Heavy Turnout Asked For Athletics Voting

Three members of the SIU Board of Trustees and the student body president have urged students to turn out Thursday in large numbers to vote in the referendum on athletics.

All agreed that a large turnout would give the Board a further indication of student feeling on the controversial question of whether to escalate the SIU intercollegiate athletics program.

Kenneth L. Davis, Board chairman from Harrisburg, said a large turnout would "relieve pressure on the Board" and aid Board members in making a decision.

Dr. Martin Van Brown of Carbondale and Lindell C. Sturgis of Metropolis also urged students to vote.

"The Board would like to know the feelings of the students," Sturgis said. He emphasized that if the student body takes a position on whether it would be willing to pay additional activity fees, the Board would be aided in that specific matter of the whole question.

Ray Lenzi, student body president, encouraged all students to cast ballots. "Student opinion could be the critical factor" in making the decision on athletics, Lenzi said.

Students will be asked whether they favor expansion of athletics, no expansion, or a decrease in emphasis on athletics.

They will also declare what amount of increase in activity fees they would be willing to bear to support the athletics program: none, $3.50, or more than $3.50.

Five Student Senate positions will also be filled. Polling places will be announced in Thursday's Egyptian.

U.S. Recaptures Saigon Embassy

SAIGON (AP)— A Viet Cong suicide squad seized and held parts of the U.S. Embassy for six hours Wednesday before being wiped out by American troops counterattacking on the ground and from helicopters landing on the roof of the building.

All the Viet Cong Commandos were killed in the embassy battle, climaxing a series of guerrilla assaults and shelling in Saigon that brought limited warfare deep into the South Vietnamese capital.

First reports told of 17 Communist bodies counted on the embassy grounds.

At least four U.S. military policemen and several Marines also were reported killed.

Simultaneously with the strikes against Saigon, the Reds for the second straight day exploded guerrilla assaults on cities up and down the country in an unprecedented offensive against urban centers.

Aside from a propaganda show, the Red attacks appeared aimed at diverting allied strength from the northern provinces where a major battle seemed imminent.

Among key buildings attacked in Saigon were Independence Palace, where President Nguyen Van Thieu has offices.

Also shelled or attacked with small-arms fire were the building of the Vietnamese joint chiefs of staff, Vietnamese navy headquarters, three U.S. officers' billers, the Philippine Embassy and the vicinity of Tan Son Nhut Air base.

The embassy and its grounds were declared secured at 9:05 a.m.

Fighting that had ripped through the area near the heart of the city for hours died out, but other pockets of Viet Cong were holding out in other areas.

Pictures Sought By News Service

The University News Services has arranged for students with 5.0 grade averages during the fall quarter to have photographs made for hometown newspaper distribution. They will be taken on the second floor of University Center.

A representative for News Services will be on hand from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily though Tuesday to take pictures and to obtain information pertinent to a story.

Letters have been mailed to students who made an A average during the past quarter notifying them of the plans.

Egyptian to Print Candidates' Views

All candidates for the five Student Senate seats being contested in Thursday's election are invited to submit written statements to the Daily Egyptian.

The statements should not exceed 75 words and should be submitted to the newsroom by 3 p.m. today. Statements received before the deadline will appear in the Thursday morning Daily Egyptian.

'Not Interested'

Rendleman Won't Seek Post

John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs, says he is not interested in running for Congress from the 21st representative district.

Rendleman had been named as a possible Democratic candidate if incumbent Kenneth J. Gray decides not to seek office again.

Gray has been rumored planning to retire after seven consecutive terms in the House. He will announce his plans today.

Rendleman said any discussions of his candidacy were conducted without consulting him. He is a former SIU legal counsel and one of the University's chief lobbyists in the Illinois General Assembly.

Other political figures regarded as possible candidates if Gray decides not to run are Clyde Choate, state representative from Anna, and Roy Small, Harrisburg newspaperman and former state representative.

HELPFUL VISITORS - A Mexican couple, Siva Lati, left, and a man who identified himself only as Dichehi, comfort SIU student cyclist William J. Meacham as he awaits the Health Service ambulance. His injuries were minor.

Injuries Minor

Visitors Aid SIU Cyclist

Dichehi, a young man who identified himself as a writer from the jungles of Mexico, went to the aid of an SIU student who had just been in a motorcycle and car collision Tuesday at the intersection of Monroe and University Avenue.

Lati, said that William J. Meacham, 18, of Glen Ellyn, was lying in the intersection when they walked by and no one was offering assistance.

He and Miss Lati placed a package under Meacham's head and covered him with Dichehi's sarape to keep him warm until the University Health Service ambulance arrived.

A health service official said Meacham was treated for minor abrasions and was in satisfactory condition. He was to be released after treatment.

Carbondale police said that a car driven by Mrs. Fern Crabtree, Anna, was going west on Monroe Street and Meacham was heading south on University Avenue when the accident occurred at 3:10 p.m.

Mrs. Crabtree was issued a ticket for failing to yield the right-of-way, police said.

The young Mexican couple said they were from the jungles of Guerrero, a Mexican state.

City Poverty Program Meets Stiff Opposition

By George M. Killenberg

Carbondale's anti-poverty program, which was greeted with praise and approval when publicly unveiled two weeks ago, met with some stiff opposition during last night's City Council meeting.

In a petition presented to the Council, a group of 209 citizens asked that any action on the anti-poverty program be deferred until April 1 to make sure that there are no "duplications of allotted funds, personnel, and services now provided by various state and federal agencies."

Mrs. John Lonergan, wife of an SIU architect, submitted the petition, pointing out that perhaps federal and state funds could be used to pay for part of the costs of the program rather than have the city support it entirely.

Both Mayor David Keene and Councilman Frank Kirk defended the program, arguing that the existing state and federal welfare agencies cannot provide the services the low income people of Carbondale require.

Although Keene said that the program should be implemented immediately, he indicated that he would comply with the requests of the petitioners and would postpone any additional action until April 1.

HIT PAY DIRT—Phil Weigand, curator of North American archaeology for SIU's Museum, restores a large ceramic bowl unearthed by SIU graduate anthropology students in excavations at the Kincaid site in Massac County. Representing the Middle Woodland habitation period, the bowl was made by Indians at least a thousand years ago.

Grads Gain Field Experience

Anthropologists Hit Pay-Dirt

Graduate anthropology students here hit pay dirt in their first taste of digging-for-credit as they excavated in the second largest Indian ceremonial mound site in Illinois—the Kincaid pyramids near Metropolis.

Disturbed because anthropology students studying field archaeology methods had little opportunity for field experience, Phil Weigand, teacher of the course and curator of North American Archaeology for the SIU Museum, and Prof. Jon Muller obtained a grant from the Graduate School to cover the cost of students' transportation, daily expenses, mapping supplies and film.

A site became available as a Brooksville, Massac County, landowner, John Paul Douglas, was clearing a wooded area on his farm last summer, bulldozing down the trees

Cadet Corps Casts

Votes for Queen

Members of the AFROTC Cadet Corps cast their ballots Tuesday night to select the 1968 Aerospace Ball Queen from five finalists.

