State tax code unfair—Quinn

Marion.

Quinn said working with banks to provide loans and stimulating the economy will give Illinois a jumpstart in a better direction.

"When you have unemployment for 13 straight years, you know somethings not going right," he said.

"Our emphasis is on creating jobs and keeping the jobs we already have. Investing in your own back yard, and keeping jobs open, that's the key. The State Treasurers office invests money in financial institutions on behalf of the tax payers. We deposited about $5 billion every year all over Illinois, and we have $159 million invested in Southern Illinois."

"We've got to realize if we want money for schools, the only way to do that is a functional economy that performs to the level of the national economy. Illinois is 49 out of 50 states in creating new businesses.

The answer for solving the problems of rising unemployment and the deficit rate will not be found in the current Illinois government and not in raised taxes, but in an investment in the citizens' own backyards, a state financial official said.

State Treasurer Patrick Quinn said investing in businesses and providing loans to citizens is a better plan for fighting unemployment and the deficit, not raising taxes.

"The way to get out of this economic problem is not to raise taxes on business and families across Illinois," he said. "Our tax code is one of the most unfair in the country. I'm not for raising taxes on folks already paying too much."

Quinn presented his economic package for Illinois, "Job Opportunity Blueprint," during a press conference Thursday in Democratic legislators praise Clinton's efforts

Political scientist: Public should be patient with new president

The public expects too much too soon from President Bill Clinton, an SIUC political scientist said, but local legislators, all Democrats, support and praise Clinton's efforts.

Barbara Brown, lecturer in political science, said she has high hopes after watching Clinton in his first 100 days in the Oval Office despite the mixed polls released about his popularity.

A poll from the Associated Press this week stated the general public thought Clinton has had strong leadership, 49 percent to 37 percent, but 48 percent to 34 percent say Clinton already has broken too many promises.

Clinton's first days have been filled with controversy, including his stand on lifting the ban on gays in the military, the 31-day standoff at the David Koresh compound, allowing research on an abortion pill and grappling with the budget.

Brown said her disappointment is not Clinton, but in the public's misconceptions of change.

"People seem to have a schizophrenia about change — they want everything solved in the first 100 days," Brown said. "We told Clinton we wanted change, but we have to remember that the political system isn't going to change quickly."

Brown said she has so far been satisfied with Clinton's political moves and the selection for his cabinet.

"So far he has done anything to surprise me or worry me," Brown said. "The President has already challenged what's traditionally been done in the past."

"He's shown to us one of the most diverse cabinets ever brought before the nation," she said. "The cabinet will be one that going to impress us. We're going to have a good year."

Dave Stricklin, press secretary for Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Marion, said Poshard is impressed by Clinton's strict dedication to his position.

"Clearly, President Clinton has invested tremendous time and energy into everything he's done."

Groups await fate of abortion bill

By Shawna Donovan
General Assignment Writer

A pro-abortion activist said a bill that would make it illegal to block abortion clinics in the state is overdue, but an anti-abortionist warned that freedom of speech will be infringed.

The Illinois House of Representatives passed the Safe Choice Zone Act bill on April 21 by a vote of 79-29. The bill now is pending in the Illinois Senate Judiciary Committee.

Lillian Adams, co-director of the Southern Illinois Pro-Choice Alliance, said her group hopes the bill will pass.

"It means some of the awful things that some anti-abortionists have done, like physically assaulted some women and vandalizing clinics, will be illegal," Adams said. "I think Gov. Jim Edgar will sign it. If he does, it would make it a crime to block women at the clinics, and it would carry penalties."

Ron Isaacs, a Carbondale attorney for the national anti-abortion group, Operation Rescue, said the bill is an infringement on free speech.

"I am opposed to the bill because it is an infringement on free speech rights," Isaacs said. "It is an excuse to go after certain groups. It will not become law because it is unconstitutional. It is just a threat."

The bill, introduced on Jan. 13 by Rep. Jeffrey Schoenberg, D-Evanston, prohibits unlawful interference with access to or aggress from a medical facility.

Specifically, the bill is against those who attempt or prevent another person from entering or exiting by physically detaining the other person, physically obstructing impeding or hindering the other person, or threatening with death or bodily harm.

Violators will be charged with a Class B misdemeanor with a possible $500 fine and up to six months in jail.

Schoenberg, who is the chief sponsor of the Illinois Freedom of Choice Act, stated the bill is for women's constitutional right to privacy.

African Americans should explore genealogy—Burris

By Thomas Gibson
Minorities Writer

Illinois Attorney General Roland Burris said Thursday African Americans need to know their past to make the most of their future.

"If you do not know where you come from, you won't know where you're going," said Burris, an SIUC alumnus and keynote speaker for the African-American Historical and Genealogical Society.

Burris said he has been tracing his family roots for some time and he considers himself an amateur genealogist.

The 36th annual conference is taking place in Carbondale, the first time it has been outside of Washington or Baltimore, Md.

He said he became interested in genealogy when his father told him a story about his family's history. Burris had traced his family roots back to his great grandfather's parents.

Burris, who is a candidate for governor in the next primaries, said his father told him that the only way for black people to advance in this country was to have African Americans in a position of power.

"My dream was to become a lawyer and a state official," he said. "Black people have suffered all throughout their Weaver goes to Alcorn St.

Staff report

Former SIUC men's assistant basketball coach Sam Weaver was named to the head coaching position at Alcorn State Thursday.

Weaver left the Salukis after four seasons as an assistant to take the reigns of the men's program at the all-black Mississippi school, which is located approximately 90 miles south of Jackson.

Weaver inherits a program that was 7-20 in 1992-93 under Lonnie Walker, who was fired at the end of the season.

"Today we begin dreaming about being a regular at the NCAA Tournament, and maybe someday reaching the Final Four," Weaver said in an Associated Press story. "You say, 'Coach, now you're stretching it too far,' but you got to reach for something and we're starting today...it's not impossible."

SIUC Men's Sports Information Director Fred Huff said Weaver will be missed.

"We hate to lose Sam; he was very valuable to our staff," Huff said. "He made great contributions to the program and will be tough to replace."

Before coming to SIUC, Weaver was an assistant coach at SE Missouri for six years and he spent single seasons as an assistant at Drake and Missouri Southern.

Softball Salukis sweep doubleheader from SLU

By Kevin Bergquist
Sports Editor

The SIUC softball team improved to 28-8 Thursday with a doubleheader sweep of St. Louis Un. ersity.

Saluki hurlers Angie Mick and Kristie Spielman froze the Billikens' bats to the tune of only four hits in shutting out SLU over both games.

In the first game, SIUC scored runs in the first, second and fifth innings to back a season-high eight strikeout performance by Mick. Mick improved to 13-4 on the season, blanking the Billikens, 4-0 for her third shutout.

Colleen Holloway had the big hit for SIUC, a two-run homer in the fifth inning to complete the Saluki scoring. Holloway's sixth later tied her own single-season record for home runs.

