The bookstore along with the library has also instituted a policy to have reserve copies of recommended reading books purchased and placed in the library for class use. This policy is designed to allow a student option on the purchase of any recommended reading material available through the bookstore.

Three students will begin their spring break with a 260-mile walk to Chicago in an effort to raise money for the United Services Organization (USO). The hike by Bill Holden, physical education major from Elgin; Jerry Sigmund, physical education major from Chicago; and Jack Morris, a radio-television major from Hurst, is a gesture to show American soldiers in Vietnam that they support them.

The three reported they will carry buckets to collect the money and ring bells as they pass through towns. They plan to leave at approximately 6:45 a.m. March 15 and hope to reach Chicago March 24 or 25 at which time they will submit their collection to the USO at the WLS radio station.

Their route is planned to be north on U.S. 51 to Centralia, east to Salem and then northeast on Illinois 37 and U.S. 45 into Chicago.

Morris reported they plan to average about 30 miles a day when walking 14 hours. Holden reported the group has received a $10 contribution from a man in Bloomington but that they have received no responses as of yet from area people.

"We expect some contributions and hope we get some," Holden said. "It would look kind of funny coming out of Carbondale without any," he added.

Each of the three has saved up about $25. But they reported they will have to sleep in barns or jails unless they get some invitations for overnight accommodations.

Approximately a week before the trio begins the walk they plan to spend a day or so in downtown areas of surrounding towns such as Murphysboro, Marion, Herrin and Harrisburg, as well as in Carbondale seeking contributions to the USO fund.

The three are having two scrolls printed which they hope to have signed by SIC President Deloye W. Morris. According to Holden they plan to present one to radio station WLS and one to Chicago Mayor Richard Daly, honorary chairman of the USO.

The scrolls will support the men in Vietnam, Concerning the arrival date Holden said, "I'm sure weather will be a factor. If it's cool it won't be too bad, but if it's snowing we'll just have to make the most of it," he said.

"And the guys I'm going with have a lot of guts," he added.

Any person or groups who would like to contribute may reach the three walkers at Sigma Kappa and Sigma Kappa Tau, or call the USO at 320-7166.

The arrival date is March 25, with the time of arrival undetermined.

Several senators spoke of the need to submit a request for changes in women's hours through administration channels.

Lenzi said Morris told the Senate during a retreat Sunday at Little Grassy Lake that he wanted some form of a change to "go through channels," including the Faculty Council, Graduate Council, University Council, dean of students, vice presidents and Morris.

However, Lenzi advocated passage of the bill immediately. When several senators reminded him that Morris has requested that all proposals be

The Student Senate sent a bill on women's hours to a special committee Wednesday night, with the provision that another draft of the measure be presented next week. The bill would have sought "self-determined" hours for most women.

The first draft considered Wednesday had the Senate giving Student Body President Ray Lenzi and the special committee on hours "necessary and proper" powers to carry out the bill.

University statutes provide that the Senate's role is one of advising the administration on matters of student welfare, establishing a structure in which only the administration could change women's hours regulations.

There has been discussion—referred to Wednesday—centered around students ignoring administration rules or holding a "sleep-out" in defiance of the rules.

City Employee Accord Seen

By George M. Killenberg

The City Council's decision to appoint a special board to rework its controversial personnel ordinance will delay its passage for at least 30 days, but some city officials think it probably will help improve strained relations between the administration and city employees.

The discord that reportedly exists between the city workers and the administration was underscored by Councilman Frank Kirk during discussion of the personnel ordinance at a Tuesday night's Council meeting.

There is much hostility, fear and suspicion" at city hall, Kirk said, adding that "it's not a healthy situation." Mayor David Keene supported Kirk's observations. It is, the mayor said, that some city employees are still nursing hurt feelings that were incurred during last year's hostile contended city election when the government abruptly changed hands.

Tuesday night's action by the Council establishing an independent board to review personnel ordinance at a Tuesday night's Council meeting.

The money is to cover repair to a telephone booth and equipment, according to State's Attorney Richard Richman.

Defending the Right to Speak

To The Daily Egyptian:

On the evening of February 26 I attended the first 30 minutes of the speech given here in the University Center Ballroom by Matt Koehl, leader of the American Nazi Party.