Finalists are Robyn Benton of West Frankfort, Marilyn Chamness of Herrin, Janice Seibert of Mount Carmel, Patricia Ward of Murphysboro and Linda Whiteside of Fairborn, Ohio.

Results of the voting will be kept secret until the night of the Aerospace Ball and the coronation, Saturday, Feb. 10.

The ball, sponsored jointly by Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight, is the only formal ball at SIU open to the entire campus. Tickets are available from members of the sponsoring groups or at the Information Desk in University Center.

and brush to make way for cultivation.

Weigand thought this would afford his students some practical experience to supplement class lectures.

The class made a half-dozen week-end expeditions to the site last fall, uncovering a rich zone of Indian habitation, cooking pits, hearths and refuse. These yielded not only material of the Mississippian culture (between 1000 and 1600 A.D.) but also a stratum of Middle Woodland habitation dating back between the time of Christ to about 900 A.D., Weigand said.

Fragments of one house, some excellent ceramics including a large well-designed and artistically decorated bowl and fragments of hollow figurines were found.

The Kincaid site covers an extensive area in Pope and Massac counties, Weigand said. Heretofore, the only archaeological exploration done there was carried out in the 1930's by the University of Chicago, which explored chiefly the upper levels embracing the Mississippian habitation.

The site includes more than a dozen large pyramids, ranking it second only to Cahokia Mounds as an Indian "metropolis" in early day Illinois, he said.

Weigand's class staked out an area about 220-yards long and 30-yards wide for its excavations. The materials collected last fall are being analyzed and compared with records of the University of Chicago excavations as well as with the Museum's own data from other Middle Woodland sites.

"One of the problems connected with the Middle Woodland archaeology has been pinpointing the dates of occupation and of migration to various locales," Wiegand said. "We found a large quantity of carbon material in the trash and cooking pits and in the remnants of the house which will permit us to make carbon-dating analyses."

Carbon-dating, analyzing by means of radioactivity tests the quantity of carbon retained in wood, vegetation, shells or bones, is the most accurate method available for determining its age, he said.

Members of the class who worked at the site included Thomas Holien of Santa Fe, N.M., Louisa Ferree of Washington, Pa., Dale Schwerdtfeger of Glen Ellyn, Stanley Andrews of Altona, Jonathan Reymann of Greenwich, Conn., and Carl Kuttruff and Sidney Denny of Carbondale. Both Kuttruff and Denny are assistants in the Museum and already have had extensive field experience. A Carbondale high school student, Paul Merchant, also accompanied the group.

Police Use Chemical To Subdue Man, 26

Louis Franks, 26, of 308 E. Oak St., entered pleas of guilty to three charges in Jackson County Circuit Court Tuesday and was fined $30 plus $5 cost.

He was charged with disorderly conduct, drunkenness and resisting arrest after Carbondale police were called to Doctors Memorial Hospital Monday evening.

According to the police report, hospital officials said Franks came to the hospital to be treated for cuts but gave employees such trouble that they could not treat him.

Franks would not answer when the police asked him about the cuts and began "being loud and abusive" so the officers placed him under arrest, police said.

The report says that Franks showed one officer away and refused to get into the patrol car so the officer had to use a chemical spray to restrain him.

Classrooms at Southern Hills Offered to Unity Point

SIU has offered three classrooms at Southern Hills to help the crowded Unity Point School take care of pupils living at Southern Hills and within the SIU farms area, according to John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs.

Presently, 52 children live at Southern Hills and attend Unity Point. This figure is expected to rise to about 100 within six months after the 304-unit apartment complex is completed in September. Unity Point school is located south of Carbondale on U.S. 51.

The SIU Family Housing Phase Three apartments near Carbondale reservoir are about one third completed.

'I Am a Tired Student'

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am a tired student—tired of trying to please our society.

I am tired of the pressures of employers who insist on degrees as necessary to employment.

I am tired of seeing my colleagues graduate and finding much of their course work useless to their new career.

I am tired of seeing my fellow students often forced to go to school for higher salaries when they graduate, or for no known reason, when they have no interest in academics and do have other needs which must be met, and which may be more important.

I am tired of seeing my friends flunk out of school in order to show that they did try to please our society.

I am a tired student—tired of being misrepresented.

I am tired of being portrayed by the press and those who would believe the press as a bearded, unwashed discontent with a protest sign perpetually in hand.

I am tired of being stereotyped as one of a small group of students who think that they should have the right to determine and enforce the policies and regulations of the University.

I am tired of having to listen to the "older generation" scorn some "oddnik" students who, in many cases, are merely searching for a way of life of which our elders have failed to provide, a life without greed, injustice and hypocrisy.

I am a tired student—tired of being told what to believe.

I am tired of administrators, businessmen and politicians who try to discourage me from questioning the American belief in capitalism and free enterprise, of teachers who become upset when I debate the foundation of our belief in democracy, of clergymen who have superficial answers to my inquiries on religion, of anyone who would keep me from listening to proponents of alien beliefs.

I am a tired student—tired of having little time I can call my own.

I am tired of being pestered by insurance companies who want my money even before I am able to earn it, by solicitors who sell the latest gimmick or religion and who only want my money or my soul, by organizations who insist on my membership, and by professors who think I have nothing to do but study.

I am a concerned student. I am concerned that the real reasons for our presence in Vietnam are made clear; concerned that the government doesn't kill private initiative and that private initiative doesn't ruin a responsible government; concerned that people remember that the individual is far more important than the dollar sign; and concerned that those proclaiming high ideals are actively striving towards them.

Education--Business or Learning?

To the Daily Egyptian:

The present attempt by a local businessman and state representative to introduce a bill to the State Legislature concerning student's rights (as reported in Saturday's Egyptian), points to a recurring issue on campuses today.

While few ever parade and propagate for student obligations, vested interests in the university (incipient and sometimes insipid scholars), and interests outside the university are diluting education with distractions inhibiting the pursuit of truth and knowledge.

Under these distractions would be included use of automobiles, housing regulations and other small disputes all of which are in no way incumbent upon learning. To this point we must seriously question the label haphazardly attached to institutions of "learning," when in fact learning is smothered and overridden to the preference of other affections.

Many of the pre-eminent issues of student rights revolve on the trifling fripperies and idle pre-occupations of "the world out there," where attentions and ambitions of the multitudes lead to such dominant matters as fetishism, patriotism and commercialism.

Too often these values are invoked to inspire much politicizing, cunning machinations and gnashing of teeth in institutions where the management are concerned with the fundamental product (knowledge), a product that may, indeed demand peculiar but appropriate and essential regulations furthering its purpose and spirit.

What I am suggesting is that certain rights and educational disciplines are antagonistic concepts in some cases, and further that one of these concepts precludes the other. It is possible that vested interests, business and others, may influence university policies to a degree not beneficial to the pursuit of knowledge.

This leads to the question of whether education is a matter of business or learning, for too often the buck displaces the book.

