Somit tenders resignation

By Catherine Edman
Staff Writer

President Albert Somit has resigned, Chancellor Lawrence Pettit announced Monday.

The announcement capped weeks of speculation that Somit, 68, would either resign or retire. Somit's letter of resignation, which was given to Pettit on Oct. 13, will be effective Jan. 10.

Somit declined to discuss details of the resignation Monday evening, saying that "until the board acts, it is inappropriate for me to say anything."

An acting president will be appointed by Pettit, but will not be named until after the Board of Trustees meeting Nov. 13. The appointments of acting president and president must be approved by the trustees.

A nationwide search, similar to the one conducted by the chancellor, will begin after the board meeting.

The resignation was not made public until Monday, Pettit said in a telephone interview Monday night, because of negotiations about Somit's future with the University and his decision about when to reveal the news.

Other than saying he wanted to return to political science,

Somit did not give his reasons for the resignation, Pettit said.

Harris Rowe, board chairman, said he initially was surprised about the resignation and was told Monday by Pettit that the action was official. He said he knew of no pressure put on Somit to resign.

Pettit agreed that there was no pressure put on Somit to resign either by himself or any of the board members.

"The Somit years have been characterized by real stability in Carbondale," Rowe said. "That is what we were really looking for, stability."

Rowe said Somit's influence on SIU-C could be seen in an increase in enrollment this year and in the University's ability to "hold its own" while other institutions have seen enrollments decline.

He said that although he has only been head of the SIU system since July, he and Somit agreed about the goals and mission of the University.

"I think we both had a sense of where the University ought to be in the pecking order in the State of Illinois," he said.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, said he had known Somit since 1973, when Somit first interviewed for the president's job. Somit's biggest achievements at SIU-C were his emphasis on the honors and general studies programs and his support of student affairs initiatives, Swinburne said.

Pettit said he plans to ask the trustees to ratify Somit's request for reassignment to the Department of Political Science, where he is a tenured professor.

Trustees will be asked to grant Somit a one-year leave with pay to allow him to update his knowledge of research in his discipline, Pettit said.

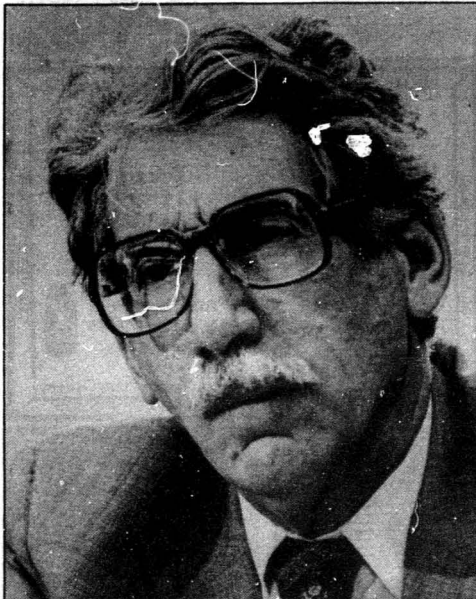

If the request is approved, Somit's salary will remain the same — slightly more than $89,000 — until he returns to a teaching position.

Somit submitted his resignation to the chancellor who must forward it with his recommendation to the board. Reassignments to other positions within the University must be approved by the trustees.

Anti-drug law 'major victory,' Reagan says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, setting the goal of "a drug-free generation," signed a $1.7 billion anti-drug law Monday and handed the pen to first lady Nancy Reagan, who has challenged America's youth to "just say no" to drugs.

"Today marks a major victory in our crusade against drugs," Reagan told a White House audience assembled for the signing ceremony.

The measure, drafted and passed in the final weeks of Congress as lawmakers clambered aboard the anti-drug bandwagon, stiffens penalties for virtually all federal drug crimes, increases the ranks of drug-fighting law officers, adds money for more jail cells and places a new emphasis on choking off the demand for drugs.

While saying "a combination

Anti-drug law penalties severe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The following are highlights of the $1.7 billion anti-drug bill President Reagan signed at a White House ceremony Monday.

The legislation affects only federal drug laws. All dollar amounts are in addition to regular fiscal 1987 levels or are new expenditures.

The bill includes:

- Stiffer penalties for convictions of virtually every drug-related offense.
- Double criminal penalties for using children to assist in the sale of drugs.
- Up to 20 years in prison and up to a $500,000 fine for making or distributing controlled substance analogs, commonly called "designer drugs."

— A new statute outlawing money laundering, carrying penalties of up to 20 years in prison and fines up to $250,000.

— U.S. foreign aid restrictions for drug-producing countries that do not cooperate in eradication efforts.

— $275 million for new drug treatment and rehabilitation programs.

— $230 million in federal block grants in each of the next three fiscal years to help state and local enforcement agencies combat drugs.

— $200 million for new drug education and prevention programs.

of tough laws, like the one we sign today, and a dramatic change in public attitudes" is the "vaccine" to end the drug epidemic, Reagan emphasized, "This legislation is not intended as a means of filling our jails with drug users."

Society, he said, must "identify those who use drugs, reach out to them, help them quit and give them the support they need to live right."

In his remarks, Reagan lauded both his wife and Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., for their efforts against illegal drugs. Hawkins, trailing in a tight re-election race with Democratic Gov. Bob Graham, stood smiling behind Reagan during his brief remarks in the East Room.

"The American people want their government to get tough and go on the offensive" against drugs, he said. "Our goal in this crusade is nothing less than a drug-free generation."

"It gives me great pleasure to sign legislation that reflects total commitment of Americans to fight the evil of drugs," he said before putting pen to paper, then handing the pen to the first lady, who stood at his right side.

Union advocates collective 'collegiate' stance

Editor's note: This is the second article in a series on collective bargaining at SIU.

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Open the mailbox of a University faculty or staff member and chances are you will find a press release from the Illinois Education Association-National Education Association.

As the most vocal group pushing for a collective bargaining contract for SIU System faculty and staff, IEA-NEA bills itself as the "largest, most powerful democratic professional collective bargaining organization in Illinois." This year, state legislators rated it the second most powerful lobbying group, after the American Medical Society.