SIUC got single runs in the first on an RBI single by Maura Hasenstab, and the second when Marlo Pecoraro plated a tally with an RBI triple.

Mikki McPherson was the hard luck loser for the Billikens McPherson (9-6) struck out nine batters, but got no run support from her teammates.

In the second game, SIUC struck for four runs in the first inning and outscored a 7-0 win.

The Salukis once again did it with the longball. Holloway broke her own record she had tied in the first game with a two-run home run, her seventh of the season.

The next batter, Laurie Wilson, also went deep for her first homer of the season.

Holloway was 3-for-3 for the game with two doubles and three RBI to go with her round-tripper. Wilson went 2-for-4 with 2 RBI and a home run.

Spielman improved to 3-0 on the season with the win, as she allowed just two hits while striking out three.

Sue Syljebeck failed in her attempt to gain her first win of the season against four losses.

"I was real pleased with the pitching, and we struck early and kept adding runs, which is what we need to do," SIUC coach Kay Brechtebauer said.

The Salukis will play host to Indiana State today at 3 p.m.

Salukis hope to shock MVC king Wichita St.

SIUC looks to regain early season intensity in 3 crucial Valley tilts

By Dan Leahy
Sports Writer

The SIUC baseball team will go against the best this weekend, as the Wichita State Shockers come to town.

The Shockers (35-12, 10-2) are currently ranked eighth in the nation, and hold the top spot in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Wichita State is coming off a weekend where it took two of three from Creighton.

The Shockers can do it all, as they are the top fielding team in the conference, and second best in batting and pitching.

Joey Jackson paces the conference in hits with 65, while carrying a hefty .371 average.

The offensive production is spread out however, as Wichita State's 388 run scored is tops in the conference by a little over 100 runs.

Also, the top three individuals in runs scored in the MVC are all Shockers.

Darren DeLort is the ace of the Shocker pitching staff, posting a 5-1 record. Shane Bryan is also a force with eight victories and Jamie Bluna has six saves.

A key for the Salukis will be playing error-free baseball.

The squad has played only seven games without a blemish in 1993, and are a perfect 7-0 in those games.

SIUC head coach Sam Riggelman said he is intent on seeing a better defense.

"Defense early in the game sets the tone for everything," Riggelman said.

"That is something we have to turn around, and have work for us instead of against us."

Riggelman said the Salukis will have to repeat the intensity they showed in earlier wins against top-notch teams.

"If we play with the intensity we did against teams like Oklahoma State and Rutgers, we'll be in a position to win," Riggelman said.

The action gets under way on Saturday at noon with a doubleheader, followed by a single game on Sunday at 1 p.m.

Men's track to prepare for league championship at Memphis meet

By Jeff McIntire
Sports Writer

The Saluki men's track and field team will travel to Memphis, Tenn., this weekend to compete in the Tiger-Rebel Open.

The Salukis will be looking for peak performances to tune up for the conference championships.

"This is our final meet before the conference championships, and we're looking for athletes to reach their peaks and have good performances," weather permitting," SIUC coach Bill Cornell said.

The duo of Brian Miller and Torry King is expected to do well in the shot put and the discus, and Cameron Wright said he is looking to improve on his mark in the high jump.

"I have 7-5 and 7-6 in me this year," Wright said.

A strong performance is also expected from Bernard Henry, who is coming off a strong performance in a meet in his native St. Lucia last weekend.

Garth Akal is expected to do well in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, and Neville Brooks, Mike Danner and Martin Fysh are expected to turn in strong performances in the 3,000 meters.

SIUC assistant coach Darren Barber will compete against fellow teammate Johnathan Hirsch in the javelin.

"It's time for them to get focused and concentrate on top-notch performances," Cornell said.

Mike Claycomb is listed as doubtful in the pole vault, but will probably compete in the javelin.

Mark Goodheart is fighting off a flu bug, but may still be able to compete in the hammer throw and discus.

Saluki women to tune up at open

By Jeff McIntire
Sports Writer

The Saluki women's track and field team will travel to Memphis, Tenn., this weekend to compete at the Tiger Rebel Open meet, their last competition before the conference championships.

The athlete to beat this weekend is Middle Tennessee State's Jacqui Brown, an NCAA qualifier in the long jump and the triple jump. Nacolia Moore, one of the Missouri Valley Conference's top long-jumpers and triple jumpers, is expected to provide Brown with a serious challenge.

In addition to the competition in the long jump and triple jump, the focus of attention will be on the sprint events.

"The sprinters will be pushed a little harder this weekend," SIUC coach Don DeNoon said.

"This will be a sprinter-type meet."

LaTonya Morrison will be competing in the 400-meter hurdles for the first time this year, as well as in the 100 meters, the 4x100 relay, and the 4x400 relay.

however, two Salukis are suffering from the flu.

Deborah Daehler is listed as doubtful for this weekend, and Leann Reed, a member of last weekend's school record-breaking distance medley relay squad, is listed as uncertain.

DeNoon said he is hoping some improvements will be made this weekend in preparation for the conference championships.

"I just hope everyone improves over what they have done all year," he said.

"I hope we get some good weather so we can get some good marks."

U.N. FRUSTRATED BY SERB VIOLENCE — The Serb offensive on several Bosnian fronts continued Thursday, with United Nations forces and agencies increasingly frustrated. Moslem-Croat fighting also continued. Bosnian radio said an attack along the Sava River was the "largest Serb offensive" since the start of the civil war in Bosnia-Herzegovina more than a year ago. Gradacac and Brcko on the Sava River were under almost permanent artillery fire.
DE KLERK REGRETS APARTHEID LAWS — South Africa's ruling National Party (NP) "deeply regrets" the policies of apartheid and would turn the clock back - if it could, President Frederik de Klerk, said in Cape Town Thursday. He mentioned in particular the policies of forced removals of blacks from residential areas to make way for whites, job reservation and influx control, instituted by the NP after it came to power in 1948.
GENERAL SENTENCED FOR CROSS-DRESSING — A Portuguese court sentenced a Lisbon woman to three years' forced labor Thursday for posing as a male general in the armed forces for 19 years without raising the slightest suspicion that she was neither a general nor a man. The court declined to hand down a harsher sentence against Teresinha de Jesus Gomes, 50, saying she had already suffered enough from four months of pre-trial imprisonment.

U.S., KOREA TO DISCUSS NUCLEAR ARMS ACT — The United States and North Korea have agreed to open bilateral talks on Pyongyang's decision to quit the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT), the Chinese foreign ministry said Thursday. Under the NPT, the nuclear powers, among them the United States, pledge to promote the civilian use of nuclear technology in non-nuclear power nations which in return vow to refrain from acquiring the atomic bomb.

