Mrs. Foote Named Head Of Sigma Xi

Mrs. Florence Foote, associate professor of physiology, was elected the first president of SIU's new chapter of Sigma Xi.

She was chosen from among 112 charter members, all of whom hold Sigma Xi membership earned at other institutions.

Sigma Xi is a national honorary society for the encouragement of original research in science, pure and applied.

Mrs. Foote and her late husband, Charles L. Foote, professor of zoology, came to SIU in 1947 and had attained distinction as a research team. Their study of tsetse culture had gained international attention, leading to three trips abroad since 1955 for research and reports on their work. Together they published more than a score of research articles in scientific journals.

Mrs. Foote is the author of a student's study guide and a textbook in the position in a series on "The Diversity of Animals," issued by the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

A graduate of Mt. Holyoke College, Mrs. Foote holds master's and Ph.D. degrees from State University of Iowa. Before coming to SIU she taught at Mt. Holyoke, at the University of Delaware and at Wagner College.

She is a member of the American Society of Zoologists, the Sigma Pi, the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters and the Presbyterian Church.

The formal installation of the SIU chapter is a result of the petition sent to the Century Building by students in the spring of 1966, expressed in the petition is a desire that the university should be represented by one Sigma Xi chapter.

The group does not object to the fees in general, according to Gilbert Todd, president of the association.

"Fees in other parts of the campus charge admission fees, but they have something to charge for," Todd said. "If the money would be used to make it (Crab Orchard) a better place, I don't think people would object to paying," he said. Better facilities are needed to justify the fees. The area should be brought up to "arrest-with the guards, cleaner grounds and improved toilets."

The association has circulated petitions throughout Southern Illinois, asking President Johnson to suspend the fees. One of the views expressed in the petition is that fees are already being charged where they are justified, such as in the camping areas and at the concession services.

In a letter to President Johnson the association estimated that Southern Illinois will lose several million tourist dollars because of a "net fee return to the government of a few thousand dollars."

According to the letter, Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge officials estimate a net return to the government this year of $30,000 if the fees are charged.

The association received an answer to the letter from Clarence F. Pautzke, deputy assistant to Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Pautzke pointed out that Little Crassy and Devil's Kitchen are "not designated to be charged," and that the proceeds from the other federal recreational areas, improvements to the area, the added, are financed through general appropriations, so that the area will indirectly receive a return from the fees.

Pautzke explained that in addition to money previously appropriated to the Crab Orchard area, the State of Illinois has been appropriated about $3.5 million for 1965-66 and another estimated $2.5 million for 1967, to be used for new state recreational areas and developments.

The association also has received letters opposing the fees from Rep. Kenneth Gray and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

"This shifts the responsibility to the University. It also makes it easier for the University to plan in advance what we will do," Clarence Henderson, assistant dean of international services, said.

About five faculty members a year would receive awards. SIU is one of 30 schools under consideration as a source of candidates in pre-determined fields. If SIU entered into a contract with Hopkins' office, SIU candidates would be considered separately from regular competitors for Fulbright awards.

Fulbright Awards to Be Discussed

A representative of the U.S. Department of State will be on campus today and Saturday to discuss a permanent relationship between SIU and the Office of U.S. Programs and Service in regard to Fulbright awards.

Frank S. Hopkins, director of the Office of U.S. Programs and Service, will meet with SIU dealers at 1:30 p.m. and with other faculty members at 3:30 p.m. today in the faculty lounge of the Wam Education Building.

According to the International Services Division, the objective of the meetings is to explore the establishment of a permanent agreement whereby SIU will furnish qualified candidates to be considered under the Fulbright-Hays program for lecture and scholarship overseas.

At the present, it is up to the individuals to apply for a Fulbright award. The Office of U.S. Programs and Service is trying to institutionalize the process.

The University will undertake to provide faculty members across visiting professors.

The bill, introduced by Ray Lanzi, stated that "both the students and the institution would be better served if our curriculum were constantly subjected to evaluation and constructive criticism."

Another bill introduced by Lanzi calling for faculty evaluation was signed by the Senate academic affairs committee. The study would "openly investigate" teaching methods and faculty, if passed.

A bill to open discussions with the Board of Trustees to change the University's policy concerning student government was passed.

The bill, introduced by David Wilson, stated, "Student government in a state university should be allowed to determine its own structure and function."