It represents almost 1.7 million members nationally and about 60,000 Illinois educational employees.

It has been involved in organizing faculty of four-year institutions and community colleges since 1972.

In addition to SIU, the group represents faculty members at 14 community or junior colleges in Illinois and two universities: Northern Illinois and Western Illinois, according to the NEA 1985 Almanac.

The Illinois Educational Labor Relations Act, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1984, allows faculty and staff members of state universities and colleges to hold bargaining elections.

The law, says one IEA official, is a tool for opportunity. "It allows people to make for themselves a better situation in the workplace, which carries into their personal lives too," says David Vitoff, who has been an organizer for two years.

He is one of five IEA-NEA officials assigned to the SIU System, but he keeps his eye primarily on SIU-C.

Vitoff says he sees himself as a middleman, a facilitator. "I'm not a high-paid consultant who comes in and takes care of a problem for someone," he says.

"My goal is to find work that will allow people to admire themselves and make positive improvements in their professional, as well as private lives," he said.

The group filed petitions on April 23, 1985, with the Illinois Educational Labor Relations

Jackson in Mozambique for crash victims' funerals

NAPUTO, Mozambique (UPI) — A military honor guard fired a salute and a band solemnly played Mozambique's national anthem Monday as six flag-draped caskets were buried, beginning three days of funerals for President Samora Machel and 33 others killed in a plane crash. The Rev. Jesse Jackson told mourners: "Dry your eyes, hold your head up high and march on for freedom." A total of 17 victims of the disaster were buried Monday.

Miners strike for wage increases in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Up to 35,000 black miners stayed off the job Monday at three gold mines that rejected pay increases of up to 23 percent awarded in an industry settlement, a union spokesman said. It was the third time since 1984 — when black miners won the right to strike — that miners have attempted to force wage increases through legal walkouts. National Union of Mineworkers spokesman Marcel Golding said the strikes, by up to 35,000 miners, began late Sunday at three of six mines owned by the Goldfields Group. A company spokesman confirmed the walkout but put the number of strikers at 25,000.

Gorbachev criticizes Reykjavik interpretation

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev accused the United States Monday of grossly misrepresenting Reykjavik summit arms proposals but said there were still "opportunities for a search for solutions." Gorbachev made his remarks in a written reply to a question from participants in a writers conference in Sofia, Bulgaria. The reply was carried by the official news agency Tass and Radio Moscow.

Ex Air Force man tried espionage out of spite

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A former Air Force missile technician was arrested Monday on charges of trying to pass defense secrets to the Soviet Union out of "spite" for having been forced out of the military for "poor job performance." Alan John Davies, 33, was arrested in the San Francisco suburb of Palo Alto at his job with Ford Aerospace and Communications Corp., where he had worked as a laboratory technician since October 1984.

Contras to complete military training in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration, faced with refusals by four Central American countries to train Nicaraguan rebels, is planning to teach military tactics to the Contras in the United States, officials said Monday. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said he knew nothing about it, but the officials said planning for U.S. training of the Contras, as the rebels are known popularly, has been under way since early summer.

Attorney General

Hartigan defends first term, says office better than ever

By Dave Wrone
Staff Writer

In a race swirling with charges and rebuttals of financial wastefulness, incumbent Democrat Attorney General Neil Hartigan enters the final full week before election day entrenched in what he thinks has been a successful term.

"The citizens of Illinois today have an attorney general's office that serves them better than ever before," said Hartigan, who is completing his first term in office.

Hartigan, 48, a native of Chicago, said he made environmental protection one of his main priorities as Illinois' chief legal officer. In 1985, he created the Toxic Waste Strike Force to intensify an attack against environmental damage. As a result of the task force, Hartigan said, his office filed 23 hazardous waste suits — the second highest for any state in the nation — against various companies in 1985. Fifteen cases resulted in a cleanup of contaminated sites, Hartigan said.

He said the concept of regional attorney general offices is another of his successes. After assuming office in January 1983, Hartigan established 19 offices throughout the state. The offices are designed to give citizens more protection against consumer fraud and greater access to the state's legal services, he said.

These offices have been criticized by Hartigan's opponent, Cook County State's Attorney Bernard Carey. Carey said the offices waste taxpayers' money, while providing no service to citizens. Hartigan denied these charges.

Hartigan said his interest in providing extensive statewide protection has been reflected in measures he has taken to protect senior citizens. In February, 1986, he urged that home-repair fraud artists — people who grossly usually overcharge elderly homeowners for unnecessary repairs — be prosecuted for a criminal offense. With the aid of the Consumer Protection Division, indictments, convictions, jail sentences and heavy fines have been brought against dozens of home repair fraud artists, a Hartigan report said.

Carey said that Hartigan has increased the attorney general's budget and the expenditures. The budget was increased 47 percent, he said. In response, Hartigan said his office brings in $4 from toxic waste fines and consumer fraud refunds for every $1 that is spent.

Hartigan received a bachelor's degree from Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., and earned a law degree from Loyola University of Chicago. In 1973, he became, at age 34, the youngest lieutenant governor in the United States. After leaving politics in 1977 to work for the First National Bank of Chicago, Hartigan worked his way up to senior vice president. In 1982, he decided to return to politics and was elected Illinois attorney general.

Carey calls for elimination of regional office program

By Dave Wrone
Staff Writer

Charging that incumbent Attorney General Neil Hartigan has squandered state funds while attempting to further his political career, Republican challenger Bernard Carey said it is time to stop wasting taxpayers' dollars.

Carey, a 52-year-old former Cook County state's attorney, has repeatedly criticized Hartigan's regional office program. Hartigan said he started the offices to give Illinois citizens easier access to the state's legal powers, but Carey calls the regional offices, 19 in number, a "political waste of taxpayer dollars."