I had gone to hear Mr. Koehl because I was curious as to how, a well-styled "Nazi," would address a sophisticated college audience. I left early out of a sickness of the heart and this sickness was not due to what Mr. Koehl had to say.

I personally regard National Socialism as an abomination against all that is good in mankind, and I am horrified at the atrocities which those who ascribed to this political ideology have committed against the human race.

But when Matt Koehl, an "American Nazi," was contemptuously heckled and interrupted that night during the course of his speech, I found myself almost sympathizing with him as a speaker, and I was disgusted at the conduct of a large segment of the audience.

If I had previously had any confidence in the show of courtesy toward a speaker, no matter how controversial he may be, this confidence was cruelly assailed that night.

The hecklers at the speech seemed to be largely members of that group of Americans who are the most vocal today in insisting on the enforcement of their rights as citizens. And yet, they felt free to turn around and deny an essential right, the freedom of speech, to a speaker they didn’t happen to agree with, one Matt Koehl, a "Nazi." This attitude displayed by these people seems a bit hypocritical to me.

The matter of civil rights, including the right of freedom of speech, is a two-way street, and the "Golden Rule" applies here as anywhere else in the area of civilized social conduct. If I may paraphrase Voltaire, I would say with him that I may emphatically disagree with what a given speaker may say, but I would defend to the death his right to say it in this country, whether he be Matt Koehl or Dick Gregory, whether he be H. "Ras" Brown or George Wallace.

Fellow students, let us be courteous toward one another and toward all visitors to our campus, because courtesy may be about all we will have left to us before this century ends.

Roald T. Smith

Nazi Stopped Too Soon

To The Daily Egyptian:

The American Nazi Party leader, Matt Koehl, solely because of a poor decision of the Security Chief of SIU, was able to be a terror campuses, even beyond his own expectations.

On Monday night, after absorbing the heckling, the Nazi leader regained his confidence and showed us with "out of context" statistics of "Jewish Power" in the economic levels of the U.S. Many Questions were formed in our minds that could have completely rebuked Matt Koehl’s "nasty generalizations."

The whole room pulsed with an emotion of a chance to defend ourselves and the free democratic system of ours, in a clear and logical manner under our right of freedom of speech.

But we were never able to exercise this right. Because of a minor scuffle outside of the auditorium, an SIU official under orders of the Security Chief cancelled the rest of the Nazi leader’s speech and the most important question and answer period that was to follow.

We were stabbed in the back—ideas were merely ignored and afloat unquestioned and supreme as they left the Nazi’s mouth.

Matt Koehl, the American Nazi leader, turned his back to us and walked away with his accomplishment on his lips. His pride in his Americanism is his prejudice; it is his theory and it was furthered by the students’ display of obvious ignorance.

Defence of Speech is allegedly one of America’s basic rights, but the freedom to be heard evidently is not guaranteed by our constitution.

Rusk’s Answer

Why would Sen. J. William Fulbright choose a time when Americans are beseeched as Khe-San to demand public disclosure of whether tactical nuclear weapons “have been or would be deployed in South Vietnam”?

If Secretary of State Dean Rusk had answered affirmatively, the United States would have been excoriated globally as a prejudged warmonger which it had intended to use in extremity against North Vietnam.

And if Rusk had answered negatively, he would have handed North Vietnam and China an enlightening piece of evidence on which they could proceed more aggressively and with greater confidence to bring new military pressure on the United States.

Whether Sen. Fulbright was asking his question out of innocent curiosity, or out of deliberate intent to harass, malign or plant doubts about the President and his policies, his gambit had the larger effect of being what Secretary Rusk termed it—a disservice to the country.

Letters Welcome

It is the policy of the Daily Egyptian to encourage free discussion of current problems and issues. Members of the University Community are invited to participate with members of the news staff in contributing items for this page with the understanding that acceptance for publication will depend upon the limitations of space and the apparent timeliness and relevance of the material. Letters must be signed, preferably typed, and should be no longer than 250 words. Contributors should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and the rights of others and are urged to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Contributors also should include address and phone number with a letter so that the identity of the author can be verified.