COURT UPHOLDS CABLE T.V. REQUIREMENTS — Supreme Court Chief Justice William Rehnquist Thursday declined to block the federal government from enforcing a new law requiring cable television systems to carry local broadcast stations and non-profit educational channels, effective June 2. Several programmers sought an injunction against the 1992 statute's "must-carry" requirement it interferes with the programmers' First Amendment free speech rights.

HEROIN ABUSE INTENSIFIES IN U.S. CITIES — In most major American cities, heroin addicts are buying the cheapest and most potent heroin ever available in this country. Record opium harvests and intensive smuggling have helped flood big-city markets with high-quality heroin from Asia, Mexico and Colombia. Nationally, federal agencies say they seized nearly twice as much heroin in 1991, the last year for which figures are available, as in 1990.

ARMY OFFICER CHARGED WITH ESPIONAGE — The FBI Thursday arrested an Army staff sergeant on charges of espionage marking him the third member of an alleged spy ring headed by convicted spy Clyde Lee Conrad. Army Staff Sergeant Jeff E. Gregory, 31, was arrested by agents in Fort Richardson, Alaska, on charges that, while stationed in Germany, he sent extremely sensitive and classified defense documents to one or more foreign powers.

AIRLINE CREW PANICS ABOUT GAY ACTIVISTS — An American Airlines flight crew in Dallas requested all pillows and blankets be changed on a plane that carried a group described by an internal communication as "gay rights activists" from the D.C. protest, provoking outrage from several Dallas residents Wednesday. In part, the message with its abbreviations reads: "Inbd crew req complete chg of all pillows blankets due gay rights activists group onbd."

Scholarship contributor threatens to stop awards if college dropped

By Thomas Gibson
Special Assignment Writer

SIUC alumnus Ralph Becker said he will continue to contribute money to the radio and television department with one stipulation -- the department cannot be placed in the College of Liberal Arts.

Becker, who graduated from SIUC in 1955 with his degree in radio and television, said if the radio and television department is placed in another college, he will cease contributing.

The College of Communications and Fine Arts is being abolished in May, and several units are moving to liberal arts.

Radio and television, along with broadcasting, journalism and cinema and photography, are planning to create a new college, which received approval from the Faculty Senate Tuesday. The plan still has to go to the SIUC Board of Trustees.

In 1985, Becker, who owns six television stations affiliated with CBS, established a scholarship endowment fund in his name. The scholarship fund is divided among five students each year.

The first recipients of the fund were in 1986. The fund is the 13th largest of those given out to students in the department.

William P. Livek, who recently was voted Alumnus of the Year, is helping to contribute to the fund.

Livek said he agreed to match Becker's contribution of $5,000. The only contingency is that a communications college remains intact.

Becker is in the process of buying his seventh station in Harrisburg, Penn., and said if the transaction of his purchase closes, the fund will be made available.

He said everything that has happened to him in his career is because of his experience at SIUC.

Livek said there are other alumni who are getting into a position in their careers to give something back.

"There are real people contributing real money to this program," he added. "I am one of the people who want to see the radio and television department stay intact."

He said the administration has no business tampering with one of its star colleges.

In a time where jobs are being exported to Mexico and other countries communications is creating jobs, Livek said. It would be a travesty to alter the department. Communications has become more important as the year's pass.

Becker said the radio and television department has contributed dearly to the entertainment and news industry.

The whole world turns to the United States because it is leading the way in communications, Becker said.

"This industry gives people the opportunity in which to acquire wealth," Livek said.

Traffic study aims for safer streets at SIUC

By Joe Littrell
Police Writer

A study of traffic on campus may lead to changes aimed at making campus life safer for students.

SIUC traffic officers will monitor the flow of traffic in six separate locations on campus for the next week, and use the information gained to make decisions on lighting, traffic signs and crosswalks.

According to Marilyn Hogan, coordinator of SIUC Parking & Traffic, the study will monitor the locations during different times of the day. The locations include Lincoln Drive, west of Highway 51; Douglas Drive, next to parking lot No. 37; Oakland Avenue, south of Chataqua Street; Lincoln Drive, north of the Baptist Student Center; Chataqua Street, east of Oakland; and University Street, south of Mill Street.

The monitoring will cost the University nothing because the counters are on loan from the Illinois Department of Transportation, Hogan said. Labor is being performed by current traffic workers.

Much of the data collected will be used to facilitate the placement of improved crosswalks at different target areas on campus, Hogan said. "We want to illuminate the crosswalks better and widen them," she said.

The crosswalks will be outlined with a different, higher visibility material, much like the material used by the city.

The new crosswalks will function in conjunction with proposed new campus ordinances designed to keep students from walking across the street without a crosswalk, Hogan said.

Other projects that may come from the monitoring include the reduction of the number of "No Parking" signs along Lincoln Drive and improved lighting along the streets.

RACE grade scale in need of objectivity

WHEN A TEACHER FILLS OUT a student's report card, the teacher should not be making arbitrary decisions about grades.

A grade should be based on objective evaluations of a student's work — tests — and on how much the student has improved since the grading period began.

The Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists recently put out a report card for the state on the environment, but this initial effort to grade the state left some things to be desired.

RACE gave Illinois failing grades in forest protection, safe waste disposal and water quality, a D- in recycling and alternative energies and A's in toxic waste generation and transportation, nuclear waste generation and out-of-state waste.

The report card was designed as a much-needed wake-up call to the state and Gov. Jim Edgar that RACE is beginning to focus on the state's environment.

BUT TO BE EFFECTIVE, the group must base its future grades on tangible evidence. It must back up the letters it gives with numbers, and it must work with the state to determine the numbers.

For instance, if the issue is recycling, RACE must acquire statistics, such as the amount of waste recycled versus the total waste produced in the state, and compare those statistics to other states.

By comparing the percentage over a time span, one also can tell if the state has improved — and amount of improvement is another important factor when assessing a grade.

Teachers should not evaluate students based solely on numbers because some students start with less knowledge. By the same token, RACE cannot base its grades for Illinois solely on numbers, especially if the state had a late start or no funds for environmental programs.

ALTHOUGH IT IS IMPORTANT that RACE collects some of its own information to get an objective assessment, working with the state is a practical way for the group to get critical information.

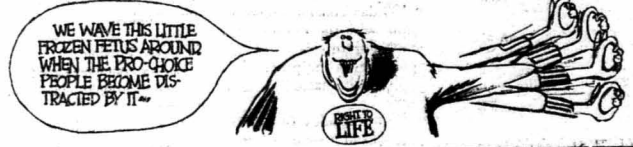

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and other state agencies already have information RACE could use.

It is even more important that RACE open the lines of communication with the state because it is the only way to get an actual view of the state's efforts.

Teachers cannot grade students accurately unless they see the day-to-day efforts in the classroom. Likewise, RACE should not assess Illinois agencies without getting a first-hand view of their operations.

IT IS MOST IMPORTANT that the group realizes an important backlash of the grading system: A grade is not only a reflection of the student's learning ability but also a reflection of the teacher's teaching ability.