"After a thorough study of the offices and the duties being performed there, it is our conclusion that the regional offices should be immediately closed and consumer inquiries now being referred there should be handled by existing state agencies," Carey said. "It is time to stop wasting the taxpayer dollars on these regional offices."

Carey said that if elected, he will close all the offices in January and immediately reassign the attorneys in those offices to "serious law enforcement work protecting the rights and safety of Illinois residents." To replace the offices, Carey proposed establishing a 24-hour, toll-free telephone hotline to administer to consumers' needs.

Carey also charges that the offices were established to foster Hartigan's ambitions for governor. Hartigan contemplated running on the 1986 Democratic gubernatorial ticket but later withdrew when Adlai Stevenson announced his candidacy.

"The regional office concept was established by the incumbent attorney general as a means of spreading his name in preparation for his run for governor in 1986," Carey said. "The most blatant example of this is in Peoria, where the front of the regional office on a city square is emblazoned with the name 'Neil Hartigan' in letters approximately 18 inches high, while the title 'Attorney General' appears in letters about one-third that size. It is clear which name is being promoted at the expense of the office.

Carey also has accused Hartigan of failing to adequately pursue and prosecute toxic waste offenders. Hartigan has stated that preventing the dumping of hazardous wastes in Illinois has been a major concern since he took office. Carey said that after Hartigan organized a hazardous waste task force that made 20 legislative recommendations for federal prosecution, "Hartigan failed to obtain grand jury powers for statewide investigation" into the dumping.

Carey carries a 20-year background in law enforcement into the attorney general's race. After beginning his career in law enforcement as a special agent for the FBI, Carey went on to serve as undersheriff of Cook County and later Deputy Director of the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement. In 1972 he was elected Cook County State's Attorney, and again in 1975.

What's the reason for the tight lips?

RUMORS SEEMINGLY CIRCULATE ABOUT THIS CAMPUS with the frequency and volume of University paperwork. Their validity is anyone's guess, particularly because rumor sources don't want their names attached to the gossip, usually for fear of losing their jobs or social standings within the institution.

More importantly, they're not sure of the facts themselves. This is why speculation, originating earlier this month, regarding President Albert Somit's resignation was somewhat difficult to take seriously.

But University System Chancellor Lawrence Pettit confirmed the rumors Monday and added that Somit's documented resignation was at least two weeks old. Pettit said the announcement was hushed that long at least until negotiations concerning Somit's future at SIU-C were finished.

IT'S NOT LIKELY MANY STUDENTS WOULD CARE if Somit remained president. He didn't make it a practice to get out of his office and circulate among the students, or faculty, and he wasn't notorious among university presidents as a campus builder and developer. He seemed to like not making waves.

Waves should be made now, particularly in light of his resignation. It's obvious the University administration and the chancellor's office haven't been honest with the rest of the University. Delaying resignations for effect isn't professional. It's more an example of showboating. Effective administrators worry more about their credibility.

INTERESTING IN ITSELF IS SOMIT'S "FUTURE" at SIU-C, subject to Board of Trustees approval. He's expected to rake in about $89,000 — his current salary — during a year's leave from campus, then return to teach his specialty, political science, at an undetermined lower wage.

Pettit said, in a University News Service news release, the leave should allow Somit to update himself on research in his field.

If the University's top administrators are willing to stanch the information flow surrounding the resignation, what's to say they're not above doing the same regarding the reasons for tuition and housing increases.

LET'S NOT COMPENSATE ONE ERROR WITH ANOTHER. We should define our vague University mission statement — the campus' purpose for existing — to make us look more attractive to quality presidential candidates, to enhance the University's academic and research credibility, and lend a hint of credibility to the president's office.

Pettit won't say yes or no to whether he's dissatisfied with Somit's administration. It does, however, look strange that Somit would pull up stakes so soon after Pettit's appointment.

What gives? It's our school, too.

Where did the Foundation's South Africa holdings go?

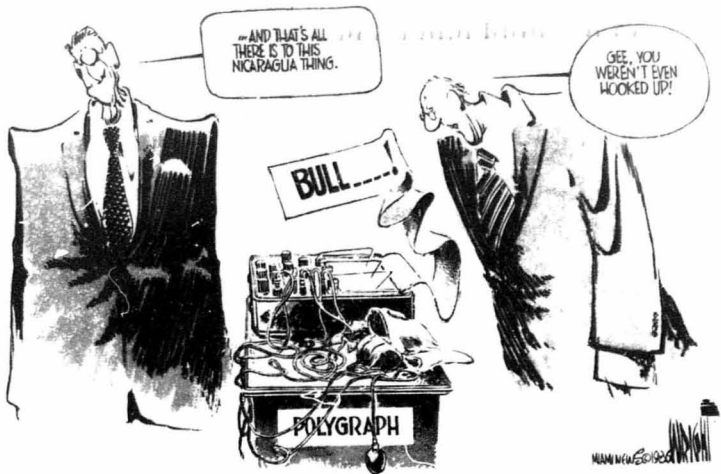

Now that the SIU Foundation has been convinced to divest in South Africa, I would like to ask the people who pushed for this action one simple question: Who did the Foundation sell its holdings to? The answer is: Someone who doesn't care about South Africa, otherwise they, too, would be divesting because of current pressure.

I am totally in favor of changing the status in South Africa, but is selling all our holdings the best idea? I have always been under the impression that owning stock in a company entitled the stock owner to vote his percentage. It would seem to me that banding together with other concerned stockholders to vote for a change in the company's hiring, wage, promotion and other policies in their South African branches is a much better idea.

Selling our stock is certainly the easy way out, because it allows us to wash our hands of apartheid and say we have nothing to do with it, but I don't think it is the best way to bring about changes in South Africa.

— Michael Phillips, graduate student, Geology.

Who should voters believe?

The citizens of Jackson County should be concerned about testimony in the recent trial of Brady Buckley. Jackson County Clerk Robert Harrell testified Buckley requested 500 applications for absentee ballots.

Harrell further testified that he gave Buckley 200 applications but had to have the other 300 printed. Why in the world would one precinct committeeman need 500 applications for absentee ballots? Why wasn't Harrell concerned about the request?