To The Daily Egyptian:

We are appalled! We are two SIU seniors who have recently attended the partial lecture given by the American Nazi Party leader, Matt Koehl, Monday evening at the University Center. We sat through the ridiculous display of prejudicial ignorance emanating throughout the ballroom, which harped Koehl’s lecture and culminated in its termination.

We feel greatly cheated in that, although Koehl’s views did not agree with the majority of the students present, he was not allowed to finish.

As American Jews, we had as much right, if not more, than any others in voicing our protest of his exasperating remarks about the Jewish people. But, our desire in remaining stemmed mainly from our lack of knowledge concerning American Nazism.

From world history it is evident that prejudice and closely related fanaticism are major premises of the Nazi doctrine. Who is to say that Koehl did not actually gain more support by the radical demonstration? “American can prejudice” is his theory and it was furthered by the students’ display of obvious ignorance.

Student Activities

Open to All

To the Daily Egyptian:

The belief that student orientation programs and student activities participation is limited to Greeks is not true.

The Student Activities Office in the University Center offers to interested students applications to participate in any of a number of student activities like Spring Festival, student orientation, student government, and others.

Your active participation in organizing and carrying out these various activities would be greatly appreciated and mutually rewarding.

Underground Adds to Flower Power

New Voice Found

Underground Activities Committee to begin a preliminary investigation of the newspapers.

By Jerry Buck

Press Syndicate

The newspapers, in fact, are linked—they have their own syndicate to exchange news—the Underground Press Syndicate. But Rudnick, coordinator of the Syndicate, said the 80 papers have a combined monthly circulation of one million. He figures readership is five times that much.

The true circulation of the underground press in hard to come by. Some of the newspapers are published weekly, others biweekly, and are therefore counted more than once in Rudnick's monthly figure.

The Los Angeles Free Press claims a circulation of 61,000, and the Berkeley Barley 42,000. The papers' financial condition varies. Some pay a full-time staff. Others have to depend on strays anxious for an audience for their views, or regular part-timers who are poorly paid or work free. Most papers cost 15 or 20 cents a copy.

Opinion mixes with fact in underground press and often overwhelms it. Allard Kuttman, editor of Eco, connects antiwar newspapers. He tells stories from time to time and the Underground Press is no exception. "We don't necessarily tell the truth. We tell the other side of the story," he said.

He is a favorite target for wit and wrath is President Johnson. In one Eco issue showed him in a pink uniform doing a seig heil salute. The essayist armband had been replaced with a dollar sign. "Most of the papers are fact papers based on a single issue. They are liable to change when the issue or fact disappears," said Art Kunkin, editor of the Los Angeles Free Press, an early copy of which is in the field. Kunkin says he is trying to broaden the base of his newspaper beyond the underground.

Another influential paper is the "Bright Side of Life," which is put out in his old manion in Berkeley, Calif., by Mma Scherr, 31, a bearded lawyer. "We try to provide as much news as possible on the radical left of the freedom question, including individual freedom," Scherr said. "We are not looking for anything to accommodate the position of individual freedom, but for ways for people to start being free now, so they won't feel completely isolated in what they're doing. In order to do this they have to know about issues, movements, tendencies and trends."

Suppression Attempts

Despite the prominence of four-letter words and classified advertisements that read like an open invitation to orgy, the newspapers have not yet been suppressed.

"This exception is in Boston, where Massachusetts Gov. John A. Volpe has asked the attorney general to consider suppressing newspapers against the 'Avatar.' Volpe said the papers are not 'fit to print to anyone, especially the youth of the commonwealth.'"

Suppression was even stronger. He said, "The Communists are right when they say of this thing, This is part of their plan to divide and conquer this country." He succeeded last year in getting "Noes From the Underground" ejected from the campus of Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

The newspapers are edited by people who have been jailed for their newspaper. "Somebody told me the second assault will come tonight—I got an assurance," he said. "They will come out and say they will never take me alive." They have been assaulted before. In another town he was a former accountant, who turned to poetry. He has lost most of his red hair, but he wears a beard. Leggieri, 25, a law school dropout, also has a beard. He wears a green wool cap. Each takes home about $50 a week.

Katzman and Walter Bewart, an artist, who is publisher, founded the paper. "The difference is that they have newspapers. The only difference is people who are doing a mass solution to the problem of individual freedom, but for ways for people to start being free now, so they won't feel completely isolated in what they're doing."