Making sure Illinois becomes more environmentally sound is a worthwhile cause, but RACE must be more active in educating politicians on the environment if it wants to put a valid grade on the state's actions.

Letters to the Editor

Guyon must support WIDB, students

It seems to me that there is no intelligent reason for WIDB, the campus student station, not to be allowed on the air.

The staff members of the station have worked hard for the last year and have indeed fulfilled all of the requirements put forth by President Guyon.

Yet he still insists on withholding the FCC license that could easily be obtained in order to legally put WIDB over the air waves.

Mr. Guyon's latest argument has been that it would be unfair competition of WCIL radio — when in fact WIDB is not even in competition with CIL because WIDB is primarily a station run by students for the students and would only have a minute broadcast radius in comparison with CIL's.

Why should CIL bother picking on WIDB, a small student-run station, when the fact is that would bring bad PR to WCIL radio.

The only other possible objection that could be made by Mr. Guyon might be that the station's signal would interfere with WPSD's signal on the FM band.

In reality, it seems as though Mr. Guyon is just afraid to deal with WPSD for fear of bad PR while he continues to forget WIDB, a radio station on his own campus.

With all the reasons I just mentioned, I can see no reason why President Guyon is holding back on his promise to allow an FCC license and a transmitter.

The conceivable reason that I can come up with may be that Mr. Guyon doesn't care about what the students want and deserve, but rather, has his own set agenda for the planning and operations of the University.

In conclusion, the fight has grown larger than just supporting a campus radio station; it has now developed into a fight to get the President of our University to support his students. — Ted Schmidt, freshman, radio and television

Campus radio station deserves thumbs-up by SIUC president

On April 14, President Guyon put an end to months of hard work by WIDB by refusing their request for an on-air license.

Originally, Guyon said that WIDB needed to meet seven concerns to go on the air. WIDB worked hard to meet those demands, and after a long struggle they met every one to them.

Now Guyon has chosen to ignore the progress of the station. He insists that WIDB will provide "unfair" competition to Carbondale's radio stations, mainly WCIL. All that WIDB is asking for is an eight mile radius (WCIL's range is 120 miles) to reach every student of Southern Illinois University.

WCIL does not even consider the students that live off campus as part of their audience. WIDB is a station run by students for students. It concentrates on social and athletic events concerning SIUC.

WIDB provides the best coverage of women's athletics more than all the other stations combined, not to mention coverage of men's athletics. WIDB news provides quality information about Southern to the students.

Guyon's main concern should not be outside business, but his own students. He should want to help each student achieve their goals.

But lately it seems that Guyon is putting the students last, not first. All WIDB wants to do is go over the air to provide students a radio station that is specifically for them.

Of over 24,000 students, only about 5,000 can hear WIDB.

That is like a professor trying to lecture to a class of 300 students when only about 60 show up.

President Guyon, it is time to help WIDB achieve their goal and allow them to go on the air. The students of Southern Illinois University deserve it. Don't let them down! — Matt Schmidt, freshman, radio television

Town depiction untrue account

This is in response to the article Popular Slurs Lead to Prejudices. I was offended that Anna-Jonesboro was singled out as a town where racial slurs and ignorance occurs. I felt the article implied that everyone from Anna-Jonesboro was like that. I've never heard anyone use "Jew" in a derogatory sense or the words "nigger rigged" used.

I have never used either term, and I am appalled you would insinuate I have. It's articles just like this that make me ashamed to say where I'm from. I've lived in Anna-Jonesboro all my life. The next time you write an article, talk to a variety of people so you can get an accurate account! — Emilee Gorman, junior, speech pathology

Peace summit hopes to put end to gang violence

Los Angeles Times

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Under most circumstances, the agenda for the National Urban Peace and Justice Summit scheduled to open here today would not seem so titillating.

But what has caused such a stir, lured news crews from around the country and rattled the nerves of more than a few Kansas City residents is not the message of this gathering, but the messengers: Bloods, Crips, — the homeboys and homegirls of America.

On Thursday, more than 100 gang leaders — most of them inactive or former members — began converging on this Midwest city for what is being billed as the first peace summit ever aimed at ending the self-destructive cycle of bloodshed in ghettos and barrios across the nation.

The three-day event, which was timed to coincide with the first anniversary of the Los Angeles riots, already has triggered strong emotions and a few misunderstandings.

The idea first was unveiled last February at a news conference.

he said. "We've been happy to support his deficit reduction and job creation plan."

Stricklin said the first 100-day concept is outdated and should not be a burden on Clinton.

"The 100-day idea is sort of not correct for our time," he said. "When it was first thought of, not a lot got done in the first 100 days, but now much more happens and it is not enough time to judge someone."

The 100-day concept found its beginning with the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration as an attempt to begin the process of dealing with the nation's worst depression.

Sen. Carol Moseley Braun, D-Chicago, said in a statement that Clinton is dealing with a similar situation.

"President Clinton is showing the same kind of energy drive (as FDR), and commitment in dealing with the economic problems of our era."

Braun praised Clinton for his plan to stimulate the economy and the Health Care Task Force, and thanked him for keeping the thoughts of the people in mind.

"The president has kept his eye on the ball. His top priority has been to revitalize our economy, and his efforts in the early days of his Administration have been focused on that goal," she said.

"Last year's election was about 'putting people first.' It has been the focus of Clinton's first 100 days and, I know, will be the focus of the remainder of his eight years in office."

Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, said in a press release that Clinton's mixed success is a result of his inherited problems by the previous administration.

"I give President Clinton high marks for courageously identifying the major problems in our nation, the economy and health care in particular," Costello said. "There are enormously complex problems, to which there are no clear, simple answers."

Costello said Clinton may have underestimated what problems awaited for him after a 12-year Republican government.

"It is clear that President Clinton has chosen not to ignore but to address the major problems facing this country," he said.

"My hope is that he will focus on the very top priorities we must address—our economic strength, and putting our nation in a competitive position by the year 2000."

history in the United States."

African Americans have been denied in all aspects of life from the unfulfilled promises of the emancipation proclamation to the reconstruction period, Burris said.

Despite the many obstacles thrown at African Americans, they still have excelled, he said.

"Black people are an amalgamation of everyone in the world," he added.

African Americans have been abused because they have no heritage to cling to, he said.

"That is the reason why so many young black men are killing each other. They do not know who they are," he continued.

"My forefathers have survived the indignation of slavery, so we must now work to see that their blood was not wasted in vain."

Rosetta O'Neal, president of the Little Egypt chapter of the Historical and Genealogical Society, said Burris was a great asset to the conference.

People from all across the country attended, O'Neal said.

For the first time in this region, the conference is doing great, O'Neal said.

Jackie Franklin, teacher and amateur genealogist from Detroit, said she came to the conference to learn more methods in researching.

The conference will continue today and Saturday at the Knights Court hotel.