Harrell also testified that he told Buckley he could not deliver the absentee ballots to the county clerk's office. The absentee ballots had to be brought in by the person voting the ballots or mailed in.

The next day of the trial, another precinct committeeman testified that he had personally delivered absentee ballots to Harrell's office. Both Harrell and the precinct committeeman were under oath so who should the voters believe? It seems the second precinct committeeman was just following a different set of instructions.

The process of voting absentee ballots provides the greatest threat of vote fraud as the guilty verdict in this case indicates. It seems Mr. Harrell is not paying enough attention to the duties of the county clerk's office. Why did he advise Mr. Buckley he could not deliver absentee ballots to his office then allow another precinct committeeman to deliver absentee ballots to his office?

The worst one could conclude is that Mr. Harrell has violated the trust the people of Jackson County have placed in him as county clerk to administer elections fairly. The best one could conclude is that Mr. Harrell is guilty of very poor judgement and inconsistency in administering the election rules. — Dorothy M. Bodkin, Carbondale.

Crosswalks not for bicycles

This letter is in reference to crosswalks and bicyclists who think they are exempt from following rules. When I look out my office window, I can clearly see the crosswalk that links Thompson Point to Thompson Woods by the Agriculture Building.

Several times a day I hear a car lock its brakes to stop at the crosswalk. I look out and most of the time I see a bike with its driver speeding across the crosswalk. They don't even stop to tell the driver of the car, "I am sorry I was so ignorant and thank you for not running me over."

I have almost hit three bicyclists. Last year I did see the aftermath of an accident and I felt sorry for the car because it got scratched. I don't know if it's just me but when I see the crosswalk sign, I see a symbol of a person walking across the street.

I don't see anything that says bikes are allowed. Of course I only look for pedestrians when I come to a crosswalk. Campus police would make millions if they'd man these crosswalks and give tickets to rule-breaking bicyclists.

I won't write anything more except to those bicyclists who still wish to ride across crosswalks: 1) Don't do it when I'm driving because I'll just keep going; 2) You better check your insurance because damage done to my car will be paid by you; and 3) I am definitely not the only driver who feels this way, so you'd better keep your eyes peeled before we peel them for you. — Thomas E. Parcell Jr., researcher, Department of Forestry.

Liberal media not to be trusted

Robert Griffin should have majored in geography if he condemns America for violence in Angola. He should look south to the Soviet puppet state of Cuba.

There was an article by Nicholas Rowe in the "American Spectator" in August 1986, titled "Village of the Living Dead."

He was in Angola with a Canadian news team. The name is given to a small village housing refugee women from the regions under control of the Luanda communist regime. Some women are mutilated, others have lost their mind, all are victims of Soviet-inspired barbarism.

The villagers are divided into groups. Pregnant women and the very old are shot, clubbed or bayoneted to death. Other old women are taken to prison to work. The younger women are raped and the young men are sent to military training.

A Cuban who deserted to join UNITA said any village more than ten kilometers outside a town was automatically considered to favor UNITA and was therefore subjected to "punitive" measures.

In times of crisis or blackmail, the Soviet-Sandinista and Cuban puppets will control the Yucatan Channel and Florida Straits, the strategic rear of the U.S., where 56 percent of our imported oil and 45 percent of our foreign trade flows. — Donald Harris, Murphysboro.

State lottery inefficient, says treasurer candidate

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

You've got to have money to make money, and Mike Houston, Republican candidate for State Treasurer says Illinois could make a lot more money if it collected money from lottery ticket sales sooner.

Houston, who spoke Wednesday at Southern Illinois Airport, said Illinois could make more than $1.25 million in interest by investing ticket sales receipts immediately.

It takes 11 days for money from the state's 3,000 lottery retailers to be collected, he said.

An automated collection system that could zap money directly from the retailer to the state treasury would cost about $50,000, and allow the state to cash in on the interest it is not earning now, he said.

Houston, who has been mayor of Springfield since 1979, said he also wants to enlist bankers to show local treasurers how to earn more money for their communities.

Houston's proposed program for public treasurers would include semi-annual conferences and a monthly newsletter on trends, law and investing.

"Local banks throughout the state of Illinois do this for their customers, the state treasurer can do this same type of thing for public treasurers," he said.

Houston, citing a recent study by the U.S. Department of Commerce, said 97 percent of Illinois businesses have fewer than 100 employees. That is a figure, Houston said, he would like to increase.

By committing $50 million in long-term, fixed-rate loans for small, but potentially successful, businesses, Houston said the state could earn maximum income while helping create more jobs. Under the program, for every one permanent job.

$10,000 borrowed, the business would be required to provide

"By investing fifty-million dollars the state treasurer could help create five thousand jobs," Houston said.

Criticizing his opponent, Democrat Jerry Cosentino, Houston said Cosentino's record shows a lack of dedication. According to Houston, Cosentino was a part-time treasurer and a full-time businessman during his term as treasurer from 1979 to 1982.

Houston cited records from Illinois Commerce Commission saying that during Cosentino's term he worked 2000 hours a year, or 41 hours a week, for his private trucking business.

"If he worked 40 hours a week as a chief executive for a trucking company it doesn't leave much time for a full-time position in state government," he said.

ACLU supports gay marriages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union, under a new formal policy statement, is seeking elimination of legal barriers to homosexual and lesbian marriages, officials of the group said Monday.

"This new statement extends the general anti-discrimination principle of existing policy and specifies ACLU support for changing laws of marriage," said Nan

D. Hunter, director of the ACLU Lesbian and Gay Rights Project.

The ACLU has long been on record as opposing discrimination based on sexual orientation and against any laws prohibiting homosexual conduct.

According to the new policy statement, recognition of homosexual and lesbian marriages and the recognition of economic benefits for "life partners" similar to those enjoyed by a spouse in a heterosexual marriage, is "imperative for the complete legal equality of lesbians and gay men."