This is the only paper in New York where you can walk in off the street and rap with the editor," said Leggieri. "It's personal journalism," Katzman added.

The classified advertising is startling. "Some advertisements are overtly homosexual, but few leave to the imagination what is being offered," Leggieri said.

And this classified ad turned up in the Los Angeles Free Press: "LOST: Four H-bombs in the vicinity of Greenland. If found call 456-1414." The number is that of the White House.

Saloon Will Never Be the Same

By Wyatt Daniels

The market is open. PX alley, where any item from the U.S. ope can be had for a price, is once again a beehive of activity. The bars and nightclubs are oening up despite the curfew. Some say that Saigon will never be the same.

While Saigonese and Americans alike will catch themselves futurizing over their shoulders when a truck or billboard on their doorstep explodes.

For the American there will be an instant feeling of being in the midst of every Vietnamese he does not know and for many Americans there will be a smoldering resentment toward the forger whose house, in the big city, has been destroyed his home and killed his loved ones.

Who won the battle of Saigon? No one really, since the Viet Cong did not win the battle, but the city itself is

The number of Vietnamese, there are two problems too. The former, cut off from their commissary and PX found their stocks running out while those who lived in hotels were reduced a representative diet of rice and won ton soup. The latter fared somewhat better on the Vietnamese diet but not much.

The numerous American messes and snack bars operating in American military bases found themselves with Vietnamese cooks, waiters and dishwashers. Army and Air Force officers became the status slack sitters, their jobs filled by the female secretaries and clerks assigned to the U.S. Embassy in Saigon. The U.S. Army for International Development found themselves doing household and kitchen duties long forgotten.

For those without a job, the endless problem of getting by became almost intolerable. They gathered in support groups, long hours and corridors of the Caravelle, Embassy, Aster, Eden Roc, Park, Excelsior and others trying to become large and small.

With an almost complete dearth of information as to what was going on, rumors supplemented fact. "We have taken San Diego to an International Airport!" "No, we can't leave, but the first 48 hours, the 3rd Field Hospital!" Neither occurred.

"Who heard?" "Hue has fallen, so has Can Tho, Dalat and Nha Trang!" "What are we supposed to do, to hear 32 Americans are killed or missing in Hue and at least another 2000?" "They simply aren't, we just don't know enter the 3rd Field Hospital."

Fortunately, cooler heads prevailed and when the initial shock wore off, American resilience and love for home became the veil the Armed Forces Radio began to broadcast familiar tunes.

Volunteer drivers took convoys under armed escort on limousine routes, into the jungle for the necessities of life. Block was a comrade in arms and head count undertaken.

The U.S. Embassy and USAID began to host the most popular of American families. The number of American civilians killed, wounded, missing or captured is surprisingly low but the invisible scars are there. Many an office, house and apartment will never see its Vietnamese clerks, typists, cooks, maids and housekeepers again. They lie dead in the ruins of Cholon.

Saigon will recover. But it will never be the same.

France Says Bomb Halt Will Definitely Lead to Talks

PARIS (AP) - France has information "explicitly" showing that an unconditional halt in the war is the position of North Vietnam, a government official said Wednesday.

The official, Jean Lenzi, a French Senate aide, said the information came from the North Vietnamese. France maintains diplomatic relations with Hanoi and North Vietnam has a delegate general in Paris.

There was no comment in Washington. Senior State Department officials there said Secretary of State Dean Rusk had been informed of the statement before attending a Vietnamese situation meeting at the White House with President Johnson and Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The French government statement again stressed President Charles de Gaulle's position that unless talks begin shortly the war will spread through Southeast Asia and involve other nations.

De Gaulle has repeatedly criticized the U.S. bombing in Vietnam, and has said the only real withdrawal of American troops is the only real solution to the war. The French have taken no other ways that those we propose," he said in a New Year's address to the nation.

Wednesday's statement was read by minutes by Inform¬ ation Minister Georges Grenier and de Gaulle's weekly Cabinet meeting.

It said:

"The declaration of Mr. de Gaulle, according to which the unconditional cessation of American bombardments of North Vietnam would be a necessary and sufficient condition for the opening of peace negotiations corresponds to information explicitly received by the French government.