Malcolm Muggerridge, an official representing students on the Board of Trustees at Edinburgh University, recently summed the demands of contemporary students: "How sad, how macabre and funny it is that all they put forward should be a demand for pot and pills. I expected of them anarchical follies, audacious intellectual exploration, etc, etc. And what do I find? The same things as any drooling debauchee wants."

Let us temper our demands for rights to relevant issues that advance learning and truth, which then should caution us to prevent control of university policies by outside vested interests, business, local and otherwise.

Donald G. Edberg

Strange Era

We look upon the following statement of André Malraux's as one of the shrewdest made during 1967. The French author said, "The historian who will judge our era will say: what a strange era where the left was not the left, where the right was not the right, where the center was not in the middle."

Former right-wing isolationists were all for America's continued intervention in Southeast Asia. Former liberal one-worlders were calling upon the United States to pull back in the world.

It shows a growing willingness on most persons' part to look at situations with a fresh and less partial eye.

The Making of a Martyr

Almost any white of voting age who lived in South Carolina in 1950 was painfully aware of the name of J. Waties Waring. For many, the name was harder to take than General William T. Sherman's or H.L. Mencken's.

As a Federal judge, J. Waties Waring had betrayed his aristocratic Charleston upbringing by opening the South Carolina Democratic Party to Negroes. Besides that, Judge and Mrs. Waring entertained Negroes socially in their home and otherwise behaved like a couple of Yankee Liberals.

The 1950 South Carolina Legislature was so exercised by the Judge's legal rulings and by the Waring's unconventional social behavior that bill was introduced to provide Judge and Mrs. Waring one-way tickets by any mode of travel they would accept to any destination in the world outside the State of South Carolina. The bill, as we recall, was given long and prayerful consideration. But then the Legislature's attention was diverted by another piece of statecraft, a resolution calling on the South Carolina Congressional delegation to investigate the United States Supreme Court, and nothing came of the Waring bill.

The only reason we bring this up now is that Judge Waring died last week, in New York, at the age of 87. He had retired from the Federal bench in 1952, after having delivered a landmark dissent that broke the legal ground for the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation ruling.

After fifteen years in exile, J. Waties Waring was returned to Charleston for burial, and we were just wondering whether his townsmen attended him in death, as they did in life, with bricks through his windows, flaming crosses on his lawn, and all the rest of it that goes into the making of a genuine martyr.

Pollution Continues Lake Michigan Is Dying

By Robert Eisen

Lake Michigan is dying from pollution. It soon may follow the path of total decay like its sister lake, Lake Erie, unless action is taken to avoid this calamity.

In 1964, 2,600 square miles of Lake Erie—over a quarter of the entire lake—was almost without oxygen and unable to support life because of algae and plant growth fed by pollution from cities and farms. For all practical purposes the remaining three quarters is now considered dead.

The speed with which the potable portion of the lake decayed points out that expediency is needed if Lake Michigan's usable waters are not to follow suit.

The public's first indication that something was drastically wrong with Chicago's major water supplier came last summer. During that time, hundreds of thousands of dying alewives (small silvery fish) were washed-up on to the beaches. The stench and consequent health problems forced officials to close the beaches to the public until favorable winds and currents washed the fish away.

These same officials declared that the alewives died for some unknown biological reason. They would not say the lake was being polluted at a greater rate than they had cared to admit.

The fault does not lie with one offender. The perverters of our most valuable natural resource, water, are many.

Industrial plants along the southern most tip of Lake Michigan have been cited as the worst offenders. The three largest companies blamed for dumping pollutants into the lake are U.S. Steel Corp., Inland Steel Co., and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

December 31, 1968, is the date (set by a federal-state conference two years ago) to stop pollution. Until then the industrial wastes such as acids and slag will continue to clog the lake.

Industrialists argue they now spend an adequate amount for water pollution. But actually they fall short of the proposed millions needed.

The fact is, 250 industries now use Lake Michigan for an open sewer. Until they remove up to 95 percent of the wastes from their indiscriminate dumping, adequate results will be impossible.

Next in line are the communities themselves. Some 29 towns and cities (Milwaukee, Racine, Lake Bluff and Gary are the largest) daily dump wastes directly into the lake. Tentative government guidelines demand that by 1977, advanced treatment must replace their antiquated antipollution systems.

As with industry, each city must do its share and do it well if the complete restoration of Lake Michigan is to be accomplished successfully.

The antipollution program in Germany highlights what one country did to attack the problem of usable water.

The Ruhr River basin contains nearly half of West Germany's industrial capacity. Yet the Ruhr River itself is only a comparatively narrow stream. With such a small amount of water, one would expect the highly competitive West Germans to have turned the Ruhr into a small, smelly ditch.

In fact, the Ruhr River is clean enough to swim in and to produce fish. And with only mild treatment, it provides perfectly good drinking water.

This program was carried out by the Ruhr Association. Instead of establishing treatment requirements or purification standards and trying to enforce them, the Association simply fined every town and every industrial plant a stiff levy proportional to the amount of pollution they delivered to the river. As a result the basin has been cleaned up. The water is used and reused, but is also treated and retreated. Possibly the same method could be used to accomplish the cleanup of Lake Michigan.

The Army Corps of Engineers, by decree, has stopped dumping polluted canal dredgings into the lake for fear the oily substances will ruin the water supplies of Chicago, Hammond, Whiting and East Chicago.

Knowingly or not, the farmers surrounding the watershed area of Lake Michigan have been adding pollutants for years. Their part in the destruction of the lake may come from any or all of three sources: improper farming practices; runoff from land treated with synthetic fertilizers and pesticides; or inadequate drainage from septic tank installations. The fertilizers and pesticides have caused the most detrimental effect on the lake.

As the use of chemical fertilizers increases more nitrates and phosphates are carried into the lake through tributaries by runoff and soilwash from treated agricultural land. This enrichment encourages growth of aquatic plants, particularly algae.

The algae soon decays, causing nutrients to multiply and the lake's natural dying process to accelerate. The plants absorb the oxygen needed by fish to survive, and soon the fish, along with the lake, will die.

Other flagrant misuses are Chicago's lake shippers. For years they have dumped raw wastes directly into the water. Private boat owners do the same. However, this may shortly come to a halt. Chicago's mayor, Richard J. Daley, has proposed to ban such procedures in the near future.

Experts agree the lake can be saved, but it will take at least 10 years and over $10 billion.

Part of the funds needed for a project of this magnitude may come from the federal government (up to 30 percent) and the bulk from the public.

The only barrier left is the people. If the public awakens from its apathy, the lake may be restored. If people deal with the problem as they have in the past, Lake Michigan's demise is inevitable.

On one hand the people are hesitant to support water pollution measures because of the prohibitive costs, yet they want clean water for drinking and recreational use. A balance must be found.

Lake Michigan's life hangs by a thread. The saving of the lake is within the scope of this generation, however. What is needed are strict controls and more cooperation. If all interested bodies function as one, the job can be completed before it is too late.

What Kind of World?

