball race is down to the wire.

By taking three of four of four games from Illinois State in weekend action, the 9-7 Dogs pulled to within one game of MVC leader Indiana State, which is 10-6.

The two teams will shoot it out at the Abe Martin corral this weekend to see who owns the regular season conference crown and gets the home field advantage for the MVC post-season tournament on May 15-18.

"I guess there'll be a home field advantage," Saluki coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said. "The students won't be here, but it would be beneficial for us to be at home."

To win the MVC race, the Salukis must take at least three of four games from the Sycamores this weekend. Anything less will give Indiana State the regular season conference championship.

There is a possibility that Wichita State or Bradley, both 8-8 in the Valley, could sneak into the back door for a first-place tie if they sweep their four-game series this weekend.

If any teams tie for first, the squad with the best record

"They're both capable of doing it," Jones warned.

"If it comes down to between Wichita and Indiana State in a tie, I hope Indiana State gets it," he said. "Expense-wise, it'd be more attractive for teams on this side of the Mississippi River."

The only teams effectively knocked out for a chance of a first-place finish are 7-9 Illinois State and 6-10 Creighton.

Unlike previous years, all six teams will play in the conference's post-season tournament.

Derby favorite enjoys prerace media attention

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Snow Chief, acting like the Kentucky Derby favorite he is, quickly settled into his new stall at Churchill Downs Monday, playfully rolling in the hay and clearly enjoying his role in the spotlight.

As the television cameras and reporters peered into stall No. 12, the striking, dark bay colt put on a show.

"He loves it," said foreman Gary Gregory, who guided the horse on the three-hour, cross-country flight from his California home to the site of his biggest race yet. "He's a ham."

From the 3 a.m. (PDT) departure from Santa Anita Barn No. 97, to the loading onto the Tex Sutton Air Service charter at Ontario Airport, to unloading at Louisville's Standiford Field, to the three-mile trip via Sallee Horse Van to Barn 45 at Churchill Downs, everything went as smooth as Snow Chief's pink-and-blue racing silks.

"He shipped like a cham-green California hay.

"We're not going to change anything now," Gregory said of the imported feed. "There's no reason to find out just before the Kentucky Derby that he doesn't take to his feed."

And Snow Chief's first two buckets of Churchill Downs water will probably be his last.

"I have to go buy some bottled water tonight," Gregory said. The 20-year-old Gregory, who has been working for Stute since he spent his summers at Santa Anita at the age of 12, seemed more impressed than his horse by the new surroundings.

"That's all you talk about as a kid, is the Kentucky Derby," Gregory said about his first trip to Kentucky. "It didn't really hit me until I saw the cameras and all."

"But him," he said, pointing to Snow Chief as the colt calmly munched some more California hay. "He always looks cocky."