"The Cabinet considers, as does the French government and the government of the United Nations, unless such declarations are extended, the war of destruction now being conducted by South Vietnam and South Korea will continue to spread and take on a character which threatens to continue every day to endanger the peace of the world.

"The Cabinet returned from talks with North Vietnamese representatives in Paris and New Delhi on Saturday that it would be reasonable assumed that an unconditional halt in the bombing would be followed by meaningful talks...

"But Thant has reported conveyed this information to the United Nations in the week in a meeting in the White House.

"The administration's position on the right wing of Johnson's speech at a San Antonio last year, is that the bombing could continue for 'some time before enough assurance that the North Vietnamese would not make any move to move men and equipment toward the South."

A French Embassy spokes¬

woman said Tuesday that any increase in the bombing would not be considered a breach of the seven-years-in-Vietnam agreement. It was not known if the bombing was approved by the United Nations, which would make it a breach of the agreement.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan governor George Romney, whose candidacy never caught fire, pulled out of the Republican presidential race Wednesday and endorsed his former chief aide, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Humphrey, who had been the second-choice candidate of the New York senators who had earlier endorsed Sen. John Birchard of South Dakota, was widely expected to run in the race for the presidential nomination.

Romney's decision came after a meeting with his campaign managers, who had been trying to keep the campaign alive despite poor poll numbers.

Humphrey, who had been the leading candidate for the nomination, was expected to face a tough battle with Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, who had been the frontrunner for the nomination.

The Michigan governor's decision to end his campaign was a blow to the Republican Party, which had been counting on Romney to carry the northern states and win the critical Michigan primary.

Romney's departure from the race leaves Humphrey as the likely nominee, although a number of other candidates, including Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, are expected to continue their campaigns.

The campaign trail is expected to shift to the South, where the Republican Party has traditionally been strong.
Lights, Camera, Action—Roger Leisner explains to his camper, Peter Robertson, and actress, Candace Dean, their roles in the shooting of a short subject film about candlemaking. This is one of the short films and commercials in the cinematography 34b class in the Department of Photography and Printing.

Films Produced in Class

By John Durbin

The Department of Photography and Printing offers a course, Cinematography 341b, which gives the student a taste of what Hollywood directors and producers go through in filming commercials and short subject films.

The course, taught by John Mercer, chairman of the department, requires the student to select an area for a three or four minute film, write a script for it, shoot it and then edit the film after it has been processed.

Mercer said that this course is the second part of a three quarter cinematography series. The first course is designed to teach the student the techniques involved in achieving continuity in taking pictures and the ability to edit films.

"Each of the 46 students in this quarter's class was required to write a script," Mercer explained. "After reading the scripts I selected those which I felt were suitable for filming."

"The students were broken up into pairs consisting of one student whose script was selected and one student whose script was not," Mercer said. The former then serves as the director while the latter does the filming.

The actual filming of the script is done in the form of a lab session at various times throughout the day. The students use the film production studios located on the third floor of the University Center building.

Mercer explained that a commentary is recorded on magnetic tape in order to coincide with the film. These magnetic tape is played back over a tape recorded in conjunction with the film.

"The students this quarter have finished shooting 20 short films and nine television commercials," he said. The short "How To Do It" films consisted of such subjects as candlemaking, smoke screen printing, and the use of a view camera.

The television commercials dealt with such products as breakfast food and ball point pens. Each of these commercials ran for approximately one minute.

After the speech, Markow answered questions from the audience. Among the questions came one asking him to give the Soviet view of the difference between Socialism and Communism.

The speaker answered, "We consider Communism to have two stages. The first stage is Socialism and the second is Communism. We have accomplished the first one and are approaching the second."

Under "full Communism," as he called it, "the state will be able to provide a Communist citizen with whatever he wants."

Full Communism Approaching

In Russia, Ambassador Says

The industrial output of the Soviet Union is expected to double in the next eight years. Eventually communism in the U.S.S.R. will be developed to such a point that "the state will be able to furnish the individual with anything he desires," P. Markov, a key official at the Soviet Embassy, said in a speech at SIU.