We Need Some New Ideas

By Robert M. Hutchins
Los Angeles Times

It seems to me that the greatest opportunities in the history of the race await us all. They are the opportunity for everybody to become human and the opportunity to make this planet a fit place for everybody to live in.

The great difference between the industrial system of today and that of the future could be that whereas today the machines dominate us, in the future we could dominate them for our human purposes. We live now like the Turks of old, who were ruled by their slaves.

The automobile determines the shape of our society. The assembly line determines the tempo of our lives. Military technology compels us to manufacture whatever can be made, whether or not we need it or can use it and no matter how repulsive it is to our moral sense. But if the production of material goods ceases to be our main preoccupation, we can perhaps give some attention to thinking about what we want and why.

The Greek word for leisure is the origin of our word for school. Leisure to the Athenians was not the time spent staring at television or driving aimlessly along the highway, catching glimpses of the countryside between the billboards. Leisure meant the effort of the free man to develop his highest human powers and to make his city free and just.

We have a new society and a new world. What we need are some new ideas.

We have never had to think before. We were powerful, isolated and impregnable. This is why American education is what it is. We have not needed education for individual success—the financial giants of the past often boasted of their illiteracy—or for national power and progress. We had tremendous resources and a fine Constitution handed down to us by founding fathers who, as it happened, were magnificently educated. We have thus been able to live on our intellectual capital. We can do so no longer.

What automation requires, what the international situation demands, what the new world and the new society call for is an enormous increase in the intellectual power of the nation. This also is the answer to the question of what we are going to do with ourselves.

The notion that education is a kind of housing project in which young people are detained, or retarded, in which they learn to get along with one another and to get ahead of one another in a nice way and from which they emerge as adjusted, but enterprising, well-tubed citizens, ready to team up with their fellow self-seekers on the American assembly line—this notion is a relic of an ignorant, benighted past that is now deadlier than the dodo. We have to begin the construction of an educational system devoted to the development of intellectual power.

And we must commit ourselves to the idea of continuing education throughout our lives. Education is the continuous development of our highest powers. In the United States we have the resources, we shall have the leisure and we should be able to muster the intelligence to build a civilization as brilliant as the Greek's and far more lasting.

“Want a company that lets you follow through on your own ideas? See IBM February 1st or 2nd!”

“I was determined not to take a job where I’d be compartmentalized. That’s one reason I chose IBM,” says George Leffler. (George, who has his B.S. in Engineering, is a Systems Engineering Manager in Marketing.)

The job itself

“You start by studying a customer’s business even before he orders equipment. Then it’s up to you to come up with a system that solves the customer’s problems. You stay with it until it’s installed and fully operational. You guide the customer every step of the way. So following through on your own ideas is part of your job.”

5,000 more managers

“Another thing I like about working here is the chance for advancement. For example, IBM has over 5,000 more managers today than they had four years ago. And they need more every day.”

We’d like to tell you more about the IBM story. We’ll be interviewing on campus for careers in Marketing, Computer Applications, Programming, Research and Development, Manufacturing, and Field Engineering.

Sign up for an interview at your placement office, even if you’re headed for graduate school or military service.

And if you can’t make a campus interview, send an outline of your interests and educational background to Mr. C. J. Reiger, IBM Corporation, 100 South Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois 60606.

We’re an equal opportunity employer.

Viet Cong Capture, Then Lose Embassy

The Viet Cong embassy attackers entered the grounds of the supposedly attackproof new building by blowing a hole in a wall about 3 a.m.

About two companies of U.S. military police tried to take the compound at daybreak but were driven off in their first attempt. A company of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division then was rushed in.

As these forces inched forward in bloody fighting, the helicopter assault began about 8:35 a.m.

About a dozen clattering helicopters swooped in over the rooftops of downtown Saigon to unload the 101st Airborne troops on the roof of the gleaming, white, eight-story building that was opened only last November to replace one wrecked by a previous guerrilla attack.

By 8:55 a.m. the U.S. forces had secured the ground of the embassy and troops were working their way through the building to flush out the remaining Viet Cong.

Associated Press photographer Dang Van Phuoc, who got inside the building, reported bodies were strewn around the rooms.

He said the Viet Cong apparently poured into the compound and on into the building after firing a rocket that opened the hole in the outer wall.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was safely sped away from his residence under heavy security guard early Wednesday when the Viet Cong guerrillas attacked and seized the embassy.

Bunker's residence is about five blocks from the embassy. U.S. officials would say only that the 74-year-old Bunker was safe. They refused any clue as to where he was taken.

The embassy building was badly shot up and the Great Seal of the United States was dislodged from the wall above the entrance by bullets.

At last report fighting was still going on near Tan Son Nhut airport in the suburbs of the city, with the action centered around the western perimeter, military officers said.

From Ban Me Thuot, a provincial capital in the central highlands about 160 miles northeast of Saigon, Associated Press correspondent Lewis M. Simons reported the Viet Cong attacked there early Wednesday with riot gas and mortar fire and followed with a ground probe.

Simons said the Viet Cong reached the perimeter of a South Vietnamese army headquarters compound but did not penetrate it. He said the compound and a U.S. military assistance command compound received some tear gas along with the mortar fire.

Simons said a fire fight broke out on one side of the U.S. compound but, as far as was known, there were no American casualties.

Pueblo Crisis

Proper Treatment for Crew Reported by White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House, reporting the USS Pueblo crew is being treated properly, laid heavy stress Tuesday on diplomatic efforts to free the men.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said President Johnson "has great hopes that diplomatic procedures" will settle the crisis brought about by North Korea's seizure of the ship and its 83-man crew.

Fulbright, one of Johnson's severest foreign policy critics, endorsed the President's handling of the situation.

"We've really gone completely mad if this results in a war," Fulbright said.

He attended a White House breakfast meeting with other congressional Democrats and came away saying he got the impression that Johnson is so hopeful of avoiding military actions that there was no talk of setting a deadline for diplomatic success.

Fulbright talked with newsmen after White House press secretary George Christian said the government has received reports that Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher and his men are being properly treated "and the wounded are being given medical care."

Four members of the Pueblo's crew were reported wounded, one critically, when North Korean patrol boats seized the vessel Jan. 22 and forced it into Wonsan harbor.

How the men were hurt is not clear, but there has been speculation they may have been injured when Bucher set off explosive devices to destroy some of the Pueblo's electronic intelligence gathering gear.

Queen Stripped Of New Title

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP)—Jo Ann Dare, a stripper at a Fort Lauderdale night club, Tuesday was stripped of her title: Queen of the Policemen's Ball.

Chief George Emmerick said the Hallandale Police Benevolent Association decided to choose another queen when members learned the bare facts about Miss Dare, who was sent to them by a professional model agency.

Chicago Approves Gun Laws

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago City Council approved two gun control ordinances Tuesday after amending one to make it conform to a new U.S. Supreme Court ruling. The amendment drew fire from three aldermen.

The ordinance requires owners of firearms to register them with the city collector within 60 days. It was amended from the form originally proposed by Mayor Richard J. Daley to exempt registration of sawed-off shot guns, machine guns and other firearms banned by existing law.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that requiring a person to register an illegal weapon would violate constitutional immunity from self-incrimination.