It also charged that the existence of a faculty senate government at SIU was "superimposed" upon student government.

A bill creating an educational policy board "for the review of and suggestions concerning educational policy at the University is up for floor debate." (Continued on Page 16)

Faculty Rating Also Proposed

The campus Senate plans to compose curriculum evaluation boards to distribute to the student body.

A bill passed Wednesday night calls for the student-body president to meet with the chairman of the Faculty Council and the associate dean of students to set up a joint student-faculty committee to develop and administer the study.

It was noted during discussion on the measure that professional help would be needed in writing the questionnaires.

Upperclass Coeds Deserve Freedom

It is the responsibility of the University to guide students in their quest for a worthwhile and beneficial education. This is demonstrated in the provisions of housing, facilities, academic requirements, and regulations governing the behavior of students.

Granted, this guidance is both necessary and beneficial; without it many students would fall prey to the many temptations which are predominant in the campus community.

But the University can only do so much in the area of guidance. Once it has devolved its standards of expected behavior and accomplishment in the students, results are above and beyond.

Lights on Lot Would Deter Cycle Thefts

At present the motorcycle parking lots at Thompson Point are a haven for persons interested in prospecting the cycles. The only lighting in the lot consists of a few bare street lights, and high bushes around the lots shield them from the passerby.

Thomas W. Darby, Thompson Point area head, has made an attempt to at least partially remedy this situation by filling in some application for lighting for the lots.

While lighting of the parking areas would in no way be a cure-all for the problem of cycle thefts, it would undoubtedly serve as a deterrent to the thieves, and more importantly, it would make it much easier for the Security Police to watch the lots.

Installation of this lighting as quickly as possible should be undertaken by the University. In the interest of the several hundred motorbike owners who must trust their cycles in these areas,

Inadequate Choices Given On Selective Service Test

To the editor:

The sample Selective Servcice Test qualification test now being circulated contains several instances of the kind of "objective" question that penalizes the intelligent student.

The test questions the Household, "Loveliest of Trees, the Cherry Now," and follows it with three questions, for which five choices each are given as answers. The answers given for two of the questions are all inadequate; but the clever examinee can second-guess the "correct" answer.

For the other question the correct answer is given in several alternatives, but the examinee has not the time to list and try each alternative. Instead he must look at the clue is Housman's own statement that he wrote the poem in 1896. The poem was published in 1896, and the examinee should be able to guess the correct answer.

Health Hazard Explanation: TP Needs Aid

To the editor:

After reading Mr. Smith's article, "Unclean Silver Is TP Health Hazard", I feel it is important to explain the cause of the "fifth filth.

I work in the dish room of the University, and have observed student workers and two civil service workers for approximately one half of the necessary crew.

We run approximately 5,200 pieces of silverware per meal through the dish machine twice before it is decontaminated by washing. We also run through trays of clean fruits and vegetables, breakfast cereal, and bowls, dessert dishes, vegetable dishes, plus a large quantity of clean fruit bowls, coffee cups and saucers.

This, along with the silverware, totals over 11,700 items to run through the dish machine in a little over 120 minutes.

The ideal situation would be to have every utensil and dish in immaculate condition. It is impossible to do with our short-handed conditions.

I am not denying the existence of the problems, but merely bringing them to the attention of others, and all others interested that we in the dish room are tryning to do the best we can, but not work satisfactory to everyone.

We run our meals at the same time that these individuals are employed in correcting the situation by deed and not by word.

University Should Reconsider Use of Student Standings

To the editor:

The system which is determined by "class standing" is conducive to immaturity—that is, the idea that you must follow, for men (or students) to be "able" to speak of men (or students) to be "able"

Any student who knows much about poetry and who thinks about the question will realize that the only possible answer is "One cannot tell." Had the question read, "How old was the speaker?", 20 would have been the correct answer.

The age of the poet when he wrote the poem, however, is quite another thing. One elementary prerequisite of literary criticism is that a book is in its source material for biographical statement. To assume it is naive and leads to conclusions is parently undesired by the Science Research Associates. Housman was born in 1859, "Loveliest of Trees, the Cherry Now" was published in 1896 in his first volume, "A Shropshire Lad," for which he had considered the title "The Poems of Terence Hearsay." To Terence Hearsay is the name of the fictional poet of Shakespeare, presumable to the reader in "Loveliest of Trees, the Cherry Now." Housman's age when he wrote the poem in a question for literary biographers. One clue is Housman's own statetein the spring of 1895.