Markov, second secretary and chief economist in the Soviet Embassy at Washington, D.C., spoke on the economic achievements of the U.S.S.R. since the 1917 revolution. His talk, sponsored cooperatively by the Department of Economics, the Economic Club and the University Lecture and Entertainment Committee, consisted primarily of statistics which painted a rosier picture of Soviet development during the past 50 years. There were few unfavorable figures used, but those which were used were explained as the "difficulties of an advanced and highly developed country."

After the speech, Markow answered questions from the audience. Among the questions came one asking him to give the Soviet view of the difference between Socialism and Communism.

The speaker answered, "We consider Communism to have two stages. The first stage is Socialism and the second is Communism. We have accomplished the first one and are approaching the second."

Uniform a Symbol

Recruiters Concerned

By Campus Opposition

The combined Navy sponsored "Scuttle to SIU" and aviator recruiting campaign today and tomorrow is one of the most thorough armed forces promotions ever undertaken on this campus. This is because the Navy is both publicly and privately concerned over the wide spread vocal student alienation.

Lt. Cmdr. Marvin W. Swan, who heads the team interviewing interested students, said, "Last year your long-haired friends (student demonstrators) helped the film few days by calling attention to our presence. But by the third day, the halls were so jammed people couldn't get in to see us.'"

Capt. W. T. Peterson, commanding officer of the Ninth Naval Recruiting District, sees the demonstrations "against service recruiting as the students' need for symbolic scapegoats."

Capt. Peterson said, "Take Dow Chemical. They're picketing because they think it's bad. But what about IBM and General Electric, who also make war materials? What about the makers of bombers and machine guns? Unfortunately, the uniform has become the same kind of symbol."

Capt. Peterson expects a steady increase in navy officer applications in the aftermath of the new graduate deferment ruling. "Our normal processing time is three months," he said, "but we're working to cut that time down."

At a press luncheon, Lt. Cmdr. Sam B. Lancaster, public relations officer for the Naval Air Reserve Training Unit at Memphis, Tenn., explained the Navy's concern over student demonstrations. "We're worried about this new domestic enemy. We don't want to see ourselves displaced on campuses in order to avoid demonstrations and notoriety. We will not be debating. We are here to talk to interested students."

"We need new graduates to fly our planes," he concluded, "and we want to talk to them before they leave the campus."

Therefore, the Navy has put together an impressive promotion conducted by Lt. Cmdr. Swan, Chief William C. Brasch and Chief Don Coveredness of the Marion recruiting office.

Swain and Brasch will conduct tests for prospective naval officers. In addition, three T-34 Mentor training aircraft are available at Southern Illinois University for students to watch their first Navy plane ride after passing the aviation officer examination.

The Mentors will also perform daily fly-overs in the Carbondale area.

VTI to Host Open House
Open House will be held at the SIU Vocational Technical Institute on Friday, April 26, and Sunday, April 28.
It will be the seventh annual event designed to allow prospective students, parents, the business and industrial community and the general public to see the two-year technical school in operation, according to Chief Academic Advisor Harry Soderstrom. Opened in 1952 as the first school of its kind in the state, VTI has pioneered and developing two-year associate degree programs in many fields, said Soderstrom, who is in charge of the open house.
The 29 one- and two-year courses and options with a current enrollment of 1,500 students include corrections and law enforcement.

The growth of baseball at SIU is merely an outgrowth of a nationwide trend that has seen the diamond sport become the fastest growing collegiate sport in the nation. In 1942 there were 242 colleges playing baseball. Today, there are more than 2,200 schools alone in action each spring—nearly 50,000 collegiate players on the baseball diamond single season from coast to coast.

Coach Joe Lutz caught the bug of the recent trend and, through his energetic and ingenious methods, has single-handedly taken great strides in promoting baseball at Southern.

Batgirls, instead of batboys, star divers as the game ball at the season opener and numerous other ideas by the veteran coach have established an upsurge in baseball's popularity on the SIU campus.

This year Lutz has already announced plans to continue the use of a musical combo at all the Saluki home games and he also instituted a badminton day in which miniature bats will be given to each fan for those who attend a scheduled home game this season.

The increase of the diamond sport's popularity on the SIU campus, as well as elsewhere in the nation, was further revealed in a survey taken by the National Collegiate Athletic Association in which it was disclosed that collegiate, including junior colleges, the sport has a monetary value of over $200 million.