The benefits covered by the policy include employee fringe benefits, insurance coverage, income tax benefits and visitation and next-of-kin rights.

UNION, from Page 1

Board to exclusively represent SIU faculty and staff. The IEA-NEA wants to have five bargaining units for faculty and professional staff at SIU-C and SIU-E, including faculty at the Alton Dental School.

Tenured faculty members of the Medical School are not allowed to be included in a bargaining unit, according to the labor law.

The campuses, it contends, should be represented individually rather than as one entity because of "differing communities of interests," including contract length, review processes, lengths of work weeks and sheer numbers.

Most of SIU-C's 1,200 faculty members are on nine-month appointments, are reviewed by their peers, and hold class and office hours. The University's more than 400 professional staff members are on 12-month appointments, are reviewed by their supervisors and work 37.5 hours per week.

The differences are enough to argue for splitting the two groups. IEA-NEA officials say, "You're not diminishing numbers when it comes to a contract," Vitoff says. "Success is determined by cohesion and that's determined by who is in the group."

With two units, faculty and professional staff will get "tailor-made contracts" that give both groups leverage and equality with University administrators in negotiating the terms and conditions of employment, the group contends.

Among the concerns of faculty members are salaries, governance academic freedom and job security — but not necessarily in that order, Vitoff says.

"They want to regain what has steadily eroded over the last 10 to 15 years, a binding voice in University policies that affects their professional lives," he says. "Their first concern is restoring governance."

By having a stronger voice in faculty governance, he says, faculty would be able to strengthen their role in determining how resources are allocated at the University.

"Specifically, they want to be paid somewhat closer to the level that other professionals in society are making. Sure they want higher salaries. It's not a selfish thing. It's because they deserve higher salaries," Vitoff says.

Salaries at SIU-C are below those of other Category I institutions, according to Academe, an American Association of University Professors publication. Category I institutions are those that grant at least 30 doctoral-level degrees in at least three doctoral-level programs.

"One large reason you see a lot of people leaving the university field is because they can't make ends meet anymore," Vitoff says. With school loans to pay off and families to support, younger faculty members are looking at the bottom line to see if they're going to have enough to get by, he says.

While SIU administrators say union representation can destroy faculty governance, IEA-NEA officials say it enhances governance. "Strength is governance," Vitoff says.

Bargaining will not replace the traditional roles of the faculty and professional staff constituencies, he says, but will help give the two groups legally-binding voices in academic decision-making.

With a contract, the faculty will maintain its traditional role, Vitoff says, and the administration will maintain its original role: service, not leadership. "Somehow over time, the process has been reversed to where the administration calls the shots and the faculty need to follow," he says.

Vitoff and other IEA officials blame an erosion of faculty governance on an increased centralization of University management.

IEA organizer Marc Albrecht says, "The administration has adopted an industrial corporate style of management. It's a disease and the cure for it is collective bargaining."

"It can re-establish collegiality, faculty governance and the faculty ranks that faculty always assumed to be theirs as givens," Albrecht says.

Vitoff says collective bargaining's bottom line is helping faculty and professional staff hang on to what they have and enjoy about their jobs. Bargaining simply defines the rules of the game, he says.

"It's a conservative measure so that when new people come along, they understand how it has to be. That's a real secure feeling that appeals to people," he says. "They like that idea."

Tomorrow's article will focus on the University Professionals of SIU.

Presidential bid in 1988 unlikely, says Simon

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, still "brand new in the Senate," said Monday he probably will not campaign for the White House in 1988.

The freshman senator from Ma and said he has received "substantial" national support for a presidential bid, but he does not relish the idea of spending much of the next two years on the campaign trail.

"I am somewhat reluctant to, in effect, leave the Senate for a while to campaign for the presidency when I'm brand new in the Senate," Simon said during a Statehouse news conference.

"My colleagues in the Senate have treated me very well. I think I can say very honestly that I have been a reasonably effective United States senator, and to leave that for the chance of becoming president, I'm just reluctant at this point to do that."

However, Simon said he has not "closed the door" on the idea of seeking the top job at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. and he added he will not pledge not to run for the presidency.

"I'm not ruling it (a presidential campaign) out absolutely," he said. "The odds are that I will not run."

Simon was elected to the Senate in 1984 and before that, he served 10 years in the U.S. House representing Southern Illinois. He said if he had served a half-dozen or so years in the Senate by now, he would be more likely to make a presidential bid.

The 57-year-old senator's name has popped up frequently in Washington news columns as a new face the Democrats could field in 1988. Simon said he also has received support from fellow politicians.

"I'd be fooling you if I said there was any huge groundswell or draft out there, but it has been, candidly, very substantial," Simon said.

He added, however, he doubts a presidential nominee will be selected on the basis of a large draft within the Democrat Party. Rather, he said, the successful nominee will have campaigned actively for months.

Simon said he and his family will discuss his political future during the upcoming Thanksgiving holiday.

Also during the news conference, which was held on behalf of 50th District Democratic state Senate candidate Sam Cahnman of Springfield, Simon said political campaigns this year have been too negative. One way to at least reduce negative campaign advertising, though, would be to publicly finance major political campaigns.

Election '86 at a glance

COMPTROLLER — Democratic incumbent Roland Burris is running against Republican State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis. Burris, an SIU-C graduate, has proposed raising the state income tax while lowering the sales tax, which he says would offset changes in federal tax laws. Geo-Karis, a native of Greece with 14 years in the Illinois General Assembly, opposes Burris' plan and has criticized his political ambitions.

STATE TREASURER — Former state treasurer Jerry Cosentino faces a challenge from Springfield Mayor Mike Houston. Democrat Cosentino said he wants to encourage the purchase of Illinois-made products with low interest loans of state funds. Republican Houston said he wants to provide training programs for local government treasurers and to invest state funds in ways that encourage economic growth.

116th LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT — Twelve-year incumbent Bruce Richmond, D-Murphysboro, faces Republican challenger Herman Wright of Anna. Richmond, a former Murphysboro mayor, said he is a booster for education, agriculture and tourism. Wright, former chairman of the Union County Industrial Board, said he wants to attract more industry to the area and to reform workmen's compensation programs in Illinois.