Raising taxes is not going to change the problem."

Rick Davis, spokesman for State Comptroller Dawn Clark Netsch, said Illinois again broke the state record for unpaid bills last month when it closed out one week at $910 million. The state also had a record $558.9 million in unpaid bills in March.

Davis said the last time Illinois regularly was paying its bills was in 1990.

Davis said this lack of funds will mean that agencies that do business with Illinois will not be paid this month, including $86.7 million in college grants and $29.6 million to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Illinois is in a worse situation than last year when it racked up $717.9 million in unpaid bills, said Jann Ingmire, Netsch's press secretary.

Ingmire said Netsch believes the answer to the deficit problems will not be solved overnight, and will not be solved by raising taxes.

"(Netsch) is not for a general tax increase," she said. "But an income tax increase may be needed to direct funds into the school. That would free up the general fund to pay off some bills."

Illinois' average unemployment rate has exceeded the national average for every fiscal year since 1980, Quinn said.

Illinois ranked 43rd in personal income growth, falling behind every other state in the Great Lakes region. Quinn said linking loans with financial institutions will aid not only small businesses, but homeowners and graduating college students.

Quinn said the government does not have to make the loan, because it is done so with a partnership of local banks to small business, home-owners and farmers.

"An example is the SIUC medical school. When young people get out, have a pretty heavy debt loan from school and then start a practice, you've got to borrow more money," he said.

"A partnership with banks where you get low-interest loans for graduates is the key."

Edgar said in his FY 1994 budget address that the state is escaping the grip of recession and is doing well with economic growth.

"Because we slashed spending instead of taking more money for government from consumers and businesses, we aided, instead of stifled, economic recovery in Illinois," Edgar said.

But Quinn said Illinois continues to be in a deep recession, falling behind other states in unemployment rates because of lack of leadership in the state government.

"Illinois probably owed about a billion dollars," he said. "It looks like we have money, but its like we have checks that we haven't mailed in. Our checkbook looks good, but we owe a lot of money."

Special assistants unconfirmed

The Washington Post

When Energy Secretary Hazel R. O'Leary recently met with representatives of citizen groups that keep an eye on safety and the environment at the department's nuclear weapons plants the only other department official in the room was one of her "special assistants."

At O'Leary's side was Dan W.

Reicher, formerly a lawyer for the Natural Resources Defense Council who once tormented the department.

Reicher, whose appointment was not announced publicly and is not subject to confirmation, is part of a cadre of "special assistants" and other political appointees who have been carrying out the Energy Department's business in the absence of any confirmed deputy or assistant secretaries.

Number of marchers reviewed

The Washington Post

The Department of the Interior has agreed to review the crowd estimate for Sunday's gay rights march after meeting with march organizers, who have contended the size of the event was vastly understated, a department official said.

"We will look again at the count and consider the evidence with particular emphasis on the methodology of how the count is obtained," said Kevin Sweeney, a spokesman for Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt.

Sweeney said march organizers met with Tom Collier, Babbitt's chief of staff, to discuss the count. The U.S. Park Police, estimated the crowd at 300,000.

SIUC advisers, volunteers given moment in spotlight

By Michael T. Kuciak
General Assignment Writer

Two registered student organization advisers and three volunteers were recognized for their time and effort at an awards ceremony brought together Thursday specifically to give them a moment in the spotlight.

Stacy Gattlieb, Abugarshall Kai and Tuesday Shorty received Volunteer of the Year awards from the Center of Student Involvement and the Saluki Volunteer Corps.

Debbie Walton, assistant director of student development and coordinator of the RSO program, was master of ceremonies. She said the ceremony was a chance to thank people who do not often receive recognition for their efforts.

"Let's take this opportunity to applaud our advisers and commend our volunteers for helping us meet some of our community's needs," she said.

Gottlieb was recognized for her work with the Women's Center and the SIUC Crisis Intervention Teams.

Kai received his award for help with the International Agriculture Club, the African Student Association and African Awareness Week.

Shorty was recognized for her part in art seminars and workshops, tutoring, the Carbondale Youth Christmas, Black Applicant, African History and Genealogy.

Resale shop employs bazaar style

By Candace Samolinski
Special Assignment Writer

The image of This n' That Consignment Shop breaks the stereotype people may have of the average resale shop.

When visiting the store, customers may be offered coffee to drink while they explore the varied surroundings.

"We have tried to design the shop to feel like home to our customers," said Bonnie Owen, co-owner of the store. "It has a clean appearance and an atmosphere unlike most consignment shops."

The shop, located on East Main next to Bonnie Owen Property Management, has been open for three weeks. Owen said the merchandise varies from day to day, and the response to the store's opening has been positive. Store hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

The merchandise sold in the store is not the type found in most stores of this kind. Cindy Bradford, co-owner of the store and an interior designer, said she has tried to incorporate a sense of style in the store.

"We have all types of merchandise — everything from china dolls from Germany and France to china dishes," Bradford said. "I am used to dealing with contemporary design and using antiques only as special pieces, so there is a little of both here."

Owen said the consignment policy at the store limits them to take only materials that are clean, unbroken and useful.

"We try to act as a service to the students," she said. "When they leave at the end of the semester, they often have things like desks, dishes or rugs that they don't want to take with them."

Bradford said the store plans to accommodate for the seasons and holidays.

"We brought in some special merchandise for Secretaries Day and will try to have something for Mother's Day," she said. "We also plan to have special merchandise in the fall when the students come back to SIUC."

Aside from consignment items, the store also carries new merchandise.

"We have new items that people may want to buy as gifts for people who like unusual things," Owen said.

The store has a layaway plan and will travel to examine large items to determine whether they will be accepted by the store.

Altekruse said she is grateful for the help that the city of Carbondale has given her over the past 20 years.

"Carbondale has been very good to me," Altekruse said. "I've felt that it has supported me, so I wanted to support it through helping other women start, maintain or enlarge their businesses."

Altekruse is currently completing her second year as president of the Southern Illinois Women's Business Council. The council acts as a support and network group for women in business.

Joyce Basler, a member of the Women's Business Council, said the council is a means of support for businesswomen who need it.

When Ruthie Altekruse used $2,000 and a lot of determination to start her own business back in 1969, she did not know that two decades later she would be recognized for her success in the business world.

Altekruse, owner of "Ruthie's," a full-service bridal and special occasion shop which also has woman's sportswear and career dressing, was named Illinois Business Advocate of the Year by the Small Business Administration.

Dance EXPRESSO

S.I. dance troupe works to change art form's image

By William Rogan
Entertainment Editor

Dance always has been one of the least accessible art forms. While music can be carried with you in a walkman and art can be hung on a wall, dance has been dependent upon the people who perform and the availability of dance troupes.