Without documentary evidence, the only definite statement that can be made about the problem is that Hous-man was the poet more than 25 years later than his 37th year.

I wouldn't raise such a fuss about this matter if it didn't present the appalling possibility that bright students might be drafted over dull ones. Good students are rare enough anyway.

Christmas-Pushing Merchants Backed by Honolulu Churches

Copley News Service

HONOLULU — Has the Christmas season encroached on Thanksgiving?

Like many mainlanders, some Honoluluans think not. Last year the city council tried to ban Thanksgiving on the calendar.

It also adopted a resolution urging merchants not to start their Christmas promotions until December 1.

Now, however, the merchants have received support from groups who favor the Selective Service Test was frustrated by the first lesson Machiavelians are learning to jump on the cart before they get off them, all they grossly violated one of the basic principles of SIU—that is "This promotion is on free, with responsibility"

University should, therefore, reconsider its acceptance of class standing as the standard for determining student deferments.

John N. Stondorius
The Potenser of mass education are the teachers who present the material to students strictly by the outline the department issues. These "teachers" follow the form, but miss the essence. They show the students "how" but never "why." Several years ago Max Beberman of the University of Illinois and several colleagues sought to develop a means of teaching mathematics by answering the "why's" and not merely showing "how's.

A teaching method called the "new math" was developed. It was supposed to give students insights into mathematics as procedures. Practically, it has bogged down in trivia.

The new math has a graphic example of a situation which clearly exists at this university. Many courses that could be fascinating are ruined by professors with a passion for trivia. Others are ruined by "teachers" who follow the department guidelines so closely and present the material so insipidly that the course never comes alive. Instead of inspiring students, these academic pseudo's make education a task for the student.

Teachers should be evaluated on their ability to teach—impart knowledge, for this is their function. Unfortunately, the criteria for judging professors is academic achievement and authority. But no logical connection ties academic ability and teaching ability together.

The creators, talented teachers are rare. Many, highly regarded professors are abominable teachers. This unfortunate situation stifles intellectual curiosity.

Perhaps the quality of teaching ability would improve if every teacher at MSU would reexamine his teaching methods, and listen to a tape recording of one of his lectures. Then be should ask himself, "What did I tell those kids today that was really worthwhile?"

rule to the teachers of the classroom. No human is worth much if he cannot experience the pain of his own mistakes. It is a great, great story, worthy, I suggest, of maybe one tenth of the space and air time given by our mass media to the present hot sex-rape murder case so minutely reported from Florida. Our citizens in big cities know with regret that if we have no bad news of this sort in a big city, the owner will usually go one, 000 or more miles to dig such a dirty mine of reportage.

For the first time all our children from prekindergarten through high school are combined in one single vital system, workable in exciting new ways. In a very short time the local school boards will increase their intellectual contributions to the system. This all despite the fact that the better education of a million youths is never reported in as exciting or even given public expression in the ineptness of one teacher in the recalcitrance of one pupil.

Good news such as the Donovans do not get as much publicity as the exciting or even murder and much less and less of interest, and this natural resource would serve the people who now own it, the citizens of our nation.

Hopefully, the senator can win over the oil interests...

$300 Billion in the Red

An Attack On National Debt

By Paul Simon

You occasionally hear something about the national debt is like the weather; everybody talks about it but no one does anything about it. Two things must now be added to that comment:

1) If the people of this country borrow the dollars the national debt is growing, relative to our national income the debt is diminishing.

2) Someone is trying to do something about the growing debt.

In mentioning that the debt is not growing relative to national income, I do not mean to defend the practice of increasing the indebtedness. I do suggest it is not growing relative to national income. It is some contend, that indebtedness can not be judged relative to income.

For example, when I was in college if I had an indebtedness of $10 it seemed overwhelming. Today I can have many $100,000's of indebtedness and not be disturbed at all, because my income has grown.

According to our national income, our indebtedness is lower than it has been at any time since World War I.
Morris Library Buys Collection Of Robert Graves' Manuscripts

Morris Library has purchased a collection of original manuscripts of Robert Graves, contemporary British writer. The collection consists of manuscripts of 62 works of prose and more than 500 pages of poetry, Ralph E. McCoy, director of libraries, said. It is expected to provide source material for doctoral work in English literature and the possibility of one or more books, McCoy said.