The other new ordinance extends the present ban on carrying concealed handguns to include restrictions on carrying rifles and shotguns. Even if not concealed, rifles and shotguns may not be carried in operable condition.

The penalty for violations would be a mandatory $500 fine.

The vote adopting both ordinances was 43-3.

The dissenters were Aldermen A.A. Rayner, William Cousins Jr. and Edward Schell.

Rayner, a Negro, told the council he had reason to believe "there is a grand conspiracy to control or contain the black community of this city," and that the ordinance is "part of this conspiracy."

Across Suez Canal

Egypt Battles Israel In Artillery Duel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israeli and Egyptian tanks and artillery exchanged fire for 90 minutes across the Suez Canal Tuesday in the heaviest engagement along the troubled waterway since last October.

The firing began when Egypt sent four launches into the northern part of the canal to look for obstacles barring the way of 15 foreign ships, stranded in the waterway since the June war.

Israel had agreed to a clearing operation in only the southern part of the canal and had warned Sunday that any attempt in the north would be resisted.

The launches had proceeded about a mile north from their starting point at Ismailia, midway in the canal, when Israeli troops on the east bank fired warning shots.

Israel says the Egyptians on the east bank then opened up with artillery and the fire was returned. An Egyptian communique said Israeli troops were the first to open fire on Egyptian positions north of Ismailia.

Tanks joined the artillery in the duel. An Israeli army spokesman said two Egyptian tanks were knocked out. Five Israeli soldiers were wounded.

The Egyptian army communique made no mention of casualties, but said one of the launches was damaged. This contradicted earlier Egyptian reports that the four launches returned safely to Ismailia.

Fighting finally stopped in response to an appeal by Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the United Nations chief truce supervisor, who happened to be visiting in Cairo. Egyptian sources said he had ordered his observers on the canal to prepare a detailed report of the clash.

Explaining the attempt to make a survey in the northern part of the canal, the Egyptian sources said a preliminary survey in the southern portion of the canal showed there were too many obstacles. The nature of these obstacles was not given, but some are believed to be small ships sunk by the Egyptians to block the canal in the Israeli-Arab war.

As it would take considerable time to clear the southern portion, the Egyptians planned to survey the northern part of the canal to see if it would be easier to free the foreign vessels, the sources said.

Without confirmation in Israel, the Egyptians said the plan was forwarded to Bull and that the Israelis had agreed.

Three Bodies Uncovered In Arkansas Prison Probe

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP)— A former SIU faculty member, Thomas O. Murton, is leading a gruesome investigation into the history of this prison as the Arkansas prison superintendent.

A convict who led prison officials to an unmarked graveyard in which three skeletons were found Monday said today he had helped bury 10 or 12 inmates on the prison grounds in the 1940s. He said most of them had been shot or beaten to death.

Reuben Johnson, 59, a hefty 6-footer who first went to prison in 1937 for killing his brother, said that years ago he helped bury 10 or 12 convicts who were "shot with a pistol, a shotgun or just beaten to death."

Most of them were Negroes, Johnson said, adding: "But they killed some white ones on Labor Day in 1940. They killed a bunch of them—I'd say about 20 . . ."

"We were all scared. I thought I was going to get it. A lot of mornings I thought I wouldn't come back to the building."

Prison records showed that 36 men escaped Sept. 2, 1940, and that one man was killed trying to escape. The records also showed that 24 escapees were recaptured quickly, and a prison staff member said it was possible others were recaptured later.

Meanwhile, a grim, exploratory digging operation was halted for the time being on the prison grounds. State police took charge of the investigation and said that, before resuming, they "need to see what we have first."

On Monday, Johnson led officials to the unmarked graves of three men, the remains encased in coffins buried in the rich soil of the Arkansas River bottoms. The prison farm is 60 miles southeast of Little Rock.

A former prison board member said the skeletons might be part of a paupers' graveyard.

Former Prison Supt. Dan D. Stephens said he was aware all along that there was an old prison cemetery in the area where the bodies were found, one headless, one with the head smashed and a third with legs broken, apparently to fit the body into the casket.

Stephens said the burials dated back many years, and that no convicts were buried at Cummins during his tenure in 1964-65.

The search for bodies was launched on the basis of rumors that flickered and flared for years in the dark recesses of the farm where 1,300 prisoners are incarcerated.

"According to testimonials of inmates on the farm . . .

there have been burials that were other than legal," said Murton, who launched the inquiry.

Prison legends told of convicts slain in sadistic outbursts, their bodies consigned to unmarked graves and the victims described as escapees who never were recaptured.

Superintendent Murton has called the Arkansas State penitentiary system a "throwback to the Middle Ages."

More than 200 inmates, he said, have been listed as unapprehended in escapes dating back to 1900.

Dr. Edward Barren Jr., the prison physician, said earlier: "I feel reasonably certain there are more bodies out there . . . as many as 100, if not more . . ."

"I have also been told that sometimes if an inmate had something against another one he could arrange a payoff to get rid of the other man. These sound like wild stories, but this today could lend some credibility to them. This is really 18th century."

A sharp-tongued penologist, Murton, 39, was hired by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller last year as assistant superintendent at Tucker prison. After instituting reforms there, he was named superintendent earlier this month of the prison system, responsible for Cummins as well as Tucker.

Police Ordered To Shoot Bombers

EAST ST. LOUIS (AP)—East St. Louis police are under orders to shoot any persons seen throwing a firebomb at property or committing any other act of arson or attempted arson.

"Anyone seen throwing a firebomb in East St. Louis will not be questioned. We will shoot him," Police Commissioner Russell Beebe said after issuing the order Monday night.

"There's going to be law and order and if there's not, there's going to be some killing," the commissioner said.

Beebe issued the order to shoot shortly after two firebombs were hurled into a jewelry store and an insurance company office. The devices did not ignite.

The jewelry store owner, Eugene E. Reiniger, 39, killed one man and wounded another during a robbery attempt Saturday. He had been robbed of $14,000 in cash and jewelry in November.

erans who train for public service jobs.

In a special message, Johnson noted that the present $7,500 ceiling on the maximum guarantee on GI home loans is 18 years old and said it is no longer adequate. He asked for a $10,000 ceiling.

The chief executive also proposed a wholly new program to help finance training of veterans "to teach the children of the poor, to help man understrength police forces and fire departments, to do meaningful work in local hospitals" and to become full-time specialists in antipoverty work.

Johnson gave this example of how the program would work for a veteran wanting to teach in a deprived area:

"While he is getting the schooling that will qualify him for teaching, he will draw additional benefits of $50 a month for ever month he agrees to teach—up to three years of such extra benefits.

"While he is actually on the job teaching, he will draw a special training allowance, in addition to his regular salary—$80 a month for the first school year, $60 a month for the second."

The President also asked Congress to act favorably on two proposals he presented last year:

—To increase serviceman's group life insurance from a maximum of $10,000 to a range of $12,000-$30,000, depending on individual pay—meaning rank.