And while the traditional image of a dancer is a ballerina in a pink tu-tu and ballet slippers, the Southern Illinois Repertory Dance Theater is out to change that image with its annual spring concert, "Dance Expresso." The performance will take place at 8 p.m. Saturday at Stryock Auditorium.

The performance incorporates a variety of dance styles, including classical ballet, jazz and more modern pieces. SIRD's goal is to bring dance to an entirely new audience who may not have been exposed to it before, said artistic director Donna Wilson.

"There's a long history of dance not being recognized as an art form," she said. "I want to make the majority of what we present accessible to our audience."

SIRD is a Registered Student Organization, and one of the only dance companies in Southern Illinois, consisting of 18 students and two faculty members.

The group performs pieces choreographed by the members, as well as pieces from guest choreographers.

This year, three guest choreographers were enlisted to add spice to "Dance Expresso."

Becky Eagleton, director of the Local Motion Foundation in Tulsa, Okla., contributed "Against the Current."

The piece deals with the theme of resistance and relationships to water flow, and the dancers are successful in giving the feeling of battling a raging river current, Wilson said.

"As dancers, we learn how to use our bodies to express certain images," she said. "By observing movement you learn to recreate that feeling. If you stand and have the mental image of water going over you, the body will respond."

SIUC group to perform percussion

By Christian Kennerly
Entertainment Writer

The beating of a drum is one of the most fundamental of all sounds, but when many different types of percussion instruments come together, those simple sounds become music.

SIUC's Percussion Ensemble will bring its sound to Quigley auditorium in a free concert tonight, playing as many as 50 different instruments from tom-toms to wind chimes.

Mike Hanes, co-director of the ensemble, said his goal in forming the group was to get both music students and non-music majors to learn and play together.

He said the object was not to produce a polished performance group, but just to play.

"This is as much for the players as it is for the performance," he said.

Hanes said the group will perform a wide range of music including jazz, improvisational and some serious pieces.

A featured piece is "Fla Baroque" by Bobby Christian which Hanes said is a lively part of the concert.

"It's a jazzy, funky, little ditty with the keyboards," he said.

Hanes said one of the more serious numbers, "Suite For Victims of Ap Dong Gi" by Ralph Hampson, is quite different from the other pieces in tone and composition.

"It was chosen to give the students an opportunity to play abstract music," he said.

The 12-member Percussion Ensemble will perform at 8 p.m.

The Rev. Horton hot to turn up the heat

Madder Rose band uses moody music to inspire emotions

By Andy Graham
Entertainment Writer

Sporting a noticeable contrast in styles, two top-notch rock acts will perform as part of "Dawg Days of Spring" today.

Known for his sweaty shows and extremely danceable rockabilly tunes, the Reverend Horton Heat will educate SIUC about the roots of rock-n-roll beginning at 11:30 a.m. in the Free Forum Area.

The Dallas trio is made up of guitarist/vocalist Reverend Horton Heat (Jim Heath), stand-up bassist Jim Wallace and drummer David Mabry.

Heat plucks his hollow-body Gibson in a psycho-frenzied manner, ripping up the fretboard while yelling lyrics about dwarf rodeos and love gone astray.

Wallace journeys up and down his fretless beast keeping the framework alive with Mabry pounding heavily on the kit so that Heat can have his fun.

Opening for the charismatic Heat is a new band from New York, Madder Rose.

Madder Rose was formed several years ago by guitarist Billy Cote and singer/guitarist Mary Larson as a recording project in the home of Matt Verta-Ray.

Eventually, the band went four-piece to include Verta-Ray on bass and drummer Johnny Kick.

Kick and Verta-Ray, veterans of rockabilly bands stick together like glue, but surprisingly do not add any sort of rootsy sound to the otherwise unique sound.

Cote inserts heavy doses of complimentary guitar texture to the rhythmic duet and Larson adds the final touches with her dissonant vocals and steady guitar strumming.

Larson's voice is angelic and soothing in contrast to the dark, driving sounds of the instruments around it.

"Mary never ever sings," Verta-Ray said. "Her voice is so true, she doesn't use vibrato."

The emotions derived from the music of Madder Rose help the band write songs, he said.

"We are intense and moody," Verta-Ray said. "Those are the emotions that we tap into when we write. Who wants to hear happy shit?"

Madder Rose's debut release on Seed records, "Bring It Down," has seen a great deal of success for an indie release.

"Bring It Down" has found a place in the College Music Journal charts, peaking at No.9 and has sold more than 10,000 copies.

Verta-Ray said he is glad people are listening to their music.

"I am very happy with the fact that a lot of people are hearing our music," Verta-Ray said. "I am happy with the success."

When Madder Rose recorded "Bring It Down," it was a learning experience for the band which never did any work in the studio before.

The next album should be stronger, Verta-Ray said, because Madder Rose will be more unified as a band and it will use its studio experience to use as reference.

"We hadn't been together too much as a band when we recorded," Verta-Ray said. "Maybe next time, we will be more road seasoned."

This is the first time that Madder Rose has gone on tour, he said.

Madder Rose has played with Smack Dab and the Sub-Sonics on this tour and will continue to tour with bands Belly and Firehose.

Verta-Ray said he was excited when he found out that Madder Rose would be playing with the Reverend Horton Heat.

The Reverend Horton Heat and Madder Rose are two different bands: Heat is rootsy, while Madder Rose is rootless.

The contrast in styles should provide for an interesting show.

Prince giving up recording career for new art forms

Newsday

Prince says he's packing it in, at least as a recording artist.

The often-reclusive, prolific singer, songwriter and guitarist is going to dedicate himself to pursuits other than studio albums.

"After 15 albums in 15 years, he (Prince) is turning his creative talents to alternative media — including live theater, interactive media, nightclubs and motion pictures," Prince's spokesman said in a statement released Wednesday.

Prince, who will be 35 in June, is said to have become especially enchanted with futuristic technology. Virtual reality devices and the visual CD-ROM format are among his interests. And it's thought he wants to learn to master those areas without the distraction of maintaining a compulsive recording schedule.

It's hard to tell how serious he is. After all, some years ago Prince announced his retirement from live performances — a "retirement" that lasted until late last year.

The performer will continue to release albums from what was described as a "vast library" of more than 500 recordings already completed.

Determination sparks young guitarist

By Christian Kennerly
Entertainment Writer

While most twelve year-olds spend their afternoons scouring the fourth level on Super Mario Brothers 3, Trouble Pryor struggles to perfect the fingering on Jimi Hendrix's rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Trouble Pryor is an atypical eighth-grader. At the age of ten, Trouble pulled out some of his dad's old tapes and decided there was something special in the sounds he was hearing.

"I had this acoustic guitar and I just sat around for a while," he said. "Then I heard one of my dad's Deep Purple tapes and I thought it would be neat to be able to play that kind of music."

Pryor said after his initial experimentation with the guitar he wanted to focus and learn as much as he could.

"I took lessons for about a year and then I got to the point where I could just teach myself so I've been doing that for the last year and a half," he said. "Going through tapes and playing a lot by ear, too."