59TH SENATE DISTRICT — Democratic incumbent Glenn Poshard of Carterville is running against Republican Richard Simmons. Poshard, who was appointed in 1984 to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Gene Johns, said he wants to ease overcrowding in area jails and help farm and coal industries. Simmons, a Marion businessman, wants to encourage small business development and supports the development of a wood pulp industry in the area.

117th LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT — James Rea, D-Christopher, is running for a fifth term against Doris Boynton, R-Marion. Rea said he would use his background in community development to encourage economic growth and cited his support of the coal industry. Boynton, a business consultant, said she wants to protect the coal industry, help senior citizens and improve the area economy.

118th LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT — Democrat David Phelps of Eldorado is running for a second term against Republican Guy Labr of Metropolis. Phelps said he wants to diversify industrial development in Southern Illinois by attracting automobile-related plants. Lahr, a lawyer, said he would like to develop river transportation to attract industry.

Trick or treat precautions can protect children, pets

Friday night is the official "trick or treat" night for Carbondale children under 14 years of age, Mayor Helen Westberg has announced.

Parents are urged to have their children home by 9 p.m. The mayor is requesting that homeowners turn on their porchlights and exterior lights to indicate that they will be welcoming trick-or-treaters.

Carbondale Police have assembled a list of precautions to ensure that young spooks and goblins avoid any typical Halloween hazards.

- Hazards to watch for:
- Children crossing the street, particularly after dark;
  - Dangerous, loose or bulky costumes;
  - Masks that reduce vision;
  - Dark, hard-to-see costumes;
  - Treacherous treats.

- Know your child's plans:
- What area they will be trick-or-treating in;
  - Who they will be with;
  - What kind of supervision they will have;
  - What time they will be home.

- Costume safety tips:
- Wear reflective clothing or tape on costumes;
  - Face makeup is safer than masks;

- Carry a flashlight for better visibility;
- Toy weapons should be made of cardboard to avoid injury;
- Trick-or-treat bags should be small enough to prevent tripping.

- Review safety rules for walking:
- Cross streets only at crosswalks and intersections;
  - Look both ways before crossing a street;
  - Be alert for cars turning at intersections;
  - Stay on sidewalks when possible;
  - Never walk into the street from between parked cars.

- Treats should be inspected before anything is eaten:
- Fruit should be washed and cut into small pieces to ensure that nothing has been placed inside.

- Unpackaged items like popcorn and small candies should be discarded;
- Treats with opened, loose or torn wrappers should be discarded;
  - Police should be contacted immediately if it is apparent that treats have been tampered with.

- Home safety tips:
- Greet children at the door, but don't encourage them to

- come inside;
- Keep a porch light on so children can see where to walk;
  - Remove obstacles, including jack-o-lanterns, from steps, porch, and sidewalk to avoid accidents.

ALTHOUGH YOUNGSTERS face their share of Halloween dangers, pets also deserve protection, according to the Jackson County Animal and Rabies Control Department.

The department urges pet owners to keep dogs and cats indoors, away from costumed critters who can put a scare into pets as well as people. Make sure your pet has an identification tag in case it gets outside and lost in all the excitement.

Pets kept inside should be kept away from the front door to avoid confrontations with trick-or-treaters, the department advises.

Owners of black cats should be particularly careful to keep their cat away from Halloween revelers, the department says, because all the mythology surrounding black cats, witches and Halloween itself can cause the dark felines to become targets of those overcome with Halloween enthusiasm.

AIDS Task Force emphasizes prevention

By Paula Kurtzweil
Staff Writer

Four cases of AIDS have been reported in Jackson County, according to the coordinator of a countywide AIDS task force, and members of the group are working to prevent the spread of the deadly disease.

According to Virginia Scott, director of nursing for the Jackson County Public Health Department and coordinator of the 14-member task force, reports on the incidence of acquired immune deficiency syndrome indicate that only the tip of the iceberg is being seen.

Although four cases of AIDS have been reported in Jackson County, Scott said she believes there is a higher number of people in the county with AIDS-Related Complex, a milder illness caused by the AIDS virus.

Because documentation is kept only on reports of AIDS cases, Scott said there is no way of knowing how many people have contracted HTLV-III. People with the virus are considered contagious and thus can transmit the infection to others.

The task force provides information and educational materials to local professionals who might work with AIDS victims or persons considered to be in a high-risk category of getting the virus.

Since the task force's inception one year ago, members have given presentations and workshops to area nurses, physicians, dentists, morticians, teachers and law enforcement personnel, Scott said. Future plans for the task force include organizing a support group for AIDS victims and developing resources for those who test positive for Human T-Lymphotropic Virus Type III, which is believed to cause AIDS.

The task force was established on the recommendation of the Illinois Department of Public Health. Scott said the department wanted to target university communities for AIDS education because of the higher incidence of AIDS seen in these areas.

Scott said the Health Department offers blood tests which can indicate the presence of the antibody to HTLV-III. She added that this service is available to University students and testing is done with anonymity.

The cost of the test, plus education and counseling, is $30. Scott said financial arrangements can be made for persons who can not afford to pay the fee.

Miami still No. 1; Michigan climbs up to No. 2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Penn State, coming off a rout of then-No. 2 Alabama, was edged by one point by Michigan for the No. 2 ranking in the nation Monday in voting by the UPI Coaches Board.

Michigan, which earned one first-place vote and 668 points, jumped from No. 4 to No. 2. Penn State, a 23-3 victor over Alabama, received two No. 1 votes and also climbed two spots to reach No. 3 with 667 points.

Both teams remained well behind No. Miami, which held on to the No. 1 ranking for the fourth straight week. The Hurricanes, 7-0 after an off week, received 47 of 50 first-place votes to earn 745 of a possible 750 points.