—To "protect the veteran against disproportionate pension losses that could result from increases in other income such as Social Security."

Another Johnson proposal—a new one—would offer vocational rehabilitation benefits to service-disabled veterans receiving part-time training. Benefits now are limited to full-time trainees.

The program is sponsored by the U.S. Agency for International Development in cooperation with the American Medical Association.

Dr. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Clark of Rockford, graduated from the University of Illinois and received his M.D. from the School of Medicine at the university in 1963. In 1954-56 he worked as an enlisted man in a naval hospital in Florida.

Before coming to SIU in 1965, he served as intern and resident for two years at the St. Francis Hospital in Peoria.

He is a physician with the Student Health Service.

The program will include works composed originally for band as well as transcriptions of compositions from other media.

The band is comprised of approximately 65 players from all schools and departments of the University.

Koenigstein is in his first year with the Department of Music at SIU. He was director of bands at Eastern Kentucky University for 11 years. He received his Bachelor's degree at Western Kentucky University. After four years of teaching instrumental music in public schools and four years with bands in the Air Force, he received his Master of Music degree from West Virginia University. In addition to directing the Symphonic Band he is also director of the Marching Salukis and the Saluki Pep Band.

The Convocation program includes the following compositions written originally for band: "A Festival Prelude" by Alfred Reed, "Norwegian March 'Valdres'" by Johannes Hanssen, "Prelude and Fugue in F-Minor" by Houston Bright, "Toccata Marziale" by R. Vaughn-Williams, and "Benguine for Band" by Glenn Osser.

Also on the program are "Enigma Variations, Var. V (Nimrod IX)" by Edward Elgar, "Chorale and Capriccio" by Caesar Giovanni, and "Man of LaMancha" (Selections) by Leigh-Erickson.

Library Nixes No Fine Day

By Dennis Kuczajda

Although the Chicago Public Library's recent "fine free" day netted the return of nearly 100,000 lost books, Morris Library Assistant Librarian Sidney Matthews doesn't think the idea would have comparable success or value at SIU.

"I've discussed the idea with Mr. F.S. Randall (Morris Library director) and we don't really see how it would be of much help with our student body," Matthews said.

The problem of setting a proper day during the quarter also arises, Matthews believes, since a mid-quarter fine free day might encourage delinquent students to hold on to the books. An end quarter day could cause confusion.

"We had an experience a number of years ago in which we did away with fines," Matthews remembers. "The result was chaos."

Matthews said the present process for recovering lost books is very thorough.

If a student cannot find a book, he need only go to the department office on that floor and inquire.

A search is begun by checking the Print-Out, a computer listing recording all library holdings. If the book has not been checked out, staff members then search library shelves for misfiling. Common filing errors include incorrect shelving of books with "f" and "g" annotations and mix-ups over the numbers six and nine.

Some books turn up at the end of the quarter on shelves where they have been hidden by students.

The search procedure continues 16 weeks before the book is officially declared missing. Then the department head decides whether another copy should be ordered or, as in the case of texts, an entirely

Chase to Lecture Here February 9

The lecture by Harold Chase, law expert and professor of government at the University of Minnesota, will be Feb. 9 instead of Friday as listed in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian.

Chase will speak on "The LBJ Brand on Appointment of Federal Judges" at 7:30 p.m. in Room 131 of Lawson Hall. His information is the result of studies for his forthcoming book on the appointment of federal judges.

All graduate students and any interested persons are invited to attend the lecture.

new edition should be ordered.

If the book is out of print, an ad is placed in the Antiquarian Bookman, a widely circulated journal. The library then considers quotations offered by various dealers.

During the 1966-67 fiscal year Morris Library replaced 632 books from quotations alone. Matthews was unable to reveal the cost of these books.

As for figures on how many books are missing from the entire library, Matthews also was unable to comment.

Regarding the possibility of an inventory, Matthews said, "I'm not sure that many are missing in the first place. Also it would be difficult to do an inventory because of the size of our staff and the number of books in circulation at one time."

as Peace Corps director in Iran. Cousins has also held positions with the Agency for International Development and the American Friends Service Committee in India and Pakistan.

The Sociology Club and the Community Development Club are sponsoring the program. It will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. in the main lounge of College Square, Dorm A, 505 S. Graham St.

'MISANTHROPE' CAST- Three principals from the upcoming SIU production of Moliere's "The Misanthrope" are caught during a rehearsal for the play which opens a three-night run Friday. They are Marilyn Nix, Bill Pageant, and Bob Zay. Directed by graduate student Zephirin Hymel, the comedy is being performed in mod costumes and settings.

Federal Research Cutbacks Won't Hurt SIU, Dean Says

The large decrease in federal spending aimed at research programs for 1968 is not expected to seriously affect SIU.

William Simeone, dean of graduate school, said that while SIU research programs have already felt the squeeze brought about by recent cutbacks in federal aid to research, the problem is not a serious one at SIU. He explained that while federal support is important to research programs, SIU's policy regarding research provides for substantial investments in the programs from school funds other than federal research grants. SIU's selection of programs and subsequent investments in them provide the school's involvement in research with a stable operating basis, Dean Simeone said.

A general cut back in National Defense Education Act aid to research amounting to 45 per cent has been affected at all universities. Last year SIU had 32 programs supported by NDEA; this year SIU received 18 such programs.

Dean Simeone said the fate of SIU's three National Aeronautics and Space Administration projects is uncertain.

Dean Simeone thinks that government aid to research in the universities is only beginning and in the future it will be imperative. He views the present decrease in government spending on research as temporary and, while serious, it is no cause for alarm.

He said the graduate school is making no alterations in its policies concerning admissions because of the cut back. All qualified students are still encouraged to apply for support.

Moliere's Comedy 'Misanthrope' Modernized for Laboratory Stage

When the lights shine on the center stage of the SIU Laboratory Theatre in the Communications Building Friday night, be prepared for a 300-year-old play as modern as today's hippie.

The play, "Misanthrope," is a 17th century French comedy. It will be updated to coincide with today's fast-paced society by presenting the entire cast in mod dress. It will run through Sunday night.

"Misanthrope" is acclaimed by the critics to be Jean Moliere's masterpiece. The play was produced in 1666, Zephirin (Buddy) Hymel, graduate assistant in theatre, who produced and directed the play, said, "I feel whereas time has brought about a change in our attitudes in society, society itself never changes. The mod dress will point up the contemporary aspects of the play."

Hymel went on to say that what happened 300 years ago is basically the same today. Basic problems of love, hypocrisy, money-lust and fashion consciousness appear today as then. He also explained, the play is funnier today than it was in the 17th century because "we can laugh at ourselves through our development of more liberal attitudes."

"Misanthrope" has been produced in theaters all over the world and is considered as identifiable to comedy as "Hamlet" is to tragedy. The play's main theme involves a man dealing with a society with false conventions; he is therefore anti-social and a misfit.