Pryor gained valuable experience and practice from the lessons, but said he wanted to move on in a relatively short time.

"My teacher wasn't really keeping up with me," he said. "He was a good teacher and he got me started and pointed me in the direction, and I decided to take it from there."

Several of the most talented and innovative guitarists of recent times have been major influences on Pryor, including Ted Nugent, Joe Satriani, and Jimi Hendrix, he said.

"Eddie Van Halen is another one of my influences because of the way he changed rock and roll with his tapping and harmonics," Pryor said.

Pryor had an opportunity to meet Van Halen by putting his skills to use in a contest sponsored by WCIL. The contest was a sound-alike competition, and Pryor chose to play Eddie Van Halen's energy-packed "Eruption." He played the tape for the station and won.

Performing live is nothing new to Pryor and he has played locally at Gatsby's "Battle of the Bands," and participated in Illinois' "Cornstock," a show Pryor said was a scaled-down version of the legendary 1969 event.

Pryor said developing his talent requires much time and dedication, but is exciting because by listening to many different guitarists his own sound is emerging.

"I try and practice every day for at least 2 hours, and other days when I don't have school about 3 hours or more," he said.

"I want to pick up some things and incorporate them into my own style to build and shape it."

Trouble has strayed into the writing arena as well and his original songs include "Wicked Winds," a song about Hurricane Andrew's devastation in south Florida (where Pryor was born), "Refined Dreams," a short introduction piece utilizing different effects, and a tribute song titled "Those Who Came Before."

"Those Who Came Before" was inspired by the amazing talents of the many artists who helped develop music for the electric guitar, Pryor said.

"It is dedicated to all the guitarists that paved the way for the guitarists of today," he said.

Pryor's repertoire of songs from other artists includes Black Sabbath's "Paranoid" and "Ironman," Metallica's "Sad But True" and "Nothing Else Matters," as well as an arrangement of "The Star Spangled Banner" by Jimi Hendrix.

Cindy Pryor, Trouble's mother, said she is impressed by her son's perseverance and is confident he can take his talent to any level he works hard enough for.

"He is dedicated. He spends a lot of time at it and I think if he can get a few breaks he can really make something of it if he tries," she said. "I think a lot of it is natural talent, but he works at it, too."

Trouble said his plans for his music in the future include playing, learning and improving by developing his style and trying new things.

'The Heidi Chronicles' theater to end season of plays at SIUC

By Andy Graham
Entertainment Writer

A story about a modern woman's coming of age, the award-winning Broadway play, "The Heidi Chronicles" will cap off the McLeod Theater season with its final three performances this weekend.

"The Heidi Chronicles" is a journey through three decades of a woman's life, including the radical '60s and the sensitive '70s. Heidi is played by Tracey Moore, who must metamorphose her character from age to age. However, Moore said the play is written to make it easy to change.

"The way that the play is written, the language and how she speaks, it is easy to change," Moore said.

Many different issues are discussed in the production, including McCarthyism, homosexuality, feminism and the ideals of the baby boom generation. Moore said the play consists of issues that everybody on campus can relate to.

The audience that came to view the production last weekend during its opening performances were small, Moore said, but those who

Great Cardboard Boat Regatta celebrating 20 years

By Andy Graham
Entertainment Writer

Twenty years ago, Richard Archer created a final project for his design class that has become a Carbondale trademark and an international event.

However, the cultural significance of Archer's Great Cardboard Regatta, which turns 20 at noon Saturday at Campus Lake, has not been recognized by the local community.

"I thought that this being the 20th year, that we would have some sort of grand celebration," Archer, a professor in art and design said. "I am just going to go out there and do my race."

Archer has had other problems with this year's regatta. Early in the year, rumors began to circulate around the community that there would be no boat regatta. These rumors made sponsorship difficult.

Another conflict with the boat regatta has been its false association with the Student Programming Council's Dawg Days of Spring Celebration.

The Great Cardboard Boat Regatta has nothing to do with Dawg Days and was independent of Spring Fest. Archer said an association with such an event may scare off older participants.

"They (SPC) have never involved me in any of their planning. I knew nothing about it," he said.

The Great Cardboard Boat Regatta is an alcohol-free event that attracts participants, primarily alumni, from all over the country. The participants must use the same problem solving techniques that Archer teaches in his class to construct a boat from cardboard.

"What I teach is creative problem solving," he said. "They go, they get this assignment and I know that they solve 100, maybe 1,000 original problems to get a boat there. There's no manual, there's no book."

Archer said there are two boats he really is looking forward to seeing: a full sized Lamborghini Countach and a scale model of an old Chris-Craft runabout boat.

Because of the innovation that goes into designing the boats, he said there is much creative significance to the boat regatta.

"The boat races have a lot more educational importance than people realize," he said. "If people can solve problems to make a piece of cardboard into a boat, they can solve most anything."

George Mason University in Washington D.C. is doing a study of the most creative schools in the country and Archer's class is included in its study, because it is known for its lessons in creative problem solving, he said.

The boat regatta has grown far beyond Carbondale. Alumni and spectators helped launch regattas in their hometowns with Archer's help.

"It's a much bigger event outside the university than it is inside the university, Archer said.

Students prepare to launch their cardboard Great Cardboard Boat Regatta. This year's boat creator Campus Lake at a previous regatta will be Saturday at Campus Lake.

Archer travels all over the country running cardboard boat regattas.

He said the regatta has now risen to the international level.

"There are races in Australia, New Zealand and Great Britain," he said. "It all started right here 20 years ago."

It makes Archer feel good that his creation can be enjoyed by so many people in so many different places.

"It really makes me feel good because now they pay me to go around and give my test to different communities," he said.

Despite the fact that Archer's Great Cardboard Boat Regatta is not being recognized by the university for its "20 Years of Creative Problem Solving," which is this year's slogan, Archer will be pleased to see the boats.

"I would have hoped that we would have seen something more but, it's a boat race — it'll be there," he said.

"Just reward for me will be if we get that Chris-Craft Cruiser out there and that Lamborghini Countach," he said.

"That to me will make it all worth while," he added.

Suzanne Grace from Burning Feet Dance Co. in St. Louis, Mo., choreographed a piece, "What Was That?!" The piece takes a satirical look at the ballerina, and uses comic effects to elicit laughter from the audience, Wilson said.

"We had a lot of fun in rehearsal with it," she said. "It's also satisfying that the audience laughs because sometimes we feel really silly (performing it)."

"Blues a la Gauche," a piece by New York choreographer Ann Rodiger, was reconstructed from Labanotation, a method of recording movement on paper.

While similar to music notation, Labanotation uses lines and spaces to represent the dancers' body parts, with shapes that indicate directions of movement. The system is complicated but movement accurately can be recorded, she said. Many student pieces will be featured, including "Restoration," choreographed by Vicki Stout and René Targos. It deals with women's reaction to sexual abuse, Targos said.