With an exciting ball club that has sent off the finest pacing staffs in the nation, speed on the bases and a tight defense, Lutz will have a team with which to stir fans interest this year.

The Salukis will open their home slate with a doubleheader against Monmouth College, April 2.

For more than $5,556,000 was expended on baseball operations and $2,865,000 on coaching salaries at NCAA member schools. NCAA financial aid to student-athletes in the amount of $1,963,700 in a single year.

The real estate value of playing fields and practice areas across the country is set at more than $100,000,000.

Saluki Wrestlers

Face Indiana State
In Last Dual Meet

The Saluki wrestling squad will complete its dual meet season this weekend against Terre Haute, Ind., against 12th-ranked Indiana State University.

The host Sycamores will carry a 14-1-1 record and the Indiana Collegiate Conference championship into the meet against a 5-5-2 record for the Salukis.

"Indiana State is the strongest team we'll meet this year," said Coach Jim Wilkinson, "and the out-of-the-ordinary dual meet will determine whether or not SIU finishes with a better than .500 record.

Three outstanding performances by the Saluki State are Ted Parker in the 137 pound weight-class, Dave Hauk at 132, and Mike Kelly at heavyweight.

Both Parker and Kelly recently won their third consecutive individual weight championships in the Indiana Collegiate Conference and Parker was a finalist in the NCAA competition last year.

Knicks Provide New Excitement

NEW YORK (AP) - Yes, these are not the New York Knicks who were lostockers at the starting line.

Going into this National Basketball Association season, the Knicks had finished fourth in the Eastern Division eight straight years, and that meant the cellar until last season when a fifth team was added.

But the current New York team has good shots on the ring, which would be the highest Knicks finish since 1958-59, and has a good chance to finish above the .500 mark for the first time since that season.

These Knicks have won 21 of their last 32 games.

These Knicks play defense, battle, and more, and often more than they lose.

"Success," says Red Holzman, who took over as coach 32 games ago. "They've been playing their game all together. No secrets, just work.

And the club has been working at both ends of the court, even when things aren't going well.

Take Tuesday night's 108-102 loss to St. Louis. The Knicks trailed 17 points at halftime but came back to tie it 97-97 before losing.

"We were aware it took them a half to get 17 ahead and we knew we still had half," center Walt Bellamy said after the game.

"Every time we're playing together, and the defense has improved," says Bellamy.

"Generally, we just help more on defense," says All-Star forward Willis Reed. "We let the other man out of his range. Everybody's helping out on the court."

The Knicks' brazen also had some helping off the court, and it now paying dividends.

Southern scored eight straight points to go back on top but Wesleyan came back and with 2:43 to go in the game Tinsley hit on two charity tosses to pull the Panthers within four, 56-52.

Benson was called for traveling on the in-bound pass and Tinsley countered again to cut the lead to two points.

The Panthers went into a tedious zone press in an effort to get the ball back and it proved effective as a Saluki pass went astray and Wesleyan had the ball.

O'Neill scored on his second rebounding effort and the game was tied, 50-50, with 1.69 to go.

Hartman's forces got the ball into the four corner and slowed the pace of the game trying to get the percentage shot. The Panthers reserve Steve Deskins fouled Craig Taylor and in the waning seconds to the line with a 1-1 situation and a chance to put the Salukis back on top with 39 to play. But Taylor missed.

Southern went into a 2-1-2 defense in an effort to close the lane and force Kentucky Wesleyan into the outside shot.

With 0:2 remaining, Hobgood connected on a two-pointer and iced the victory. The Salukis pulled out their early lead and led at the intermission, 31-23.

Tinsley finished the game with 21 points to take scoring honors. Dick O'Neill had 11 and Dallas Thornton 10 to account for all three Panthers who hit for double figures.

Benson had 16 to lead Saluki scorers followed by Garrett with 14, Keene with 11, Willie Griffin, seven and Craig Taylor with five.

For the game, the Salukis out-rebounded Southern, 39-36, but the Salukis led in the shoot-around department, 42-41, with 0:14 to play.

The victory boosted KWC's winning streak to 15 games; the longest in the school's history.

The loss dropped Southern's record to 12-11 for the season. The team closes out the season against Centre College in an 8 p.m. encounter Friday in the Arena.