Hymel claims that his knowledge, this is the first time the play has been done in mod dress. Latest mod styles such as bell-bottom slacks, mini skirts, go-go boots and chain belts will be worn. The set will also be enhanced with Hymel's idea of a mod interpretation by large mod art paintings hanging over the audience on all four sides (the stage is surrounded by the audience). The purpose of the paintings is to give the audience a feeling of actually being in the same room with the actors. A musical background of modern jazz will also be included.

The seating capacity of the theater is 100 with three performances starting at 8 p.m. Tickets have been on sale since Jan. 24 at the Theater Box Office and University Center. All seats are $1.

Hymel, a native of New Orleans, received his bachelor's degree in theatre at Louisiana State University. He started his college career at Southeastern Louisiana College where he took up pre-law. After realizing that he was more interested in the dramatics and not the legalities involved in law, he decided to switch to theatre.

After graduating from LSU, he was awarded an acting assistantship from the SIU Theater Department. He hopes to receive his M.A. degree in August.

Better Season Expected As Track Season Opens

With three standout returnees, Track Coach Lew Hartzog is anticipating "a good deal better squad than a year ago," when Southern officially opens its 1968 indoor track season Thursday night against the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

Ross MacKenzie, veteran quarter-miler from Baltimore, Canada, is the Salukis' top candidate for national honors this season.

MacKenzie, who reached the semi-finals in the 440-yard event last year, was a member of the Canadian Pan-Am this summer.

"There's no doubt about it," Hartzog said, "MacKenzie is in peak form and, barring injuries, should be one of the finest quarter-milers in the country this year."

So far this winter MacKenzie has turned in three standout performances.

He won over nationally-ranked Webster Johnson with a 49-second flat performance effort in mid-December. He was second behind Pan-Am champ Vince Matthews in the 500-yard event at the Senior Bowl meet by virtue of turning in an identical 56.7 time. In his final winter outing in Chicago he beat Bob Crosby, Loyola's 300-yard world-record holder, and anchored SIU's mile relay swimming team with a 47.5 time.

Triple Jump star John Vernon is another SIU hopeful for national honors.

Vernon, a two-year letterman from Aspley, England, is fully recovered from a leg injury that hindered him last season.

He was a double winner in a recent Chicago meet, capturing the long jump in addition to his specialty.

His career best in the triple jump is 48'9 1/2".

Mitchell Livingston, a native of Decatur, also has a possibility of ranking among the top high jumpers in the country.

Other lettermen who will be participating this year are Jeff Duxbury, distance runner from Melbourne, Australia; Rich Ellison, Berwyn, pole vaulter; Dale Gardner, middle distance runner from Dewey, Okla., and hurdler Herman Gary from St. Louis.

Hartzog ranks Kansas among the nation's finest teams.

On Feb. 10, the Salukis will compete in both the Michigan State Relays and the Kansas Frosh-Junior College Invitational.

2 Saluki Teams To Invade Iowa

Two SIU winter sports teams will engage in competition Thursday with Iowa State University at Ames, Iowa.

Coach Jim Wilkinson's wrestlers and Ray Essick's swimmers will both be seeking to offset losing records.

The Saluki grapplers, 1-3 in dual competition this season, will match up against a respectable Cyclone team—whose only loss in eight duals this season was a 15-14 decision to Oklahoma State—in nine weight divisions.

Steve Sarossy will represent SIU in the 123-pound division; Rich Allen, 130; Al Murdoch, 137; Rich Casey, 145; Tom Duke, 152; Julian Gabriel, 160; Al Lipper, 167; Ben Cooper, 177, and Bob Roop, or Rich Selover, heavyweight.

Meanwhile, Essick's team will have its hands full with the defending Big Eight swimming champions.

"We expect it to go right down to the wire," Essick said. "It's going to be a thriller."

The Salukis, 2-3 in dual meets, expect their strongest challenge to come from Jim Cotsworth, individual medley and butterfly specialist; Bruce Lechler, a strong sprinter in the 100- and 200-yard events, and Neil Armstrong, a fine backstroker.

SIU wrestlers will have scant time in which to rest following their match Thursday night. They are entered in the University of Nebraska's 16-team invitational Friday and Saturday.

SIU wrestlers fell to Bloomsburg (Pa.) State, 15-14, earlier in the week. Following are results by weight and scores:

115—Heim, Bloomsburg State, decisioned Steve Sarossy, SIU 6-1.

130—Prosseda, Bloomsburg, 12, Rich Allan, SIU, 9.

137—Russo, Bloomsburg, 11, Al Murdoch, SIU, 5.

145—Richard Casey, SIU, decisioned Peters, Bloomsburg, 16-5.

152—Guerst, Bloomsburg, 12, Tom Duke, SIU, 4.

160—Thompson, Bloomsburg, 7, Turk, SIU, 2.

167—Al Lipper, SIU, decisioned Wallace, Bloomsburg, 7-0.

177—Ben Cooper, SIU, decisioned Coleman, Bloomsburg, 15-4.

In the heavyweights, Richard Selover, SIU, pinned Jantett, Bloomsburg, with 1:56 remaining.

Lombardi to Tell Plans At Press Conference

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Vince Lombardi is expected to announce Thursday his decision as to whether he will remain as head coach of the Green Bay Packers professional football team.

Lombardi earlier this week summoned the press and the Green Bay Packer board of directors to dinner Thursday night—an invitation that provoked new speculation that he would step down as coach of the world champions.

Top Heavyweights To Fight Saturday

SYLVANIA, Ohio (AP)—When the heavyweight elimination tournament goes into its next-to-last bout Saturday, it will feature the two top heavyweights in the World Boxing Association's ratings released Monday.

Thad Spencer of San Francisco holds the No. 1 spot, and Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles is listed No. 2 in the WBA's monthly ratings. The winner of their semifinal bout will take on third-ranked Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., for the WBA version of the heavyweight championship.

A Packer spokesman, who announced plans Monday for the dinner and news conference, declined to say more than that the coach and general manager would speak.

Rumors have abounded for the past two months that Lombardi, who coached the Packers to championships in five of the past seven seasons, would not coach the Packers again in 1968.

The most persistent rumor has the Brooklyn-born Lombardi surrendering the coaching reins to an assistant, probably Phil Bengtson, the defensive coach. Lombardi would then remain in Green Bay as general manager.

Lombardi has indicated he would stay in Green Bay, but has not said in what capacity.

Beban Snubbed; 30th Pick in Pro Draft

NEW YORK (AP) —Gary Beban, honored as Heisman Trophy winner and outstanding collegian of the year, was bypassed until the 30th pick Tuesday in the pro draft as the American and National Football Leagues emphasized interior linemen and defensive players.

The honor of being No. 1 in the pro selections went to Ron Yary, the 6-foot-5, 261-pound offensive tackle of Southern California's national champions. Five Trojans were among the 27 picked in the first round.

Beban, the running quarterback who directed UCLA to 23 victories against five defeats and two ties in three years, finally was taken by the Los Angeles Rams high in the second round. The hometown Rams had no choice in the first round, having yielded it to Detroit last fall in the deal for defensive tackle Roger Brown.