Of interest to literary researchers is the fact that many drafts and workshops are included, together with Graves' correspondence with his publishers. In some cases, 12 to 15 drafts of the same poem are available. A number of sheets have been re-used, with some entirely different poem or fragment of prose on the back, which will provide challenging material for an investigator to place each in its proper context.

"Critics agree that Graves is an important literary figure of our time," said Professor McCoy. "He fits in very well with the pattern of our manuscript collecting—American, British, and Irish literary figures of the 20th century."

The University library previously had acquired an important collection of letters written to Graves by notables of the literary, musical, and artistic world, including George Russell ("A.E."). Dame Edith Sitwell, E.M. Forster, T.S. Eliot, Sara Teasdale, Arnold Bennett, Alec Waugh, Ralph Vaughan Williams and Edmund Blunden.

Graves, poet, critical essayist, novelist and literary editor, was called by the Times Literary Supplement "one of our two living masters in the plain prose style." His novel "I, Claudius" won both the Hawthornden and the James Tait Black prizes in 1934, and "Count Belisarius" won the PEN's Ugo Foscolo prize for 1939.

Graves was born in 1895, the son of the Irish poet, Alfred Perceval Graves. He served in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers as an officer during World War I and began to write poetry while in service.

After the war he and his wife, Nancy Nicholson, lived for a time in Wales, then he entered St. John's College, Oxford, and received his degree in 1926. He became a professor of English at the University of Cairo for a year, then went to Majorca and with Laura Riding conducted the Sezín Press until the Spanish Civil War broke out.

In addition to his prize-winning novels, Graves wrote others including "Golden Fleece" (called "Hercules My Shipmate") in the U.S., two ago to the life of a British soldier in the American Revolution, as well as his autobiography, a book on T.E. Lawrence, and several translations.

As editor with Laura Riding of a semiannual periodical, "The Exploge" (A Critical Summary,) and through personal relationships he has had close association with modernist U.S. and British poets.

The Graves collection is a significant addition to the growing volume of literary manuscripts which is contributing to the University's stature in research materials, according to McCoy.

"Our holdings are beginning to pay off in visits from scholars from various parts of the nation, in book acknowledgments, and in the work of our own faculty, graduate students, and the University Press," he said.

Johnson Sends to Congress Proposed Civil Rights Act

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson sent Congress Thursday his proposed Civil Rights Act of 1966, calling for new laws to fight discrimination.

Johnson called for legislation to fight discrimination in housing, state and federal juries and schools.

In his message to Congress—where hearings on the legislation will begin next week—Johnson said "discrimination and racial practices still exist in many American communities" despite the sweeping 1964 Civil Rights and 1965 Voting Rights acts.

These practices, the President told Congress, "deny the Negro his rights as a citizen. They must be ended."

Johnson proposed a law "to prohibit any interference with the exercise of fundamental rights by threats or force, by any person—whether as an individual or in a group and whether privately or officially."

The President said the measure would specifically name those fundamental rights—including voting, education, housing, employment, jury service and travel.

"And it provides for graduated penalties, permitting our courts to make appropriate responses to differing degrees of interference or intimidation," Johnson said.

Thus, a civil rights murder could mean a federal penalty of life imprisonment with lesser crimes bringing lesser penalties. The present law makes no distinction among such crimes, providing only a five-year penalty for conspiring to deprive others of their rights.

Calling for laws to combat discrimination in jury systems at all levels, the President said: "I recommend legislation stating explicitly for all our courts that the right to serve on grand or petit juries shall not be denied on the basis of race or color, religion, sex, national origin, or economic status."

Search Party Reaches Plane

LIMA, Peru (AP)—A search party reached the wreckage of a Peruvian airlines plane that crashed high in the Andes and reported Thursday that all 49 persons aboard were killed.

Five were Americans.

The four-engined Constellation of Lineas Aereas Nazionales, carrying 43 passengers and a crew of six, smashed into a mountain between the hamlets of Huanapa-ra and Omaas, about 60 miles south of Lima, police said.

Helicopters of the Peruvian air force were flown into the remote area to remove the bodies.

The plane disappeared Wednesday on a 375-mile flight from Lima to Cuzco. The Lima airport reported an emergency call from the craft about 10 minutes after it took off.