"You find yourself splitting because of (the abuse)," she said. "Then you look to society to give you a definition of who you are."

Stout and Targos accomplished the "splitting" by having two dancers represent one person torn with emotional trauma. Other dancers represent destructive forces that limit individual growth.

Targos said working with the company on "Dance Expresso" has shattered her preconceived notions of dancers' attitudes.

"It's been fun working with other women," she said. "It's pretty laid-back. Donna (Wilson's) cool — she encourages your creativity."

"Welcome to Wherever You Are" is a group piece with nine dancers, choreographed by Jessica Martin and Colleen Knecht. Martin said she wrote the piece because of the large influx of new members to SIRD.T.

"We got a lot of new members this semester and we didn't have enough pieces," she said. "It's a fun upbeat jazz piece that expresses individuality."

SIRD.T will host the Black Fire Dancers. The registered student organization, composed of African Americans, will perform a mix of street, funk and jazz dance.

This performance of "Dance Expresso" is dedicated to the memory of Lai Hung Tam, a member of SIRD.T who died in the Pyramid fire last fall. Tam had been a member of SIRD.T for three years and was preparing to graduate and move back to her native Hong Kong.

"Dance Expresso" will be performed at 8 p.m. Saturday at Shryock Auditorium. Tickets are $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Zeta Phi Beta, the Student Life Adviser program and Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Hussein H. Elsaid and Kathryn French won RSO Adviser of the Year.

French was honored heading the Golden Key National Honors Society and building the society into a major organization.

French said she could not do so well if she did not have students who worked hard.

"The students who came in inherited debt and challenge," she said. "They are the best, and it made it very easy to be an adviser."

About 24 people attended the RSO Adviser and Volunteer of the Year Awards Ceremony, which was an informal affair in the Gallery Lounge in the Student Center.

James Prowell, executive director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, said the spirit of volunteerism always has been alive and well at SIUC.

Want to go home to work or play, but...

You want to take an SIUC course this summer?

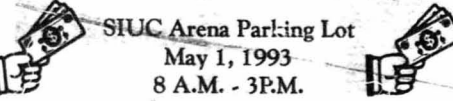

Individualized Learning Program courses carry SIUC residential credit applicable toward a degree. ILP courses have no enrollment limits, and students can register throughout the semester. Students use a stu- guide developed by an SIUC instructor as the course framework and study at a time and place of their choosing. To register in an ILP course, on-campus students need to bring a registration form signed by their advisor to our office at Washington Square "C." Off-campus students should contact the ILP office directly. We must receive payment of $65 per credit hour when you register (Mastercard, Visa, and Discover now accepted). Call the Individualized Learning Program office at 536-7751 for further information.

Clinton plans to liberate Iraq of Hussein rule

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON—Against the background of a thwarted Iraqi assassination attempt against former President Bush, the Clinton administration is readying a new political and diplomatic offensive to support a broad-based Iraqi opposition group in its efforts to overthrow Saddam Hussein.

President Clinton pledged American support for the Iraqi National Congress this week, officially giving up on Bush's hope that leaders of the Iraqi army and the Baath party would eventually topple Hussein to end Western economic sanctions.

The new administration policy emerged as reports reached Washington of an Iraqi attempt to kill Bush last weekend during his triumphant visit to Kuwait. According to Kuwaiti reports, confirmed by U.S. officials and Iraqi opposition leaders, Kuwaiti security forces arrested an Iraqi who had intended to detonate a car bomb near Bush during a celebration of the allied victory in the Persian Gulf war.

Kuwaiti officials said the suspect has confessed to plotting the attack, which was to have been carried out in an auto with Kuwaiti license plates that was stolen and taken to Iraq. The would-be assassin was caught before he could get anywhere near the former president.

Although the attempt was widely reported in the Kuwaiti press, it has received little attention within the United States.

Honored SIUC broadcaster dies at 52

By Tina Davis
General Assignment Writer

John P. McNally always knew the importance of making sure SIUC had access to communication technology of the future, a broadcasting colleague said.

Mr. McNally, director of technology, planning and applications at SIUC's Broadcasting Service, died of cancer April 20 at his home in Carbondale.

Bob Gerig, WSU-TV station manager, said Mr. McNally was a fascinating person and a technical whiz. "There was a quality in him that could set aside today's technical problems and dream of ways to keep us alive on the big picture," he said.

Obituary

Mr. McNally became a part of the SIUC staff in 1989. He immediately joined the Broadcasting Service and was later named Broadcaster of the Year by the service in 1992.

His responsibilities included overseeing all technical activities for WSU-TV and radio, WUSI-TV and radio, the service's satellite uplink and domestic operations, and multiple network systems.

Lee O'Brien, executive director of broadcasting, said Mr. McNally will be missed.

"He learned a year ago he had cancer, and he never missed a day of work that didn't have to do directly with his problem," O'Brien said. "He was so dedicated that he would come to work on the days that he had radiation therapy and still be able to give his all."

Before his career at SIUC, Mr. McNally worked throughout the Midwest with various radio and television stations, including WCFT-TV in Cincinnati. Born Feb. 5, 1940, Mr. McNally is survived by his wife Charlene Moon; three sons, David, Patrick, Joseph; and a brother, Michael.

Memorials can be made to the SIUC Broadcasting Service, 1048 Communications, or Electronics Technology, College of Technical Careers, SIUC, Carbondale, IL, 62901.

Hunter suspended for 'excessive' check

Zapnews

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman has indefinitely suspended Washington Capitals center Dale Hunter for "unsportsmanlike and excessive conduct" against Pierre Turgeon of the New York Islanders during Wednesday's playoff game.

Bettman said the league "wants to send a clear message that the National Hockey League will not tolerate such actions."

Hunter was in New York Thursday for a disciplinary hearing regarding his blindsided hit of Turgeon in the final period of the Islanders' 5-3 series clinching victory. Turgeon had just stolen a pass from Hunter and scored to put New York up 5-1 with about 8:30 left in the game. As Turgeon celebrated with his arms raised, Hunter slammed him from behind, knocking him into the boards. Turgeon sustained a separated shoulder and concussion and will sit out the upcoming Patrick Division finals against Pittsburgh.

Hunter said afterward he had not realized a goal had been scored, and had made a clean check on Turgeon. The referee did not agree, giving Hunter a five-minute boarding major and a game misconduct.

Bettman described the incident as "unwarranted, unsportsmanlike and excessive conduct." He said it will not be accepted and will be promptly dealt with.

Since the Capitals have been eliminated from the playoffs, Hunter's suspension will go into effect in the 1993-94 regular season. Bettman said the length of Hunter's suspension will be determined after further proceedings during next week.

Bettman said Washington will get a chance to express its view on the duration of the suspension, and the league will also review the medical records of Turgeon before making a decision on the length of the suspension.