Roman Gabriel is the Rams' well-established quarterback. It had been expected that Beban would be a topfirst-round selection, but apparently most of the pros thought otherwise.

Before the second combined draft is completed, probably sometime Wednesday night, the pros will have picked 462 players in 17 rounds. The clubs were given 15 minutes each to make up their minds in the first two rounds, but a five-minute deadline was in effect for later rounds. Clubs drafted by telephone through representatives at the meeting in a New York hotel.

To get Yary the Vikings used the special bonus pick they got from the New York Giants, along with two first-round picks in 1967, in the deal for Fran Tarkenton last year.

Cincinnati, with special privileges calling for first and last picks in each round after the first, plus specials, grabbed Bob Johnson, Tennessee's 235-pound All-America center in the first round.

The clubs picked defensive end Claude Humphrey of Tennessee A&I, Atlanta; offensive tackle Russ Washington of Missouri, San Diego; linebacker Fred Carr of Texas; El Paso, Green Bay; defensive tackle Dennis Byrd of North Carolina State, Boston, and defensive end Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame, New Orleans, before they finally got around to a back.

Larry Csonka of Syracuse, called by Coach Ben Schwartz-walder the most valuable back he ever had, was grabbed No. 8 in the draft by the Miami Dolphins.

The first quarterback taken was Greg Landry, the 6-3, 190-pounder from Massachusetts who was picked by the Detroit Lions.

Swimming Tournament Scheduled; Intramural Eligibility Deadline

An intramural swimming tournament will be held Feb. 17 at the University Pool.

Each entrant will be required to have a medical permit from the Health Service to be eligible. All members of a team must be from one of the four leagues. Entries must be in the Intramural Office by 5 p.m. Feb. 15.

Those interested in competing should read the eligibility rules in the Intramural Handbook. The Handbook may be picked up at the Intramural Office in the Arena.

Judo Club Elects Officers for Term

The SIU Judo Club officers for the winter quarter are Drew Wickam, president; Thomas Hardesty, vice president; and Sharon Flynn, secretary-treasurer.

The Judo Club, with over 30 active members, plans to attend a tournament at Alton in February. The instructor is C. C. Franklin.

The events in the competition will be: 50 yard and 100 yard free style, 200 yard free style relay, 50 yard butterfly, 50 yard backstroke and diving. The diving competition will consist of one required front dive and two optional dives.

Contestants may enter two events other than diving. The five swimmers having the best times in each event will qualify for the finals. Individual awards will be given to first place winners in each event.

Last year's winner was the "Swimmers '67" from the Independent League.

Salukis Go Bear Hunting At Home Game Tonight

Momentum, or the lack of it, could be a deciding factor when SIU's cagers clash with Southwest Missouri tonight in the Arena. Game time is 8 p.m.

The visiting Bears have rolled to 11 consecutive wins after losing their first two games by a combined total of four points. Southern has dropped its last two contests by combined totals of 21 points.

Southwest Missouri is currently on top of the Missouri Intercollegiate Conference with an impressive 6-0 mark. Behind the coaching of Bill Thomas, the Bears have won 27 consecutive games in the loop.

Leading the Southwest attack is Little All-American candidate Lou Shepherd. Standing 6-7, and weighing 220-pounds, Shepherd is currently averaging 19.9 ppg and 11.6 rebounds.

"Lou's one of the hardest working players I've ever coached," says Thomas. "He continues to show good improvement and has to be considered an All-American candidate."

Shepherd headed the list of the NCAA's all-tournament team following the finals at Evansville last March.

Southwest followers attribute their team's first two losses earlier to inexperience. The starting lineup consists of one freshman, two sophomores, a junior and a senior.

One of those sophomores is Curtis Perry. A massive 6-8, 220-pounder, Perry follows closely behind Shepherd with a 16.4 scoring average and 13.7 rebounding mean.

The other spot in the front line is filled by 6-3 Willie Jenkins. A junior, Jenkins is averaging 6.1 ppg.

There's a three-way battle for the guard spots. The candidates are sophomore Greg Mess, freshman Chuck Williams, and junior Max Gee. Mess is averaging 8.4, Williams 10.9 and Gee, 10.2.

Saluki Coach Jack Hartman is expected to start his usual first five—consisting of Dick Garrett and Chuck Benson at the forwards; Butch Butchko at pivot; and, Bobby Jackson and Willie Griffin at the guards.

Tonight's game will mark the 50th game to be played in the Arena since it opened at the beginning of the 1964-65 cage season.

BEAR THREAT--Lou Shepherd, a possible All-American candidate, will be the featured player when Southwest Missouri State invades the Arena tonight. Shepherd is averaging 19.9 points and 11.6 rebounds going into tonight's action.

Frazier Sparks Knicks After Injury Comeback

By George Knemeyer

When Walt Frazier was at SIU, his basketball ability was praised from El Paso, Tex., to New York City.

This year, as a member of the New York Knicks of the NBA, it has taken Frazier more than half the season to come around to the excellence that people have expected of him.

But he has finally arrived, and Sunday he proved that he was up to his old form.

Frazier sank two free throws with 37 seconds left in the game to give the Knicks a 129-127 victory over the San Francisco Warriors. Those points were two of 23 which he scored in that game.

Frazier's late blossoming in the NBA can be traced to an ankle injury, or rather, his recovery from it.

"I was down for quite a while but I was playing good defense," Frazier said. "Now I feel good because I've regained my confidence and I've had games of 16, 18 and 19 (points). In this game you have to throw the ball up when you get the shot."

"At first I wasn't taking the shots," the two-time All-American said. "I was passing off too much."

"The whole difference has been confidence," Frazier said, "and the pressure, which is off me now. When I came into training camp, I read all about what was expected of me and I guess I felt it. Also I hurt my leg which slowed my progress. It was a combination of things."

"But then Bill (Bradley) arrived and I was sort of pushed into the background. Now everybody is talking about what he can do and I'm not noticed as much. It's rough on him. He's going through what I already went through. Only more so."

Bradley joined the Knicks in December, and as Frazier said, immediately the pressure was on Bradley to produce. As of yet, he hasn't.

During his last five games, Frazier has hit for a 17.2 point per game average. His season's output is just 6.6, but climbing.

Frazier was the Knicks' first round draft choice in the player draft last year, even though he still had another year of college eligibility left. Frazier was academically ineligible during his junior year.

During his two years on the SIU varsity, Frazier averaged 17.7 points per game and 10.6 rebounds per game. Frazier was the key man in SIU's NIT victory.

With another year of eligibility left, Frazier is inevitably asked if he is sorry he left college to become a pro.

"No," Frazier replied. "When I made the decision I also decided that I would never look back. I hated to leave SIU but there comes a time in everyone's life when he must do what he thinks is right."

Colts Trade Haymond

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Former SIU football star Alvin Haymond has been traded by the Baltimore Colts in exchange for Tim Brown of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Haymond, a defensive back, was traded to gain Brown's offensive prowess. Brown is only one of eight players in NFL history to gain more than 10,000 yards.