The Americans included the pilot, William Jones of Miami, Fla.; three Peace Corps volunteers, Gerald Francis Flynn, 26, of Seattle, Wash.; Paul L. Bond, 24, of Jonesboro, Ark.; and Troy M. Ross, 25, of Boise, Idaho; and George A. Hoffman, 42, a geologist.

Seven Persons Drown During Dallas Storm

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A cloudburst struck the Dallas area before dawn Thursday, drowning at least seven persons, flooding expressways and forcing hundreds of persons from their homes. Two persons are missing and presumed drowned.

Four victims died when their automobiles either plunged off washed-out bridges or were swept from roadways by swift, high water.

Police Capt. Frank Dyson said the flooding was the worst the nearby Trinity River in the 1930's.

Power failed in various sections of the city of 750,000 and scores of flooded streets turned rush-hour traffic into a chaotic snarl.

One of the dead was identified as W. L. Perryman, 44, a president of General American Oil Co.

The thunderstorm dumped rains of more than four inches on the city, which was already waterlogged from six inches of precipitation the previous five days.

Runoff from the Dallas de- luge was expected to add to the troubles of points east and south of the city, where rains of up to 22 inches since Friday continued to force residents from their homes. Several hundred have been evacuated.

Firemen in rescue boats plucked so many people from rising water we couldn't count them all," dispatcher Pete Rollins said.

They were hanging from trees, cars and anything they could grab," he added.

An elderly caretaker was found in a closet with water up to his neck. He said he had been standing on the front steps when a surge of water swept him back inside.

Perryman, president of an independent oil-producing firm that operates in six states and Canada, died when his automobile ran into a bridge washout.

Troops Fire On Leftists

SANTO DOMINGO, Domini- can Republic (AP)—U.S. troops fired Thursday night on leftist extremists who attacked an observation post with gunfire and rocks after chanting anti-American slogans and burning a U.S. flag.

Six Dominicans were wounded in the clash that climaxed day-long demonstrations by Communists and other leftists protesting the landing of U.S. troops here during the Dominican revolution a year ago.

One of the wounded was reported to be a 2-year-old child.

A U.S. military spokesman said demonstrators in the Villa Duarte suburb on the extreme eastern edge of Santo Domingo marched toward a U.S. Air Force observation post near a bridge.

They chanted anti-American slogans and burned an American flag. Then from the crowd, the military spokes- man said, came a shower of rocks, and three pistol shots were fired at the Americans.

The U.S. soldiers, who were under strict orders not to shoot unless authorized to do so, fired 14 rounds at the demonstrators.
Parents Seek to Stop Kindergarten ‘Prayer’

CHICAGO (AP) — The parents of a 5-year-old child opened a legal battle Thursday to stop the recitation in her kindergarten class of what they describe as a prayer. The battle raised the question whether the four-sentence rhyme is a verse, as the defense calls it, or a prayer, as the plaintiffs termed it.

Judge Edwin A. Foxon, who is hearing the case, said he would rule on whether it was a prayer and if so, whether it squared with the U.S. Supreme Court’s ruling against prescribed prayers in public schools.

This is the rhyme:

“We thank you for the food we eat.
“We thank you for the birds that sing.
“We thank you for the birds that sing.
“We thank you for everything.”

In the court’s decision, the word “Lord” has been deleted from the last sentence of the rhyme.

Rhodesia Cancels Diplomatic Decision

LONDON (AP) — The rebellious white minority Rhodesian government Thursday canceled its decision to snap the last diplomatic links with Britain and the two nations have decided to discuss their differences.

Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia, who had announced Wednesday he will leave the last British diplomats must go home, now will allow a skeleton staff of British officials to remain in Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital.

Java Volcano Erupts in Populous Area

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Streams of lava from an explosive eruption of Mt. Kelut volcano broke down Thursday on a densely populated area of East Java, and a major disaster threatened, reports from the scene said.

The volcano deaths were reported, but the toll was expected to climb as communications with the stricken area were re-established.

The streams of lava were reported approaching the outskirts of Bilir, a heavily populated trading center 10 miles southwest of Surabaya. Communication to Bilir was out.

At least seven other villages, each with a population of several thousand persons were said to be in the path of the lava. In all, about 500,000 persons live in the threatened area.

The Indonesian news agency Antara said the 5,780-foot-high volcano erupted Monday night and a nearby village was demolished almost at once.

First word of the eruption did not reach Jakarta until two days later. Civil defense officials still had few details and few plans were made for going to the aid of victims.