Oklahoma and Auburn both moved up two spots to No. 4 and No. 5, respectively, as losses by Alabama and then-No. 3 Nebraska altered the look of the top five.

The rest of the top 10 is Washington at No. 6, Arizona State at No. 7, Alabama at No. 8, Nebraska at No. 9 and Texas A&M at No. 10.

The Crimson Tide and Cornhuskers each fell six positions. Colorado stunned

Detroit bashing hobbles McMahon with sore ankle

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (UPI) — Brittle Bears quarterback Jim McMahon is expected to start against the Los Angeles Rams next Monday night despite suffering a sprained ankle in Sunday's 13-7 win over Detroit.

McMahon, who injured the ankle in the first half of the game, hobbled around the Bears' training site in Lake Forest Monday as he also continued to nurse a sore shoulder and bad back.

Asked if the ankle had improved over Sunday, McMahon shrugged, "no."

But trainer Fred Caito said the extra day the Bears have off in preparation for the Monday night game should help McMahon.

"Each day it's going to get better. It's sore today," Caito said. "He should continue to get more movement on it every day."

McMahon, who missed the start against Minnesota two weeks ago with a sore shoulder, returned Sunday.

the Cornhuskers 20-10.

The Nittany Lions, 7-0, proved they were contenders and not pretenders with a soft schedule by handing Alabama its worst defeat in a decade and holding the Southeastern Conference's leading running attack to 44 yards.

"I really thought we were better than Alabama coming down here," Penn State Coach Joe Paterno said. "I felt we might be a little bit stronger and probably just as quick in a lot of key spots. We have been looking forward to this game for a long time."

With the rout, the Nittany Lions earned the respect of both the Board of Coaches and the Crimson Tide.

"Penn State has toyed around with everybody they've played, just like they toyed with us," Alabama offensive line coach Jimmy Fuller said. "That's a much better Penn State team than we've played the last couple of years."

Miami faces its last tough test Saturday in Florida State.

2—unranked Others receiving votes: Brigham Young, Colorado, Colorado State, Fresno State, Georgia, Mississippi State, Pittsburgh, Stanford and Virginia Tech.

The Seminoles were last ranked on Sept. 22.

"Of course, it's nice to be back in the top 20 but when you're playing the No. 1 team in the country, you can't be too concerned about rankings," Seminoles Coach Bobby Bowden said. "We could find ourselves back out of there real quick."

"This is a case of the best in the nation going against a team that's not too bad. I'm not sure whether we are good enough to have a chance to beat them. They are without question the most talented team in the country — the results of their games and their ranking prove that. This is one game where we can't make mistakes. If we do, we'll have no chance."

Besides Florida State, teams joining the Top 20 this week are Ohio State and Southern Cal.

Surprise NFL drug testing ruled illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An arbitrator Monday blocked NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle's plan to randomly test NFL players for illegal drugs, saying the program violates the players' contract with management.

Arbitrator Richard Kasher, responding to a grievance filed by the NFL Players Association, ruled Rozelle lacks the authority to implement such a program without going through the usual bargaining process with the union.

In a 78-page decision, the Bryn Mawr, Pa., arbitrator said Rozelle could not unilaterally alter the 1982 collective bargaining agreement, which expires at season's end, adding the commissioner is not endowed with "absolute" and "unqualified" power.

"This is probably the most important decision concerning the commissioner's powers that has ever come down," said Gene Upshaw, the players union's executive director. "We feel very strongly about our collective bargaining agreement. We had an obligation and a duty to go out and protect it and that's exactly what we've done."

Kasher also said Rozelle has the power to implement a program of fines and suspensions against drug users and endorsed a central laboratory to handle the processing of urinalysis tests, which the union had opposed.

"I'm gratified that the arbitrator has upheld this office's authority to institute an augmented drug program of education, treatment and discipline," Rozelle said in a statement. "I'm disappointed, however, that he has ruled against unscheduled drug testing."

title. SIU, 3-1 and 5-3 with the win, moved from 20th in the NCAA I-AA poll to 18th, while Eastern moved up to 6th from 8th. Northern Iowa received votes, but did not rank for the second week running.

UNI kept that position by downing Western Illinois 32-30 at the UNIDome in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Mike Smith passed for 287 yards in fending off a late Western charge. UNI stands at 2-2, 4-2-1 while WIU dropped to 1-3, 4-4.

In nonconference action, Indiana State bombed Division III opponent Buffalo State, 27-0.

Next week, only one Gateway matchup dots a weekend filled with non-conference action.

SIU will hope to keep playoff hopes alive with a win over SMSU at Southwest Missouri.

In nonconference action, UNI travels to Montana State, WIU plays host to Northwest Missouri, EIU plays host to Winona State and Indiana State travels to Cincinnati.

Dorr undaunted by offensive stats

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Even though the SIU football team is on a three-game win streak, the offense has been struggling. With two must-win games remaining on the schedule, Saluki coach Ray Dorr should be getting concerned.

But he isn't. "I'm really not too concerned with the offense, defense or kicking game," Dorr said Monday morning. "My major concern, my only concern, is the overall approach and attitude the players take the first 14 days of the season."

If the Salukis are to remain in contention for the Gateway title or an at-large berth to the NCAA I-AA playoffs, the offense must put points on the board. Scoring just enough to win is fine, but having a little breathing room would do wonders for the blood pressure of Dorr and his assistant coaches.

In five of the Salukis' six wins, just enough points have been scored. Austin Peay, Youngstown State, Indiana State, Northern Iowa and Illinois State were all down-to-the-wire games that might have gone either way.

Dorr said it would be nice to have shiny-looking statistics, but adds that stats don't tell the whole story.

"Stats are for losers and media people," Dorr said. "They're something to talk about when you don't have much else to discuss."

"Our 6-3 record is the only stat that matters now," he said.

Since Dorr isn't concerned with stats, his offense should make him smile.

In the last three weeks, the Saluki offense has scored just four touchdowns. Ron Miller has averaged five points per game through that span, while the defense is contributing an average of six points per contest.