The chief civil defense director, Col. Sudiono, said he thought it unlikely there were many casualties since a warning of a possible eruption had been broadcast on the radio.

The eruption was expected, he said, because white goats grazing on the slopes of Mt. Kelut had left for lower pastures.

This was better than any fanciful geological instrument, he said.

‘Nibbling’ Decision Receives Protests

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A move by the Kentucky State Board of Education to curb napping and other casualities at state colleges was bogged down in a grumble of protests.

The board recently forbade future sales of snacks in schools taking part in the school lunch program.

Angry students were quick to respond in letters from all over Kentucky.

“Nibbling,” asserted one school official, “is a part of society and the American way of life.”

“It is a practice that is historically established,” declared another.

“Who am I,” demanded a third, “to tell a child how he may or may not spend his money? In a free country, the choice should be his.”

Eames Says Russian Youth Change Traditional Thinking

Changes in traditional Soviet thinking are being initiated by a new, defiant youth and a freer intelligentsia, according to S. Morris Eames, associate professor of philosophy.

Eames spoke at a recent Creative Insights seminar. He said that a growing discontent among anti-Stalinist intellectuals and a new proletariat that is defying the government and protesting the lack of consumer goods, Anti-Stalinist intellectuals are at the same time demanding changes in basic Marxist doctrine.

The anti-Stalinists are opposing a more militant, pro-Stalinist group in an internal struggle for power, he said.

ELISIE JO MILLER

$2,000 Wilson Award

Fellowship Winner Had a Lot of Luck

To listen to Elisie Jo Miller you would think she was just another average college student.

By her own admission she’s a procrastinator, “I put things off until I absolutely have to do them,” she says. She studies only when the chips are down—that is, when she absolutely has to. And she’s given to a lot of last-minute cramming, she admits.

But apparently that’s not the way members of the selection committee who distribute Woodrow Wilson Fellowships saw her when they chose her to receive a fellowship for graduate study.

The fellowship provides tuition and $2,000.00 living expenses at a university other than the one from which the undergraduate degree was received. Mrs. Miller is one of four St. Louis students to receive a Wilson fellowship this year.

Grants as large as this one sometimes have a way of changing the recipient’s life, but Mrs. Miller doesn’t believe the scholarship will change hers in any drastic way.

“I plan on doing the same things that I have always done,” she says. These things include taking care of a home and her husband David.

Leon Bennett, instructor in English and a close friend of Mrs. Miller’s, said that the scholarship will enable her to continue her education without great expense, “but it hasn’t changed her personality at all,” he added.

Bennett also confirmed Mrs. Miller’s statement that “she studies a lot but still has enough time to have social fun.”

While talking about the interviews for the fellowship, Mrs. Miller said, “After I was interviewed in Chicago by the foundation I thought I wasn’t going to get the fellowship.”

She continued by saying she was really surprised that she won. That is much the same reaction any other student has when by your own admission you plan on doing the same thing you have always done.

Mrs. Miller said that she plans to go ahead with her graduate work and then teach.

Just what does it take to win a fellowship, especially when by your own admission you plan on doing the same thing you have always done? A lot of hard work and relaxation, and have no special powers of memmization.

“It takes a lot of luck,” says Mrs. Miller, “Just a lot of luck.”

Harvey Harris uses a leopard to depict the primeval link between modern men and animals.

Bruce Breland studies society through "Pop" art.

The fifth annual Faculty Art Exhibit, now entering its final week of showing in the Mitchell Galleries of the Home Economics Building, is a study of many points of view within the Department of Art.

The one view that is stressed by SIU art instructors, is that there is no one point of view. Art, being anything but an exact science, is solely the expression of the individual.

Herbert L. Fink, referring to the 68 piece exhibit, said that this is a good example of how the student of art gets a broad cross-section of diverse points of view.

Bruce Breland studies today's society through the medium of "Pop," while Harvey S. Harris notes the relationships between modern man and his primitive ancestors through the images of animals and women as drawn with oil paint on canvas.

Harris, whose first year students are currently exhibiting their winter term projects in the University Center, has six oils in Faculty Exhibit.

Speaking of his own works, Harris said that most of his paintings begin with a vague viewing of something. He said that although he is not exactly sure what it will look like when he is finished, it does not mean that he has less than a deep concern about the idea.

One of the six paintings, "Woman and Beast," was repainted six times before he finally got what he wanted out.

Mitchell Gallery Displays 'Many Points of View'

The fifth annual Faculty Art Exhibit, now entering its final week of showing in the Mitchell Gallery, is a study of some points of view authorized by the Department of Art.

The one view that is stressed in Sill Art instruction, is that there is no one point of view but an entire society is imbued with an exact message to society.

Herbert L. Pink, referring to the 88 piece exhibit, said that this is a good example of the fact that the student who is currently exhibiting points of view in the University Center, has 605 in Sill Art Exhibit.

Speaking of his own works, Harris said that most of his paintings begin with a vague feeling of something he said, like he was sure what it will look like when he is finished, it does not mean that he has less than a deep concern about the idea.

One of the six paintings, "Man and Beast," was repainted six times before he finally got what he wanted out of it. He said, "You have to pay an idea until you think it.

Referring to his use of animals as images, he said that he "feels a link with the formal feeling which artists have used through the years. Today, there is some primitivism in the way we see, the way we think of animals and art as we see them.

Referring to the "many points of view" idea, he said that there can be no wrong idea. The first step in the pop art movement is an example, Harris said that the problem was the idea if the world we live in today.

"Art is the most specific language we have today and the teaching of art is to search out verbal parallels for all of this," he continued.

Harris said that art is the artist's medium. That is to say that it is the best way for an artist to convey an idea. If the man could not have the feeling in the paint, then he would do it through some form of art, he probably would use that method.

There are 13 exhibitors in the faculty show and all are unique in their presentations, and covered any medium, the chairman, feels that this is the best show yet.

The exhibit will continue through May 8 and is open to the public from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily and from 6 to 9:30 Tuesday evenings.

Baseball Salukis Missouri-Bound; 5 Scheduled Games Rained Out

With five straight games washed out, the baseball Salukis hit the road today for a doubleheader against Central Missouri State at Warrensburg. The Salukis, 10-10, haven’t seen action since an April 22 night contest when they blanked Quincy College 5-0 in the Quincy tournament. The remaining two games of the tournament scheduled for Southern against Parsons College and Western Illinois, were cancelled after an all-night rain.

A game with Washington University of St. Louis was rained out Tuesday, as was a home doubleheader Wednesday afternoon against Southeast Missouri.

If Saluki Coach Joe Lutz starts at the beginning of his mound rotation, it will be Wayne Sramek and Don Kirkland at Warrensburg. Sramek pitched the Quincy contest, allowing just two hits in his third victory of the season against one loss. Kirkland owns a 4-1 record, and the sophomore right-hander has made an impressive showing this season.

Following the Central Missouri contest, Southern returns home for doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday. On Saturday, Arkansas Stale will test Southern once again. An earlier twinbill between the two squads resulted in a split at Jonesboro.

Wayne Sramek and Jim Panther will probably be called on for the pitching duties.

World Gymnastics Championship will be held later this year in Dortmund, Germany. The Salukis were barred from the AAU championship last year because of participating in meets not sanctioned by that organization. Association officials at that time prompted Athletics Director C. C. Fitzgerald to send a telegram of protest to President Johnson.

But the Salukis will be present this year, and coach Herb Vogel expects the competition at Bartlesville to be the toughest his girls have faced all year. The meet will draw amateurists from throughout the country. It is not limited to collegiate women.

Vogel's girls, who haven't been beaten since they formed as a team three years ago, have found the going easy in taking two previous national championship meets this year.

The Salukis walked away from the Midwest Regional, winning the Women's College Open Championship here last month. The AAU's action at that time is appealing the three girls to the playing field, but the U. S. Gymnastics Federation championship is with about equal ease.

of about eight years of efforts, according to Maurice Ogur, chairman of the Department of Microbiology. The petition was approved at Sigma Xi’s national convention in January.

A club made up of faculty members who were Sigma Xi members at other institutions was formed and began seeking a nationally approved chapter. Sigma Xi is to scientific research what Phi Beta Kappa is to liberal arts. The significance of this chapter is that it indicates the high degree of professional status that the University has achieved.

Only about 10 per cent of the degree-granting American universities have been approved for Sigma Xi chapters.

With a formal charter the SIU organization will be able to select new undergraduate, graduate and faculty members who have made special contributions in scientific research.

Sigma Xi’s national president, Farrington Daniels, president emeritus in the solar energy laboratory at the University of Wisconsin, was here to give the installation address.