Despite three crucial wins, the offense has not gained in each contest—323 yards per game for SIU's opponents to 243 yards per game for the Salukis. The Dogs are averaging just 2 of 12 third-down conversions (7 of 37) per game and are coughing the ball up an average of three times per game.

But Dorr remains unfazed by these numbers, saying the key is that the Dogs are still finding a way to win.

Thirty drives have been stopped after five plays or fewer, while 29 drives have been stopped short of 30 yards total gain. Twenty-one drives have gone for 10 yards or less.

"You can't take the last three games or the middle two games or anything like that," Dorr said. "You have to look at the whole picture."

The high point of these statistics is the solid Saluki ground game, still the best in the Gateway. It features the conference's top two rushers—Anthony Vaughn and Mel Kirksy.

The Dogs have ground out an average of 157 yards per game rushing during the last three games, accounting for 65 percent of the Salukis' total offense.

"Establishing our running game early has always been important, and this year is no exception," Dorr said. "We can't deny that it's our bread and butter."

Men harriers first; top runner back

By Peter Rechenberg
Staff Writer

The men's cross country team had a good tuneup for the Missouri Valley Conference meet Nov. 1 by winning the Ole Miss Invitational Friday.

SIU totalled 43 points, followed by Murray State with 72, Arkansas State and Memphis State.

Saluki coach Bill Cornell was happy with his team's overall performance. The Salukis had three runners in the top ten. David Lamont was second overall with a time of 24:10. Billy Darling was fifth with a time of 24:55 and Andy Pettigrew was ninth with a time of 25:15.

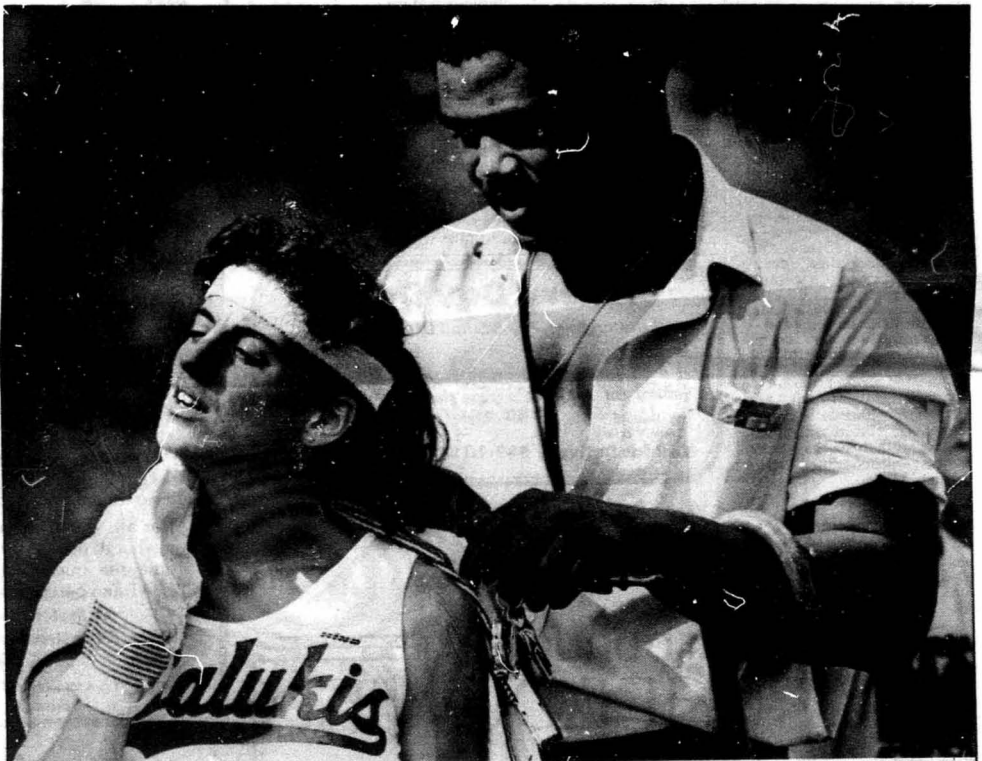

"I'm pretty much pleased with the way we ran," Cornell said. "Billy Darling ran exceptionally well."

However, Cornell was a little disappointed in the way Pettigrew ran. "This race shows that Andy lost valuable training time (due to injury)," Cornell said. "The course was pretty hilly and Andy said that hurt him."

Cornell doesn't think Pettigrew will be at full strength for the conference meet Saturday.

"We don't want to practice too hard this week," Cornell said, adding that he will take his top seven runners to the MVC meet at Illinois State.

Jobie Kelly, Scott Gill, David Beauchem, and Jack Shepherd will join Pettigrew, Lamont and Darling at the meet.

Eastern and SIU still in hunt for Gateway championship

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Eastern Illinois moved to the top of the Gateway Conference football standings with a win over Southwest Missouri, coupled with SIU's win over Illinois State.

Eastern (4-1 conference, 7-1 overall) trailed SMSU 13-0 after the first quarter, but stormed back on a 379-yard passing performance by Sean Payton. The All-America quarterback pulled to within 365 yards of 10,000 career yards passing.

Payton broke a 20-20 tie in the fourth quarter by tossing two TD passes to Calvin Pierce to ice the game and the Gateway conference lead for the Panthers.

EIU defensive tackle John Jurkovic was named the defensive player of the week for recording six sacks and 15 tackles. Jurkovic led a charge that netted 12 quarterback sacks.

Pierce, EIU's senior slotback, nabbed the Gateway's offensive player of the week honors for catching nine passes for three touchdowns and a school record 238 yards.

Pierce had earlier set a Gateway receiving record with 199 receiving yards in a 52-7 route over SIU.

Illinois State, meanwhile, was losing its half-game lead over Eastern for the top Gateway spot with a 20-3 homecoming loss to SIU.

The Redbirds went into the contest in first place via an early season win over EIU, but a sputtering offense combined with a steady rain and a tough Saluki defense dampened the Redbirds' hopes of a Gateway
